"GRASS ROOTS CAPITALISM"

The newspapers recently ran a story that I thought was pretty significant. It gave real insight into our American economic system. The story reported that, for the first time, an American business had 2,000,000 owners. This important "first" was achieved by the Bell System, of which my company is a part.

Hugh and Irene Polson of Wichita, Kans., are the two million shareholders. Pictured with them above are their two youngsters—Kay Louise, 9, and Stephen Hugh, 7.

The Polsons own and run their own pharmacy. And, even though they keep plenty busy with the drug store and duties at home, they take part in church, PTA and community activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Polson own ten shares of stock. They bought it as part of an investment plan to send their children to college. Like the Polsons, a great many investors—335,000, in fact—have fewer than 10 shares. Of the two million shareholders, nearly 850,000 are women and 300,000 are telephone employees.

This is real evidence of "grassroots capitalism," and I think Mr. and Mrs. Polson typify many of today's "grass roots" investors, who come from all walks of life, from all sections of the country.

As I said before, here is a truly significant story. Here is the nation's largest business, the Bell System, now owned by 2,000,000 people. Here is a dramatic testimonial to the American economic system. Here is democracy at work—with all the world to see.

STUBBLE MULCHING is leaving adequate amounts residue (in drilled crops, 750 pounds per acre for tight land and 1,250 pounds for mixed land) on the soil surface through seeding of the next crop. Stubble left on small grain land prevents soil from baking, cuts down evaporation, holds more water and mellow and enriches the soil. It's a good practice.

CROP RESIDUE USE is leaving adequate amounts (for tight land rows, 1,250 pounds per acre; for mixed land rows, 1,750 pounds) of stubble on the ground up to seed-bed preparation of the next crop. For maize followed by maize this would be about April 1. This practice affords protection during the blowing season of late winter and early spring.

Play It Safe

Never go out in a boat without a lifebelt or at least a life-saving cushioning handy. This applies especially to canoes because of their easy-to-tip-over habit. And in canoeing, always wear the lifebelt.

No matter how well you can swim, wet clothes and wet shoes can pull you under should your craft capsize.

Check Trotlines Often

When running trotlines at night be sure to check them at least every three hours.

Rough fish take a good toll of trotline bait—and empty hooks catch no fish. Keep those hooks baited by frequent checking.

Warning Bells

A turkey bell rigged on the shore line, dangling from your trotline, will save you many trips when your bait is tampered with. No ring, no rebaiting.

Retrieve in Spurts

Your retrieve should be more or less erratic when spinning for bass.

This is especially true when using a spoon, as the steady twinkle of a spoon looks most unlikeliest when viewed by a fish.

Let the spoon dip and rise, slow down and speed up, for life-like action.

Color and Deep Fishing

The deeper you fish the less important color becomes.

Colors on your lures tend to lose individuality the deeper they sink. Red is the first to lose distinction.

So concentrate on plug action in deep water, and never mind the color of your bait.

On the surface, however, color does count, with red and white the most popular. Contrast of the two colors seems to please (or displease) bass especially.

Try Backcasting

Backcasting is important, especially in bait-casting.

Forward motion is increased by a snappy backcast. Backcasts not only get distance, but also save mauling birds' nests.

Learn to flick your wrist in a snappy cast to the rear, and then slash quickly forward.

Improving Cheap Flyrods

Avoid buying cheap flyrods.

Among obvious drawbacks is the fact that they do not have enough guides to control the lines properly.

But if you already have such a rod, it can be improved by re-spacing its guides and adding a few of your own. These can be bought at any sporting goods store for about the cost of a cigarette each.

Clear Water Fishing

Clear water is hard to fish. Even old pros have trouble with it.

You can help matters a lot by using patience.

Cast out your plug. The fish the bottom. Leave it there—three, four, five, six minutes—then start your retrieve.

By that time the fish will have forgotten the original splash of your plug and may go for it.

Change Dry Flies Often

Wet flies and dry flies are different in many ways.

One important point to remember is that the dry fly loses its efficiency once it gets water-logged. Conversely the wet fly increases its allure the more beat-up it gets.

