Volume 77 McLean, Gray County, Texas 79057 Thursday, November 27, 1980 Price 25¢ Number 48

The staff of The McLean News hopes that you and your family are spending a happy Thanksgiving, and that you have remembered to give thanks for all the good things of life.

Among those who have a special reason to be thankful this Thanksgiving day are sisters Fern Woods and Cheryl Smith. The two women were returning from the ballgame at Silverton last Friday night when they took a wrong turn and wound up on a dirt road.

Because of the melted snow, the road was like a quagmire and the car eventually landed in a ditch. It was the middle of the night and about 20 degrees outside, and neither woman had a coat to wear, but they began trudging up the road to try to find help.

Cheryl reported that she contracted a bad cold from the freezing journey, but they were both happy to be alive!

Life seems to take strange turns for all of us. That ordinary trip to a basketball game could have ended in tragedy for these two women.

So remember to be thankful today for all your narrow escapes, and for the greatest gift of all...life itself. Happy Thanksgiving!

If your annual income is around $20,000, you might be interested in this fact. If inflation stays at the same rate that it has been this year, by the year 1999, you will have to earn $1,020,000 just to stay even!

We will publish the letters to Santa Claus in our Dec. 18 paper. If you want to write to the old gentlemen at the North Pole, mail your letter by Dec. 10. We will print all Santa letters and then bundle them up and send them on their way up north. Don't forget...mail your letters or bring them by The McLean News office by Dec. 10.

I hope you availed yourself of the opportunity to go to the high school auditorium last week and hear Larry Jones preach. It's not often that McLean has that many talented visitors here for anything. Jones brought with him a team of gifted people which included the Royalheirs, a gospel group out of Amarillo who are fantastic musicians. He also had with him Bible teachers, counselors, and others.

I'll have to admit that I was somewhat cynical about the crusade before it began. I have a deep distrust of "television" evangelists, but I decided to attend the meetings with an open mind. While I did not fully agree with everything that Jones said, I believe that he is a dedicated man, and not a charlatan. He certainly brought some fresh ideas to McLean, and was not the least bit afraid to state his opinion, even when he guessed it might be unpopular. And I like that in anybody.

McLean Begins Roundball Action Against Silverton

The McLean Tigers and Tigerettes got their first taste of basketball action Friday night at Silverton in three games with the Owls. The McLean teams were able to bring home only one victory in the three matches as the junior varsity girls tallied a 43 to 38 win against Silverton. In the initial game of the evening the JV Tigerettes overcame a 17-14 halftime deficit to lead in the third quarter 28-26. In the final quarter, the Tigerettes made several free throws in the closing moments of the game to clinch the win 43 to 38. High point for girls was Eva Anderson with 21 points. Maria Eck scored 7.

In varsity action, the McLean girls played a close half with the host team, with the Owlets leading 16 to 12 as the buzzer rang for intermission. The host team pulled ahead in the third quarter, and the Tigerettes were never able to gain momentum. The game ended with Silverton winning 36 to 21. Missy Billingsley scored 10 points and Nora Gately scored 7.

"The girls kept their cool and played well in a pressure-packed first game," Coach Asa Atchley said. "It was a low-score ball control type of game."

The McLean Tigers, fresh off their football season with only a few days of basketball practice under their belts, lost to the Silverton Owls 62 to 31.

The Owls, who were playing their third game of the season, jumped to an early lead of 17-6 in the first quarter, and never let up the pressure from then on. James Matheny scored 8 points, and Mike Lane scored 7 to lead the Tigers.

Coach Atchley said of his Tigers: "They made all the first game mistakes we expected, plus a few, but Silverton had had two previous games with Happy this year, so our boys didn't play as badly as the score looked."

Both the Tigers and Tigerettes were scheduled to play Groom here Tuesday night, but the results of the games were too late for press time.

Snow Storm Smothers City

McLean's second snow storm of the season blew into town early Tuesday morning, with accumulations expected to reach as much as six inches in the area.

The storm began in north-eastern New Mexico late Sunday night, and Amarillo began reporting blowing snow Monday morning.

McLean schools began session Tuesday morning but were forced to dismiss at noon because of the icy roads and blowing snow.

