UNCLE FREEBERG

Uncle Freeberg was in town last week. He really isn't my uncle. But if he were my uncle he would be my favorite uncle. Anyway he looks like an uncle so that's why I call him Uncle Freeberg.

The first time I met Uncle Freeberg was one hot August afternoon in 1955 when I was covering the police beat for an Abilene newspaper and Uncle Freeberg was enjoying three days of hospitality extended him by local department on account of disturbing to Abilene peace such as it was.

He had been standing on some street corner giving a loud three hour lecture the gist of which seemed to be that the only really unforgivable sin in the world was feminine thick ankles. This was before Jack Paar, you understand, and that sort of carrying on was looked upon as highly eccentric.

But like I was going to tell you, every time Uncle Freeberg comes to town it is a sort of ritual that I read him all the late papers. He claims he is almost blind now, but I suspect he just enjoys someone reading the news aloud — someone to play the "straight" man for his inevitable comments.

Like, for instance, I was reading right on the front page about Jack Paar's famous walk, and he said it was about the unphoniest thing in snow biz for a long time excepting maybe Miss Eva Marie Saint's recent four-letter-word quip which he thought must articulately sum up his feelings toward Hollywood.

Then I read about Lyndon Johnson not running for President so hard he had just bettered Bobby Morrow's record in the 100-yard dash.

And Uncle Freeberg yawned, and allowed that the only two men in America fit for the top job were Secretary of the Treasury Bob Anderson and Adlai Stevenson — and perhaps Henry Cabot Lodge. At any rate, he said, they were the only ones around that possessed anything remotely akin to statesmanship.

"And of course dear Adlai is sooo liberal. It's a shame too. He could really have made something of himself."

"Do you mean to say," I interrupted, "that you're not for our dearly beloved Lyndon Johnson?"

"My dear fellow," he patiently began as if explaining that fire is hot to a small child who is unable to understand even the most simple things. "My dear fellow, as far as I can determine Mr. Johnson is for only two things — compromise and Lyndon, the latter of which is the weakest plank in his almost invisible platform."

On page 17 I read about Billy Graham and the heavenly hosts saffaring about Africa agitating the Moslems and eating "baoburgers" which the story explained was a meat extracted from one of the more noisy and odorous animals native to that part of the country.

"Well," he said, "I am reminded that man does not live by bread alone, and that baoburgers will undoubtedly be the most profitable part of the trip. . . ah, safari, excuse me."

"And, I suppose it will take millions from our State Department to reinstate good will towards America after this gross insult to the Moslems. You see, Americans have never learned the fine art of minding their own business."

"Really now, have you ever seen anyone so disgustingly certain that God has somehow endowed them with all the right answers on anything from religion to politics to striped toothpaste to baoburgers as the American people? Really, have you ever seen anyone so obnoxious, running about the world telling everybody they are wrong about everything because they're not doing it the good old American way, I would be insulted too. And then we good people wonder why nobody over there likes us."

"You see, my dear young fellow, we just can't solve all the world's problems by being good Rotarians."

Then he had just begun to tell me how he once attended the national Rotary convention once, posing as an executive vice-president, when he suddenly remembered he was supposed to be in Oklahoma City by dark and without so much as a wave, he abruptly left.

$100,000 Baptist Building Plan Set

First Mortgage Bonds Issue Is Proposed

A plan to construct a $100,000 auditorium will be presented to members of the First Baptist Church Sunday morning, it was announced this week by Rev. Jesse Leonard, pastor.

The plan, which will be recommended by the Board of Deacons, will call for the issuance of $100,000 of first mortgage bonds to finance the new structure. T. L. Patton, vice president of the First Baptist Church Plan, Inc. of Atlanta, Georgia, will have charge of the service, explaining the bond issue and answering all questions.

