Citizens Request Commission To Procure Park Acreage

WASHINGTON By GEORGE DURNO Compromise—

Nobody seems to be able to read President Roosevelt's mind except FDR himself. Today the fat boys are having a fit trying to figure out whether or not the New Deal intends to ask congress to set up a Central Bank of Issue.

Before election inspired sources scoffed at the idea. Now that the people have come through with another vote of confidence it is cropping up again.

Smart money here is betting the Central Bank plan has been replanted as a scare-crow to worry the bankers into acceptance of a considerable widening of the Federal Reserve Board's powers.

President Roosevelt has made several adroit moves already to get the banking system squarely under Washington's thumb. The Federal Deposit Insurance Act requires that all banks affiliate with the Federal Reserve system by July 1, 1936 or lose out on the government's deposit guarantee.

More than 90 per cent of our banking institutions already are on the band wagon. Secondly, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has been waging a winning fight to bring the functions of the Comptroller of the Currency's office under his management. Finally, Marriner Eccles, newly appointed Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, favors re-molding the Federal Reserve system into a Central Bank without actually giving it that name.

Senator Fletcher of Fla., chairman of Senate Banking and Currency committee, announced several times before election there would be no "revolutionary" banking reforms attempted by the coming session. Recently he has sent out a questionnaire to the nation's leading financiers asking for their reactions to the idea of a Central Bank. Fletcher personally does not swing many anvils but his position as committee chairman gives him power to push or stifle legislation.

Answers to this questionnaire could be tabulated in advance. The bankers very emphatically don't want a Central Bank running their business. It would seem very logical, therefore, that they be asked to compromise on liberalization of the Federal Reserve Act.

Concentrate—

At present, the boards of directors of the twelve Federal Reserve banks elect their own governors, or executive officers. Those who should know say congress is going to be asked in January to provide that the president make such appointments.

Further, Washington control of "open market" operations will be recommended, it is predicted. This involves purchase and sale of government securities on the open market. The bankers themselves now direct how and when these purchases and sales should be made. Legislation said to be in the making would transfer this function to the Federal Reserve Board which always has been appointed by the president.

The grapevine says the New Dealers count on the Central Bank threat to scare the bankers into accepting these Federal Reserve reforms—which would concentrate banking control under the government equally as well. It is being pointed out that many members of the coming congress favor a Central bank, with only President Roosevelt's personal influence to block it.

Taxes—

"Sure, there'll be a tax bill," said a member of the Ways and Means committee. "We've got to re-enact the law that yields $600,000,000 or revamp it with new taxes. We want to cut down some of the taxes that overburden motorists. The whole taxable field has been surveyed during the summer. Some of the boys favor remission of certain business taxes if industry will spend money for employment. Nothing tangible is in sight. Better business conditions during the next six months would justify us in easing up on new taxes, because we would get more revenue from regular taxes."

Tax Commissioner Appointed By Allred

R B Anderson, Texas U. Prof, Gets New Post

First Announced Appointment By Forthcoming State Chief

AUSTIN, (AP)—Governor-elect Allred Wednesday announced appointment of R. B. Anderson, adjunct professor of law at Texas University, as tax commissioner.

It was the first publicly announced appointment by the forthcoming administration.

Previously Allred said he considered the tax commissioner post an extremely important, because of the condition of the state's finances and new tax legislation.

Allred said: "Need for intensive research taxation problems and vitalization tax administration is apparent to all."

Anderson, Burleson county native, attended Weatherford College and Texas University. He was a member of the Forty-third legislature.

Bill Bonner Held Up By 2 Masked Men

Local Man Relieved Of $127 On His Way Home Tuesday Night

Two masked men, armed with .45 pistols, held up Bill Bonner and escaped with $127 in cash Tuesday night, he reported to police.

Bonner said he had left his business on West Third street and had started home. He crossed a vacant lot and was going around a corner at West Fourth and Gregg when two men jammed guns in his ribs.

At the time, he said he was carrying about $129 in store receipts and $7 in change in his pocket. They commanded him to keep walking after they had relieved him of his money.

Bonner described them as being of medium build, about 23 years of age and one considerably heavier than the other. Both had handkerchiefs around their faces, he said. It was about 11:20 p. m. Tuesday when he locked up and started home, he said.