As much as eight inches of snow was reported in Lubbock Tuesday morning, causing cancellation of classes at the university there.

Roads were slick and hazardous throughout the area, with roads into New Mexico and Colorado impassable.

At press time, weather forecasters were calling for the snow and winds to continue at least through Tuesday. Temperatures were expected to rise Wednesday, the northerly winds Tuesday sent the chill factor down near zero.

The Texas Department of Public Safety warned travellers to use caution when travelling in the extremely cold temperatures.

The National Weather Service offered the following tips to persons trapped in a winter storm.

1. Avoid overexertion and exposure, such as pushing a stalled vehicle.
2. Stay in the vehicle. Don't try to walk out of a storm. Persons easily become disoriented and lost in heavy snow. The probability is higher of being rescued in a car.
3. Keep fresh air in the car. Freezing rain or snow could completely seal the passenger compartment.
4. Beware of carbon monoxide poisoning and oxygen starvation. Run the car motor sparingly and only with an open window.
5. Exercise by clapping hands and moving arms and legs vigorously.
6. Turn on the dome light at night to make the car more visible.
7. Keep watch. Don't let all occupants sleep at the same time.
8. Don't panic.

Cubs And Cubettes Lose First Games Of The Season

The McLean Junior High Cubs and Cubettes lost their first two games of the season Monday night as they played Lakeview Junior High in McLean. The Cubette's game was a squeaker, with Lakeview finally winning 20-17. Melanie Billingsley scored 6 points and Lee Ann Tate scored 5 for the junior high girls.

The McLean boys were swamped by Lakeview, who scored 62 points to McLean's 23. However, Coach Joe Riley said "The youngsters did a pretty good job for it being their first game of the season." Lakeview had played other games before Monday night.

The visitors jumped off to an early lead by scoring 16 points in the first quarter to McLean's 7, and ended the half ahead 34 to 9.

Martin Gately scored 8 points for McLean and Russell Littlefield scored 7.

OPINIONS

VIEWS ARE WRITTEN BY LINDA HAYNES, UNLESS OTHERWISE NOTED. IF YOU HAVE AN OPINION ON ANY CURRENT SUBJECT WE WELCOME YOUR SIGNED LETTERS.

The Responsibility Of The Press

A community's newspaper bears an awesome responsibility. It is charged with the responsibility of reporting, without bias or prejudice, the news of activities in the town, state, or nation. The ethical journalist strives to report news as straightforwardly as possible without interjecting personal opinion. The opinions of the reporter, his biases and prejudices about any subject, are supposed to be reserved for the editorial page, and clearly labeled "opinions."

Most newspapers in the Panhandle do a good job of just giving the facts in a news story, but our big sister paper to the west of McLean has been tottering dangerously for several weeks on that tightrope which separates the ethical newspaper from the muckracker.

Showing bias in reporting the news can be as subtle as writing a slanted headline or using an emotionally-charged word in a story. The reporter does not have to use blatant editorializing in the text of the story to be treading dangerously on shaky ethical grounds.

Does anyone doubt the political leanings of the Amarillo paper after looking at the front page stories chosen for the day of the election?

Could anyone doubt the paper's feelings toward Amarillo police chief Lee Spradlin following the recent series which the paper ran on the Amarillo law enforcement agency?

Recently the paper ran a front page "news" story about U.S. Representative Jack Hightower which concerned the fact that Hightower refuses to vote for a Republican for Speaker of the House. The story is accompanied by the picture of a local Republican leader, and the story is, in my opinion, slanted.

I do not object to a newspaper taking a political stand. I do not object to a newspaper backing a particular candidate.

But those endorsements should be made openly on the editorial page only, and the news should be reported in such a way that the reader is not being subtly influenced.

The Right Motor Oil Can Save Gasoline

The good news for American motorists is that fuel-saving oils really work. How do they work? Very simply. They are very good at reducing friction so that metal parts rubbing against each other can do so more easily.

If you were to look at a metal surface under a microscope, it would look uneven or "rough" even though it looked smooth to the naked eye. Scientists at Pennzoil have come up with an effective way to coat those rough spots with a film that resists being wiped off the engine's moving parts. The result is a smoother surface between sliding metal parts and less friction.

