Grid - Graph Electric Scoreboard To Give Steer-Bowie Game Play-By-Play

Lovers of baseball and football in Big Spring will have an opportunity Saturday afternoon to hear a broadcast of the play-by-play world series game and also a play-by-play display on a Grid-graph board of the Big Spring school vs. El Paso (Bowie) high school football game at the Herald office, 210 East Third street.

Steer Team Leaves For Game With Bowie

COLLINS SCORES FOR CARDS AMID ORGY OF TIGER ERRORS

This remarkable Associated Press picture shows "Ripper Jim" Collins of the St. Louis Cardinals as he slid into home plate in the third inning of the first world series game at Detroit. He scored after DeLancey's smash had gone through Greenberg for one of the five errors that contributed heavily to the 8 to 3 Cardinal victory.

Golfers who have hesitated to qualify for the Municipal golf tournament because they can not get off early enough in the afternoon to play 18 holes, may play nine holes one afternoon and nine another, Charley Alkey, pro, said. Away said that golfers starting in by 5:30 can complete nine holes easily before dark.

The Munny course is very difficult to play, but at the same time it's very interesting.

Johnny Sprague, younger brother of Howard Sprague, former captain of the S. M. U. football team, and of Buddy Sprague, all-American tackle at West Point in 1928, is the most promising sophomore back on the S. M. U. football team this year. He weighs 200 pounds, stands six feet two inches and plays the position of blocking back. He is both a strong offensive and defensive player and is due to uphold the Sprague name in football in a very satisfactory manner.

Matty Bell, new line coach at Southern Methodist, sits atop the press box during all home games and communicates the mistakes he sees on the field to Head Coach Ray Morrison by a telephone system installed this year.

Saturday should be an interesting day for football and baseball fans here. A play-by-play report of the Steer-El Paso game will be shown on a grid-graph and a play-by-play report of the fourth game of the World Series will be broadcast—all from the Herald office. The grid-graph, electrically operated by means of telegraphic reports, gives a very vivid description of games. It shows every play, how it was executed, who made it, downs, etc.

The odds seem to mount up heavily against the Texas Aggies' chances of defeating Coach "Pop" Warner's Temple university Owl team tonight at Philadelphia, Pa., but the Aggies left determined to bring home a victory scalp in their initial foray into the Eastern gridiron arena. Coach Warner has been quoted as saying he'd be bitterly disappointed if his 1934 Temple team want his best in his forty years of coaching.

Bristow took his Steer squad and pulled out for El Paso this morning. Obie's predicted a win for his team in spite of the odds being heavily against his charges. Coach Guy Davidson of the Bowie Bears who has been given to doleful predictions, came out of the storm cellar long enough to predict a close victory for his team.

District 3 football teams are headed down the home stretch now—that is as far as the practice game card goes. The McCamey Badgers open the flag chase Oct. 12 when they entertain the Colorado Wolves, and from all indications the Upton county boys will edge out victorious by a very slight margin.

The following week-end, Oct. 20, the big teams of the district will get into action, and what a week-end that will be. After the battle with Bowie tomorrow the Steer coaching staff will have two weeks in which to groom their proteges for the big opening—with Edgar Hennig's Sweetwater Mustangs here.

Warning Issued H. S. Gridders

AUSTIN, (Spl.)—It's all very well to "win that game for dear old high school", but it's better to lose than win at the cost of injuries to players caused by carelessness, thoughtlessness or heedlessness. Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the University of Texas Bureau of Public School Interests, emphasized in a recent letter to schools participating in interscholastic League football this year. "It is well this early in the season to consider the importance of the old adage 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure'." Mr. Henderson said in his letter, "Even when every precaution has been taken when looking to the protection and safety of the players there are hazards enough in football. It stirs our emotions and we applaud when the fullback spectacularly hurls his helmet toward the side line and then crashes the line for two yards; we cheer when the crippled captain is rushed into the game to save the honor of the school, but should we? Instead of applauding and cheering such examples let us resolve to eliminate them. Insist that the boys wear their helmets and that injured players remain on the bench, regardless of the score. "With the hope that those who are responsible will carefully consider these important matter the following suggestions are offered: Have a physician give each and every boy a thorough physical examination. Allow no boy to play unless his condition is approved by the physician. Get a written parent's consent giving permission for the boy to play. See to it that the boys are properly equipped with adequate protectors such as shoulder, hip and kidney pads, helmets, taped ankles, etc. Give immediate attention to all injuries, even seemingly unimportant scratches and bruises. Have a physician on hand at every game."

Mustangs Put Thru Training Grinds

DALLAS, (Spl.)—With one of the stiffest games on the season's schedule staring them in the face Saturday, Coaches Ray Morrison and Matty Bell have been putting their S. M. U. Mustangs through a week of hard training. In the two early games the Mustangs have breezed through with impressive victories and without extending themselves. Now, the Pony mentors are trying to make the boys realize that Saturday's contest with Biff Jones' Louisiana State Tigers is anything but a set-up.

In fact the Mustangs bosses are not sure that they can win the game, even though the Ponies are prepared for the game and able to put forth their full strength and best efforts.

Many Golfers Qualifying For Munny Tournament; Latson Scores 87

V. Latson has chalked up the lowest score thus far in qualifying for the Municipal golf tournament—an 87.

Twenty-four men have qualified and four ladies. Sunday will be the last day for qualifying, and first round matches will be played Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Second round matches will be played Friday, Saturday and Sunday of next week.

Qualifiers for the past two days: Mrs. Obie Bristow 113, Mrs. E. V. Spence 120, E. V. Spence 98, Chas. Ferguson 94, A. E. Chester 122, M. Burleson 103, C. Smith 116, Tommy Neel 115, V. Mason 90, T. L. Williamson 101, A. L. Rogers 89, T. J. Coffee 114, H. Sturdivant 91.

