READING AND WRITING

By John Selby

LORD BOTHWELL AND MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS.

Most reviewers who are not specialists on Mary Queen of Scots and her time probably dread the appearance of a new book about her. "Lord Bothwell and Mary Queen of Scots" is really a justification of Bothwell, of course, but the book falls into the delicate category mentioned just the same.

Recently Bothwell has been made a conspirator hissing behind pillars. He has been made an adventurer also, courageous and flashing. Maxwell Anderson sees him through the colored spectacles of romance. It is Robert Gore-Brown's contribution which makes him all these things and perhaps more.

Mr. Gore-Brown has written plays, and the theater is notoriously a poor training ground for the historian. This book actually is a job of white-washing, and the theater is a good school for that art.

He makes two chief contributions to Bothwell's memory. These things he does through "interpretation." First, and most ingenious is the way in which he has told the story of Bothwell's intimacy with Anna Thorndsen, the Danish girl, and in which he intimates that perhaps some of the Casket Letters were Anna's distorted a bit by whomever manipulated the Casket Letters to make it appear that Mary wrote the lot.

The other contribution is curiously movie-like. Mr. Gore-Brown makes it appear that the murder of Darnley was part of a Catholic plot to kill Mary because she was thought unduly lenient. Bothwell got Mary out of danger, left Darnley to die, and when the latter dashed out of the house a group of Douglas men waiting for him in the garden did him in. According to Mr. Gore-Brown.

All this may be true, but probably isn't. The same is to be said of the reason given for Bothwell's marriage to Mary—that he did it to save himself. Mr. Gore-Brown, being so deeply affected by his own writing, might be expected to do well with the later period of Bothwell's life as a jail-bound exile. He does.

Gold And Oil Set New High In '36 Output

Wealth Taken From Earth Estimated To Total 4 1-2 Billions

WASHINGTON, July 29 (UP)—Americans last year extracted more than $4,500,000,000 in oil and minerals from the earth, according to a preliminary figure compiled by the U. S. bureau of mines.

Oil and gold production, established new all-time records. Coal production was at the highest level since 1920. Iron and steel output increased for the fourth successive year. Copper production increased 58 per cent over 1935.

The bureau estimated the total production of minerals in 1936 amounted to $4,582,000,000 as compared with $3,650,000,000 in 1935 and $2,463,000,000 in 1932, the low point of the financial depression. Production this year has been at an increasingly high level.

Employment in the mineral industries, which gives work to more than 1,000,000 persons directly and to several millions indirectly, has been steadily rising, the bureau said. It added that the mining industry has contributed largely to the general recovery movement.

Oil Industry Recovers

"The complete recovery of the domestic petroleum industry is evidenced by the fact that the volume of both production and consumption, in 1936, exceeded all previous records," the bureau said. "The trend of demand has been steadily upward since 1932 and available data for the early months of 1937 indicate that many new records will be established this year."

Total domestic demand for all oils fell from 940,000,000 barrels in 1929 to 835,000,000 barrels in 1932 and then rose to 1,093,000,000 barrels in 1936, the bureau said. Exports increased from 103,000,000 barrels in 1932 to 130,000,000 barrels in 1936. The 1,099,000,000 barrels of crude petroleum produced last year was valued at $1,150,000,000.

Stimulated by the increased price of gold, production last year was two-thirds larger than in 1929, the bureau said. In terms of dollars American gold mines had the largest production on record "by a considerable margin," it was said.

Silver production, also influenced by the increased price, rose from

New Type Radio Man For Marconi's Place

RCA's David Sarnoff No. 1 Man In Radio

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK—Nowhere in the world is there a second Marconi, a single individual who could carry on in radio from the point where Italy's noted inventor was forced by death to leave off.

While there probably are thousands bending their efforts toward the improvement of radio, each contributing his important share, none stands out as did Marconi. Collectively, it's a different matter. Laboratories with hundreds of specialists are so set up in this country and abroad that research can go on without pause in the invention that the calm-spoken man across the seas developed into a commercial practicability more than 35 years ago.

Responsibility On Groups In other words, the new things in radio must come now from researchists as a group rather than from a co-worker to whom they could look as leader. For wireless has become a big business since that day in 1901 when Marconi sat on the shores of Newfoundland and listened to the first transatlantic message—the single letter "A."

The change has brought to the fore a new type—a business executive upon whom many look as the spokesman for radio. He is David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America and for 30 years a close friend of Marconi. One of Sarnoff's first jobs in radio was as messenger boy for the company Marconi formed in America for transatlantic communication. Their friendship began soon afterward. Marconi was the boy's inspiration.

Sarnoff climbed until he became head of this country's, if not the world's, greatest radio organization. Its broadcasting system ranges from coast to coast. Its communication circuits span the globe. It manufactures all types of radio equipment, operates extensive research laboratories which dip into almost everything concerned with the present and possible future of radio.

Television Stand-Outs In a field of development to come—television—two personalities stand out above others for their research accomplishments. They are Dr. Vladimir Zworykin of RCA and Philo T. Farnsworth of his own laboratory.

The work of these men in seeking to make radio sight practicable has attracted nearly as much attention of late as did Marconi's efforts. Their problems have been

Although coal prices declined slightly, production last year totaled 434,070,000 tons, an increase of 61,697,000 tons, or 16.6 per cent over last year. Production in 1932 was 310,000,000 tons.

Non-metallic minerals including clay, lime, stone gypsum, cement and gravel made "remarkable advances" last year over 1935, the bureau said. Clay production was the largest on record and lime sales were 27 per cent greater than 1935.

The value of stone for buildings was 43 per cent higher than in 1935 and crush stone sales increased 45 per cent, and cement 50 per cent. Sand and gravel sales increased 39 per cent.

FRENCH WOMAN IS GIVEN SUSPENDED TERM IN SHOOTING

PARIS, July 29 (AP)—Three justices in criminal court today gave Mme. Madeline La Ferriere a one-year suspended sentence after a speedy trial on charges of shooting Count Charles De Chambrun, who she accused of breaking up her friendship with Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy.

The judges, who had barred part of the trial to the public and press, also fined the woman 100 francs ($27.50), then ordered her freed under the suspended sentence.

The young woman was charged with assault and illegal possession of three revolvers after she shot De Chambrun, the former French ambassador to Italy, as he boarded a train in the Paris Nord station last March 17. He recovered.

