1984-85 QUEEN OF THE EARTH RODEO--Competition was stiff, but when it was all over, Mitzi Dutton, 17, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Dutton, was named Queen of the Earth Roping Club. Other contestants for the annual honor were Sharman Geissler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Geissler. Miss Dutton was crowned prior to the opening night of the annual Earth Rodeo on Thursday night.

Mitzi Dutton Crowned Earths' Rodeo Queen

It was thrills and spills and lots of action at the Earth Rodeo Thursday night. A good crowd was on hand for the first of three nights of pure western rodeo action, in what is perhaps the best rodeo in this part of the state.

Hundreds of people lined up to enjoy the annual barbecue preceding the rodeo action, and the Earth Lions Club, as usual, outdid themselves preparing and serving the barbecue "with all the fixins."

Just before the rodeo got underway at the arena just west of the Earth city limits, the Queen was crowned.

This year's queen was Mitzi

Dutton. She is 17 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Dutton.

Other contestants were Sharman Stephens, 17 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gayland Stephens; and Shawndi Geissler, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Geissler.

Something new was added this year. A Little Miss Cowgirl was crowned for the first time at the beginning of the Earth Rodeo. Four contestants vied for the title in this, the first year, of the new event.

Crowned Little Miss Cowgirl was Kymbee Koontz, age nine, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Koontz.

Other contestants included Shana Coker, eight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vic Coker; Elizabeth Jordan, five, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Jordan and Shay Henderson, six, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Henderson.

Winners in the parade held along the Main Street (Highway 70) in Earth at 5 p.m. on Thursday were presented their awards.

First place winner in the float division was the Young Home-maker float; Earth 4-H Clowns were second and the Earth Lions Club was third.

For the riding clubs, first place was Terry County Sheriff's Possee from Brownfield; West Texas Riders from Lubbock were second and the Lamb County Sheriff's Possee from Littlefield was third.

In the antique car division, Tuney Malone was first and Effie

Wreck, Fight Keep Law Busy Friday Night

Around 10:00 p.m. Friday night, law enforcement officers and the West Plains Medical Center ambulance were called to Progress to a two vehicle accident, with reported injuries.

The injured man, who received cuts around his mouth, refused medical treatment. He was booked into the Bailey County jail by the Texas Department of Public Safety officers on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

According to DPS officers, the man had struck the second vehicle from the rear. Reportedly, the second vehicle involved was parked on the shoulder of the highway with a flat tire.

Early Saturday morning, Muleshoe City Police Officers were investigating a reported fight in the City Park on West Avenue D.

A vehicle was reported to have been damaged in the fight. The investigation was underway at presstime.

RIDE 'EM COWBOY--Rodeo action at Earth Thursday night was fast and furious in the 40th annual rodeo to be presented by the Earth Roping Club to delight the large crowds who attend. This particular cowboy made a good ride and a hard atop his bull.

Big City-Wide Clean-Up Is Drawing Attention

City To Study Rate Request By Energas

Jess Winn, manager of the Muleshoe Energas office, met briefly with members of the Muleshoe City Council Friday morning in special session.

Winn explained briefly that Energas has asked for a 7.7 percent rate increase, and said if the city takes no action within 35 days, the increase takes effect automatically. However, the city could suspend the effective date "buying 90 days" before such an increase could take effect.

The city council voted to approve a resolution headed "A Resolution By the City Council of the City of Muleshoe, Texas, Suspending The Effective Date of a Proposed Gas Rate Increase by Energas Company."

The city officials, according to the resolution are asking to insure that it has sufficient time to study the rate request of Energas Company.

In other action, the city also approved recommendations of a Risk Management and Insurance Survey for the City of Muleshoe.

City Manager Dave Marr explained that the city has been recommended to add more insurance at the airport, increase the limits of current policies, raise the insured value of some city property and study some self-insured items.

Marr said that with the changes in government, they are no longer immune from lawsuits, and believes the changes in insurance will eliminate possible confusion to the city's insurance.

The city manager also said the city will be advertising for bids on the city's insurance and will open the bids in mid-September.

Sudan Officials To Purchase Fire Truck

Sudan residents are scrambling to gather in as much in donations as they can, as fast as they can.

In a special meeting Tuesday morning, the Sudan City Council voted to purchase a new fire truck for the city, when enough in donations have been made to make the down payment on a new truck.

After the down payment is made, the City of Sudan will be making the payments on the new truck until it is paid for.

Sudan city officials approved the purchase of a 750 gallon Pumper 'T' fire truck.

They said it will be financed with warrants issued through the Sudan First National Bank. City officials said Revenue Sharing Funds will be sued to pay principal on the truck.

