

A Toast To The Queen

Queen Mother, Princess Rehearse For Coronation

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's mother and sister pushed through crowds of cheering rubberneckers around Westminster Abbey today and entered the gleaming interior to practice their brief moments in the pageantry of Tuesday's coronation.

Queen Elizabeth II stayed at home in Buckingham Palace, getting ready to entertain 7,000 guests at a party in the palace gardens later today, her second big coronation function.

Mounting coronation fever gripped the capital. In the flag-bedecked streets for the sixth straight day crowds snarled traffic in central London, threatening to choke some of the city's main streets altogether.

President Talks Out In Defense Of AF Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he can give his personal assurance that proposed Air Force budget cuts will not reduce America's defenses beyond a margin of safety.

The question came up at his news conference in the wake of sharp debate at the capitol which raised critical questions about his defense spending plans.

Rep. Yorty (D-Calif.) accused Secretary of Defense Wilson of proposing cutbacks without knowing what effect they would have.

FIVE HILLS SEIZED

SEUL, Friday (AP)—The Chinese Reds sent 4,500 troops smashing into Western outposts near Panmunjom Thursday night after 6,500 Communists seized five hills in Central Korea.

Reds Unleash Huge West Front Attack

The Hook and Vegas, two of the most bitterly fought-over hills in the West, took the brunt of the Chinese attack and apparently held firm.

The main positions were repulsed in fierce hand-to-hand fighting. Allied soldiers on Vegas counter-attacked before midnight and were fighting with Chinese soldiers who had swarmed into the trenches on one finger of the hill.

Shivers Thinks Legislature Did Most Of Urgings

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Shivers figured today the Legislature acted favorably on 75 to 85 per cent of the recommendations he submitted when the 53rd session started.

The governor would not say what the session's "worst failure" was. He admitted disappointment that it hadn't acted on election code revision, teachers pay, congressional and judicial redistricting, additional highway funds, buildings for the state deaf school, prison and other institutions.

High on Shivers' list of jobs well done by the session which closed yesterday was its decision not to impose new taxes and not to add further costly state services, and the fact that it passed no laws punitive either to labor or business.

The governor said he did not consider these negative actions at all. "I think they were positive. You can't judge a Legislature's accomplishments on a numerical basis," the governor told a news conference.

Shivers repeated his hope that the natural gas tax suit tying up 45 million dollars in revenue will be decided in favor of the state and that a special session can provide buildings for such purposes as cancer research.

The governor said he still thought teachers needed a pay raise "and I hope I can continue to fight to give them one."

Compromise on teachers pay and the new building funds failed in the last days of the session. The Legislature voted $600 raises for teachers, but didn't finance them. The administration offered a $300 conditional raise linked with other projects if the gas tax suit was settled in favor of Texas.

Shivers also listed these plus marks for his legislative program: New space for tuberculosis patients, eight water bills, toll road legislation, pay raises for state employees, the job classification survey for state workers, modification of the auto inspection law, strengthening of the narcotics law and auto safety laws, several constitutional amendments, revise of the economic index law, the commission to study higher education, establishment of the alcoholism commission, abolition of obsolete boards and bureaus.

Red Army Commander Removed In E. Germany

Soviet Troops May Be Taken From E. Reich

By TOM REEDY BERLIN (AP)—Russia took its control over East Germany out of the hands of the military today. It could mean withdrawal of troops, eventually.

The announcement said the Soviet Control Commission is abolished, Gen. Vasily Chuikov will handle only troops henceforth, and Vladimir Semenyov returns to Berlin as "supreme commissar" for Russia.

Semenyov becomes civilian boss of 18 million East Germans. He had been political adviser to Chuikov.

Chuikov, hero of Stalingrad and lifter of the Berlin blockade, undoubtedly will not remain here long merely to direct 300,000 occupation troops. It might be, Allied sources said, that his last job in Germany will be to "take Ivan home."

Western circles heard in February the Russians had fixed June 1 as a target date to withdraw troops.

The selection of Semenyov is in some respects an imitation of the Western Powers who have chosen "ambassadors" to West Germany. When the European defense treaties are ratified, the American, British and French high commissioners will be "ambassadors" to what amounts to a sovereign state.

The Russian action was regarded here as matching that of the West. It could mean Moscow is convinced the European treaties will be ratified by all, including reluctant France, and therefore it must be ready to recognize the Russian Zone of Germany as an autonomous state, too.

In the light of the Moscow announcement today, there was considerable thought in Berlin that the "scorched earth" tactics of recent weeks have amounted to a take while the taking's good.

Developments would have to justify a conference with Soviet leaders, he said.

The Big Three session is a planned meeting of Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Churchill and the French premier next month. Churchill has said he hopes it will be followed by a top level meeting with the Russians on East West tensions.

AIRPORT TALKS UNDERWAY HERE

Charlie Froberbaum, district airport engineer for the Civil Aeronautics Authority, was in Big Spring today to confer with City Manager H. W. Whitney on CAA requirements for a commercial airport.

Whitney had requested information pertaining to the CAA's minimum requirements for runways and other facilities after learning the Chamber of Commerce had requested its Aviation Committee to undertake a study of possibilities for establishing a new airport here.

The meeting with Holderbaum was solely for the purpose of gaining information as a guide for any future action.

Also participating in the discussions was Barney Edens, manager of the city's airport facilities at Hamilton Field.

Russian 'Supreme Commissar' Picked

LONDON (AP)—Moscow removed its army commander in East Germany today from all duties except command of Soviet troops and appointed a Russian "supreme commissar" to supervise government affairs of the Soviet-occupied zone.

The Moscow Radio, announcing this, said the Soviet Control Commission in Germany now is abolished.

The Russian broadcast referred to the appointment of a "supreme commissar" but the term could be translated "high commissioner"—the same term used by each of the three Western Powers for their chief representatives in West Germany.

Abolition of the Soviet Control Commission parallels, at least on paper, similar steps taken long ago by the three Western occupying powers, the U. S., Britain and France.

Closing down of the Control Commission apparently means the Kremlin is prepared to accord East Germany's Communist-dominated government the trapping, if not the substance, of sovereignty, in Germany, one observer commented.

That arrangement does not become effective until ratified by the Western occupation powers, however, and Moscow meantime had a wide-open opportunity to act.

The West took the initiative in offering a "peace contract" to West Germany which the Bonn parliament has ratified. It is intended to restore almost complete sovereignty to West Germany.

That arrangement does not become effective until ratified by the Western occupation powers, however, and Moscow meantime had a wide-open opportunity to act.

Officials speculated the Moscow move might be the first of a series aimed at winning the allegiance of the Germans. These could include removal of Soviet occupation troops from East Germany without waiting for agreement with the western powers for a general withdrawal.

The announcement said the Soviet Council of Ministers (cabinet) had "decided the abolition of the Soviet Control Commission in Germany and the freeing of the supreme commander of Soviet troops from performing duties of control in the German Democratic Republic."

The Soviet commander's activities in the future will be "limited to the command of Soviet troops in Germany," the broadcast said.

It added: "The USSR Council of Ministers has decreed that a post of supreme commissar of the USSR in Germany be instituted, domiciled in Berlin and has entrusted him with representing the interests of the Soviet Union in Germany."

Vladimir Semenyov, member of the Soviet foreign minister collegium, was appointed supreme commissar.

The commissar will "watch over the activity of authoritative organs of the German Democratic Republic from the time of the beginning of their fulfillment of undertakings arising from the Potsdam decision of the Allied Powers in Germany."

He also will maintain "appropriate relations with representatives of the occupational powers of the U. S. A., Britain and France on questions of a general nature arising from agreed decisions of the four powers on Germany."

Lt. Gen. Vasily Chuikov, commander of the Soviet forces in Germany, has been chairman of the Soviet Control Commission, established when the Russians set up the East Zone (public) in 1949.

But Semenyov, the new "commissar," has been a potent force in East German affairs for more than six years. He was political advisor to Marshal Vasily Sokolovskiy, who was succeeded by Chuikov in 1949.

On Jan. 7, 1949, Semenyov was named extraordinary ambassador plenipotentiary to the Soviet zone, and eliminating the veto power.

ROKs Won't Accept Present UN Proposal

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN SEUL (AP)—Bristling with charges of Allied appeasement and sellout in Korea, the South Korean government today spelled out its opposition to the latest United Nations proposal in a note to the Allied Nations Command.

Mal. Gen. Choi Duk Shin, South Korean truce delegate, left Seoul today to deliver the message to Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, Senior Allied negotiator, at Manzan.

Contents of the note were not made public. But a Republic of Korea spokesman described it as "very important." He said it gave detailed expression of the ROK government's recommendations, and was in no way an ultimatum.

Choi's trip against an increasing number of drumfire of opposition from leaders of this war-battered Republic.

South Korea's foreign minister, Pyun Yung Tai, threatened to resign if his government approved the still-secret Allied proposal for breaking the prisoner of war deadlock submitted to the Reds Monday.

Allied Diplomats Worried Over Changes In Far East Policies

At Vancouver, B. C., Canadian External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson said if Taft's advice "became U. S. policy it would be deplorable and a terrible blow to the United Nations."

Taft said if armistice negotiations fail the U. S. should let England and other Allied nations "we are withdrawing from all further peace negotiations in Korea."

He also asserted the U. S. "might as well abandon any idea of working with the United Nations in the East and reserve to ourselves a completely free hand."