Hungary To Be Indicted For Assassinations

GENEVA (AP)—Indictment of Hungary in connection with King Alexander's assassination will be deposited Wednesday with the league of nations by the Belgrade government.

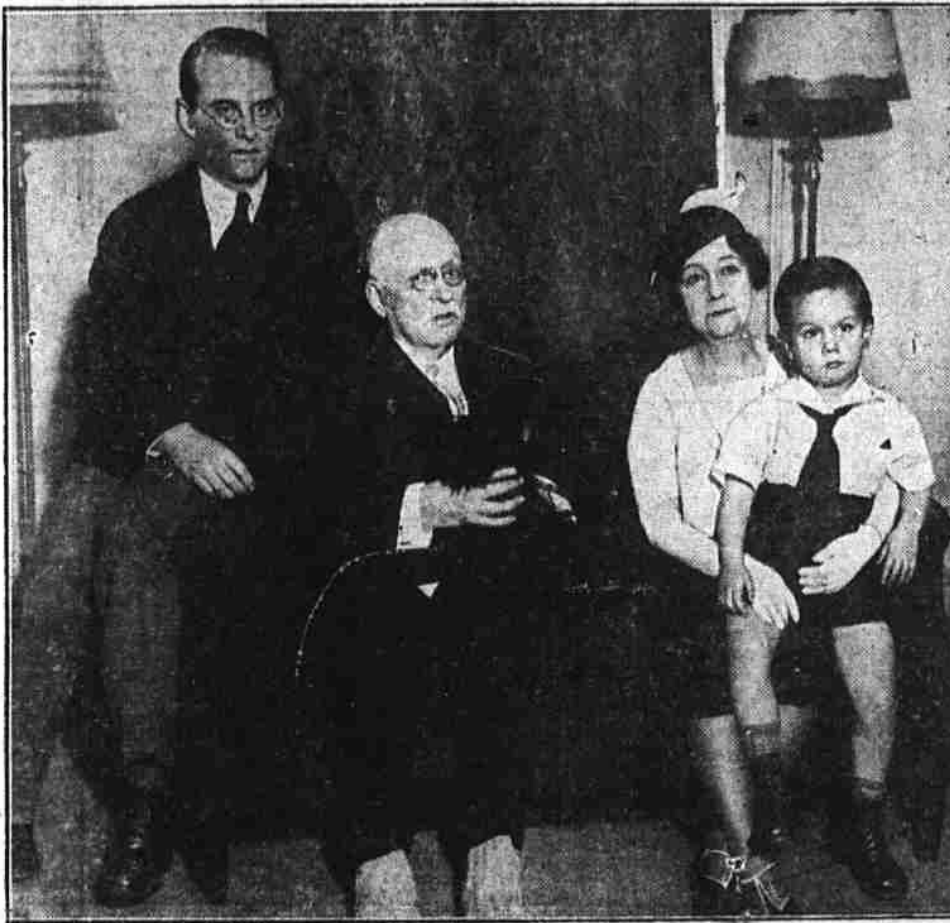

A memorandum revealed Yugoslavia deems Hungary's responsibility in three ways: Choice of criminals made on Hungarian territory. Criminals permitted to leave Hungary freely and provided with Hungarian passports. The assassinations were the result of terrorist action inspired and aided during the year on Hungarian soil.

The memorandum said: "Marcell crime is a natural culmination of conspiracy against Yugoslavia for a long time organized and nurtured abroad."

T. & P. ANNOUNCES $3 ROUND-TRIP FARE TO EL PASO DECEMBER 7

Frank Jensen, general passenger agent of the Texas & Pacific Railroad company, with headquarters in Dallas, notified local school authorities here Wednesday that a special round-trip rate to El Paso on December 7th would be $3, provided at least 300 persons were secured to make the trip to that city to witness the football game between the Big Spring Steers and El Paso High Tigers on Saturday, December 8th. The fare is good only on day coaches, and not good for Pullman reservations.

Additional coaches to care for the football fans will be attached to the crack Sunshine Special at 9:15 Friday night, Dec. 7, with arrival scheduled at 6:15 next morning in El Paso. Departure time from El Paso will be 9 o'clock Saturday night (El Paso time), Sunday morning at 6:35.