They also said no assessments will be added to water bills as they were advised against this by a lawyer from the Texas Municipal League.

This action by Mayor Kenneth Wiseman and the two city council members is expected to alleviate a problem posed by the Texas Insurance Board's August 9, 1983 letter to the city in which they said Sudan would or could, become an "unprotected" city due to the age of their current fire truck.

With an "unprotected" designation, the key rate for obtaining fire insurance within the city could/would have gone from around .34-.37 to .81.

Sudan residents said "they applaud" this positive action taken by the city officials.

Breakfast, Farmers' Market, Carnival Scheduled By CofC

Muleshoe residents are beginning to be filled with civic pride, as evidence of a clean-up, fix-up began to be noticed along American Boulevard during this past week.

Although much remains to be done, it is a start on what is hoped to become a major, city-wide clean-up effort, according to Toni Eagle, manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

Mrs. Eagle, who took over the reins of the CofC almost a month

Lions Present Basketball

Check To CofC

Toni Eagle, manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, unexpectedly became the speaker for the Muleshoe Lions Club at noon on Wednesday.

Mrs. Eagle had been invited to attend the Lions Club meeting to receive a check following the recent basketball game between the Lions and Rotary Clubs.

However, she was drafted as a speaker after it was announced that Carver Light, coordinator of the ambulance services for West Plains Medical Center, had been involved in an accident, and was himself hospitalized in Lubbock.

Late Monday night, Light had an accident near the New Mexico state line in his private vehicle as he was on his way home to Portales.

According to Mrs. Eagle, "One of my main concerns is that we are the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce AND Agriculture."

"I want to place more emphasis on agriculture and try to get farmers more active. We are writing to farmers encouraging them to become more active, and asking them how we can help them."

Mrs. Eagle told of various activities being planned at this time by the CofC, including a carnival coming into town, a Farmer's Market, a breakfast that will not only be for members, but all business people and persons interested in the activities of the Muleshoe CofC.

She explained that four more Ambassadors had been named, and some of the activities they will be conducting.

"We need ideas, how to make the Chamber of Commerce and ago, along with the board of directors of the Muleshoe CofC, is urging everyone to clean up the approaches to Muleshoe, remove all weeds and debris, and help give Muleshoe a better appearance for summer travelers.

"All the weeds give Muleshoe a bad look, and can't help but influence the travelers," said Mrs. Eagle. "If everyone would just chop down their weeds, mow their vacant lots and get the trash hauled off, people coming into and through Muleshoe would feel more like stopping, visiting around and spending some of their travel money here."

She was highly complimentary of the persons who have already mowed, cleaned and have their property in good shape now. "If others would just follow suit, now, we will really look good," she added.

Breakfast

On Monday, July 30, at 6:30 a.m., the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture will hold a CofC breakfast at the Bailey County Coliseum.

CofC Manager Toni Eagle said they were encouraging not only members, but all individuals interested in Muleshoe, and the future of Muleshoe, to attend the breakfast.

Non-members will be welcome to visit the breakfast and find out what are the plans for Muleshoe. The breakfast will be cooked by the Jennyslippers and will cost $2.50 per plate.

Muleshoe's Ambassadors will be on hand to greet the guests, and a speaker will be here from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Entertainment has been planned and door prizes will be given.