If the recommendation of the deacons is accepted by the church, construction should begin within a few weeks, with completion tentatively scheduled for September. In addition to furnishing the new auditorium, the space will also afford Sunday school room. Architect for the project is Adam Bliss of Dallas, Texas.

PROPOSED AUDITORIUM FOR McLEAN—Pictured above is the proposed new church auditorium for the First Baptist Church of McLean. The plan for building will be presented to the church members Sunday morning, and if approved, first mortgage bonds will be voted for the cost involved. Adam A. WHY WE EXIST

Churches of Christ are evangelistic in nature. Our purpose is to restore New Testament Christianity to the world in name, doctrine and practice. We accept no authority save Christ and the things inspired to be written in the Bible as our guide in all religious matters. No man or group of men is looked to for authority, but a "thus saith the Lord." Since the church is a New Testament institution, Matt. 16:18, it is to the New Testament that we go for a pattern in all things the Lord desired to have done. (Heb. 9:15-17)

God gave the original pattern for the church (Eph. 4:1-15), and it is to this original we must go if we are to restore the church as it was during the first century. We know this church had the approval of God, for everything that went into it was planned by Him and carried out through the unerring direction of the Holy Spirit. No man has been inspired of God since the days of the New Testament to speak or write in any religious matter. Our plea is:

- A divine Christ or no Saviour.
- An inspired Bible or no Scriptures.
- A Scriptural baptism or no baptism.
- A united church or no world-conquest.
- A religion of service or no religion.
- Not my way nor your way, but THE LORD'S WAY.
- Worship with us.

TWO KINDS OF BUSINESS ACTIVITY

"The principal of more business activity by government carries the result of less business by private enterprise."

That statement comes from President William B. Johnson of the Railway Express Agency. It is, of course, a truism—but it is a truism that a great many people seem to ignore or overlook.

Mr. Johnson certainly knows whereof he speaks. His agency—like all other parcel carriers, national, regional or local—has a government competitor in the parcel post service. And it would be hard to imagine more unfair competition. Parcel post has been running at an annual deficit for years contrary to the law which created it. These losses are a direct and continuing burden on all the taxpayers—including the many millions of taxpayers who rarely or never use parcel post service.

To make a bad matter worse, laws are periodically proposed which would authorize parcel post to carry larger and heavier parcels than are now accepted—and thus there would be still "more business activity by the government" and "less business by private enterprise." And less business by private enterprise, it should never be forgotten, means less tax revenue for the government.

An Interstate Commerce Commission examiner has recommended substantial increases in parcel post charges in order to reduce if not eliminate the deficits. About all one can say to that is that it is a long-overdue reform.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Whether they own a share of stock in any corporation and regardless of their status or occupation, every man, woman and child in this country has a personal interest in seeing to it that business enterprise continues to operate under conditions which enable it to earn a profit. Profit is the paycheck for productive enterprise, and it is the individual's first defense against oppression.

Speaking of his company's efforts to promote greater participation by its employees in political affairs, an executive of the Continental Oil Company put it this way: "It seems particularly appropriate for us to strive to preserve a favorable economic climate in which business enterprise may continue to earn reasonable profits. For without profits, our economic system and a truly representative government—and our free American society which depends on both of them—would wither and die."

"For several decades there has been a succession of federal laws establishing a framework of limitations and ground rules with which business must conform. During this time, government and politics have been getting more and more into business, and businessmen at the same time have been getting more and more out of politics. Such abdication of political responsibility has led to the businessman's influence becoming merely negative, so that when their voices have been occasionally heard they have been dubbed reactionary, anti-labor or something else derogatory."

This is not a matter of promoting one political party or another or of seeking to elect a "businessman's government" in order to gain special legislative privilege. It is far broader than that and involves a better understanding of the principles that build the strength of this country within the framework of our free institutions. Under a true representative government politics is not a spectator sport, it is everybody's business.

TAXES ARE SOCIALIZED POWER

A business-managed electric utility has published some facts about taxes and the socialized power that every American taxpayer should know.

