The Restless Ones To Be Shown At Derby Drive Inn

The most successful motion picture yet produced by evangelist Billy Graham will be shown at the Derby Drive Inn Tuesday night. As a service of the young people at First Baptist Church.

The feature-length film entitled The Restless Ones deals with the Teen-age crisis. With a background setting provided by the 1963 Billy Graham Los Angeles Crusade, The Restless Ones is said to be a hard-hitting, bold approach to our social problems.

With its accent on youth, First Baptist youth are promoting the film as a chance for both adults and teenagers in the McLean area to see a movie portrayal of today's problems and find a solution to those problems. Receipts will help finance a trip for the youth group in the near future.

The film was picked because of its hard-hitting, bold approach and its imaginative dealing with the teen-age crisis.

One reviewer wrote: "here is a picture that tells the world the truth and comes up with an answer, not an easy answer, but an answer from beyond us."

Billy Graham said, "Perhaps no resource is so mistreated, mismanaged or misunderstood as our young people. Temptations abounding, independence unlimited, irresponsible parents, many 'well-meaning' but engrossed in materialism, confused elders and counselors corruption in positions high and low... fluctuating concepts and theories of morality and God... the explosive atmosphere of cold wars and hot. But where is a clear-cut call to find intelligent meaning to life-to reality?"

"Here's an answer--the answer--which goes beyond mere analysis of our times, decrying of our situation and a solid portrayal of our failures, from despair, confusion, hopelessness, to the answer of faith and commitment."

"You see it, and urge others to see it. For our young people's sake. For a better world."

Tickets will be available at the gate and from the First Baptist youth at $1 per person. Show time will be about 9:15 p.m. Depending on ticket sales, the show may be held over for an additional performance Thursday night.

Military Museum Society Plans Sunday Meeting

SHAMROCK — Amarillo's Military Historical Society will hold its regular monthly meeting at 3 p.m. Sunday at the American Legion Hall in Shamrock.

President George R. Parr III of 5301 Andrews in Amarillo will preside at the session. The meeting will be open to the public, he said.

The society is attempting to establish an area military museum in Amarillo for the use of all the people of the Panhandle. Stoner said that persons wishing to donate items of military interest for display in the proposed museum should contact Sam Pakan of Shamrock.

There will be a display of military memorabilia, such as documents, uniforms, weapons and letters at the meeting, Stoner said.

He said that about $30,000 worth of military items have been donated so far by Amarillo citizens for placement in the museum. He said the free museum probably will be located somewhere along Interstate 40 in Amarillo by next summer.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Walking Through Glass

Leaving her dentist's office, Martha headed for the lobby of the building. But as she reached the exit, she mistook a glass panel for the door and pushed right through it. Cut and bruised, Martha decided to seek damages from the owner of the building. "The door is glass and so is the panel," she complained in a court filing. "It is all very confusing."

But the building owner saw no good reason for her confusion. He pointed out that the door had a metal frame, a hydraulic mechanism, and a handle—all plainly visible. Result: Martha's claim was turned down. As one judge put it:

"The injury was due to her own lack of care. She was the author of her own misfortune."

The growing use of glass in homes and buildings has led to numerous lawsuits in which someone inadvertently "walked through glass." In homes alone, such accidents happen about 40,000 times a year.

How alert does the law expect you to be in discerning danger? One key factor, as in the case above, is the presence of visible features that should put a reasonably careful person on guard.

Another factor is your familiarity with the premises. A woman shopper barged into the glass panel beside the door at her neighborhood supermarket. But a court rejected her damage claim largely on the ground that she had been using the same door for years without any difficulty. However, in other circumstances, inattention may well be excused. Consider this case: An eight-year-old child, visiting at the home of some family friends, ran into a sliding glass door. But it seems that the lighting was poor, and that the door—kept spotlessly clean at all times—had no telltale fixtures to make it noticeable. A court accordingly found no fault with the youthful victim. Ordering the home owner to pay damages, the court said he could easily have called attention to the hazard with a strategic strip of colored tape. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Guyton and girls of Iowa Park visited the Raymond Guytons on their way home from Colorado.

Plugging The Leak In Spending

Following care and use instructions can plug the leak in spending, according to Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Almost everything lasts longer with proper care," Mrs. Myers emphasized.

