

Duce Defies U. S. Entry

ROME, June 10. (AP)—Premier Mussolini declared today that the United States was at war "de facto"—in fact and virtually defied her to declare war against the axis.

United States intervention in the war would result in a totalitarian dictatorship in the United States, the premier declared at a solemn, full dress session of the chamber of fasces and guilds on the first anniversary of Italy's declaration of war.

He referred to possible United States intervention in these words:

"If Spain and Turkey remain out of the war, there is one trans-oceanic state which promises to enter it."

Envoys from countries in the German-Japanese-Italian tri-partite pact heard Mussolini's speech, but conspicuously absent from the diplomatic gallery was United States Ambassador William Phillips.

"It should be known that American intervention does not bother us excessively," Mussolini declared in his 50-minute speech.

Il Duce declared Japan would be loyal to her pact with Germany and Italy in the event of "alien aggression against the axis."

"Japan's attitude is in perfect line with the tri-partite pact," he said while the chamber applauded.

"The Japanese are a proud and loyal people who could not remain indifferent in the face of American aggression against the axis."

The fascist chieftain accused Turkey of aiding Greece in the war against Italy and proclaimed that conquered Greece "re-enters into Italy's vital space in the Mediterranean."

He asserted a declaration of war would not change the war situation already existing since he said American help would not give Britain victory but would only prolong the conflict.

As dictators go, Il Duce declared that Sulla, the ancient Roman dictator, "was a modest amateur compared to Ecliano (Sic) Roosevelt."

Workers Returning To Plane Factory; Congress Asked To Pass Definite Law

Production To Be Resumed At Once

'Everything Is Happily Quiet,' Army Officer Reports

LOS ANGELES, June 10. (AP)—The five-day strike at the North American airplane factory appeared ended to agreed to march to the factory in a body to ask to have their jobs back.

day when U. A. W. strikers

LOS ANGELES, June 10 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Charles W. Steinmetz reported 3,500 men had returned to work at North American Aviation, Inc. plant at 7:30 a. m. (9:30 a. m. CST) as army officers promised to start war planes rolling off production lines today.

"And more workers are coming in," Col. Steinmetz added. "Everything is happily quiet."

Three thousand, five hundred soldiers guarded the plant with machine guns and bayonets.

President Roosevelt ordered it reopened yesterday as a defense emergency measure. The company, which produced 10 planes a day, has $196,000,000 in orders for the United States and British governments.

Meantime, leaders of the CIO-United Automobile Workers local which called a strike at the plant last Thursday, demanding a closed shop and wage increases, called union members to meet at C. I. O. hall.

They called the back to work movement a "hop."

Armed soldiers stood sentinel at all intersections within a mile of the plant. CIO-UAW leaders said several hundred pickets were on duty outside the lines, but no pickets were permitted within a mile radius of the plant.

Pickets shouted at workers driving toward the plant not to go in and handed out bulletins inviting them to the union meeting.

$40,000 Loss In Flames Started By Lightning

WICHITA FALLS, June 10 (AP)—Damage estimated at $40,000 was caused by flames, started by lightning during a violent electrical storm Monday night, which swept the Olsen-Stelzer Boat and Saddle company in Henrietta.

High wind accompanying the three-hour storm damaged small buildings and uprooted trees.

Services For Mrs. Piner At 4 P. M. Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Patty Piner, 69, mother of R. T. and G. W. Piner, were to be conducted today at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. O. L. Savage, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was to officiate at the services, assisted by a choir from the church.

Palbearers were to be Ira L. Thurman, W. H. Inkman, R. V. Middleton, W. H. Hurt, Ebb Hatch and Lilburn Coffee. Interment will be in the Piner family lot in the Odd Fellows cemetery beside the husband of the deceased who died here Dec. 16, 1915.

Favorite hymns of Mrs. Piner, a life long member of the Presbyterian church, were to include "Abide with Me," "Lead Kindly Light" and "Now the Day is Done," given by a mixed quartet composed of Miss Jeannette Barnett, Mrs. Robert Parks, F. H. Talbot and Buck Richardson, with Mrs. H. H. Hurt at the piano.

Mrs. Piner was born Ida Patty in Winston county, Miss., near Louisville, July 18, 1861, the first year of the war between the states. At the end of the war she accompanied her husband to the Philippines.

THE SACRED DAGGER

Chapter One

The somber grey haze of a slow-rising storm was sitting over the desert at the lonely place of the tomb, Jus Masar. Anne Willard threw her gloves and beret on the fine white gravel that looked like the splintered bones of prehistoric monsters and ran slim fingers through her chestnut hair. Her head was aching after the long bus ride, and the fact that she had not been met frightened her.

She had followed the directions in her father's telegram explicitly. Here she stood, bag and baggage, dropped from the Russian concession bus that crosses the Kalmar desert to the border of Shani Lun. With sinking heart she watched it disappear, running beside the telegraph line that circled a high, permanent dune which was anchored by tamarisk shrubs in grotesque shapes that looked like devil dancers.

This mission she was on was dangerous, she knew. But archaeologists do not expect a life of ease and safety. This was the thing she had lived for, longed for all her young life—to share her parents' profession. It had seemed gay and romantic in the anticipation. Yet now that the time had come it took on a somewhat terrifying aspect.

She looked over at the round-domed tomb in a hollow between the hills.

"The resting place of an Arabian missionary, descendent of the Prophet, blessed of Allah," the Sart bus driver had told her in his broken English. He thought there might be a half-crazed hermit living somewhere in the cliffs above, but he did not question her desire to be left in such a place. She was from America where people have strange customs, and from which they make still strange pilgrimages.

Anne noticed a single poplar tree that grew beside the tomb, a young thing perhaps half her own age and more than twice as tall. It proclaimed the season by a show of new green leaves. As she walked towards it she saw evidence of the antiquated life it had led in the twisted trunk and broken limb stubs. Anne had a special feeling for trees. Sometimes she could talk to them and fancy they responded.

A sudden gust of wind sprang up from nowhere and struck her like a slap in the face. She backed away and returned to her luggage beside the telegraph pole whose wires were humming a dismal wail. Drawing the telegram from her coat pocket, she verified once more the place of meeting, the tomb Jus Masar. But for the first time she began to wonder if the message had really come from her.

Report U. S. Steamer Sunk In Atlantic By Torpedo

WASHINGTON, June 10. (AP)—The White House asked today that judgment be suspended on the sinking of the U. S. steamer Robin Moor until it is established how she was lost.

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 10. (AP)—The captain of the Brazilian steamer Osorio in a radiogram to the Associated Press today asserted that the United States steamer Robin Moor, sunk in the Atlantic May 21, was torpedoed.

The Osorio has aboard 11 members of the Robin Moor's crew, picked up from a lifeboat in mid-Atlantic last Sunday. The survivors said there had been three more lifeboats containing seven passengers, including three women and a child, and 35 crewmen.

The survivors are: John J. Bantigan, Karl Nilsson, Virgil Sandelin, William S. Cary, Peter Buss, Donald Schables, H. O. Rice, R. Carlisle, Antonio Santos, Hugh Murphy, P. C. Eccles.

4,000 Aluminum Workers Strike

DETROIT, June 10. (AP)—About 4,000 members of the United Automobile Workers-CIO struck today at six plants of the Bohn Aluminum & Brass corp. despite an eleventh-hour appeal of federal mediators to postpone the action.

The dispute, in which the union asks a general pay increase of 10 cents an hour, was certified by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to the national defense mediation board yesterday.

Lightning struck a radio aerial at the home of Louis Talley, 408 Dallas street, early today at the height of an electrical and rain storm.

Small damage resulted, said firemen. A hole was burned in a screen and a wall slightly scorched.

Otherwise, the storm, which caused sharp damage and loss of life in other areas, was more noise than anything else here. The U. S. department of commerce weather bureau at the airport reported .11 of an inch and the U. S. Experimental Farm had .23, indicating a spotted pattern.

At San Angelo winds estimated at 60 miles an hour and accompanied by hail caused personnel at Goodfellow field to tumble out to stay planes not in the hangar. Damage to small buildings was light and small grain crops suffered. Rainfall was .85 of an inch and ranged up to two inches at Sterling City, and 1 1/2 inches on the upper Middle Concho around Mertzon. Rises of two to five feet were recorded on the three Conchos.

Ablene had 4.35 inches overnight, heaviest for a 24-hour period in 55 years of June weather reporting. Lake Abilene, with water rushing around the spillway two feet deep, was at its highest peak.

