NEW ARENA TO BE READY FOR 1960 RODEO, ROUND-UP

A new rodeo arena will be ready for the 1960 McLean 66 Round-Up and Rodeo, through the efforts of the McLean Lions Club, the McLean Roping Club, and numerous individuals and firms that have contributed to the building of the new site.

It is estimated that to build, directly, an arena that is now being constructed, would cost approximately $10,000. The arena is being made through a considerable less cost because of the contributions of time and materials of persons in McLean.

Former Resident Lauded For Outstanding Teaching In F.F.A.

Ronald Cunningham, a McLean-reared vocational agriculture teacher in Lovington, N. M., received national mention again last week when his land judging team placed second in the International FFA contests in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Under Cunningham's leadership, the Lovington FFA and the Lea County 4-H teams have combined for a top record of any district in the United States. Both teams won western regional championships, and the FFA group went on to second in the nation.

Through the past years, the Lovington vocational agriculture department has established many remarkable records under Cunningham's guidance.

Since the inception of the FFA in Lovington, three members have served in state office. Since 1958, two teams have won state championships, and have ranked high in national competition. Thirty-one members of the chapter have received state farmer degrees.

In 1957, the Lovington chapter received a Gold Emblem rating, signifying it as one of the finest clubs in New Mexico. Since that time, the chapter has received the Gold Emblem rating each year.

Also, one member of the team recently received an American Farmer Degree, which is the highest awarded by the FFA.

Individually, Lovington students carry on some of the most extensive projects to be found in the high school program. Judging for club honors such as the Gold Emblem is done through study of projects and accomplishments of the members. This does not only include the actual projects in themselves, but includes civic work, public relations, and all the intricate phases of successful agriculture work. The Lovington chapter continues to be one of the highest ranked in the state.

Instructor Cunningham is the son of Mrs. R. O. Cunningham of McLean.

HOW TO BECOME A CHILD OF GOD

"The Spirit himself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are children of God: and if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified with him." Rom. 8:16-17

The Bible is definite and plain in its teaching on how to become a child of God. Everyone likes to think he is a child of God, but only those who have complied with God's laws of pardon have become His children. Gal. 3:26-27

One must first hear the gospel and then believe what he hears in order to become a child of God. "So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." Rom. 10:17

After one hears and believes he must repent. "The Lord is not slack concerning His promise as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." 2 Pet. 3:9

One must then confess his faith in Christ as the son of God. "For if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." Rom. 10:9-10

One cannot enter into the family of God without being born again. Jesus said unto Nicodemus, "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." John 3:5. In the new birth the only place water is used is in baptism. After having been taught the gospel the eunuch of Ethiopia said, "See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized? And Philip said, 'If thou believest with all thine heart thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. And he commanded the chariot to stand still; and they went down into the water, both Philip and the eunuch and he baptized him—and he went on his way rejoicing.'" Acts 8:37-40. He had become God's child. Have you?

WHEN YOU SAY "FILL 'ER UP"

When you drive your car into a service station and say "fill 'er up," various people and organizations get a slice of the money you spend.

But, believe it or not, none of these gets the biggest slice. That slice goes to government.

The statistical story is a simple one. The average gasoline tax in this country is now 10.12 cents a gallon. That amounts to 48% of the retail price of the gasoline itself.

But, if some have their way, matters will get still worse. For instance, there's a move afoot in Washington to further increase the federal gas tax.

The moral is plain. Motorists had better start protesting now and keep on protesting if they want to keep from being gouged even more and forced to reduce the use of their cars because of high gasoline taxes.

SHADES OF YESTERDAY

Little more than a generation ago all parts of the nation were seeking railroad extensions and development.

Chambers of Commerce, various civic bodies and individuals held meetings and did their best to show railroad builders the advantages of their various communities in order to get on the railroad map.

As a result of encouraging railroad construction, the United States acquired the greatest transportation system in the world. Even the smallest towns were on a railroad or had access to one.

