Mercury's Slide Halted Just Above The Freezing Point

Low Mark Of 33 Recorded Early Today

Rainfall Total Nearly Two Inches; Sub-Freezing In The Panhandle

The Big Spring area narrowly missed freezing weather early today, as a cold wave which brought sub-freezing temperatures to North Texas continued to hold sway.

The thermometer at the local airport registered a low of 33—one degree above freezing—at 2 and 3 a. m., and, with one exception, hovered at the same mark until late this morning. The noon reading was 36 degrees.

Over 1.8 inches of continued drizzling rain accompanied the low temperatures throughout this area. On top of Thursday's fall of 1.18 inches, an additional half-inch fell during the night, and more moisture was recording as mist continued this morning. Total for the two days was placed over 1.8 inches.

Indication of a break in the cool spell was given in the government forecast which said warmer weather was due Saturday for parts of Texas. There were predictions, however, of continued rain and unsettled weather.

The moisture will be of great benefit to grazing lands in the section, stock raisers said, and farmers said cotton would not be materially damaged if the rain ceases soon. Building work in the city, including that on the new postoffice structure, was halted by the inclement weather. The gin output decreased as cotton picking was stopped.

Snow And Sleet. The 20-mile area the coldest of the season for Big Spring; and other points reported the coldest of the autumn. There was snow and sleet in the territory north of here, and rainfall was general over the state.

The temperature was under 30 degrees in the North Panhandle. Points around Big Spring reported continued misting. Heavy falls had been reported Thursday in all directions.

Heavy rains were reported from Abilene, Wichita Falls, San Angelo, Dallas, Fort Worth, Corsicana, Texas, Arkansas, Paris, Sherman and Vernon.

It was estimated a quarter of an inch of moisture was derived from the two and a half inches of snow that fell in far West Texas. Between Hereford and Clovis, N. M., the fall was from four to five inches.

The north plains above the Canadian river had little precipitation, Texline reporting the lowest with a 27-degree reading.

Many To Greet Sen. Connally

Over 30 Reservations Already Received For Monday Breakfast

With more than 30 reservations already in, indications were Friday that Big Spring will accord Tom Connally a big welcome, requested that all reservations be made at the chamber of commerce office by Saturday afternoon. Garland A. Woodward is assisting Cunningham in completing the program.

Several visitors from other towns are expected to meet Senator Connally here. There will be a large delegation from Lamesa, since Connally will go from here to that city on his way to Hobbs, N. M., for a speech. He will come here from Dallas, arriving on the early morning train.

FRAUD CHARGED TO FRANCE'S PREMIER

PARIS, Oct. 23—Premier Leon Blum and Finance Minister Vincent Auriol were charged today with fraudulently pressuring the sale of government bonds knowing secret devaluation negotiations were being conducted.

The suit was brought by the taxpayers' federation and was filed by its president, J. L. Dubrois, under an article of the penal code governing the fraudulent issue of public bonds.

The federation claims more than 1,000,000 members.

BEFORE EGGS BEGAN FLYING

Earl Browder (above), communist candidate for president, was smiling broadly when this picture of his arrival in Terre Haute, Ind., was taken—but it was a different story shortly afterward. Browder and his associates were pelted with rotten eggs and ripe tomatoes when he attempted to enter a radio station for a speech. Later, he said, he was warned a mob "might attempt to ride him out of town." (Associated Press Photo.)

Club Secures Tract For Use As Park Site

ABC Members Hope To Install Equipment For Children's Recreation

Announcement of the acquisition of a block and a half of land in the Parker addition in Jones Valley, to be improved for use as a recreational center for children in that vicinity was made at the Friday luncheon session of the local American Business club.

The club, through three trustees—C. A. Frost, Roy Reeder and W. D. Carnett—received a quit-claim deed to the tract from the Fidelity Investment company, the club to control the land as long as it is used for recreational purposes.

Acquisition of the land represents a forward step in the ABC club's program to provide recreational facilities for children in the west side of the city who are denied park space; but, Frost said, it also marks the beginning of an intensive program to put the land into shape.