Taft added, "I believe in the United Nations myself, but not as an effective means to prevent aggression. I think we should call a conference for amendment of the charter and work out a plan which would have a reasonable chance of preventing aggression and eliminating the veto power."

But he stuck to his proposals for action independent of the U. N. in Korea, saying that "in Europe we have practically abandoned the U. N. by adopting the North Atlantic Treaty."

Royal Couple Won Hearts Of U.S., Canada On Visit

The late '40s brought marriage and motherhood to Elizabeth II, and soon she and husband Prince Philip were off to Canada and the United States. This is the first of four articles on the life of the 27-year-old woman who is being crowned next Tuesday.

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's grandmother, Queen Mary, once remarked, "Thank God, Elizabeth is not one of these modern girls."

But as a bride, Princess Elizabeth and her handsome husband, Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, began married life like thousands of other young, moderns in the post-war world.

They moved in with the "old folks"—at Buckingham Palace. A honeymoon country house had been outfitted for them, but it was destroyed by fire while they were on their wedding trip.

For the young Princess, married life brought a new loveliness and some noticeable changes. She became more clothes-conscious, for one thing, and some in Mayfair whispered that she consulted her husband on choosing colors and styles and credited him with the improvement. She began wearing hats that vied for chic with those of her more daring sister, Princess Margaret.

Her self-described role was that of a "wife of a sailor." The Duke was still in the Navy and under Admiralty orders. During the first months of married life he was assigned to Admiralty headquarters in London, but duty kept him at headquarters six days a week.

In 1948 the young couple made their first foreign visit to Paris together. The romantically inclined French greeted Elizabeth as "La Belle Princess" and gave a warm welcome to the uninhibited Philip.

Many Britons had had qualms as to how the fun-loving Philip would deport himself as a consort. But he quieted these doubts quickly. The young pair made charming ambassadors of good will.

It was in Buckingham Palace that their first child, Prince Charles, was born in the first year. For monarchy-loving Britons it meant the direct succession to the throne was doubly secure.

Hardly a year elapsed before Prince Charles had a baby sister, Princess Anne.

By this time, Elizabeth and Philip were on their own—moving to Clarence House only a stone's throw from Buckingham Palace.

But there still were long separations in the next few years from Philip who was assigned to sea as commander of the frigate Magpie, based at Malta.

Members of the royal family cannot escape the glare of constant scrutiny, and sometimes of criticism. Elizabeth came in for some slight chastisement in one section of the press for leaving the children behind when she sought escape from court routine by flying to Malta on occasion for a holiday with her husband.

It was at the King's insistence that Elizabeth and the Duke in 1951 visited Canada and the United States, even though their departure had to be delayed by the King's serious lung operation. The tour, begun in a U. S.-built Stratocruiser that flew them across the Atlantic in October, turned into a triumphant tour, and the young princess won the hearts of the Canadians who were to become her subjects within a few months.

Record crowds turned out for their visit to Canada.

The royal couple adjusted quickly to the gay mood of the crowds that greeted them during a 45-hour whirl of Washington, too.

An American photographer's "Hi Princess" when he wanted to catch her attention for another picture set her aback momentarily. But she joked about it later and gave an imitation of the episode.

President Truman toasted her as a "fairy princess" and summed up the success of the visit with these words:

"Never before have we had such a wonderful young couple that so completely captured the hearts of all of us."

When Elizabeth returned to London Nov. 17, 1951, after the six-week, 15,000-mile tour, King George's health again was a source of worry.

Another turning point in her eventful young life was nearer than she knew. She was soon to become Queen.

Compromise Noted In N. M. Vote Probe

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Having effected one major compromise, the Senate elections subcommittee today prepared to draw up the ground rules for a recount in the contested New Mexico senatorial election.

While the senators attempted to outline rules which would be acceptable to attorneys for both Republican Patrick Hurley and Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-NM), the State Supreme Court added another complication to the involved battle by declining to act as a group to appoint a New Mexico representative to oversee the federally-conducted recount.

Hurley charges irregularities in the election of Chavez and has asked the Senate to unseat the veteran New Mexican lawmaker and award the seat to him. The recount squabble has been in progress since last November when Chavez was declared winner by 5,000 votes.

The Senate subcommittee, headed by Sen. Barrett (R-Wyo.), yesterday cleared with Dist. Judge R. F. Deacon Arledge, who had ordered county clerks in his district to hold on to their records until he ordered otherwise, to conform to state law.

It was agreed that the State Supreme Court appoint one man to represent all New Mexico District Courts in overseeing the recount, as required by state law.

But the court last night declined to do so. Acting Chief Justice James McGhee said the five justices agreed that if Chief Justice Daniel Sadler could make the appointment, it would be all right.

The jurists reportedly took the position in an informal discussion that if the Hurley-Chavez case would ever come before their court, they might be considered involved and unqualified to hear the arguments.

Sadler, on the other hand, could disqualify himself if necessary and the state's high court could carry on with the four remaining justices.

Barrett returns to Washington today after closed meetings with opposing attorneys. Main item remaining on their agenda is presentation of a compromise list of rules for the recount.

Woman, 22, Elected To LA Council

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The youngest City Council member ever elected in Los Angeles turned out to be—shades of Susan B. Anthony—a woman.

But there won't be any "powder-puff politics" for 22-year-old Rosalind Wiener whose upset victory was a highlight of Tuesday's municipal election.

Lots of shoe leather and doorbell ringing went into the young playground director's triumph over Republican Elmer H. Marshrey, 51, a tax consultant, Balloons, handbills and even her nephew's poll-wogs helped, too.

A brunette Democrat and single, Miss Wiener was graduated only last June from the University of Southern California, where she majored in public administration.

"I always knew that someday I would run for office, but frankly I didn't think it would be so soon," she told reporters. She explained that she was tapped by fellow Democrats in the Fifth District after "we cast about for a person who was well-informed, honest and reliable and we couldn't find one."

Once in the campaign, she and her family and friends carried on a real old-fashioned house-to-house canvass. When Roz led nine candidates in the primary, she knew she was on the right path.

THE GRUB LINE

With Franklin Reynolds

Grass plantings are pretty well underway in the area. One thousand acres of Webb Air Force Base land adjacent to the runways has been seeded to a mixture of perennial grasses which includes King Ranch Bluestem, Sideoats Grama and areas around some of the buildings have been seeded to Bermuda.

Hence O. Brown of the Vincent Community has seeded 100 acres of King Ranch Bluestem, and Willis Winters, this year's outstanding conservation farmer, who also lives in the Vincent Community, expects to start drilling some grasses right away.

Others who plan on grass seedings are Ernest Garrett, who lives west of Coahoma, who plans on planting King Ranch Bluestem; T. H. Hale, northeast of Coahoma, plans to plant some King Ranch Bluestem; Sam Buchanan, northeast of Big Spring, plans to seed Indiangrass, S. and Bluestem, Blackwell Switchgrass and Canadian Bluestem on land being taken out of cultivation.

Edgar Phillips, north of Big Spring, plans on seeding a variety of grasses to be used for grazing. He plans his plantings in plots as an experiment to determine which one will do best in that particular soil. Grasses he will plant include King Ranch Bluestem, Blackwell Switchgrass, Caucasian Bluestem, Sand Bluestem and Indiangrass.

Phillips is mighty well pleased, he says, with some Blue Panic he has on his place about two miles southeast of Knott.

He planted this 18 acres of grass in 1930 on medium-textured soil or "mixed land" and that same year harvested 3,000 pounds of seed from it, although the grass was not planted until July and the seed yield was consequently cut by the frost in the fall. Figuring the seed at the local price of $1 per pound this gave a return of $100 per acre from the seed alone that year—the year it was planted.

In 1932 he grazed this 18 acres with 34 cows and calves (total 34 heads) and two bulls. He started grazing in April and grazed until late in July without any rain. He then ran these cows on a Sudan field of 320 acres and now he says those cattle got more grazing off the 18 acres of Blue Panic than they did off the 320 acres of Sudan, and that they stayed in good condition while on the Blue Panic.

This year (1933) his cattle were wintered on small grain pasture and were taken off this and put on the 18 acres of Blue Panic on March 28. He has had about 14 cows and their calves on it since then except for short periods. During the time they were on the small grain pasture they received little or no other feed and have been fed nothing else while on the Blue Panic. Phillips says the cows are good and fat and the calves reflect the excellent condition of their mothers.

There is a good seed crop ripening on this Blue Panic now and it should be ready to harvest in about two weeks. Phillips chiseled the middles this week to increase moisture penetration if any rain should fall in which event this chiseling will cause the grass to respond more favorably.

Recent showers inspired several Dawson County farmers to start planting crops, according to Jess Jenkins of the Lamesa unit of the SCS.

C. C. Rogers, whose farm is located at Evalina, began planting Blue Panic Grass last Thursday. He plans to plant 15 acres now and more a little later in the summer. A. E. Davis of Woody has planted five acres of alfalfa. Both these men used drills owned by the Dawson Soil Conservation District and were assisted by SCS specialists, who also aided in inoculating the alfalfa seed planted by Davis.

Jenkins says all legume seed should be inoculated and that it will be well for the farmer to buy the inoculant at the same time he buys his seed.