Names Of Duplicate Winners Announced

In the duplicate bridge games of this week the following were the highest scorers:

On Monday night Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Nichols scored high for east and west and Mr. Robert Wagner and Mrs. R. E. Galt, who substituted for Mr. Wagner, for north and south.

On Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Jake Bishop and Mrs. M. E. Boone scored high for east and west and Mrs. Harvey Williamson and Mrs. E. O. Ellington for north and south.

Herd In Good Shape; Fast Battle Looms

Some Improvement Noted, And Obie Confident Of Win

Coach J. Gordon (Obie) Bristow embarked this morning for El Paso with twenty-three of his charges, determined to upset all predictions by defeating Guy Davidson's heavy and experienced Bowie Bear team.

A great improvement the past few days in practice has boosted the coaches' hopes considerably, and the entire Steer line-up was in sound shape.

The El Pasoans remember the big Corbill's bang-up playing against the Panthers last year, and the Bears have been planning a defense to halt the big back.

Coach Davidson, after watching Obie's boys run various formations last week—single wingback, double wingback, short punt and modified punt, doesn't know what to expect.

Bristow did not indicate his probable starting line-up before he left, but took along the following players: L. Madison, O. Corbill, O. Jones, J. Huff, S. Flowers, B. Mills, J. Wilson, J. Vines, P. Coburn, G. Neel, R. Gibson, C. Whisenant, J. Winslow, W. Denton, J. Darwin, W. Coats, J. D. Cauble, L. Hare, N. Henniger, L. D. Cunningham, W. Harris, S. Baker and B. Flowers.

Assistant coaches Speedy Moffett and George Brown accompanied the team. J. A. Coffey, business manager and Sam Petty, manager, also made the trip.

The probable starting line-up for Bowie: Hernandez and Perez fullback; Lopez and Layva, tackles; Saenz and Arroyo, guards; Lester, center; Perez, quarter; Miranda and either Kuehn, Carroll or Govtia, halfbacks, and Moranda, fullback.

The game will start at 2:30 p. m. El Paso time which will be 3:30 p. m. Big Spring time.

McCamey Plays Last Practice Battle

By BILL COLLYNS
McCAMEY — Coming through their 26 to 6 triumph over the Alpine high school Bucks here last Friday evening without serious injury and with hopes highly elevated as a result of their win, the McCamey high school Badgers take to the road this week meeting the strong Lamesa high team in Lamesa Friday afternoon in their last class B exhibition tilt before starting on their District 3 conference schedule against the Colorado Wolves here (under a change in schedule) the following week-end.

The starting line-up for McCamey Friday will likely be: Harding and H. Green, ends; Ray and Carville, tackles; Bossier and Echols, guards; Garrison, center; Knight, quarter; L. K. Trodgen and Cates halfbacks and Brecher, fullback.

Little is known of the Lamesa club other than that Coach McCullough has a heavy and experienced team that has looked very impressive to date. It is said that the club is exceedingly tough and is rated as a favorite in the South Plains country. The Badgers are expecting their strongest competition of the season to date in Lamesa Friday.

Eight Girls From Big Spring Enrolled At C.I.A., Denton

DENTON, (Spl.) — Eight girls from Big Spring are among the 1,685 students enrolled for the fall session at Texas State College for Women (C.I.A.). In this number 176 Texas counties are represented with 18 states and one foreign country. The girls include Misses Dorothy Driver, Jennie Lucile Kennedy, Georgia Belle Fleeman, Mildred Shelton, Nancy Daves, Yetta Seden, Sadie Puckett and Jimmie Lou Coughran.

State Supervisor Here To Establish Education Classes

Miss Lind, state supervisor of adult education from the State Department of Education, working in cooperation with the federal relief administration, was here the first of this week in the interest of establishing classes here.

Miss Lind has charge of supervision of 43 West Texas counties. The program is an emergency measure to put unemployed teachers, in need of funds, to work. Classes will be organized in different communities and the type of instruction will be determined by the community needs.

Two general types of instruction will be vocational and purely fundamental work for those who can not read nor write.

An important change in the work is that teachers no longer are required to be certified, but merely qualified.

Down South where they grow tobacco folks say... It's no wonder so many people smoke Chesterfields. The tobaccos are mild and ripe to start with, and then they're aged the right way to make a milder, better-tasting cigarette.

TEXAS TOPICS

By Raymond Brooks

Texas this year has been having unusual and unexpected delay in getting its schedule of highway improvement projects for the $11,000,000 federal road program approved by the U. S. public roads bureau.

Most of the projects still are awaiting final federal action to permit starting the work.

Last year, state and federal authorities pushed through a federal emergency road program of $24,000,000. The work was moved with extreme rapidity, and the state highway department proved itself able to originate the projects, submit the plans and superintend the construction as fast as the federal government could review the proposals and send back its record of approvals. That schedule as this year's went to Washington for preliminary approval of the work itself, then each proposed construction contract went back for individual approval.

Back in July and August, the Texas highway department division engineers submitted their recommendations for the most-needed pieces of work. The total reached about $100,000,000. Out of these projects, the work was gradually pared down to one-eighth that listed as badly needed. The highway department could have started any month's set of these projects on notice from Washington, but approval there is still lacking on the general set-up of the year's work with federal money.

In 1933, many miles of new highway was graded. There was considerable paving. This year's schedule will run largely to filling in gaps, and to starting a general surfacing program on the earthen roads built last year.

Highway 10 is an example of the need for pushing forward the work. There are unpaved gaps in Highway 10 amounting to 70 miles, between San Angelo and Fort Stockton. This is one of the highways that serves motorists of other states, as well as those of Texas.

An association recently has been formed of citizens along Highway 10, with Dr. H. W. Morelock of Alpine its chairman, to sponsor the early completion of the gaps which destroy the effective usefulness of the entire highway.

Many other highways, part of both state and national transportation links, are in similar condition; but plans are lying ready in Austin to fill in the gaps as soon as authority comes from Washington.

