IT'S HAPPENING HERE!

A Rip Van Winkle awakening today in the midst of the battle for "Right-to-Work" laws after a snooze of 20 years or more would have occasion to rub his eyes in wonderment. And nowhere across the land would the anomaly of a presumably "free" people fighting for the privilege of making a living without paying tribute to the unions appear more at variance with the Declaration of Independence than in Ohio.

In that state 16,000 patriotic volunteers eagerly undertook the tremendous task of securing the petition signatures required by law to place a right-to-work amendment of the Ohio constitution on the ballot this fall. This will require 356,000 names, or ten percent of the number voting for gubernatorial candidates in the last election. As a safeguard against signatures that might be disqualified for one reason or another, 100,000 additional may be needed.

So long as the labor bosses felt the campaign would fizzle, all was quiet. But when a pollster indicated the effort would succeed by a comfortable margin, the reign of terror began. Names of the circulators, filed as required with the Secretary of State were available to AFL-CIO officials who kept local labor union bosses informed from day to day. They swung into action.

Merchants soliciting signatures were told to knock it off, or union members would boycott their establishments. Insurance men active in the fight found their mail bringing policy cancellations instead of orders. Where there was no obvious economic lever to apply—as in the case of retired people—mysterious voices over the telephone inquired whether the circulator would care to be mugged or have his house bombed.

Union retaliation was immediately effective. The loyal army of 16,000 dwindled under fire and defeat seemed inevitable—until the school year ended and the kids came home from college. To youth, the challenge of pitched battle was irresistible. Hundreds volunteered, and once more victory is just over the horizon. With success in placing the right-to-work issue on the ballot, will come a new phase, however. Slowdowns and sitdowns face employers who help financially or actively in the drive for November votes. The union leaders have promised an all-out fight.

But there is good reason to hope that both the fight and the outcome in Ohio may provide a shining example for those states that have yet to do battle for this fundamental right.

NEEDED WEAPON

A million pamphlets presenting ten chapters of the recent high school text book, "Democracy versus Communism" will be distributed to Armed Forces personnel. John Marshall, president of the Institute of Fiscal and Political Education, which sponsored the book, directed its four years of preparation and solicited the $159,000 required for its production. Says this "is a gratifying climax to many years of work."

Brig Gen. S. F. Giffin, USAF, in charge of armed forces information and education, and who arranged for our fighting men to receive the booklets declared: "It is essential that our soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines have a clear understanding of the goals of international Communism and how the Communists operate to attain them. Morale and readiness to fight if necessary are based on a solid foundation of knowledge of the issues at stake as well as upon purely military proficiency."

We think General Giffin should order some extra copies of this selected, easy-to-read pamphlet version for distribution farther up the line. And while we are on the subject of books, he might also get some copies of "The Pentagon Story" by Col. Victor J. Fox, which the author says, is fiction.

This measure may soon be on the Floor of the House for voting consideration. Although it passed the Committee by an 18-7 vote its future on the Floor is considered uncertain, since the Administration is strongly opposing it on the grounds its enactment would take away about $250 million per year from the United States Treasury, due to lost revenue.

LET'S TALK LIVESTOCK BY TED GOULDY

Fed Cattle Supply Up, Prices Display Weakness

The cattle trade at Fort Worth Monday reflected the weaker market on fed steers and heifers which developed at Northern markets along with increased cattle supplies. The 12 major markets Monday reported more than a 20 percent increase in cattle and calves and at Northern points, these were mostly fed cattle. The trade again displayed its sensitivity to the supply situation and fed cattle closed lower everywhere.

At Fort Worth a few choice yearling heifers topped at $28, but the rank and file fed steers were 50 cents lower and some bids were $1 off as packers displayed faint urgency. Their lack of interest was credited to expectations of lower priced beef from their corn-belt plants, as well as from good supplies of fat cattle shipped direct to their plants.

Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $23.50 to $26.50 and a few fancy fat yearlings and heifers drew $27 to $28. Common and medium slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $18 to $23.50. Mature steers ranged from $26.50 downward.

Fat cows ranged mostly from $17 to $20 with a few to $20.50 and $21. Canners and cutters drew $11 to $17. Bulls sold from $17 to $22.

Good and choice slaughter calves ranged from $23.50 to $27.50, and common and medium sorts sold at $17 to $23.50. Culls sold at $14 to $17. Good and choice stocker steer calves ranged from $30 to $33 and heifer calves cashed at $29 down. Stocker steer yearlings of good kinds sold from $27 downward and feeder cattle cashed at $22 to $26.

Sheep and Lambs Open Fully Steady

Sheep and lambs were steady at Fort Worth Monday. Good and choice slaughter lambs cashed at $21 to $22 and cull to medium lambs drew $15 to $20.50. Stocker and feeder lambs drew $18 to $20, some clipped feeders at $19. Good and choice yearlings cashed at $14 to $16.50. Old wethers drew $12.50 down. Slaughter ewes brought $6.50 to $7.50. Old bucks sold around $6.

WE HAVE A WATCHMAN at our store—though guarding us is not his job. Mostly, he's on the watch to keep your watch on the go.