The ABC club will embark at once upon a program to have the land cleared and beautified so that it may be used as a playground. Funds also will be raised for the purchase of playground equipment, and later on the ABC organization hopes to finance erection of a hut to be used by Boy Scout troop 6, which the club sponsors.

Announcement was made at the Friday session that ABC members will sponsor a Halloween dance at the Settles the night of Oct. 31. It will be an invitation affair. All proceeds will go into the fund to provide playground equipment for the new park.

Surprise Entry In 'Baby Marathon'

Mother Registers Nine Births, Seeks Prize

TORONTO, Oct. 23. (UP)—Confusion spread among seven mothers in the $750,000 baby derby today as an entrant, not previously considered, appeared to upset their calculations.

With only nine days left before the finish of the 10-year race, Mrs. Anne Smith, 31, came forward and registered the births of nine children previously kept secret, the Toronto Star reported in a copyrighted story.

What some of the other mothers, who want that $750,000 for themselves, fear, is that Mrs. Smith might be holding back a couple of births she has not registered.

The money goes to the mother who gives birth to the largest number of children in the 10-year period ending at midnight, Oct. 31, under the terms of the will left by Charles Vance Millar, eccentric lawyer.

Mrs. Smith's husband is a city fireman. Both take the position the fortune should be divided on a

Soviet Stand Will Be That Of Diplomacy

Spokesmen Assert Russia Will Not Take Steps To Start War

(By the Associated Press) Soviet spokesmen, entering the European neutrality debate at the meeting of the international non-intervention committee at London today, indicated that Russia would take no steps which might precipitate a European war.

They said Russia would continue to make every diplomatic effort to thwart "naïve and fascist aid to the Spanish insurgents."

Meanwhile, Spain's opposing armies braced on three fronts. Insurgent troops routed the government defenders at Las Navas del Marques, west of the strategic point of El Escorial.

In Madrid preparations were rushed to defend the capital against the fascist invasion, in the midst of a movement of heavy artillery within 20 miles of the city.

Retreating from one town after another before the advance of mechanized columns, the government defenders dug in at Mostoles, 10 miles from the heart of the capital, and in Torrejon de la Calzada, 18 miles from the city.

With Madrid besieged, the fascist high command was reported to have ordered its warships to sink Russian vessels believed transporting arms to the fascist enemies.

Other European nations were notified of this order, the unconfirmed reports said.

City Expense In September Under Budget

Outgo For First Half Of Fiscal Year Over Appropriations

City of Big Spring's expenditures for the month of September were nearly $3,000 under budget appropriations for the month, it is shown in the financial report issued Friday by City Manager E. V. Spence.

The total outlay was $10,599.82, a sum $2,951.28 under the budget figure.

Expenditures for the first six months overran the budget for that period, however. Expenses for the first half of the fiscal year amounted to $98,081.57, which has overran the budget by $15,775.09. This was due largely for appropriations made for the municipal airport and the capital outlay for permanent property.

Water Revenues. Water revenues for the month amounted to $10,774.31, a decrease of $1,242.42 from August but $2,371.51 more than for September, 1935.

Largest appropriation for September went to airport improvements and city street paving. The street projects were given $1,651.58 while the airport expenditures amounted to $3,883.33 for September.

The airport expenses for the first half of the fiscal year have amounted to $21,499.93, overrunning the allotment by $14,882.99 while cost of work on the city streets for the same period had amounted to $8,309.48, overrunning the budget by $3,066.42.

No expenditures were made from the interest and sinking fund during September.

Paid admissions for the swimming pool and the municipal golf course amounted to more than 21,000 in the five months of the operation of the Municipal pool.

16 ABSENTEE VOTES CAST IN COUNTY FOR GENERAL ELECTION

The absentee vote total in Howard county for the November 3 general election continues to climb slowly. Three additional absentee ballots were cast at the county clerk's office Friday, to bring the total to 16. Voters who will be away from the county on election day have through October 31 to cast their absentee ballots.

The general election ballot, as large as a newspaper page, carried eight columns, one each for the democratic, republican, socialist, communist, union and prohibition party electors and nominees, a column for independent candidates and one blank column.