De Chambrun told investigators he knew the woman only as a newspaper correspondent and arranged an interview with it Duce at her request. Later, when she professed infatuation for Mussolini, De Chambrun said he informed the Italian premier of her remarks.

RECORD JUMP

MOSCOW, July 29 (AP)—A new world record for parachute jumps was claimed today by K. F. Kaitanoff for a leap from an altitude of 9,800 meters (about 32,150 feet).

Just as difficult as were those of Marconi. But none has developed for himself a place that could be considered a counterpart to the "father of wireless."

Slayer Of Five Is Sentenced To Die

PITTSBURGH, July 29 (AP)—Martin J. Sullivan was sentenced today to die in the electric chair for slaying five neighbors in Duquesne, Pa., where he had been a policeman more than 20 years.

The date of the execution will be fixed by Governor George H. Earle.

A jury had convicted the 70-year-old Sullivan of fatally shooting Mrs. Laura Bacon, social worker, last December.

Sullivan later pleaded guilty to slaying four others on the same night.

The state contended Sullivan committed "mass murder" against the neighbors because he blamed them for his arrest on a morality charge involving a little girl.

'DESIRE FOR PEACE'

MOSCOW, July 29 (AP)—A visit by a United States naval squadron to Vladivostok, in far eastern Russia, occasioned editorials today in the soviet press which emphasized a mutual "desire for peace" in the Pacific.

The cruiser Augusta and two destroyers, commanded by Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, had dropped anchor in Vladivostok harbor.

Izvestia, the government organ referring to the Sino-Japanese conflict, said "the friendly visit of the American warships comes at the moment of a great sharpening of the military and strategical situation in the Pacific in connection with the new outbreak on its Asiatic coast."

CLEARED OF CHARGE

GREENFIELD, Mass., July 29 (AP)—Thomas E. Elder, 55, former dean of Mount Hermon school, today was cleared of the state's charge that he threatened to kill Stephen Allen Norton, his former colleague.

A jury, in four hours deliberation, acquitted Elder on both counts, assault with intent to kill, and assault upon Norton with a gun, putting him in fear of bodily harm.

Norton, the state's principal witness, identified Elder, his former associate at Mount Hermon, as the man who accosted him in front of his home on a moonlit spring night three months ago and threatened him with a shotgun.

SAVED FROM LION

SKEGNESS, Eng., July 29 (AP)—Harold Davidson, defrocked vicar of Stiffkey, probably owed his life today to Rene Somer, a 16-year-old sideshow attendant, who saved him from an enraged lion.

As it was the 65-year-old vicar rector was dangerously injured. Davidson was delivering a speech yesterday from the lion's den at a sideshow attraction when the lion started mauling him.

The girl seized a whip and an iron rod and drove the animal back while she dragged Davidson from the cage. Then she fainted. (Davidson was defrocked in 1931 after a sensational trial before an Episcopal court on charges of immorality. He has earned his living since in sideshows.)

"Outfitters For The Entire Family"

THE SPORTS PARADE

By HANK HART

There's still some question as to whether the Sandbelt golf teams of Big Spring and Odessa are tied for the season and local team members are searching frantically through the records. It seems that all the arguments arose over a match with Lamesa on June 29 in which the local outfit beat the Dawsonites either by six or eight points. The subject in discussion was whether Lee Hubby won his match or not. Lee should know because those victories are few and far between.

The Continental Oilers, who meet the Cosdenites here Sunday, have grown plenty tough. They started out the season by beating the Rebels (which isn't a hard thing to do these days) and then began taking on teams like Coahoma and Texon. They've beaten the Bulls in two of six games this year and have come mighty close on other occasions.

The St. Louis Cardinals and the Cleveland Indians are in the same boat. The Red Birds have their Dizzy Dean and Lon Warneke while the Tribe can go no farther than Mel Harder and Bob Feller. Each have a fair first baseman when one compares the hitting power but look on the defensive side and find two blacksmiths holding down that corner.

There isn't so much difference between Lyn Lary and Leo Duran, both are hot-headed and both can field better than they can hit. The rest of the infield is uncertain.

Outfielders stand out on both clubs. Medwick dominates the Missourians while Earl Averill is a slourner in the Cleveland gardens. True, there's Pepper Martin around to help Medwick and Jules Solters, Bruce Campbell and Roy Weatherly aid Averill but these two stand out.

In certain departments the teams are the strongest in their respective leagues but there's too many weak spots to make them real contenders and, as a result, both of the managers, O'Neill and Frisch, are going to have to accomplish something to hold their jobs.

Cleaning the cuff: Bill Terry at least won't lose the bet he made early in the season with Chuck Dressen. The New York Giants have already won 11 games of the Cincinnati Reds this season. . . . Stengel? . . . See where the Big Ten still doesn't recognize the Southwest conference. . . . Three softball managers are requesting a meeting to arrange a playoff for the Munny crown. . . . The 36-year-old Dutch Mantel, the original copy, is coming to town next week to work Herman Fuhrer's wrestling. . . . Holman won't need any help if crowds continue to turn out as they did Tuesday night. . . . How can all the towns around Sunday, including Amber and Antlefield, have such good ball parks?

Ranger To Race Foes Again After Victory

VINEYARD HAVEN, July 28 (AP)—After winning the thirteenth victory of her triumphal career, undefeated Ranger, the sloop with which Harold S. Vanderbilt will race T. O. M. Sopwith's second British challenger for the America's cup Saturday, again today faced the three sloops she vanquished yesterday.

They are Gerard B. Lambert's Yankee, Chandler Hovey's Rainbow and Endeavour I. Sopwith's challenger which lost to Rainbow, then skippered by Vanderbilt.

The sloops finished a 37-mile course from Mattapoisett to Vineyard Haven in that order yesterday.

ST. LOUIS ONCE GREAT OUTFIT NOW JUST A TEAM

By SID FEDER (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Except for Ducky Wucky Medwick, who hasn't changed a bit from the villain role, the rougouga and nasty boys from the o-b-r side of the railroad tracks appear to have become a bunch of empty bags.

In fact, without Dizzy (Sore Toe) Dean, there isn't enough pitching and pep to get a rise even out of themselves.

In their last complete circle of the league, facing every one of the other seven clubs, they have lost 13 games while winning eight, for a .381 percentage, putting them three games out of fifth place.

