First Ever in Marching Tiger Band Receives Two First Divisions

The McLean High School Tiger Band won two coveted first division ratings Wednesday in the interscholastic League contests at West Texas State University, Canyon.

The 68 members of the band participating returned home with the first first division ever received in marching by a local band. They also rated equally as well in concert, but narrowly missed making a first division in sight-reading.

Had the McLean band received a first division rating for sight-reading, it would have ranked as a sweepstakes band.

Director Jim Boyd said late Wednesday afternoon on his return from Canyon that he is "real happy" with the youngsters' performance at the contests.

Wednesday's trip to WTSU completed Interscholastic League band activities for this school term.

However, the Tiger Band will enter the Tri-State Band Festival beginning April 29 in Enid, Okla.

FINLEY WINS HONOR IN FFA Selected District Star Greenhand

A member of the McLean Future Farmers of America chapter has been named the Top of Texas FFA District's Star Greenhand Farmer.

Eddy Finley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Finley, won the recognition for his outstanding FFA activities at the district meeting this week in Pampa.

Joe Lynn Magee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Magee, placed second behind Finley in the competition.

Degree Application

Nelson Christie, McLean High School vocational agriculture teacher and FFA advisor, said Wednesday that Harry Tate's application for the Lone Star Farmer degree was accepted at the district meeting.

Tate is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orphus Tate. He is seeking the high Texas FFA honor along with many others from throughout the state.

The names of the winning youths will be announced at the state FFA convention at San Antonio in July.

Finley will enter the competition for district Star Greenhand at the area convention May 9 in Lubbock.

A standing-room-only crowd attended Saturday's bi-weekly Derby Town Jubilee here, and another program is scheduled for April 18.

Three Are Elected To Alanreed Board

Horace Bullock, Red Easton and Wayne Morris were elected to the Alanreed board of education in balloting last Saturday.

Bullock led the list of candidates with 44 votes, followed by Easton with 43 and Morris with 42.

The other two candidates—Robert Bruce and Sonny Bryant—received 29 and 25 votes, respectively.

Buddy Hill, who resigned from the board only recently, finished the election with 27 write-in votes.

Also receiving write-in votes were Mrs. J. D. Parks, with two; J. D. Parks, one, and J. C. Gilbreath, one.

In an organizational meeting held Monday night, Easton was named the new board president. He succeeds Warner Phillips.

Burglary Suspects Are Arrested Here

Two men accused of burglarizing three Mobeetie firms were taken into custody here early Sunday morning.

City Marshal J. F. Bowling, advised by Wheeler County authorities that the men were believed driving this way, arrested the suspects and a woman companion when they stopped at a local service station.

Harold Lee Bredend and Charles Ray Geren, both of Springfield, Mo., were turned over to Wheeler County officers shortly after being apprehended here.

They are charged with burglary with intent to commit theft. The woman with them at the time of their arrest was taken to the Gray County Jail in Pampa.

Tiger Band to Hold Bake Sale Saturday

The McLean Tiger Band will hold a bake sale Saturday, April 18, to put the high school musicians "over the hump" in efforts to raise money for their trip to Enid, Okla., next month.

The sale will be at Marzel's, starting at 2 p.m.

Members of the band are attempting to raise enough money to pay the expenses to the Tri-State Band Festival in May.

CANCER FUND DRIVE OPENS Firemen to Conduct Crusade in McLean

Members of the McLean volunteer fire department will conduct a house-to-house campaign for Cancer Crusade funds, it was announced this week.

Fire Chief Boyd Meador said the drive is scheduled for April 16, starting at 6 p.m.

Don Lane, Pampa, is serving as Gray County Cancer Crusade chairman. Lane, in McLean Tuesday to speak at the Lions Club luncheon, said that the drive will be conducted through the month of April.

Also attending the meeting was Dr. Royce Laycock of Pampa, president of the county American Cancer Society.

Unlimited Fight Lane said that the Cancer Crusade's goal is to raise funds to wage an unlimited fight to save through research all Americans who now die of cancer, and to conduct the society's life-saving education and service program.

Theme of this year's fund-raising effort is "To Cure More, Give More," which supplements the slogan "Fight Cancer With a Check-up and a Check."