Now, smart motorists don't have to pay extra to get extra miles. This gas-saving oil, called Pennzoil Multi-Vis is available at regular Pennzoil prices in the weights motorists use most, 10W-30 and 10W-40. While each driver will see different levels of fuel economy, even off the engine's moving parts. The result is a two percent saving in gasoline used in the United States. On a yearly basis, two percent translates into almost two billion gallons of gasoline saved. That means almost two billion gallons of gasoline saved. That means almost two billion gallons of gasoline saved. That means almost two billion gallons of gasoline saved.

HAVE A HEARTH!

Enjoy using your fireplace, but have no illusions about the heat you get from it. It may be warm right near the hearth, but overall a fireplace draws heat out of the house and sends it uselessly up the chimney. To prevent this, buy a glass screen instead of the conventional metal mesh. Better still install a "heatolator," a device which actually captures hearth heat and sends it into the room.

It also helps to open a window near the burning fireplace just a crack, to supply air to the fire directly, without drawing heated air from the rest of the house. Close the fireplace damper after the fire is safely out.

While you shouldn't normally fiddle with the thermostat, you should lower the setting to between 50° F and 55° F while the fireplace is in use.

Shopping for Gold Coins

Beautiful jewelry for men and women can be created from small gold coins.

You don't have to be a Wall Street wizard if gold is an item that's on your holiday shopping list.

One way to shop for gold—either as an investment or a gift—is to buy coins. Experts point out that Mexican coins offer the widest range available, with six different size coins—from 1.2 troy ounces for the "Centenario" 50 Peso piece, to less than 1/20th of an ounce for the smallest "Dos Pesos" coin.

Encouraging to holiday shoppers is that gold coins, beautiful to look at and easily transported, make excellent, thoughtful gifts that are likely to increase in value. The smaller coins are considered ideal for jewelry.

Interestingly, gold coins are valued by the weight of gold they contain, which relates to the fluctuating price of gold on the open market. Up-to-the-minute price information for any of the Gold Coins of Mexico is available at coin dealers and selected banks.

Gone Fishin'

by Jeanette Fish

Life is a Hard Hat Area almost all the time. We each fine our own Safety Zone. You have one, don't you? A special place in your house, barn, pickup truck or at work—where you are really you and the world is kind of O.K.

Most of your day is spent in the Hard Hat Area. You stand there and take it. Bills in the mail—BAM! Cattle prices down—BAH! Feed Prices up—BOO! You pay college tuition and the "Hope of The Family" sends you a report card filled with C's and D's along with a request for more money and a better car—signed "Very truly yours, Your Son." Great! Take you where? Hawaii? The Bahamas? Even Oklahoma! No such luck, baby. You're wearing that Hard Hat. It's almost time to cook lunch, make a cake for a bake sale, fix a fence and drive 30 miles to buy a tractor part. Too bad. Wham! Bang! The day goes. Thank goodness for the Safety Zone. Where is yours? For me it is a certain place on the living room couch by one old lamp. I sit there. Problems don't exactly leave; they sort of stand out on the front porch, peering through the window.

If you get up and move around the room, Mr. Problem walks right in, takes off his coat and hat, and says "Hi Hon, I'm still here." It is funny too, how the family knows about the special spot of yours. They leave it alone.

Funny too how you don't even have to be sitting there to be helped by it. You could walk by it a dozen times a day and be comforted, that chair at the kitchen table where you can sit with a cup of coffee and look out at your favorite tree, the old recliner that everybody in the family wishes you'd haul to the dump before the Health Department shows up and quarantines it for six weeks.

Tell 'em to leave it alone. It gives you peace, keeps you sane. Safety Zones are not only nice, they are necessary. After all, you're a pretty nice person, trying to do a lot of things for a lot of people. You deserve that one oasis. It's little enough to ask.

Minnie Pearl
An Autobiography
By Minnie Pearl with Joan Dew

"How Dee! I'm just as proud to be here," has reverberated over radio and television to entertain millions addicted to country entertainment, and the lovely lady who utters those famous lines has written an autobiography which will prove just as hilarious and enjoyable as her antics on the stage have been for these many years.