Melton Hot Cliff Melton of the Giants yesterday let them pile up three runs in the opening frame, and then proceeded to stop them cold with six hits through the last eight innings.

The Yankees found their bats shackled by the right-hand offering of Elden Auker and went down to their most humiliating defeat of the year. Auker allowed them just two measly singles, and the Tigers came through with an 8-1 victory.

Since the White Sox were given a thorough going over by the Senators and lost 11-8, the victory for Detroit put the Tigers in second place, although still leaving the Yanks with a six-game lead.

The Athletics put on some astonishing batting fireworks to club the Cleveland Indians, 11-7. The Boston Red Sox came from behind twice to top the Browns, 5-4.

Peaches Davis turned in a nine-hitter and the Reds whipped the Pirates, 6-1. Pep Young's bat led the Pirates to a 6-4 win over the Phillies.

Denver Tourney Raises Curtain

DENVER, July 29 (AP)—Such well-known sports figures as Rogers Hornsby, Grover Cleveland Alexander and "Slinging Sammy" Baugh were cast in prominent roles at the 22nd annual Denver Post baseball tournament opened this afternoon.

Sixteen teams from six states were here to try for cash prizes to be handed out at the close of the tourney Aug. 9. Last year these totaled approximately $13,350.

Hornsby, who says he likes "guys who play with blood in their eyes—that's the way I play," will patrol first base for the Denver Bay Ringers team. The "Rajah" came here soon after losing his managerial post with the St. Louis Browns.

Alexander is manager of the Springfield, Ill., team which was scheduled to meet the Denver Mountain Standard Time, today in the opening tussle. Baugh, who forward passed himself to fame at Texas Christian university, is third baseman for the Pampa, Tex., Oilers.

Following the Springfield-Denver game, the Huber Carbon team of Berger, Tex., was booked to meet the Leyden, Colo., Miners at 8 p. m.

Teams will be eliminated after two defeats.

'BUT THE OTHER TIME'

Manager Mickey Coolbrane of the Detroit Tigers is shown here as he returned to New York where his team has gone for a series with the New York Yankees. Mickey, several weeks ago, was injured when hit on the head by Bump Hadley and was rushed to a hospital where he remained nearly a month.

Two Foreign Net Stars Advance Into Semifinals In Seabright Meet

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., July 29 (AP)—Jiro Yamagishi, Japanese national singles tennis champion and Jadwiga Jedzejowska, winner of the Polish women's championship for the past eight years, threatened today to upset tradition in the historic Sea Bright invitation tennis tournament.

Never has a foreign net star won the right to have his name engraved on the Sea Bright bowls.

Yamagishi gained the semi-final yesterday by defeating Gardnat Mulloy of Miami, 6-2, 7-5. Miss Jedzejowska defeated Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles with the loss of only three games.

Yamagishi was slated to meet top seeded Bob Riggs of Los Angeles in the semi-finals today.

Frank X. Shields, the Hollywood star meets Wilmet L. Allison, the former national champion, today Shields defeated J. Gilbert Hall 6-1, 8-4.

Miss Jedzejowska was a favorite to eliminate Dorothy Bundy Santa Monica, Calif. In the women's singles, while Miss Alice Marzelle, defending champion, was conceded a victory at the expense of Mrs. John Van Ryn.

Finalists in the women's doubles were determined yesterday when Miss Jedzejowska and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of New York defeated Miss Bundy and Miss Patricia Henry of Los Angeles, and Miss Babcock and Mrs. Van Ryn turned back Miss Marzelle and Kay Winthrop of Boston in three sets.

Cameron Eliminates Moody In Waco Meet

WACO, July 29 (AP)—The Cameron Iron Works team of Houston defeated Moody 5 to 2 in an after-noon game in the state semi-pro baseball tournament today.

The loss eliminated Moody and left five teams of the original 16 in the running for the championship.

In the only game tonight the Waco Dona play Grand Prize of Houston. Other remaining teams are El Campo, Willis Point and Cameron Iron Works. Waco and Grand Prize have not been defeated.

Willis Point eliminated Mt. Pleasant's Cubs yesterday, 4 to 1, and El Campo defeated Austin seven-up 6 to 1.

NO-HIT HURLERS Have Uneasiness

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Take it from four American leaguers who have hurled no hit games, the pressure really gets heavy in those last few innings of a perfect pitching job.

Three of them—Vernon Kennedy and Bill Dietrich of Chicago, who pitched this season's only no hitter against St. Louis June 1, and Wes Ferrell of Washington—thought almost to the end an early inning scratch hit had spoiled things. Ted Lyons of Chicago, the fourth, saw a home handed stab of the last ball save his game.

"You have more control and more 'stuff' than usual such days," said Lyons, who earned a "perfect" game against Boston in 1926.

"Then nervousness gets you in the late innings and you begin to give more thought to every pitch. Your heart jumps into your mouth each time a ball is hit."

The last batter against Lyons banged one far off first base but Earl Sheeley made a brilliant back handed catch.

Early innings bingles, which could be catalogued as hits or errors, were made against Ferrell, Kennedy and Dietrich.

Kennedy won from Cleveland, Aug. 31, 1935.

A running catch by Al Simmons saved Kennedy while Hank Bonura made a couple of timely stops to help Dietrich.

Ferrell's big day was against St. Louis on April 29, 1931, while he was with Cleveland.

ST. PAUL IS NEXT PORT OF GOLFERS

Golf Loops Proposed By Harold Akey

Local golf enthusiasts will get their first taste of competition soon if plans underway by Pro Harold Akey of the Munny course materialize.

Akey has proposed two golf leagues for local play, using four teams in each loop, with the schedule due to run for at least two months. Four men make up each team.

Any player or team interested in such a move is asked to contact the pro at the course.

Teams already entered in the loops are the West Texas Motor outfit, the Lone Star Chevrolet crew, and two teams representing Cosden.

Similar leagues played through a schedule two years ago but Akey was optimistic that the present plans would encounter greater success. Five teams made up each circuit in 1935.

Work is progressing steadily on the back nine. The layout will soon be seeded and all fairways are rounding into shape.

Local Player Leads Hitters In Meeting

LUBBOCK, July 29—Jack Doran, Big Spring Cosden Oilers catcher, captured a prize of $10 offered to the leading hitter of the Lubbock Invitational baseball tournament.

Doran, beating out C. W. Walker of the Lubbock Hubbers for the title, collected six hits in eleven official trips to the plate for a batting average of .545 for the series.