Organized labor is preparing to ask the legislature in January to remove administration of the boxing and wrestling law from the state bureau of labor statistics. This will be done, labor representatives said, because of the incongruity of the supervision of athletics with the functions and purposes of the one agency of state government dedicated to watching over and serving the interests of the working man.

There was considerable objection last year, when the highly political athletics administration was thrust upon the labor department.

The protest is being organized but withheld until a new legislature begins the next regular session, when it has been indicated labor will present a united front in asking that the boxing and wrestling control be shifted to some other department than that of labor statistics.

Robert B. Gragg, of Austin, former labor commissioner in the Sterling administration, and deputy labor commissioner in the Moody administration, is among the several men now being discussed for labor commissioner when the department heads of the incoming administration are selected. Mr. Gragg is a typographical union man, and an active worker in the ranks of organized labor for years. He was an original Allred man this year, and was active in the ranks of organized labor for Atty. Gen. Allred in both the first and the second primary campaigns. Through his service with the department, he is known all over the state, and his strong administration established his reputation as a successful state official at the head of the labor department.

Dean and Freshman CLEARINDA, Ia. (UP)—Richard

D. Rowley is dean of Clarinda college and also a student in the school's freshman class. He found he'd have to have credits in French and German in order to obtain a master's degree, so he enrolled as a full-fledged freshman. He's proving an apt scholar, his instructors say. He has held the position of dean six years. His previous education includes studies at Friends University, Wichita, Kan., and at the universities of California, Wyoming and Nebraska.

CLEVELAND (UP)—A stray seagoing black and white fox terrier with a grudge against water lilies created havoc for a time at the establishment of E. C. Kital & Sons, manufacturer's agents. He was discovered in the middle of the 15-foot lily pond at the rear of the Kital place, treating lilies as if they were foxes. It wouldn't be coaxed or bribed. It stayed in the pond an hour, and Deputy Dog Warden Wren Metcalf headed him toward him, where he took him to the Animal Protective League kennel.

THE HIGHWAY—THE CAR
THE DRIVER
When you take your car on streets or highways, three definite factors are involved. First, the road. Second, the car. Third, the human element—yourself.

Practically every automobile accident can be traced to one of these three factors. And the third is infinitely the more important.
Highway engineers have done their part to make driving safer — they have given us model highways, with scientifically constructed turns and the safest of surfaces.

For every accident that can be blamed on the road or the automobile, a dozen can be blamed on the driver. It is an established fact that the bulk of accidents occur on good, straight highways — in ordinary weather, and involve cars whose mechanical condition is adequate. Apparently, if a road and car are produced which make it safe to drive ten miles an hour faster than in the past, a legion of drivers will at once start driving twenty miles faster — and the inevitable result is a mounting accident toll.

The present year is witnessing a tremendous increase in accidents over 1933 — if the trend continues a new high in fatalities may be established. The cure is knowledge.

that tells you how to drive under all conditions, and a sense of the responsibility you owe to all who use the public highway. If every safety campaign of his own the automobile accident record would go into a allipian.

RAILROADS GIVE BETTER SERVICE
In 1922 the average freight train consisted of 38 cars. In 1933 it consisted of 46 cars, a gain of 21 per cent.

It is easy to imagine what these improvements have meant to shippers of the country, to whom time is money. They have been saved millions of dollars by the decrease in spoilage, and lessening of time needed to carry produce from farm and factory to market. And the amazing thing is that the progress has been made during years in which railroads have been continually depressed. No industry has done more to discharge its public obligation—none has received so little consideration from the public it serves.

Today the people are awakening to the fact that the destiny of the country depends on the employment, purchasing power, taxation and similar great problems are

WARD VICE-PRESIDENT
AMERICAN AIRLINES NAMES
CHICAGO—Earl F. Ward, one of the first of the nation's air mail pilots, has been elected a vice president of American Airlines.

Ward, who has been closely connected with the industry since its birth, will be in charge of operations for the Eastern Division of the company with headquarters here. Although he has not flown in line duty for many years, Ward is still an active pilot. He recently flew a new Vultee transport plane from Chicago to New York in 2 hours 39 minutes to set a new record and become the only man to cover the route in less than three hours.

Heat Killed
Farm Pests
MANHATTAN, Kan. (UP)—The drouth and heat last summer blasted the Kansas farmer's corn, but it also killed his three greatest insect pests — grasshoppers, chinch bugs and the Hessian fly.
Other insect pests died, too, but the "big three" apparently suffered greatest loss to their ranks.

Grasshoppers and chinch bugs normally thrive on hot weather, but last summer it was too hot even for them, Smith said. Millions of chinch bug eggs were killed by the heat, he believes.

to give the rails a fair chance to do business, the entire nation will feel the good effects.

"Baby, Take A Bow" Comes To Ritz Theatre Friday, Saturday

"Baby, Take A Bow," coming to the Ritz theatre on Friday and Saturday, introduces five-year-old Shirley Temple in her first title role. After her overnight success in "Stand Up and Cheer!" little Shirley has become one of the outstanding personalities on the screen. She has an important part in the picture and is responsible for much of the comedy.

James Dunn and Claire Trevor, who have been teamed in three pictures, are together again in "Baby, Take A Bow," as Shirley's parents.
It's a sparkling comedy-drama that gets under way in the first few scenes and maintains a rapid tempo to the exciting finish. The story deals with the struggle for happiness and success of a young man just out of prison, a girl who marries him because she believes in him, and the result of their union, an adorable baby girl who is the pride and joy of their hearts.