This company, a typical one, paid 1958 taxes of $38,701,000, which amounted to 25 cents out of each dollar its customers paid it, and worked out to $45 per customer. Taxes are the largest single operating expense—more even, than payroll.

By comparison, only 2.27 cents of TVA's revenue dollar goes to pay taxes, and only 2.92 cents of REA's revenue dollar.

Putting it another way, the company's taxes are nearly

"Colonel Babcock was a real dude", Will Wilson says. "He refused to eat anything fixed by the camp cook because he used cow chips for fuel."

2½ times as great as the combined taxes of all the 1,030 REA co-ops in the country—while REA gross revenues are about 3½ times as large as the company's. And its taxes are nearly 7.3 times as great as TVA taxes—although it has only 66% of TVA's revenues.

And here's a really startling fact. The company's taxes on each kilowatt hour it sells are higher than the rate at which either TVA or the Bureau of Reclamation sells wholesale power!

Keep this in mind next time you hear someone speak of "cheap" tax-evading, tax-eating government power. It's "cheap" because, and only because, everyone in the country has to pay part of the bills for those who use it. Government gets the largest share of private enterprise electric company earnings to help pay for tax-exempt projects which eliminate taxpaying plants.

Each time their mother looked out to see that they were all right she noticed a police patrol car driving by slowly. McLEAN, TEXAS

Battle Border

Little known facts about Texas boundaries.

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE TEXAS ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE.

(Editor's Note: This is the 9th in a series of articles outlining the numerous boundary conflicts dating back to 1716, pointing up little known facts which shaped the Texas of today.)

That pink granite giant—the state capitol building—stands in Austin as an indirect, unplanned monument to another Texas-New Mexico boundary dispute.

Today Attorney General Will Wilson works in a large room in this same capitol on the current boundary dispute with the federal government in the tidelands case.

The state swapped the capitol building contract for three million acres along the Texas-New Mexico boundary.

The logical starting place for the survey was the northwest corner of Texas. But where was the northwest corner?

On paper, the compromise of 1850 said the top of the Panhandle was the parallel line of 36°30'. To the west it was set at the 103rd meridian as it ran north and south. Ostensibly the northwest corner was where these lines met.

However, it wasn't easy to locate these things on the good earth.

Texas' Governor E. M. Pease appointed Commissioners William R. Scurry, representing Texas, and John H. Clark, U. S. Representative, to mark the boundary between Texas and the territory of the United States.

They were working east along the 32nd parallel, north latitude, when they got into a political argument, the North vs. the South. The Texans got so mad they quit the camp.

Clark and party proceeded with the survey, going north along the 103rd meridian to a point he thought to be the northwest corner. He dug a circle in the ground, placing a large cedar post in the middle.

Then he turned south to a point above the Canadian river where he had camped the winter before. Before he could finish that survey the Greer County controversy flared anew and he left the 103rd meridian for the troubled 100th meridian.

In the meantime a survey of over 5,000,000 acres of land in Dallam, Hartley, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Lamb, Bailey, Cochran and Hockley counties was made so the capitol builders could pick their three million acres.

The Capitol Company dispatched Col. A. C. Babcock to Texas to make an on-the-ground inspection. The colonel proved to be a real dude, traveling to Buffalo Spring in a four-mule "ambulance," bringing his own canned food delicacies. He refused to eat anything fixed by the camp cook because he used cow chips for fuel.

"The colorful colonel left his mark on the country. Cow chips became known as 'Babcock coal' in the high plains country," Wilson said.

Babcock found two monuments—Clark's and the one made by U. S. surveyors Richard O. Chaney and William W. Smith when they were doing work in territory north of the Panhandle.

In the event the Chaney-Smith location should be established as the correct 103rd meridian, the ownership of the strip of territory two miles wide and 310 miles long would jump from Texas to New Mexico.