Doran is now participating in the Soden tournament with the Tip-Top team of Lubbock.

Carmon Brandon, Pat Stacey and Skeets West will probably patrol the outfield with Jack Doran behind the plate.

Pitching selection will fall either to Bill Cook, only successful pitcher in the Lubbock meeting, or to Charlie Morgan, big right hander.

The Conoco team has been strengthened considerably since the first of the season.

Regular moundman for the Foran crew is Windmill Brown, a old timer in the local side. Brown pitched for Coahoma several years ago and has been enjoying one of his best seasons.

His regular battery mate is Earl Scott, peppery field captain of the Foran team.

Other respected members of the Conoco outfit are Cleo Wilson and Jack Barnett, outfielders; George Gentry, first sacker; and Harvey Smith, infielder.

The two teams will meet again August 8 in Foran.

DALLAS, July 29 (AP)—Two dangerous outsiders, Jack Smith of Fort Worth, and Ed Lindsay of Oklahoma City, collided in the Dallas open tennis tournament today as they narrowed to the semi-finals.

Smith, holder of every Fort Worth net title, including mixed doubles, brushed aside the veteran Tiste Adoue of Dallas, 6-0, 6-2, and earned a place beside Lindsay in today's match.

Lindsay, who had raced to the semi-finals with ease, was idle yesterday.

Banking News

—tells a story of strength and growth in public service.

In our previous advertisement we pointed out that 63,000,000 depositors have entrusted some 45 billion dollars in their banks. The latest official nationwide figures show how the banks are employing these deposits through sound conservative loans and investments:—

- Bank loans on farm lands and city real estate, nine billion dollars; loans to individuals and business concerns, twelve billion dollars; investments in direct Federal government loans, eleven billion dollars; in obligations of various government recovery corporations, one billion dollars; investments in state and municipal bonds, over three billion dollars; in American corporate securities, six billion dollars.

This bank feels that American banking as a whole is fully measuring up to its duties in the public services it is rendering.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—A James J. Braddock-Max Baer match is in the making here. Mike Jacobs and Joe Gould spent more than two hours with Arnie Hoffman, Baer's plot. . . . Terms were agreed to and the date set for sometime in September. . . . Everything was settled except the site. . . . It will be Los Angeles, Chicago or San Francisco. . . . If the Cubs have a weakness, why don't they begin to show it. . . . Don Budge says he will not turn pro. . . . Everyone else says he will. . . . Dick Bartel's groin injury is so painful, the scrappy Giant shortstopper has to sleep in a chair.

Out in St. Louis they say they are having the coolest summer in 50 years because the Cards aren't hot any more. . . . A lot of smart baseball men will bet you Rogers Hornsby will be managing the Indians next year. . . . It cost the White Sox $2,000 to insure last Sunday's double bill with the Yankees against rain. . . . All the publicity he's getting over here seems to have gone to Tommy Farr's head. . . . He thinks he's so hot he wants to ditch his manager after March 1 and collect 100 per cent of his purses for himself. . . . There are some nice looking kids on the South American boxing team en route to the Pan-American games at Dallas.

Promoters of the Farr-Louis heavyweight bout would be glad if Max Schmeling changes his mind about coming over to see it. . . . They fear he would steal the show. . . . Why not? He's the guy who knocked out Louis and whom Farr ran out on, ain't he. . . . Farm Laws Are Sought

Panhandle Group Asks Congress To Enact Legislation

AMARILLO, July 29 (AP)—Congress was urged today by a representative group of Texas Panhandle farmers to forego any thought of adjustment until legislation similar to that proposed by the American Federal Farm Bureau is passed. The group, members of the Texas Agricultural Association from 45 Panhandle-Plains counties, at a meeting here yesterday went on record as favoring the "ever-normal granary" bill proposed by the farm bureau. An adopted resolution read: "We favor a program to provide an ever-normal granary as a matter of public interest. We insist it not be done at the expense of the producers. Parity prices in years of normal supply must be provided for if agriculture is to absorb its share of the rising costs of industry and labor. We further favor positive controlled production." Donald Kirkpatrick of Washington, general counsel of the federation, explained the farm bureau bill to the meeting, attended by 1,500 members of the Texas association. He said that while marketing quotas of the measure make possible penalization of those who do not cooperate, it is not regimentation of surpluses.

King's Visit To Ireland, Marred By Terrorism, Brings Protests

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Protest against the official arrangements that took King George and Queen Elizabeth to northern Ireland for a coronation celebration that was marred by widespread political terrorism was voiced here today. The Daily Mirror, referring to the peril involved in the visit yesterday, said: "May we ask why it was thought necessary for the king and queen to go to Belfast?" Belfast police conducted an exhaustive inquiry of a powerful land mine which exploded near the route of the royal procession, but had made no arrests in this connection. The Ulster authorities declared the explosion, at a warehouse, was planned deliberately and executed but there was no official intimation it was an attempt on the life of the king. Rather, it was believed the terrorists had tried to damage the city's main power and light plant, which was nearby. The mid-day explosion, within a half mile from where George and Elizabeth were riding to city hall was but part of an array of sabotage and terrorism that was credited to Irish republicans who are opposed to the monarchy. Northern Ireland's civic guards secured the desolate hills of the Ulster and Irish Free State from the king and queen.

Says Allred May Run For Third Term

Prepared If Necessary, Governor's Secretary Asserts

AUSTIN, July 29 (AP)—Edward Clark, secretary of state and adviser of Governor James V. Allred, reiterated today he believed a strong possibility existed that Allred would try to shatter precedent and obtain election to a third term. Clark intimated, however, that the governor probably would decide against such a course if the legislature at its fall session enacted the major points of his program. He listed these points as provision for balancing the budget, financing a broad social security program and state regulation of public utilities. "The governor is prepared to run if it is necessary," Clark said. "However, accomplishments of the fall session or sessions may change the whole picture." The secretary of state said that in his recent travels over Texas he had found little opposition to a governor serving three two-year terms. "The national precedent," he said, "is that presidents serve only two four-year terms. Many congressmen, state and local officers

Harris Judge Will Campaign For Amendment Affecting His County

HOUSTON, July 29—A 29-day whirlwind tour of the state will be started July 30 by County Judge Roy Hofheinz of Harris county to urge passage of state constitutional amendment No. 5 on the ballot at the special election set for August 23. Hofheinz, including Big Spring on itinerary which includes 55 towns, will be here on August 6 for an 8 p. m. engagement. The amendment is unique in that it affects Harris county alone, although the other 253 counties of the state must vote on it. The amendment would permit Harris county to make the experiment of building permanent roads on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

The campaign for adoption of the amendment is being led by Judge Hofheinz, the youngest county judge in America. In his tour of the state, Judge Hofheinz will speak in approximately 60 cities in behalf of the amendment. The amendment would mean a saving of millions of dollars to the taxpayers of Harris county which now are being spent on interest for bonds for roads. It would permit the people of Harris county to vote a direct tax for roads instead of bonds.

