

Three Thousand In County May Vote In Senatorial Election Saturday

Lack Of Poll Taxes In 'Off' Year Evident

Almost as much a matter of speculation as who will be the junior U. S. senator from Texas is the question of how many votes will be cast by counties in this area.

Howard county, hard to predict in the matter of total votes, had promise of around 3,000 ballots for the special election Saturday. Absentee votes cast to Wednesday morning totaled 130.

Potential vote of the county in this off year election occasioned by the death of Sen. Morris Sheppard is around 4,500. Poll taxes, with adjustments unfigured, totaled 3,737. Added to these were 140 exemptions, giving a total visible potential of 3,877 votes. Unlisted "overs," however, will boost the number.

At other points the picture looked about like this:

COLORADO CITY, June 24 (Sp)—Mitchell county's voting strength promises to be some 1,000 less than in a regular election year.

Against a normal of around 3,200 votes, electors will have a potential of around 2,250 in the special senate election Saturday. It was reported.

LAMESA, June 24 (Sp)—Absentee voting has been light here in the senatorial balloting, only around 15 having been cast.

In the county there were 1,968 poll taxes paid this year and exemptions with permanent certificates will give a potential of around 2,500.

Political prognosticators give O'Daniel an edge in the county because of his showing in two previous campaigns. He attracted a large crowd here last Saturday. Gerald C. Mann is rated high by observers and Martin Dies is believed to have a substantial block. Lyndon Johnson, figured to be leading at present in the whole state, was relatively unknown out here and has had to come a long way. His strength has grown rapidly in the last few days.

STANTON, June 24 (Sp)—Martin county could cast over 1,000 votes in the election Saturday to name a successor to the late Sen. Morris Sheppard.

Poll taxes here totaled 934 and exemptions 160, a visible potential of 1,094. The poll tax figure is more than 500 under last year.

Class One railroads in the United States had 1,080,000 employees in mid-April of this year.

Town Closes For Wednesday Fishing

DAYTON, Tenn., June 25 (AP)—Merchants of this little municipality will close their doors today at noon—just as they plan to do every Wednesday this summer—to fish for bass on the edge of the town.

The Tennessee Valley Authority's Chickamauga Lake, backed up to the city, has produced bass fishing too good to miss. So the merchants voted the early Wednesday closing.

Army Recruits Here All Join Air Corps Units

The U. S. Army recruiting post here has grown to be almost exclusively a unit for the air corps during the past three months, records of enlistments showed Wednesday.

During the period from April 1 to now, there have been 32 recruits from the Big Spring office, all of them in the air corps. This, of course, is due to listed vacancies all being in the air corps.

Currently the only vacancies Sgt. Troy Gifford has are in the air corps at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., Biggs Field at El Paso, and Barkdale Field, La., and the ordnance company aviation air base at Albuquerque, N. M.

Latest recruits from here were Robert L. Dabney, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dabney, Bill Dyer, son of Mrs. Velma Cain, and Robert L. Smith, son of Mrs. Ruby Smith. All were assigned to the air corps at Jefferson Barracks in the mechanical research division.

Mexico City Bandits Kill Man In Bank

MEXICO CITY, June 25 (AP)—A prominent businessman was killed and two others wounded last night when five armed men attempted to hold up a mid-town bank.

The bandits fled without breaking into the vaults of the Finance-Industry bank.

The robbers entered the bank by a side-door and surprised a group of businessmen in conference.

The intruders ordered them to face the wall. They shot two who balked, wounding them slightly. They then ordered Luis Guillen Guardiola, one of the leaders of the Mexican soap industry, to open the bank's vaults. He protested he did not know the combination, explaining he was not an official of the institution.

After an argument, the bandits shot Guillen through the head.

Defense Officials Study Possibility Of Aiding Russia

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—In line with President Roosevelt's pledge of all possible assistance to the Red army, defense officials today instituted a quick survey to determine what immediate and effective aid could be provided for Soviet Russia.

The expectation was that soviet overtures for help would not be long in materializing after Mr. Roosevelt's voluntary statement at his press conference yesterday.

When he made the promise, the president emphasized that the soviet had not yet made any request for help. He intimated, however, that since the United States also opposes Nazi aggression, this country was prepared—if and when asked—to provide Russia with everything the nation's productive capacity can supply after meeting prior defense and lease-lend commitments.

The president's pledge was immediately implemented in one field when the treasury department ordered release of between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000 in Russian assets here which were "frozen" on June 14 along with the holdings of Germany, Italy and other continental European nations.