Like any industry that grows bigger than a peanut stand, the railroads became a target for political sharpshooters seeking votes. In addition to regulatory legislation that was needed in the public interest, laws favoring various groups were passed by the thousands until a fly in a spider's web was no tighter bound in its movements than were the roads.

Then came free-wheeling competition of various kinds that was not emmeshed in the political spider web of regulation as were the railroads.

We all know what happened to the fly and more and more communities are seeing what is happening to our railroads under out-dated political spider-web regulation.

The initial public meeting of the National Citizens League for Rail Transportation was held in Portland, Oreg., in April. The League is incorporated in Nebraska and its purpose is to preserve and advance railroad transportation in the passenger and freight industry.

The report of the meeting reads like bygone efforts to get railroads. Now the effort is to keep from being left without a railroad and without railroad jobs and taxes.

The biggest problem will be to get rid of the political spider webs.

AFTER THOUSANDS OF YEARS

The newspapers of the country have plenty of competition from newer media of communication, notably TV. And they're meeting it by doing a better job.

The Rayville, La., Beacon-News reports on some facts produced by the Newsprint Information Committee. It says: "American newspapers gave their readers more news and features—about 200,000 tons more measured in newsprint—in 1959 than ever before.

Among the nation's biggest newspapers in 29 cities increases in advertising and editorials averaged three pages. . . Over a wider area, including smaller cities, dailies increased by two pages during the year for a total of 37 pages per issue. And, certainly among the nation's weeklies, semi-weeklies and tri-weeklies, the story is one of similar expansion."

Beginning with stone tablets, reading has been around a good many thousand years. And it's here to stay!

Area Observations

From Ben Ezzell of the Canadian Record:

Quotations out of context can . . . and frequently do . . . change the whole meaning of a statement.

Such quotations can, and sometimes do, backfire, too . . . when the whole statement is heard or read. But unfortunately, those who use this tactic all too frequently get away with it, because the mass audience at which they aim their propaganda never has a chance to hear the whole truth.

This came to mind the other day when we received in the mail (from LBJ-for-President headquarters) a "suggested editorial" which began with the quotation, "I doubt if in the history of our government we ever have had a man so capable, able and efficient as Lyndon Johnson."

These words were attributed to Associated Press writer Pat Morin in a talk to Panhandle editors at a meeting of the Panhandle Press Association.

And Pat did say that . . . or words roughly equivalent . . . in a talk in which he was evaluating all of the potential presidential candidates. We heard him. But that wasn't quite all he had to say about LBJ.

What Pat Morin actually did say was this:

"As a potential president he (Lyndon Johnson) would be bringing a very great talent to the White House in knowing the intricate relationships between the presidency and the Senate. In the whole history of our government, I cannot recall a man in this position (Senate majority leader) so extremely capable and efficient. But I think, in a way, he might be too efficient . . . as a master of compromise."

Lyndon Johnson's great talent for compromise . . . a talent which has made him a highly successful Senate majority leader . . . does not necessarily qualify him, in many eyes, for the position of President of the United States.

There are many of us, and we gathered from our conversation that Pat Morin was one of these, who strongly believe that a talent for compromise is decidedly NOT what is needed in our highest executive office at this stage of world affairs.

In this we do not minimize Johnson's great talent. We simply believe that the qualities which make him a great Senate majority leader would not necessarily make him choice presidential timber . . . and that he may serve his nation better in the position he now holds.

National Image

In an editorial discussing the foreign travels of President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev, the Wall Street Journal observes:

"We are not saying that America's foreign policies are all above criticism, or that a Presidential trip can correct what is wrong. We are merely saying that a nation, and a political system, is bound to act in character much of the time, and it is therefore inevitable for Eisenhower to radiate good will and Khrushchev ill will. As long as this country continues to act in accordance with its traditions and institutions, and the Communists in accordance with theirs, we need not fear unduly that the world will be lost to slavery."

