tax bill action switched to the House this week after Senate passage of a $662.3 million revenue measure. The Senate passed its version of tax bill 22-9 after rejecting six separate attempts to amend it. The bill contains 16-15 amendments and six other amendments. Only amendment of the tax attached in floor debate was a half-cent-a-gallon increase in diesel fuel levy. The bill (H.R. 1000) now calls for and its estimated biennial yield: Increase sales tax rate from 3.25 to four per cent, $8.5 million. Increase motor vehicle tax to four per cent and annual rentals under levy, $5 million. Raise corporation franchise tax from $3.25 per $1,000 to $5.00, $102.6 million over the year period. Increase cigarette tax three cents a pack to 18.5 cents, the highest figure in the nation, $1.5 million. Increase gasoline tax from seven cents a gallon, $102.1 million. Increase diesel fuel tax to half cent, to seven cents a gallon, $4 million. House Speaker Gus Mutsaers took an early dim view of the gasoline tax in particular, and conference committee was expected to adjust differences. Stripped from the House bill are taxes on hotel rooms, transactions, jet fuel, sand, gravel and shell. Senate also more than doubled a version of the franchise tax. COURTS SPEAK State Supreme Court agreed to set a hearing on the issue of whether district attorneys can sue a barrage of suits to prevent stores from using various devices to get around Texas' Sunday closing laws. A Houston clinic can be sued by a doctor-partner in it for alienation of affections, Supreme Court held in a split decision. High Court, reversing an intermediate court, held that Austin suburb of West Hills is a legally-incorporated city, but its attempt to annexation of territory to the north of its original boundaries is invalid. Third Court of Civil Appeals held that six Texas A&M University employees cannot draw salaries and serve on the college Station City Council at the same time. Same Court reversed the state savings and loan concern Pasadena. A new trial of the disputed contract involving a Killam radio station was ordered by the Third Court. OPINIONS Legislation permitting the sale of persons convicted of felony at their request to state prison system pending appeals of criminal cases constitutional, Atty. Gen. Clifford C. Martin has held. Martin warned that constitutional problems may arise if prisoners are required to be or disciplined as convicts. In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that: A coin operated machine offering trade discount tickets and options to purchase tickets is an illegal gambling device. Potter County may contract with a private non-profit institution for the care and supervision of juvenile delinquents. A water supply corporation organized under Article 1434a, all statutes, is required to operate as a non-profit corporation. Harris County domestic relations judge may serve on Texas Southern University board of directors.

* City of county bond interest and sinking funds may be used only for paying interest on bonds or redeeming them. * Travis County may employ an ambulance service for residents outside audience and use city streets for transporting patients to hospitals without a city franchise if all safety standards are met. APPOINTMENTS Gov. Preston Smith appointed B.B. Schraub of Sequim as district attorney of the 25th district. Smith named Dr. James Harris Sammons of Baytown to the Commission of Rehabilitation. Governor appointed Royce Lee of Bronte to board of directors of Upper Colorado River Authority and reappointed Everett J. Grindstaff of Ballinger, Cumbe L. Ivey of Robert Lee and John R. Salmon of San Angelo. He named Mrs. Louise Naden of Lubbock to the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission. Governor reappointed to Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority board of directors Zeb H. Fitzgerald of San Marcos, Ed F. De Leon of Cuero and Edward Reese of Gonzales. John B. Turner of Houston A.J. (Stormy) Shelton of Abilene and Homer Lee Bryce of Henderson attended their first meeting of the Texas Industrial Commission after appointments to succeed retiring Claude Brown of McCamey, I.F. Bay of Brownwood and M.M. Mack Stripling of Nacogdoches. LIVESTOCK EXPORT RECORDS SET - Agriculture Commissioner John C. White pointed to a dramatic increase in breeding swine and beef cattle exported from Texas during the first quarter of 1971. White said Texas producers are continuing to set the pace for the nation in swine exports to foreign countries. Swine exports jumped 24% over the previous year during the first quarter, and beef cattle exports 140%. Mexico continues to be the best market for export sales, although shipments are made to 20 countries, White said. HAIL CURB STUDIES A California firm, Atmosphere Inc., received a permit from the Texas Water Development Board to conduct hail suppression operations in the Plainview area from May through October. Supporters hope to reduce crop-damaging hail by aerial seeding of selected clouds with silver iodide. About 550 backers contributed $128,600 to finance the cloud-seeding. No evidence was found that last year's program caused a rainfall reduction, as opponents claimed. WELFARE ECONOMIES URGED Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes followed through on his warning that Medicaid welfare spending may "bankrupt" the state with proposals for trimming the bill an estimated 25-30 per cent for 1972-73. Barnes suggested these steps: * A limit on the time welfare patients can stay in the hospital. * A limit on the cost of hospital rooms. * A fixed fee schedule for doctors on welfare cases. * A surgical benefit schedule as in private health insurance plans. SMITH REQUESTS PARK FUNDS Governor has urged federal authorities release more than $3.2 million in Bureau of Outdoor Recreation funds for 20 state and 34 local park-projects. He accused the Republican administration of delaying funds "for partisan political reasons." Smith said the BOR is waiting advice of federal solicitor and U.S. District Attorney Segal Wheatley of San Antonio before approving projects signed by Pearce Johnson Parks and Wildlife Commission chairman as state liaison officer in park matters. Johnson blocked the use of