Local football fans desiring to witness the Steers in action against the El Paso High team for bi-district honors will be afforded a real opportunity to see the game by this cheap fare. School officials were elated when they received information as to the $3 rate early Wednesday afternoon by telephone communication with Mr. Jensen.

Indications were that a large number of fans would attend the game, and there would be little effort necessary to secure the reservations. However, local school authorities are planning to sign up all who desire to go to El Paso on the train, and get the required number to guarantee the train. George Gentry said Wednesday afternoon that plans for securing the 300 guaranteed passengers would be announced shortly.

Body To Make Overtures To W.P. Edwards

More Acreage Required To Assure Completion Of Local Park Project

Next move in the Scenic Mountain state park problem for Big Spring was put up to the city commission Tuesday evening in regular session by a group of citizens.

Acquisition of 22 acres of land on top of the mountain on the northeastern point was the principal request. If other land to complete the park to the south section line could also be had at a reasonable price, its acquisition was urged.

The citizens were prompted to appear before the commission for two reasons. Chairman D. E. Colp of the state park board, notified Thompson R. Richardson, superintendent on the project here, that unless the 22 acres were obtained the CCC camp located here would be moved out within 60 days. Too, one of the commissioners made it known to the park committee that the commission felt it had never been officially invited to attempt to procure the needed land.

Dr. P. W. Malone, chairman of the citizens' park committee, acted as spokesman for the group in asking the city commission to acquire the key plot of land on top of the mountain and any other which could be had to the south section line.

After much discussion the group retired with the commissioners indicating an overture would be made to acquire the land from the owner, W. P. Edwards.

Meanwhile, Mr. Edwards had had to be removed from his home to a hospital when his condition became worse Tuesday morning. He is suffering from a severe attack of muscular rheumatism.

Members of the citizens group, which appeared before the commissioners Wednesday said they were pleased with the reception given them by the commission. They said that they felt they had done all they could toward obtaining the park and were leaving the matter's fate in the commission's hands.

Only other items of business to come before commissioners Tuesday was the approving of minutes of the previous meeting.

He suffered a broken thigh, fractured pelvis and internal injuries when a coupe belonging to Charley Gettis, formerly drilling superintendent for the old Marland Oil company, was side-swiped by another car and careened from the road at a sharp turn. Mr. Boykin was thrown clear of the wreckage. Gettis was held in the car and sustained severe bruises and

3 Australian Fliers Land At Midland

Take-Off For Round-The-World Trip Delayed By Strong Winds Tuesday

MIDLAND—(AP)—Wednesday, the three Australian round-the-world fliers who landed here Monday afternoon were still grounded at the airport when a reported 50 miles per hour wind at an elevation of 14,000 feet between here and El Paso altered their plans of flying Tuesday to San Francisco.

The ultimate goal of the three fliers, Captain Charles T. P. Um, George McC. Littlejohn and J. Leon Skilling, is Sidney, Australia, their course calling for a trans-Pacific flight from Vancouver by way of Hawaii and Sava.

Leaving England by boat on November 10, Captain Um and his companions landed at Quebec, where they assembled their craft, a latest design twin-motored, low wing monoplane of English make. From there they flew to Montreal, Detroit and Wichita, Kansas, from which city they flew to Midland Monday in five hours.

The ship, an Airspeed Envoy, is being given a thorough testing during the transcontinental flight, this being the first time it has ever been flown since leaving the factory, and adjustments are made at stopping points enroute.

Mr. Skilling, navigator and radio operator of the flight, is also checking the elaborate radio apparatus that the ship carries, conversing through his sending and receiving equipment with the government and amateur operators while he is flying. Too, the radio direction finder is being thoroughly tried out, and the fliers were jubilant on arrival here Monday over their success in following with no difficulty the radio beam of Big Spring.

Captain Um had planned to leave before sunrise Tuesday morning and make San Francisco Tuesday night, continuing to Vancouver Wednesday, where final adjustments will be made before the three hop off on their long over-water flight in an attempt to link Canada and Australia by air for the first time. The longest continuous air travel they will have will be the 28 hour turn from Vancouver to Hawaii, a distance of approximately 2,900 miles.