Minnie Pearl (Sarah Ophelia Colley) who possibly better than anyone else epitomizes the spirit of the Grand Ole Opry, has included in this volume anecdotes not only from her professional life, but also interesting vignettes of her personal life certainly not known by the common public, or perhaps even her most avid fans.

Recounted in this book are the associations with her closest friends, and the list would read like one of the country music hall of fame. Names such as Roy Acuff, Hank Williams, Bill Monroe and Pee Wee King, with whom Minnie appeared many times, were also among her closest friends and advisors as they all went through the fat and lean days of country entertainment.

"Minnie Pearl, an Autobiography," is now available at Lovett Memorial Library.

Bells Of Gold For Christmas

For centuries, the ringing of Christmas bells has been a beloved tradition. Nostalgic memories are evoked by the sounds of church bells on Christmas morning, jingle bells on horse-drawn sleighs and decorative bells on festive pine boughs and packages. According to historians, bells have had many other meanings as well. They were originally worn throughout the world to ward off evil spirits and protect the wearer from bodily harm. It is stated in Exodus that gold bells were prescribed by God for the hems of priests' garments. The sound of their ringing was thought to ward off demons that frequented the thresholds of sanctuaries. Today, bells of gold are available as charming pendants, to be threaded onto gold chains—a real bringer of a gift idea! Their lovely, rich sound is certain to cause smiles of delight this Christmas. And, like any gift of karat gold jewelry, bells of real gold can be treasured for their intrinsic value, their long lasting quality and their beauty.

South America, now touring the United States. The exhibit includes a number of gold bells worn for personal adornment and appreciated for their musical qualities.

The wearing of gold bells is a revival of a custom enjoyed by the ancient Colombians, as evidenced by the intriguing "Gold of El Dorado" exhibit of artifacts from Colombia.

Enjoy a bountiful Thanksgiving

The game of football played between Pampa and McLean on the local grounds last Saturday was the fastest game we have witnessed this year. The local high school boys all went into the game with that determination that will not stand for defeat, and they won by a score of 34 to 0. Pampa put up a hard fight but just could not deliver the goods; however, one could easily tell that they had been thoroughly coached, and on several occasions they would get away with an end run or intercept one of Sammie Cubine's accurate passes, but they never at any time threatened our goal except right in the beginning of the game, when they carried the ball to within fifteen yards of a score. We could easily mention every man on our team for some good plays during the game, but you were all there so we see no use in mentioning them. We made five touchdowns, two by Jack Back, one each by Ted Glass, Lee Wilson and John Biggers. It was easy to see that our team had them bested when it came to speed, but they had us outweighed by several pounds. It takes time to make a football team, and we are well pleased with the boy's progress this year. They have not picked the easiest teams, but have played schools that are in every case larger than we are, unless it be one. The boys have learned some lessons that will stay with them through life and the team has been worth much to our school spirit, both in the school room and in the community. We hope that McLean may have next year as good a team for her second year as she has had for her first. W.A. Cain, S.M. Castleberry.

Harmonious Ham Medley

You can make a marvelous meal in minutes-for practically pennies-and put it all in one dish to save time and trouble, too, thanks to the versatility of rice and the hearty flavor of ham. As the rice kernels cook they absorb the mixture of delectable flavors. That's the way plentiful high-quality American rice battles budget problems, extending more high-priced fare.

HAM MEDLEY
3 cups cubed cooked ham,
1/2-inch cubes
2 cups chicken broth
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 medium onions, sliced
1 cup uncooked rice
1 can (14-1/2 to 16 ounces) tomatoes
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 large green pepper, cut into thin strips

Place meat in a large skillet. Add broth, seasonings, and onions. Sprinkle rice over top. Heat to boiling, stir well, lower heat, cover, and simmer for 15 minutes or until rice is tender. Stir in tomatoes, mustard, and green pepper. Heat about 5 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

THEN and NOW!

THEN: Holly Hobbie was a gifted young artist, married and with one child (now there are three) whose friends and family were blessed on birthdays and holidays by receiving greetings from her in the form of watercolors and drawings of delightful charm. One friend suggested she pack off a portfolio to a greeting card company just for fun.