Add Glue to Blood Bait

Blood bait is great for trotlines and throwlines. But it does not stay on the hook well.

To make bait that has good sticking properties take a pint of warm blood (chicken, beef, etc.) and pour in a jar. Mix in three tablespoons of casien glue.

When glue dissolves in blood, pour mixture in a shallow bowl or pan and let cool until thick. Cut into short, bait-sized blocks or strips and then go bait your lines.

Make a Hit With Misses

When a bass strikes and misses, wait a spell before casting out that spot again.

This is especially true of bait-casting. But even fly fishermen can profit by this advice.

Summer Fly Fishing

Small wet flies usually are thought of as early spring bait. But it is surprising how often they work in dead summer when the water is slushy and clear.

LEAVE THAT CROP RESIDUE

By BILL BROOKS

Work Unit Conservationist SCS, Pampa

After the combines leave the field, then what? It's time to plow, isn't it?

Most farmers on the plains are doing that now or are just finishing. The way they plow now and what they use to plow with will determine how much protection and improvement their soil will have.

The soil conservation men tell us that the best tools to use are wide sweeps and rod weeders with a blade. Their idea, of course, is to leave as much stubble on top of the ground as possible.

There are quite a few who do not have this type of equipment and still manage to leave adequate amounts of stubble on the ground. The more the better.

People who have really studied tillage and residues have come up with these figures:

For every tillage operation performed by sweeps or rod weeders only 10 per cent of the remaining stubble is covered. For each operation of a cultivator or close-spaced sweeps (such as a Hoeme) 15 per cent of remaining stubble covered. One operation of a tandem disk harrow covers 25 per cent. One operation of a one-way disk plow covers 50 per cent of remaining stubble.

If we have a 20-bushel wheat crop leaving 10,000 pounds of residue on the soil, three operations of a one-way will leave 1,250 pounds (10,000 divided by 2 equals 5,000; divided by 2 equals 2,500; divided by 2 equals 1,250) of stubble on the soil surface which is adequate for wind erosion control.

On the other hand, if you use sweeps and a rod weeder three times you would still have over 7,500 pounds of stubble on your soil.

Friend, that's protection. Of course any combination of tillage equipment may be used to leave the desired amount of residue. The more stubble left, of course, the more protection afforded.

How 45,000 companies help their employees buy security

The average American company is pretty busy tending to its own business. Yet many companies have sandwiched in a valuable service for their employees—the Payroll Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Bonds. Through this plan, your payroll clerk sets aside a certain amount each payday for Bonds, buys them, and arranges to get them to you. It's completely automatic, and the easiest way in the world to save. Save as much or as little as you wish. Employees can sign up to save as little as $1.25 a week. The average among the more than 8 million folks on the Plan is $20 a month. All in all, 45,000 companies help their employees save about $2 billion in Savings Bonds a year—a lot of future homes, vacations, college degrees, and nest eggs for retirement. The security built into Savings Bonds U.S. Savings Bonds are guaranteed by the Government to grow. $13.75 becomes $25 in 7 years, 9 months. In 10 more years, it becomes $36.25. Your Bonds can be cashed in anytime, with interest. And if they're lost or destroyed, the Treasury Department replaces them free. Every Savings Bond you buy is an investment in Peace. What better way to help your government help you enjoy the things you're saving for.

Hats off to American Industry! "American Industry has given the Savings Bond Program its greatest success," says William H. Neal, National Director of the Treasury's Savings Bonds Program. "45,000 American companies have sold many billions of dollars in Savings Bonds—at no cost to the taxpayer," says Mr. Neal. "By operating the Payroll Savings Plan, these companies, big and small, are helping to keep our country strong. At the same time, they're helping more than 8 million people save automatically for the things they want. America owes a debt of thanks to these companies for their outstanding contribution to the 20-year success story of the U.S. Savings Bonds Program."

From the Library

By MRS. GUY HESTER

Because so many were out of town, only 18 boys and girls heard "Johnny Appleseed" told by Mrs. Spencer Sitter last Thursday at story hour at the city library.