The Margins of Life

ASPERMONT STAR: Look at the white margins around the edges of this page. That little strip around the four sides does not seem to be much, does it? But take a rule and measure it and you will find that in this small, narrow margin there is more than one-sixth of the total area of the page!

Margins are mighty important all through our lives. That seemingly unimportant little strip around the edges of our efforts may make all the difference between success and failure. The boy or girl who has a hard time at school or at work often thinks he does not have time to get all those lessons or do his work well. There probably is a little margin of time slipping away unnoticed, five minutes at a time, just wasted.

In games, too, the player who tries just a tiny margin harder, who mokes just a little faster, runs just a little faster, and thinks just a little deeper usually is the winner. He may not seem to be a superior player in a great degree. He is a winner by a small margin only, but he is a winner! And that difference that is hardly noticeable, if you could measure it, probably would prove to be, just as the margin of this page, more than one-sixth of the winner's entire ability.

Occasion for the presentation was the review of the re-activated Texas Navy by Governor Daniel from the Battleship Texas in Houston on San Jacinto Day.

of people are living under governments that have no such policy. We in America do have such policy.

Third, there must be the necessary facilities for doing the job under a rule of law.

These we have in our courts of law—the representatives of the vast judicial system of our state and nation. Our courthouses are the cornerstones of the structure of government under law. Everyone in the courtrooms of the nation—the judge as presiding officer, the attorneys as officers of the court, and other citizens as litigants and jurors—share the responsibility of preserving, strengthening and passing on to future generations this judicial system which unconditionally guarantees equal justice under law.

For those living under the yoke of communism, the sight of a courthouse stirs fear and hopelessness. It evokes dread visions for people who are condemned to live out their lives by the edicts or whims of dictators. But in America, the courthouse is the symbol of a free nation. Inside its doors the dignity of man as an individual will be respected and his equality of rights protected.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

Courthouse Symbol of Free Nation Law Day U. S. A. on May 1 is a day of dedication to government under law. The three basic rights guaranteed us under a rule of law are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. How can we enjoy these rights?

First, men and women must want these rights. There are many who are willing to go without some of their rights rather than bear the responsibilities that go with them. Furthermore, a lot of us are all for our own rights but don't care for those of the other fellow. But our own rights are safe only

Castro needs his pills without any "sugar-coating." Each of you that have passed the draft age can remember how they used to sweeten up everything from turpentine to castor oil with sugar in order to make the old home remedies possible to swallow. After growing up we were given the regular bitter pills and were supposed to be able to take them.

We have been favoring Cuba with "sweetening" in the sugar market to the harm and detriment of our own sugar producers. If Castro and his country are grownup enough to do all this "sassy talk" then both he and Cuba are big enough to take their pills without any sugar coating.

Some seem to fear if we take the sweetening out of our loving

U. S. 'ALERT' TO FEATURE CONELRAD DRILL. CLOSE GOVERNMENT INTERPLAY

May 3, 4, and 5 are important days this year to all Americans. On these days the seventh annual civil defense preparedness exercise, Operation Alert 1960, will be held from coast to coast.

The objective of the 1960 Alert will be to train personnel in National, State, and local governments, in industry, and in private organizations to respond effectively to an all-out attack on the United States with nuclear weapons.

THE PRINCIPAL participation by the public on a nationwide basis in the exercise will be during the half-hour beginning at 1 p. m. (EST) on Tuesday, May 3, when a Conelrad radio broadcast will be aired on 640 and 1240 kilocycles. During this period, all television, FM radio stations, and those radio stations not in the Conelrad network must leave the air.

The special Conelrad broadcast will originate from the Emergency Site of the Federal Government "somewhere outside of Washington." It will include brief addresses by President Eisenhower and Civil and Defense Mobilization Director Leo A. Hoegh.