Would Give FD Complete Authority

War Department Requests More Specific Legislation

WASHINGTON, June 10. (AP)—The war department asked congress today to sidetrack its so-called property seizure bill temporarily to permit speedy passage of legislation to give the present specific statutory authority to deal with defense strikes.

Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, told the house military committee that amendments to the selective service law, such as proposed by Senator Connally (D-Tex) or Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the house naval committee, would "fill the needs as the war department sees it."

Both amendments would enable the government to take over any plant where existing or threatened failure of production interfered with the national defense program.

"We had to take over a plant yesterday, the North American Aircraft corporation," Patterson said. "We did so under the constitutional powers of the president as commander-in-chief of the army and navy which seem to include responsibility for equipping the army. But we would prefer express statutory authority."

In response to questions, Patterson told the committee the war department still favored enactment of the property regulation bill, which would authorize the seizure of any property deemed essential by the president for defense, but asserted he did not want that measure to delay the Connally or Vinson proposals.

Death Claims Geo. Draper

Death Monday afternoon claimed George E. Draper, 31, following a long illness. He succumbed at a local hospital.

Funeral arrangements were pending and the body was in state at Nalley Funeral home.

A native of Kansas, Draper had followed the sawmill business for many years before coming to this country. He has been a member of the Church of God for many years. Mr. Draper would have been 82 on July 12.

Survivors include seven children, Mrs. Annie Cooper and Rufus Draper of Earleboro, Okla.; Mrs. Cordie Norris of Parkin, Ark.; Mrs. Ada Simmons of Hot Springs, Ark.; Mrs. Thelma Tweedie and George Draper of Malvern, Ark.; and Dwight Draper of Fort Bliss.

Other relatives residing here locally included M. S. Draper and C. L. Draper, nephews, and a niece, Mrs. C. E. Larson.

His wife preceded him in death, succumbing on Nov. 11, 1928 in Yell county, Arkansas. It was undecided whether he would be buried here beside a brother, A. O. Draper, who died in 1938, or by his wife.

Hammy Maneuvers Hampered By Mud

CAMP BOWIE, BROWNWOOD, June 10. (AP)—Nearly an inch of rain cascading over the thick West Texas soil converted the eight army corps battle ground into a vast mud pie today, slowing up activities of competing forces on the last day of the first-phase exercise.

Huge trucks proceed cautiously over the gummy terrain in the wake of rain which blew in this morning.

Others Missing In Cyprus Seen As Next Goal Of The Axis

Aid Attacks On Isle Reported; Allies Advance In Syria

ALBANY, June 10. (AP)—At least 12 persons were dead and additional heavy loss of life was feared in a flash flood that sent a 20-foot wall of water from a broken dam roaring through the southwestern section of this West Texas town early today.

The known dead included two aged women trapped in a storm cellar where they had fled after they mistook the roar of the flood for the approaching of a tornado.

Twenty-five houses were washed away.

The dead were:

John Gage, 70, who lived in a tent on the banks of Hubbard Creek, which became a raging torrent a few minutes after the dam of the city water supply lake gave way.

Thelma Williams, one.

Mrs. Addie Ratliff, 60, and her mother, Mrs. Alice Monk, 80, whose bodies were removed from the storm shelter.

Mack Strong, 10 months.

One unidentified woman, who was rescued after being carried several hundred yards from her home by the torrent, died of shock and exposure a few hours later. Six other bodies had been recovered.

Six members of the Paul Alexander family were still missing, hours after Alexander watched helplessly from a tree-top as his home swirled away downstream. Searchers had found no trace of them at mid-morning.

Eight families living in a Humble Pipeline company camp above Lake Diller were safe. Earlier, fear had been expressed that they had been caught in the rush of water that overtaxed the strength of the dam.

The flood struck without warning following torrential overnight rains on the Nall and Cook ranches northwest of Albany.

Some who fled reported their first knowledge of danger came when they heard a roar. Before they could leave their homes, water was waist deep.

In half an hour, it was 20 feet deep.

At daylight, it had receded again within the banks of the creek. The sudden rush of a torrent from a 10-inch rain swept away 1,300 feet of the dam at Lake Diller, from which Albany has been drawing its city water since a newer lake washed away two months ago.

Only about ten feet of 30 foot high structure was left standing.

It was believed the dam went out about 1:30 a. m. The highest water swirled over the rooftops here an hour later.

The main residential section of the town, and the business section, were not flooded. Approximately half the houses which washed completely away had been occupied by negro families, the others by whites.

"The roar of the water was the only warning many persons had," said W. Graham Webb Jr., insurance man.

"By the time most of them were out of their beds, the water was waist deep. Some of the houses were completely covered within 30 minutes of the time the flood struck."

The swift current, he said, loosened houses from their foundations and washed them bodily down stream. The water was at least a quarter of a mile wide during the peak of the flood, he said, and almost unbelievably swift.

"Someone had the presence of mind to turn on the fire alarm," Webb recounted. "I am sure this saved a great many lives. But many families had no warning at all."

Paul Alexander and his son spent five hours in a tree after watching his home swirl away down the stream.

"My Martin and the children and my wife were aroused by the roar of the water. I awoke the children, but we did not even have time to put on their clothes," he said.

"When I first woke up, I heard the noise of it, and when I opened the door, water rushed into the house."

"I carried the children out into the yard, and put them in trees."

They stayed there until 5 a. m. when the water went down. The children's ages were three, four and six.

Vernon Jordan, who lives 250 yards from the creek, said he was awakened by the siren, and that water was waist deep before he and his wife could leave their house. Jesse Walls went back to his water rose neck high around him in a few minutes. He swam to a tree and waited for daylight.

Red Cross chapters at Abilene and Breckenridge sent emergency relief and rescue units, with motorbats and outboard motors, doctors and nurses, after an appeal was sent out about 4 a. m.

The homeless were being housed in the Presbyterian church and at the city hall.

Cyprus Seen As Next Goal Of The Axis

Aid Attacks On Isle Reported; Allies Advance In Syria

CAIRO, Egypt, June 10. (AP)—Free French headquarters announced tonight its forces in Syria were near Damascus, capital of the mandate, and other French sources here said they were expected to enter the city tonight or early tomorrow.

By the Associated Press

Reports that German and Italian warplanes have directed violent, continuous assaults on the island of Cyprus for the past 48 hours indicated today that the axis may be preparing a "second Crete" invasion of the British-fortified stronghold, 70 miles off the coast of Syria.

The reports, from the German-controlled Jeleoy station of Norway, said Nicosia, Cyprus capital, and the naval port of Famagusta were main objectives of the attack.

London military circles have repeatedly forecast that Cyprus would be the next target of Adolf Hitler's aerial invaders in the wake of the 12-day conquest of Crete.

The third largest island in the Mediterranean, Cyprus has been a British crown colony since 1914. Its seizure by the axis would provide another stepping-stone to the Middle East and a closer base for aerial attacks on the Suez canal.

Advancing from three directions, British and Free French troops threatened the capital cities of Damascus, Syria, and Beirut, Lebanon, with swift capture in the 3-day-old invasion of France's Middle East colonies.

British military circles said the allies were less than 10 miles from Damascus and were "advancing smoothly."

Vichy French defenders of the colonies were pictured by the British as offering only "token resistance," apparently reluctant to open fire on their fellow countrymen and former comrades-in-arms.

Reports reaching Vichy, however, argued troubles ahead for one of the three allied columns, striking from British-mandated Trans-Jordan. It was said the shiek of the Druses, fanatic warrior tribe in the Jebel Ed Drus mountains south of Damascus, had proclaimed loyalty to the French government of Marshal Philippe Petain.

Vichy quarters insisted their defense forces in Syria and Lebanon were still holding out all along the line.

Gainesville Faces Threat Of Flood

GAINESVILLE, June 10. (AP)—A screaming fire siren today warned lowland residents to flee to higher ground as a six-inch rain sent the Elm Fork of the Trinity river on a booming rise.

City health officers warned all residents to draw an ample supply of drinking water from their taps, and to boil all water as a precaution, after one city well was covered by the surface flood.

U. S. highway 77 south of Gainesville was under water. All traffic was halted.

Firemen and city officers evacuated 20 families from the Elm Fork bottom. Approximately 25 houses were surrounded by water, which continued rising rapidly.

Heavy rains continued elsewhere in Texas.

The Red river north of Denison was at 23 feet, one foot short of the highest reading since the record flood of 1908. It was still rising.

Three bents of a temporary trestle at the site of the high Red river dam, being replaced after the washout in May, were swept away last night. The dam project otherwise was not damaged. A levee was thrown up Sunday to protect the embankment from high water. Rainfall at Denison was 2.80 inches.