This is Holly Hobbie, the character who has captured the hearts of the young and old all over the world.

NOW: Holly Hobbie still favors friends and family with her drawings, and yet her art has made her name a household word around the world. One of Holly's most familiar designs, the one that has become virtually an emblem of her work, is the Blue Girl, the standing figure of a serene, young girl in profile whose face is concealed by a fancifully large calico bonnet. Her blue bonnet and highlaced shoes, her patchwork apron and the bouquet of wild flowers in her hands, are evocative of a time whose simplicity and repose seem rare today. Holly's designs, a mainstay of American Greetings' card business, has been adapted to numerous products ranging from dolls and toys and garments for children to sheets and wallpaper and items for collectors of Americana. The Holly Hobbie look is especially appropriate for the holiday season when people seem inclined to recall something of the spirit of an appealing past.

McLEAN HARDWARE

Galen, a Physician in ancient Rome, prepared a cosmetic almost identical to modern cold cream.

Notes From Your County Agricultural Agent

by Joe Van Zandt

Cattle Feed:

Visited with a couple of cattlemen this week about ways to economize on feed costs this winter. Ranchers buying high priced cake or cubes need to investigate the cost and availability of getting Rumensin-R added to the protein supplement. Research has concluded that Rumensin-R may be profitably included in the ration of the beef breeding herd with no ill effects.

The use of whole cottonseed continues to be a good buy for protein and energy supplement for cattle. Cottonseed can be obtained for around $130 per ton.

With the value of cottonseed figured at $130 per ton, and using only the value of protein furnished as the basis for comparison, cottonseed cake is worth $224.25 per ton; 20 percent cubes-$108.33 per ton; 36 percent blocks-$195 per ton; alfalfa hay at 17 percent protein $92.08 per ton; and 32 percent liquid feed-$173.33 per ton.

These values per ton reflect only the comparative values based upon what the protein from cottonseed costs. Also in addition, cottonseed have about 15-20 percent more energy than cottonseed cake does. These values do not consider availability, transportation, labor, and storage costs. However, cattlemen can see that currently cottonseed are a reasonable source of protein for cattle and the extra energy is an additional bonus.

Hunter Influences Deer Meat Quality:

Deer hunting provides both outdoor recreation and table fare--venison-- for Texas sportsmen each year. Some eleven-million pounds of boneless deer meat are harvested annually in Texas, and the hunter is the key person responsible for the quality and edibility of the venison he brings home.

The entire process of handling the carcass from field to table can add or detract from the desirability of the final product. The hunter plays an important role in determining whether a deer steak is tender and tasty or tough and bad-flavored. Based on studies regarding the effects of handling on deer meat quality, gives these recommendations:

- Whenever possible, place the shot in the neck or head to insure clean, rapid kill. This prevents post-shot stress and also reduces tissue damage considerably.
- Field dress the animal as soon as possible. If contents of the intestine or paunch have been spilled, rinse the carcass with water. A publication, L-634, entitled "Field Dressing Big Game" is available from any County Extension Office and provides more information.
- If weather permits, leave the skin on the carcass to help conserve moisture. However, in hot weather, skin and cover the carcass with a fly proof bag if a cooler is not accessible. Also, a male in the rut may have a strong urine odor on the hind legs and probably should be skinned prior to storage.
- If the family prefers a somewhat more intense flavor similar to aged beef, hang the carcass in a locker for about a week before final processing. Use a clean locker to avoid contamination of odors from poorly handled carcasses.

These recommendations are not only to handle carcasses. For the hunter who has a preferred method which differs somewhat from these recommendations, but the family is satisfied with the venison brought home, change is unnecessary.

If a hunter has no experience in handling deer carcasses or has had a bad experience with deer meat, these suggestions may help increase the use of the deer resource.

Further suggestions on care and cooking of venison can be found in the publication, MP-1333, "Big Game Cooking Care," also available from any County Extension Office.

Winterize Lawn, Garden Tools:

The best way to close out the 1980 gardening season and prepare for 1981, is to "winterize" your lawn and garden tools and equipment.