Aim for the small island in the Pacific will be taken entirely by navigation devices, the ship's equipment including all the latest models of aviators' compass, sextant, drift indicator, and like device to aid blind-flying, and no radio control will be picked up until they are within 150 miles of Havana.

The trim English monoplane has been carefully fitted out according to Captain Um's design, and will carry only absolute essentials, even personal articles of the travelers being omitted. With the regular door to the cabin sealed off, additional tanks have been installed in the cabin to bring the total gasoline capacity of the ship up to 580 gallons, wing tanks carrying the normal supply. The additional gasoline will give the plane a cruising range of 3,800 miles, but will increase the 5,000 pound weight of the craft to 9,300 pounds, nearly five tons.

The two motors powering the Stella Australia, as the monoplane is called, are of English make and rotary type, each capable of 240 horsepower. They are built into the wings on either side of the cabin, and are lined gracefully into the sloping wings.

2 US Agents Get Criminal, But Lose Lives

Body Found In Ditch At Niles Center, Illinois, Wednesday Afternoon

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Baby Face" Nelson was found dead Wednesday afternoon at Niles Center, Illinois.

He had been shot five times in the stomach, twice in the chest and five times in each leg.

Attorney General Cummings said Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Agent Herman E. Hollis, who were killed, shot Nelson.

The body was in a ditch clad in underclothing.

CHICAGO, (AP)—Samuel P. Cowley, federal ace man hunter, died Wednesday from wounds inflicted in a gun battle with George "Baby Face" Nelson, in which Federal Agent Herman E. Hollis was killed.

The justice department disclosed Cowley was the real leader of the drive that ended Dillinger and commanded the hunt that tracked down "Pretty Boy" Floyd.

Massed government forces, state and city police sharpshooters, were pushing the Nelson search over Northern Illinois Wednesday.

The Justice Department said Nelson's career must be cut short at all costs. The agents were instructed to "shoot first".

Nelson is blamed for the death of three federal agents.

Cowley and Hollis were considered two of the department's best men.

AG HOPES BLAZE A NEW; FANS GO FOR TEXAS

Their Morale Pumped Up A Lot
COLLEGE STATION, (Spl.)—Their hopes blazing anew and their morale pumped up after more than a week of restraint from competition, The Texas Aggies feel they have a good chance to topple both tradition and the University of Texas Longhorns in the forty-first Aggie-Steer football tilt of history Thursday at Austin.

Championship Aspect
A championship aspect has edged into the game picture following Texas Christian's upset of the Rice Owls. If the Longhorns win from the Aggies and the Baylor Bears whip the Owls into line, the Southwest Conference bunting will fly from the Longhorn flag pole.

With His Boys
Coach Homer Norton has indicated he will stick by the collection of sophomores and squadmen he has started in the Aggies' past few games, and thus only three lettermen are named in the tentative lineup.

Red Raiders Beset With Injury Jinx
LUBBOCK—Every member of Texas Tech's Red Raiders left Tuesday for Tucson, Ariz., where they will play the last game of the season and their only Border conference game with Arizona University Thanksgiving day. Only one conference game was scheduled this year by Tech, and the Raiders will be playing for the mythical championship of the conference; Arizona is on top of the ladder now.

Coach Cavethon with all of the Matadors who are able to make the trip in two special coaches were accompanied by a group of students and Lubbock fans. For the first time this season Texas Tech went into the game as underdogs, and will play without seven of their regular men who are nursing injuries or who are ill with the flu. All four guards who have been running on the first string or first string replacements are included in the cripples.

Jerry Creswell, the well-known sports official, was in town last night on his way to Wichita Falls, where he is to be an official in the Wichita Falls-Electra game tomorrow.

Creswell, in warning some of the boys not to take El Paso High catch them too cheaply, recalled the Pampa-San Angelo game last year. Jerry said over-confidence was all in the world that beat the Harvesters. He declared Pampa had already made plans to play in the state semi-final.

Coach Martin's El Paso Tigers are rated plenty good. In his well balanced backfield is Cisneros and Heineman, two hard driving ball toters declared worthy of all-state consideration. The Tigers won the district 4 title last week by defeating the Austin Panthers.