A five-inch rain at Olney in Northwest Texas flooded downtown streets last night. Sherman, in North Texas had a 3.05 overnight total, and Dallas was swept by a heavy thundershower.

Crash Kills One At Flood Scene

ABILENE, June 10. (AP)—A highway crash near Albany early this morning, directly attributable to the flood there, claimed one life and left another person injured.

Marvin D. Fincher, 34, Abilene, died at 7:40 a. m. in a hospital here, two hours after having been admitted.

The injured person was Mrs. Evelyn Caffey, Albany, who was taken to the Stamford hospital. Mrs. Caffey was believed to have suffered internal injuries.

Their injuries were suffered when Fincher's automobile rammed the back of a truck, which had been stopped when the bridge at the southwest outskirts of Albany was blocked.

Battle In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, June 10. (AP)—Dispatches from Masatlan in Sinaloa state reported today that at least two persons were killed and four were wounded during a gun battle in the village of Walama between two detachments of the army's Agrarian reserves.

Lost Bomber Is Located

SALT LAKE CITY, June 10. (AP)—Army flyers today located a missing army bomber from the air but were able to discern "no visible sign of personnel."

The ship, the flere reported to the Fort Douglas base, appeared not badly broken up. It lay, as Capt. Eddie Brooks, United Airlines pilot, had described it earlier in the day, on the top of a knoll near the highway between Evanston and Lyman, Wyo.

Ground crews, which have been operating in the vicinity since early yesterday, were guided to the scene by radio from the ship.

Buff Hurler Takes 11th Straight Win

Exporters Sweep Cats In Doubleheader, Reba Drop One To Sports

By The Associated Press

Another baseball game didn't mean much to the Houston Buffs, who live in a little world of their own far above the other Texas league teams, but it meant a lot to young Freddy Martin, crack Buff hurler.

A loss meant the snapping of Martin's long string of consecutive victories—so Houston snatched a last-minute decision from the Tulsa Oilers at Houston last night and gave Freddy his 11th straight win.

The Exporters, in the only afternoon schedule, swept a doubleheader with Fort Worth at Beaumont, 2-0 and 1-0; the Oklahoma City Indians, visiting the Missions at San Antonio, won 3-2, and the Dallas Rebels, playing at Shreveport, dropped one to the Sports, 6 to 5.

Capitalizing on good mound work, the Exporters made a clean sweep of their series with Dallas. Les Mueller got credit for the first shutout and Clarence Gann was the successful pitcher in the second.

The Indians split their series with the Missions by virtue of last night's win. Left Fielder Donaldson got a circuit blow in the eighth with two out to drive home Ted Cieslak before him for the tally that gave Oklahoma City the game.

The Sports owed their triumph to Cecil Trent, who hit a homer with the bases full in the second.

For the first two stanzas the tussle was a nip and tuck affair, but in the third R. Asbury got on base on a stroll and was advanced by means of additional free passes.

Heuval and Hart landed on base on hits and wound up their tour around the stretch, scoring two runs for the Oilers in the fourth.

In the fifth round, Red Newton of the Tiremen, lined out a homer with nose on to give the losers their lone tally. Oiler Hart grabbed a blast in the sixth to add to the team's final count.

Bombers Bopped Twice In Fracas With Borger Mon.

Gassers Trim 2 Games Off B'Spring Lead

BORGER, June 10.—Rebounding from a disastrous road trip, the Borger Gassers jolted the league-leading Big Spring Bombers twice here yesterday as they took the afternoon game of the twin bill, 5 to 3, and raved back to take the nightcap, 4 to 2. The double victory by the Gassers out the Bombers' lead to four games.

Although they outbit the Bombers in both tilts, the Gassers had to come from behind both times to overcome smart ball playing by the invaders.

Tonight the Bomber-Gasser fracas is resumed, closing out at the end of the joust. Tomorrow the Bomber aggregation moves into Pampa for a three-day engagement.

Willard Ramedell was rapped for ten hits by the Gassers for six runs in six innings, giving up the slot to Buck Schulze in the seventh.

In the nightcap, George Boal went the route, allowing nine hits.

Bill Moore, son of the famed Willy Moore, made his first appearance with the Gassers as a relief hurler in the initial game and received credit for the victory.

Bill "Lefty" Garland, the league's leading hurler, marked up the nightcap with a nifty three-hit, 15-strikeout performance. Stuart Williams and Hugh Willingham aided his cause with some good hitting. Williams getting four for four in the afternoons and stole home once, while Willingham plastered one over the leftfield fence.

Reds Put On Appearance Of Winning Club

Sudden Lucky Surge Brings Cincy Near Top Of Nat'l Loop

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Reds are beginning to win like champions, even if they don't always look like baseball's kings.

Taken game by game during the past couple of weeks the Reds have been the beneficiaries of more than a half game of third place in the National League.

That is fast traveling which can't be brushed aside simply by saying they have been getting the breaks.

The Reds have been in a batting slump all season. For the first six innings yesterday Hugh Casey of the Brooklyn Dodgers held them to one hit. Then in the last three innings they made nine hits, including a home run, four doubles and a triple, coming off with a 9-7 victory and making the Dodgers yield the circuit lead to the St. Louis Cardinals who trounced the New York Giants, 5-2.

The Cardinals' conquest was a double victory for Giants because it was achieved on the four-hit hurrying of Harry Gumbert, whom Bill Terry traded to St. Louis last month for Fielder Bill McGehee, along with cash and Paul Dean. Since then Gumbert has won five games for the Red Birds and McGehee hasn't triumphed once for New York.

One of the fine pitching performances of the day was a six-hitter by Rookie Alton Wilks of the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-0.

The Chicago Cubs set off a 21-hit fireworks display at Boston to beat the Braves, 13-6, and present 42-year-old Charley Root the 17th victory of his career.

Yesterday was an open date for all American league clubs.

ORENO HAS HIS DAY AT NIGHT
NEW YORK, (AP)—When the lights come on for night games at Polo Grounds Joe Orenzo's face lights up right with them.

The reason: Joe is usually a better slugger at night than in the daytime. The new Giant star was the Cards' best in night hitting last year and in his first game in the dark at the Polo Grounds belted a homer and a single.

Veteranarians To Get Deferment
AUSTIN, June 10 (AP)—The veterinarian plays an important role in national defense, in the opinion of General J. Watt Page, state selective service director, who has urged local draft boards to grant deferments to veterinary doctors and students.

Quoting a recent report of the Office of Production Management at Washington, Page said that a national shortage of veterinarians menaced the success of the defense program.

The veterinarian primarily is a guardian of our food supply and an even more necessary man to the nation than the horse doctor of the pre-automobile period," he declared. "The number of practicing veterinarians in the nation has been practically static for ten years and graduates of veterinary schools have been barely sufficient to offset deaths and retirement."

Mel Ott Breaks Record For Breaking Records

NEW YORK, (AP)—Just about every time Mel Ott moves he sets a new record.

The New York Giant star sets a new National league all-time homer record every time he hits one, gets a new mark in the books every time he gets a base on balls, and will set a new lifetime record if he figures in 150 games this season. Last year he became the first player in the league history to play 150 games in 6 different seasons.

State Government Expense Rises $24,000,000 Yearly

AUSTIN, June 10 (AP)—The cost of Texas state government appears due to skyrocket at least $24,000,000 next year.

Conference committees labors on major appropriation bills nearing an end, the legislature today faced the prospect of boosting regular governmental expenditures approximately $8,000,000 annually.

On top of this will come another $16,000,000—plus for the recently-expanded social security program. A multi-tyred tax bill provided more than $11,000,000 a year additional for old age pensions, $8,000,000 or more for teachers retirement and nearly $2,000,000 for aid to the blind and aid to dependent children.

Among big boosts were more than $2,500,000 a year for higher education, a similar amount for government department expansions, approximately $2,000,000 additional for rural school aid and lesser increases for vocational education aid and eleemosynary institutions, several of which will be expanded.

The cost of state government last year was $168,000,000 and will be higher on conclusion of the current fiscal year, Aug. 31. With the listed increases, it was possible the total cost would reach the $200,000,000 mark during the 1941-42 period.

Conference committees yesterday completed work on the higher educational and department appropriation bills with $22,706,069 the biennial allotment for colleges as compared to $17,323,478 currently and $30,270,734 assigned to departments, bureaus and commissions as compared to $28,087,866.

Enrollment at state colleges shot up 5,000 to a total of nearly 45,000 during the last year.

In the departmental bill appeared such items as $1,800,000 for purchase of the Big Bend State Park in West Texas, $423,000 for repairs to the capitol, $800,000 for national guard armories, nearly $2,000,000 for WPA intake and $834,000 to enforce the new driver's license law.