The Conelrad broadcast will give the American public an opportunity to experience the kind of radio reception it would have to rely on during an enemy attack. The broadcast's importance will be emphasized by the fact that, under attack conditions, the 640 and 1240 channels would be the only source for survival instructions to the general public.

PARTICIPATION BY the Federal, State, and local governments this year will be of special significance to the nation's preparedness program for it will demonstrate the effectiveness of coordinated action among them.

Federal agencies will invoke comprehensive plans for action during an attack on this country. All 50 States will operate under their statewide survival plans. Plans for emergency action in metropolitan areas and smaller communities will be screened for their effectiveness.

Equally important will be the conduct of the exercise in industrial plants throughout the country because emergency procedures in the larger plants are as comprehensive as those for an entire community. Mutual aid agreements within industry are another form of coordinated action.

The newest beauty custom in Hollywood this Spring is the hairdo especially designed to go hand-in-hand with hats so that they both compliment each other.

The companion hat-do and hair-do fashion has a really intriguing theme movie set. To be able to wear her hats with ease and style, Angie Dickinson, the pretty and popular young star of "Rachel Cade" has had her hairdresser design two different coiffures to go with her new collection of spring hats. Miss Dickinson wears a coiffure brushed high in back and fronted by a pinwheel bang that goes with two of her spring hats like ice cream goes with cake — one a sailor in crisp straw with a turned up brim and flower garland, and the other a navy halo beret banded with frosty white grosgrain.

M.G.M. star Patricia Blair has gone all out for the short-cut, a slick headhugger that curves up on each cheek in a half moon. The haircut is a marvelous base for the high-crowned clothes and toques, light-weight and airy for summer, such as an openweave topper of stiffened chiffon bands in cool lime green or a deep-crowned, brimmed slouch in white with black polka dots. Side-swung berets in shiny black straw balance and emphasize the cheek curl, and for extreme drama there is a shallow platter of a hat, worn so that it shadows one side of the face.

To top off the hat story from Hollywood, the title of Doris Day's new film, "Please Don't Eat The Daisies" refers to the daisies decorating a black straw chapeau that is Miss Day's pride and joy in the film — and incidentally the sort of hat (perhaps minus a few daisies) that she'll be wearing all this summer to shield her fair skin from the sun and point up her blonde attractiveness.

A Corral Full Of Stories

By Joe Evans

When you think of hospitality you always think of some individual. There are in every community certain individuals who are outstanding men and women.

One of the most friendly and hospitable men I ever knew was Uncle Bill Kingston in the Davis Mountains. Old Uncle Bill never met an old friend but what he insisted on his going home with him and spending a few days. When he met a new acquaintance he never failed to ask him home with him also. Uncle Bill's wife was as friendly as he was and used to cook for all the cowboys or anyone else that came along.

Uncle Bill was also a great bear hunter and would invite everyone to go hunting with him in the mountains.

One time when Bill went to a cattleman's convention, he invited about thirty people to go hunting with him, and he found himself in a bad fix when they all showed up about two weeks later.

Most men would have thrown up their hands and quit, but Uncle Bill wasn't that kind. He fixed beds for all of them and did his best to feed them until the hunt started. Few of the fellows had ever ridden horses and none had ever killed a bear, but they were all excited and the procession stretched out nearly a half mile when they all got underway.

Uncle Bill was in the lead and all the others stretched out the trail behind him. When they reached the top of a mountain, somebody hollered, "There goes a bear," and they all fell off their horses and the grand hullaballoo began. Bill just sat on his horse and watched the performance. The bear ran off down the canyon and out of sight, but the shooting never stopped.

A lot of the people never saw the bear but they kept shooting anyhow. There was an old deaf fellow way in the back of the procession that got up to where all this shooting was taking place and he said to Uncle Bill, "Where's the bear?" Uncle Bill replied, "Shoot, it's good shootin' anywhere down the canyon."