Hunter Parks, sorrell-topped Texas Aggie runner from Terrell, really sped over the road when he won the 3.4 mile Southwest Conference cross country race the p. at week. He averaged only a fraction of a second more than five minutes a mile for the distance. And only a few yards separated Parks from Buren Edwards, of the University of Texas. Edwards is a former Big Spring athlete.

Speaking of Jerry Creswell again, he told of an interesting incident in connection with the history of the famed Butler field at Amarillo. It is said the Amarillo team has never been defeated on Butler field, but Creswell says he remembers back in 1927 when Abilene gave the plainsmen a terrible licking on the spot now called Butler field. The grid wasn't given the name Butler until some time later.

El Paso Coach To Scout Big Spring

EL PASO—El Paso High School Tigers, with the district championship tucked under their belts, will spend most of this week recuperating from severe bruises incurred in the Austin game, but will settle down to serious training for the Big Spring game, Dec. 8, in which a bi-district title will be at stake, next Saturday, Othol Martin, head coach, said last night.

Martin plans to scout Big Spring in its game with Colorado Thanksgiving Day. The Steers expect little opposition from Colorado and probably will keep most of their "heavy" stuff under cover, Martin said, but the game affords the only chance to get a line on just how much Big Spring has improved since early season tilts against Austin and Bowie.

Flashy Notre Dame Style Favored

AUSTIN (Spl.)—The flashy Notre Dame or Rockne system of football with its colorful exponents Jack Chevigny and Tim Moynihan of the University of Texas, has had a most impressive reception in Texas and the Southwest if ticket sales and attendance can be considered a criterion—and what could be a better way to judge!

Figures for home games only this year at Texas has shown an increase of about 10,000 in attendance over last year, not including the greatest Southwestern crowd of the season which is certain to throng into Memorial Stadium for the Thanksgiving Day game. Total attendance for last season's five home games, including the Oklahoma game which was played in Dallas under Texas auspices, was 42,953. This year's five games to date, also including the game in Dallas with the Sooners, have drawn 52,827 customers.

Moreover, if the crowds that witnessed the Longhorns on foreign fields were to be totaled with those in the home stadium, the total number would be almost double that of last season's total attendance. The Notre Dame, Rice, Arkansas, Texas Tech, crowds added to the prospective 30,000 for the Thanksgiving Day game will swell the total for the season to at least 150,000—a rather high number of people to view a Southwestern team in the course of one season.

Mitchell Club Poor Season Record

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 out at Steer field, Big Spring's 1934 football hopes, the Steers, will be fighting to clinch the district non-fall. If the locals win, it will be their first district title. The Steers have never been runner-up in the sector before, much less champions.

Steer teams have walloped Colorado contingents soundly for the past several years, but in early conflicts the Mitchell county boys were more successful. In 1926 at Colorado the Wolves won 9 to 6. They scored, kicked the extra point and blocked a punt to make it nine. In 1927 at Big Spring, Colorado won 12 to 6.

Jim Reese took over coaching duties at Colorado shortly after the season had opened and his team has defeated Midland for the only victory this year.

food, which will be turned over to the Red Cross and Boy Scout organization for distribution. This show has been especially planned and sponsored by the Ritz theatre management for Thanksgiving Day to make it possible for you to enjoy a good show and at the same time help Big Spring's needy enjoy Thanksgiving.

McCarthy, of Hollywood, in criticizing "Harold Teen," says: "Using the characters of the Carl Ed comic strip, "Harold Teen" emerges as an attraction with values primarily for the high school and juvenile trade. Geared to elicit with those groups, adults and sophisticated moderns will find in the picture romance, comedy, light drama, excitement and color.

"Diverting from the staccato tempo of the funny page idea, a distinct story including the necessary theatrical values has been written around the cartoon characters. Naturally much of the hilarious sock is lost as humans interpret the sketch action and dialogue the bubbles. In its stead is offered a story of youthful enthusiasm, its hopes, ambitions, little love affairs, petty jealousies, semi-tragedies and surprising developments.