"The new plan, if adopted by the people of Texas, will not be mandatory on Harris county. The county can still use the bond method of road construction, but the many advantages of the "pay-as-you-go" from Arkansas accompanied her.

Canning work is getting underway in this community and most farms will be busy putting up corn in another week or so. Mrs. Gabra Hammock filled 87 cans in one day this week.

Rev. W. C. Williamson was a Sunday dinner guest in the L. H. Thomas home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wooten and Ermance and Mr. and Mrs. Bass of Big Spring were guests in the J. G. Couch home Sunday.

Mrs. Haskell Grant has been ill this week.

plan will certainly cause the Harris county commissioners' court to immediately adopt the plan. "Harris county in the past 11 years has issued $12,386,000 in bonds for the construction of roads and bridges. This has meant a little more than $1,000,000 expended each year for the purpose. It is calculated that the county will have expended in interest $6,965,120 by the time the bonds are retired. It appears that 36 per cent of the total expenditure will have been for interest and not for road construction."

RAIL OFFICIAL DIES

NEW ORLEANS, July 29 (AP)—The body of Russell C. Watkins, 62, long-time executive of the Southern Pacific lines, who died at his home here last night after a two-months' illness, will be sent to Dallas, Texas, today for interment. Watkins, vice president and general manager of the Southern Pacific's Louisiana lines at the time of his death, spent his entire railroad career in the service of that company, which he joined in 1895 after graduating from Texas A. and M. college.

A native of Burnt Corn, Ala., Mr. Watkins succeeded J. H. R. Parsons as general manager of the company's lines in Louisiana, being transferred here from Houston, Texas, where he had served as general superintendent of the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio divisions of the S. P.

Surviving are his wife, the former Ethel Henderson; a daughter, Mrs. Bert P. Mens of Houston, and two sisters, Mrs. John C. Burns of Fort Worth, Texas, and Mrs. Virginia Hutson of Mobile, Ala.

Left Over Dish Preparation Requires Imagination, Skill

By MARTH A LOGAN
There comes a time even in the hottest August when the weather man has a change of heart and slips in a cool rainy day. Then is the time to order a big roast and have a change from the ready-to-serve and short order meals we have been serving. Whether it is an oven-baked rib roast or a rump, round, or shoulder pot roast, be sure to buy generously so there will be left-overs to form the starting point for two or three other dinners.

If on the next day the sun shines out in all its glory, the cold sliced roast with a mixed vegetable salad will be welcomed. Or perhaps you prefer to heat slices of the roast in gravy and serve on toast with a broiled tomato garnish. There are many ways of using up the less easily sliced pieces of roast. Perhaps the casserole is the most ideally suited to left-over meat cookery. Many primitive people have used a form of casserole for cooking, but in recent years the casserole has become fashionable. Behold the lovely colored glazed pots for individual service of meat pies bubbling up below tempting brown biscuit dough crusts. There are the interesting brown Mexican cookers with the long handles. In such a casserole, we can imagine the sliced left-over roast reposing in a pool of spicy tomato and green pepper sauce with a layer of browned rice as a bed and topping.

Macaroni, spaghetti, rice, potatoes, and toast—all are good "stretchers" to make the last bits of roast into a main dish for another meal. The ground pieces of roast, browned with a little chopped onion and green pepper can be combined with a brown or tomato sauce. This makes a delicious topping for mounds of rice or hot golden brown toast. Or—if you prefer—get out the casserole again, butter it and combine the meat sauce with cooked spaghetti, macaroni and rice. Pour into the casserole and a half hour before meal time, pop it into a hot oven to heat and brown.

Meat croquettes are easily made from ground meat, bread crumbs, and egg. Canned mushroom or tomato soup may be used as a binder. If you have a kettle of deep fat, croquettes are quickly browned in the hot fat. Or they may be made patty shape and baked in the oven or pan fried.

Meat salads? Of course. Cubes of left-over roast may be combined with cold cooked peas, or string beans, diced celery, cucumbers and the inevitable bit of onion. To bring out the best in a meat salad, marinate the mixed ingredients for an hour or so in French dressing. And be sure it's cold! At serving time, make a nest of lettuce on a plating ter. Fill with meat salad. To with mayonnaise or cooked dressing. Garnish with pickled beets and serve with a bowl of potato chips and a plate of hard rolls. That's a hot weather dinner that satisfies.

To produce a good roast requires careful observance of rules, but to create a flavorful left-over dish requires culinary imagination and skill.

It's All Right For Ladies To Share Restaurant Bills

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

The entrance of women into the business world has brought some changes in the social niceties. Common sense politeness frequent in a subject for heated discussion. Some things gentlemen once did to show consideration for women are now regarded by those same gentlemen as out of date.

The hat-off-in-the-elevator problem, the Dutch treat dilemma, the shall-sit-or-stand quandary—each is good for a debate.

Giving Up Seats

One of the questions that puzzles men in business concerns is whether or not they should give their seats to women in public conveyances.

At the end of a long hard day most men feel justified in remaining seated when women enter buses, trolleys or subways. Unless a woman is very old or ill she should not expect a man to give up his seat to her. If the man recognizes a woman who is standing near him as an acquaintance, however, it would be extremely impolite for him not to offer his seat to her.

Jobs Increase In Age Group From 40 To 65

California Employment Office Finds Skilled Men In Demand

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29 (UP)—Life is really beginning again at 40, and even 50, 55 and 60, according to the California state employment service.

Statistics just completed by the agency show that where with the depression the man at 40 or 45 could apparently never hope again to find work, there is now an ever increasing demand for men even beyond these ages, provided they are skilled workmen or their muscles will stand up under the strain of ordinary manual labor.