After an exciting sequence of events, the drama is recovered, the culprit captured and Shirley is the heroine of the hour, with a goody reward in prospect and the removal of all suspicion from her daddy.
A great deal of comedy and human interest has been injected into the scenes showing the camaraderie and affection between daddy and baby and the episode of the child's birthday party affords Shirley another opportunity to show her talents as a singing and dancing entertainer. Keen romantic interest is maintained also by James Dunn and Claire Trevor.

a plane in 1933 to fly from Albany to Chicago to accept the nomination for the office he now holds.
He was accompanied by two of his sons.
Shortly after the family was settled in the White House, Mrs.
Roosevelt made a hurried trip to the Pacific coast, returning east aboard a regular American Airlines' plane.
Elliott Roosevelt is by far the most air traveled member of the family and has covered most of the major routes during the last few months. His sister, Mrs. Curtis Dall, returned to New York from Chicago aboard an American Airlines' plane last fall after visiting A Century of Progress Exposition.
James Roosevelt and his brother,
Franklin Delano, Jr., were passengers on American Airlines' new sleepers plane service from Chicago to New York only a few weeks ago and found the sleeping facilities so much to their liking that they were found asleep in their berths an hour after the plane had landed at Newark airport.

South Ward Parent-Teachers Association Is Well Attended

Members Hear Mrs. Brigham Tell Of Cultural Projects Started In Rural Schools; To Give Membership Prize

South Ward Parent-Teachers' Association was well on its way toward its goal of 100 members Thursday afternoon, at the second meeting of the year.

An impressive devotional was given by Rev. C. A. Bickley at the opening of the meeting.

Mrs. Bickley stressed the importance of harmonious environment of home and school on children and its effect on their future. He gave examples of neglected children to point out the bad effects.

Miss Letha Amerson's room entertained the Association with the song "Beautiful Texas" and gave samples of their daily work by repeating in unison extracts of poetry and songs. Cornelia Frasier and Gloria Nell gave a sketch from "Alice in Wonderland." Lula Beth Duff sang "Alice in Wonderland" and gave a tap dance with her mother, Mrs. Emory Duff at the piano.

"Full Feeling" After Meals

Here is how Theford's Black-Draught proved helpful to Mr. Archie W. Brown, of Post Green, Fla.: "I have taken Black-Draught when I have felt dull from over-eating or eating too hurriedly," he writes. "Small doses right after meals rid me of gases and heavy feeling. I am a great believer in Black-Draught."

Theford's BLACK-DRAUGHT Purely Vegetable Laxative "CHILDREN LIKE THE STRIP"

Mrs. Pauline Cantrell Brigham outgoing county superintendent, talked on school work. She said that music, art and voice had been once regarded as fads and frills of education, but that people now understood the need of these along with domestic arts. Her idea of education was teaching by doing.

Miss Anne Martin, newly elected county superintendent, gave examples of Mrs. Brigham's work along this line. She told how Mrs. Brigham carried a Victrola into rural schools and taught the children to sing by using it.

T. C. Thomas spoke to the P-T. A. in regard to the bond issue for Scenic Park and explained the need for it.

Mrs. J. C. Loper, chairman of the room mother committee announced the following room mothers: Miss Cummings' room, Mrs. McCombs; Mrs. Sherman Smith's room, Mrs. Moody; Mrs. Dahme's, Mrs. Chaney; Miss Amerson's, Mrs. Stewart; Mrs. Lowe's, Mrs. Baggett; Mrs. Mann's, Mrs. Sullivan; Mrs. A. S. Smith's, Mrs. Bennett.

The association voted to give a prize to the room mothers and children enlisting the most paid members. It was also voted to repeat the Halloween Carnival project of last year and to hold a carnival this year on the Friday night before Halloween on Wednesday.

Picture Puzzle Contest Ends!

Mrs. A. S. Smith's room had the most mothers. Among those present were members from other P-T. A.'s who extended invitation to the South ward mothers to visit their meetings.

Present were: Misses L. S. Short, C. S. Diltz, C. T. Watson, G. A. Barnett, Shirley Robbins, L. J. Stewart, V. A. Merrick, Dee Foster, J. J. Green, Louis Thompson, C. E. Calloway, W. M. Gage, H. C. Jenkins, Howard Lester, Herbert Johnson, J. C. Adams, Bill Satterwhite, Sims Graves, Roy Case, G. H. Hart, Oscar Watts, J. Y. Robb, M. H. Bennett, Charles Sullivan, L. L. Miletad, Burke Summers, Emory Duff, H. M. Rowe, D. F. Bigony, Charles K. Hivings, Jack Nall, John Brigham, L. C. Dahme, J. C. Loper, Della K. Agnell, Elmer Potter.

Miss Moore, internationally famous for her singing on the stage and over the air, comes Saturday night, Sunday and Monday to the Ritz in her first starring film, "One Night of Love," a Columbia production. This contest has served to introduce this glorious star to Big Spring.

To those persons who correctly assemble the photograph of Miss Moore, neatly and cleverly, prizes will be awarded in the following fashion:

- 1st Prize—3 months pass to Ritz.
2nd Prize—3 months pass to Ritz.
3rd Prize—1 month pass to Ritz.
4th Prize—Four passes.
5th Prize—Two trip passes.

Solution must be mailed in to the Contest Editor, care of Daily Herald not later than 9 p. m. on Sunday. Get busy now, and see if you can win one of the prizes!

PICTURES SHOW HOW FIRE DESTROYED NOME, ALASKA 'DIZZY' AND 'DAFFY' LIKE FAN MAIL STUDY CLUES IN SLAYING OF GIRL

Was He Right?