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the week of May 16-23, 1971 as SOIL STEWARDSHIP WEEK in Texas. ## NEWS County Agricultural Agent Texas A. & M. College Extension Service By FOSTER WHALEY

DROUGHT SITUATION I'm sure many of you are aware that certain emergency measure have been approved by the ASCS as a result of the drought. You may graze dryland diverted acres or CAP acreage without charge. Many farmers on the High Plains are now turning in on the wheat and grazing it out in lieu of harvesting. If you are now grazing wheat on your 1971 designated set-aside acres you may continue to graze it after May 14 which was the earlier announced cut off date for grazing. It is not necessary to get permission from your ASC office to graze either CAP or set-aside acreage so long as it is dryland. You will be permitted to graze irrigated set-aside at a fee to be announced later. You must make application with the ASC if you graze after May 14th.

4-H CHOCOLATE SALE 4-H Club members all across the State including Gray County will soon launch a sale of chocolate bars in an effort to raise money for both their local funds and for a state 4-H center to be located at Brownwood. These bars are of the finest quality and sell for one dollar each. We hope you will support this effort should a 4-H member knock on your door.

CATTLE PRICE Fat cattle prices have started a strong movement upward after hitting a plateau some two months ago. This is most encouraging in the face of one of the most severe droughts on record. Thanks to the commercial feedlots that create a year round demand for replacement cattle.

Mr. E. M. Bailey, Denise, Mark and Carol were in Okla. City over the weekend to visit Mrs. Bailey's father, Mr. R. O. Pound and her sister and family. Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Stringfellow, Debbie, Ronnie and Scott.

SCS Booklet On Conservation Work Now Available

A new booklet outlining broad phases of conservation work underway in Texas is now available from the Soil Conservation Service, according to Micky Black, District Conservationist. Black, who is with the Pampa Soil Conservation Service office, said the new booklet "Soil and Water Conservation in Texas" tells how SCS programs are helping Texans conserve, develop, and protect the state's soil, water, plant, and wildlife resources. "The booklet is a must for the conservation teacher, urban consumer, agricultural leader or businessman honestly interested in the conservation thrust being made in Texas," Black said. It is a concise simply written, profusely illustrated booklet which tells the conservation story as it is--a non-spectacular, continuous, difficult job of trying to intelligently manage our state's renewal natural resources. The publication describes SCS soil surveys and tells how they are used by cities, planners, farmers, contractors. It tells how conservation reduces pollution and enhances environmental quality. It also describes resources planning help available from SCS. Other programs explained include the search for improved conservation plans for livestock and wildlife; the Great Plains Conservation Program; efforts to help multi-county areas speed up resource programs; and upstream watershed protection projects. Black said conservation work is coordinated through local soil and water conservation districts. In the Pampa area, the Gray County Soil and Water Conservation District is the action group through which conservation work is directed. Curtis Schaffer, Tony Smitherman, Milton Carpenter, Sam Bowers, and Robert Sailor make up the district board. The booklet points out, however, that cooperation of state and federal agencies, cities, counties, conservation organizations, civic groups and others is the key to getting the job done. Black said that in the Pampa area, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the Extension Service, Farmers Home Administration and the Gray County Commissioners Court have been helpful in getting conservation work done in the Gray County Soil and Water Conservation District. Single copies of the booklet "Soil and Water Conservation in Texas" are available free from Soil Conservation Service offices.

The annual meeting of the Panhandle Economic Program (PEP) Board of Directors will be held on May 14 in Amarillo, announces County Agricultural Agent Foster Whaley. The program will get underway at 1:30 p.m. at the Quality Motel, Interstate 40-East.