Other appropriation bills and comparisons with allocations for the present biennium: eleemosynary $15,988,000 and $14,373,770; judiciary $4,906,198 and $4,843,378; rural aid $17,700,000 (estimated) and $13,651,654; vocational education $2,400,000 (estimated) and $1,954,654.

Among other legislative action was introduction and passage to third reading in the senate of a bill authorizing the death penalty for saboteurs.

A measure which would prohibit county clerks from issuing marriage licenses between the hours of 6 p. m. to 8 a. m. was introduced in the upper legislative chamber. Senator Kyle Vick of Waco, author, asserted the law would keep young couples from rushing into matrimony without due "reflection and meditation."

Will O'Daniel Pick Collins For Governor?

Herald Austin Bureau

AUSTIN, June 9—Has Governor W. Lee O'Daniel already picked his successor as governor if he goes to the United States senate? Is Hal Collins of Mineral Wells the O'Daniel heir apparent?

This question was being asked many times in capitol circles today following the O'Daniel opening at Waco where O'Daniel introduced Collins to the crowd as his great and good friend.

It was recalled that the Collins brothers—Hal and Carr—were among the first original O'Daniel supporters in 1938, and that Hal was chosen by O'Daniel to keynote the democratic state convention in 1940.

When the senate race started, Hal Collins came to Austin and conferred with O'Daniel. He then announced and started a speaking tour. But when O'Daniel threw his hat into the ring, Collins quickly withdrew and pledged his full support to the Hillbilly Hero.

Now, apparently, O'Daniel is pointing Collins out as his good friend, thus giving more substance to rumors which for sometime had said that Collins withdrew with the understanding that he would get the O'Daniel support for governor in 1942.

If O'Daniel should be elected to the senate, Coke Stevenson would become governor and would seek a second term in 1942. It is a safe bet that O'Daniel would not give him the blessing.

The only other strong potential candidate for governor is Attorney General Gerald Mann, and O'Daniel would not be cordial with Mann after the latter opposed him for the United States senate.

Does that leave Hal Collins as the O'Daniel candidate for the governorship in 1942?

High among the favorites was Mrs. E. E. Wohlfahrt of Houston, former champion and runnerup last year, who carded a 39-43 over the windy Herman Park course for medal honors yesterday.

She was one of 101 entrants who hoped to take the championship won by Mrs. Guy (Bud) La Roe of Ferris at Harlingen last summer.

Mrs. La Roe as defending champion did not have to qualify.

Tied for second place in medal competition were Mrs. C. W. Robertson, Jr., of Terrell, and Mrs. F. C. Horn of Houston, who put together 86.

Southern Pacific Told To Give Up Cargo Vessels

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP) — The maritime commission has directed the Southern Pacific company to deliver its entire fleet of 16 cargo vessels "for national defense purposes."

The vessels, the commission said today in announcing the order, are being acquired pursuant to President Roosevelt's order calling for a 2,000,000-ton shipping pool to be used to aid nations whose defense he deems vital to the United States.

The cargo vessels owned by the Southern Pacific company formerly were operated as the Morgan line in coastwise service from New York and Baltimore to Galveston and Houston. The deadweight tonnage of each:

El Almirante, 7,325; El Capitán, 7,325; El Coston, 7,740; El Estero, 5,970; El Galeo, 5,250; El Lago, 5,250; El Mundo, 6,550; El Occidente, 6,950; El Oceano, 7,900; and El Oriente, 6,550.

There are about 1,500 kinds of birds in North America, north of Mexico.

Safety-Fraud Shop Disrupted

OGDEN, Utah — Workers in Southern Pacific railroad shops here were congratulated on completing two years, or 1,800,000 man-hours, of work without a reportable accident. Midway in a shop celebration, safety council chairman was entered, criticized shopmen for laxity in automobile driving and demanded "closer cooperation" in traffic safety measures.

Below-the-elbow sleeves and a low neckline style formula for summer evenings. Here fine Swiss cloche organza in a multicolor floral print is softly draped at the bodice, cut to sweeping skirt lines, with fullness concentrated at the back. Designed by Herbert Sondheim.

To Dress Or Not To Dress?-- In Summer It's No Question

It's About Time... BY AMY PORTER AP Fashion Editor

When you have a choice between dressing and not dressing of a summer evening, we hope you're woman enough to choose to dress. Long, flowing dresses belong to summertime, and this summer they're particularly tempting. There's a dress for every degree of formality, for every mood. There are sweet ones at $5, and magnificent daisies at as much as you want to pay.

Country-look and hostess frocks are styled so you can't possibly feel too dressed up in them, even if the men wear business suits—ginghams made almost like sports frocks, except that their long skirts lend enchantment; dotted sweaters and lawns with modest sleeves and immodest necklines, frocks of the type we used to call drudl, and now call "foreign-look dresses."

Charm Comes Ahead Of Style Such dresses you buy for their gentle summery charm without much concern about style.

But high style is abundantly available in more formal evening wear. The tapering look is making headway in long-sleeved dinner dresses. Huge sleeves, pleated or puffed, and a bloused top make the narrow skirt look narrower.

Slits to the knees are needed for walking room. This is the slim silhouette you hear talk of, but seldom saw, last winter. It is growing in importance and by next fall probably will be accepted by everyone.

Elaborate colors in rich fabrics will be seen here and there on summer evenings. A satin dress, for example, with horizontal stripes in turquoise blue and tulip red, and worn with long pale blue gloves. Equally striking are black and white gowns — white mouseline banded in black lace, worn with black lace mitts extending above the elbow.

Another Advance, Notice Tiered dresses, again prophetic of fall style, are increasingly popular. They may have three or four tiers, or only a peplum. You'll see them in striped rayon, fancy in white lace, black lace, tiny floral prints.

A once-in-awhile style that may appeal to you — it certainly appeals to men — is ballet slippers with evening frocks. Have them dyed to match your pastels or to contrast sharply with white. You'll feel light and graceful, you'll look all-out feminine.

Man Honored On 72nd Birthday A picnic dinner in the city park Sunday honored J. C. Murdeck on his 72nd birthday. Friends, children, grandchildren and two great-grandchildren were present. They included:

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Murdeck, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Murdeck, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Murdeck, all of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Cloya Murdeck and children, Joyce and Carroll Ray of Mission; Hardy Murdeck of Seagraves; Marvin Murdeck of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Orla Murdeck and son, Joe Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Murdeck and son, Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Murdeck and son, Kenneth, Ray, Big Springs; Mrs. Buster Richardson and son, Huston, of Cross Plains; Charles Barr of Fort Worth; George Reese and Gloria of Seagraves; Fred Landey of Mission.

Mrs. Ogden Hostess To Members of S. S. Class On Monday

The Home Mothers Sunday school class of the First Christian church met in party session Monday afternoon with Mrs. R. W. Ogden on Scenic Mount. Members assembled at 10 o'clock to see the Red Cross. In a brief business meeting, Mrs. O. A. Woodcock was elected treasurer to replace Mrs. J. T. Winter who has moved to Abilene. Rose Eads was revealed and members drew new names for the next three months.

A covered dish luncheon was enjoyed by the following: Mrs. Olga Glenn, Mrs. T. E. Bayou, Mrs. W. M. Taylor, Mrs. E. L. E. King, Mrs. J. H. Barrett, Mrs. George W. Hill, Mrs. F. C. Robinson, Mrs. L. G. Post, Mrs. J. G. Colston, Mrs. A. M. Furrer, Mrs. R. J. Michael and Mrs. Harry Lee.

Mrs. Satterwhite Is Hostess To Bridge Club On Monday Evening

Mrs. Robert Satterwhite entertained the Hill Kars Club Monday evening in her home. A profusion of mixed garden flowers decorated the rooms, colors of which were reflected in the refreshment plates.

Mrs. Roy Tidwell received high score award and Mrs. Glenn Atherton, second high, while Mrs. Johnny Ray Dillard binged. Others playing were Mrs. Arthur Winslow, Mrs. Elvis McCrary, Mrs. Ollie Anderson, Mrs. Watson Hammond, and Mrs. Chick Feindexter. Mrs. Tidwell will be next hostess.

Deadline On Cotton Stamp Program Near

COLLEGE STATION, June 10 — June 14 is the last day on which Texas cotton farmers planning to earn cotton order stamps can sign their intention - to - participate forms.

B. F. Vance, state AAA administrative officer in charge, points out that producers failing to sign will not be eligible to earn cotton stamps or to earn food production and storage payments under the AAA program, he said.

