With winds blowing between 35 to 40 miles per hour, and four inches of snow falling in McLean, approximately 100 stranded truck drivers spent Sunday night in McLean sleeping in the cabs of their trucks or drinking coffee at a local convenience store. Interstate 40 west of McLean was closed to traffic at approximately 7:30 p.m. Sunday night following the jackknifing of several trucks which blocked traffic.

Conditions across the Panhandle worsened through the night Sunday, with the Department of Public Safety closing I-40 across the Panhandle

Monday morning.

The McLean schools were just one of several area schools which declared Monday a holiday. Superintendent Carl Dwyer said that the day would be made up during the Easter vacation.

The near blizzard conditions Sunday caused several minor wrecks, but no major wrecks with injuries were reported at press time.

McLean residents struggling through the drifts on their way to work Monday morning found trucks parked in every available space throughout the town. One trucker reported to The McLean News that he had heard on his radio that there were trucks lined up all the way to Shamrock.

The trucks began moving out of the town about 9 a.m., but some reports said that the west-bound lane of I-40 was closed as late as 2 p.m. Monday.

The snow storm was the first of the season. McLean enjoyed a high temperature of 88 Nov. 8, with temperatures in the high 70's late last week before the storm struck.

Storm Causes Wrecks

Blowing snow, snow drifts, and icy roads caused numerous minor wrecks on Interstate-40 during the two-day snow storm this week. Department of Public Safety troopers R.C. Parker and John Holland investigated four wrecks during the period, but said that there were numerous other spin-outs, and cars sliding off the road.

The first wreck investigated was Sunday morning at 8 a.m. 7.8 miles west of Alanreed when a 1979 International truck driven by Herman E. Sanders of Glendale, Ariz., slid off the road and turned over. Sanders and his wife Helen were taken to an Amarillo hospital by McLean ambulance.

At 9:40 a.m. that same day, Edna Jean Bryant of Little Rock, Ark. lost control of the GMC truck she was driving. The semi went through a fence and turned over. She was not injured.

At 2:50 p.m. that day, at the location of the first wreck, workmen were uprooting the International truck when James M. McGoldrick of Mantaca, Calif. driving a 1977 Buick slid into the truck. No injuries were reported.

Monday morning at 9:45 a.m. Michael Steven Andreoli of Las Vegas, Nev., driving a 1977 Cadillac, slid into the back of a 1970 Chevrolet driven by Lester R. Devies of Akron, Ohio. Andreoli was accompanied by his wife and small son. There were no injuries in the wreck.

At 2 a.m. Tuesday morning 5 miles west of Alanreed, a 1968 Dodge driven by David M. Harney of Highland, Calif. hit an icy spot on the road. The car turned in circles and then hit a car which was already off the road. The driver was taken to the Pampa Hospital with back and neck injuries by the Groom ambulance.

Experts Explain Procedures To Attract Business To Area

An industrial planning seminar Nov. 13 drew interested McLean citizens to hear four experts explain procedures for attracting businesses to the city. The event was sponsored by McLean Chamber of Commerce, Texas Industrial Commission, and Southwestern Public Service Company.

Joseph Ferran, manager of industrial location for Texas Industrial Commission spoke on transportation, labor, education and financing. Concerning the recent closing of the Rock Island tracks going through McLean, Ferran said, "Railroads reached their peak in the 1930's and have been declining ever since...I think because of the fuel situation we will see a renaissance of the railroads, and existing lines will be reopened."

Homer Tucker, president of Homer Tucker and Assoc. of Miami, spoke about similar programs his town has initiated, and advised McLean citizens to "accentuate the positive," saying, "McLean's advantages include its climate, the railroad, its proximity to Interstate 40, even its low humidity. Also, industrially speaking, McLean is within proximity of the Midwest, as well as Amarillo and Dallas. McLean's oil and gas, minerals and agricultural products are also pluses."

Tucker also urged townspeople to get the Chamber of Commerce active. "A good, live Chamber of Commerce is the backbone of a growing community." Tucker presented a talk on community betterment and financing.

Speaking on research and analysis and prospecting was Jonathan Krebs, consultant for area development with Southwestern Public Service Company. Krebs suggested a potential worker canvass to determine the available work force. He also encouraged citizens to know the town, its possibilities, laws, physical advantages and characteristics, and gave sources of leads for prospects.

Doyle Moore, also of SPS, introduced the program. Those attending the meeting were Pat Durham, Miro Pagan, Charles Milam, Sharon Haynes, Dick Bode of Alanreed, Sam Haynes, Mayme Hathaway, Dale Glass, Kathy Carter, Bill Thomas, Vickie

Jacobs of PRPC in Amarillo, Jane Simpson, Cheryl Smith, Joe Magee, Leta Mae Hess, F. Jake Hess, Ted Simmons, Jake Hess II, Lisa Patman, Boyd Meador, Linda Ridgway, Ida Hess, J.W. Meacham, John C. Haynes, S.A. Cousins, Dorman Thomas, Jim Allison, W.K. Irwin and Shirley Irwin, both of Bushland, Ron Cummings and Laverne Back. Also attending for a short

Chamber Elects Directors

The McLean Chamber of Commerce met Thursday night at the McLean Lions building to elect two new directors for the 1981 term. Ida Hess and Bill Thomas were elected to replace Jim Allison and Britt Hathaway, whose terms will expire in January.

Allison, chairman of the board of directors for the group, appointed F. Jake Hess, Joe Magee, Charles Milam, and Cheryl Smith as advisory board members for the group.

The group discussed several items of business, including several items mentioned at the industrial seminar held in McLean earlier that day. Milam was asked to investigate the ownership of some of the old buildings in the town, and Mrs. Hess was asked to inquire about the signs at the entrance to the city. She suggested that the vacant factory building could be advertised on the signs, and perhaps locate a tenant that way.

The Chamber plans to meet Nov. 25 at the grade school cafeteria, with the board of directors meeting 7 p.m., and the full Chamber meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Four Nights Left In Crusade

Four nights are left in the Larry Jones Crusade at the McLean High School Auditorium. Services are scheduled for Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday night at 7:30 p.m.

The crusade, sponsored by First United Methodist Church, First Baptist Church, Assembly of God, and Pentecostal Holiness Church, has been drawing large crowds to the auditorium since Tuesday night.

A special activity for the crusade this week will be a women's tea at 2 p.m. Friday at First United Methodist Church parlor.

A special feature of the Saturday night service at the auditorium will be the appearance of Wanda Jackson, a nationally known country western singing star. Miss Jackson will sing at the service and give her testimony.

Also appearing at the crusade Thursday and Friday nights will be the Royalheirs, a gospel group.

Blood Drive Will Benefit McLean Second Grader

A blood bank to benefit Melissa Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Thompson, and a second grade student at McLean Elementary School, is scheduled for Monday Dec. 15, from 12 p.m. until 2 p.m. at the Church of Christ Annex.

Melissa is currently in High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo. She became ill with chicken pox Oct. 28 and developed complications which involved her blood platelet level. To date she has received over 32 pints of blood by transfusion.

Anita Hook, who announced the blood bank drive, said those willing to donate should call either 779-2181. Donors will be reminded by phone of the time to make donations.