According to Whaley, all members of the Board plus other agricultural and industrial leaders in the county are invited to attend. PEP Board members from Gray County are Rex McAnelly, Gene Hanks, Curtis Schaffer, and J. D. Slaggs. Purpose of the annual meeting will be to alert new officers, review accomplishments during the past year and plan future PEP activities. Reports of each of the three task forces will also be included on the program, adds Whaley. These task forces and the chairman of each are Agricultural Industry, W. B. Griffin, Borger; Agricultural Production, R. B. Dawson, Tulia; and Family Living--Youth, Edd McLeroy, Dimmitt. Each of the three groups has sponsored an educational conference or seminar during the past year.

In addition to Gray County, the other 24 counties in PEP are Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Hall, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher and Wheeler. In the past year, PEP has also joined in the support of "3.76 in '76," a program designed by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to increase agricultural income in the state by one billion dollars by 1976. Agriculture was a 2.75 billion dollar industry in Texas for the 1968-69 crop year.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Salmonellosis is an illness which loves to go on picnics, to banquets and parties where foods are prepared will in advance, and even in family functions in homes.

Commonly called food poisoning, it may show up anywhere it receives an invitation. Sometimes it is credited by individuals with being a 24-hour virus.

The food infection symptoms may range from mild nausea and abdominal discomfort to a full-blown case which also involves fever, vomiting and diarrhea. When you get it, you're sick. And, it can be fatal, says the Texas State Dept. of Health.

Salmonellosis is used to refer to infections caused by any of the numerous members of the genus Salmonella. Some 900 varieties are known and they may inhabit most species of warm-blooded animals and many cold-blooded vertebrates. Major reservoirs of human salmonellosis are in domestic livestock, swine and poultry. Organisms may be transmitted to man either directly from animals or through contaminated products of animal origin. Humans also may spread the infection.

Recently, outbreaks of Salmonellosis were traced to pet turtles. And, the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta reports a case in a 19-month old child caused by a parakeet. The most dramatic and highly-publicized aspects of salmonellosis are the food-borne infections which occur in large groups of persons who have consumed a contaminated food. In this type of contamination, food is prepared and held in such a manner that the bacteria has an opportunity to multiply.

The State Health Department is so concerned with the problem of food-borne infections it is planning a special seminar for sanitarians in September. The tailor-made course will equip local sanitarians with the knowledge to teach classes in food-borne disease control to food handlers in their own communities.

In a way, food-borne illness is a matter of chance. Five factors must come into play to produce it. You must, of course have bacteria present, and you need growth-supporting temperatures, suitable food, time and moisture. Improper sanitation or improper refrigeration are the main causes of food poisoning of humans. Almost without exception in food poisoning cases, the food was contaminated after having been cooked and was allowed to stand at temperatures which encourages bacterial growth.

"Grocer" Dates Back To 14th Century

Pepper and spice trading in 14th century England gave us our modern word "grocer", reports Mrs. Glyatt. After peppercoms made the 4000-mile trip to the mysterious East to London, they were bought and sold by the Guild of Peppercorns by the gross, similar to present day wholesale methods, she says. Peddlers purchased pepper formed the Worshipful Company of Grocers, in order to increase love and unity among the peppercorns as well as creating binding rules for members. According to Mrs. Glyatt, one of the rules read: "All merchandise shall be weighed fairly so that the weigher shall remove his hands therefrom."

Mark Rives, son of Wayne and Mabel (Back) Rives of Gaithersburg, Maryland, is visiting his grandparents, the Jim Backs, this week. Mr. Rives, after three years in the U.S. Army, was retired as 1st Lt. This last year was spent in Viet Nam as member of the Special Services Unit. He plans to enter the University of Maryland this fall to finish his education.

CITY OF McLEAN

"Look at the red kite up there! See how high it's flying!"
The little boy follows her finger, and she is warmed and gratified by his smile of appreciation.

It seems as if mothers are eternally anxious to make sure that their children get all there is to get out of life—that they miss nothing.

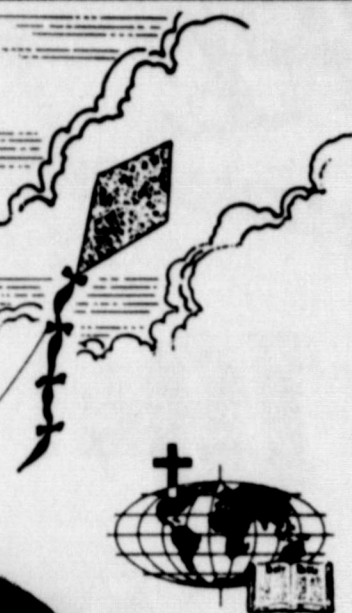

Mothers would, if they could, show their children all that there is to see and give them everything—time for fun, time for play—new clothes, new toys, a television to watch cartoons, endless red kites and bright yellow balloons and, later, skis and sports cars.