"Clean, oil and repair items as soon as needed or recommended to make operations easier and safer."

The Texas A&M University specialist suggested that when you buy a product, learn how to care for it. Avoid items that aren't tagged with care instructions.

"Proper labels will give specific use and care directions," Mrs. Myers noted. "If the label is missing, Ask the salesman for one. The tag may have dropped off and he can provide another one."

She added that asking the salesman will reinforce the use of labels that offer clear instructions.

"Remember," the specialist pointed out, "when the purchase lasts longer, your money does too."

"Call Station-to-Station and Save."

"Telephones are my business. And when it comes to calling Long Distance, I know station-to-station is the most economical way. Look at this typical example and see for yourself."

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Bill Boykin
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

A recent statewide survey shows 22 percent of Texans, or 2.5 million, are poor compared to a nationwide rate of 13 per cent.

Further, Texas accounts for nearly 10 per cent of the nation's poor.

Texas Office of Economic Opportunity submitted the 300-page report to Governor Preston Smith, terming it the most comprehensive study even undertaken among the Texas poor.

The Rio Grande Valley area was shown as having the highest incidence of poverty in the state--42.2 per cent of the population. East Texas was next with 29 per cent poverty rate.

The East Texas and Lower Rio Grande Valley areas also have the smallest proportion of persons completing high school.

About 55 per cent of the heads of poor households are employed and 70 per cent of those have fulltime permanent jobs, according to the study.

However, low income levels make it difficult for these persons to bring their families out of poverty.

Guidelines for report set poverty level for a family of four at an annual income of $3,800.

More than one third of the Texas poor are children under 15, and four out of five are black or Mexican-American.

George P. Taylor, TOEO Director, said the report will be the basis of programs to alleviate poverty in the state. Recommendations include bringing in new industry to decrease unemployment, housing expansion and better health care and food programs.

A proposed four-year anti-poverty plan for Texas would seek $6.3 million in aid from national and regional OEO. REFORM SESSION STUDIED Governor Smith disclosed he is putting together a "full package" of insurance reform proposals in case he decides to call a special legislative session this year.

Reports indicated the governor was serious when he said he may call such a session on insurance matters. Smith himself continued to lash out at the insurance regulatory board. When members ordered a rate cut for auto insurance averaging 11 per cent statewide, Smith said a 21 per cent reduction was in order.

Smith said he must work closely with legislative leadership to achieve anything in a special session, but Lt. Governor Ben Barnes and House speaker Rayford Price said he hasn't said a word to them about his plans.

If Smith calls the session, apparently he will propose wholesale reorganization of the board and a controlled competitive rate system for property and auto insurance.

ELECTION BILLS PAID

The state ran out of money before it paid 1972 primary election expenses and fell about $325,000 short of meeting all its bills.

The last $117,000 available was sent to county officials last week. A lot of election workers, printers, and suppliers have not been paid for their work.

The money was dispensed on a pro rata basis, amounting to 26.66 per cent of bills still outstanding in the counties. Remaining expenses will have to go uncompensated until the 1973 legislature can make appropriations. An appropriation of $2.1 million was set aside by the Legislature last spring for the 1973 primaries.

"I can find no other source of funds available at this time," said Secretary of State Bob Bullock. "When we have paid all the county chairmen, we will not have one cent remaining of the $2.1 million appropriated."

AG OPINIONS

Death penalties may be commuted to life sentences at any stage between jury verdict and granting of a new trial, Attorney General Crawford C. Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded:

One convicted of a felony may have rights of citizenship restored and become eligible to hold public offices.

A county clerk may record marks or brands given the same name if the marks or brands are themselves different.

A former state employee who was eligible to be a member of the Employees Retirement System is not eligible to receive a Texas Ranger pension.

COURT MERGER URGED

Merger of the Texas Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals, elimination of municipal and justice of the peace courts and non-partisan election of judges were proposed by the Chief Justice's Task Force for Court Improvement.

A series of seminars are being scheduled over the state to hear comments on the proposed revisions.

Under the recommendation courts of civil appeals would become courts of appeals handling both criminal and civil cases.