Painter Wylie, SCS work unit conservationist at Colorado City, says Roy Buchanan, who lives in the Seven Wells area of Mitchell County, is completing the planting of about 25 acres of cropland to Blue Panic Grass. This planting was made with the two-row legume seeder owned by the Mitchell SCD in 38-inch rows at the rate of two and one-quarter pounds to the acre. These fields had previously been planted in fall oats which were also planted in 38-inch rows. These oats were grazed all winter and furnished a lot of good quality grazing and are just about through so far as their life cycle is concerned. They will furnish some protection for the newly-seeded grass, Wylie comments. The grass was planted in the middles of the oats rows. Buchanan plans on using this Blue Panic for rotation grazing and if this planting proves successful he is going to schedule another 75 or 100 acres to Blue Panic.

Using the same Mitchell SCD seeder, T. C. Moore, who lives in the Spade Community, planted 10 acres of cropland to Blue Panic Grass. He seeded at the rate of one and one-half pounds to the acre in 38-inch rows. Moore plans on using this for rotation grazing, hay and for soil improvement.

H. C. Taylor of the Loraine area of Mitchell County has planted another seven acres of Blue Panic grass. He planted in 40-inch rows, at the rate of one and one-half pounds to the acre, also using the SCD seeder.

Taylor established a four-acre patch of Blue Panic last spring under severe drought conditions. The fact that this patch withstood such extended dry weather and furnished some grazing late in the fall of 1932 is the reason he wanted some more Blue Panic. He will use it for soil improvement and rotation grazing.

Framework of New Building Nears Finish

Workmen will pour concrete framework either Friday or Monday for sixth floor of the new Permian Building at Second and Scurry.

Roof members and supporting columns will be set shortly afterward, and the entire framework is expected to be completed in the next two or three weeks.

Meanwhile, work is progressing on other phases of the big construction project. Two floors have been poured, in addition to more than half of the ground floor.

Brickwork is about one-third complete and is moving rapidly. Steel cross members for all other floors except the sixth are in place and corrugated sheet iron flashing is installed preparatory to pouring concrete.

Plumbing and electrical work is keeping pace with other construction.

Completion date still is indefinite, said Henry Wyninger, construction superintendent. However, enough materials are on hand to assure continued rapid progress.

Originally, Gus Cooley and Associated, owners, had planned to complete the office building by June 30, but start of work was delayed and the project has been slowed at times by difficulty in securing necessary steel and other material.

Russians Begin 'Hate-America' Drive Due To Internal Issues

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

Moscow suddenly has changed its tone, and a new "hate-America" campaign seems in the offing. The Kremlin charge of American spy activities in the Soviet Ukraine indicates the new campaign will be dictated largely by internal conditions. The post-Stalin regime of Georgi M. Malenkov evidently still has a struggle on its hands and cannot afford to extend its brief era of sweetness and light. The mask of reasonableness appeared to have drooped away abruptly last week end with Pravda's blast against the projected Bermuda conference of the Big Three. On top of this came the Kremlin's rejection of four-power talks on an Austrian treaty of independence. The chips were down on a test of Moscow's sweet talk.

The new spy charges put out by the Kremlin follow precisely and almost in every detail the pattern of the charges against the United States in December, 1951 when the Americans were accused of parachuting spies into Soviet Moldavia. Like the Ukraine, Moldavia has been a source of trouble to the Kremlin, a constant target of "bourgeois nationalist" charges.

Those charges were followed up by a formal Moscow protest to Washington that the United States "is encouraging subversive activities inside Soviet and 'peoples' democratic' territories. A similar protest may be expected this time.

After the Malenkov regime took over, the Soviet press soft-pedaled such charges against the United States. The Americans' Mutual Security Act, which the Russians charge is designed to promote subversion within their borders, was not mentioned. It had figured prominently in the Soviet press in the previous all-out hate-America campaign in which the Moldavian spy charges indignantly rejected by the U. S. State Department—played a large part.

Stories of the capture and execution of "spies" for the United States apparently make a deep impression on the Soviet people, furthering the idea that they are surrounded by enemies intent upon their destruction. This propaganda campaign now apparently will be resumed. There seems to be one good reason behind it: the need for a menacing outside enemy to persuade the Soviet people to close ranks and to provide the excuse for harsh measures against any evidences of nationalism or of restiveness of Soviet peoples under the domination of the Great Russians.

The Soviet press has reverted to the old Great Russian chauvinism in a form fully as outrageous as that of the days immediately following World War II.

With this propaganda, Western observers gained the impression that the Communist hierarchy in the Kremlin felt itself insecure, was afraid of elements within the Soviet Army and Navy. While throwing frequent aspers on the military, the Kremlin was constantly seeking ways and means for keeping the Army and Navy under strict party control.

Intended Victim

Georgescu, a naturalized American citizen of Romanian descent tells newsmen in Washington how a Communist Romanian diplomat, Christiane Zarnet, tried to blackmail him into spying for the Romanian government in exchange for the safety and possible restoration of Georgescu's minor sons, now in Romania. Legislators Ask New Cuts In Foreign Aid

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Some congressmen greeted an administration cut of 354 million dollars in foreign aid requests as a step in the right direction today, but several further reductions.

The 354-million-dollar slice off next year's Mutual Security program was submitted by William M. Rand, acting Mutual Security director, as "savings" from current funds to be credited to fiscal 1954 appropriations.

Rep. Ford (R-Mich.), a member of the House Appropriations Committee, called the action "encouraging," but declared "Congress itself should relentlessly pursue opportunities for further reductions."

Chairman Taber (R-N.Y.) said the Appropriations Committee wasn't going to accept "the same old plugs" for foreign spending until the Mutual Security Administration came up with "some intelligent justifications" for the administration's revised foreign aid budget of $5,474,000,000.

"It's got to be justified, and it's got to be right," Taber declared. "We can't deal just with conclusions."

Congress granted MSA approx-mately six billion dollars for the present fiscal year ending June 30, the bulk of it for military assistance in Europe and the Far East.

As of April 1, Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen had roughly $11,800,000,000 in his till as unexpended funds. Of this amount, roughly $4,200,000,000 was still unobligated, although MSA says most of it has been programmed for specified contracts.

Rand yesterday notified Congress of the savings from unspent appropriations in letters to Chairman Chipperfield (R-Ill.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He said "rigorous screening" of this year's funds permitted the amount to be credited against 1954 requests, with the possibility that another 50 million dollars could be realized if a "reserve" was not needed. This would bring the total credit against the 1954 request to 404 million dollars.

Chipperfield said it was "important to note that the amounts involved really are savings and not a curtailment of essential operations under the program."

The House and Senate foreign affairs groups are currently studying the administration requests for an authorized program of $5,829,000,000 next year. The actual appropriations must be voted later.

In his letter, Rand said the 354 million dollar reduction represents savings through lower costs, deferment of some military programs not immediately necessary, and such things as over-estimates on crating and transportation costs.

Medical Examination Set For Grunewald

WASHINGTON (AP)—Judge Alexander Holtzoff ordered today an examination of Henry (the Dutchman) Grunewald, Washington wire puller, to determine whether imprisonment would endanger his life or health.

Holtzoff postponed sentencing of the fabulous capital character, for contempt of Congress until Thursday.

This was to permit a heart specialist to re-examine Grunewald and report to the judge, if the physician finds Grunewald sound, the judge made clear he intends to send him to jail.

"The ends of justice would not be satisfied here by a mere fine," Holtzoff commented. He refused to allow Grunewald to withdraw the plea of guilty he entered March 17.

The "mystery man of Washington" could get up to a year in jail plus a $1,000 fine.

He pleaded guilty March 17 to a single charge of contempt.

Judge Holtzoff told him then, he would take into account, in fixing sentence, his cooperation with House tax scandal investigators.

William H. Collins, Grunewald's attorney, was ready to appeal to the judge to be lenient on the ground that Grunewald answered all questions material to the tax scandal inquiry and that he is in bad health.

But members of the House Ways and Means Subcommittee headed by Rep. Keen (R-N.J.) indicated they were less than satisfied with what Grunewald told them. Reportedly they sent the judge a report saying so.

The indictment of Grunewald grew out of his refusal last year to answer almost none of the committee's questions.

The indictment contained 31 charges of contempt, but the government agreed to drop all but one when Grunewald pleaded guilty. The remaining one was based on his silence to this question: "What is your full name, Mr. Grunewald?"

After his plea of guilty, Grunewald talked more freely.

He told the committee he is a sick and broke man.

The Grunewald story included fees of $4,000 and $7,500 merely for introducing people; private investigations for important persons and prominent companies, for which he got well paid; gifts, loans and favors to government officials without asking favors in return.

Ike Doesn't Want Red China In UN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he does not believe Red China should be admitted to the United Nations under present world circumstances.

He added it would be a very drastic thing to withdraw U. S. financial support from the U. N. if the Chinese Communists became members.

The President's remarks were at a news conference.

The Senate Appropriations Committee voted late yesterday to shut off American contributions to the U. N. if Communist China ever takes a seat on the U. N. Security Council.

Under the U. N. charter, China is entitled to a permanent seat on the Security Council. Nationalist China now occupies it.

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) said only three of the group's 23 members opposed the ban, sponsored by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.).

The bill carries about 25 million dollars for U. S. contributions to the U. N. in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Thrill Seeking Lads Lead Auto Thieves

By LLOYD WOLFE
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A dark summer night, and a gang of teenagers roams the city streets looking for thrills. One says, "I dare ya swipe that car!"

The other looks around helplessly, dodging the mocking stares of his buddies, trying to escape from the laughing whisper, "chicken!"