Where, a few years ago, following the beginning of the depression, managements favored younger men for what few jobs they had open, the tide has now changed. The secret, the agency found, lies in the fact, not only that business is picking up, but that a young university graduate or the man with limited skill in scores of different lines of work still cannot duplicate the output of the man who has a lifetime of experience and skill behind him. Between the two, business is again favoring the latter.

The agency discovered an ever increasing demand for skilled carpenters, iron workers, auto mechanics, sheet metal workers, lathe hands, construction workers and others where skill is paramount regardless of age, and where the middle aged skilled worker is accorded preference over the younger and less experienced man.

Planning mill workers are making as much as $8 a day, the agency said; sheet metal workers $8.50 and cabinet workers $5 to $8. All of these and many other occupations require a degree of skill that the young university or technical graduate cannot yet supply, and employers prefer the older and more skilled men.

Labor is making as much as the average white collar worker at present, the agency found but employers demand results for the money they pay and these results can be obtained best from men with years of experience.

Age Average Up Sharply

Statistics of the state agency show that at present roughly 20 per cent of the men being put to work through its efforts are between 45 and 65 years old. Last year at this time the number in the same category was only about 20 per cent.

From a national standpoint, statistics just received by the employment service indicate that the situation is even better. Where 10 men between 45 and 60 were placed at work a year ago, 20 now find jobs. Between the 50 and 65 year span, 15 men are now placed where only 10 were employed last year.

The agency found that older women also are finding more jobs than at any time since the depression, provided they are skilled. Until apprentice training schools throughout the United States begin to turn out their quota of skilled workers, the agency is convinced that skilled men, regardless of age, instead of unskilled youth will have the preference.

Hats-Off Problems

A good hats-off policy to follow is to make a distinction between business and residential buildings. Hats should come off in hotel, apartment or club elevators. They may nearly always remain on in elevators in business buildings—where the passengers often are so crowded that holding hats is impossible anyway.

Whenever a gentleman engages a woman in conversation—unless they are both in a crowded business elevator—he should remove his hat and hold it in his left hand until the conversation is concluded. If the two are in a crowded elevator in a business building he may merely touch his hat and then speak to her—in a voice that will not attract too much attention.

"Dutch Treats"

Most men agree that if a woman is making approximately the same salary as her masculine colleagues she should bear her share of entertainment expenses—a practice commonly referred to as "Dutch treating."

But they carefully shun the woman who makes a point of grabbing the bill and presenting her share of it in person to the cashier.

SAVINGS OF LOCAL ASSN. ARE INSURED

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation announced today savings of 43,778 persons in 112 savings, building and loan associations in Texas are now insured up to $5,000 on each account.

Assets of these associations total $49,944,924. Eighty-nine of them operate under charter and supervision of the national government, the corporation said, and are required to provide the insurance. The balance are state-chartered and have met requirements of the corporation.

The corporation said other Texas savings and loan associations have submitted applications for this protection.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

HAVE A HEART

Before one can discuss the merits of the Fair Labor Standards bill, it is necessary to ask ourselves whether we are in a fit condition to discuss its merits. No one would ask a runner who had just finished the marathon to run another marathon before he had even had a chance to sit down and catch his breath, yet Lippmann, who is tired from a session that has gone on since January, which has had its mind fixed intently on constitutional and political questions for six months, is being asked to consider, debate and enact the most complicated economic proposition since the origin of R. R. A.

What the Administration needs most of all at this moment is not prophets, crusaders, and statesmen; it needs the homely advice of an intelligent family physician. I suppose that Mr. Roosevelt is reasonably comfortable in the air-cooled offices of the White House and on his yacht over the week ends. But the average Senator and Representative lives under physical conditions which preclude fresh and clear thinking at this time of year. He can go through the motions of legislating. He can manage a routine. But it is just impossible that he should be able to bring to the study of this bill his full powers of analysis and judgment. That is why Mr. Roosevelt needs the advice of a family physician. He needs to be reminded of the obvious rules of physical and mental hygiene that tired men, who do not get enough sleep, who are fed up with public affairs, are incapable of dealing with such a complicated matter at the tag end of a Washington summer.

For let there be no mistake about it, this bill is a very complicated measure. It sets up a board of five men who are to make decisions affecting wages, hours, children, youths, apprentices, the physically and mentally handicapped in any industry or trade or service that the board thinks is in interstate commerce. According to Senator Black's report "this bill does not contain any delegation of legislative power." The committee has sought to decide every question that calls for a decision by Congress on legislative policies. If this were true, and manifestly it is not true, this bill would decide all the complex questions arising out of the competition among various regions of the country, and among the nations of the world. If the bill did really attempt to decide these questions, surely it ought at least to be thoroughly considered by Congress and by the country at a time when men can give their attention to it. If what Senator Black says of his own bill were true, it would be little short of an outrage to think of passing it in a hurry at this session. If, on the other hand, the bill is, as I believe, nothing but another vast delegation of power to another President's board, it certainly ought not to be passed until public opinion has had a chance to understand it. To pass it now would be in effect to give Mr. Roosevelt new, vast, and undefined powers without letting the country realize what had been done.

The attempt to aggrandize the personal power of the President by sickness and indirection has been defeated with the destruction of the Maverick Judiciary bill. The attempt to aggrandize his power over industry by taking advantage of the weariness of Congress and the inattention of the country should certainly be defeated at this time. For if this is a good measure, it can wait until January. Even if it is urgent, it can wait until October. It can wait till Congress has had a rest, until the leaders of opinion in this country have come back from their vacations. It can wait until men are prepared to study it and are in a mood to debate it.

