Highlights and Sidelights

From Your
State Capitol

By BILL BOYKIN
Texas Press Association

Gov. Preston Smith left timing of a special legislative session up in the air after the Texas Supreme Court, in effect, said there has to be one.

The High Court, not unexpectedly, concluded that Secretary of State Bob Bullock could not order public financing of primary elections without prior legislative authority.

Smith conceded that apparently left him no alternative but to summon lawmakers back to work in advance of the May 6 primaries. He said he wanted to postpone the unhappy deed as long as possible and was not prepared to say when he would have to act.

Meanwhile, to help Smith with his decision, Bullock's staff compiled data on estimated costs of the May 6 and June 3 elections and when the bills would fall due.

Most legislators faced with election campaigns hoped the session would be limited to the primary finance issued alone -- or perhaps that and highway bill board controls. The latter legislation is needed soon to avoid a threatened $24 million cut in federal road building funds allotted Texas.

Another special session will be needed later (unless Smith decides to lump all business into a single pre-election call) to approve a 1973 state appropriation act replacing the budget items vetoed last year by the governor.

Bitterness is expected to flare in the House of Representatives on opening day of the session -- whenever it is. An effort is almost certain to be made to oust Speaker Gus Mutscher who is being tried in Abilene on charges of conspiring to accept a bribe in the form of 1969 bank loans and pre-arranged insurance stock profits.

A coalition, in an effort to avert the House clash, is pushing Rep. L. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi as interim speaker. The leading speakership candidate, Rep. Rayford Price of

CRIMES INCREASE
More major crimes were committed in Texas in 1971 than in 1970, but the increase actually was the smallest since 1963, the Department of Public Safety reports.

Cities over 100,000 population reported fewer major crimes -- a total of 298,033 as compared with 307,140 in 1970. The overall crime rate for the big cities was up three-tenths of one per cent.

The DPS Crime Report based on information submitted by Texas sheriffs and chiefs of police shows 482,386 major criminal offenses during 1971, an increase of 13,324 over 1970. All categories except theft increased. There were 1,687 murders, 3,054 rapes, 14,386 robberies, 137,140 burglaries, 34,472 aggravated assaults, 48,323 auto thefts and 243,344 thefts.

STORM INSURANCE CUT - A 26% reduction in windstorm insurance rates for nonbeach property in 14 coastal counties was ordered last week.

The cut, directed by the State Board of Insurance, takes effect before the hurricane season for those structures at least 2,500 feet from shore, 20 feet above mean sea level or protected by a seawall.

Property owners have been paying 150% above normal rates through the Texas Catastrophe Property Insurance Pool. Beachfront property will continue at three times standard rates.

The Insurance Board also raised the maximum amount of insurance available through the pool from $100,000 to $200,000 on dwellings and from $500,000 to $1 million on commercial properties including schools and public buildings.

VETERANS LAND BONDS SOLD
Forty million dollars worth of Texas veterans land bonds to sold last week at the lowest finance the program which has enabled almost 46,000 Texas veterans to buy land.

SIGNS CHANGING - Watch for changes in traffic control devices, signs, signals and markings along Texas highways.

Texas Highway Commission approved them in the manual on uniform traffic control devices, based on recommendations of the American Association of State Highway Officials and Federal Highway Administration.

Changeover will be from words to symbols and pictures as part of an international move toward greater uniformity and clarity in road signs. The change will be gradual, with new signs going up initially on a replacement basis. Panels explaining the new symbols will be placed under the signs at first, then removed in about five years.

"I hate to tell you this, lady," sadly said the stranger, as he stood at the front door, hat in hand, "but I just ran over your cat. I hope you'll forgive me, and I want to replace him."

An Army captain, stationed overseas, was elated over the snapshot his girl had sent him from the States. It showed a happy couple sitting on the beach, while she sat alone in the background looking forlorn. The message on the back read: "Darling, this shows how lonesome I am for you."

The captain showed the picture to everyone who would look at it, over and over again, until he and his picture became number one bore. Finally a fellow officer devised a way of inducing him to put the snapshot away permanently.

"John," said his friend innocently, "who do you suppose took that picture?"