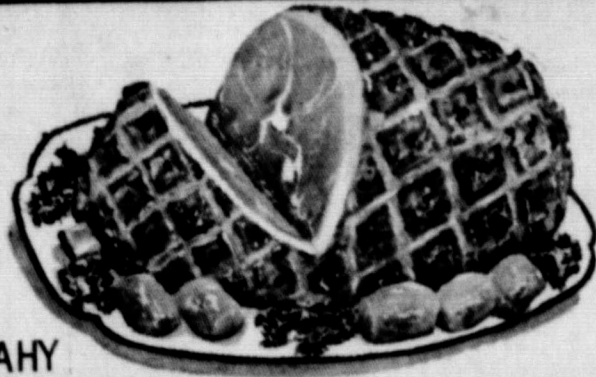

The Legislature would be directed to create a system of county courts at law to perform the judicial functions now performed by all courts below the district level. UNEMPLOYMENT JUMPS A jump in the unemployment rate last month was spurred largely by new graduates and summer jobs seekers, according to Texas Employment Commission. The jobless rate reached 4.6 per cent statewide, but this was less than the 5.3 per cent rate of June, 1971.

Actually, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports, the Texas economy is getting better and better, and 1972 second quarter and first-half performances of economic indicators ended on a solid upbeat. No boom is yet in sight, however. SHORT SNORTS Agriculture Commissioner John White warned early destruction of cotton stalks

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

A burned child is not a pretty sight, and protection for children against some fabric burns is on the way, says the Texas State Department of Health.

A new law has just become effective which eventually will lead to the use of flame resistant material in children's sleepwear and children's outer clothing through size 14. At this time, children's sleepwear in sizes 0 to 6x must be resistant to flames or have a warning placed on it that it is flammable. At the end of next July this clothing must be flame resistant.

The labeling option in sleepwear gives manufacturers a year in which to begin using flame resistant fabric, but on July 29, 1973, all children's sleepwear through 6x must meet the standard or not be sold, says the State Health Department.

Compliance date for larger sizes of sleepwear and outer garments will be announced in the future, and manufacturers will again be given 12 months to comply following the announcement. Also covered will be mattresses and protective pads.

Incident after incident in Texas point up the need for flame resistant fabrics.

When a person's clothing ignites, there's more than a good chance that the person will be burned--sometimes horribly, sometimes fatally, but always painfully.

Burns in the United States are killing and crippling more people than polio. In its peak epidemic year in 1954, in 1954, about 50,000 persons contracted polio and 1,500 died of it. In contrast, according to National Safety Council Figures, 6,700 persons died in fires and of burns injuries in 1970, and 250,000 suffered disabling injuries.

In clothing, says the State Health Department's Bedding and Product Safety Division, it is the quick igniting fabric which causes the greatest human losses. These soft fabrics, usually highly-flammable, are put into children's clothing as well as nightgowns and robes worn by adults. All too often the frills which decorate these fabrics burn rapidly, adding to the speed of ignition of the garment itself.

Experience has shown the need to protect our children as well as adults--and the sleepwear standards in the Texas Hazardous Substances Law are a breakthrough in solving this life or death problem in the state.

A friend of ours brought the cheerful news home to his six-year-old son that the stork had delivered a lovely baby sister. "Aw," said the lad, "I was hoping for an older brother!"

"How much do you want to spend?"

Great Plains Program Helps Conservation

The Great Plains Conservation Program has done much to further conservation throughout the Great Plains of the United States. Much work has also been done in Gray County, says Phil Richey, Range Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Pampa. About 40 percent of the land in the county has been in the program but there is the other 60 percent that the Great Plains Conservation Program could also help.

We have money available for work now, Richey goes on to say. In the last few years the program has been short on money but at the present time this isn't the case. In Gray County a farmer or rancher is eligible for cost share assistance for such things as pasture and range seeding, cross fencing, livestock wells and troughs, brush control, farm ponds, irrigation land leveling, underground irrigation pipelines, parallel terraces, diversions, waterways and other practices. There are a total of 29 practices eligible for government assistance.

Briefly, the Great Plains Conservation Program is a legal contract between the land operator and the Secretary of Agriculture. It is designed to apply adequate conservation for the entire operating unit. The government agrees to provide cost share as well as technical assistance while the land operator agrees to pay the remaining cost of the practices to be done and carry out good management. Cost sharing runs from 50 percent to 80 percent of the practice. A contract must run for a minimum of 3 years and can run a maximum of 10 years, Richey continues. There is no limitation as to the size of a place no matter how large or how small.