First Sponsor Is Named To Cowboy Event At Midland

MIDLAND, July 29.—The first cowgirl sponsor to the annual Midland cowboy contest to be held here on Sept. 4, 5 and 6 was definitely named this week and numerous replies to invitations sent out by the Midland chamber of commerce have been received, indicating that from two to three dozen cowgirl sponsors will be here to compete as many towns and cities. Every town and city of West Texas and New Mexico have been asked to send a sponsor to participate in the contest. The first sponsor to be definitely named was Mrs. Earl B. Powell of the Bar X ranch who will represent Stanton and Martin county. Fort Worth, San Angelo, Seagraves, Wichita Falls and Andrews are among other towns who have already indicated that they will send cowgirl sponsors. The cowgirl sponsors will compete for a beautiful $100 prize saddle and several other handsome awards. The girl riders will be featured in parades and in appearances in the arena in afternoon and night performances during the three-day show. No hazardous feats will be re-

How To Torture Your Wife

Hollywood

Sights and Sounds
By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — After going along happily in the belief that a handkerchief was for nobles, I had to run into John Macsoud. Accustomed to the incredible in this town of movie magic, I found it difficult to believe that the films actually use technical aid on handkerchiefs. They said Macsoud was the man, and it's true. When Jackie Cooper played the ragamuffin in "Big Boy," Macsoud was called in to decide, among other things, what type hanky a boy like that would cry into. For Jackie's tears Macsoud ordered a barleap square, tattered and filthy, and pocketed his check. More complicated was "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," not only hankies but table linens passing under his scrutiny. He contributed to Vogue of 1938, and when Romita Diaz makes the Spanish picture, "La Vida Bohemia," Macsoud will supervise hankies, napery, and other linens used. My visit to his shop — pictures being merely gravy to him — made me realize how far the handkerchief parade has passed me by. But he was kindly about it, assuring me that only in the past few years has the handkerchief made notable progress. He is a big fellow, with astounding lore on the history of linens. He has been "in linens" all his life, following in family footsteps first taken in Syria. He and his wife have set out to "dramatize the handkerchief" in Hollywood, where everything, from poeas to pickles, must be "dramatized" or else.

He says there are between 300 and 400 different types of hanky besides the utilitarian variety — types for all occasions. And handkerchief-consciousness is spreading, in case you too didn't know. Just for information's sake, I asked him how many different types of hanky a really well-dressed man should have, and he thought perhaps a couple of hundred types would do. So we talked about movie stars, and Hollywood's handkerchief habits. Among the Collectors Handkerchief collector has a greater hold on the film famous than you'd suspect. Jeanette MacDonald and Joan Blondell dote on their collections, and among the men Leslie Howard, Conrad Nagel and George Raft are inveterate hoarders. Macsoud casually displayed a few little dainties which could be had for a hundred bucks apiece, and when I said "You're kidding," he said no, he was getting some others—$750 each—but mainly for display, he admitted. No movie star has yet invested in a $100 hanky. He's sold five in nine months, none to movie people. The stars, he observed, are more budget-minded than they used to be. Many will pay $10 to $12 apiece without batting an eye, although Hollywood does not disdain the kind I buy, either.

'Sweet Adeline' Unsung Five Years Because First Title Was 'Rosalie'

FORT WORTH, July 29 (UP)—The composer of "Sweet Adeline" might never admit it, but that popular song was written for five years before anybody had the courage to print a revised version. "It took me five years to convince a publisher that 'Sweet Adeline' had anything," said Harry Armstrong, composer, appearing currently in "Melody Lane" at the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta. Armstrong said that he wrote the tune at his home in Bedford, Mass., 34 years ago—when he was 18—and named it "My Old New England Home." It was introduced by the town quartet of which Armstrong was a member. A year after the song was written, Armstrong went to New York and offered it to a publisher. Nothing came of it, and the composer took a job playing the piano at Coney Island at $2 for a 15-hour day. Armstrong still believed the song had something, so he persuaded Charlie Lawlor, composer of "The Bluebirds of Neg'ro," to re-

FLAME TRAIL

By Marie De Nervand

Chapter 31
JEALOUS MISERY
Turning back, Kay peered out the distance from the water to the spot where Scrap Johnson's body had been found. Then she searched the ground between with minute care.

Her eye suddenly caught a gleam in a small clump of grass. Pulling it aside, she picked up a steel nail head, the type that is used to stud belts and gauntlets. She knew that because so many people had milled over the spot her find was of little value, but Kay slipped it into her pocket, and went on with her search. Standing up and stretching to relieve her muscles of this strained position, Kay suddenly noticed that the sun was sinking in the west. She glanced at her watch and saw that it was after four o'clock, and she hadn't yet followed the stream southeast. She decided impulsively to take a chance on getting out of the mountains before dark. The trail was so well defined that there was small danger of getting lost, and now that she was here, it was foolish not to study every possible phase of the situation.

Starting along the water's edge, she came after a hundred yards or so, to such thick brush that she almost decided to turn back. As she peered ahead, however, she noticed several twigs that had been snapped off short, and pushed on with a fast beating heart. Her excitement quickened as she thought she saw more evidence that someone had penetrated the brush fairly recently. Although it seemed impossible that any wounded man could have made such rough going, she persevered, and finally reached the clearing, and finally reached the old prospector's cabin stood at the end of it, deserted and forlorn, with its sagging boards and dark background of pines.

Giving way to curiosity that this relic of the past raised in her, Kay determined to investigate. The intense silence, broken only by the gentle rustling of the tree tops, led her to stand forward on tiptoe, so as not to disturb the magic hush. She noisily crossed the clearing and stopped for a moment at the boarded up window, before going around to the door. Cupping her hands about her face, she put her eye to a crack.

The Black-haired Beauty
Kay managed to stifle the amazed gasp that escaped her at the extraordinary sight that met her eyes, but she stood rooted to the spot, gazing with hypnotic incredulity at what she saw. Her heart beat in uneven, suffocating jerks, and a blaze of color flooded in her cheeks. She stretched out on the cot, somewhat pale, but evidently all right, considering the animated way in which he was talking. Ted reclined, his head half turned from her toward a dark haired girl who sat beside him, with her hand gently laid on his.

Kay couldn't hear a word of what they were saying, but it was obviously an engrossing talk. Bright points of light flickered before Kay's eyes and a strange buzzing sounded in her ears as she gazed, as though petrified, at the unsuspecting couple before her. Tom Ruden's words, describing Ted's fight at Kelly's, came back to her. "He won't mind boasting about it to the black haired beauty he was fighting for!"

So, it was true, then! All that time that they had been riding back in the sunset, with the pressure of his arms tightening about her, had seemed the expression of the emotion she had thought was sweeping over them both, his thoughts had really been on another girl! And the first minute he could, instead of coming back to Kay as he had promised, he had gone to her rival. A stifled sob broke out in spite of her, and Kay saw the girl inside raise her head in sudden inquiry, and listen.