He's our watch service expert—the man who knows "what makes it tick." And what makes it keep ticking—almost half a million times a day. Your watch does that, you know, year in and year out.

That's why he so often reminds us how important it is to have any watch inspected periodically. The little time it takes can save big money later on.

And that's why we're urging you to stop by for a watch checkup today. We'll be watching for you!

A Summary of Vacation News From The Teenage Set

By Sally Baggett
Hi Kids! (From Seguin)
It is loads of fun up here. It would be even more so if all of you could be here to enjoy the heat and hard work.

I might say, boys, all our girl teachers are still in high school. And girls, our male teachers are in high school or just out. I can't get anyone out of that annual. They're sitting drooling over the football team. I'll admit I've done my share.

dra, and I are in these rooms and Nonie and Linda are down stairs. Word has just reached our pink shell ears that in a few days we are to take twirling tests. We nearly flaked! Five tests! Isn't that gruesome?

Wool Marketing —

et situation in Boston and at any given time has the latest market information. He is in a better bargaining position, too, because he makes the offer of price, and usually it we sell, it is at his price. Still the buyer, too, is engaged in this guessing game. But he is usually better qualified to guess more accurately the clean content of a lot of wool than either the ranchman or the warehouseman. We have to accept this as a fact. If the buyer were outguessed many times he would no longer be a buyer. The biggest profit a dealer or speculator makes is when he outguesses us most.

How does a farmer who raises grain or cotton market his products? Basically he uses the same system as the ranchman. He sends his product to a public bonded warehouse. They may call it a gin or a grain elevator but nevertheless it is still a warehouse. The farmer's product is stored and insured for his account until sold, and the proceeds, less marketing costs, remitted to him.

But that's about all the similarity there is between a farmer's and a wool producer's marketing procedures. The farmer's product, let's use wheat as an example, is brought from the farm to the elevator. From that point on, the farmer's methods become modern as compared to the wool producer's "gay nineties" marketing.

The farmer's wheat is graded, exactly and expertly, not by guess but according to specified procedures and against very definite standards. He receives a warehouse receipt or certificate defining accurately what he delivered. It is true that his wheat is stored with a million or two other bushels of wheat and it may be impossible for him ever again to separate his particular wheat from that of his neighbors. He doesn't care. He knows he will be paid according to his warehouse certificate. Actually he doesn't care if he never sees his own grain again. He has work to do on the farm or a much needed vacation to take. His marketing procedure is estimated and has had the guess work taken out of it. He knows he will receive all the money due him and that it will represent the true market value of his product on the day it is sold.

What about the wool and mohair grower? He shears his animals in about the same way his granddaddy did. A great many producers certainly take better care of their clips at the ranch than others do, but there is plenty of room for improvement at this point. Maybe the bags are rolled out on the ground and practically all wool is hauled to the warehouse over dusty roads in unprotected trucks.

All classes and grades of wool are in the same bag. This again is the basis for more guess work on the part of your selling agent and the buyer. You as an individual may have a superior clip, put up in the best possible manner. You also may have your wool cored and micron counts made. These are advanced steps to take in order to know just what you are selling.

What happens now? The buyer sees your superior clip. It may not be a large one — most of them these days are small — but he really wants it. He selects another owner's clip to fill his order. This second clip may be inferior to yours — probably is — but you and the other grower get exactly the same price per grease pound.

We as wool and mohair growers are not getting all the money due us. The warehouse man who accepts your wool on consignment knows this but still he has to take care of all of his customers, the mediocre clip as well as the superior one. He has problems too.

What is the solution? We do not know for sure. We do have a few ideas. Most producers and most of the warehousemen who accept wool on consignment and even the Texas speculator buyer knows that our wools are now selling far under the world market, and this is not a healthy nor a normal situation.

The Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers Association, the Texas sheep and goat man's only service organization, is determined to find an answer to this vital question and to improve somehow the marketing system. The question is not new in the Association. About thirty years ago ranchmen members of the Association were greatly concerned about the same problem. But as soon as prices improved somewhat then, the effort ceased. We do not intend to give up so easily this time. Several capable and dedicated men have been appointed to serve on a wool and mohair marketing committee, representing both the growers and the warehousemen.

Appointed to this committee are Fred Earwood, Sonora, chairman, ranchman and warehouse manager; Jimmy Powell, Menard, vice chairman; Ray Wyatt, Bandera, warehouseman; C. W. (Dink) Wardlaw, Del Rio, ranchman and warehouse manager; O. D. Dooley, Brackettville, ranchman and warehouse manager; Frank Roddie, Brady, ranchman and warehouse manager; Miles Pierce, Alpine, ranchman; Dale Priour, Ingram, warehouseman; and E. S. Mayer, Sonora, ranchman.

If you are a producer of wool or mohair or if you are interested in the marketing of these fibers, talk to the members of this committee. Give them your views, but above everything realize that they are working only for you, the producer. Keep an open mind and please do not condemn them or their efforts until you know for certain what the results of their study will be.

Progress demands change and to believe otherwise may indicate that you are in a rut and blind to the opportunities that lie ahead in your industry.