The public has given generous and growing support to the crusade. In 1944, the society raised $800,000; in 1954, the figure was $21,700,000; in 1963, more than $33 million, with a total of over $40 million from all sources.

It has been estimated that 290,000 persons will die of cancer in the United States this year. The number is growing every year.

Dinner Saturday To Honor Floyd Grady

Floyd Grady, former pastor of the McLean First Presbyterian Church, will speak and be honored at a pot-luck supper at the church Saturday night.

The supper will start at 7 p.m., and everyone is welcome to attend.

Rev. Grady spent 16 years as a missionary in Brazil after leaving McLean. He only recently returned from Brazil.

The minister will speak about his stay in Brazil following the dinner.

Daily Open House Planned at Library

The members of the board of Lovett Memorial Library will be hosts at an open house each morning, Tuesday through Friday of next week, April 14-17, starting at 9.

The event is being held in observance of National Library Week. It is hoped that everyone will try and attend. In the days or hours mentioned are not convenient, residents are invited to attend whenever possible.

Refreshments will be served each morning by a member of the library board.

Junior Chamber Is Presented Charter

The newly organized McLean Junior Chamber of Commerce received its charter last Thursday night at a charter banquet in the American Legion Hall attended by the state Jaycee president.

Larry Tate of Longview, head of the Texas Jaycees, discussed the organization's past history and its goals.

Mr. Cable died at 4:45 a.m. last Thursday in Northwest Texas Hospital, Amarillo, of an accidental gunshot wound sustained the preceding Tuesday.

FREEZE STILL WORRY HERE

It's spring, but freezing weather continues to keep residents with gardens and fruit trees worried.

The temperature dipped down to 29 degrees early Wednesday morning, nipping some fruit trees and vegetables, but most survived.

The 29 was the low reading of the past week. The high was a balmy 80 degrees recorded last Thursday.

McLean received no rainfall during the week, but still is ahead on moisture in comparison with this date a year ago.

A total of 3.62 inches have fallen here, more than an inch above the 2.31 by April 9, 1963.

Lander Hospitalized With Heart Attack

Ed Lander, former mayor of McLean, is in a Fort Smith, Ark., hospital recuperating from a heart attack he suffered two weeks ago.

He was reported showing some improvement Wednesday, but his condition is still described as serious.

Lander is in Room 443 of Sparks Hospital in Fort Smith.

The long-time resident of McLean moved to Fort Smith from here in 1960. He served as mayor of the city for many years.

2 New School Trustees Picked Incumbents Win In City Voting

Voters here handed new terms to three city aldermen and chose two new school trustees in elections the past week.

Creed Lamb, M. M. (Joe) Burroughs and Jack Shelton were re-elected to two-year terms on the McLean city commission in balloting Tuesday.

Shelton received 98 votes, Burroughs 90 and Lamb 80 in the election.

The fourth candidate, R. T. Wood, was unsuccessful in his bid for a seat on the commission. Wood was favored by 53 voters.

In the McLean independent school district election last Saturday, voting was close, but George Orrick—the only incumbent seeking a new term—was defeated.

Fuller Leads Ticket

A. L. Fuller, with 146 votes, and Jay Thompson, with 143, won the two trustee positions being filled this spring.

Orrick had 136 votes.

Two voters cast their write-in ballots for J. B. Roach, who did not file for re-election this spring. School board members are elected to three-year terms.

The new trustees will take their seats on the board at the regular board meeting at 7 p.m. next Monday in the high school home economics room.

The three re-elected city aldermen will begin their new terms at the monthly city commission meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday at city hall.

'Vera F. Back Day' Monday in McLean

An autograph party at Lovett Memorial Library will highlight the observance next Monday of "Vera Featherston Back Day" in McLean.

Proclaimed by the city commission, the special day is being held to honor Mrs. Jim (Vera) Back, long-time McLean school teacher whose first book, Feathers, is now coming off the presses.

The public is invited to the party from 2 to 9 p.m. at the library. The affair is being sponsored by the Pioneer Study Club and Library board.

Copies of Feathers will be shown to the public for the first time at Monday's autograph party.

The book was published by the Naylor Co. of San Antonio.

Much of the story in the book is based on the actual experiences of Mrs. Back's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baxter Featherston who were pioneer Texas residents.