The supplementary cotton program, a joint effort of three agencies of the United States department of agriculture—the Texas A. and M. College extension service, the Surplus Marketing Administration, and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration—is designed to encourage voluntary reduction in the acreage planted to cotton in 1941 by payment of cotton stamps to farms on which such reduction is made.

The stamps can be exchanged for finished cotton goods. Under the supplementary program, farmers on those farms qualifying for cotton stamps, can each earn an additional $3 payment for meeting specified food production and storage practices.

No extension of the closing date will be made, Vance said, since, by that time, most of the cotton in Texas will have been planted.

Baptist Group Chooses New Choir Leaders

Choir members of the East Fourth Street Baptist church met recently for a practice and re-organization meeting, electing Eolles Lloyd, president, and Roy Lee Williams, new choir leader.

Other officers will be: George Holden, vice president; Rev. R. E. Dunham, second vice president, and Mrs. J. M. Chapman, secretary. Group captains were indicated as follows: Miss Josephine Mittel, soprano; Miss Wanda Don Reese, alto; Gordon Rimmer, tenor; W. D. Thompson, bass. Mrs. Roy Lee Williams was chosen as accompanist.

Practices will be held on Tuesday evenings, beginning this week, when rehearsals will begin for an approaching revival.

Woman's Christian Service Groups Meet Monday For Study And Work Sessions

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church met in group sessions Monday afternoon for the regular program of study.

Group 1 met with Mrs. Lee Warren Monday, with Mrs. Tom Slaughter in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Russell Manion gave the devotional and Mrs. O. B. Bryan offered a prayer. Refreshments were served after a general business session.

Those present were Mrs. Manion, Mrs. Garner McAdams, Mrs. Buddy Maddux, Mrs. J. B. Sloan, Mrs. G. E. Fleeman, Mrs. M. L. Richards, Mrs. Lee Warren, Mrs. J. F. Eblen, Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Slaughter.

Group 2 met with Mrs. W. L. Meier when Mrs. H. M. Rowe gave the devotional and the hostess the closing prayer. Sewing for the Red Cross replaced the regular study hour. During a brief business meeting it was decided that the group meet at 9:30 o'clock each Monday morning to continue the Red Cross sewing work, stressing the need that all members attend these morning meetings.

Those present, were Mrs. V. H. Fiewellen, Mrs. H. N. Robinson, Mrs. Ennon Lovelady, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. J. A. Myers, Mrs. Bernard Lamun, Mrs. Arthur Woodall, Mrs. J. D. O'Barr, Mrs. N. W. McCleskey, Mrs. T. A. Pharr and Mrs. Jake Blashop.

Circle 4 met in the home of Mrs. Royce Satterwhite. Mrs. Joe Birdwell gave the devotional and presided over the business meeting. Knitting and sewing for the Red Cross was the work of the afternoon.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the session to Mrs. D. C. Sadler, Mrs. R. O. Beadles, Mrs. Dave Dunson, Mrs. Edmond Fink, Mrs. Birdwell, and Miss Allene Brooks of Mills, Texas, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Fink.

The Christian Service Guild met Monday evening in the church.

RED CROSS TO MEET Regular monthly board meeting of the Howard-Glasscock Red Cross chapter board has been scheduled for 7:30 p. m. today in the chamber of commerce office. Officials of the chapter were anxious to have all board members attend.

Warning to Mothers! WORMS CAN CAUSE TROUBLE

Learn the truth! Anybody, anywhere, can have roundworms. And they can cause great distress inside your child without your even knowing what it is.

Many pale, nervous, underweight children have roundworms. Other innocent-looking warning signs are uneasy stomach, fidgeting, itchy seat, nose-picking.

Don't take chances with roundworms! Get Jay's Vermifuge today! It is America's best known proprietary worm medicine—used by millions, for over a century. Jay's expels stubborn roundworms, yet acts gently. If there are no worms, it works just as a mild laxative. Inside each Jar's Vermifuge

Representative May Attempt To Invalidate Old Statute Forming Legislative Districts

(Herald Austin Bureau)
AUSTIN, June 9—A last-ditch fight over the Texas legislature's failure to redistrict the state for the election of senators and representatives was forecast today in three developments.

The developments were:

1. The senate committee again postponed action on the house bill setting up new representative districts.

2. Rep. Dewitt Kinard of Port Arthur, author of the representative redistricting bill, asked Attorney General Gerald Mann for an opinion on the question of whether the present redistricting law, enacted in 1921, is still valid.

3. Kinard revealed that if the present legislature does not carry out its constitutionally-imposed duty of redistricting, he will file suit to invalidate the present redistricting law.

The Texas constitution says that the legislature shall set up new senatorial and representative districts after each federal census, but the last such redistricting was in 1921.

Kinard contends that the 1921 law expired when the 1921 legislature failed to redistrict, and that all members henceforth must run for office from the state at large.

In other words, instead of having 31 senators, each elected from a district, the 31 senators would have to campaign over the entire state. He points out that the cities and West Texas would be the chief gainers under a new redistricting law, while East and Central Texas would lose legislative strength. But the failure to redistrict amounts almost to a disfranchisement of voters in the under-represented areas, he says, and certainly it constitutes taxation without representation.

The prospective court fight brought back to mind a similar fight in 1922 when the legislature, by accident, failed to place Swisher county in any legislative district.

John T. Smith of Austin claimed that this invalidated the entire redistricting act, and that since the previous act expired automatically when the 1920 census was issued, all candidates had to run from the state at large. He asked for a writ of mandamus to force the Travis county chairman to place his name on the ticket as representative at large.

The case, certified to the Texas supreme court by the Austin court of civil appeals, was featured by distinguished counsel, Dr. George C. Butts, one-time republican gubernatorial nominee and then dean of the University of Texas law school, and Ira P. Hildebrand, later to become dean of the university law school, represented Smith, while Attorney General W. A. Keeling and his assistant Bruce Bryant represented the state.

The court held that by an examination of all the circumstances it could determine that the legislature intended to put Swisher county into the 130th district, so it was placed there. But the supreme court studiously sidestepped the question of whether the 1921 redistricting act had already expired, and did not answer the question of what would have happened if the entire 1921 act had been declared unconstitutional.

Kinard realizes it is a close question, but he feels that since the legislature has refused to perform its constitutional duty of redistricting, the courts may offer the relief desired by forcing all representatives and senators to run for office from the state at large. That, he thinks, would result in a special session of the legislature at which a redistricting bill would be quickly passed, for no legislator has any desire to run for office from the state at large.

AWHOY!—Harry Powell, British sailor, went in for some land-lubber activity, dancing with Greek-clad Helen Zerov in New York's Madison Square Garden when that famous sports arena became a huge dance hall for a war relief benefit.

City Second In Sales Of Eats, Drinks

Contributing to Big Spring's leadership of all Texas towns of 10,000 to 20,000 population in retail sales as reported by the government census was a high proportion of sales by cafes, restaurants and other eating and drinking places.

Petitions Ask State To Keep Hospital Heads

AUSTIN, June 10 (AP)—A house committee investigating eleemosynary institutions is against circulation of petitions among employees of several of 10 institutions concerning which the committee recommended the superintendents not be re-employed.

Rep. M. A. (Bill) Bundy of Wichita Falls, committee chairman, disclosed last night the group had reports petitions asking that the superintendents not be discharged were being circulated.

"Employees are being asked to sign them under threat of getting fired if they refuse," Bundy declared. "That sort of thing doesn't set right with the committee. There is nothing we can do about it right now but the time will come when we can."

The chairman said the board of control had not yet answered the committee's letter asking that contracts not be renewed with the superintendents of Abilene state hospital, Austin hospital, Big Spring hospital, Texas hospital, San Antonio hospital, Galveston state school, Odessa reformatory, Corsicana orphan home, Austin state school and the school's farm colony.

Scouts Want To Earn Camp Fees

Several Big Spring Boy Scouts desire to obtain work in order to finance summer camping.

Fred Mitchell, scoutmaster of troop 1, has issued a request for work for Scout boys in his troop, and says several others in other troops want to earn camping expenses.

The camp is scheduled July 12, so the boys have considerable time to accumulate money. Each will need about $20.

Anyone who has an odd job a boy can do may help such a Scout to come by calling Mitchell at 266.

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD

It happens regularly in the telephone company. Some boy who grew up in your neighborhood moves into a superintendent's or other executive's chair somewhere in the Bell System.

His big asset is his experience—his "know how"—often gained right in your home town.

Because Bell department heads and operating chiefs among them have that "know how," they tackle today's telephone emergency, or tomorrow's telephone growth, with a direct knowledge of your town and your problems. They play a big part in our effort to give you good neighborhood service at rates that almost everyone can afford—and good nation-wide service as you need it.