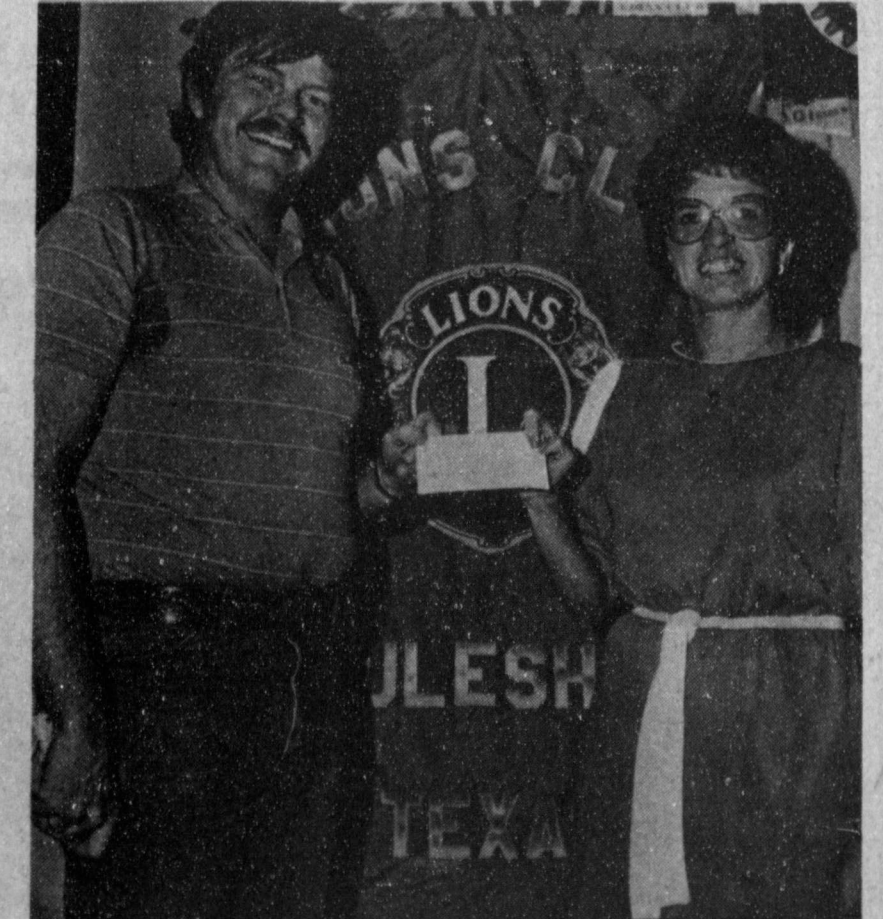

Mrs. Eagle has asked that persons planning to attend the breakfast call the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture by 5 p.m. on Friday, July 27. The CofC number is 272-4248.

Farmer's Market

Toni Eagle, manager of the Muleshoe CofC said the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture will be sponsoring a 'Farmers Market' for the Muleshoe area. "All area vegetable producers are urged to participate," said Mrs. Eagle.

"If you are willing to supply

LIONS PRESENT CHECK--Muleshoe Lion Tim McCormick "paid off a debt" Wednesday when the Lions presented a check to Toni Eagle, manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. The check was given by the Lions because they were defeated in a recent basketball game by the Muleshoe Rotary Club.

Plant Clinic Slated Here On Wednesday

A plant related clinic will be conducted in Muleshoe on Wednesday July 25, from 9 until 11:30 a.m. at the Muleshoe State Bank community room, according to Spencer Tanksley, County Extension Agent.

He said the purpose of the plant clinic is to give all area residents an opportunity to bring in plant specimens that show signs of any horticultural-related problem.

"No problem is too small or large for this event," said Tanksley. "Homeowners may bring any type of plant problem from lawns, trees, shrubs, flowers, or vegetables that may show signs of disease, insects, poor growth or other related sickness."

The county agent said persons who work and cannot attend, may call the Extension Office at

FmHA Funding
Now Available
For Low - Income

A bill signed by President Reagan on July 2 enhances the use of funds for the single-family housing program operated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration, J. Lynn Futch, FmHA State Director, said Thursday. No additional funds are involved.

Futch said the new law clears up the division of loan funds that must be allocated to "very" low-income applicants and to those in the next higher bracket, low-income.

The earlier congressional requirement that FmHA housing loans must be made so that 40 percent were consistently going to very-low-income people has been replaced so that now up to 40 percent of the funds available will be used for very-low-income families, Futch said. "This means that loan applications from both low and very-low-income rural applicants can be processed at the same time without regard to some arbitrary relationship between the two groups."

The new law divides available loan funds into two amounts, up to 40 percent for the very-low-income and the remainder for low-income borrowers.

"That will revive our program substantially," Futch said. "We will now be able to process applications for both very-low and low-income people."

He concluded, "Very low-income is defined as not more than 50 percent of an area's median income. The low-income ceiling is 80 percent of the same income base."

272-4583 and leave your name, address and phone number and arrangements will be made for the specialist to visit at your residence and take a look at your sick plants.

"Some of you may have trees, lawns or other horticultural related plants that are dying and need the specialist to look at these at your home," added Tanksley.

"This is a good opportunity for farmers to come by in the morning and visit with the Extension Specialist about disease, insect, or other crop or vegetable related problem that might be occurring on your farm. Three area Extension Specialists will be present for the clinic. They are Dr. Robert Berry, Area Plant Pathologist; Dr. Pat Morrison, Entomologist and Dr. Roland Roberts, Area Vegetable Specialist," said Tanksley.

"We hope everyone will take advantage of this event. If you have additional questions, please contact the Bailey County Extension office at the courthouse."

Selecting A Summer Camp

The right summer camp can do a lot more for children than simply provide fresh air and a few days away from home, says Texas A & M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist, Dr. Delores Stegelin.