Tigers End Season With Loss To Follett Panthers

By Lisa Patman

The McLean Tigers, still smarting from a 35-6 defeat at the hands of 1980 District 1-1A champs, the Booker Kiowas, fell victim to the Follett Panthers Friday night in a 24-6 defeat. The game at Follett, played in snow blown by 25 mile-an-hour northerly winds, was the final football action of the season for the Tigers, and the last high school play for seniors Mike Lane, Dusty Sanders, Terry Todd, James Matheny, Tim Smith, Robert Robinson, Bill Hambricht, Bill Kincannon, and Tim Killham.

Scoring began slowly as both Tigers and Panthers tried to keep control of a slippery ball. With 6:34 left in the second quarter, after alternate carries by Terry Todd and Brock Crockett advanced the ball from the McLean 24 to the Follett 1, Todd dove into the endzone for the first touchdown of the night, making the score McLean 6, Follett 0. Fine defensive play by Tigers Hambricht, Stubbs, Killham, Todd, as well as Dudley Reynolds, Crockett, and Kevin McDowell, held Follett until near the end of the half when Panther Mike Freeman broke loose for a trip to the goal line. With the extra point good, Follett led at the half 7-6.

And if McLean could not manage to score again, they did show Follett that the Panthers would have to fight for every yard. With Kincannon batting down Panther pass attempts and Killham sparking in open field stops, the Panthers had to scramble hard to make their next score-eight minutes into the third quarter. On that play Todd Bourquin was in from the McLean 11, and the extra point brought Follett to 15 while McLean remained at 6.

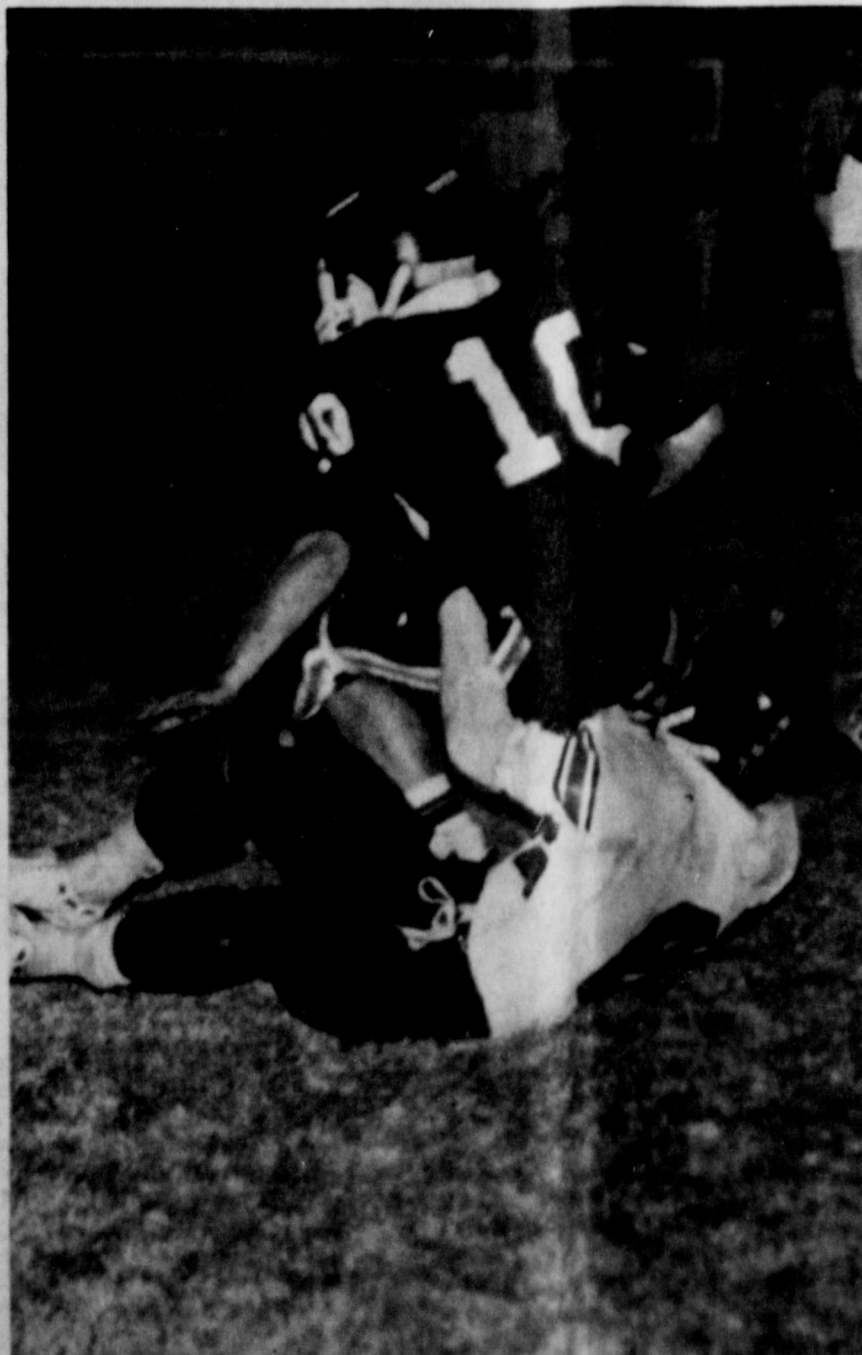

A field goal attempt by Galen Kunka early in the fourth gave Follett another three, and 29-yard run by Mike Freeman in the last seconds of the game brought the final score to Follett 24, McLean 6.

If the scoring looked a little one-sided, the statistics showed the real action. McLean gained 260 yards and made 13 first downs, while Follett counted out 288 yards and 16 first downs. And although McLean was unable to connect in the passing game, Follett completed only one of their three attempts. Follett punted once for 23 yards, while McLean kicked twice for 30. "I think it's the best ball-

Most people actually seemed glad for the icy winter weather which blew into the Panhandle last week. After one of the hottest summers in history, and the driest and hottest fall in many years, we were all ready for a little cold wind. Hopefully, we will make up in snow for all the rain that we missed last summer.

Right now we have recorded half as much moisture as we had at this time last year. A few more weeks of extremely dry weather and our farmers and ranchers would have been in desperate trouble.

I hope you have taken the opportunity to go hear Larry Jones at the High School this week. He is an inspiring preacher, and the music has been fantastic. Don't forget that Wanda Jackson will be singing for the service Saturday night.

Seeing Is Not Believing

Buried beneath the tons of paper citing Supreme Court decisions, smothered under the flood of Congressional legislation, floating under the modern misconception of fair play, the American justice system is wallowing around, gasping its last breath.

Two incidents this week illustrate just how near death American justice has come in the last few years. Four Ku Klux Klansmen and two Nazi's were acquitted this week of murder by an all-white jury in North Carolina, and Texas' favorite millionaire accused murderer T. Cullen Davis, to mark the first anniversary of his acquittal, tossed an expensive party for the jurors who found him innocent of murder solicitation.

In both trials, video tape was used by the prosecution to show what actually happened during the crimes committed. In the North Carolina trial, jurors were shown the actual act of murder. In the Texas trial of Davis, jurors were shown and listened to video tapes of Davis supposedly paying money to a man who showed him the picture of a "dead" judge.

In both instances, jurors chose not to believe their eyes and their ears, but rather to believe an interpretation of what happened given in each instance by defense attorneys.

The FBI has used video tapes in several of the BRILAB and ABCAM trials during the last year, and in some instances, jurors have believed what they saw, and sometimes they have not.

All of this says something about the modern, television-satiated American, I think.