Kay shrank back from the window, and ran into the grove of pine trees that half circled the cabin. Panting as though she had been running a long distance, she bit her lower lip, and stood with her hand pressed against her heart, as she peered out. The next instant she saw the willowy figure of the dark haired girl appeared on the steps of the cabin. She stood for a moment in a listening attitude, and Kay had an opportunity to take in her oval face, with its rather sad but sweet expression, and the transparent whiteness of her skin against the glossy black hair that dipped in soft waves on her forehead. In a moment she vanished inside.

One More Look
Impelled by a wild surge of emotion that was stronger than anything she had ever felt in her life before, Kay could not resist creeping back to the window for one more look. It couldn't be true! She must have dreamed this nightmare! Hardly recognizing herself in the grip of the jealous misery that possessed her, Kay watched Marion's smile as she held her hand on Ted's forehead. Then, as she returned and moved over to the tiny stove, Kay shrank away and ran quietly back across the clearing. She blindly pushed her way through the thick underbrush that separated her from the spot where she had left Flicker, her mind seething with inarticulate thoughts and tumultuous emotions. She was incapable of consecutive thought, her one intelligible idea being to get away, as fast as she could, and never let anyone know what she had seen. Forcing her way on with reluctant energy, she at last came out on the grassy space that surrounded the head waters. The sluggish water that had seemed so sinister and wonderful in the sunlight, looked dark and sinister in the fading twilight. A few streams of color from the afterglow of the sunset still streaked the sky, but the faint gleam of a planet and one or two stars told of the near approach of night. Still animated by her wild desire to get away, Kay felt, without consciously noticing it, the changed aspect of the place, and a shudder ran over her, as she reached Flicker and prepared to mount. As she swung into the saddle, her eye caught the fatal spot where Scrap Johnson's body had been found. Her overwrought nerves caused an involuntary cry. She gave Flicker a touch of her heel, and they raced through the narrow pass and pointed down the trail at a headlong pace. (Copyright, 1937, Marie de Nervand)

THE RAILROADS IMPROVE

Much has been written and said concerning the great advancement American railroads have made in the way of improving passenger transportation. Air-conditioning of coaches, streamlining of trains, speeding up of schedules, lowering of rates—all have caught the public interest to the extent that almost everyone knows what improved facilities the rails are offering the traveling public in 1937.

What a great many of us do not stop to consider is the comparable improvement of the railroads in freight service. Just this week came a dispatch reporting on a survey by the American Association of Railroads which showed that commodities are moving from producer to consumer at almost twice the speed of a decade ago. Major lines have stepped up the handling of freight until overnight service to points 500 miles away is not uncommon. The time of longer hauls also has been reduced.

In connection with the reference to overnight hauls, there appeared in a Texas paper this week an account of a freight run made by the Texas & Pacific, from Fort Worth to Monahans. The T&P has been endeavoring to get one fast freight into Monahans at 8 a. m. after leaving Fort Worth at 8:30 p. m. the day before. On that particular run, this was accomplished. The distance for the 11 1-2 hour schedule is 363 miles. Which all adds up to pretty fast service on freight.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Down the aisle and into the orchestra pit with Ted Lewis: "Well, well, back on Broadway, after four years. . . And it doesn't mean a squashed fig, really. . . I was dying to get back to town, but I hadn't unpacked before I was ready to leave again. . . That's what 20 years of sleeper-jumping does to you, I suppose. . . You jump from town to town, you meet nice people, then you get away from them and want to go back. "Out there it's different, no flueys and phoney—why, let me tell you right now that out in San Antonio the people are taking the afternoon breeze, children are playing in the shady parks, and the doves are whistling home to the trees. "When I think of Indianapolis I think of the Old Soldiers monument, and of James Whitcomb Riley, my favorite poet. "In Omaha I played golf with E. J. Brandies. . . E. J. owns the town. . . On the seventh green I said, 'E. J., when are you going to give Omaha back to Omaha?' . . . That startled him so much that he sliced a drive into the rough, and I won the match.

"Miami gets me excited because of the hours I battled with those leaping, tackle-smashing swordfish. . . I've never landed one, but I bet you I get one this winter. . . I've got a fishing date right now for February with Mayor Fossey. "When I think of Circleville, Ohio, where I was born, I think of Columbus, a suburb of Circleville. . . You can make a lot of money in those suburbs, which enables you to return to the city, I mean Circleville, and squire your mother around. . . In San Diego I met a couple of sailors and they turned out to be Circleville boys grown up and seeing the world. . . I like Minneapolis because Detective Cooch always gets me a police badge when I go there. . . In Oakland, Calif., I had plenty of fun dancing at the Athletic Club after playing a show at that beautiful theater there where the pictures of the stars are inlaid in the tile.

"I wouldn't dream of going to Texas without hopping down to Galveston and drowsing awhile by the old sea-wall. . . Fort Worth is a great place for livestock auctions. . . I saw them trade away 500 miles one morning. . . One day in Portland, Ore., a drummer came up and shook hands. . . We became friends and have remained so for 18 years. . . You know him too; his name is George Olson. "That's the way it is—here today and gone tonight. . . We'll be on the Astor roof here a month, and then I'm off again. . . Where to? . . . What does it matter? . . . Any of those towns I've mentioned, and a thousand others, will suit me fine. . . I never was much shucks at being a New Yorker anyway."

IN MEMORY OF MY SISTER

While morning dawned into another day
She heard a call from far away
She listened; it was the Master's call
He had come for her, as He will us all
To Him she did gladly go.
For it was He alone that loved her so.
Loved her in her patient suffering
And to she offered all to Him.
If at the still hour I can go
And unto the Master above,
A soul who had endured much
Because in Him she had a fervent trust.
I saw her smile. She must have seen His face.
So sweet, so full of Holy Grace.
I know she walks where there is no sorrow nor pain to know
In that sweet place, His heavenly home.
Grant me her patience as a memory
That I may bear as she did the cross with Thee.

HUGE SURTAX ON PERSONAL HOLDING FIRMS IS TALKED

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Members of a senate-house tax committee talked today of boosting surtaxes on personal holding companies to as high as 70 per cent to restrict their alleged use for tax avoidance purposes.

The present surtaxes vary from eight to 45 per cent, with the income of the corporations.

The committee met today to discuss taxation of non-resident aliens and perhaps the question of foreign corporations and insurance companies.

Some members indicated they were experiencing difficulty in attempting to work out a method of handling multiple trusts.

It appeared likely the committee might recommend that congress deal only partially with the tax loophole problem this session.