Two Injured In Auto Crash

Wink Man Seriously Hurt, Brother Suffers Minor Injuries

Collision of two cars two miles west of Coahoma at 3 p. m. Thursday resulted in critical injuries to one man and painful bruises to another.

Z. E. Matheson of Wink, who with his brother, D. L. of Grand Falls, received a broken shoulder and a broken leg and was unconscious Friday afternoon, in the Big Spring hospital. D. L. Matheson received a head laceration and a broken collarbone. The two were en route to their homes.

D. L. Matheson could give only meager details of the crash Friday. He failed to see an eastbound automobile in time to avert toward the roadside and the two cars crashed head-on.

The occupants of the other car were uninjured.

Mrs. D. L. Matheson of Grand Falls was notified of the accident and arrived this morning.

DETECTIVE AND SON ARRESTED

Ellis Parker, Burlington county detective chief, and his son, Ellis, Jr., shown together, under indictment by a federal grand jury in connection with the Wendel kidnaping, were arrested at Mt. Holly, N. J., on bench warrants. The elder Parker supplied bail of $10,000, the son $25,000 and they were released. (Associated Press Photo.)

State Plans Future Highway Building

Engineers To Submit Program For 1938 And 1939

AUSTIN, Oct. 23 (UP)—A 1938-39 highway building program to be cooperated in by the state and federal governments will be submitted to the state highway commission at its November session here. Instruction to the engineering department to prepare the program for submission then. In planning the work special attention was ordered to heavy traffic roads on the federally aided system.

Formal approval was given by the commission to the 1937 federal aid program, already submitted to the federal bureau of roads.

It calls for expenditure of $15,542,634. Its approval in Washington is being waited.

Flood Protection. Appropriation of $30,000 was made for flood protection for south abutments to highway two loop bridge over the Brazos at Waco and $90,459 additional appropriation made for flood damage to roads in various parts of the state.

Applications to the PWA for additional appropriations on the Galveston causeway and Neches river bridge projects were renewed. Requests for $198,000 and $88,881 respectively were made August 1. A master mechanic wage scale of $1 an hour was approved for the Galveston causeway work.

Appropriations announced yesterday included: $13,700 to supplement WPA funds in topping highway 155 from County press creek to the Harrison county line, completing an unpaved gap between Marshall and Glimmer; $2,906 for an equipment storage building at Amarillo; $4,238 to widen North Grove creek on highway 6 north of Waxahachie; $5,843 for right of way markers, clearing, grubbing and grading new location of highway 176 west of Kilgore; $1,657 for maintaining highway 205 from Terrell to the Rockwall county line; and $270 to purchase a warehouse site in Sweetwater from E. C. Brand.

Further appropriations for Bexar county were ordered withheld until right of way is furnished for a highway 66 underpass.

Fred Fahrenkamp Dies In El Paso

Word has been received here of the death of Fred Fahrenkamp, uncle of William and Emil Fahrenkamp of this city, at his home in El Paso at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Fahrenkamp was well known in railroad circles, having been an engineer on the Texas and Pacific line out of here 30 years ago. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, all of El Paso.

A brother, William Fahrenkamp, Sr., and his wife passed through Big Spring on a morning train en route to El Paso from Chicago where they were visiting at the time of their brother's passing.

William Fahrenkamp will attend the funeral services which will probably be held tomorrow in El Paso.

Act Provides For A Part In U. S. Program

Payroll Tax Schedule Set Up In Proposal Voted By 23 To 6

AUSTIN, Oct. 23 (UP)—The senate today adopted a free conference report on a bill to provide Texas participation in government benefits in the federal unemployment insurance program.

The vote was 23 to 6, sufficient to put the law into immediate effect if it receives 100 votes in the house. The lower house postponed action on the measure until Monday.

The bill imposes a tax of nine-tenths of one per cent on the total payroll of employers of eight or more persons for the present year ending December 31; one and one-eighth tenths percent in 1937, and two and seven-tenths per cent in 1938, 1939 and 1940, with future rates based on benefit experience.

Commission Of Three. The measure also provides for a commission of three to administer the act.