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Largely unnoticed, Congress has passed a bill which in effect does not require certain states to raise the taxes to employers to meet the high costs of unemployment payments to reimburse the Federal government for the extra contributions to these plans.

California, a leader in welfare payments, was one of the states affected. This makes an interesting case study.

As previously pointed out, in the food processing industries unemployment checks are sent to the students, housewives and other seasonal employees who only work during the summer season, and want no year-around steady job. Of course, the payroll taxes paid by the employers is of necessity added to the cost of the products.

Food canning is a big California industry. The seasonal workers receive up to 29 weeks after the canning season ends unemployment checks even though they have no intention of working the rest of the year. Thus, the food canning industry is in effect giving the seasonal employees a guaranteed annual wage.

The canners in California pay the maximum unemployment insurance rate permitted by law which at present is 3.3% of the payroll. Yet economists in the canning industry have found if the canner's were taxed on their payroll a sufficient amount to equal the amounts handed out to the seasonal workers during the rest of the year, the tax would have to be 9% of the payroll.

The difference is made up by higher taxes assessed against the payrolls of all employers, even those who have practically no turn-over rate. The Federal government contributes to each state in addition to the money raised by the states taxing the employer.

But California was in trouble. Due to the unions constantly pushing up and up the wages that must be paid to these seasonal workers, unemployment payments to them also increased.

Thus, for the Federal government to get back the money it has paid out in extra funds to California, it would be incumbent on the California state government to raise the maximum rates on employers.

This, of course, would create substantial embarrassment to the state government, especially if it became public knowledge that the tax increases were necessary to keep sending checks for 29 weeks to people who do not want to work except during the season.

Thus, like the Seventh Cavalry used to sweep across the Western plains to save the settlers from having their scalps lifted, the Congress, armed with the U.S. Treasury, swept across the Sierras to prevent scalps from being lifted in Sacramento. It is a truly touching display of the principle of "all for one, and one for all," as long as the employers, food consumers, and all other taxpayers foot the bill. There is nothing that cannot be accomplished if the public can be gouged deeply enough.

NEWS ITEMS FROM ALAN REED

Jubilee Proceeds Going to Hospital
The McLean Junior Chamber of Commerce voted Tuesday night to contribute proceeds from future Derby Town Jubilees to a special fund for furnishing a room in the soon-to-be-built McLean Hospital.

Members of the organization decided to sponsor a Jubilee every other Saturday night. The Jaycees also voted to assume the responsibility of erecting two large signs boosting McLean. The signs are now being built for the city. One will be erected at the east edge of McLean and the other to the west of the city on Highway 66.

A lady was visiting a training camp. She saw a recruit going around the parade ground with a sharp-pointed stick spearing cigarette butts and paper. Stopping him, she asked: "Doesn't that sort of work fatigue you a great deal?" "Oh, no," replied the soldier. "I was born to it. My father used to harpoon whales."

We weren't exactly born to the service station business—but we've been at it long enough that we have a thorough knowledge of your car's needs. It is our pleasure to serve you.

VIVID ACCOUNT OF ALASKA EARTHQUAKE GIVEN IN LETTER

Printed below is a letter received by Mrs. Vida Montgomery Lonsdale of Santa Monica, Calif., from her son, David, following the recent earthquake in Alaska.

Mrs. Lonsdale is the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Montgomery of McLean. David Lonsdale resides with his family in Spearhead, Alaska, near Anchorage.

The letter was also published in a Santa Monica daily newspaper. Portions of the letter, which follows, have been omitted because of space limitations.

Dear Mom,
We're all OK up here. The house is OK. Please don't worry. We have our water back on, the lights are back on and phone works half of the time. We can't phone you or send you a telegram as the facilities are reserved for emergency use.

Anchorage is a mess. We have no newspaper to send, but you are probably getting all of the news. You are probably getting all of the statistics via radio and newspapers, so I'll just give you the dope on what we actually saw or experienced.

From what I saw it will take several years for parts of Anchorage to rebuild and I doubt that it will ever be the same. The earthquake in South California March 11, 1933, was a drop in the bucket compared to this. I doubt that the 'Frisco quake was anything compared to this. 'Frisco's damage was mostly by fire.