Our minds have grown so mushy from a steady, nauseating diet of televised violence that even as jurors we are unable to believe what we see on the screen. Our senses have been bombarded for so many years now that even when we watch reality on the screen we cannot react as feeling, caring human beings.

Our thinking capacity has grown so lax that we cannot trust our own judgement, but must wait passively for some to explain ala Howard Cossell what our own eyes have seen.

If you decide to commit a crime, try to get someone to video tape what you are doing. It seems that with that tape and a smooth-talking lawyer, you could be assured of getting away with it!

It's a history book, a mystery book, a book of ethics, a do-it-yourself manual, a geography lesson, a love story, a passport, an organization chart, a self-improvement course, a travel brochure, a code book, a diary, a law journal and otherwise good reading.

me last week and said "Is it true that Loose Marbles has a son in high school like she said in her column?" When I told him yes, he shook his head and said "Boy, she doesn't look old enough to have a kid in high school!"

I want to tell all you youngsters out there...she's not old enough to have a boy in high school, and I am not old enough to be a grandmother.

Chronologically, we possess enough years to have children that old, but it's bound to be some sort of mistake.

You see, when I was in my twenties, I too thought a mother with children in high school was just one step away from retirement, and that all grandmothers were nice, chubby grey-haired ladies, who went to the senior-citizens club every day.

Imagine my surprise when my children entered high school, and I still felt as young as they looked, and imagine my shock when the grandchildren were born and my hair didn't turn grey, and I didn't suddenly love to play dominoes.

Like everything else, the way we view age is relative. When I was 18, I was sure that when I reached 35, I would be mature, self-assured, grown-up. Well, that birthday came and went and I'm still waiting for the grown-up feeling to come.

The strangest thing about growing older, that no one told me before I reached this point, is that the inside of my face is still just as unwrinkled as it was twenty years ago. It's only the outside that has changed.

I must ask someone who is 65 if the inside of the face ever starts wrinkling. I suspect that it is only outwardly, to other people, that we ever look old. If that's true, I don't dread getting old at all.

But I can just hear some young whipper-snapper twenty years from now: "You're a great-grandmother? My, you don't look old enough!"

Watching the McLean Hospital close last week was really sad. There were a few tears shed as long-time employees put in their last day.

There is still hope, of course, that the McLean facility may reopen, but even if we find another doctor, the government has loaded so many unbelievable requirements on small hospitals, that it will be almost impossible to maintain the type of facility that we have had here.

Unless of course the new Reagan administration is really able to do something about increasing regulation in all areas of American life, then maybe small towns will have the chance to keep their hospitals.

Many people are working very hard to help locate another doctor. If we find one, we will all have to help make his first few months in McLean successful.

And we can all help our hospital and other hospitals across the state by writing to our representatives in Washington and urging them to do everything in their power to harness the growing regulations placed on small hospitals.

The number one lesson that every cub reporter learns is to check his facts before he writes a story. Well, put me at the bottom of the list of qualified reporters! I made a beauty of a goof last week in the junior high football story. I thrust a picture at a visitor in the office, and asked for identification of the youngster who made McLean's touchdown.

My informant said Billy Billingsley, and that's the way the story was written.

The football player in the picture was Huey Carr, who also made McLean's touchdown, and I just goofed by not asking the coach about the game as I usually do. Sorry, Huey!

game we've played in the last four weeks." Coach Jack Dorsett commented. "We just got beat. They've got a lot of talent, and we were out-talented, our kicking game hurt us a bit."

"We were really proud to see the McLean fans that were loyal enough to travel so far in such terrible weather," he continued. "I think that our crowd outnumbered the Folett fans about two to one."

"We were sure sorry to see our seniors leave. They all played a super game and we're going to miss them. Our seniors have started a tradition now that the younger players have to work for. The seniors got us off on the right track."

The Booker Warriors, whose defeat of McLean Nov. 7 clinched the district 1-1A title, will meet district 2-1A champ Valley Friday night in Memphis for the bi-district crown. Booker defeated Groom Nov. 14, 35-8.

No new flu strain is expected this year

COLLEGE STATION — Flu season may come early this year, but the viruses that infect Americans should be familiar types that have been around a few years, says a Texas A&M University microbiologist.

Dr. John Quarles said the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta is telling physicians and researchers not to expect anything dramatically new, but to be prepared for A-Texas varieties or perhaps Russian flu.

Quarles said several isolated influenza cases have already been confirmed this summer and that usually means an early season. Normally, the peak time for Americans is January through March.

President Carter On Bible Week

In designating November 23-30 National Bible Week, President Jimmy Carter issued the following message:

I always welcome this traditional opportunity to suggest to Americans of all ages to turn to the Bible for solace, strength and direction.

This annual cooperative endeavor to revive our interest in the Scriptures has enjoyed growing success in its goal of making more Americans aware of the positive influence Bible reading can have on our lives. Now in its fortieth year, the observance has become a wonderful manifestation of the vitality of religious liberty in our society and of the good that can derive—for both individuals and families—from applying the timeless precepts of the Scriptures to modern American life.

I hope that all who actively participate in this week-long event will find spiritual renewal

Texas Sesquicentennial Commission Plans Logo Contest

The Texas Sesquicentennial of 1986, Texas' 150th birthday celebration, is on the way, and all Texans are invited to the party. Preparations for the birthday are being kicked off with a statewide contest to devise an official logo -- a simple and readily-identifiable symbol, or trademark, of the Texas Sesquicentennial.

The logo contest is one of the first activities of the Texas Sesquicentennial Commission. Created by the 66th legislature in 1979, the Commission is charged to "coordinate celebrations of the 150th anniversary of Texas' independence as a Republic and progress as a state." These celebrations will highlight the "historic, economic, cultural, environmental and social aspects of Texas."

During the planning stages of the Sesquicentennial, the Commission functions as a clearinghouse of information between state and local levels. The Commission will also work to encourage state, national, and international participation, to develop standards for sanctioning local groups, and to plan for the creation of commemorative products, such as stamps and medallions.

The Commission publishes a special newsletter of the Sesquicentennial, the Texas National Dispatch. The Dispatch is a revival of a newspaper published in the early days of the Texas Republic at Washington-on-the-Brazos, and will be available free of charge.

The contest to develop a visual symbol, trademark, or logo, of the Sesquicentennial is open to all Texans. Contest rules are as follows: (1) Only one entry per person; (2) All are eligible except Commission members, staff, and their immediate families; (3) Designs must be submitted on one side of a plain, white 8 1/2" x 11 paper; (4) Entrants' names, addresses, phone numbers, and school affiliations (if any) are to be printed on the back; (5) All entries must be postmarked no later than San Jacinto Day, April 21, 1981 and the winner and runners-up will be announced on May 5, 1981 in Austin.

For further information about the logo contest, the Texas National Dispatch, and the Texas Sesquicentennial in general, Texans may write: Texas Sesquicentennial Commission, P.O. Box 19860, Southeast Station, Austin, Texas 78760.

Women enrolled in higher education increased in the '70s

COLLEGE STATION — The number of women in higher education has increased dramatically, according to a Texas A&M University demographer.

Dr. R. L. Skrabanek noted that in 1970 there were only 68 women enrolled in college for every 100 men, but by 1978 the ratio had increased to 92 per 100 men. Nearly one-half of all college degrees granted in 1977 went to women. The number of females receiving doctorates more than doubled between 1970 and 1977.