"Okay," he says, "I'll show ya!"

Another car thief is born.

Figures presented at the first annual convention of the International Association of Auto Theft Investigators, reveal the average age of an auto thief in this country is 18.

He may be just a good-natured kid trying to show off, a teen-ager looking for a thrill, or a professional out for a fast buck.

Whatever he is, delegates to the convention say the car thief is becoming a serious national problem.

The officers, refusing to discuss the latest auto-napping methods so "we won't give anybody ideas," indicated some of the most ingenious techniques being used could curl the hair of an honest cop.

William J. Davis, a convention speaker, said frankly, "car theft is out of control." Davis is secretary-manager of the National Auto Theft Bureau, Chicago.

He pointed out there has been a 99% per cent increase in car thefts during the past four years. Since officers recover 90 to 92 per cent of the stolen vehicles, it means

Hearing Set Friday On Deserted Child

Hearing will be held in 118th District Court Friday at 10 a. m. concerning a petition to declare 10-year-old Ernestine O'Brien a dependent and neglected child.

The little girl was left alone here in a vacant house by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Strickley, about a month ago. The Strickleys moved to Odessa.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Farmer have been taking care of Ernestine since the petition was filed.

County Attorney Hartman Hooser filed the petition, and he asks that rights of the little girl's parents be lost and that she be declared dependent and neglected.

Beaten Man Resting Well

Bull Ruhus, who is in Medical-Arts Hospital as a result of a beating he received Monday night, was reported resting well today.

"I don't feel good, but I'm a lot better today than before," he said.

Ruhus explained that he was beaten up outside the Morocco Club, 808 West 3rd Street, Monday night.

He had several cuts on his face and said his head hurt a little. He reportedly was suffering from a brain concussion after the incident. Ruhus was taken to the hospital by his uncle Tuesday morning.

Ruhus stated that two men jumped him in the Morocco Club, but that Slim Mitchell, proprietor, made them get out and leave him alone. Then as he was going to a rest room outside later, he was jumped and beaten, he said.

Red James and Bert Brand were arrested Tuesday by sheriff's officials on charges of aggravated assault on Ruhus. They were charged with using their fists as weapons. Both pleaded not guilty to charges and their bonds were set at $1,000 each.

Bidault May Seek To Form French Cabinet

By HARVEY HUDSON
 PARIS (AP)—The French political crisis dragged into its seventh weary day today and President Vincent Auriol turned once more to the moderate center parties in his search for a new premier.
 The Assembly turned down right-winger Paul Reynaud early this morning and Auriol was expected later today to ask either Georges Bidault or Andre Marie—both middle-of-the-roads—to try the cabinet-forming task. Bidault was foreign minister in the government which fell a week ago and Marie was education minister. Both have served as premier in the parade of cabinets—18 since the 1945 elections—which have governed France.
 Auriol has already asked Parla-ment to try a left-winger—Socialist Guy Mollet—and one of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's rightist followers—Andre Diethelm. Now he is trying to see if he has any better luck with a member of one of the center parties which have governed for the past eight years.

 Reynaud, 74, who was premier just before the surrender to Germany in 1940, put a big "if" on his acceptance of the job. He demanded that the Assembly modify the Constitution to guarantee a premier 18 months in office. The post-war average has been four months.
 The Socialists told Reynaud they were not disposed "to accord you these powers for 18 months, nor for 18 days, nor for 18 hours."
 Reynaud proposed that the fall of a cabinet in its first 18 months in office be followed by the automatic dissolution of the Assembly and new elections. Reynaud said this would give France political stability.
 Reynaud got only 276 of the 314 votes he needed for confirmation. Most De Gaulle men abstained and 235 deputies voted against him.

Eight Sleek Horses Pull Coach On Queen's Coronation Route

By KATHERINE PINKHAM
 LONDON (AP)—Slip into the Queen's golden coach, and we'll look over the whole 6½-mile route that Elizabeth II and husband Philip will follow next Tuesday.
 The first part of the route is from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey. That's on the way to the coronation. The second part, after the ceremony, leads from the abbey back to Buckingham Palace—but by a circuitous route.
 The coach is pulled by eight sleek grey horses. Drive out Buckingham Palace gate, circling left of the stately-arched Cenotaph Island memorial to Elizabeth's great, great grandmother Victoria, and head down the wide, tree-lined Mall towards Admiralty Arch.

Elizabeth once lived when her father was Duke of York. Look sharp to the left, toward Constitution Hill, where lunatics three times tried to kill Queen Victoria. East Carriage Drive in Hyde Park is lined on the right with stands. The soap-box orators are taking a day off from their carping at speakers' rostrum, near the marble arch.
 The north side of Oxford St. is the only part of the whole coronation route not included within the bounds of the City of Westminster, which takes its name from the abbey. Fine stores are magnificently decorated here and in even swankier Regent St., where big pink Tudor pastebord roses dot many buildings. Perhaps the Queen will have a special smile for Seifridges in Oxford St.—founded by an American early in the century—where the elaborate decoration scheme includes a 14-foot equestrian statue of Elizabeth herself, against a backdrop portrait of Queen Elizabeth I.
 At Piccadilly Circus the famous statue of Eros is protected from the crowds by a sparkling gilded cage nearly 50 feet high.
 Last of all to see the royal procession will be the royal park in Haymarket, where hay was sold once upon a time. You pass along once more to Trafalgar Square where some will be seeing the golden coach for the third time, before it turns back up the Mall to the palace.

rayed in ceremonial glory, to reach their abbey places across a traffic sea.
 Now we loop back toward Trafalgar Square, via Whitehall, where many Americans will fill the stands by the government buildings.
 Along Pall Mall some of the famous men's clubs have so far surrendered dignity as to build stands over entrances.
 After St. James St. and the homes of many lords, proceed down Piccadilly toward Apsley House at Hyde Park corner and notice a gaping hole in the right-hand skyline: A German bomb destroyed the home there where

Pool Opens On Saturday

First dips of the season will be taken Saturday in the municipal swimming pool, at City Park, H. W. Whitney, city manager, has announced.
 The pool will open for business at 1 p. m. and will remain open until about 8 o'clock. The pool will be operated daily for the remainder of the summer.
 Park personnel Wednesday started the task of filling the swimming pool, after it had been given a new paint job and other renovation. It probably will be filled sometime today.
 The pool usually is put in operation each spring on the first Sunday after schools are dismissed, but officials decided this year to open on Saturday, which is Memorial Day.

By GLENN ENGLE
 DETROIT (AP)—A new agreement with Chrysler Corp. has all but wrapped up the CIO United Auto Workers' drive for wage and pension improvements in the union's five-year contracts with the auto industry's Big Three producers.
 After only nine hours of negotiations, Chrysler and the UAW came to terms last night on contract amendments matching the best granted within the past five days by General Motors and Ford.
 Chrysler, as Ford did Monday, went beyond the pace-setting General Motors terms of last Friday by boosting maximum pensions to $137.50 a month. The companies pay everything above primary social security benefits of $83 a month.
 Otherwise the Chrysler amendments are virtually identical to those made by both GM and Ford. Immediately after the new Chrysler changes were announced, the UAW reportedly re-contacted General Motors and asked it bring its pension plan up to the Ford and Chrysler levels. GM, which has maximum $30-a-month pension improvements in the union's previous demand for a boost to restore the pensioners' purchasing power as of 1950, when all three contracts were signed.
 A tight secrecy was clamped on the latest GM-UAW talks.
 The Chrysler contract improvements, effective June 1, will apply to 114,000 hourly rated and 6,000 salaried employees and to about 1,900 pensioners.

Eyebrows Can 'Make Or Break' Your Face

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—When I lunched with Faith Domergue last week at Universal-International, where she is making "Sioux Uprising," she said she had been looking through an old fan magazine that someone had brought to the set. "This was the Marlene Dietrich era," and almost all of the girls had their eyebrows shaved and penciled way up over their eyes," Faith commented. "And they looked so artificial."
 "Today Hollywood has much more appreciation for the charm of naturalness," I commented. "What is good for Marlene is not good for everyone."
 "I'm glad people are realizing that, because in most cases nature knows best," she said. "Eyebrows in their natural place give accent to the eyes—act as a frame to dramatize them."
 "That's true," I agreed, "but everyone does not have eyebrows as lovely as yours. Do you follow any special eyebrow routine?"
 "It's funny," Faith confided, "but I am very conscious of eyebrows."

And it is surprising how many women who are otherwise well-groomed seem careless about their brows.
 "In what way?" I wanted to know.
 "For one thing, their line is not neat and clean," Faith answered. "Stray hairs can ruin the impression."
 "Some people find it very un-pleasant to use tweezers on hairs around the eyes," I suggested.
 "I think putting a hot cloth on the eyebrows to open the pores makes it easier to clean away stray hairs. And before you put your tweezers away, it's a good idea to close your pores with witch hazel."
 "Do you use an eyebrow brush?"
 "Yes. And I brush my eyebrows first in one direction, and then the other," Faith explained. "And I like a little pomade on them, too. This keeps them soft and makes them flat."
 "You are fortunate in having such dark brows," I told Faith.
 "If they were not dark naturally, I'd make them that way. You can do so very easily with mascara. And you can shape them with eye-

The Eyes Tell

Faith Domergue, popular Universal-International star, places care of eyebrows high on her list of grooming tricks.
 "You are fortunate in having such dark brows," I told Faith. "If they were not dark naturally, I'd make them that way. You can do so very easily with mascara. And you can shape them with eye-

Local Delegates Are Feted At Convention

Mrs. J. P. Dodge and Mrs. Norman Read, both of Big Spring, were among the 50 Texas delegates to the General Federation of Women's Clubs national convention in Washington who were greeted Tuesday by Texas senators and congressmen.
 The occasion was a coffee given at the Capitol by Sen. and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson.
 In addition to the hosts, the ladies were received by Sen. and Mrs. Price Daniel, Navy Secretary Robert B. Anderson of Vernon, House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn of Bonham and other Texas congressmen and their wives.
 Following the coffee, the delegates hurried to Constitution Hall to see the First Lady, Mrs. Eisenhower, who decided to visit the convention when she found that no time could be arranged for her to receive the delegates at the White House, drew warm applause with here opening remarks: "I just wanted to come over and say good morning. I hope you have a wonderful convention."