The quake started at about 5:35 p.m. Friday, March 27. I had just gotten off work and had been standing at the front counter of the Northern Commercial Co., talking to Bob Laurie and Dave LaCroix. The building started to shake slightly and I said, "Well, we're having a little shake." It didn't stop. It grew in intensity. The building shook and I don't know how it stayed together. We all headed for a doorway to stand in. LaCroix started for the front door and I hollered for him to stay inside. He ran out into the street.

Duck Falling Debris
The building was shaking so violently I didn't think it would hold, so Laurie and I followed him out into the street. We ran to the center to avoid falling debris.

The ground heaved and buckled. Cars were shaking like mad. All traffic stopped. Windows in the buildings popped out and people ran toward us to avoid the flying glass. I looked down the street and saw people fall to the ground, not being able to stand up. I had to use my sea legs in order to hold my balance.

I glanced east down 5th Avenue. In a large cloud of dust the whole corner of the new five-story J. C. Penney Co. came down, crushing several cars, several people dying at the same time.

As you know, I have been through quite a few earthquakes, in California, Washington and Alaska. They have never even remotely frightened me before. This was different. I didn't believe the ground could time. The movement seemed to be predominately from north to south.

We stood there in the street for what seemed like ages and when it had finally stopped we weren't sure it had stopped because we were all still shaking. It had lasted almost three minutes, and I guess for a quake that is a lifetime.

We ran back inside to phone our families but the phones were dead. I glanced at the mess inside the building. Most of the parts bins were laying on the floor, desks, chairs, filing cabinets and the Kardex had moved eight to 10 feet from where they were supposed to be. The window behind the Kardex had fallen out. Small machinery was turned over and scattered. Parts were all over the floor and as I hurried by I thought to myself, "This will take weeks to clean up."

Miss Gallegly Dies In Erick, Okla.

Word was received here this week of the death of Miss Glennie Gallegly, 64, of Erick, Okla.

She was a former teacher in the McLean schools. Miss Gallegly died March 23 at an Erick hospital.

Services were held at the First Methodist Church in Erick on March 25, with burial in the Erick cemetery.

Jessie Andrews, the first woman student at the University of Texas, received her B. A. degree in 1886.

The building itself looked OK. I locked the front door, climbed over parts, light fixtures that had fallen from the ceiling, bins, etc., and made my way out the back door, Laurie and LaCroix right behind me.

My thoughts were to get home to Martha and the kids as soon as possible. The main store (department store) of the N. C. Co. looked OK from the back, but I heard later that the front and inside was heavily damaged, plus the west side and that it would probably be condemned. It was snowing very lightly and the streets were slick. I headed home in the Ford.

At the bottom of Romiz Hill on L Street, where Chester Creek crosses through a culvert, the road was buckled up in the air about four feet. I detoured over to C Street. I could see the red lights of police, fire department, ambulances, etc., all over I was breaking all speed limits trying to get home to check on Martha and the kids.

I had just passed a brand new 70-unit six-story apartment building that formerly stood behind the old Providence Hospital on Ninth and L Streets. It just wasn't there. All I could see was a large pile of trash.

Arriving home, I found Martha and the kids all OK. There wasn't a crack in the house. They had all been inside and Martha had gotten most of them into doorways, as I had instructed her years ago. No lights, no heat, no power and no phone. The temperature was about 27 degrees.

Everything OK otherwise. One broken light fixture, two broken cookie jars, a can of flour and grease on the kitchen floor. That was about it.

On L Street there was an area about one block wide and 10 blocks long that just dropped, sunk, went down about 12 to 25 or 30 feet.

A brand new 40 unit apartment was broken in half. Houses lay at 45 degree angles and buildings were warped like a snake. Wires and utility poles lay all over the ground. Cracks in the ground were all over, some four feet wide, 12 to 15 feet deep. If you drove north on L Street and had just passed Eighth, you would fall over a 30-foot cliff. Below this cliff lay L Street twisted and warped for about three-fourths of a block. At the end of this was a 20-foot bluff. Above this, L Street continued as though nothing happened. In between and for a length of about 10 blocks lay homes, apartment houses, automobiles, etc., all in various states of destruction.

You remember all of those beautiful homes out in the Turnagain Arm district along the bluff? They are no more. That large log home of Bob Atwood, the editor of the Anchorage Times, is gone. I believe you'll remember this one. It was ground up like a match box. For the length of about one mile and back inland for three to four blocks the ground is sunk, upheaved, turned over and about 100 homes are demolished, and some you can't even find.