However, to the vast relief of Texans, Clark's lines were confirmed by an act of Congress in 1891.

Then other trouble jumped up. The line drawn by Clark was one-half mile west of the true 103rd meridian. Clark had first started his line on the south, stopped, and began anew from the north.

The two lines would never meet if projected from there to eternity.

The New Mexico constitutional convention in 1910 raised a howl of protest and tried fast, sly footwork. They said the eastern boundary was not on the true 103rd meridian and laid claim to the land between the lines.

In the act of admitting New Mexico to statehood there was buried in fine print a sleazy clause that set New Mexico's eastern boundary at the true 103rd meridian.

The Capitol Company and the powerful KIT ranch mounted defense for New Mexico. John V. Farwell was a college chum of U. S. President William Howard Taft. He briefed Taft on the history of the boundary dispute and Taft decided "it was an outrage for New Mexico to attempt to get this land from Texas."

Congress passed a joint resolution in 1911 making null and void this sleeper in the New Mexican constitution.

As writer J. Evetts Haley says: "The old school tie has really helped."

This same resolution authorized the President to act in conjunction with Texas and set up the Scott-Cockrell commission to remark the boundary between the state and the territory on the line run by Clark for the 103rd meridian to the southeast corner of New Mexico, and then west with the 32nd parallel to the Rio Grande.

This was done. Texans figured that finally their border was pegged down with New Mexico. They were wrong.

PTA Panel Held

The McLean P.T.A. met Tuesday night Feb. 9, 7:30 p.m. in the Grade school cafeteria.

Larry Williams gave a reading Miss Leona Forges, vice-president, introduced the program topic, "Seeing Our Schools in Action", and also introduced Guy Beasley, chairman of the panel, comprised of Mrs. Tom Greenwood, Mrs. Guy Hester, and Jesse Coleman.

Mr. Beasley's opening remark reminded the group that the school is much more than the two buildings housing the grade school students and high school students. Everybody in the school district is concerned about the functions of the school system.

Mrs. Hester opened the panel discussion by discussing the public relations between the tax-paying citizens and the school board.

Mrs. Greenwood discussed the relations between the parent and child.

Mr. Coleman touched upon the advantages of a regular counselor in the school and gave some statistics from other schools with experience along this line.

Mr. Beasley closed the program by handing out personal examinations for each parent to take and analyze, grading himself on his ability to be a good parent.

The six-grade mothers served decorative Valentine cakes and coffee, and Mrs. Curby Morris' six grade room won the room count.

Melton also stressed that every-

IN THIS WORLD

NAPOLEON MADE A GREAT CONTRIBUTION TO MAN'S WELL-BEING WHEN HE PRESENTED THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT'S AWARD TO NICOLAS APPERT, A PARISIAN CHEF, FOR HIS INVENTION OF THE METHOD TO PRESERVE FOODS.

THE 150th ANNIVERSARY OF THE BIRTH OF CANNED FOODS IS BEING CELEBRATED DURING 1960 IN EVERY CIVILIZED NATION... APPERT IS RECOGNIZED AS A "BENEFACTOR OF HUMANITY".

APPERT SPENT 14 YEARS EXPERIMENTING WITH HEATING TIME AND TEMPERATURE, STILL THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTORS IN THE CANNING PROCESS.

TODAY WORLD ECONOMISTS CONSIDER FOOD CANNING ONE OF MAN'S GREATEST ACHIEVEMENTS BECAUSE IT HAS FREED US FROM DEPENDENCE ON LOCAL AND ANNUAL HARVESTS. CANNED FOODS AFFORD EVERYONE A PLENTIFUL SUPPLY OF NUTRIENTS AND A COMPLETE AND VARIED DIET ON A YEAR-ROUND WORLD-WIDE BASIS.