According to Stegelin, a specialist in child development, going to camp often helps children break away from their parents in a positive manner. "Even though children may feel some home sickness, camp provides a psychologically safe environment while they are separated from their parents," she explains.

The group activities involved in camping de-emphasize the "self" and help children see the usefulness of teamwork as well, she adds.

Most parents expect their children to learn or improve their physical skills in swimming or sports while at camp, notes the specialist. But camp can also be mentally stimulating if they are introduced to new ideas, projects, and activities, or meet youngsters from different geographic areas and backgrounds.

Special interest camps focused on learning about computers, science and math enrichment, space study, music and dance or horsemanship, also stimulate intellectual growth for the interested child, she remarks.

But the camping experience will be positive only if the parents select one that is most appropriate for their child, says Stegelin. She suggests that parents consider the following before sending a child to camp:

Whose needs are being met—mine or my child's? Do you want to send your child to computer camp, for example, because he's interested in it, or because you think he ought to be interested?

Is the camp well organized and does it have a positive record? Talk to parents who have sent their children to the camp in previous years.

What is my child's attitude about going to camp? If the child is resisting, try to find out why.

Is my child emotionally ready for a separation from home and for what length of time? This may differ from child to child even within the same family. It will also depend on the child's previous experience at being away from home. The child who has never stayed overnight with a friend, for instance, may have trouble coping with a week at camp.

Who supervises the children directly and what are their backgrounds? Do they have skills in working with children? What forms of discipline will be used?

How much does the camp cost? Does it fit into the family budget and is the cost worth it for the experiences provided?

Will the camp experience fill my child's needs or could those needs be better met in another way? Spending several days at the home of a favorite relative, attending a day camp, or simply playing in their own backyards may meet the needs of many children just as well as a camp.

A&M engineer finds oil demand down

COLLEGE STATION — Decreasing demand for oil during the 1980s could extend world petroleum resources as long as 50 years, says an energy expert at Texas A&M University.

"None of the forecasters of the late 1970s was correct in predicting the world supply of oil would begin a long decline by the year 2000," said Dr. Robert Wattenbarger, a petroleum engineer who developed crude oil supply models for Saudi Arabia and the OPEC cartel from 1975 to 1981.

"Increased efficiency, conservation and fuel switching have cut demand for oil," he said. "Forecasters thought the trend of increased oil demand would continue. What has actually happened is outside all our predicted ranges."

Wattenbarger said world oil resources can meet current demand until around the year 2040. Political interruptions could change the future, he admitted.

But "running out" of oil is not a good term, he said. "We will eventually see a long, slow decline with switches to alternate energy sources," said Wattenbarger.

Cowboy Camp Meeting Scheduled July 26-29

The local committee of the Mesa Redondo Cowboy Camp Meeting are finalizing plans for the Seventh Annual Cowboy Camp Meeting. The dates are Thursday, July 26, through Sunday noon, July 29, 1984.

The campsite is located on the Bove-Farmer Ranch near Tucumcari, New Mexico. From Tucumcari, go eleven miles south on Highway 18, or from Ragland, go fourteen miles north on Highway 18. Turn east at the big sign and travel 2 1/2 miles southwest to the camp. It sets at the foot of the big and majestic Mesa Redondo in a secluded canyon.

Camp pastors for this year are Jimmy Dell of Phoenix, Arizona, and Randy Steele of Fort Collins, Colorado. Paul King of Bartlesville, Oklahoma will be serving his sixth consecutive year as song leader.

The Third Annual Youth Roundup will begin at 3:00 p.m. on Saturday, July 28. Buddy and Mary Ann Cortese of Fort Sumner invite all area young people to come and participate.

The first activities of the camp will begin at 5:00 p.m. on Thursday, July 26 with prayer meeting; supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. and the evening worship service will begin at 8:00 p.m. A campfire fellowship will follow the evening services each night. Bible studies are taught twice daily, and there are worship services both morning and night. Classes are taught for the various age groups of children and a nursery is available during the worship services. Three meals a day are served on Friday and Saturday, breakfast and dinner on Sunday.

Mesa Redondo is a member of the Ranchmen's Camp Meeting Association in the Southwest. The association now has eight camps in five states during the summer circuit. It is an interdenominational outreach and provides 'A Christian Camping Experience For All Ages'. Many committee members from the communities of Tucumcari, San Jon, Quay, Melrose, Grady, Fort Sumner, and Clovis, are involved in planning and working during the annual camp. In 1983, some 884 area persons attended the entire camp.

Everyone is welcome to attend the camp activities. For those who camp, there is ample space. For those who drive out for any of the services and meals, they will find this a unique experience and well worth the drive.