As far as our own personal welfare goes, it couldn't be better. We are going up to the school for typhoid shots pretty soon. Will also try for a small Easter celebration for the kids. My prayers for Easter are? "Thank God, we are all safe, warm and well fed."

Agribusiness in the Soviet Union

John McFoney, agr. extension economist at College Station, has recently done a study comparison of agriculture in the United States with that of the Soviet Union. I would like to reprint a portion of John's newsletter with a sub-heading, "Private Agriculture in the Soviet Union."

I quote: "The last vestige of private farming in the Soviet Union are the tiny private plots that collective farm and state farm workers and other workers are permitted to maintain. On these plots, which have only about three to four per cent of the sown area in the Soviet Union but a much larger proportion of the livestock (for which some feed is obtained from the collective farms) no less than 30 per cent of total agricultural production is produced. The bulk of the agricultural commodities produced on the private holdings are high value products. In 1961 the private sector produced, according to official statistics, 46 per cent of the meat, 45 per cent of the milk, 78 per cent of the eggs, 64 per cent of the potatoes and 45 per cent of the vegetables. A considerable portion of the individual collective farmer's money income is derived from the sale of the produce from these plots.

"In the two decades between 1940 and 1960 the relative importance of the private sector in agricultural production has declined considerably. This decline is primarily due to the increase in production on collective and state farms, and not because of absolute declines in private sector production. It is the policy of the Soviet government that these private holdings will eventually 'with-er away' as collective and state farm production expands and improves. At the present time the private sector contributes substantially to total agricultural production, especially of livestock, dairy and truck garden products."

This is the best proof one can give of the advantage of a free enterprise system over the communist system. The incentive system—free enterprise system or profit system—will always yield the highest production.

Wellington courthouse—8:30 to 11 a.m. on Thursday, April 16 and 30, May 14 and 28 and June 11 and 25.

TO THE PEOPLE OF McLEAN, GRAY COUNTY & SURROUNDING AREA:

A One-Day Race Meet will be held at the McLean Race Training Stables on Sunday, April 12, at 1:00 p.m. Ten or more scheduled races will be held. We have 60 or more horses scheduled for this meet . . .

Some of the Finest People own Race and Show Horses. These people are coming to McLean to help put on this Meet. The track will be under close supervision at all times. Rules are set up to run by and will be enforced to the letter.

Racing to a Horseman or Lover of Horses is no more than Rodeoing, Showing of Livestock or any other Sport. Horse Racing has gotten to be Big Business.

Why should McLean not receive part of the Income off of it? There is not a business in McLean that it would not help. Horsemen are Good People, and People who travel Spend Money.

We Ask and Will Appreciate your Cooperation in helping us put this Little Meet on. So why not come on out to the Races Sunday Afternoon, April 12. We think you will enjoy them. There will be a Concession Stand run by the McLean Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Owner, McLean Race Training Stables

FEATURED SPEAKER: Ace Reid, author of the popular cartoon "Cowpokes," will be the featured speaker at the 20th annual stockholders meeting of the Canadian Production Credit Association on April 12 in Canadian. Association members and their families are invited to attend the meeting in the Canadian High School auditorium. Registration starts at 9 a.m. and the business session at 10 a.m.

NEWS OF CONSERVATION

Drew Word completed an irrigation well on his stock farm north of Alanreed. Drew will install a sprinkler irrigation system.

Word plans to sprig 35 acres of Midland bermudagrass this spring and sprig 17 acres in 1965. He also plans to water about 25 acres of alfalfa.

A combination of native grass, alfalfa and Midland bermudagrass will make an ideal stock farm.

Clyde Magee completed a pond and two diversion terraces on his place southwest of McLean.

Ercy Cubine plans to seed native grass on his place west of McLean. The land he plans to seed is an old field that has been turned out for several years. It has grown up in junk grasses such as needlegrass, silver bluestem, hairy grama and sand dropseed.

Ercy will run wide sweeps under the junk grasses and drill native grasses into the existing cover.

M. C. Burdine and Ofin Weldon also plan to do this type of seeding.

There are several thousand acres of this type of land in Gray County that needs to be reseeded.

A dam was staked for Billy Davis on his ranch north of Lefors.