Such a law would permit Texas to receive federal benefits in the unemployment insurance provision of the social security act, just as the state shares in the old age assistance program. Absence of a statute would mean that federal payroll taxes collected in Texas would go to job insurance programs of other states.

New Debate Rages On Pension Restriction

AUSTIN, Oct. 23 (UP)—Fresh protests against deliberalization of the state's old age assistance broke out in the legislature today. Rep. Hollis Frazier of Franklin walking out of a meeting of the free conference committee considering the compromise measure, and Rep. Leonard Westfall of experiment charging that lobbyists "of the great corporation interests are behind the move to force the house to swallow deliberalization."

The committee resumed its executive sessions after a long meeting last night, working on various sections of the omnibus bill to which the deliberalization proposition was attached in the form of an amendment by the senate.

Senator Clint Small of Amarillo, chairman of the committee and author of the deliberalization amendment, said a majority of the house representatives opposed not only restricting pensions further but also a sales and a gross receipts tax. Other committee members said, however, the disagreement had not reached the point of a deadlock.

Demands Deliberalization. House committeemen besides Frazier were Rep. E. A. McKinney.

Army Group To Visit Here

Military Work To Be Demonstrated By Recruiting Party

A recruiting party from the 82nd Field Artillery of Fort Bliss will visit Big Spring in the near future with information concerning Fort Bliss and El Paso in an effort to interest prospective recruits.

The aim of the party will be to show local youths the benefits derived by military training and bring the many and diversified opportunities of the service to their attention.

The First Cavalry Division was organized at Fort Bliss in September, 1921, and is the only organized cavalry division in the United States army. The Fort Bliss post is also the home station of the 52nd Field Artillery, the 2nd Cavalry Brigade (7th and 8th cavalry regiments) and the armored car troop.

The recruiting area allocated to Fort Bliss includes the states of Arizona, New Mexico and part of West Texas, including the Big Spring area.

Rites Monday For Senator Jas. Couzens

Michigan Political Leader, One-Time Associate Of Ford, Succumbs

DETROIT, Oct. 23. (UP)—Public funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home in Bloomfield Hills for United States Senator James Couzens, who died yesterday.

Couzens, 64, succumbed in a hospital, the victim of uric acid poisoning. Members of his family, including his son, Mayor Frank Couzens of Detroit, were at the bedside when death came.

Couzens who as an office clerk joined Henry Ford at the turn of the century in founding the motor car company that grew to gigantic proportions, started his senate career in 1922.

A week ago yesterday the senator left the hospital to greet President Roosevelt, whose re-election he had termed "the most important matter confronting the nation." Following this statement, Couzens was defeated for renomination.

Leaves Bed. Mr. Roosevelt, on a campaign tour, offered to visit Couzens at the hospital, but Couzens left his bed, joined the executive at dinner aboard the special train, and stood with him at two platform appearances.

The senator returned to the hospital afterward. Since his left kidney was removed at Rochester, Minn., a year ago, his life had depended on proper functioning of the right organ. An obstruction developed and determined an operation yesterday.

Couzens died half an hour after returning to his room. He never

GAS CO. FILES PLEA FOR WRIT OF ERROR

AUSTIN, Oct. 23.—The Lone Star Gas company today filed motion for rehearing by the supreme court on an application for a writ of error in its rate case which the court denied Oct. 7.

In denying the application, the supreme court sustained a court of civil appeals decision which was in conflict with United States supreme court rulings in recent months, the company alleged.

Rail Rate Cut Brings Children in Swarms to Centennial Exposition

The vanguard of more than a million Texas school children who are expected to visit the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas before its close November 29 are already swarming the grounds. A half cent a mile railroad rate has been granted all children and any adults, teachers or members of their families who may accompany them. The rates are the lowest in many years. The Centennial Exposition offers reduced prices on its attractions and special accommodations for board and lodging have been made for children and their grown-up companions. School holidays have been proclaimed in every Texas school district by Governor James V. Alford and State Superintendent L. A. Woods. The pictures show some of the thousands of youngsters taking the exhibits and shows of the $25,000,000 Texas World's Fair by storm.