For further information, you may contact any of the following: C.L. Bove, Jr. President, of San Jon, Ph. 505-456-8792, Buddy Cortese, Vice President of Fort Sumner, 355-7218, Wilma Fulgham, Secretary, of Clovis, Ph. 763-6262. ## SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek seems a little puzzled this week.

Dear editor: Everybody has heard the stories about the military spending $800 apiece for screwdrivers and $150 for claw hammers or whatever and other hair-raising examples of outrageous waste, but there's something about all this that puzzles me.

When a reporter gets hold of one of these stories and it makes headlines, the military brass says it is "instituting measures to curb the practice," and the story fades away. Then a few months later something else comes out, like the military admitting it disposes of 3 billion dollars worth of surplus parts each year to junk dealers, then a little while later discovers it needs them back. The junk dealers are happy to oblige, selling the parts back at several times what they paid for them.

What puzzles me about all this is where are the investigative reporters? Looks like some of them would be interested in locating the clerk or the officers or whoever who authorized the paying of $800 screwdrivers, along with the dealer brazen enough to charge that much. Looks like those hard-hitting guys flash their lights on such people and cross examine them on television. But nothing happens, the practice goes on, and nobody gets fired.

I'd look into this myself but I'm going to be tied up the next few weeks watching political conventions on television. Yours faithfully, J.A.

Ronald Reagan, President, on deficit cuts:
"My approval of these measures should not by any means be considered the final action on deficits this year."

Social Security News & Views

People receiving Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability benefits should be aware of the rules that make it easier to attempt to return to work without risking a loss of benefits. Under certain circumstances, Social Security cash benefits and Medical are extended while a still disabled beneficiary is attempting to return to gainful employment.

The rules, which have been in effect since December 1980, are designed to provide incentives to rehabilitation for disabled persons. They reduce the risks that make the work attempt an all-or-nothing effort in the past.

Social Security pays disability benefits to people who have worked long enough and recently enough in jobs covered by Social Security when they have a disability which is expected to keep them from working a year or more or to result in death. SSI disability benefits are paid on the same medical basis, but to people whose income and resources fall below a certain level. Although Social Security administers both programs, Social Security benefits are paid from Social Security taxes while SSI payments are made from general revenues.

The disability program has always been designed to pay benefits to people only so long as they are disabled. Rehabilitation is provided by State agencies, and a person who qualifies for rehabilitation and refuses the services could have his or her Social Security of SSI benefits stopped. A trial work period of up to 9 months is provided to disabled workers during which benefits continue to be paid while they determine if they are able to work on a regular basis.

The general rule is that a person who demonstrates that he or she is capable of "substantial gainful work" is considered no longer disabled. Earning averaging $300 a month are considered an indication of substantial gainful activity. The provisions which make it easier for people to return to work without losing benefits are as follows:

Provides reentitlement to Social Security and SSI disability benefits if a person who is still disabled becomes unable to work again within 15 months after the trial work period.

Extends Medicare protection (for Social beneficiaries) during the reentitlement period and for at least 14 additional months beyond the period.

Allows certain impairment-related work expenses, which may also be necessary for everyday living, to be deducted from a disabled person's in determining substantial gainful activity.

Provides that if a previously disabled worker becomes entitled to Social Security disability benefits within 5 years after payments end Medicare coverage can resume immediately if the person was previously eligible.

Another recent development may also be of interest. On March 15, 1984, the Secretary of Health and Human Services announced a 1-year demonstration project. The project provides for continuing Medicaid eligibility to certain people getting SSI whose benefits would otherwise be discontinued because of earnings. The project will be effective for 1 year beginning January 1, 1984.

If a person did not meet the 24-month Medicare waiting period during the previous period of disability, the months in which the person received payments count toward meeting the Medicare waiting period. This provision also applies to disabled widows and widowers and adults disabled before 22 whose benefits start again within 7 years after benefits were stopped.

A native of Wise County, He A&M study shows overhead fans help save on utility bills

COLLEGE STATION — The use of overhead fans could save residents of the Southwest up to 30 percent on their annual utility bills, the preliminary results of a Texas A&M University study show.

Researchers Larry Degelman, professor of architecture and of environmental design, and graduate students Syd Spain say the study is the first to look at actual energy savings due to the use of fans in the Southwest.

"Fans are a big hope for saving energy in hot months," Degelman said. "They could have the biggest impact on saving cooling energy since natural lighting."

The full study will examine the effects of the conventional ceiling fans and a system similar to the "whole house" or attic fan which draws air from the outside through the house and then exhausts the air into the attic and the outside.