President To Take Big Step Before Long

By ALBIO and KINTNER—
WASHINGTON, June 10.—The climate of the president's mind is as important in these times. The decisive hour of the war is approaching with relentless speed.

The report is that when urged to act, the president always reverts to the case of his former chief, Woodrow Wilson. President Wilson, he points out, was far better placed when he led the nation into the first world war.

A succession of incidents, in which American lives were taken and American property was lost, had inflamed public opinion over many months.

The president's reasoning is undoubtedly correct. The only trouble with it is the lack of relation to the war situation. Those of his advisers who have enough essential guts to argue with the president have answered his argument very simply.

They have agreed that the risks of immediate action are very great. Although it seems certain that Germany can be beaten by Britain and the united States, fighting in full partnership, dependable predictions of the future are impossible.

Furthermore, although it also seems probable that determined action by the president would pull the country together, no one can be positive that serious national disunion would not ensue.

On the other hand, the risks have pointed out that the risks of further delay are infinitely greater than the risks of action. The decisive hour is at hand. If the hour is allowed to pass, Germany will win the war, and mastery of the world. In a Nazi-dominated world, the United States will be subjected to political and economic pressures that cannot be withstood.

The destruction of the securities and liberties for which this nation stands, the subversion of our system of government, and perhaps even the loss of our independence, will be the inevitable results.

The president agrees that these are the alternatives, but will cling to the hope that his problem will be solved for him, by the incident he so much desires. It would be more difficult to see why he does so, if there were more men having regular access to him with the essential guts to bring the alternatives rudely and regularly to his attention.

Unfortunately, while still perceiving many of the needless routine tasks that exhaust him, the president no longer discusses general policy with many members of his administration. He sees exceptionally few people except on specific business, and when he does see such officials as Secretary of State Cordell Hull or Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, he confers on the business in hand.

And while Harry L. Hopkins and the president's one or two other familiars have a proper sense of the terrible urgency of these days, they are not the sort to press their chief gently.

Consequently while convinced of the need for action, the president has not acted. Before he acts, according to one of those who know him best and longest, he has first to make up his mind on the facts, and then "To wake up father somewhere beyond in the Bekkan Bula Mountains. An enemy could have signed his name, and there were enemies, she knew. Shya-a Nago was rumored to be the greatest archaeological treasure of the centuries—could it be found and claimed?

Anne fastened the collar of her red cambric coat against the chill spring air and stood there trembling a little. What if nobody came to meet her? It was then she heard the rustling in the sand, and turning, saw a tall, dark figure pass by the tomb as she spied him, and then continue across the space between them.

He was a young man, smooth-shaven, brown-faced, with the bold hawk-like features of an Arab. He wore black boots, a snug, military-cut overcoat and a high, lambkin cap set at a jaunty angle. And there was a very strange look in his sharp grey eyes as he kept them fastened upon her. She stood rooted to the spot.

"But he looks like a half-crazed hermit-dressed like that," she thought. "He must be a Russian." She thought he was lifting a hand to his cap in salute when suddenly he sprang at her, caught her about the waist, lifted her to one of the steamer trunks. Then he was grinding something in the sand with the heel of his boot.

"Desert viper," he said in English. "You shouldn't be wearing low shoes in a place like this." He spoke without an accent.

"I-I supposed there would be a village," she heard herself replying in a faint voice. He gave her a sharp look. "What are you doing here alone?" She had hoped for a moment that he had been sent to meet her.

"I'm not alone," she replied guardedly. "I have native friends about. Nagara tribesmen." She couldn't tell if he believed her or not.

"Nagara tribesmen here? Then they've come a long way from their native hills." He picked up the little snake by the tail and tossed it away. "Do you mind if I stay till they appear?" "Who—who are you?" she asked.

"I'm a fellow-wanderer. Have you a pair of walking boots in your luggage?" She pointed dutifully to a black case. He lifted another box and placed it on and then drew the designated case to him. "Give me the key."

Anne sat down quickly and fumbled in her purse. "I-I guess you saved my life," she stammered. "More or less." He inserted the key in the lock and then looked up at her, a smile about his eyes and mouth. The mouth was sensitive but a firm chin belated it.

"I hope you appreciate deeply what I have done for you." "I-I do, naturally." "And feel properly grateful and indebted to me."

"Of—of course," she said. "Thank you very much. I am grateful." She felt dazed. The whole thing was unreal. It was an illusion this creepy place, was laid upon her and would snatch away again.

"I'm glad to hear you say it," he declared. "That's not always the way people here in the Orient feel about having their lives saved." He lifted the case for her to open and make her selection. His actions and hers seemed real enough.

He laid the case aside waiting for her to remove her overcoat and pack them. He watched critically while she laced the boots snugly about her ankles. "Give those bows an extra knot," he advised. He must be expecting her to travel somewhere. Maybe he had been sent to meet her. He acted dictatorial enough.

one morning with the feeling inside himself that he wants to do the job. He passed the first stage long ago. In the last week, Ambassador John G. Winant returned from London to spur the president on, and several other persons with great influence over him have had the opportunity to echo Winant's arguments.

Perhaps certain minor but spectacular measures will have been taken before these words are printed. And if Winant is really successful, before long the morning will at last come when the president wakes up with the needed "feeling inside himself" to make a complete commitment.

prayed more than President Roosevelt that the spectacle of defencemaking strikes could be replaced by sensible, orderly negotiations; or that once called, they could be quickly and peacefully settled with minimum loss of production.

But the president, more familiar with facts than any other person in the nation, has proclaimed a national emergency. It followed that if an emergency did exist, he could not afford to suffer loss of vital production which would imperil our defense, however we conceive it.

Having taken his course with profound consciousness of his responsibility, the president could not afford to turn back and still expect to command confidence among the people he asked for unity. He had no honorable choice but to make good his words.

The vast majority of Americans will applaud this action, not because it represented a resort to force in opening a plant, but because it demonstrates clearly the president's sincerity about no stoppage of production in this hour of emergency.

There is a feeling that in many of the strikes we have witnessed just at a time when conditions have become most critical, a minority, controlling the majority, was behind the move. Some have raised doubts about the stripe of patriotism worn by a few of these leaders. If this be true, then perhaps the president's action will be a message to others than the citizens of this land. Indeed, it may be more of a notice.

The government means business. Surely capital and labor can see this now. Surely, if they each have the love of country above any that of benefit or gains they can now get together on some common ground and talk these things out while work goes on at full blast to make sure the nation remains safe for both capital and labor.

Teeth Trouble Double KEARNEY, Neb. — Three steps from the dentist's door, Robert Drummy, 15, State Industrial school inmate, decided to postpone the extraction of an aching tooth.

The youth hid in a machine shed until the proper time to return to the dormitory. He misjudged the "proper time" and an alarm was issued, with Drummy being sought as an escapee.

Fingerprints With Iodine BUTTE, Mont. — The federal bureau of investigation has recognized a simplified fingerprinting process developed by Patrolman Molthen, identification officer for the Butte police department.

Molthen's method, which he developed from iodine printing, was said to be much simpler and effective than ordinarily-used methods.

"Look at that tree by the tomb," she said. The tree was thickening in such a way that the tree appeared to come and go in a most disconcerting fashion though there was no direct evidence of a breeze. She decided sensibly it must be something about the air currents around the monument and between the hillocks.

"The little warped poplar?" he asked. She nodded. "Do you think it is possible for a tree to be mentally deranged?" He didn't start and stare at her as she had half expected. Instead he replied after a thoughtful moment. "To think that I should meet a girl like you in a place like this."

"You believe I'm goofy too." The dust in the air was moving now and the sands whispered along the ground, but he seemed undisturbed. "If you're a goof, then so am I, and we are goofs together, he declared. The wall in the dunes above had changed to a deep-toned roar. "Are you a hermit?" she asked.

"Well, hardly," he chuckled. "There seem to be gaps in your education." "Your friends, the Nagaras, say," he went on after a moment. "That life at the prick of a sacred dagger which lets us imagine we're born and we died, when in truth we remain immortal beings."

Her eyes were growing larger and larger. "I wish they'd come," she half moaned. "I'm glad I came," he declared, his voice bland as cream. "Here you sit like a queen on a throne and I'm first to pay you homage. Do you get the picture?"

She got it but she couldn't quite believe it. That she, Anne Willard should be crouching here at dusk on a steamer trunk in the Kalmar desert, while a bold-eyed stranger in a lambskin cap talked poetry to her in the language of homes.