Reading And Writing

By John Selby

Margaret Wilson has done another novel in the manner and the tradition of "The Able McLaughlins." The connection is, in fact, even closer than that. For it is about the McLaughlins themselves she calls it "The Law and the McLaughlins."

It begins when Willy McLaughlin, married and assuming paternity of a child not his own, goes hunting through the wood of his uncle the Squire. It has snowed, and the Iowa prairie is dazzling. But Willy is not too dazzled to see the figures of two men hanging from two of the Squire's prized trees. The men have been lynched.

How it happened that the men could be lynched in this tight little Scottish community without a single person's having known it passes understanding.

Only two of the McLaughlins have great sympathy with the men who have done the deed; the windy old Squire is burning with his belief in an eye for an eye, and thinks the lynchers should be hung publicly. The women run to sympathy for the newly made widows. But Willy remembers a day when he set out with a gun to kill the father of the child at his home. And Jean, the romantic rebel, defies her father and also the ancient Jewish law of an eye for an eye.

Slowly the threads of evidence are found and traced, and finally, after much work and a good deal of stir, the lynchers are caught. They are locked up—which is where Jean becomes the central figure of the novel. It is she who appears before the jail with an axe, and with money to help Arthur Morrison on his way. Jean's devotion to her principle and to her fugitive makes the body of the novel. A story of life in a pioneer settlement should be told simply and in sturdy

A Fluffy Set For The Baby

By LUTH ORR Pattern No. 360

If the quins weren't so grown-up now, and if we lived in Canada and if—Oh! a lot more if's—we would have asked one of them to pose in this baby set. Anyway, being movie stars now they might be a little temperamental, so we borrowed a doll from one of the children to show off the set because we do think it's lovely. It's so dainty and pretty in its pale pink and white wool, that any "blessed event" would be glad to arrive and find it waiting.

And you won't find it difficult to crochet either, for the pattern is just a combination of the simplest stitches, with little picots peeping out here and there to give it an unusual texture.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions, with diagrams to aid you; also what crochet hook and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 360 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address Big Spring Herald, Needlework Dept., P. O. Box 200, Station D, New York, N. Y.

Precautions Taken To Watch Children At The Centennial

DALLAS, Oct. 23.—More than 30,000 Texas school children have been transported to the Texas Centennial exposition, have spent from one to two days here, and have returned to their homes, with not a single accident yet recorded.

In addition, under the registration system employed in checking the children into the Centennial grounds, not a child has been lost from his group for a period of more than a few minutes. There is a record made of each group the Centennial maintains a staff of uniformed guards devoting their entire time to the children, and all are told when they enter the grounds that these guides are at their service for information. They see that they reach their lodging houses if they are separated from their groups, and they also make certain that they catch their trains.

The feat of handling the children to date, in the movement to bring as many as possible of the 1,500,000 school children to the exposition before its close, is regarded as remarkable. Some of them have traveled as far distant as 500 miles, thousands of them from 200 to 350 miles.

Exposition officials have assured the parents of the state that uniformed Centennial guides meet all special trains. Full explanations are given there, escorts provided, and every precaution taken to insure the safety and pleasure of the young visitors.

ON DISPLAY at all Buick Showrooms SPECIAL CENTURY ROADMASTER LIMITED FOUR WONDROUS NEW REASONS WHY: "It's Buick again!" SENSATIONAL is the fervor with which the American public has taken to its heart the brilliant motor cars offered by Buick this year. Indeed, the sweeping success of the 1936 Buick program flatly challenged us and our great parent General Motors to a momentous decision. Should we continue this amazingly popular line of cars into next year, perhaps the prudent thing to do—or should we dare broad improvement upon their spectacular excellence? We felt there was only one right answer to that question, the bold and progressive answer—and that's why insiders now forecasting 1937 are already saying: "It's Buick again!" That's why on top of $15,000,000 recently spent re-tooling and re-equipping Buick's great plant, we appropriated and are now spending $14,500,000 more. That's why every car in the 1937 Buick line—the SPECIAL, the CENTURY, the ROADMASTER and the LIMITED—has more beauty for dazzling style, more power for breath-taking action, more room for full-family comfort, more downright "road-command" for safety and pleasure. See them. YOU'VE GOT WHAT IT TAKES! $765 You can afford the new Buick. It's easy to buy and thrifty to own. Get In The Mood For A Spooky Evening With A Festive Feast On New Halloween Delicacies