For gasoline-powered equipment such as lawn mowers and rototillers, run the engine until the gas tank is empty. After the engine cools, clean the housing thoroughly, remove and sharpen any blades (after disconnecting the sprakplug wire), clean or replace the air filter, and drain the oil. Then store the equipment in a garage or storage building out of the weather.

Homeowners with rechargeable tools such as electric shears and edgers should clean and oil the blades before storing. Charging and running such tools several times during the winter season will keep them in good working order.

Drain all hoses, sprinklers and other watering devices and store them indoors to prevent freeze damage.

Thoroughly clean fertilizer spreaders and wipe them with an oily rag to protect metal surfaces. Also, oil all moving parts.

Wash spray equipment with detergent and warm water and thoroughly clean nozzles and any screen filters. If a compression sprayer fails to hold pressure, it may need a set of new leathers. Back-flush hose-on sprayers to clean out the siphon tube.

Finally, look over your arsenal of pesticides and discard any that are old or have torn or rusted containers as well as those not properly or clearly labeled. A little time spent now taking care of garden and lawn tools and equipment will put you in good shape when the spring season rolls around.

Homemaker News

by Elaine Houston

Extension Homemaker Council:

The Extension Homemaker Council will meet on Monday, November 24 at 10 a.m. in the Annex Meeting Room for a regular business meeting. They will discuss plans for the Christmas party. Club members are reminded to bring recipes for the Christmas Recipe Booklet. Everyone is encouraged to bring a sack lunch and stay for a workshop to make gifts for the Meal on Wheels patrons.

Big Game--Nutritious Eating:

Big game provides variety and contributes high quality nutrients to meals of families of Texas sportsmen. Utilization of this wild game aids conservation of a valuable resource and can stretch the food budget year round.

Big game also fits into the meat group of the basic four food groups. Like domestic meat, it is rich in protein, minerals and vitamins. There is one difference though--it is generally low in fat. Serving size is two to three ounces of lean meat. Meat of big game furnished protein needed for growth and repair of body tissues, muscles, blood, skin and hair. It also provides iron, thiamin, riboflavin and niacin.

For those who prefer to have their deer meat made into sausage, here are some deer sausage recipes. Since there are many preferences for different flavors and textures, adapt these recipes to please individual tastes.

Fresh Breakfast Sausage

- 25 pounds lean deer, antelope or elk meat
 - 25 pounds very fresh regular pork trimmings (50 percent lean, 50 percent fat)
 - 1 pound salt
 - 1 1/2-2 ounces ground sage
 - 1 1/2-2 ounces black pepper
 - 1/2 ounce red pepper (if desired)
 - 5 ounces sugar (For Small quantities)
 - 2 pounds wild game meat
 - 2 pounds regular pork trimmings
 - 2 teaspoons salt
 - 4 teaspoons ground sage
 - 2 teaspoons ground black pepper
 - 1/4-1/2 teaspoon red pepper (if desired)
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
- Thoroughly mix trimmings, and grind through a plate with 1/2-inch holes. Spread coarsely ground meat on table top, sprinkle seasoning on top and thoroughly mix. Re grind through a plate with 1/8-inch holes. If a 1/2-inch plate is not available, sprinkle seasoning on top of trimmings, thoroughly mix and grind once through a plate with 1/8-inch holes.

For stuffed sausage, stuff immediately for best results. Stuff into natural hog casings, plastic bags, or muslin bags (use any cloth made from strong cloth that has been washed several times). Obtain natural hog casings from meat markets, local meat processing plants or store. Soak them in warm, salty water for about one hour or until they are pliable.

Big Game Sausage--Smoking, Storing:

Smoke and store big game sausage properly. There are many ways to smoke meat. One way of smoking is to build a small fire out of hardwood (pecan, hickory or oak) at the end of a backyard, closed-type cooker. Burn it until live coals are obtained, then put a few hardwood chips on the coals.

Place the sausage or cured meat cuts on the rack on the opposite end from the coals. Use enough water on the chips so they do not blaze, and smoke the sausage with the cooker closed. Keep the temperature of the cooker between 130-150 degrees F. Or, make a smoke-house from any closed device such as an old refrigerator or oil drum. An air inlet is needed at the bottom and a damper at the top. Some methods for keeping the interior hot is also needed. The whole smoking and drying procedure can be accomplished in one of these devices, but requires close watching. Try a small quantity at first to develop your own special method. This is not an exact science.