"Of course Harold is in love with Lilliana and has the familiar Lilliana, Shadow, Pop, Pa and Ma Lovewell to contend with. A cub reporter he takes a pretty serious outlook on his future, which brings him in to association with banker Snatcher, who evinces a more than paternal interest in Lilliana. The arrival of Mimi, Snatcher's daughter who can't see Lilliana as a step-mother complicates the situation and brings on the Junior League amateur theatricals, which star Lilliana, and through a Jimmy Cagney Shanghai Lil' entrance presents Harold as a great tap dancer, thus making possible a career on the stage that guaranteed the future happiness of him and Lilliana.

"Showmanship that takes full advantage of the angles suggested by the cartoon feature and aims at arousing the interest of the scholastic gang seems to be the most adequate selling medium. As the picture marks the screen debut of Hal LeRoy, juvenile joking but noted dancer, there's the new personality angle to use. While LeRoy has but one number and that in the finale, it's a hit that won enthusiastic applause.

"However, as is common with pictures of this type, where there are so many available exploitation angles possible, care should be taken that the show is not built up too highly."

Produced and distributed by Warner Bros. From the comic strip by Carl Ed. Screen play by Paul Gerard Smith and Al Cohn. Music and Lyrics by Irving Kahal and Sammy Pahn. Directed by Murray Roth. Photography by Arthur Todd. Film Editor, Terry Morse. Supervisor, James Seymour. Art director, John Hughes. Gowns by Orry-Kelly. Vitaphone Orchestra conducted by Lee Forbstein. "THE HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD"

By George Arliss

Chapter 1

The interesting method of communication playing an important part in "The House of Rothschild," which by the way is my birthday contribution to 20th Century Pictures; it's their first anniversary, you know—emphasizes the important part played by rapid communication of intelligence, in the progress of humanity throughout all time. It calls to mind many methods, ancient and modern, employed in getting news through space.

Even in ancient times communicating over distances was incorrectly called "telegraphing." The more proper term for most of the olden devices perhaps would have been "semaphoring." Telegraph, as you know, is a combination of the words "tele" and "grapho", and that in Greek, most assuredly signifies, at a distance, and, to write. Semaphore, also can be explained in a combination of Greek roots meaning "sign" and "bear"; namely "sema", and "phero."

The first tangible reference to signalling in the Bible occurs in the Old Testament, first verse of Chapter VI, from the Prophet Jeremiah. We get this passage: "O, ye children of Benjamin, gather yourselves to flee out of the midst of Jerusalem, and blow the trumpet in Tekoa, and set up a sign of fire in Beth-Hacoreem; for evil appeareth out of the North, and great destruction." The writings of Jeremiah antedate Christ by nearly six hundred years. Another Biblical reference in the gospel of St. Matthew teaches that a signal light was suspended in the heavens by the hand of the Creator, and was seen by the Wise Men of the East at the birth of Christ. In my next narrative, we shall see that even Homer was concerned with the telegraph in his writings. (Next Episode Thursday)

MOVE NOW THAN EVER

With the passing of each year many new inventions come forward to lighten the burden of our lives. Some of these are the necessity of much physical or mental exertions on our parts. At the same time many new comforts and luxuries are added to the conveniences of the home, shop, and many other places which makes it very easy to be unconscious of hardships and privations.

Why Teachers Go Crazy

"Will you please repeat?" "Do you have our papers graded yet?" "Must we sign a pledge?" "May I get out early today? I've gotta go see the doctor." "My grandmother died again. May I cut class?"

What Are Shoulder Pads, Anyway?

"No, football isn't what it used to be," drawled the fictitious old timer who lettered in B. S. H. S. in the year 1914. "Those were the good ole days; everybody had to work like hell Columbia and be able to take plenty, too."

High School Sports

The game tomorrow tells the tale. If we win, we will be tied with either San Angelo or Sweetwater. The Wolves should only be a good workout to the Steers but Bristow is not taking any chances and will start his first string, to run up a score so some of the substitutes can see action.

Thanksgiving In 1934 Seems Different

1934's Thanksgiving is tomorrow. A celebration will be held quite different from that first Thanksgiving over three hundred years ago.

It will be the second for Captain Ulm, for in 1928 he was copilot to Kingsford-Smith on his history-making East to West flight from California to Australia. Too, Captain Ulm has made eight flights across the Tismin set from Australia to New Zealand, has flown to England twice, and until the recent race record, was created with making the fastest time from England to Australia, having flown the distance in six days and 22 hours. He is the holder of official first medals recognizing his flights from Australia to New Zealand and back, and from Melbourne, Australia, to New Guinea.