Skrabanek gathered his information from a new Bureau of Census report, "A Statistical Portrait in the United States: 1978." The report in itself can be viewed as an example of women's progress. It is only the second such volume exclusively about women ever to have been published by the Census Bureau in its almost 200-year history — and the first was in 1976.

Polish television shows about 38 hours a week of programming.

In The Kitchen

by Linda Haynes

A Thanksgiving tradition is the pumpkin pie. If you've about run out of time to bake ahead because of a busy schedule, you can whip up this no-bake pie in just minutes. It's delicious, too.

NO-BAKE PUMPKIN PIE

1 (9 in.) graham cracker crumb crust

1 envelop unflavored gelatine
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
1/2 tsp. ground ginger
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
1/2 tsp. salt
1 (14 oz.) can Eagle brand milk
2 eggs, beaten
1 (16 oz. can) pumpkin
In heavy medium saucepan, combine gelatine, cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg, and salt; stir in sweetened condensed milk and eggs. Mix well. Let stand 1 minute. Over low heat, cook and stir constantly until gelatine dissolves and mixture thickens slightly, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in pumpkin; mix well. Pour into prepared crust. Chill three hours or until set. Serve with sweetened whipped cream. Refrigerate any leftovers.

WEST TEXAS BREAD

1/2 cup milk, scalded & cooled
1/2 cup warm water
1 package active dry yeast
1/2 cup butter
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup cornmeal
2 1/2 cups white flour
1 cup shredded Colby cheese
1 can (7 oz.) Clemente Jacques mild jalapeno pepper slices

Chop jalapenos finely and drain on paper towels. Mix shredded cheese with 1/2 cup of the flour. Dissolve yeast in warm water in large mixing bowl. Stir in milk, butter, eggs, salt and 1 cup of the flour. Beat with electric mixer on low speed 1 minute. Scrape bowl and beat 2 minutes longer. Add remaining flour and cornmeal. Beat well. Stir in cheese and peppers. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. (About 1 hour). Stir down dough and shape into loaf. Place in 9-inch loaf pan which has been greased and dusted with cornmeal. Cover and let rise until doubled. Bake at 350 degrees about 50 minutes (loaf will be lightly browned and will sound hollow when tapped). Brush top of loaf with melted butter. Remove from pan and let cool.

Draft Registration Announced

The United States postal service has announced that all males born in 1962 will be required to register between the dates of January 5 through January 10, 1981.

Beginning on January 5, all males will be required to register within 30 days (preceding or following) of the eighteenth anniversary of their birth.

The U.S. postal service will continue to register eighteen year olds indefinitely. Those needing to register should go to the nearest U.S. post office.

Gray Officials Approve Budget

Gray County Commissioners Friday approved the 1981 county budget in the amount of $2,947,000.

The 1981 budget includes an additional amount of federal revenue sharing receipts, estimated at $135,000.

The 1981 tax levy for $1.19 per $100 was approved. The rate is six cents less than the 1980 rate.

The commissioners discussed other routine business and paid monthly bills in the amount of $109,000.

Pet Vaccination Clinic Set For Saturday

A rabies vaccination clinic is scheduled for Saturday from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. in the McLean Fire Station. Dr. David Woods, local veterinarian, will give three types of shots to domestic pets during the clinic.

The charges for the vaccinations will be $5 for rabies, $6 for distemper, and $7 for Parvo virus, according to Dr. Woods. Pet owners who desire the distemper or Parvo shots for their pets should remember that they will have to give the animal a booster in two weeks.

All residents are urged to bring their dogs and cats to the fire station for the shots, according to Mayor Sam Haynes. He said that everyone should remember that Texas law requires that all dogs and cats have rabies vaccine once a year. Since McLean had so many reports of rabid skunks last summer, it is very important for residents to vaccinate their pets. Haynes said.

MCLEAN BRIEFS

Nursing Center News

We extend our deepest sympathy to the family of Mrs. Mary Tolleson. Mrs. Tolleson passed away Monday, Nov. 10, here at the nursing center.

Mrs. Janie Pittman is in the hospital in Pampa. She is greatly missed. We hope she'll soon be back with us.

Last week was a very busy one. Besides our projects and crafts for the bazaar, there were social activities every day. We're also busy planning the Thanksgiving Dinner for all the families of our residents, residents, employees, and employees' families. The dinner will be Nov. 24 at 6 p.m.

Sunday the Pentecostal Holiness Church conducted church services for the residents.

Monday was Bingo day, and ladies from the Senior Citizens were here to play with the residents.

Tuesday, members of the Ladies Auxiliary were here to help the ladies piece quilts.

Tuesday, after quilting, the residents enjoyed cake and punch brought by the families of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Putman.

The party was to celebrate Mr. and Mrs. Pittman's 50th wedding anniversary. Our congratulations to Oscar and Janie.

Wednesday, the Pentecostal Holiness Church conducted a Bible Study, and returned again on Thursday for a singalong with the residents.

Thursday night the Jay Walls country-western band came to entertain. This group is really good, and employees and residents alike have a great time when they come. Any time we call them, they drive from Lufkin and entertain for us, and we appreciate it very much.

Friday was our day to piece quilts again. We always enjoy getting together to sew and talk.

Friday afternoon was also movie day, and that faithful lady Martha Parker was here to show her excellent movies.

VICKI MILLER AND DUANE GARRISON

Couple Plans January Wedding

Vickie Teresa Miller and Duane Garrison will exchange wedding vows Jan. 2 at 7 p.m. in the Assembly of God Church in Amarillo.

Assembly of God College where she was elected Who's Who in American Junior Colleges and was a member of Phi Theta Kappa.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John David Miller of Amarillo, and the granddaughter of the late Howard and Lela Miller, and of the Rev. and Mrs. Archie Cooper of McLean.

The prospective groom graduated from Manzano High School and served four years with the United States Navy. He received the A.A. degree from Southwestern Assembly of God College where he was elected to Who's Who in American Junior College. He is currently attending the University of New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Garrison of Albuquerque, N.M. are the parents of the groom. Miss Miller is employed at Pantex. She received an A.A. degree from Southwestern

The couple plans to make their home in Amarillo.

Grahams Attend Methodist Home's 90th Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Graham were among the 1200 people who attended a banquet in Waco recently to celebrate the 90th birthday of the Methodist Home.

Several events were scheduled to help celebrate the home's anniversary.

Graham, chairman of the Administrative Board of First United Methodist Church in McLean, is also a Wrangler for the Methodist Home's Boys Ranch. The Wranglers are a group of Methodist laymen who help supervise and plan for the boys at the ranch.

Gone Fishin

by Jeanette Fish

We are allowed one hangup per person per lifetime—that's what they say. There is a standing joke in my family about the fact that I cannot throw away—THE WRITTEN WORD! My life is cluttered with hundred of old letters, scraps of school notes and even the "I'll be back in 10 minutes honey, I ran to the store" type of note.

Rifling through old papers this week I came across a treasure—a letter my dad wrote to his four children ten years ago. It goes like this—

"My dear children, "It is my hope that you all will keep this letter until you need and can appreciate it. It is regretful that all of you are darning fools in one way or another and it is further regretful that all of you take after the old man more than you do your mother. You would have found life much easier if you had been more like your mother.

"You all have children, some large, some small. Someday when you sit down with your head in your lap and wonder what to do about one them who is acting like a fool or about to act like one, just read this letter.