Information on the program may be obtained by contacting any director of the Gray County Soil and Water Conservation District, (Robert Sailor, Sam Bowers, Curtis Schaffer, Milton Carpenter or Tony Smitherman), or by contacting the Soil Conservation Service in Pampa. "We will be glad to talk with anyone about this and fully explain the program," Richey concludes. This can be done at our offices or on the individual's farm or ranch. Call us at 665-1761 or come by the Court House Annex anytime.

ON a night in August 1967, I was sprayed by an insecticide that was many times over as damaging and tortuous as any that had previously been used against me. Fortunately, I was standing across the room from the windows when the blast came so that the burns were not so great, but I knew that I could not take much of that dust. About a week after that dose of fire, I went to the school re-union, hoping to meet some of the old timers and to make the most of the pleasures of a reunion.

I happened into one of the class rooms, and, saw several men and women who had been my students when I had taught here years ago. I dared go further. One of the boys whom I had loved deeply when he was in my classes, was there. He was now enjoying a modicum of success both financially and socially. In short, he had made a success of his life. So it was, I admit rather a shock to me when discovering me there, he said--for all the room to hear: "Get out of here. We don't want you in this room. GET OUT!"

I left. I was getting a full blast of Guerilla Warfare. (Don't feel sad about this slap-in-the-heart to me, but the time this occurred, I had probably had a thousand such jabs from my friends.)

After the re-union was over and the EX's had returned to their homes I was again, for the second time burned with fires of hell. This time I had on my pajamas and stood perhaps less than two feet from the window when the blast came. I felt it first with the force of its pressure against the eye lids. I don't know how many volleys were fired at me, but by the time I could walk to the bathroom my face and throat were as red as fire and the V shape of my pajama neckline was outlined against my flesh. From that day on the imprint of the burn remained exactly as it had been.

My face looked like it had been blasted with furnace fire; pieces of skin and bloody flesh were hanging down, dangling. I looked terrible--and felt worse. I went to several homes expecting offer of help--but none came. They looked at the burns and looked away. I called an officer to report the crime to him, but he refused to come to see me, said he didn't know what to do for my face and it wouldn't do any good for him to come down--he didn't come. One woman gave me a bottle of medicine to rub on the burn. That was all that was done for me. All people seemed to be afraid of me. Afraid to say anything. I decided to go to Amarillo. Surely I could find someone to help me there. It is an awful thing to be hurt by organized intention from those you love--the roots from when has come your strength. When I had been in Chicago, my friends there begged me to come back to McLean, "where people love you and will not allow you to be mistreated", they said. I had been in McLean two days with the charred face. I packed my suitcase, and the next morning, backed my car out of the garage, parked it down town and caught a bus ticket to Amarillo. No one had called me, no one had come to see if I were still alive. As I remember it, no one commented on my charred face.

But when I got on the bus, things changed. The bus driver couldn't have been kinder. He did everything he could for me and seemed to want to do more. When we reached Amarillo, he had another driver to unload the passenger while the driver led me to a taxi cab and put me inside with directions to the driver to take me to the Hotel, and not to leave me until he had put me into the care of someone to help me. By this time I was almost blind.

Unfortunately, I paid for my room in advance, so that I would not need to bother when I left. But when I went to my room and tried to call a doctor's office, the desk clerk said, since I had paid for my room in advance, I could not charge telephone calls to my room.

I wandered wearily around Amarillo, and decided that if, on the second day I had not found help by noon I would take a plane to Dallas. I found the necessary doctors. Infection had already set up in the eyes, and three holes had been burned in the cornea of the left eye, and many more holes burned in the cornea of the right eye. I was in the hospital six days. As the doctor was leaving the room, just before my departure he said, "I thought I should tell you you are not going to lose your right eye."

Well, we can't say that someone didn't try.

Bicycling Deaths, Injuries Growing Concern In Texas

Bicycling? "Ride on," say more and more Texans who have switched to the two-wheeled vehicle for cheap, clean and healthy transportation.