These pictures, the first of the fire that leveled the famous Alaska gold mining city of Nome, show graphically the smoldering ruins of what a few hours before had been a prosperous community. At the top three volunteer firemen are shown making a valiant effort to halt the march of the flames with streams of water, bucket brigades and even dynamite. Below is a view of a devastated area of the city. (Associated Press Photos)

Baseball's most famous brothers, Jerome "Dizzy" Dean (center), and Paul "Daffy" Dean (left) got quite a kick out of numerous letters and telegrams from St. Louis fans hoping they would be at their best against the Detroit Tigers in the world series. At the right is Mrs. Jerome Dean, who seems just as elated as her husband. (Associated Press Photo)

Chief of Detectives Fred W. Frahm (right) of Detroit and Detective Leo Doyle are shown examining clues in the slaying of Lillian Gallafer, 11-year-old Detroit girl whose body was found in a trunk. A rope similar to that which bound the girl, and a hammer were found in the apartment where the body was discovered. (Associated Press Photo)

With the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, alien German carpenter, in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case it was revealed that B. C. Farrer (above), handwriting expert in the treasury department more than two years ago had characterized the writer of the ransom notes as a methodical German carpenter. (Associated Press Photo)

QUIZ SUSPECT'S BEACH PAL

Anita Lutzenberg (right), attractive German girl, was questioned by Lindbergh investigators in New York after she had described a 1932 summer vacation swimming party which included Hauptmann (center), shown with her. At this time Mrs. Hauptmann was in Europe. (Associated Press Photo)

Vanderbilt Witness

Emma Sullivan Kealich, nurse for 10-year-old Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, was chief de'ense witness in Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt's suit to obtain custody of the girl from the child's aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. Mrs. Vanderbilt, mother of the child, was described by the nurse as "unfit" to care for the heiress. (Associated Press Photo)

TO FACE JURY TRIAL SOON

Here is a new closeup of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, indicted for extortion in the Lindbergh kidnaping case, whose trial is expected to start the second week in October. Because of publicity given Hauptmann's apprehension, and subsequent developments, prosecutors expect the task of selecting a jury will be a difficult one. (Associated Press Photo)

Defends Golf Title

QUESTIONED IN LINDBERGH CASE

Fingerprints and photographs of Joseph Bowman (above), held at Chicago detective headquarters for questioning as a suspect in the Lindbergh kidnaping, were sent to New York, although Chicago officials said they had little hope of connecting him with the plot. For a time it was thought he might be the mysterious "John" in the case. (Associated Press Photo)

DETROITERS PAY $139,643 TO SEE TIGERS LOSE

Here's a section of the crowd of 42,508 baseball fans who paid $139,643 in gate receipts at Navin field Detroit, to see the St. Louis Cardinals defeat the Detroit Tigers of the American league by the commanding score of 8 to 5 in the first game of the world series. (Associated Press Photo)

INSULL READY FOR LENGTHY TRIAL

Samuel Insull, Sr. (left), is shown with his attorney, Floyd Thompson, on their way to federal court in Chicago where the former utilities magnate is being tried on charges of using the mails to defraud. The trial is expected to require four or five months. Just behind Thompson can be seen Samuel Insull, Jr., one of the 16 co-defendants. (Associated Press Photo)

In Kidnap Quiz

Dr. J. F. "Jafsie" Condon (above) was believed to have been the "wit-ness" who identified Bernard Richmond, German alien held in New York, as the man who received the $50,000 Lindbergh baby ransom fund which "Jafsie" handed over in an attempt to have the baby, later found dead, returned alive. (Associated Press Photo)

Police 'Mug' Suspect

Here is Bruno Richard Hauptmann, suspect in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, as he submitted to an official photograph at New York City police headquarters during the round of questioning and other formalities following his arrest. (Associated Press Photo)

Kidnaped?

Disappearance of six-year-old Dorothy Distshurst of Nashville, Tenn., gave rise to theories that she might have been kidnaped. (Associated Press Photo)

SAFETYGRAMS

Do not drive on the left side of the center line of a highway in overtaking another car proceeding in the same direction unless the roadway ahead is clearly visible and free from oncoming traffic for a sufficient distance to permit such overtaking and passing to be done safely.

Never overtake and pass another vehicle proceeding in the same direction upon the crest of a hill or upon a curve in the highway unless there is a clear and unobstructed view ahead.

Do not overtake and pass another car proceeding in the same direction at any highway intersection unless it is controlled by a traffic officer or automatic signal device. If the driver ahead has properly signalled for a left turn you may then pass his car on its right side.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Remember The Honors?
It's one of the distressing features of American sport that freedom remembers the fellow who did the wrong thing, rather than the bloke who comes through with a more heroic gesture.

It's 100 to 1 you can't recall who won the deciding game for the Chicago Cubs against the New York Giants in their memorable playoff in 1905 for the National League pennant but anyone knows that Fred Merkle's failure to touch second base was responsible for said play-off.

You may not remember offhand who tallied the winning touchdown for Georgia Tech in the Rose Bowl football on January 1, 1929, but who doesn't recall that Roy Riegels, the California center, picked up a loose ball and ran about 70 yards toward his own goal in that contest?

When anybody mentions the 1917 world series, the first crack is apt to be: "Oh, yes, wasn't that the time Heinie Zimmerman chased Eddie Collins of the White Sox across the plate with the winning run?" And the answer is, of course, "yes."

1934 Has Its Share
Consequently, long after all the box-scores and summaries of current events have been stowed away, they will be talking about how back in 1934 Thomas Octave Murdoch Sopwith kicked away a glorious chance to capture the America's Cup off Newport, how the Giants booted away their National League pennant lead and the freak circumstance by which Elmer Boesak,keley California polo star, knocked the ball between his own goalposts for the score that meant victory for the East in the international battle on horseback with the West.

It may be an injustice to all concerned to dwell on the shortcomings, rather than the more beautiful side of life, but since it is all part of the great American sporting show—at a stated price of admission—I suppose there hardly can be any objection to the tendency toward magnifying mistakes made under the stress of hard competition.

Furthermore, it wouldn't be sport if there weren't a lot of "ifs" in the wake of any closely contested event or a flock of debates over the outcome. Sopwith may have had good grounds for protest against "Mikes" Vanderbilt's Rainbow at a critical stage of the America's Cup races but the British yachtman's feelings on the whole must be like those of the golfer who kicks away his match after being "two up and five to go." Sopwith "blew" something like a six-minute lead at the halfway stage of the third race and with it apparently went his confidence and control at the wheel. Thereafter, he was like a wild southpaw pitcher with the bases full.