"First, you are not generals in any army, you are fathers and mothers. You can make the kids jump through a hoop like monkeys now. You can make them hate you when they are grown and get away from your control. There will come a time when they will no longer be bossed by you.

"Never have I seen kids that were loved more than I have always loved mine. I have made mistakes in raising you but never failed to let you be my great love. Don't ever try to shape your children in your own little mold. God has already done that and he somehow might not see eye to eye with you. You may have your own little conception as to how they ought to be, but you are not that particular child.

"Don't ever put one child to dominate over another. You can make that child who does the dominating an object of hatred by the underdog, forever, as long as life shall last.

"When a child needs direction, remember he or she is not a mule. Be as tough as the occasion demands. Remember that perhaps you were in the same situation at one time.

"When deep trouble comes, don't spend precious time trying to find out how it happened, try to fix it first.

"Be happy now. Time has a way of slipping out from under you.

"Never assume that your children are free from any of your interest or care, no matter what their ages may be. If I have one redeeming feature, it is that I have never thought of any of you as being grown and never completely kept my nose out of your lives.

"I have always felt that I could give any of you a good "cussin" to your face and then not run out in public and criticize you. Say a thing once and forget it.

"Be fair to children. Don't take from one and give to another.

"Your child will probably grow up to be the kind of man or woman that you teach it to be. Again they might not. Be prepared for surprises. Take your child to church. Some of our churches are poor examples but they are for the most part the best institutions that we have.

Keep this letter. You might want to read it sometime. Whether you find wisdom here or not. The time will come when you can smile and say—"That was written by an old man who loved me a lot.

Love, Dad"
Daddy died years ago but he's never far from me. He's as close as that box of old letters in the closet.

Hidden Assessment
Before your purchase of a home is completed, a land title search of public records will disclose matters affecting ownership so that known problems can be cleared up. But even the most diligent title search cannot reveal all such difficulties because what the records show may not be what actually exists.

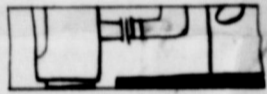

During a transaction in a Midwestern state, the title search disclosed a special assessment for paving against the property and the amount outstanding was paid at closing.

All appeared to be well until after purchase, when the buyer was shocked to discover still another unpaid paving assessment against his real estate.

It then was learned there were two paving assessments against the property although only one of these was found in the title search because of a mistake in the public records. Since the former owner of the real estate could not be located and since there was nothing in the sales agreement calling for payment of paving assessments by the buyer, the owner's title insurance of the buyer paid the outstanding amount to protect the insured from financial loss.

As this example illustrates, the protection of owner's title insurance extends beyond what is found in the public record to include hidden hazards such as a forged deed that transfers no title to real estate, conveyance by a person found to be mentally incompetent in a legal proceeding, and mistakes in the public records.

For free information on precautions to consider in home buying, write American Land Title Association, Box 566, Washington, D.C. 20044.

You should insulate your hot water heater if it is located in a room that isn't used for living.

ALANREED BRIEFS

The Alanreed Homemaker's Club hosted a cooking session with Mildred Prince at the Alanreed School Cafeteria. Mrs. Prince, who is retiring the first of the year, cooked a casserole, skillet meal and made a cake and punch. The club presented Mrs. Prince a lovely cut glass bowl in appreciation of her services through the years. Attending were: Anita Bruce, Mary Davis, Lena Carter, Lucy Goldston, Juanita Rawlings, Ruth and Brenda McLain and two grandchildren, Polly Harrison, Onie Gibson, Nell Keese, Nell Fullbright, Rosey Harper and her class, and Elizabeth Brumley and her students.

The Cal Reed's have been to Amarillo several times recently to visit their prematurely born twins (girl and boy) along with the J.C. Gilbreaths. All are doing well and the Reed family, who have been staying at the Gilbreath's, are in the process of moving to McLean.

The last of the cottage prayer meetings at Alanreed was held Tuesday evening in the home of Lena Carter, but illness kept the number small.

Polly Harrison had to call for help last Tuesday evening when a skunk insisted on coming to her front porch, where evidently he has been dining on cat food. Buddy Montgomery coaxed it off and destroyed it.

The Akey family living in the McLain house moved back to Arkansas last week.

Shawn Bruce of Pampa spent the weekend here with his grandparents, the Robert Bruces.

Polly Harrison was in Pampa on Tuesday for medical attention.

Due to the inclement weather, services were called off at the First Baptist Church Sunday.

The Alanreed Community Improvement Committee will host a Thanksgiving dinner Saturday Nov. 22 in the school cafeteria beginning at 6 p.m. Turkey and dressing will be furnished, others are to bring a vegetable, salad, or dessert. Our chairman promises some special entertainment after the business session, so every one be there.

Visiting Oma Gibson during the ice and snow storm Sunday night was Mrs. Linda Nance of El Reno, Okla. Mrs. Nance was driving west on Interstate 40 during the bad weather but when her car got stuck near the Alanreed Cemetery. She walked there to the Gibson home, where she was offered a place to stay.

Mrs. Nance reported that it took her almost four hours to drive from McLean to Alanreed. Although the Gibsons had not met Mrs. Nance before, they graciously welcomed her and said they enjoyed having her stay with them. Mrs. Nance has family in the area.

Alanreed school pupils recently made a trip to Lela to play basketball. The girls won 20 to 12. Alanreed boys were beaten by Lela with a score of 34 to 20.

There was a three-way tie for citizen of the week at Alanreed School last week. The honor was given to Sally Worsham, Diana Conners and Scott Seilers. This week's citizen was Susan Worsham.

HELPING THE NEEDY

SURVIVAL IN KENYA

In the barren rocky desert of northwestern Kenya live 180,000 of the world's toughest people. They are known as the Turkana. They know many tricks of survival but the inevitable cycle of drought, livestock decimation and famine has struck a serious blow this year.

Late rains reduced harvests throughout the country. Initial surpluses of the maize crop were unwisely exported. The once-peaceful herders lost their livestock; frustration has caused cattle-raiding and infighting.

The hardest hit are the women and young children. One caring agency, Catholic Relief Services (CRS), is on the scene in Kenya now, as it has been since 1963. The overseas aid and development organization of American Catholics, CRS has an ongoing program of food distribution and nutrition education for 100,000 Kenyan mothers and their preschool children. During the past year, as the drought worsened, the program was expanded to provide emergency rations for an additional 100,000 persons.

CRS gives help to the needy without asking questions about religion or race. For more free information, write: Catholic Relief Services, Box N, 1011 First Avenue, New York, New York 10022.

LEARN TO LOVE "NO"

By Tom Hopkins
Everyone is selling, one way or another. As parents, we're selling our children on our belief system. In courtship, we're selling ourselves to our prospective partners. At work, we try to sell our boss on giving us a raise.

I teach the techniques of selling to professional sales people, and I am constantly amazed at the number of people who come back to me to report how they've used these techniques to improve their personal lives, too.

For example, a primary obstacle in life as well as selling is fear of rejection. This fear begins when we're toddlers, constantly hearing "no" from our parents because they love us and are trying to protect us. However, after hearing "no" so many times, we begin to take it personally. This is why most people have a low threshold as to the amount of rejection they can handle.