Yet, in this eagerness to show and to give, aren't they in danger of overlooking some of the most important things of all? What of beauty, of serenity, of joy—the knowledge of God's goodness, His love, and familiarity with His house on earth . . . the Church?

MARTHA BROWN
Martha Brown To

From W. T. S. U.

She majored in Business Education with minors in Secondary Education and English. While at W. T. S. U., Miss Brown worked part-time at the Registrar's Office on campus and held offices in Pi Omega Pi, nation business education society, and Phi Gamma Nu, national business sorority. Miss Brown's plans for the future are indefinite at this time.

New Permanent Press For Cottons

A new permanent press has been developed for 100% cotton fabrics, announces Miss Joanne Thurber of Texas A&M. Since the new treatment enables cotton fibers to retain good abrasion resistance, it will give all-cotton apparel an impressive boost, she reports.

Called "Ameriset", the process involves a vapor treatment applied to finished garments in a gas chamber. The treatment takes about 20 minutes, Miss Thurber explains. According to the specialist, the uniqueness of the process is that fabrics aren't treated with chemicals or resins. Instead, garments are treated after the fabric has been cut, sewn, and pressed. As a result, all the findings -- thread, pockets, and trimmings -- are treated at the same time, taking on all the permanent press characteristics of the fabric.

The new system can be used by homemakers as well as by industry. Necessary equipment can be installed in neighborhood laundries to service the vast, flourishing homemaker market, she says.

Another major advantage of the "Ameriset" process is that the vapor treatment can be applied by local retailers after a garment has been altered and pressed. Permanent press garments currently marketed are almost impossible to alter since shape and creases are already built into the garment before it reaches the store, the specialist says.

Extensive testing results have shown that garments treated with the process retain permanent press characteristics through a minimum of 20 machine washings and tumble dryings.

And, the process is equally applicable to wovens and knits, as shrinkage is virtually nonexistent, Miss Thurber adds.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Game of Chance"

"Fifty cents per shot," said the sign at a certain golf course. "If you score a hole-in-one, you win $5,000."

Sure enough, a golfer eventually did come through with a hole-in-one. But the proprietor refused to pay the prize money. Haled into court, he argued that the contest was a "game of chance"—hence, not enforceable by law.

However, the judge disagreed. Ordering the money paid, the judge said there was simply too much skill involved in a golf shot to classify this as a game of chance.

In varying degree, gambling is regulated in every state. Often, under these regulations, it becomes necessary for a court to decide what is meant by the phrase "game of chance."

Sometimes the answer is relatively easy. Thus, the throwing of dice has consistently been held a game of chance. So has roulette.

So has matching pennies.

On the other hand, chess and checkers and spelling bees have all been held not games of chance but games of skill.

What about bridge? Most courts have classified bridge, too, as a game of skill.

"Although there is of course an element of chance resulting from the deal of the cards," explained one judge, "there is a continually recurring necessity in the bidding and play to make decisions which will ordinarily be determinative of the outcome."

Does it "take the curse off" a forbidden game of chance if the stakes are very small? As a matter of principle, no. Consider this case:

A restaurant owner was arrested on a charge of operating an illegal gambling device on his premises. Although he protested that the prizes were worth only a nickel, the court found him guilty anyway.

What the law is concerned about, said the court, is any device "designed to intrigue the unwary and arouse the latent cupidity of human nature into the notion that it could get something for nothing."

My Neighbors

"Okay, so my error cost the company weeks of work and a few hundred thou.... I said I was sorry, didn't I?"

Liver--Economical Nutritious

Liver, usually lower in price than other cuts of meat, is a valuable food contribution at mealtime, says Jimmie Lou Wainwright, Gray County home demonstration agent.

Liver is an excellent source of vitamin A, B-vitamins and high quality protein and iron.

Calf liver, the most expensive type of liver, requires only a short cooking period, long enough to change its color. It can be broiled or fried.

Beef liver, requires slightly longer cooking and is usually considered better when braised. Cooking with moist heat will keep it from being too dry.

Pork liver is lowest in price because it has a stronger flavor. It may be braised with onions

Liver is perishable and requires careful storage. It should be bought for immediate use and kept in the home refrigerator no more than a day or two before cooking.