Look At The Giants
The Giants seem to have a long-standing habit of getting mixed up on one end or the other of a rousing finish. The 1908 New York club had what looked like a commanding lead in the stretch, only to lose it away, finally wind up in a tie with the Cubs and lose the famous playoff game for the pennant.

The case of the Giants and Pittsburgh is the best parallel, however, to the current case of the Cardinals and Giants. Pittsburgh had a seven-game lead going into the September stretch of the 1923 season, but dropped five straight to New York at the Polo grounds and 10 out of 11 games to the Giants altogether in the closing part of the campaign. New York took the lead near the finish and kept it.

This year the Giants led by seven games on September 6, as they began a long home stand, and looked to be a lead-pipe cinch to win hand-lard. Add milk. When soft dough forms, pat out and fit over fruit mixture.

Fruit Mixture
2-3 cup apricots, 1-2 cup diced pineapple, 1-2 cup Imperial sugar, 2 tps. lemon juice, 1-3 tsp. cinnamon, 8 tps. butter.
Mix ingredients and pour into bottom of buttered baking dish. Cover with dough and bake 25 minutes in moderate oven. Serve warm or cold.
Fresh or canned fruits can be used.

A New Star

Employment, Payrolls Improved In September

AUSTIN—Employment records and payrolls in Texas during September showed a moderate improvement over both August of the current year and September, 1933, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Reports from 1,578 establishments for the week ending September 15 gave a total of 86,248 employees, a gain of 1.9 per cent over August and 8.3 per cent over the corresponding week last year. Payrolls for these establishments aggregated $1,528,000, a gain of 4.4 per cent over August and 13 per cent over the corresponding week in September, 1933.

The movie world hails a new, vibrant, glamorous screen personality—the ravishing, radiant Grace Moore, America's leading prima donna and star of the film sensation, "One Night of Love," which will be presented at the Ritz theatre as feature unit of a super-special R & R unit program: Saturday matinee, Sunday and Monday.

Rarely has a star received such laudatory reviews as those occasioned by Grace Moore in "One Night of Love." Not only the press but fellow artists, among them Clark Gable, Maurice Chevalier, Norma Shearer, Herbert Marshall, Eddie Cantor, Mary Pickford, Ruth Chatterton and Gloria Swanson, who are at the top of the profession, have been thrilled by this new star and have acclaimed her achievement fulsomely. Such praise is noteworthy since the acting coterie are the screen's severest critics. Performance and personality must achieve a very high grade of excellence to warrant laudatory remarks from such top-notchers.

Grace Moore was born in Jellico, Tennessee. Mary Garden, famous diva of the Chicago Opera company, became her idol and firm friend, diverting her plan of becoming a missionary by encouraging her to cultivate what was already a golden voice while Mrs. Moore was still in her teens. She was spurred in her endeavor by a bet of one hundred dollars with the late Otto Kahn, financier and art patron, that she would achieve the Metropolitan within a certain period. And the romantic story told in "One Night of Love" parallels to a certain degree her own remarkable life story. Fiction provides the motivating situation:

That Grace is to live in the same house as her music teacher and be constantly under his supervision but that their relations remain untroubled by even the suggestion of a love affair. This is a situation fraught with comic and dramatic implications making for a solidly sustained gripping and convincing story sustaining its glorious musical and romantic interest.

Mrs. William Dehlinger and daughter, Miss LaFerte Dehlinger, and Miss Marie Dunham left Friday morning for El Paso, where they will visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Martin. They will also witness the football game Saturday afternoon between Big Spring High and El Paso (Boys) High.

TIGER ISLAND

By Gouverneur Morris

Chapter 23

"TIGER, TIGER!"

It began to look as if even the barrage of fire would not much longer hold the tiger back and toward dusk, working with feverish haste, Bowers finished the deadfall for the last time.

He had simplified it somewhat and there remained a twelve-foot piece of coconut stem for which there was no logical place in the new design and no real need.

"Where are you going to put that piece?" Ivy asked.

The tiger just beyond the line of fire snarled at the sound of her voice, and Bowers answered:

"I am not going to put it anywhere."

As he spoke he gave the big stick a little push with his hand so that it would fall away from him and at the same moment, almost almost the same moment, realized what an idiotic thing he had done and sprang for the falling timber in a vain effort to catch it and keep it from falling.

The further end of the timber grazed the nearest of the three tripmines and the deadfall collapsed with a heavy crash, Bowers sprang back to be out of danger, but not far enough. His head was merely grazed, but he fell as helplessly as one of his own legs and lay unconscious at Ivy's feet.

During the long struggle Ivy had seemed calm and untroubled, but her nervous system had been slowly going to pieces. She perceived at once that Bowers was not dead. Instinct told her immediately that unless he came to quickly, and was able to help himself, there was nothing between him and death but herself and the clumsy one-shot gun. The barrier of fire which they had made against the tiger was burning low. The way to Bowers over the fallen timbers of the deadfall was simple and direct.

Her mental processes at the moment were quick and cool. If the tiger came to them it would be with a rush. Better, she thought, for her to go to him while the fire still burned and she still hesitated to attack.

If the gun failed her, as it probably would, the tiger, when he had killed her, would for some time pay no further attention to Bowers. Bowers would have a chance to come and save himself.

"You great, cowardly, skulking beast," he said and she stepped from the last of the fallen logs to firm ground, separated from him by no more than a dozen feet. "Afraid of a little fire? I don't see what I am doing with this gun. I could drive a thing like you with a whip. I wish I had my whip. I'd cut your hide to ribbons!"

Words angrily spoken might, she conceived, serve a little to bewilder the tiger. She kept the gun pointed at him, and the hammerstone ready to strike. If only he wouldn't make a move until she was within a few feet of him!