Suddenly, a little chirping, like that of a startled bird, began down by the monument. Anne knew very well there were no birds about the place, and involuntarily reached out a frightened hand. He clasped it and rose abruptly.

"Au revoir," he said in a low voice. "Here come your native friends," and he disappeared in the murky atmosphere.

Anne sat there like a little roe deer, frozen at the approach of a hunter. It seemed a long time before two grey forms loomed up in the direction of the monument. They carried some kind of desert hurricane lanterns made from horns, and squatted down in front of her without speaking.

Man About Manhattan—Boys' Clubs In New York Keep Youngsters Out Of Trouble

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—Sidney Kingsley called them Dead End Kids, and Jack London knew them as "Children of the Abyss." They are, actually, underprivileged children of the New York slum areas, and one of the great boons to their lot in recent years has been the finely organized Boys Clubs of New York.

There are some 18 of these clubs. The only one I am familiar with is the Kip's Bay Boys Club at 301 East 52nd street, which utilizes seven floors for the welfare of more than 2,000 kids.

The idea of these clubs is to substitute a healthful environment for that of the street. There is a fine swimming pool and it is open practically all of the time. "That keeps them out of the East River," explains G. Dana Younger, managing director of the club. "If the pool wasn't open, they would spend half their time in the river. So we keep it open."

"Before they go in, they have to scrub themselves clean. Even if they weren't dirty, they would still have to do this. If you make a boy scrub himself thoroughly every day, you teach him the habit of cleanliness. It's something he seldom forgets. That is important."

The Kip's Bay Boys Club has three gymnasiums (one open air); it has motion pictures, public speaking classes, a library. The boys play tennis, checkers, hockey on roller skates. They have a fine basketball team and annually play Columbia, City College, NYU, and other schools.

Once each week there are parties to which the older boys bring their girls. There are woodwork rooms, manual training courses. . . a machine shop. "Some of our boys," Mr. Younger tells you proudly, "have become contractors, engineers, even instructors in universities. Here's a case in point. . . We argued with one boy's father for weeks to permit him to go to a university. . . His father worked in a restaurant. . . Finally, he consented. . . Today that boy is a fine engineer. . . If he hadn't gone to school, he would have been drifting at odd jobs today."

Another Kip's Bay boy is an aerial photographer in the army, stationed at Denver. . . When he was a member of the club he became interested in photography. . . He was encouraged to stick at it. . . The defense program has opened up a new world to him. The idea back of these clubs, or at least back of the Kip's Bay club, as Mr. Younger explains, is "practice, not preach." If they take something away from the boys, they always provide a better substitute. The club is open until ten in the evenings, except on those evenings when parties are given. Then it is open until eleven. This means the boys can come in and have a game of billiards or swim or do anything else they choose, instead of being footloose on the streets.

In short it's a reprieve for thousands of the slum area children who used to have no place to go. Its fruits are reflected in the character it has built in all walks of life.

Approximately 100 salt domes have been discovered in Louisiana.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds—Even Nature Ain't Always Grand On Movie Stage

HOLLYWOOD—All of us ain't nature-grand people here to come to Hollywood to find out how wrong we are.

Here's where nature is all right in its place, but its place is not on a movie stage. Look at that brook there—here, I mean, on the set of "Smilin' Through."

It's a nice, pleasant brook. It flows through the English garden where Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond pitch woo and dialogue, where Brian Aherne keeps tryst with his lost love. It twists obligingly through the masses of bushes, flowers, trees, wide lawn, and all the greenery, for a course of 125 feet.

Looks romantic as Moonysen in the moonlight, but just look outside the stage—a big, electric power pump, its sound muffled by wads of cotton bandaging it, by a huge muffler at the "head" of the stream. And where there's water there has to be plumbing. The pipes run from outside, underground, and up into the garden.

The brook ripples prettily over rocks, but it ripples only on signal. Compressed air controls each ripple of its rippling, each gurgle of its gurgling. When the lovers are discharging the mush, our brook obliges with a soft romantic obligato.

When the scene is sorrowful, the brook gurgles a muted, plaintive dirge. It's got no soul, nor trout, to call its own.

Snow, now, is more independent. Snow is having a winter carnival today on the outdoor, but canvas-covered, set of "Illusion." The set represents Edna Mae Oliver's seaworthy home on Nantucket, a weather-beaten old house with porch decorations of ship's heads.

In the wintry weather here prevalent, the landscape is bleak, including the huge "horizon" backdrop which serves when the surrounding water leaves off. They've used some of the usual gypsum and corn flake snow for the distant rocks and rooftops, but the cold, shining McCoy has been squirted generously over the whole. The snow machine rides on a wooden barge, accompanied by a hundred-odd cakes of ice. When they need new snow, they toss in a dozen or two cakes, turn on the motor, and out it comes, a spraying storm of crushed ice—enough to provision a good-sized Kentucky Derby party with Julep frosting.

Merle Oberon and Alan Marshall are out on the snow-covered pier leading from Granny Edna Mae's house, and what they're saying is the mike's secret because nobody supplied us with hip boots to wade out and eavesdrop.

But there's where we ain't nature-granders are wrong. Real snow may help some in this business of making snow pictures in the roaring summertime, but not much when the whole set is covered with blazing lights. Merle finishes the scene, and as she skips by she says hello as charmingly as usual, but she dashes off to slip into something loose "before I smother."

The snow, however, will assert its independence. They can spray it around, but they can't make it stay more than 24 hours at a time. They use about 30 tons of ice a day.

'Branch Water' Taste Will Be Corrected Today

There's no arguing the point. Big Spring's water supply has had a "branch" taste for the past 24 hours.

Not only had it been a topic for coffee conversation, but the city reported numerous calls Tuesday morning about the unusual taste. Accordingly, steps were being taken to correct the situation, probably by tonight.

Reason for the change in taste was the switch from Powell Creek to Moss Creek as a source of supply. Today, the city water department is shifting over to its well supply to get around complaints about the "branch water" taste.

Water department officials said that the Powell Creek supply was abandoned temporarily Monday when recent rains sent down new volumes of water and muddled the red-bud basin to such an extent that it was difficult to settle out suspended clay particles at the filtration plant.

So the shift was made to Moss Creek, which has not received such great supply of new water as has Powell. It also has much more vegetation in and around it, which contributes to the peculiar odor or taste.

With the well supply in good shape, it was decided to shift to it for a few days until Powell Creek lake settles out enough to be used again, possibly by the end of the week.

Contrary to belief in some quarters, the water was bacterially pure. The water was all right except for its taste, or more accurately stated, its odor.

L. B. Edwards Goes To Mother's Rites

L. B. Edwards, Jr., of Big Spring has returned from Mississippi, where he attended the funeral of his mother, Mrs. L. B. Edwards, Sr.

Mrs. Edwards died in Jackson, Miss., June 5 and was buried Friday in Springfield, Miss.

Other survivors include the husband and four other children, Earl Myrtice Edwards of Jackson, Louis G. Edwards of Dallas, Mrs. Lalah Belle McMellon of Summerville, Ala., and Mrs. Anna Mae Livingston of Jackson.

Admiral Francis Danian of France holds the British Grand Cross of the Royal Victorian order.

Pvt. W. H. Lynn, now stationed at Scott Field, Ill., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lynn, while on a 15-day furlough. As a member of the 20th school which finished its work at Lowry Field, Colo. on May 23, he was the highest ranking student with 89.2. He and Pvt. Carl C. Jones, of the 4th Comm. Sq., were assigned immediately as instructors because of their high rank among the 220 class members. Pvt. Lynn has been in the army for nearly a year.

One of the better signs that Nat Shick, postmaster, is getting his strength back after a long illness is the fact that he has come up with a new oddity. It is a gnarled mesquite that twists about to form a combination of letters. Nat calls it his "monogram" tree, and found it south of the city. It is, he says, even better than his mesquite root which resembles "Ftuto" the pup.

John H. Brown, architect, may lay aside his drafting tools soon to become an officer for Uncle Sam. As a reserve officer, he received his notice to report about the middle of the month. Diligent search of the notice did not reveal any clause about "at your convenience."

J. A. Bohman of Cuero and Bernice Dulling of San Antonio were married Monday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Walter Greig.

The constable's department and city police stopped a fight this morning between a man and a woman who had been living together in east Big Spring. Each was fined $15 (costs included) by Justice of the Peace Walter Greig.

And speaking of ornariness, here's a new sample: The constable got a call this morning from a landlord who had ordered a tenant to move from his house, and so ired the tenant that he gave vent to his wrath by cutting all the window shades into shreds.