 Mrs. Oscar A. Ahlgren of Whiting, Ind., federation president, proposed that religion be introduced as a regular elective course in the nation's public schools, during the first business session.
 Religious instruction would not violate the American principle of separation of church and state but would serve as a new weapon against Communism, Mrs. Ahlgren said in her address.
 She commended President Eisenhower "for his recognition of God in our national life."
 The delegates endorsed American aid for Europe as administered by the Mutual Security Agency as they began early to work on a number of resolutions awaiting their action.
 They also asked for reallocation of Agriculture Department funds to give a larger share to the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics.

 Tuesday afternoon, the Texas group was entertained at a special tea at the Austrian embassy by Ambassador Dr. Max Loenthawal. Dr. Loenthawal expressed his appreciation to the Texans for their work in helping Austria, which they have "adopted" as their needy country.
 Many local clubs have held drives, during the past club year, for clothing which was sent to the Old Ladies Home in Vienna.

Ward Lone American Left In Tournament

Campbell And Sweeny Ousted

HOYLAKE, England (AP)—Defending champion Harvie Ward was left as the only American threat to the British Amateur Golf Championship today when Bill Campbell and Bob Sweeny both were eliminated in the fifth round.

Ward, the curly-haired Atlanta shotmaker, won his fifth round match with Alan Turner of England, 7 and 6, to enter this afternoon's round of 16.

Campbell, husky Huntington, W. Va., clouter, lost to Cecil Hemiah of Ireland on the 19th hole.

Sweeny, 1937 British Amateur champion from Palm Beach, Fla., was beaten, one up, by Roy MacGregor of Scotland.

Ward got into the round of 16, which will be played this afternoon.

Three other Americans, Dale Buettner of Toledo, Ernest Arend of Del. N. J., and Harold Ridgley of Philadelphia, were beaten in fifth round matches.

Buettner, a surprise performer, was eliminated on the 23rd hole by Major Melville Bucher of Scotland. It was the longest match played in the tournament.

Arend, putting badly, lost to Dixon Rawlinson of England 4 and 3.

Britain's chief hope, Joe Carr, came through with a 6 and 5 victory over Sydney Ball of England.

Saxton Ready For Title Go

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT (AP)—"This beat him," Johnny Saxton said, pounding his fist with his right wrist.

"And now I'm ready for any welterweight in the world—Davey Turner and even Gavilan," added the smooth, 22-year-old Negro.

Saxton had just outpointed Joe Micehl, a fellow New Yorker, in a 10-rounder at Olympia Stadium and was feeling in fine fettle.

"Yes, sir," said Saxton. "This right wrist of mine was what did it. Everytime he'd throw that crazy left uppercut of his, I'd block it with my right wrist."

Saxton was right. Micehl, a 24-year-old ex-GI, throws an odd-looking left uppercut. It's fooled more than one fighter. But not Saxton, who learned the tricks of boxing in a Brooklyn orphanage.

In the first round, Micehl, sixth-ranked welterweight, tossed his left uppercut at Saxton, rated fourth among the welterweights.

Saxton calmly warded them off as though he were pushing his way into a crowded subway train.

Then the unbeaten New Yorker opened up. Normally a body puncher, he went head hunting and the next few rounds had Micehl in trouble against the ropes. But GI Joe refused to go down.

Micehl, 147½, rallied briefly in the closing rounds but Saxton, 147, had built up too big a lead.

Pots End Stay Here Tonight

Big Spring will try to salvage the final game of their abbreviated season from Carlsbad in an 8:15 o'clock engagement this evening at St. Ger Park.

After tonight's contest, the Steeds hit the road for four games, moving first to San Angelo and then to Odessa.

Either Andy Alonso or Arnaldo Lopez will toe the slab for the homebats this evening.

Pat McLaughlin, Carlsbad boss, is due to counter with Lefty Marshall Epperson, if he is ready.

Epperson missed his turn last night because of a sore finger.

Hack Miller, manager of the Broncs, was missing from the scene last night. Joe Niedson, veteran catcher who recently joined the club, was manning the mound.

Club officials said Miller was on a scouting mission and would be gone for several days.

He is believed to be in the Fort Worth-Dallas area.

Miller is believed to be seeking mound strength and, of course, a right-handed hitter or two.

Miller is believed to be seeking mound strength and, of course, a right-handed hitter or two.

Big Spring will try to salvage the final game of their abbreviated season from Carlsbad in an 8:15 o'clock engagement this evening at St. Ger Park.

After tonight's contest, the Steeds hit the road for four games, moving first to San Angelo and then to Odessa.

Either Andy Alonso or Arnaldo Lopez will toe the slab for the homebats this evening.

Pat McLaughlin, Carlsbad boss, is due to counter with Lefty Marshall Epperson, if he is ready.

Epperson missed his turn last night because of a sore finger.

Hack Miller, manager of the Broncs, was missing from the scene last night. Joe Niedson, veteran catcher who recently joined the club, was manning the mound.

Club officials said Miller was on a scouting mission and would be gone for several days.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

One of the better looking prospects in the Longhorn League is Lamesa's Curtis Ray.

Ray was bothered by a gimpy leg when he was here but hit a home run and two triples against the Steeds. More important still, he drove in eight runs and scored three times himself.

He's big enough to get a second look from the scouts and that may be all they need. He's 6-feet-3 and weighs 185, looks even bigger. He was with Harlingen of the Gulf Coast League in 1952.

AL SOKOLOWSKI GOES ON THE SHELF

One of the things that has made Bob Martin's job as boss of the Odessa club so tough this season is the failure of Pitcher Al Sokolowski to come through.

Sokolowski, rookie of the year in the League in 1950, recently asked to go on the voluntarily retired roster and his request was granted. Big Al, not long out of the Army, simply couldn't get started. He couldn't zero in on the plate.

He's planning to throw semi-pro ball around his native Baltimore in hopes of coming around. If his control and his confidence returns, he'll rejoin the Oilers but not before 60 days, because his retirement period must extend for that long.

Sokolowski came back to a different league. When he reigned as king of the frosh, each team was permitted only three class-men. It was a rookie-conscious circuit. Now, each club can carry five veterans and needs have only three rookies on its roster.

Just how qualified are the sports writers and the broadcasters in the league to pick the "rookie of the year?"

Judging from what the winners of the award have done since that time, the scribes and the announcers don't know a prospect when they see one.

Here are the selections they've made since the award was first made:

1949—Kenny Jones, Midland.
1950—Sokolowski.
1951—Bobby West, Roswell.
1952—Bobby Lemmel, Roswell.

Jones is employed by Class B Temple but isn't playing regularly, due to an injury.

Sokolowski and West are in retirement. West was never able to get out of the league.

Lemmel is performing for Albuquerque, another Class C team.

Mike Forneles, a candidate for the honor in 1951 but who ran dead last in the final balloting, is now with the Chicago White Sox. Not too long ago, he was traded for a $30,000 bonus player.

Potato Pascual, the Longhorn League's most celebrated player, was in the running for the honor in 1949 but he didn't stand a chance. Since then, he has performed in the majors and for Seattle in the Pacific Coast League.

Other rookies who have been overlooked by the so-called experts include Raul Sanchez, a pitcher with Big Spring in 1951; Aramis Arambila, who won 16 games for Big Spring last year; Witty Quintana of the 1951 Big Spring Club; Barney Batson of Odessa; and Hayden White of Midland.

Carlsbad remained in a tie for the top spot in Longhorn League standings by defeating the Big Spring Broncs by the football score of 19-12 here Tuesday night.

In a number of ways, the game resembled football more than it did baseball. The Broncs booted the ball at crucial moments. There was some tall arguing over whether Joe Niedson was 'out of bounds' on a first period 'touchdown' wallop near the flag-pole in right field. Something like 23 passes were executed. And both managers did a lot of coaching from the sidelines.

Joe Niedson, acting manager of the Broncs, hit a first inning, three-run homer for the Broncs. The homebats should have quit right there.

What happened after that was a caution. The Potashers stoked the furnace for 19 hits, including a fifth inning bases-loaded home run by Ike Jackson.

The Cayuses made it as close as they did by crowding five runs across the dish in the ninth inning, at which time they sent ten men to the dish.

Five pitchers saw action in the game. The loss was hung on Glen Grooms, first of three Bronc hurlers. The win went to Bernie Heitner, who spelled Starter Clint Riggs in the third and set Big Spring on its ear until the ninth.