Store fresh sausage in refrigerator for one week or in the freezer at 0 degrees F. for more than three months. Salt added to the meat reduces freezer storage time about 50 percent. Before freezing, wrap sausage in freezer paper, plastic freezer bags or foil. Wrap bulk sausage and place directly into the freezer.

For cured and smoked sausage, hold in refrigerator for two to three weeks or store in the freezer. Protect and store cured and smoked sausage using the same method as for fresh sausage. Keep cured and smoked sausage in the freezer no more than three months.

Prehistoric peoples, it is believed, held their garments together with thorns or with cords made from animal sinews.

Cured And Smoked Sausage [Country Style]:

- 37-1/2 pounds of deer, antelope or elk meat
- 12-1/2 pounds of very fresh pork fat trimmings (fatback)
- 1 pound salt
- 1 ounce saltpeter (potassium nitrate--obtain at drug store)
- 2 ounces black pepper
- 1/2 ounce ground cloves (or 1/2 ounce ground nutmeg, if desired)

KATHY GARVER

Dinner Theatre To Feature "Cissy"

Petite Kathy Garver of the television series "Family Affair" will headline the Christmas show at Amarillo's Country Squire Dinner Theatre, opening November 25 in the Broadway comedy hit, "Sunday in New York." Performances are scheduled Tuesday through Sunday evenings weekly.

Then, while a freshman at UCLA, the petite child star became part of CBS's long-running series "Family Affair," co-starring with Brian Keith and Sebastian Cabot. For five

Elementary schools could use more men, educator believes

COLLEGE STATION — The lack of male teachers in elementary grades may be causing developmental problems for young boys, believes a Texas A&M University educational specialist.

Tom Savage, associate professor of curriculum and instruction, said educational experts are becoming alarmed about the small number of men becoming elementary teachers. Savage worries that boys see teaching, and possibly school, as a female task.

Savage said elementary teaching always has been dominated by women teachers, but the dominance is becoming more pronounced.

In 1975, he said, the national norm of male teachers in elementary education was 12 percent. In Texas, he said, of 71,000 elementary teachers only 6,800 — or less than 10 percent — are men.

High school athletics encourages ambition in minority students

COLLEGE STATION — Participation in high school athletics may serve as a substitute for parental and peer encouragement to attend college, especially for disadvantaged youth, says a Texas A&M University sport sociologist.

"A growing body of research literature indicates that participation in interscholastic athletics is associated with higher levels of educational ambition, college attendance and career achievement," said Dr. J. Steven Picou in a paper presented at the American Sociological Association's annual meeting.

The study revealed that athletics has more important consequences for disadvantaged youth who receive little support from parents or friends for educational achievement. It was also reported that sports involvement encourages advantaged youth as well, but to a lesser degree.

For good luck when taking a written test, some say to use a new pen or pencil, because it has never made a mistake.

from the Texas Energy Extension Service

We are planning to build a new home and are considering whether or not to incorporate a fireplace in the design. On the basis of energy efficiency, how worthwhile is a fireplace?

G. H., Navasota. Fireplaces are poor heaters of homes. According to Heating with Wood, a Department of Energy publication, the volatile gases are drawn up the chimney before they can adequately release their energy to the surrounding room. The draft created by the fire draws room air up the chimney along with the burning gases, sometimes resulting in a net heat loss for the entire house.

Additional heat is lost if the damper is left open after the fire dies out. A typical masonry fireplace has about 10 percent efficiency or less.

Modifications to improve energy efficiency can be made on a fireplace. These can include a metal-lined heat exchanger that allows room air to be heated and circulated out the top of the unit.

A glass screen can also be installed to reduce heat loss as the fire burns down. Louvers at the bottom restrict the amount of air up the flue.

More information on woodstoves and fireplaces is available in Heating with Wood, a publication available free from the Texas Energy Extension Service.

What sources on alternate energy are available from the Texas Energy Extension Service? D. S., Victoria.

