FARMERS TAX GUIDES NOW AVAILABLE

The 1966 edition of the Farmer's Tax Guide contains tax information for farmers and is now available. Ellis Campbell Jr., district director of Internal Revenue for northern Texas, has announced.

This booklet can be obtained free of charge from county agricultural agents or at the nearest Internal Revenue service office. A number of copies are available at the McLean News office.

It is written in non-technical language and contains numerous examples showing how the tax rules apply in actual situations. A completed sample of a return form is included.

The "Important Dates to Remember" section tells Texas farmers when to pay income and social security taxes, file returns and meet other federal tax requirements. A section on record-keeping tells farmers what records they need to keep and describes an easy method of keeping track of income and expenses.

The Farmer's Tax Guide was written primarily to help farmers prepare their 1965 tax returns. It is useful as a tax reference guide throughout the year.

SALADS AS MAIN COURSES

More and more, salads are coming out of the "side-dish" or secondary course place, and constituting the principal dish in the meal.

Salads make particularly good meals for luncheon, especially for business men and women who have to return to a desk and do an afternoon's work. They are, I believe, less likely to cause that sleepy feeling, than a heavy luncheon.

Almost any restaurant menu now offers salads of cottage cheese, fruit, shrimp, crab, lobster or tossed vegetables, with a choice of dressings, and strippings of cheese, ham, chicken, turkey or corned beef, or with hard-cooked egg wedges, and anchovies to give that extra fillip to the taste.

An Array of Nutrients

When one stops to think about it, such a salad isn't a bad description of a balanced array of nutrients from the four basic food groups — and a lot more tempting than some listings of these dietary essentials.

Add a glass of milk and some whole grain or enriched bread, rolls or wafers, and you can return to your desk with your dietary conscience at rest, knowing that you have done well by your nutrition, and probably have avoided the calorie excess which some other food selection might have involved.

There are many interesting variations of the salad menu, originating in various parts parts of the world. In France one meets a salad which contains an almost incredible variety of foodstuffs—boiled potatoes, tuna fish, black seasoned garlic, chickory, pepper and wine vinegar, and decorated with hard-cooked eggs.

Molded aspic or gelatin with mixed vegetables, or fruits in gelatin molds, also make excellent salads, and ingenious things can be done with chicken or duck or turkey in gelatin. Large ripe tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese or a variety of fish, meat or poultry combinations also make tasty light luncheons or snacks.

Regular Salads, Too

Speaking of salads generally, there's a lot to be said for the simple mixed vegetable salad, with or without fancy additions, and with dressings of oil and vinegar, French, thousand island or Roquefort or bleu cheese either in luscious lumps or smoothly blended.

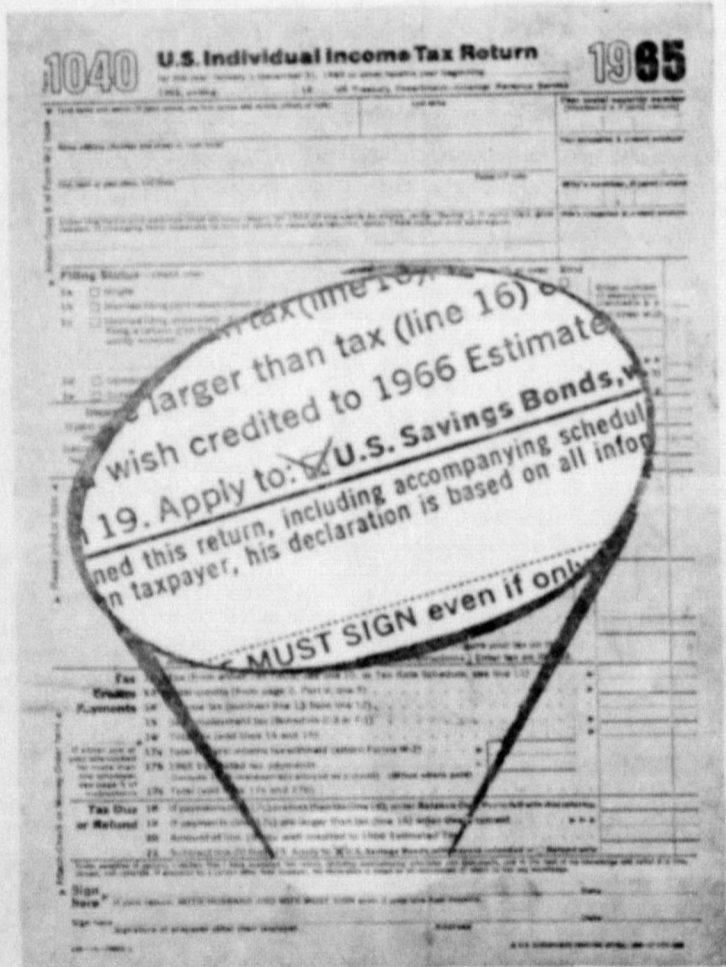

Rice, macaroni and other pasta forms may also be added to salad. The Cantonese vegetable dishes, which are in effect cooked salads, offer another tempting variation. For dessert, it's hard to beat a good plate of fresh or canned fruit, or balls of cream cheese rolled in chopped nuts, or a sherbet salad.