Every man in the visitors' lineup, even the two hurlers, accounted for at least one hit. Goldy Gholson feasted on Big Spring hurling for four blows.

After Grooms departed, Pancho Perez tried it for an inning. He shouldn't have. The Cayuses were waiting for him with bared fangs.

Boris Lopez came in and finished up for Big Spring and did reasonably well. However, the visitors might have been tired of circling the base paths by then. They looked it.

In their quest for added mound strength, the Big Spring club has acquired two veteran hurlers.

They are Parks Thomas, a left-handed flinger, who formerly was with San Angelo; and Enrique Gonzalez.

STANTON — Stanton Implement Company and Walgreen Drug launch softball league, playing in Stanton next Monday, taking the field at 8 p.m.

Only one contest is booked for Monday but two will be played the following night.

A high school team known as the Whites will meet Bentley's at 8 p.m. Another high school nine identified as the Reds tangle with Tarzan in the afterpiece.

On Thursday night, Walgreen and Courtney have at it in one engagement while Stanton Implement and the Reds meet in the other game.

Suit For Damages Is Filed In Court

Robert Lungsford filed a suit in 118th District Court this week asking for $2,000 damages from Brooks and Turner Contracting Company of Cosham.

Lungsford alleges his car was damaged to that sum in an accident on the Snyder Highway just outside Big Spring in February. Hartman Hooser is Lungsford's attorney.

Paper Wonders If H-Bomb Work Over

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Has the United States completed research on the hydrogen bomb? Is it now ready to mass produce the awesome weapon?

Or has the Atomic Energy Commission decided to shift emphasis away from the H-bomb because it is too expensive or doesn't work as well as anticipated?

Those lines of speculation were opened by the San Francisco Examiner today. They followed disclosure that Dr. Edward Teller, who first sketched a theoretical H-bomb and is one of the top ten in the AEC's H-bomb program, will join the University of California faculty on July 1 as professor of physics.

The fact that much of the work on the fission bomb has been centered in the AEC's super-secret Livermore Laboratory, 30 miles south of here, was revealed in the current issue of Fortune Magazine.

Head of the Livermore program has been the 44-year-old Hungarian born Dr. Teller, described by the magazine as one of the most articulate and influential advocates of intensified H-bomb development.

On the other hand, Fortune said, have been a group of scientists led by Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, former California physicist who headed World War II development of the atomic bomb at Los Alamos, N. M. This group argued that high-pressure H-bomb research stimulates the atomic weapons race and that possession of the H-bomb is no insurance against a catastrophic war.

Fortune—pointing to last November's Eniwetok Atoll blast generally believed to be of a pilot H-bomb—concluded the H-bomb advocates won out, and are to be permitted to carry out former President Truman's 1950 decision to press for all-out H-bomb development.

But the Examiner points out that conclusion was reached before the recent announcement of a five billion dollar Air Force budget slash and a contemplated 30 per cent cut in future AEC spending.

Or has the H-bomb already been perfected to the point that younger scientists can be entrusted with the remaining development?

In any case, Dr. Teller will be here soon, teaching the graduate course in theoretical atomic physics.

And he isn't saying anything. Nor is the AEC—which greets any and all queries with "no comment."

Shivers Thinks Toll Road Linkup May Be Worth Looking Into

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers today said that a possible linkup of proposed Texas and Oklahoma toll roads was "worth looking into."

Shivers said that he had heard that there was considerable talk among the residents of Wichita Falls to get a linkup with a toll road to be built in Oklahoma.

The Texas Legislature that ended yesterday passed a bill allowing toll roads in Texas.

A proposed constitutional amendment that says that the state shall never assume any indebtedness on turnpike bonds was passed by the Legislature, too, and will be vote don in a state-wide election in November of 1954.

Taft Colleagues On Policy Group Support The UN

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two colleagues of U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last night reaffirmed their support of the United Nations.

They were Sen. Tobey (R-NH) and Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn). They spoke on foreign policy at the monthly meeting here of the General Electric Evendale Supervisors and Engineers Association.

Sen. Taft declared Tuesday night in a speech read at another meeting that this country "might as well forget the United Nations as far as the Korean War is concerned."

He said the nation should do its best to negotiate a truce in Korea "and if we fail, let England and our other Allies know that we are withdrawing from all further peace negotiations in Korea."

In an interview after the meeting Humphrey called Taft's speech "very unfortunate." He added that the Korean War "is the first example of collective security at work, and we must make it work to its fulfillment. I have faith that we'll win these negotiations."

Although Sen. Tobey declined to comment directly on the Taft proposal, the 72-year-old New Englander declared in his address that the United States should continue to back the U. N. "in its endeavor to attain peace." Opponents to the U. N. he said, have offered no workable substitute.

"It remains the most appropriate agency for international cooperation," he added.

Police Hunting Bank Robber In Central Texas

MAYPEARL, Tex. (AP)—Central Texas police looked today for a "big Negro with a gun" who robbed Maypearl's First State Bank yesterday of about $3,500.

A scared woman bank employee, Mrs. Quentin Golladay, said she stayed on the floor as the Negro ordered her to while he escaped. The Maypearl bank was robbed in 1939 and Vice President Willis Wilmon was shot to death in the hold-up. The robber was caught and executed.

Officers had few, if any, leads today on where to look for new robber. Mrs. Golladay, about 35, said the thug weighed about 180, had dark skin and a mustache and appeared to be about 40. "He was a big Negro with a gun," she said.

Maypearl is a town of about 400 in Ellis County.

President Weldon Blair said all other employees of the bank had gone to lunch at 12:15 p. m. when the robbery occurred.

"This big Negro walked in," he said, "pulled a gun and ordered her to lie down on the floor. Then he walked around into the cage, took what currency we had and ran away."

Mrs. Golladay stayed down until he left. He demanded that she stay down and told her not to cause an alarm. She was pretty nervous.

Roadblocks the Highway Patrol threw up produced nothing. Blair said the money was in bills ranging from $1 to $10.

Compensation Suit Is Entered In Court

A. C. Hughes filed a $10,025 compensation suit in 118th District Court against Fidelity and Casualty Company. He alleges permanent disability as a result of an accident while climbing on a ladder in AUSTIN.

Hughes was employed by Procon Inc. at the time he fell on the ladder. He alleges a rung was missing from the ladder about 50 feet from the ground. His knee was injured, according to the petition.

Testimony Resumes Today In Robertson Murder Trial

VERNON (AP)—Testimony resumed today in the murder trial of Earl Robertson, 21, after several witnesses said the man was mentally unstable.

A statement by Robertson, admitting he took part in the slaying in Amarillo of Victory Smith, service station attendant, was introduced.

District Attorney Hermon Pitkin of Amarillo read the statement over the objections of attorneys who asserted it was obtained by force.

Mrs. Joe Robertson of Floydada testified her son received two head injuries when he was a child.

On cross examination, Mrs. Robertson said, "I have not had a chance to ask him if he is guilty or innocent, but he has told me he is sorry for all the trouble he has caused."

George McCarthy, Robertson's lawyer, introduced a bad conduct discharge from the Navy and said Robertson had a similar discharge from the Army as an undesirable.

Pvt. Bob Robertson, 22, told the jury his brother was subject to "blackouts" and often took blame for "bad deeds" performed by older boys.

Joseph Lucas, AWOL Airman, is charged with Robertson in the death of Smith and also in the death, Jan. 8, 1953, of an Amarillo cab driver.

Robertson is being tried only in Smith's death. Both are due to be tried later in the cab driver's death and Lucas will be tried soon in the death of the service station attendant.

Pilot In 1944 Raid Is Teacher For Youth Who Saw Big Show

When the airplane came into being 50 years ago, they say the world became somewhat smaller. Captain Laron C. Andrus, one of Webb's pilot instructors, and Aviation Cadet Giovanni Buffagni firmly believe it's so.

This story begins on an autumn day in 1944 when 400 B-24 Liberators were dumping their lethal loads on Bologna, a town in central Italy.

This heavy bomb run "softened up" the town for General Mark Clark's troops who took command of the area in a few short hours. Hundreds of bomb-laden B-24s were an impressive sight, especially to a 14-year-old Italian lad who had a grand stand seat for this exhibition of Allied aerial might.

That was almost nine years ago. Since then, a brief, uneasy peace followed by a cold war and actual hostilities.

The Italian youngster? Like any other boy of his age, he was attending school.

In November of 1951 the eyewitness to the impressive B-24 raid, Giovanni Buffagni, enlisted in the Italian Air Force.

After taking special English lessons in Rome, young Buffagni was sent to the United States as an aviation cadet under the MDAP program.

W. Reich Rejects Offer Of Direct Trade With Reds

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German government has turned down a Soviet offer for direct trade negotiations despite a green light from the Western occupying powers.

The Allies said they had no objections to the talks since the Germans had promised in advance they would not ship strategic goods to Russia.

The Red bid for trade talks was made by Russia and Romania at a U. N.-sponsored conference on East-West trade at Geneva last month. A spokesman for the West German Economics Ministry said yesterday that any dealings with Moscow would have to be handled through the U. N. Economic Commission in Switzerland and not directly.

A smash-hit Broadway musical comedy, "Kiss Me Kate", will be acted for Big Springers June 4 in the Municipal Auditorium.

First opened in New York in 1948, the big show, with a glittering cast of singers, dancers, and comedians, "Kiss Me Kate" comes to Big Spring direct from New York City. The show was such a success that it ran three solid years on Broadway.