The Texas Energy Extension Service has available free packets of information on solar energy in Texas, wind energy, and earth shelters. To obtain these materials contact the Texas Energy Extension Service, Center for Energy and Mineral Resources, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

What publications on conventional forms of home energy conservation does the Texas Energy Extension Service have? T. P., Borger. The Texas Energy Extension

- Efficient Home Air Conditioning Units
- Heat Pumps for Homes and Businesses

- Reducing Energy Loss Through Windows
- Reduce Hot Water Usage to Save Energy

4-H CORNER

Rescheduled Lamb Clinic:

The 4-H and FFA Lamb Clinic which was cancelled on November 17, has been rescheduled for December 15, at 7 p.m. at the Clyde Carruth Livestock Pavilion.

All 4-H and FFA members who are feeding a lamb for show and their parents are invited to attend this clinic.

Gray County 4-H Council:

The Gray County 4-H Council will meet at 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday, November 26 to continue plans for the County 4-H Christmas Party. All Council members are encouraged to come and help plan this activity.

Opportunities Await 4-H Volunteers:

If volunteer programs are your "thing" then the Texas 4-H and youth program offers unlimited opportunities to help young people learn and develop. 4-H is the youth development program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, and focuses on the needs, interests, and concerns of boys and girls, ages 9-19 years of age. Its aim is to help young people develop through practical learning experiences such as preparing a nutritious meal, building bookshelves or growing a vegetable garden.

Since young people do not develop their skills and attitudes overnight, they need and seek guidance from the 4-H volunteer who helps them probe the "why" behind the "how to do it."

Helping youth develop, however, requires different kinds of leadership. For those who prefer to work primarily with youth, 4-H offers leadership roles related to the organization, project or activity aspects of a 4-H group. While the "organization leader" guides the overall operation of a 4-H group, the "project and activity leaders" help boys and girls learn by involving them in a specific project, such as clothing, auto repair and bicycle safety, and related activities, such as safety clinics, exhibits and local tours. These leaders may, in turn, be assisted by junior and teen leaders who work closely with an adult or teen advisor.

Volunteers who prefer to work primarily with adults also have a wide range of choices. A 4-H project or activity chairman helps other leaders with a specific project or activity. A 4-H recruiter seeks out youth and adults interested in becoming 4-H members or leaders, then allows the 4-H organizer to help the new group get started. Volunteers are also assisted by the 4-H trainer who helps train other leaders in the area and by the 4-H resource person who secures special materials or people from the community.

If you are interested in young people, want to share your talents and hobbies, and enjoy meeting other adults with your same interests, consider being a 4-H volunteer. Contact the County Extension Office for personal assistance to help you find a volunteer role that's right for you.

Nutrition And You

Digestion

Q: What exactly is "digestion"?

A: Digestion is the process by which complex foods—chicken, vegetables, ice cream, etc.—are turned into simple chemical compounds which can be absorbed into the body's living cells. Cells can only use simple substances such as amino acids, simple sugars, and fatty acids in their life processes.

Q: How does it work?

A: Food first undergoes changes in the mouth, where enzymes in the saliva begin to break it down. Carbohydrate digestion begins here. Muscular activity then moves the food down to the stomach, where protein digestion begins as well. Juices are released that cause chemical changes in the food. It then moves into the small intestine, where protein digestion is completed and fat digestion begins, activated by acids from the gall bladder. Some food material passes through all of these stages unaltered—this residue is called "fiber." Fiber keeps the food mass moist, helps maintain the muscle tone in the gastrointestinal tract, and promotes regularity.

Q: Where do the enzymes come in?

A: Enzymes make the digestion happen, but are unchanged in the process themselves. They are formed from the amino acids which the body breaks down from protein foods. The body builds all the enzymes it needs, provided it has received sufficient quantities of protein in the diet.

Q: So then nutrition comes from digestion?

A: Yes, but so does digestion come from nutrition, according to Dr. James Scala, a noted authority on nutrition and vice president of Science and Technology at Shaklee Corporation. The digestive system needs the right materials to repair and maintain itself. Proper nutrition is necessary for the digestive system to operate at its best. It is particularly susceptible to the effects of poor food habits.