I teach people that "no" is not bad, but rather a response necessary to get to a "yes."
To overcome their fear of rejection, I teach them five attitudes to apply toward all results that are less than success. These are:

1. I never see failure as failure but only as a learning experience.
2. I never see failure as failure but only as the negative feedback I need to change the course in my direction.
3. I never see failure as failure but only as the opportunity to develop my sense of humor.
4. I never see failure as failure but only as an opportunity to practice my techniques and perfect my performance.
5. I never see failure as failure but only as the game I must play to win.

- So don't take "no" personally. If you do, your chances for success in selling are about one in a thousand. Instead, try to love "no" and take it positively, and you'll be on your way to success in all your selling experiences.

Will The Skies Be Safe In The Future?

A trip in a U.S. airline is safer today than a trip around the corner. Will it remain that way with the enormous growth in traffic that is predicted? In this article, the President of the Air Line Pilots Association explains what must be done now to assure our air safety in the future.

By Capt. John J. O'Donnell

We can be proud of the safety record of scheduled airlines, but some disturbing trends may compromise the safety record we are so proud of today.

All facets of aviation are expected to grow substantially during the coming decade. The number of passengers is expected to increase by two-thirds in 1990; the total number of aircraft in the U.S. by 50 percent. At the same time that the volume of airspace is getting smaller, we will be asked to fit increasing numbers of high performance jet aircraft into it.

Airline pilots are concerned over the aggressive efforts of the manufacturers who are trying to persuade airline companies to purchase the next generation of aircraft with a cockpit designed without a flight engineer station. All of the current wide-bodied aircraft have full crews of three in the cockpit. This has been the industry standard for decades.

An important step in reducing accidents caused by human error would be to extend the philosophy of so-called redundant and fail-safe mechanical systems to the humans in the system. For instance, it is normal to have three or even four separate hydraulic systems where two—or even one—would suffice.

The third crew member will provide the "redundance," the extra margin of safety future aircraft will need to fly safely through the increasingly crowded and complex environment. The prime justification for a crew size reduction is economics—not safety!

The FAA's responsibility under the Federal Aviation Act to promote commercial aviation should be ended because it conflicts with the agency's mandate to ensure the highest level of safety. The Agency should devote all of its attention to making aviation as safe as possible—a job that is going to get even tougher as the number of planes in the air increases.

Certification is today a closed process. Only the FAA and the manufacturer participate and they do so behind closed doors. Thus, defects in certification come to light only after an aircraft has entered service. Allowing qualified persons with special expertise to participate in certification would strengthen the process and result in safer aircraft being certificated.

It's True.

"I built a new home about two years ago and decided to use the heat pump because it is energy efficient. Number 1, I like the idea of electric heating and air conditioning because it's cleaner. The heat pump system is clean and I like to maintain a place that stays clean. My walls stay nice, my draperies stay nice and I don't have lint everywhere... and I've had other systems where I did have that problem. The heat pump is great because it is clean... we've been very satisfied with it."

Off The Record
The Private Papers of
Harry S. Truman
Edited by Robert H. Ferrell

Most readers will find this book a warm entertaining, down to earth record of the dairies, letters and memoranda written by Harry Truman from the time he entered the White House until 1971.

Of special interest to readers will be Truman's astute appraisal of such men as Winston Churchill, Joseph Stalin and Douglas MacArthur, as well as the more humorous entries he makes about politics and personalities encountered during the hectic years of his presidency.

Family letters are also included in this collection such as those to his aged mother and his sister Mary Jane, and will re-inforce the belief of those who regard Truman highly as a family man and a man with a great amount of "horse sense." Truman's writings will be found to be earthy, interesting, zestful, factual, and above all honest, and will forever remain as a refreshing, candid look at the history of this period.

"Off The Record" is now available at Lovett Memorial Library.

Agronomist predicts less sneezing this fall

COLLEGE STATION — A weed control expert at Texas A&M University is predicting a milder-than-normal season statewide for sufferers of hay fever because of the recent dry spell. Some of the areas of the state have still received less than half their normal January-through-August rainfall, according to the State Climatologist's Office at Texas A&M.

Dr. Rupert Palmer, an agronomist, said lack of rain slowed the growth of ragweed.

Hypothermia Can Be Dangerous

The next time a cold wind slices through your clothes, you may wish you could not feel the cold at all. But as many as one in 10 older people are in real danger because they are not sensitive enough to cold.

Sometimes people especially those over age 65, have body malfunctions that keep them from noticing cold and regulating body temperature well. So when they stay in a consistently nippy atmosphere (sometimes no colder than 65 degrees Fahrenheit) for a long time, body temperature can drop low enough to be fatal from a condition called "accidental hypothermia."

Since hypothermia's symptoms may be similar to those of some other diseases, no one knows positively how many people die from it yearly. But the risk is very obvious because thermostats are going lower as heating bills go up.

Instead of the often obvious symptoms (such as hard, white, numb areas) that can indicate frostbite, hypothermia symptoms can mimic other diseases and be less obvious. Meanwhile, the victim's body can slow down until unconsciousness occurs and ultimately the heart stops.

Once the core of the body has gotten cold enough to be hypothermic, several days can pass before unconsciousness occurs. In the meantime, symptoms may include bloated face, pale pink skin, trembling in one part of the body, slurred speech, dulled awareness and slow response. (The victim probably will feel cold only before acute hypothermia occurs and not afterward.) Most hypothermia symptoms are signs of other diseases so a physician should be contacted to make an accurate diagnosis.

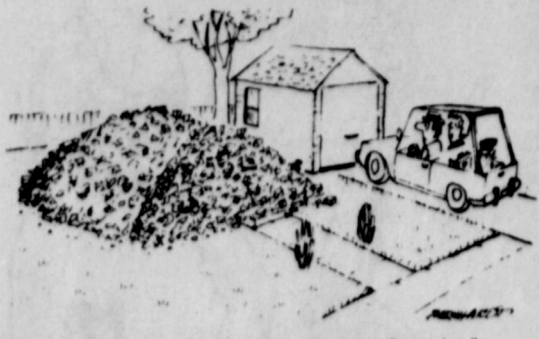

Protection against hypothermia includes wearing warm, multi-layered clothing, especially protecting the head, hands and feet, drinking warm liquids (except alcohol because it causes heat loss), proper nutrition, keeping the thermostat reasonably high and checking a room thermometer regularly. These are good ideas for anyone but are especially important for those older people whose natural warming methods are weakened.

Sometimes the body loses the ability to shiver and blood vessels may not distribute body heat properly. Losing these two natural warming methods may be especially serious for the aged who often have less muscle mass and slower chemical processes, which are two other heat-producers. To make matters worse, sometimes the aged cannot move around very much to get warm and they do not eat properly so there is less fuel for the bodily chemical processes to use to make heat.

Even with all these things working against them, the minority of people who are prone to hypothermia do not need to live in a hothouse atmosphere. A few common sense precautions will help get them through the winter just fine.

A good wetting now and then is said to prevent basketware from becoming brittle.

Reduced Dosage of Strain 19 Vaccine Now Being Used.
Recent major changes in the Texas Brucellosis Program include a reduced dosage of Strain 19 vaccine and a change in vaccination ages for heifer calves.

The reduced dosage is believed to be as effective as the larger dose formerly given, say officials of the Texas Animal Health Commission. They point out that the larger dosage has been credited with causing some animals to be diagnosed as having brucellosis, when it may have been reaction to the vaccine itself.