LOOKING BACK

I almost decided not to write a book at all when one of my friends said to me, "It is much better to have a lot of folks say, 'Why don't you write a book?' than it is to have them say, 'Why did you write a book?'"

ON PRAYER

By James Keller

Little Jimmy, aged 5, was very proud of the fact that he could say his prayers by himself without any coaching. This didn't stop his parents from checking up on him, however, to see that he didn't forget anything.

One night, while listening at the bedroom door, they heard him add one or two thoughts of his own. He had just finished his regular prayer, "God bless Mommy, God bless Daddy," etc., and normally would have hopped right into bed.

This particular night, however, he stayed on his knees a moment longer. Finally he looked up and said earnestly: "And please take care of yourself, God, 'cause if anything happens to you, we're all sunk."

Fortunately for all of us, God is the one Changeless Friend we have—an ever loving Father to us all. We can count on Him at all times. So call on Him as a Father, and encourage others to do the same.

"For in him we live, and move, and are." (Acts 17:28)

Thank You

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the voters for their generous support in Saturday's primary. I also wish to apologize to those citizens whom I was unable to contact during this past campaign. It was my intention to see and talk with every voter but for various reasons, certainly beyond my control, this proved impossible. I will make a renewed effort to see each and every voter before this coming election.

I congratulate my opponents for the gentlemanly way they conducted their campaign and to those voters and citizens of this precinct, I again respectfully submit my past record as your commissioner for your review. My sole commitment and obligation is to execute this office to the very best of my ability and in a fair and businesslike manner. Your influence and help to elect me as your commissioner is gratefully solicited.

Car Skids Into Ditch; One Person Injured

Here lies the body of Jim Lake; Tread softly, all who pass; He thought his foot was on the brake, But it was on the gas.

We don't precisely know whether any such mistake was made Tuesday afternoon, but it is a cinch somebody's foot was on the gas a mite too long before the Dort car Bob Turner, Erwin Rice, Walter McAdams and Pat Malcomb were riding in hit a slippery place three miles this side of Shamrock at about 7 o'clock. The car skidded into the ditch, catapulting Rice and Turner through and over a wire fence, painfully scratching Rice and smashing a front wheel.

McAdams and Malcomb were in the front seat and did not get much of a jolt. The sudden stop threw Rice through the fence and he sustained two deep cuts on the left hand and numerous scratches on the south side of both legs, ranging from the knees upward. He says, however, that he is still able to seat himself. Turner, who was on the opposite side from the ditch, had farther to go and probably more force behind him, and, without any effort on his part, cleared the fence, landing on top of Rice, who beat him to a soft spot by a very brief interval.

There was another car just behind them, which picked up the party and carried them to Shamrock, where first aid was administered to the injured. A spare wheel was taken out Wednesday morning and the damaged car brought back to town.

Tabernacle Moved
 A primitive, and altogether novel method of moving things was resorted to on Monday, when about 100 men assembled and moved the town's 46x60 foot tabernacle a distance of about 50 feet, using no contrivance more modern than a lever and lifting the structure bodily and "hossin' er over" a foot at a time.

The former location of the tabernacle in the middle of Main Street had been a source of vexation to people living in the north part of town for years, and after some agitation on the part of those interested, permission to move the same was granted by the city council, and volunteers were secured for the job.

Owing to its peculiar construction, the usual method of placing rollers under it was thought to be impracticable, and extravagant use of man power had to be made. The actual moving required about two hours time, and resulted in little damage to the structure.

ODELL MANTOOTH

During primary training with the RCAF, a man was flying a light trainer when he had an uncomfortably close shave with another plane. He and his instructor were still shaky when they landed, but the trainer had almost forgotten the incident when he returned to the barracks that evening. There he found a neatly lettered card taped to the wall above his desk: "A mid-air collision could spoil your whole day."

Having a tire go to the bad could spoil your whole trip—better let us check them before you start—it could save you a lot of grief away from home.