Mrs. Sitter used an excellent record by Dennis Day to illustrate the story. The children also played "London Bridge" to a record, and at the close of the hour, Mrs. Sitter gave each one a caramel apple in keeping with the story.

Today was the last of the regular story hour sessions, when Mrs. Morris Brown told the story of "Bambi." Each child was given balloons and candy.

At this writing over 30 have finished their required reading of 15 books for the summer reading program, and many more are reading like mad to have theirs completed by Aug. 18 when the program ends.

A week from tomorrow the library board will give a party in Forty-one from Donley County are to attend.

POISON GRAIN

Smoky Price eats me out every time I come to McLean because I haven't brought his order of poison grain.

We have it on order from Robert Control Service. Headquarters for this area is San Antonio. Orders have always been slow, but seems like red tape really has this order bogged down.

Personals

Mrs. Jim Back of McLean and Mrs. Corrah Lee Brandt and Mrs. Lola Peavehouse of Amarillo are in Mineral Wells this week and resting at the Baker Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bailey and Jackie and Jan visited relatives in Pampa Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Darsey and children are on vacation in Creede, Colo.

Jerry Kunkel of Lubbock is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oba Kunkel.

Stephanie Riley spent Wednesday night with the Jack Baileys.

Nicky Chilton of Amarillo is visiting with his grandmother, Mrs. Bob James.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Nicholas were in Pampa Tuesday.

Mrs. Finis Dalton made a trip to Groon Tuesday.

AFRAID OF DENTIST?

LOUISVILLE—If you are one of those people that the dentist's office frightens—you are not alone.

Dr. Porter Richmond of Richmond, Ky., here for a meeting of the State Dental Association, told of a woman he's been waiting years to treat.

The dentist reported that the woman had been sitting in his waiting room four years, but always gets frightened and leaves just before time for her appointment.

A graduate student working on juvenile delinquency reported in a Wisconsin University sociology seminar that he was having difficulty in collecting data. His project was to telephone a dozen homes around 9 p. m. and ask the parents if they knew where their children were at this hour.

"My first five calls," he lamented, "were answered by children who had no idea where their parents were."

ODELL MANTOOTH

In visiting with Smoky, he says many local people use this as a rae and mouse poison around the house. Actually, Smoky has something that will beat this bad. It is called Pival and is one of the better anti-coagulant rat and rouse baits.

Very few dead rats or mice are found, but it does an excellent job. What most people don't understand is the fact that it is a slow killer, working on the rats and mice like a disease.

Few if any rats will be killed if the bait is only exposed for a 24 to 36-hour period. The ready-prepared bait contains a chemical similar to medicine doctors prescribe for a blood clot.

What actually happens is that rats and mice get their blood thinned down to the point they hemorrhage. This might sound like a commercial but it is not intended.

The material is handled on a cost basis in the interest of public health. Rats and mice carry many human diseases.

SOIL DISTRICT NEWS

The second edition of the Gray County Soil and Water District News is off the press. The district is to be congratulated for this forward step.

We think this second edition is even better than the first.

Let your local supervisor know what you think of this nice publication. In this issue there are several ads, which just about pay the cost of printing.

We feel for the editor, Jack Shelton, and Mrs. Shelton, since they now publish two weeklies and the SDC News.

MATURITY DATE ON MILO

E. T. Duncan asked me how much earlier RS 608 milo was than RS 610. Since I didn't know the answer I dropped a line to Ben Spears, our extension agronomist at Texas A and M. College, College Station.

Ben says that the number of days to first bloom is about the same as 610, but the 608 will cut from a week to 10 days sooner due to the fact that the 608 has a dry head.

I sent Mr. Duncan some other information that will make him an expert on milo, if he will read it. I'm sure he will, so corner Mr. Duncan if you have other questions on maturity dates of other hybrid milo.

BULL TESTING

A survey was made by A and M College on 1,369 bulls, checking them for fertility. The survey showed 84 per cent were satisfactory breeders, nine per cent were questionable and seven per cent were cull.

For around $5 per head (if you have several bulls) you can check the fertility of your sires. This is cheap insurance that I would recommend.