Webb Air Force Base's Personnel Services office is sponsoring the show as the opening effort to raise money to build a swimming pool for the airmen of the base. "Kate" will run locally for one night only—June 4.

Sparked with songs by Cole Porter, the show is a musical comedy version of the opening of Shakespeare's play, "The Taming of the Shrew", in Baltimore. The actors in the comedy intertwine the Shakespeare play with their own lives, and the plot becomes more involved with the addition of gambling debts, IOU's, and gangsters.

Cole Porter tunes in the score are "Wonderbar", "Why Can't You Behave", "To Darn Hot", "All Ways True To You In My Fashion", and "So In Love With You Am I".

All seats for the Big Spring showing of "Kate" are reserved. Tickets are $1.50, $2, $2.50 and $3. Tickets may be purchased at the Record Shop, Dabney's Sporting Goods Store, the Elliott Drug Store, Cunningham and Phillips Drug Store on Johnson, and at each Webb squadron headquarters.

Collective Sacrifices Of The War Dead Deserve Recognition

One of the most worthy of our national holidays comes up this Saturday, and it probably will be observed with a deplorable lack of suitable programs. Only here and there will the people generally put themselves out to honor the day.

It is Memorial Day, called in some parts of the South Decoration Day. It originated with Maj. Gen. Logan, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR), in a proclamation which set aside the first Memorial Day as May 30, 1868. He called upon members of the GAR to decorate the graves of Union soldiers.

It's A Personal Interest That Americans Have In New Queen

The Duke of Windsor, alias dictus Prince of Wales, alias dictus King Edward VIII, writes in the current Woman's Home Companion that the intense interest of Americans in the coronation of his niece Queen Elizabeth II stems, in his opinion, from two primary causes.

The first is the Queen's youth. For the first time in more than a hundred years a truly young monarch is on the throne. Not since 1837, when the 18-year-old Victoria was crowned, has a young person ruled Britain.

Sauce Makes Rice Pudding Elaborate

Simple rice pudding really goes elaborate when made with nuts and covered with a rich cherry sauce. The rich dessert makes a contribution to good nutrition and so is good to serve as the finale to a lighter meal.

2-3 cup packaged pre-cooked Rice
2 cups milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup chopped blanched almonds
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 No. 2 1/2 can pitted Bing cherries, drained
1 1/2 cups cherry juice

5 tablespoons cornstarch
Combine rice and milk in saucepan. Mix just until all rice is moistened. Cook, covered, over low heat 15 minutes, stirring rice occasionally with a fork. Remove from heat; add salt, sugar, almonds and vanilla. Chill. Fold in whipped cream. Chill 20 minutes longer. Serve with warm cherry sauce. Makes six servings.

Cherry sauce: Blend 2 tablespoons cherry juice with cornstarch. Combine remaining juice and cornstarch mixture in saucepan. Cook until thickened and clear, about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add cherries. Serve warm. Makes about 3 cups sauce.

Use It Sparingly

It's possible to season 48 dishes with the pungent spice of Tabasco via the contents of the little bottle less than one cent for added zip to each casserole, stew or salad dressing. Being highly concentrated, less Tabasco can be used than other seasoning of similar type.

Canned Meat Sales

Sales of meats in cans are now more than a billion pounds a year with the meats in the lead: corned beef, corned beef hash, ham, luncheon meat, chili and tamales, Vienna sausage, beef stew and deviled ham.

Cheese With Vegetables Makes Nutritious Entree

Cheese is a popular food which combines so well with many other foods. Today's cheese slices are a high quality protein food perfect for hurry-up meals. The combined goodness of vegetables and the tastiness of cheese has long been a favorite.

The pressure of everyday duties should not cause you to sacrifice or compromise with quality when called upon to prepare jiffy meals. Cheese-Corn-Tomato Bake is an excellent example of quality ingredients combined in an artful manner. Easy to make, it is a never-fail standby.

Two slices (one-fourth pound) of extra long process cheese slices, tomatoes and one can of corn will do the trick. If you prefer, frozen corn may be used. Bake in a hot oven for fifteen minutes and bring forth a pretty and satisfying luncheon main dish.

CHEESE-CORN-TOMATO BAKE
(Makes 6 servings)

Ingredients:
2 cups whole kernel corn, drained No. 1 (303 can or 1 box frozen)
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
3 fresh tomatoes cut in half, crosswise

Instant Coffee Makes Simple Yet Elegant Party Cakes

Spring is a delightful time for entertaining. Petite Coffee Cakes, flavored with instant-coffee, can add a special touch of elegance to your parties, teas, luncheons or dinners. Though so easy to make, these creamy little cakes might make one think that they required tremendous preparation. And, they would have too, but today modern food products such as instant coffee make it easy to prepare delicate coffee cakes.

Whenever coffee flavoring is called for, as in the frosting and filling of Petite Coffee Cakes, instant coffee combines easily with the other dry recipe ingredients. The modern hostess need never fear brewing too much or too little coffee. Instant coffee and plenty of hot water solves this problem. Mildly of yesteryear worked mightily hard to achieve a reputation as a hostess of renown. Today's knowhow makes gracious entertaining easy.

Many School Bills Debated

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN (AP)—Plenty of bills reflecting public education in Texas were debated by the 53rd Legislature, but the only big headline was the teachers pay raise issue.

The roughest fight of the session revolved around how much to increase teachers salaries and how to finance the extra cost. Differences were so sharp the teachers got nothing — even though House and Senate approved a $600-a-year boost.

The pay bill was meaningless because no agreement could be reached on a method of financing.

While attention was centered on the salary struggle, another school bill of major significance was passed and signed by Gov. Shivers. It revises the basis for calculating the economic index for counties. The index is used to determine each county's share of the cost of the public school program.

The economic index law will be particularly important to Rio Grande Valley counties which suffered severe freeze damage to their citrus orchards in 1951 and to West Texas counties hard hit by drought for three years.

The new law requires re-figuring of the index each year, using the last three years' data on the income of counties as measured by manufacturing, minerals, agriculture, and payrolls.

Under the old law, the index was re-figured only once every four years, using data for the latest single year available.

The new law is expected to give immediate relief next school year to counties that have suffered. Other counties will have to contribute more toward the 45 million dollar annual total of local support for the school program.

Through mourning failure of the $600 pay bill, spokesmen for the Texas State Teachers Association said they had realized a number of their legislative objectives.

One goal was to fight off all attacks on the Gilmer - Aikin school program. TSTA said this defense of the G-A law of 1949 was partly responsible for failure of the salary bill.

Shivers and other administration leaders wanted to place more of the financial burden of the school program on the local tax level; they also suggested elimination of state financing of school counselors and supervisors. Both these ideas were rejected when the teacher pay raise fell through.

Teachers of long tenure won the prospect of improved pensions. A bill awaiting the governor's signature would double the state's contribution to the annuity of teachers retiring between now and 1963. The bill would give better pensions to teachers who entered the profession before the retirement law was enacted in 1937.

The lawmakers also amended law to allow a teacher who has completed 30 years of teaching to designate the beneficiary of her retirement benefits even though the teacher continues active in her profession.

Present law allows designation of a beneficiary only after a teacher retires.

Other school legislation approved included:

A proposed amendment for interchange of credits between the teacher retirement system and the state employee retirement system. If approved by Texas voters the change would allow a person who has worked for the state and later become a teacher to apply his state retirement benefits to his teacher retirement plan.

A bill to allow counties to maintain their public school credits, no matter how much attendance drops off. If the President declares the counties drought disaster areas.

A resolution calling for a long-range study of the problem of educating the state's system of education at the college level to make sure taxpayers get the most for their money in the field of higher education. Recommendations will be made to the next Legislature.

Seven of 10 bills recommended by the State Board of Education were passed. One was the economic index revision. The other six would:

Allow investment of school money in bonds of cities with up to 10 per cent indebtedness instead of the present 7 per cent.

Let a tax assessor for an independent school district be hired on a three-year basis instead of two years.

Let the education board abolish school districts they have created in eleemosynary institutions or orphan homes.

Change the taking of the school census from March to January so the state education office will have more time to figure how much money schools will qualify for the following school year.

Lower the textbook bond for school trustees to from 50 to 15 per cent of the value of the books received.

Let school districts hold an election on levying taxes or issuing bonds at any time when proper conditions are made; they are now limited to one a year.

Also passed were bills to let independent school districts sell school property without permission of the state board and to allow public school teachers and college instructors to serve on the state advisory committee on teacher training.

A bill amending the teacher certification act failed of passage. Its sponsor said it was supposed to improve professional standards. Opponents said it would require a degree of every teacher and aggravate the teaching shortage.

A resolution calling for a committee to study, revise and codify school laws and to report to the next Legislature was passed by the House but died in a Senate committee.

Nobody Is Exactly Sure About Number Of Rooms In The Palace

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—No one is quite sure how many rooms there are in Buckingham Palace, home of Queen Elizabeth II and just now the hub of coronation activities.

It's that kind of house, having been added to through the centuries since it was built in 1703. There are about 600 rooms, but doubts arise because some of the nooks and alcoves built by successive architects might be called either rooms or odd corners.

It's a four-storied, square building of yellowish-gray stone, a form of limestone, with an interior court. It is in the heart of London, but Green and St. James Parks in which it is situated give it a verdant, open setting.