By MARTHA LOGAN

Do you remember when you were younger a certain night that seemed black as a black cat and even the firelight glowed blue? The lamps or candles sputtered, the wind moaned, the crickets stopped their chirping, and the moon seemed a terrible gray. And you were told about the Halloween witch who crept across the inky sky on her broomstick made of snails, and jack o'lanterns glimmered in the churchyard gloom, and ghosts seemed to appear from all sides in the murky mist? What fun it was to put on your ghostly robes and take your jack o'lantern and join the other ghosts.

This night was named Halloween from all Hallow's Eve or All Saints Day evening. Long before Christ-ianity a pagan festival celebrating the beginning of autumn with altar fires and grotesque dances came at this time of the year. The Romans called this day Tomona Day in honor of the Goddess of the Gardens and celebrated it accordingly. The ancient Druids celebrated this harvest festival time and their celebrating centered around the yearly ceremony of extinguishing and replenishing the altar fires in each little village as a protection against evil spirits. As late as the seventeenth century, farmers would tramp over their acres on Halloween, brandishing lighted torches and chanting a weird doggerel to frighten away the goblins for the coming twelve months.

We of the modern day celebrate with a special entertainment of some kind. This Halloween evening, why don't you invite for supper some of your friends and talk over old times and also celebrate Halloween? The supper should properly be served at sundown. There should be an open fire in the dining room to ward off witches' wiles and black magic. If this is not possible, each guest should have a jack o'lantern. Apples, nuts, cabbage, parsnips, elder and seed cakes (to represent the end of seed time for wheat) should be featured.

Serve Hailgan or cabbage broth in soup cups with small rounds of toast and grated cheese on top. Then serve individual baked rounds of lamb, with Caul Cannon. This is made of equal parts of potatoes, parsnips, and onions, all mashed after cooking, highly seasoned, and packed in a deep, round dish. A little well is pressed in the center and filled with melted butter, and in the vegetables there are hidden here and there, a ring, a piece of money, and a key. The dish is offered for each guest in turn to help himself, and a wedding, a fortune and a journey are signified, respectively, by these bits of treasure-trove.

A lovely rosy apple salad with cinnamon toast sticks will answer for the salad course. For dessert, individual pumpkin pies with ribs in eyes, nose and mouth will be good. Then, of course, one must have the traditional Lamasool and seed cakes. "Lamasool" is a hot drink made of the pulp of baked apples or apple sauce mixed with sweet cider and spices. Seed cakes can be Caraway cookies.

Then the guests can retire to the living room and by the light of the jack o'lanterns talk about the time they aroused the ire of Mr. Brown when they put tick tacks on his windows.

Pacific Isle Is Eyed By Two Nations

Christmas Island Becomes International Prize As Airway Base

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (UP)—Christmas Island is the next tiny island most calculated to leap suddenly out of the almost boundless reaches of the Pacific and assume an international importance in the public eye, according to information reaching San Francisco from such faraway sources as the Paapeete of Tahiti and from informal conversation in governmental and naval circles here.

Following the colonization of the Baker, Jarvis and Howland islands by the United States as plane bases in a proposed line to New Zealand, Christmas Island, it is declared, is the next of the Pacific atolls that is calculated to become suddenly important.

The American Museum of Natural History in New York has sent an expedition to the island to make a close investigation as to reproduction of the tiny bit of land may be placed in its museum. The results of the expedition may focus attention of both the government and the public on the island.

New Zealand Watchful

Two New Zealand cruisers have been reported in shipping circles to be looking over the island, presumably from the standpoint of British interests.

For more than a century possession of the island has been disputed by the United States and Great Britain. The exact international status of the island remains somewhat complicated. As late as Nov. 28, 1919, the British government proclaimed its sovereignty, although it is understood the state department never recognized this move.

In the meantime the island is operated by a Frenchman under lease from the British government, but who has had strong support from various French governments in the past.