In places the fire was almost out. She stepped across it, and the tensed muscles of the tiger began to quiver. He was going to spring. She drew a long shivering breath and bit her lip. Then with death staring her in the face, she suddenly smiled and in a loud voice began to repeat:

"Tiger, tiger burning bright. . ."

She finished with a wild scream of rage and fear. The tiger sprang, and she struck the firing-pin of the gun with a hammerstone. She saw ten thousand stars.

When Ivy came to, it was night and a heavy weight was being lifted from her. Her brain began to clear.

"What happened?" she asked.

But Bowers, who was kneeling beside her and feeling gingerly for broken bones, did not answer.

"Do you hurt much anywhere?" he asked.

"No. . . no. . ." she said, "not particularly. But I feel numb and prickly."

She had reason to feel that way. She had been lying under the body of a dead tiger for nearly two hours.

Bowers lit a match.

Ivy was all a mess of blood. But it was all tiger blood. She hadn't a scratch. She had only one bad bruise. This had been made by the recoil of the gun. Her right shoulder hurt her for several days. She was weak and shaken, but the hurt had been to her nervous system and not to her body. She was even able, after resting awhile to climb the notched pole to the cave.

They talked well into the night. Bowers was so proud of Ivy that he couldn't stop telling her so and she didn't.

Ivy herself was happier than she had ever been before. There is nothing in the world so sweet as praise that it well deserved.

The next morning, however, they overlapped.

When Bowers yawned his way to the mouth of the cave to have a look at the weather the sun had already cleared the volcano. Having blinded himself somewhat in ascertaining the exact position of the sun he stood blinking and did not for some minutes perceive the gray hull of a gunboat at anchor in the lagoon.

When he did at last see the Ladysmith, he turned and rushed back into the cave laughing and shouting like a schoolboy. He got out the starred and striped flag of his country, hitched it to the waiting bulwarks and proudly hoisted it to the top of its flagpole, where it zavi flapped and rattled in the fresh breeze from the sea.

On the Ladysmith there were many pairs of sharp eyes, and a few minutes later the result of being the first to see "Old Glory" went to the boatwain's mate. Two minutes later, and thereafter at intervals of a minute for twenty minutes, the Ladysmith fired a gun.

on carrying her own suitcase.

The coming of the Ladysmith to Tiger Island was not an accident. The great smoke rising from the conflagration in the back valley had been seen and reported by a passing ship. The Admiralty had decided that it would be worth while to investigate. The Ladysmith had received orders, and here she was.

Yes, Wong Bo had been captured, and had taken his own life. Bowers' guns had been recovered and were in apple-pie condition. What, no longer had any use for them? He was going to give up big-game hunting?

Ivy said that he didn't have to unless he wanted to, but he insisted that he was going to trade in his guns for a lot of cameras and do that kind of big-game hunting.

That night at dinner the commander and the second in command wanted to know all about the economies and routines of life on a desert island, but Bowers was much too gay and joyous to be serious.

"I did all the cave-keeping," he said, "cooking, washing, ironing, shelling peas, peeling potatoes and working the vacuum cleaner. I wore a cap and an apron. The woman did all the hunting."

amounts were for refunding purposes but by no means all. The net increase in discount bills outstanding is $700,000,000 since January 1.

If the same system is applied weekly to the end of the year it will add $400,000,000 more to the treasury's cash and bring the total increase in this type of obligation for 1934 up to $1,100,000,000. That's money in any language—but the banks aren't kicking.

Republicans

The Republicans have about as much chance of capturing New York state this fall as the Yankees had to win the World's series. Backstage leaders concede as much. Robert Moses was nominated for governor because the Old Guard used a steamroller to squelch rebellion—and plenty of upstate Republicans are sore about it.

Even a smashing defeat for Moses would have its consolations for his sponsors. They've eliminated that nuisance Kingsland Macy. Moreover if Moses is licked they can argue that the party has re-negotiated liberalism so let's get back to old principles. Meanwhile Moses will give them what they want—an aggressive and colorful state-issues campaign. You hear plenty of talk that it was a put-up job—that the Old Guard values control of the machinery more than success.

NEW YORK
 By JAMES M'KULLIN

Must

Government efforts to solve the railroad tangle will make big-time news in the next six months and Jesse Jones is likely to be in the headlines when it's made. Well-informed New York sources predict that the Texan who heads the RFC by grace of bi-partisan strength in congress will be prominently featured in the railroad drama. His recent demand that the public should be represented in the newly formed Association of American Railroads is viewed as a prologue to his appearance in the spotlight.

Something just must be done about the rails. They must be hauled out of the quicksand which threatens to engulf them—not only for their own sake but because their rehabilitation offers by all odds the best hope of pulling heavy industry out of the slough of despond.

Heavy industry is still the recovery doctors' sickest patient. It's barely breathing and the public works pulmotor has done it little good. Until its revival there isn't a Chinaman's chance of restoring employment and purchasing power to normal. The political slant also figures. Canny observers say FDR must work a cure by '36 if he wishes to face the voters with equanimity. If he doesn't it will mean that his recovery medicine is a flop. You can see why railroad grief is getting Washington's best attention.

Reward

Jesse temperament contrasts vividly with that of Joseph B. Eastman—whose job as coordinator makes him the government's big gun in dealing with the railroads.

age if his side is setting up the din.

Elation over the Democratic victory in Maine had worn off just about the time Mr. Roosevelt took his microphone in hand again. The barrage on the alphabetical agencies from Alpha to Omega had been reducing the nerves of many New Deal inner guardsmen to a rather frayed condition.

Administrationites profess no concern over the outcome of the congressional elections. They say they are just playing safe and "running a scared race."

But the fact of the matter is they are worried. They will continue to fret until the election returns give the Democratic roster a signal to crow.