The reduced dose will help eliminate the confusion over levels of antibodies in the blood of the vaccinated animal. Some animals have developed persisting residual blood titers after vaccination with the larger dose.

Titers are measurements of antibodies resulting from vaccination or brucellosis infection. Titers induced by the vaccination using the reduced dose are lower and recede rapidly, although the degree of immunity is not different from the produced by the higher dosage.

With reduced dosage come a change in vaccination age. Previously, official calfhood vaccination ages were 3 to 6 months for dairy heifers and 3 to 10 months for all heifer calves. The state will provide funds for the vaccination of eligible calves by the veterinarians of the producer's choice.

Additionally, the use of whole herd vaccination is available for producers raising cattle in areas where there is a high risk of brucellosis. More details on this program are available from practicing veterinarians or the Texas Animal Health Commission. If brucellosis is found in a herd, the herd testing required of all cattle can be done by the ranchers veterinarian of choice and the state will pay for the testing program.

One of the biggest advantages for the calfhood vaccination program is that official vaccinates can move freely among sale and trade circles until they are 24 months of age unless they have already calved in the last three months of pregnancy.

We have some new leaflets explaining the new brucellosis program specifications. If you would like a copy, come by the County Extension Office.

Working Safely With Today's Fuel:
The changes that make today's fuels more volatile underscore the need to handle it with even more care. The safety rules we've heard about for years are even more urgent now. You've been hearing about safety all your life. But the new, more volatile fuels call for even more emphasis on basic safety rules such as: always tighten the fuel cap securely; never take the cap off or refuel when the engine is running or hot; don't smoke while refueling or anywhere near gasoline; when you're filling your tank, maintain control of the nozzle; don't fill your tank to capacity...allow room for expansion; wipe up any spills immediately; keep your equipment properly maintained; keep your equipment clean...free of trash and oil; don't give your equipment near open fires; never use gasoline for cleaning parts; schedule your gasoline purchasing so that you won't hold "winter gas" over to spring; and make sure everyone operating your equipment follows all the safety rules in the operator's manual.

Gasoline volatility has been increasing in recent years. From one standpoint that's beneficial because it makes engines start more easily and run better in cold weather. On the other hand, it's bad because it makes gasoline more dangerous to use and requires greater precautions.

Gasolines are blended to have various volatility levels depending on the time of year and the area of the country they're sold in. Higher volatility fuel is blended for use in cold weather because it vaporizes easier, helping you start in cold weather, but also making it more explosive.

If you retain high volatility "winter" gasoline for use in the spring, more gas vapors will give off than would be with gasoline blended for summer use. This can lead to excessive tank pressures which increase the risk of fire as well as high fuel losses.

The volatility levels of all gasolines have been generally increasing over the years. For example, the volatility of gasoline produced for use in the spring in the Midwest has increased 20 percent since 1965.

The higher volatility of gasoline being marketed today makes it more explosive and consequently, more dangerous to use. The more rapid vaporization increases tank pressures to go up, if the cap is quickly taken off a tank when it's hot, explosive vapor or fuel may escape. Any chance spark, lit cigarette or open flame could ignite, causing an immediate explosion or fire with the possibility of serious injury to anyone in the area.

Statewide Wheat Session:

Encouraged by stronger wheat prices brought about by increased exports and projected sharp drop in world grain production, wheat producers from across the state of Texas will meet to discuss the wheat situation and draft positive policy direction for action in 1981. According to Otis Harman of Tulsa, farmer-elected President of the Texas Wheat Producers Association, this year's annual meeting of the TWPA is set for Thursday, November 20 with registration beginning at 8:30 a.m. at the Hilton Inn on Interstate-40 East. The 30th Annual Meeting of TWPA will begin at 9:45 a.m.

Agri-Business Seminar:

The fifth Annual Golden Spread Agri-Business Seminar sponsored by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce will be held Friday, November 21 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Villa Inn, 1-40 at Grand in Amarillo.

"Water Resource Planning and Development Outlook for the 1980's", will be discussed by Dr. Herb Grubb, Director of Planning and Development for the Texas Department of Water Resources.

YOU CAN DINE OUT AND STILL STAY SLIM

A lot of people on diets just give up the whole enjoyable aspect of dining out, and that's a shame because a little common sense can keep you on the straight and slim.

All you have to do is alter a little of your thinking and a lot of your intake. It isn't that hard. Take a good hard look at how you feel, what you order, and be honest about your bad eating habits when dining. Then you can find ways of replacing them with good habits.

If a restaurant is known for its "magnificent, splendid desserts" and they are a pitfall for you, then don't go. Particularly if that's about all the place is famous for. Choose a restaurant with a variety of cooking where you can be sure of a choice of at least one or two broiled entrees. Stay away from the fried foods. Don't rush into the meal. Relax. Have a vegetable or fruit juice cocktail or a non-caloric drink. If you want something alcoholic, try a wine and club soda, or fool yourself and have a club soda with a dash of bitters and a twist of lemon.

Tell the waiter to skip the bread and butter because you know it won't skip you if it's on the table. When you're ready to order try not opening the menu. Ask the waiter to suggest a good broiled fish, chicken, or meat entree. Substitute a vegetable or salad for rice, potatoes or pasta. If you've just got to have a starch (and why not occasionally), don't load it with butter or sour cream or fancy sauces. That's where the calories really come into your diet. Take small bites. That doesn't make you dainty, just civilized. And chew your food well. Skip dessert or have a simple fresh fruit. Actually it's one of the most elegant of desserts. Another means of helping you resist the heavy calories is a product called Dietac. It's a safe and very effective appetite suppressant that can help make dining out a lot easier and a whole lot more enjoyable. For a free booklet on Behavior Modification as a means to weight control, write: Dietac, P.O. Box 174, Clifton Heights, Pa. 19018.

family finances

Even in these inflationary times, a slight expenditure may result in your reaping great rewards. A $10 Christmas gift, for instance, can help you feel good all year—because it contributes toward helping a little child live.

Your family can help finance life for a needy child for very little this Christmas.

The gift is "The Joy of Christmas" Card from World Vision, a Christian, humanitarian organization. That group is currently helping more than 230,000 needy children in 50 countries. The more money it has, the more children it is able to help.

The card is four inches wide and six inches high. On the front is a colorful picture of two happy children and a doll. Inside is a traditional holiday message. It also says "... as a special gift to you, a contribution has been made to World Vision to help bring joy to a needy child. ..." Each card with envelope costs $10. Write Christmas Cards, World Vision, Box 0, Monrovia, CA 91016.

If your rug's curl, stick a triangle of linoleum under each corner with fabric adhesive.

IF YOU'RE IN THE HABIT OF FALLING OFF YOUR DIET AND EATING A FORBIDDEN GOODIE, TAKE TEA AND SEE HOW IT CAN HELP! THE EXTRACT OF CAPE FULLY BREWING THE TEA, POURING IT OUT, GIPPING IT SLOWLY ACTUALLY CAN TAKE YOUR MIND AND STOMACH OFF THOSE FATTENING SWEETS AND KEEP YOU FROM GOING BACK TO THE COOKIE JAR FOR MORE!

Guess Who's Not Coming To Thanksgiving Dinner?

Guess who's not coming to Thanksgiving dinner? The "Food Spoilers." You can be sure the "Food Spoilers" won't show up if you plan carefully.