Anywhere you put it in the joyment while ensuring better nutrition.

TAX SAM SEZ:

Throughout the past year we have preached our sermon on records. The day of judgment is here. It is time to get out those records and put them in shape to file that tax return. Now is the time to look over your records instead of midnight on April 15. You may find that a lot of your receipts are missing. You may have to do some checking or get new copies of receipts before you file. The fellow who checks his records in January saves. The fellow who waits until April 15 doesn't have time to save.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

One of the major developments in American life today is the situation created by a U. S. Supreme Court decision that states must reapportion. This is commonly called the "one man, one vote" idea, and carried to its full length would eliminate any representation in either house of a state legislature not based on population.

This, in turn, will result in the large cities having political control with the sub-metropolitan and rural areas largely disenfranchised. This could well result in greater irresponsibility in government because the big cities have a higher proportion of "rootless" people.

There are those who believe that central control creates a more compact and efficient economy and reapportionment will create a stronger national control.

However, there is a substantial question as to just how consistent is the political thinking on these matters. Of course, American politicians once enthused over the European Common Market.

But if, as the liberal thought believes, a stronger American central government promotes the economy, and a supernational common market will aid Europe's economy, why is not this policy pursued in Africa?

Because largely sparked by American liberal pressures, new nations by the dozen have been created on the Dark continent. Most of them are small, sparsely populated areas ranging in size from a half million to around 2 million people. In many cases there is no difference in adjacent "nations" in terms of well defined natural boundaries, in resources, or in occupational pursuits. Perhaps the only difference is that the tribesmen in one nation who still practice cannibalism feel tribesmen in an adjacent nation make a tastier pot roast.

Not only is it apparently the American policy to encourage fragmentation of the African continent into a mass of tiny countries, but through lavish hand outs under the so-called foreign aid program, the U.S. is making it possible to perpetuate this system.

None of these nations have the manpower, the capital, or the brainpower to develop their resources to achieve a step above the economy of the jungle. Combined together they would have a chance.

This is best illustrated by the solid economy developed by the Republic of South Africa which has moved ahead, and continues to move ahead not only without asking, or receiving one cent of American foreign aid, but is also subjected to harassment by U.S. officials at the demand of the tiny jungle nations who like dogs in a manger, cannot build themselves, and resent the fact that South Africa has been successful.

It is a curious twist. American taxpayers are assessed to maintain dozens of tiny new nations in Africa many of which are composed of not much more than single jungle tribes. This is progress?

The Ladies Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian Church met last Wednesday for a business meeting.

Plans for the coming year's work were discussed, with the president, Mrs. F. H. Bourland, presiding.

The only way we could make a Catalina look even better would be to show you its price tag.

Because stretching back for nearly 18 feet behind that dashing front end is everything that would make pricing a Catalina the next logical step: A 389-cu. in. V-8. Wide-Track wheels. Nylon carpets. A package of safety features including seat belts front and rear. And one of the roomiest trunks in the field. Come in, take on and price out a tiger at your Pontiac dealers—a good place to buy used cars, too.

Is Your Child's Health Affecting His School Grades

Is your child having trouble keeping up his grades in school this year?

There may be a physical reason for his poor record, says Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association.

Does the child squint, strain, rub his eyes or complain that they hurt, water or itch? Does he hold his book very close to his face when he reads? Has it been a long time since his last eye test? He may not be able to read the teacher's notes on the blackboard.

Does he often ask you to repeat a question or statement? (That may have nothing to do with hearing, of course. Many of our children know we will say something a second, third or fourth time. We often encourage the habit of not listening.) Does he sometimes miss—or seem to miss—a point made in a movie or on television by the spoken word? Does he turn his head to one side as he listens? He may have defective hearing. It might even be as simple as impacted wax in the ears, which can be removed by your physician in a simple office procedure.

Has he had an infection, disease or accident whose effects may be lingering on? Is there a possibility (as far-fetched as it may seem to you at first) that poor nutrition may be holding him back, limiting his enthusiasms, interests and capabilities? He may be eating a considerable quantity of food, but still be undernourished, if he eats improperly, or if his tastes in food are too limited.

If your child isn't performing properly in his school work, ask yourself whether it is time for an examination to determine whether his problems are caused by a physical condition that might be corrected.

McLEAN LODGE 889, A. F. and A. M. Regular meeting second Thursday each month—7:30 p.m. All members urged to attend. Practice First and Third Wednesday Nights Each Month.

Red, white, & blue chip investment

You won't get rich overnight buying U. S. Savings Bonds. But for the long run, they make an excellent investment.

You get a guaranteed rate of interest—3 3/4% when held to maturity—so there's no ups and downs to worry about.

You also get certain tax advantages since Savings Bonds aren't subject to state or local income taxes and the federal tax can be deferred until the Bonds are cashed.

But probably most important is that Bonds pay off in more than dollars. When you get your Bond investment back you know it has helped Uncle Sam strengthen the cause of freedom (your cause) all around this troubled world of ours.