It is a curious building in that the back entrance is by far the more important, and about the only aspect the public sees. Even the Queen doesn't wheel up to the front doors with coach or limousine because they give access only to the walled-in royal gardens.

The royal suite, the few rooms among the 600 which Elizabeth calls home, is at the front of the palace, the side which seems to be the rear. Her windows overlook the gardens, which have a little lake on which placid wild ducks paddle about.

Buckingham Palace has had its break and bright periods. Queen Victoria lost interest in it, had the chandeliers wrapped in brown paper, covered furniture with dust cloths. She went to live on the Isle of Wight. Plaster cracked, walls peeled and Londoners were a bit ashamed of the house.

Victoria's son, Edward VII, didn't like Buckingham Palace, called it "the sepulcher." Edward VII, now the Duke of Windsor, didn't like it, said he felt a draft and smelled something musty.

But the Duke's mother, the late Queen Mary, took a fancy to the big house and brightened it up considerably. She snapped it out of Victorian dinginess, installed baths, sewers, modern kitchens and decorated it with a sure taste.

The principal rooms have had differing names in various reigns, and Kings and Queens decided to eat and sleep in different places. Places for nurseries and schools expanded and contracted with the varying sizes of royal families. King George II, who thought he was pretty good at figures, had a "mathematical room." A Chinese Room takes its name from the decorative scheme, and it is favored.

Change the taking of the school census from March to January so the state education office will have more time to figure how much money schools will qualify for the following school year.

A bill amending the teacher certification act failed of passage. Its sponsor said it was supposed to improve professional standards. Opponents said it would require a degree of every teacher and aggravate the teaching shortage.

Its spot for family meals when there is company.

From a constitutional viewpoint the most important chamber is the throne room, 65 feet long. It glitters with chandeliers. Carving covers the ceiling and much of the walls. At one end in a recess is a dais for the throne. The British royal family has no particular throne which carries on through the generations. On the dais now is the throne used by King Edward VII. Queen Elizabeth uses it as a chair of state. It's really a very comfortable chair.

Corridors, end to end, would stretch out half a mile, and they call for a lot of polishing. Normally more than 200 women work at keeping the place tidy and there are more in this coronation rush.

Twelve men work steadily the year round cleaning windows. One man has a full day winding 300 clocks, and tinkering with them.

Salaries of the staff total about $318,000 a year. Expenses of the household are about $338,000. The Queen pays the bills out of a government allocation of 475,000 pounds ($1,330,000).

The building derives its name from the Duke of Buckingham, poet and scholar who built the first establishment, three disconnected houses on the 40 acre grounds. King George II bought it in 1762.

a report at the time being that he got it fairly cheap because he learned that part of the grounds were government property.

Hams And Turkeys Take Over Spotlight In Nation's Stores

By The Associated Press
Smoked hams and turkeys were featured by most food stores this week.

In many cases, smoked hams were off about six cents a pound. Price cuts on turkeys, large and small, ranged from four to six or seven cents a pound.

Other meat prices showed a tendency to climb. Sirloin steak, long a bargain, moved four to six cents a pound higher in some stores. Rib roasts were up two to six cents a pound in some cases. Beef cuts still qualified as best buys in the meat line.

One chain store meat specialist said beef prices "have been edging up a little bit each week—hardly enough to notice." He noted that choice grade beef carcasses were selling for about 37 cents a pound five weeks ago. Following a series of small advances, the wholesale price now stands at 38½ cents. Predictions in the Chicago livestock market were that beef was heading somewhat higher, but that prices would decline again in a few months.

Another meat man said lamb prices, already high, probably would go up again next week at the retail level. Wholesale lamb prices in Chicago have risen nearly one-fifth since Jan. 1. More spring lambs will be coming to market soon, however, and retail prices should benefit. Livestock men said. In stores this week, lamb prices showed a wide range. In some places they were off two to four cents a pound while in others they were up four cents.

Pork started climbing again. Frying chickens were featured by some stores, but by and large prices were the same as last week. Eggs were down two to four cents in a number of areas.

An increasing number of vegetables were on the best buy list. This week they included cabbage, carrots, iceberg lettuce, onions, old and new potatoes, radishes, spinach, squash and rhubarb. Asparagus prices rose slightly. Potatoes Watermelons were featured by some stores, along with navel oranges and grapefruit. Wholesale men said strawberries were of good quality and available at fairly low prices.

Sen. Phillips Is Named President - Pro-Tem By Senate

AUSTIN (AP)—Sen. Jimmy Phillips, 40, of Angleton, today was named by the Senate in caucus, today as its between-sessions President pro tem.

Phillips, husky and dark-haired, came to the Legislature as a member of the House in 1941. He says his one objective has been to "dogfight for the ordinary fellow."

Phillips enlisted in the Army in 1943 and came out a sergeant. He was elected to the Senate in 1947. He is an orator of the old school.

The President pro tem of the Senate acts as governor in the absence of the governor and lieutenant governor from the state.

Churches Urged To Give VA Programs

The part local church congregations can play in presenting Saturday night religious services at the VA Hospital is being emphasized by the Big Spring Pastors Association.

The Rev. Walter White, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church, is chairman of the Association project. He urges all local congregations to "remember the veterans and quicken their spiritual interests" by presenting special programs at the hospital.

"Already many of our churches have visited the hospital with varied services ranging from talks on the Holy Land, musical programs of vocal and instrumental selections, religious films and talks by the ministers themselves," Rev. White says.

The interest of the Pastors Association is the result of an appeal from Chaplain C. O. Hitt of the VA Hospital.

The programs create a feeling of fellowship and enliven the day for the patients, since there are no other recreational activities on Saturday, according to the chaplain. They also help prepare the patients for the two Sunday services.

Last Saturday evening the 27-voice Junior Choir of the First Methodist Church, directed by Rev. White, visited and sang for the patients. Marie Hall was accompanist. Participating were: Sharon Agee, Beverly Ann Alexander, Georgia June Amos, Alf Cobb, Ken Cobb, Martha Cobb, Johnnie Crocker, Karla Dickson, Nancy Elliott, Martha Joyce Haynes, Camille Hefley, Pat Johnson, June

Ann Johnstone, Lynette McLaurin, Judy Perdue, Carol Anne Phillips, Lynda Phillips, Toni Lynn Thomas, Marilyn Phillips, Carolyn Thompson, Mary Jane Weaver, Ray Blum, Charles Maddux, DeLores Howard, Charlotte Nobles and Kaye Chadd.

Other churches that have sent programs are the First Presbyterian, First Baptist, Fourth Street Baptist, First Christian, First Methodist, Salvation Army, Hillcrest Baptist and the Church of God. Arrangements for presenting programs may be made by calling Chaplain Hitt, 3580.

Webb's 509th Air Force Band will join in Memorial Day observance.

Two Nuns Are Killed

ROME (AP)—The bodies of two nuns were dug today from the ruin of a two-story orphanage dormitory which collapsed after a wind and rain storm. Another nun and three children were rescued alive but badly injured last night.

Bond Issue Approved

ROCKWALL (AP)—Voters in this tiny town northeast of Dallas authorized issuance yesterday of five million dollars in bonds for an airport they hope will become the Southwest's air freight terminal. The vote was 170 to 3.

CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

John W. Everett, formerly of Ellington AFB, has begun his duties at Webb as chief employee utilization in the Civilian Personnel office. He succeeds Jack Ward, who has assumed a similar post at Mather AFB, Calif.

GATE HOUSES

Initial construction on two gate houses has been started at Webb. The houses will be located at the main and east gates.

Scheduled for completion by July 15, the houses will be erected on concrete foundations which will also act as dividers at both entrances.

The project was awarded to Burk Construction of San Angelo.

CLOTHES FOR KOREA

A base-wide drive for "Clothes For Korea," sponsored jointly by the Officers Wives and NCO Wives clubs, will be staged at Webb from June 1 through June 5.

Clothes boxes for contributions will be placed at the Officers Dining Hall, NCO Club, Commissary and Hangar No. 1.

EDUCATION

Russian has been added to Webb's "Operation Bootstrap" summer session at Howard County Junior College. This brings the number of courses offered to 13. Classes begin June 2 and run through July 15.

LECTURES
A base-wide Radiological Indoctration Defense course will be held June 1-3. All personnel are required to attend. The program will include biological, chemical and atomic warfare.

CHAPEL
Catholic personnel at Webb now have their own chapel where the Blessed Sacrament can be observed at all times. Through the off-duty efforts of both officers and airmen and under the supervision of Chaplain (LT) Henry Dunkel, Catholic chaplain, the Blessed Sacrament Chapel was 100 per cent complete last week.

SPORTS

Pilot Training became the first proud possessor of the base Athletic Achievement Trophy this week. But it took a last ditch rally to become initial winner. Trailing Food Service by 15 counters, Pilot Training collected 20 points in an intersquadron golf tournament to nab the hardware with five markers to spare. Pilot Training compiled a grand total of 305 points to Food Service's 300. Col. Ernest F. Wackwitz Jr., presented the trophy to PT this week.

Field Maintenance snared undisputed possession of first place in the Squadron Softball League. FM now paces the pack with ten wins and one loss. Air-Base Headquarters follows in second place with an 11-2 record.

Field Maintenance No. 1 and Fire Department battled to a first place deadlock right down to the wire as the Central Bowling League race drew to a close last week. Each combo boasted 86 wins and 50 losses. A playoff to decide the league championship will be held at West Texas Bowling Center Friday night.