It is a new solution to some of the state's social problems, but the bike-riding phenomenon is not without its own problems. The tremendous growth in the use of the bicycle has been accompanied by a similar increase in biking accidents and fatalities.

The problem could become far worse. Bicycling is more than just a flourishing craze. It is a clean recreation, good exercise, economic transportation and will reach new heights in popularity.

At present levels of popularity, the injury and death toll from cycling mishaps is high. Texas had 31 persons killed and 1,780 injured as a result of 1,855 bicycle accidents in 1971. Early figures show that 1972 cycling accidents and fatalities are likely to be even higher.

Statistics show that in most bicycle accidents the cyclist violates a traffic law. This inattention or failure to yield the right of way accounts for the largest number of mishaps. In less than one-third of bike accidents, the motor vehicle driver violates a traffic rule or regulation.

Tips On Removing Fruit Stains

Homemade jellies and jam mean special treats for hot rolls, biscuits--and sometime--clothes.

"It's just as sticky to wipe jam, jelly and fruit juice stains out of fabrics as it is off skin," Roxanne Schnorr, clothing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, commented.

To avoid lingering and permanent stains in garments, Miss Schnorr said to treat all fruit stains immediately.

"If the garment is worth saving, it's worth the trouble to follow stain removal steps, the Texas A&M University specialist pointed out. "Some fruit stains are difficult to remove and you may have to repeat a procedure several times

According to Miss Schnorr, you can remove most fruit stains or at least lighten them. She said to start removing the stain before washing because hot, soapy water can set it permanently. The first step, then, is sponging it with cool, soapy water.

"Citrus fruit stains may be invisible after drying," she noted, "but will turn yellow with age and heat and become difficult to remove."

For stains on white cotton or linens, Miss Schnorr suggested stretching the fabric over a bowl and fastening it with a elastic band or string.

Pour boiling water from a height of one to three feet through the spot. Launder in suds according to normal procedures.

"For other washable fabrics such as synthetics and colored cottons, rinse or soak the stain in cold water," the specialist instructed. "Work detergent into the stain and launder the garment following regular procedures. If necessary, apply a hydrogen peroxide or sodium perborate bleach to the stain."

You can also add a few drops of ammonia. She said to wait 15 to 30 minutes and then wash following regular laundry steps. This works especially well for cherry, plum, pear and peach stains.

"It's always wise to test bleach on a hidden seam," Miss Schnorr cautioned. "Certain finishes and fabrics react differently."

The specialist concluded that the season of fresh fruits will be less noticeable--except at the breakfast table--if you act promptly.

Weekly Market Report

"To make the most of your food dollar, following marketing tips in your local food stores this week," Mrs. Gwen-Jolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, emphasized.

Mrs. Clyatt noted that meat prices aren't showing much change this week, but some extra specials at some markets will ease the tension. In general, she said to look for beef chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, ground beef and beef liver.

"Also," she added, "you might consider Boston butt roasts, pork shoulder steaks, smoked ham and ham portions as well as picnics and some brands of bacon."

According to the Texas A&M University specialist, poultry products still make thrifty meat and protein buys. Following the seasonal pattern, fryers and their parts remain features for summer cookouts.

Chicken hens also wear attractive prices in some markets. Both young and more mature turkeys rank as good buys, pricewise, and add variety and economy to menu planning.

"Vegetable counters boast economical offers," Mrs. Clyatt said. She named black-eyed, purple hull and cream peas, carrots, okra, cabbage, tomatoes, potatoes, cucumbers and peppers as plentiful items at the most economical price levels.

Nectarines, seedless white grapes, plums, watermelons, cantaloupes, bananas and lemons also merit consideration, according to Mrs. Clyatt.

It's pretty evident that we have toppled the little red schoolhouse. Ideas we had about economics, science, race and education itself, have come and gone. New ideas are broaching the surface of life and thundering over us.

Campus unrest and street demonstrations make us reappraise old values and ideas.

But one idea remains steadfast. It is the idea that God loves man and men, and that He cares about what happens to our lives.

Are shouting television newscasts and bold headlines overwhelming you? Then you need an open mind and a steady faith. God's love is for you. Your church is where you find out about it. Try it next Sunday. It will help you grasp an old idea, even if it is a new one for you.