Decide how many people you can safely serve, and how much time it will take to prepare the food. Don't try to feed more people than you can handle. Consider the size and quantity of the cooking equipment needed as well as the supply of eating utensils and dishes.

Figure out how much refrigerator space you'll need to store foods. Plan for this large gathering to ensure a safe, fun and appetizing meal for the guests. Then follow the "Battle Plan on How To Fight The Food Spoilers" (it appears below). That will ensure you a Thanksgiving dinner without the notorious "Food Spoilers."

•When shopping for food, pick up meat, poultry, and dairy items last; get them home and into the refrigerator or freezer promptly.

•Never buy food in leaking, bulging, or severely dented cans, cracked jars, or jars with loose or bulging lids.

•Maintain refrigerator temperature at 35 degrees to 40 degrees (2 degrees to 4 degrees C.) and freezer at 0 degrees F. (-18 degrees C.) or lower. Check frequently to be sure.

•Thaw meat and poultry in the refrigerator, or for faster results in a watertight package under cold water.

•Wash hands before preparing food.

•After handling raw meat or poultry, wash hands before touching other foods or food surfaces.

•Wash utensils, containers, and work surfaces before and after they come into contact with raw meat or poultry.

•Always keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold until served.

•Refrigerate leftovers promptly.

Those Fabulous Winter Coats--How To Buy:

Buying knowhow for today's winter coat can make yours one of those "fabulous winter coats" you've always wanted to own. A winter coat is the most expensive single clothing purchase for most people. Although a coat may not be purchased each year, it's important to choose one that meets your needs—to get the most for your money.

Also, in looking for a coat, think about the layers you'll have for ensuring warmth. There are three key layers: a protective outer layer, an insulative middle layer and a breathing layer underneath.

The insulative quality of a coat holds "still" air close to the body. Again, most coats are more comfortable if they're made of lightweight fabrics, and this is just as true for the insulative middle layer as it is for the protective outer layer. Good insulative fabrics are wool and wool blends in flannels, tweeds, gabardines, herringbones or houndstooth. Other good insulators are foam laminate, flannel, quilted, fur and pile fabrics.

The ladies of the Methodist church were guests at the pretty home of Mrs. F.H. Kokley Tuesday afternoon at which time they indulged in a quilting bee, having undertaken the task of completing a "wheel of fortune quilt" that has been in the embryonic state for several months. After an hour or so of work, refreshments were served, the first course of which was popcorn. While eating the corn no guest was allowed to drop a grain, on penalty of one cent, and should anyone step upon a grain they were punished by a fine of one dollar. The next course was cake and soda pop (?) During the course of the afternoon some delightful music was rendered by Mrs. Denson and Mrs. Yokley. Those present were: Mesdames S.W. Rice, J.W. Sugg, W.R. A spur-of-the-moment decision to buy a home can be a serious, costly mistake, according to a new home-buyer's guide published by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Loose Marbles
by Lisa Patman

Recently I read an article called "Bringing Up Baby" which must have been written by someone who had never had one. It was full of wonderful advice to parents such as "...the fact that he is able to tune in and out...can be an exciting discovery for his parents." Oh, I suppose there's a ring of truth to that. The minute I realized my kids were able to hear quite clearly "The cake is ready to eat," or "There's a nude girl on television," or "I found a dollar on the floor," but became deaf to "Liver tonight," "The trash needs taking out," and "Would you consider paying for it yourself," I became very excited, although not happily so.

And if the author thinks it's amazing about the two year old that "His imagination has grown...and he loves make-believe games. He's now fast on his feet," then he should hang around a bunch of teenagers trying to explain why the car is dented, why curfew was broken, or why the police are knocking on the door-talk about imagination, you can find downright ingenious creativity there.

In fact, that author had several half-truths lurking in that silly little article. He is right when he says a child "doesn't want any plans changed, or things in his room moved around." Any parent who has tried to go from one wall to another in a kid's room will agree with the guy there-that is if you ever hear from that foolhardy parent again.

But when that crazy writer claims that a child will begin "to understand that other people exist, have feelings, in fact, "just like him" I have to draw the line. That guy is all wet. No sane parent of a young teenager would ever make such a rash statement. In fact, all of us know that not only do we not exist, since our children often glide by us as if we were invisible, but we also are aware by now that we have absolutely no feelings. After all, don't those very same offspring, when they deign to notice our presence, proclaim to one and all that we "don't understand?"

Come to think of it, that writer isn't the only one who makes impossible statements. Didn't I just write about sane parents of young teenagers? There just ain't no such animal--we're all a little crazy.

Instead, prospective homebuyers should carefully consider a wide range of decisions. The advantages of owning versus renting, whether they can afford the down payment, and whether they can afford the monthly costs of owning that particular house.

Advice on considerations such as these is contained in a comprehensive, 97-page, "Homebuyer's Information Package-A Guidebook for Buying and Owning a Home," prepared by HUD's Office of Policy Development and Research.

The Information Package is available from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Dept. 32H, Washington, D.C., 20402, for $4.95. Send check or money order, or give your VISA or MasterCard credit card account number and expiration date, and specify GPO Stock No. 023-000-00508-5.

Let's Ask The Experts!

MYTHS AND REALITIES OF THE COMING DECADE

Americans may have a lot to look forward to, but not since World War II have Americans been so pessimistic about the future. To what extent—if at all—is the pessimism justified? At a conference held by the American Marketing Association, one of the world's leading marketing societies, the projections of a group of experts were discussed.

Experts project more affluent, relaxed lifestyles for Americans in the coming decades.

By Dr. William Lazer

Our gloomy outlook reflects the buffeting of the rising costs of energy, housing, food and basic necessities and lower increases in our real income. Yet, a review of likely developments of future economic factors supports the conclusion that the real standard of living of the average U.S. family is likely to increase substantially!

We shall see a continuing decline in the average size of households and further gains by non-family households. Working wives are becoming the norm. Over 30 percent of wives are now employed, the figure may rise to well over 60 percent by 2000. The average contribution of wives to total family income will likely increase from the current average of 27 percent to 30-35 percent by 1990.

Whereas the early '70s began with good income increases and then fizzled, the 1980s are starting out weak—but are expected to gain in strength and continue well into the 90s. Real income over the next two decades is expected to grow at an average annual rate of two to 2.2 percent—representing about a 60 percent increase by the end of the century.

As the dual earner family becomes the norm, affluence will become more widespread. The number of family households in the $25,000 and over category (in 1977 dollars) will almost double by 1995. The latter part of the 80s will see greater numbers of family households with incomes of over $50,000 per year (in 1977 dollars), including a substantial number of skilled technical blue collar workers. Some senior citizens will receive two pensions when working wives as well as husbands retire.

The greater affluence is likely to place a higher premium on leisure time. The 36-hour, four-day work-week could become common. More secure and less fettered socially and economically, we will be more likely to express ourselves as individuals. We will be more knowledgeable, better educated and better traveled with more cosmopolitan and cultured tastes.

Out-Of-State Cars Involved In Wreck

Two out-of-state cars were involved in a minor wreck near McLean last week which damaged the cars but caused no injuries.

According to Department of Public Safety trooper John Holland, Robert F. Davis of Piquet, Ohio, driving a 1980 Buick Skylark, turned left out of the right hand lane of the east bound lane of Interstate-40 near the city limits of McLean.

The car was struck by a 1978 Chevrolet Nova driven by David L. Shockey of Hot Springs, Ark.