On St. Valentine's Day at four o'clock in the afternoon, Miss Grace Lee Barber and James W. Adcock, Lake Charles, La. were united in marriage in the home of the bride's parents, L. M. Berry, Miss Barber is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl N. Barber, Lefors. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Adcock, Lake Charles, La.

Mrs. Joe Watson, pianist, played the wedding marches, pre-nuptial airs as the guests arrived. She also played the "Wedding Prayer," and "Claire De Lune."

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Bob Black, Pampa, was best man. Ushers were Elmo Carson and Carl Barber, Jr., both of Pampa.

KENNETH TOOLEY in the PADUCAH POST: An anonymous phone call shortly after the paper came out last week accused us of being bad proofreaders.

At least the sarcasm of the anonymous caller was weakened some by the way he reported his complaint. It went like this:

"If you ever make enough money, would you hire a proof-reader?" Then came the cutoff "click" of the phone on the other end that left us with our mouths wide open making an effort to dig deeper into this person's ailment.

Since he did not give us a chance on the phone, maybe he will be consoled to some extent to know that his wish shall be granted—if we ever make that much money.

ROY CRAIG in STAMFORD AMERICAN: A recent grand jury in Dallas criticized the "laxity in traffic control about our schools," expressing amazement that the mothers picking up children "appeared to be the worst offenders."

...hat must be a common fault. A similar condition exists at Stamford schools. Mothers pull over to the wrong side of the street, stop out in the middle of traffic lanes, and do just about every other thing that they shouldn't when they take Junior to school to go to pick him up.

Second offenders seem to be people when they go to church. Rather, you might properly say it is the people who don't go to church but drive by to pick up those who did. Double parking in the part of these people makes much traffic all but impossible around churches at dismissal time.

...MAX WADE in the GROOM NEWS: Clarence Merrick hands his plan for the successful... of the Sin of Procrastination: "The days fly past; life goes by them."
Monday: Today I rest, think my plan.
Tuesday: I must start that plan tomorrow.

Tuesday: I must elaborate my plan.

Wednesday: The week is half gone, how time flies.

Thursday: What shall I do this week end? I need rest.

Friday: Another week almost gone.

Saturday: Next Monday I really start.

On "Liars" from H. M. BAGGARLY in TULLIA HERALD: Texas does it again! The world champion liar for 1959 has been named by the famous Liar's Club in Burlington, Wis. He is W. C. Cook of Wichita Falls. His winning tall story is about how little wind they had last summer in Wichita Falls. There was so little wind that he had to take down two of his windmills to give the third one enough wind to make it turn. This mill finally started when he took down the barbed wire fence that had been cutting off the breeze.

"Honorable" mention went to R. T. McCullough of Winnipeg, Canada. He said about the only crop that can't be raised in Manitoba is sunflowers. The reason, he says, is that in Manitoba there is the midnight sun. The sunflowers follow the midnight sun all the way around—and so twist their heads off!

Alumni of Texas 4-H Activities Honored

Four former Texas 4-H Club members have been named state winners in the 4-H alumni recognition program for outstanding "post graduate" work in applying the principles and ideals of 4-H in their adult lives. They are Roy B. Davis, 1901 29th st., Lubbock; Mrs. Woodrow Chervenka, Rt. 2, Rogers; A. W. Schaffner, Rt. 4, Cuero, and Mrs. Aaron McKinzie, Rt. 1, Dike.

Each received a burnished copper plaque donated by the Plant Food Division of the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. The program is conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Davis, manager of the Plains Co-op Mill in Lubbock, became a 4-H member in 1918 when his family had a 160-acre farm near Lamesa in Dawson county.

He continued his interest and activity in 4-H work when he became a county agricultural agent in 1927—serving successively in Gaines, Terry and Hale counties.

Davis is still active in 4-H and other youth activity work and contributes considerable time and effort to further the various programs.

Mrs. Chervenka, wife of a farmer and mother of three children, was a 4-H member for three years as a girl. She is now adult leader of the East Bell County 4-H Club and is active in other community and civic affairs.