Howard county rural schools have received another $1 per capita from the state, leaving only $3 to be paid. Total received in the payment was $1,069.

Future Farmers of America from the Brenham chapter stopped here Monday night enroute to Carlsbad Caverns. Police found a place for them in the high school gymnasium so that they were able to keep out of the weather.

Mrs. Piner

panied her brothers, war veterans, to Sherman, Texas, where she was married to R. T. Piner in 1883. Her oldest son, Joseph M. Piner, was born in Sherman. The family resided in Honey Grove, where the other two sons, R. T. and George William were born.

The Piner family came to Big Spring in 1901, where for the past 23 years the family residence has been at 507 Runnels.

Mrs. Piner suffered a stroke about five years ago and had apparently recovered her faculties, when a sudden abdominal attack last Sunday afternoon brought on a coma and a quiet death at 2:15 o'clock Monday afternoon.

In addition to the three sons, one of whom, Major J. M. Piner is now stationed in Washington, D. C., as a reserve officer, survivors include two granddaughters, Mrs. Morris Patterson and Miss Robble Piner, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Piner.

Martin Co Agent Called To Army

STANTON, June 10 (Sp1)—George A. Bond, Jr., Martin county agent, has been ordered to report at Fort Bliss on June 17, for examination to enter the army service. He is a reserve officer holding the rank of captain and if he passes the examination will be inducted into the cavalry.

Bond has been county agent of Martin county five and a half years, and is recognized as the most active and constructive county agent the county has ever had. During his residence here he has been president of the Stanton Service club. He has carried through four very successful years the 4-H club boys, three of the four years winning championships at the various club shows in West Texas and at Fort Worth.

Bond, who was reared in San Angelo, was graduated from Texas A. & M. college in 1932 and became associated with the U. S. Experiment Farm at Big Spring as feeder before being named county agent here.

The county commissioners court has given Bond a year's leave of absence. There are several applicants for Bond's position.

Brotherhood Hears Rev. Bill Taggart

Men were urged to stand strong in Christian faith by Rev. Bill Taggart, who addressed the First Baptist Brotherhood at its Monday evening meeting.

The speaker challenged men to stand against moral laxity, to seek responsibility, be men of enterprise, adaptability, stability and unselfishness.

"God needs men," he said, "but men need God, for men cannot get along without God."

Visitors included the Rev. Roy Clayton, A. G. Costin and Jess Hinson of Ackerly. A quartet composed of Alton Underwood, Vernon Logan, Irby Cox and Wayne Matthews furnished music and Martelle McDonald presided.

Distress Symptoms Relieved By Hoyt's

Mrs. W. A. Millstead of 2021 Rodeo Street, Fort Worth, states: "I suffered with constipation, indigestion, pains in my hips and nervousness. I had dizzy spells and starved myself because of the pains. Gas formed on my stomach. I was nervous and couldn't rest."

"Since taking Hoyt's Compound, the constipation is disappearing. I no longer suffer dizziness and spots before my eyes. Indigestion, pains and cramps are gone and I recommend Hoyt's to anyone suffering as I did."

Hoyt's Compound is recommended and sold by the Collins Bros. Drug Store and by all leading druggists in this area.—adv.

Dies Says Nazi Agents Will Blow Up Factories

By the Associated Press

Congressman Martin Dies warned last night that unless immediate action is taken, agents of "Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini" would "blow up North American Aviation and other plants which are key defense units."

Referring to the strike at the North American Aviation plant at Inglewood, Calif., Dies, chairman of the house committee on un-American activities and U. S. senatorial candidate, declared before a Cleburne audience that months ago he predicted agents of foreign powers would stop production in the plant, but the people refused to heed the prophecy.

"Today," he added, "3,000 troops were sent to take over the plant, and again I will warn the government: within a few weeks the same agents of Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini, if permitted to work in the factory, will blow up North American Aviation and other plants which are key defense units."

At Wichita Falls Congressman Lyndon Johnson, stressing his loyalty to President Roosevelt, said that "being all-out for defense I am very proud to say 'Yes, Mr. President. We want the best trained army and navy in the world, we want bombs and planes for our country, we want guns and tanks for our boys in training instead of broomsticks and lumber wagons, we want the best navy in the world and we want it all over two oceans. Yes, Mr. President, and yes, America, we want this battle fought to a finish over the water, and not here—not on the Rio Grande in Texas."

Alluding indirectly to critics who had elected to the senate he would be an unquestioning supporter of administration policies, Johnson added "And I say that saying, 'Yes, Mr. President' on all these things is not being a yes man. While others pretend to believe in an all-out defense policy, they criticize me for saying yes to it. As far as I am concerned, I will let the verdict of this race be written on that issue—Roosevelt and unity in the days of our peril."

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel designated his sons, Pat and Mike, and his daughter, Molly, as his emissaries to carry on his senatorial campaign until he can arrange to take the stump personally.

The sons, each traveling in a sound truck, will take different routes, playing transcriptions of their father's speeches to listeners. Molly will divide her time between her brothers.

Attorney General Gerald C. Mann made a radio address at Jacksonville last night.

A. B. Cyclopedia Davis, another senatorial candidate, declared that he had summoned "23 unrecognized candidates" to a meeting at Dallas next Sunday with a view to persuade all but one of the group to withdraw in a combined effort against what he called "the big four."

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, June 10 (AP)—Rallying strength persisted in the stock market today and favored steel, motors, rails and specialties extended their Monday's advances by 1 up to around 3 points on the liveliest dealings in a month.

A little selling cropped up after midday and volume tapered. Top marks were out in many instances at the close. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares, a peak turnover since May 6.

Prominent share gainers, a number of which posted new 1941 high, included Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Deere, J. I. Case, Western Union, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Gypsum, Standard Oil (NJ) and preferreds of International Paper, General Steel Castings and Armour.

Bible Schools Show Increase

Enrollment in three simultaneously conducted Vacation Bible Schools here neared the 500 mark Tuesday.

The East Fourth Baptist church reported 178 youngsters in its school where a program of arts and crafts along with handicraft and religious instruction was being carried on by a complete staff. Monday the church had reported 165 enrolled, well ahead of any other church.

Enrollment jumped to 150 for the First Baptist church Tuesday with 147 attending. There Mrs. J. A. Coffey was directing activities for intermediates and Louis Berryman was telling character stories of missionaries. Mrs. Chester O'Brien was in charge of Bible study and taught Paul's letters. Mrs. Thomas A. Roberts is teaching girls handiworks, and aprons were being made for Buckner's Orphan's home. The WPA recreational service was supervising woodwork for boys and the First Methodist church was using the same service.

Tuesday Mrs. B. Reagan told of the work of Dr. Lockett as an early American missionary in Nigeria, how she took up the work when her husband died suddenly, organized a school, helped living conditions and strengthened the health of natives by better diets.

The First Methodist church reported 123 attending Tuesday, and enrollment was 138. Under direction of Mrs. Royce Satterwhite and Mrs. C. R. McClenny girls were making curtains for the church and Mrs. Joe Birdwell and Mrs. Cecil Collings were supervising Red Cross knitting among other girls.

Vote To Retain Tax Exemptions

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—The house ways and means committee voted today to retain the present individual income tax exemptions of $800 for single persons and $2,000 for married couples.

On the basis of this year's figures, this means that 16,000,000 persons will file income tax returns on their 1941 income. About half of those who filed returns this year paid income taxes.

At the same time the committee decided to retain the current $400 credit for dependents in addition to the spouse.

The question of rates was left to future consideration.

Veterans Set For Flag Day

Program for a Flag Day observance here Friday evening has been mapped by Veterans of Foreign Wars and other organizations cooperating with the unit.

Support of service and civic clubs, ex-servicemen and auxiliary units, Boy Scouts, the band and others is being sought to make the event a success.

A parade will precede the Flag Day program, VFW officials reported, and it will form on the east side of the auditorium at 6:45 p. m., and get underway at 7 p. m. The route will be westward on Third to Runnels, north to E 2nd, west to Main, south to Third where the flag bearers among veterans and Boy Scouts will go up Main and the band and the other body of the parade will circle the courthouse square and enter it through the driveway on the south.

Following band music, there will be an invocation and a brief address by Rev. Bill Taggart, recently commissioned as a lieutenant, chaplain reserve in the army. Retreat, completing the program, will be in charge of Scouts.

Wool Market

BOSTON, June 10 (AP)—(USDA) Trading in wool on the Boston market was very restricted today. Little interest was shown in domestic wools. Spot foreign wools were very slow and orders for foreign wools for future delivery were slower than last week. Quotations were showing little change from last week but they were largely nominal because of the limited amount of trading.