CANBERRA, Australia—Netherlands India has agreed to purchase everything Australia has for export as long as prices and quality remain reasonable. The principal purchases are flour, wool, steel, fruit, hides and chemicals.

Colorado Citian Gets Fine Horse

COLORADO CITY, June 25 (Sp)—Another fine gaited saddle horse was added to the string maintained by Frank Kelley, Colorado City oil man, at the Colorado City Frontier Roundup barn this week. Kelley bought Anacacho Rattler, a five-year-old horse, from Pickens Burton stables of Dallas. The horse was brought here by Bob May of Colorado City. Kelley will show him for the first time at the Diamond M horse show in Scurry county Sunday afternoon.

RAILWAY LABOR UNION DEMANDS WOULD COST 900 Million Dollars A YEAR

THE labor unions have made their demands upon the railways of the United States—and through the railways upon the PUBLIC. These demands are vastly larger in proportion than any they have ever made. The economical and efficient operation of the railways is vital to the nation's defense effort. Therefore, the Western Railways present to the public the following facts:

The labor unions representing engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and switchmen are demanding a 30 per cent increase in wages, amounting to 190 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay are the highest in history.

Other unions representing a greater number of railway employees are demanding wage increases ranging as high as 95 per cent—averaging 47 per cent—and amounting to 580 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay also are the highest in history.

Thus the wage increases being demanded by the labor unions amount to 770 million dollars a year, an average increase in excess of 41 per cent.

In addition, certain of these labor unions have demanded advances in their pay not included in the above figures, and more rules for the creation of unnecessary jobs.

The situation, then, is this: The total cost of complying with all the demands made would be approximately 900 million dollars a year!

The average weekly earnings of railway employees are now 15 per cent higher than in the peak year 1929, while the cost of living is 12 per cent less.

The demands of the railway labor unions are being made when the entire nation has just been asked to make a supreme effort for National Defense.

The railways cannot meet these demands without a great increase in the cost of transportation. They exceed by more than 700 million dollars the income that the railways had left after paying their annual expenses, taxes and charges in 1940.

The railways have a vitally important job before them. They need all their resources to continue adequately to serve you and contribute effectively toward the National Defense Program.

Man About Manhattan—

Essence of Bedlam: Band Rehearsals On Broadway

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The purest essence of bedlam anywhere is to be found in the large studios on Broadway where dozens of popular dance bands hold rehearsals simultaneously before taking to the road or moving on to assignments elsewhere.

They are gabbling with the orchestra, but they are gabbling now, gabbling in high, pleasant, feminine voices, eager and in fine spirits. Leading off the "hall," like barracks in military quadrangle, are the studios. . . . At one end the same time swing bands, rumba bands, bands that play sweet music, waltz music and jitter music are blaring their souls in waves of coordinated, rhythmic sound that beat against the brain and the imagination of an onlooker with the steady, relentless persistence of summer rain in Fargo Fargo.

Hollywood—Grable Bruises Nose In Kissing Power! Gee!

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Preston Sturges tells me his "Sullivan's Travels" isn't a satire on Hollywood. And of course it isn't—it's about a highly successful comedy director (Joel McCrea) who wants to direct a serious movie, and has selected one called (in the script) "Oh, Brother, Where Art Thou?"

Therefore, more care and study should be given to the mechanics of the proposal than to the proposal itself. A merit and career system which was that in name only would be a travesty and a mockery. One that was allowed to become entangled in politics—whether municipal or intra-office—would be futile.

What It Means -- U. S. Defense And Living Costs

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON—Up to now the war has hit most of us in the pocketbook, the electric refrigerator and the fasteners on our clothes. Next month it starts in on the kitchen, the bathroom and the scrap box of nuts and bolts and wire in the basement—possibly on the Sunday afternoon joy ride.

HOW LIVING COSTS HAVE VARIED

being delayed 14 to 18 weeks now, because Uncle Sam is buying so much. Mrs. John Q. Citizen, you're already paying 25 to 30 per cent more for wash frocks, or taking poorer quality. And just wait until you get ready to buy your winter coat and furs! They'll cost you at least 20 per cent more, say the retailers.

THE SACRED DAGGER

Chapter 14 STUFFED OLIVES

The bright, unearthly moonlight did strange things to them, cast exotic shadows about their eyes and the planes of their heads and bodies. "Just who are we and just where are we?" queried Anne, as she stood weeping and holding the curtain of the falls.