Whirligig public utilities interests should give heed to President Roosevelt's recent suggestion that the state governors group themselves into regional conferences with a single spokesman dealing with Washington from each region. Administration plans to control and regulate sale of power would be made easier if each section of the country were in harmony as to its needs and desires. Rural electrification is scheduled as an important angle of the administration's new public works program. Also, the government has to dispose of a lot of power generated at its various public dams if they are not to be classed as white elephants. Shaping— Informed circles hear that the Farmer-Laborites of Minnesota have about decided to let Senator Bob LaFollette and his new Wisconsin progressive party take the lead in guiding the destinies of next session's congressional liberals.

Leadership of the so-called Progressive Bloc in the house has been vested in Rep. Paul Kvale, Farmer-Laborite of Minnesota, ever since Fiorello LaGuardia left to become mayor of New York. Talk is now current that Kvale will step aside and let one of the seven Wisconsin progressives take the reins. Governor Floyd Olson of Minnesota, was in town recently and talked things over with Senator Henrik Shipstead, who polled the biggest Farmer-Labor majority of all. Shipstead has seniority over LaFollette but the hope is he will let the younger man run the show. Olson already has suggested that the Farmer-Laborites change their party name to progressive.

Notes— Gigantic public works spending for relief purposes is looming up. Lobby men here are becoming skeptical of government-industry cooperation. Wages and taxes will present new problems to the public as soon as congress meets. "Too many leftist New Dealers at Warm Springs" mutter the politicians of yesterday.

Thanksgiving Rotary Theme Special Music By Community Chorus

Thanksgiving was the theme at the Rotary club luncheon held Tuesday noon at Hotel Settles. The program was in charge of Rev. John T. Thorns, who had as his guest, Rev. A. T. Dyal, pastor of the Coahoma Presbyterian church, who delivered the Thanksgiving address. The musical feature was supplied by pupils of Mrs. E. F. Houser, Miss Charleyne Kelsey and Master Eddie Houser. They sang two descriptive numbers, "Baby Take a Bow" and "The Big Fat Turkey," which were exceptionally well rendered, and enjoyed by the club. The two little tots were roundly applauded, and as an encore number they rendered "The Big Fat Turkey." Rev. Dyal took as his subject, in keeping with the Thanksgiving theme, "Our Attitude Toward Life," with Thanksgiving in the center. "We should think of life in terms of Thanksgiving," said the speaker. "We have lots of things to be thankful for, and we should be content in thanksgiving. Our forefathers, with the many hardships to endure, showed their thankfulness in 1620 when with bowed heads they gave thanks to the Lord for the many blessings. He had bestowed upon them, even in what we might term today as utter hardships. "Life is, after all, what we make it. Some of us have more things to be thankful for than others, but we should all be content in thanksgiving, regardless of outward circumstances." Rev. Dyal, who is serving his first pastorate at Coahoma, is an interesting speaker, and thoughts expressed in his Thanksgiving address before the Rotary club were enjoyed to the utmost. C. T. Watson announced that the Forward Movement of the Chamber of Commerce had "gone over the top," and that approximately $2000 had been subscribed. He said he was "thankful" for the splendid cooperative spirit shown by Big Spring citizens in putting this drive over, and that the coming program of the local chamber of commerce would be as successful or even more successful than the financial drive. B. J. (Red) Cook, roll-call chairman for the Red Cross, announced that the campaign in Howard county had showed up, and unless the people gave better response to the campaign, that it was sure to fall short of the proposed goal of 1000 memberships. He asked for cooperation of the club in putting this roll call movement over. Guests for the day were: Dr. Lee Rogers, Miss Charleyne Kelsey, Master Eddie Houser, Mrs. E. F. Houser; Rev. A. T. Dyal, Coahoma; visiting Rotarians were A. B. Barrow, Abilene; Ivey Pratt and W. G. Riddle, Midland. Next week's program will be in charge of Albert M. Fisher, who said that he had secured prominent officials of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company to supply the feature.