It is true the New Deal has no real fear of losing the house. Also, it is mathematically impossible for the G. O. P. to wrest control of the senate from them next month. The rub comes in that the New Deal has been made the only issue in the campaign by the Democrats and the loss of every seat to an Old Dealer will be a blot on its escutcheon.

Everyone knows that some of the weak sisters who rode into congress on President Roosevelt's coat tails two years ago will be weeded out this fall.

There is reason to believe that the loss of anything over 25 seats will send some of the master-minds into the solitude of their offices for a good cry.

But now they have heard their masters' voice again. The New Dealers are as chirky as a brindled pup at the first frost.

One New Dealer reported that the first person he encountered as he emerged from his home the morning after FDR's confidential chat with capital and labor was a blind shoe-lace salesman, waiting for some Boy Scouts to guide him across the traffic stream.

Deciding to do his good deed for the day, the New Dealer piloted the blind man from curb to curb. As they reached safety, the peddler asked if his benefactor had heard the president's speech the previous night. The N. D. admitted he hadn't but intended to read it in the paper.

"Oh," sympathized the blind man. "You missed a treat."

"Yes, sir," commented the New Dealer later after perusing the text, "that man had vision."

Loans

A new and uniform system for federal supervision of banks is due almost any day. Mr. Morgenthau is waiting only to get a final report from his aides who have been checking bank loans in the so-called Chicago district—embracing four states—before announcing his new policy. Applications for approximately 4,000 small loans, picked at random, have been investigated to determine whether or not the bankers have been too tough in their demands for collateral.

When Morgenthau had his recent conference of all the agencies riding herd on national banks, he was amazed to learn it was the first time in twelve years that the twelve chief national bank examiners had been brought together.

President Roosevelt's request that the severity of their examinations be lessened and the "rule of reason" applied may stir a lot of dried bones.

Guns

Word has been passed here in authoritative circles that John J. Raskob has informed his various business interests they may not expect much of his time after January 1.

The former Democratic National chairman under Al Smith is getting ready to devote most of his energies to the American Liberty League, recently formed anti-New Deal organization.

The same sources say Irene duPont pledged himself to underwrite the Liberty League for four years at $250,000 a year should that be necessary. (The hope, of course, is to defeat President Roosevelt in 1936.) Irene duPont is a former Republican who contributed heavily to the 1928 Smith campaign and the 1932 Roosevelt campaign, but who now has changed his mind again.

The League is going to get its big guns out the first of the year coincidentally with the convening of congress. William C. Murphy, Jr., lately chief Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger, has been retained for two years to handle publicity.

Treaty

Admiral Frank B. Upham, commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet, will be thoroughly posted on Far Eastern and Pacific conditions after he has completed his cruise to Guam, Australia, Dutch East Indies and the Philippines. Secretary Swanson has been gathering into his hands complete information in anticipation of the naval conference next year. President Roosevelt's visit to Hawaii was supplemented by Secretary Roper's visit to the Aleutian Islands and by a similar trip by air exports and looking into possible routes to Siberia. All this will be followed by naval maneuvers on a grand scale in Alaskan waters next fall.

Nothing is expected to result from the flying visit of Japan's naval expert to Washington on his way to London. The real conversations will be held there. If favorable, the naval conference will be held next year for the purpose of revamping the treaty which expires in 1936. If no preliminary understandings can be reached it's probable that the naval conference will be called off and the parity treaty terminated at the instance of Japan.

The most watchful and best-posted Secretary of the Navy of recent years is on the job.

NEW YORK
 By JAMES M'KULLIN

Weak

President Roosevelt's latest "fire-side chat" stirred more widely conflicting interpretations in New York than any other talk-he-has-ever made. Most conservatives expressed keen disappointment. They thought he was going to swing further their way. A few maintained he concealed everything to business he could with due regard to political factors and showed signs of a new viewpoint which promises better relations between the administration and industry for the future.

The most important point to New York insiders is not what he

But not all the anti-New Dealers are die-hards. There's reason to believe that some of the most important ones aren't. They strongly dislike many phases of Mr. Roosevelt's program but they see a menacing radical shadow over his shoulder and would rather preserve their half-loaf by cooperating with him—as indicated recently in this column—than risk losing the works by discarding him and thus stimulating the best safety-valve against radicalism.

And that's what convinces the second school of thought that the president is playing a strong and canny game. They hope it that some compromise was necessary—some gesture to justify moderate conservative leaders in joining with the administration to promote recovery and hold the extreme leftists in check. Now the gesture—they argue—has been made and they predict real progress in consequence.

These divergent interpretations are both held by people whose opinions are entitled to respect. You take your choice. In one case you'll see a gradual relaxation of New Deal standards and a probable bitter-end conservative triumph—perhaps to be followed by a bitter-end reaction from the opposite direction. In the other a coalition of moderate elements to the confusion portends the next few weeks should tell whether FDR has given ground or gained it. Financial and business statistics and employment records will give as good a clue as election results.

Screws

Well-posted authorities believe the president has something more on his mind than a desire to be agreeable when he lavished such fulsome praise on our British cousins.

We have several fish to fry with England when the time is ripe. There's no immediate prospect of international monetary stabilization but it's coming some day and highly unofficial and informal negotiations are already in progress. Insiders understand they've been somewhat hampered by tactless tweaking of the lion's tail in the senate munitions investigation.

The president's compliments are construed as a move to offset this diplomatic faux pas. The friendlier the atmosphere the better the chances for a satisfactory outcome. Starved observers believe these tactics may work—and that return courtesies will be evidence of cooperation from American sources whose English connections have long been of the best.

Added

The treasury has discovered an almost painless method of raising cash. So far it's worked beautifully and so quietly that hardly anyone outside of banks and dealers in federal securities have noticed it. But it's adding a tidy item to the public debt.

Discount bills are the most inconspicuous form of government obligation. Nobody ever buys them except banks. For sixteen weeks in a row—up to October third—the treasury has sold $75,000,000 of them a week. Most of these