"Fete, isn't there something we can do?" "Start a fight and get shot for our pains." "I might start a fight," suggested Anne. "They're afraid to murder me. She was feeling extraordinarily alive as if her food had given her the energy of half a dozen people."

Regis Toomey, now coming back strong, used to be a leading light of early talkies. Then Hollywood began talking him by. In the meantime, he set himself one rule to follow for a year. "I'll never get anywhere playing in unimportant pictures," he said, "even if I get leading parts, I'll play anything—one day, two days' work, anything—in an important picture."

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

- Q. What is the price of a Defense Savings Bond? A. For the smallest bond, you pay $18.75. The bond will increase in value in ten years to $25. For $75, you get a bond which will increase to $100, other bonds are in proportion.
- Q. What will the Government do with the money I pay for my bond? A. Your money will be put to work at once in the National Defense program to protect the freedom and safety of the United States, and of all its people everywhere.

NOTE—To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

teasing her. "We'll try a tango next," he said. "Ready," she said, and started the music with a flourish. One of the camels began to dance. His master made him kneel, mumbled him and sat down beside him. Sherwood whispered in Ann's ear as he whirled her. "Wish they'd all dismount."

The cook and his assistant were clearing away the table in the tent. Another camel became restless and was brought to his knees. The audience clapped when she finished. Sherwood said, "You've a very pretty kick."

Mackey struck up an old waltz tune and Sherwood came over and took Ann in his arms and circled the dancing space to the slow waltz music. She felt a tenderness about him as if he were holding himself under iron control. "Our audience believes that this is our wedding night, Anne," and he kissed her, guiding her into the tent.

Mackey tumbled after them and snatched close the flaps. He was describing with excitement. Then Anne saw a revolver in Sherwood's hand and remembered his drooping down by one of the soldiers several times. "Now what?" she demanded. "Nothing, I'm afraid," he said. "The next move is theirs. We know only that they won't harm you in a way that is called 'murder' in this part of the world." They heard voices, unexcited, the grumbling of the camels as they rose and the slow shuffle of padded feet.

"We'll probably hear from them as soon as the fellow discovers the loss of his gun," surmised Mackey and put the harmonica to his mouth again.

Anne looked longingly at the pallet in one corner of the tent and then sat down on the rug, drawing her golden, fluffy skirts about her. Presently she rested her head on her knees. She was unbearably drowsy and weak, and when she looked up again with an effort, she saw that Sherwood's head was weaving from side to side. She thought for a moment he must be drunk.

"I've been drugged," he muttered, making an ineffectual effort to rise to his feet.

Anne put a hand to her throat. Now she knew what was the matter with her.

Mackey stared from one to the other of them in consternation. "Those stuffed olives!" he cried suddenly. "I thought it was funny we'd have anything so foreign to the country as stuffed olives. They banked on every one of us eating them. Well, I didn't." He took the gun from Sherwood's nervous hand and went out.

Anne managed to crawl to the pallet before she lost consciousness.

rose and stumbled to the tent entrance and looked out.
The floor of the best play bare of movement except for a light breeze rippling the surface of the tiny lake. No man, no camel, not even the signs of their campfire had been left. Her swimming suit and the men's trunks hung on the tent lines where they had been thrown the night before.
Then she saw Sherwood's body lying, face down on the path to the falls.
The next thing she knew, she lay on the pallet again and someone was gently shaking her shoulder trying to wake her.
She lifted heavy lids and met Sherwood's troubled grey eyes, the hair on top of his head ruffled into unkempt ringlets.
"You're alive and unharmed," she exclaimed with growing wonder and delight.
"So are you," he replied as if the words were needed to give him conviction of the fact. "I found you lying outside and you wouldn't wake so I let you sleep while I explored."
He helped her sit up and they rested a bit; her shoulder against his breast. The tent flaps had been thrown back and they could gaze out on the lonely barren landscape bright with sunlight. Presently she moved away that she might look into his face the more easily. He had stared, she saw, and changed to whiplords.
"What do you know?" she asked rummaging for a comb in her bag.
"Only what my eyes tell me. You and I are here absolutely alone. Mackey gone—the natives gone—the camels gone. The camel floss gone. The lake is ten feet deep. Mackey refused to grow on the barren clay of the stream bank from the falls to the lake."
"We have no food, no fuel, no cup, and no tool or weapon except my safety razor and your Nagara dagger."

The Indian tribal name Anah-bolne means "stone boiler," from the practice of cooking by dropping hot stones into vessels of water.