For her services she was named outstanding volunteer 4-H leader in the county in 1958. She is also a life member of the Rogers P.T.A.

Schaffner, operator of a mobile feed service in the Cuero area, became a 4-H member in 1923 as a farm boy in DeWitt county. After service in the Marine Corps in World War II, he returned to Cuero and entered the feed business.

He aids young 4-H members by extending credit on feed for the animals they raise as club projects. He also advises them on the best feeding practices.

Mrs. McKinzie has been a volunteer leader of the Dike 4-H Club for four years and devotes many hours each week to club activities. She provides advice, encouragement and occasionally transportation.

A housewife and mother of two children, Mrs. McKinzie is also active in P.T.A. and church work.

WORTH MORE BECAUSE THEY WORK MORE!

Compare this list of Chevy advances with the features ordinary trucks are still talking about. You'll see why Chevy trucks get more work done in a day... why they go extra thousands of miles before trade-in time. These Sturdi-Bilt Sixties aren't just new, they're a full scale revolution!

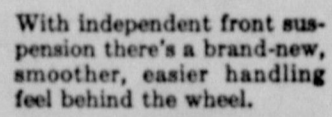

TORSION-SPRING RIDE

Each front wheel, suspended independently of the other, is free to step individually over bumps. And shockproof torsion springs up front soak up the jars and jolts before they reach the body. With three rugged new tailored-to-the-truck rear suspensions to further reduce road shocks, Chevy gives you the smoothest truck ride you've ever felt.

NO SHIMMY, NO WHEEL FIGHT

Drive a '60 Chevy. Just once. Right away you'll notice the absence of I-beam shimmy and wheel fight common on ordinary trucks.

With independent front suspension there's a brand-new, smoother, easier handling feel behind the wheel.

CABS FOR BIG GUYS

Big guys get a bigger break in a Chevy cab. There's plenty of space inside to stretch out and relax; more room for hats and hips, more room for wide shoulders and long legs. There's horizon-wide visibility through a windshield with 26% more glass area; a new see-at-a-glance instrument panel. Cabs are safer, too, up to 67% more rigid.

6'S SWORN TO SAVE

Chevy's 6-cylinder engines are set to squeeze extra miles out of every drop of fuel. They're long famous for low fuel consumption, high performance.

SHORT STROKE V8'S

Power-packed for peak performance, Chevy's husky V8's make child's play out of the toughest hauls. They have a mind tuned to economy, too, that keeps costs down, profits up.

SLICK NEW SUBURBAN CARRYALLS

These handsome new handy haulers "double in brass"—can transport eight passengers or up to 950 lbs. of payload. Rear and center seats are easy to remove and replace when necessary. For work or for pleasure, these double-duty beauties are best for both!

NEW DOLLAR-SAVING PRICES

Chevrolet's low prices make big truck news for '60. They mean money in your pocket on model after model. Step-Vans, 4-Wheel Drives, many light-duty models with automatic transmissions—all are lower priced. Also, prices have been reduced on all optional V8's.

SEE YOUR DEALER

It could be the most important visit you make in '60. When you've seen these new Chevies, you'll agree they're the world's most advanced trucks. Then drive one and find out why.

If we would work real hard at the job of tending to our own business most of us would be too busy to meddle with the other fellow's.

Even though it takes only half our time to take care of our own knitting we should spend the other half finding ways to leave the other person's alone.—Uncle Zeb in Plowin' Out the Corners

Salads are a favorite American food. Once considered strictly summer and side-dish fare, salads—little and big—have won an honored place at the table 365 days a year. Big, main course salads are elegant and attractive—a treat for the family and tops as company fare. For example, California Brussels Sprouts and Macaroni Salads, generously laced with corned beef, is a filling, easy-to-prepare gourmet's delight which is suitable during any season. Try this California treat tonight. Here is the recipe.