The population consists of about 25 Tahitians brought there from Paapeete by the Frenchmen to cultivate his coconut plantations. Unlike Jarvis, Howland and Baker...

New Threat Of Coast Strike

Union Heads Reject Proposal For Truce; Show-down Oct. 28

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (UP)—Pacific coast maritime union heads today rejected a proposal for a year's truce on the waterfronts and reiterated their demand on six "fundamental" issues as events apparently veered sharply toward a coast-wide shipping tie-up October 28.

The plan provided for a one-year renewal of the working contracts drawn up at the close of the 1934 waterfront and general strike in San Francisco.

After first accepting provisions of the truce formula, the employers indicated they could not accept the plan under those terms. Both sides are seeking revisions in the 1934 agreement.

Union leaders insisted that before they would agree to enter into a year's armistice with the employers, they must obtain concessions on points which spokesmen said were "fundamental issues not subject to compromise or arbitration."

The union members, throughout the west coast, are voting on a proposal to authorize their joint negotiating committee to call a strike October 28. A current truce expires October 26.

Harry Bridges, Pacific coast district president of the International Longshoremen's association, indicated a strike might be called before expiration of the truce unless the unions' demands were granted.

WOMAN DETERMINED TO TAKE OWN LIFE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23. (UP)—It took six neighbors, a fire company, a ladder, two ropes and Giacomo Ferri's strong back to thwart a suicide attempt today by Ferri's 200-pound wife, Rose.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY
Services Sunday, 11 A. M., Settles Hotel, Room 1

"Probation after Death" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, October 25.

The Golden Text is: "The righteous also shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands shall be stronger and stronger" (Job 17:9).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb" (Revelation 7:14).

The lesson-sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Every day makes its demands upon us for higher proofs rather than professions of Christian power. These proofs consist solely in the destruction of sin, sickness, and death by the power of Spirit, as Jesus destroyed them. This is an element of progress, and progress is the law of God, whose demands of us only what we can certainly fulfill" (page 233).

Wood To Yield Food Extract Lead Over FD In War Crisis In 32 States

Nobel Prize Winner Says Germany Has Evolved New Process

DETROIT, Oct. 23 (UP)—Germany is prepared to chop branches off trees and convert them into food should another war suddenly cut off all supplies, declares Dr. Friedrich Bergius, member of the Heidelberg university faculty and Nobel Prize winner in 1932 for scientific endeavor.

The scientist immediately corrected the impression that such a war-time menu might contain sawdust sandwiches and tanbark salads. But he said it was an accomplished fact that German ingenuity had developed food from wood.

In Use Three Years "For the past three years Germany has been producing and using tons of sugar as a by-product from cellulose in sawmill and forest wastes," Bergius said.

Some of the estabes extracted indirectly from wood, he said, include everything from chocolate cream fillings to yeast and food for cattle. The extraction process also has produced alcohol, lactic acid, charcoal and a special type of acid-resisting board. In addition, a large number of industrial chemicals have been derived from wood, regardless of kind, making it 100 per cent useful.

Dr. Bergius said that with sugar alone, derived from wood, Germany is possessed with the chief elements of food, because through biological change his countrymen have produced fats by feeding the sugar to pigs. Proteins come from a combination of the yeast and a synthetic ammonia.

All Problems Not Solved "There still is a big problem," he continued, "in production of food from wood on a large scale. We can do it in our laboratories but that's far from commercial production."

How did the Germans arrive at their new food source? Dr. Bergius, who won the Nobel Prize in 1932 for his hydrogenation of coal, explained: "Only about half of a tree is used for lumber. German scientists decided to do something about the remaining 50 per cent, which has been burned or left in the forests. Chemical research evolved sugar from cellulose and supplied us with a basis for our theory."

Acid Mixture Used "Briefly, the waste wood is pounded into small splinters and all moisture removed. Then it is mixed with hydrochloric acid and sent through a series of batteries yielding sugar concentrations. The acid then is distilled off and the sugar retained."

After the wood splinters have outgrown their usefulness in this process, he said, they are pressed into bricks to make a hot, long-burning fuel. The same bricks, treated properly, can be utilized for floors, walls or insulation purposes. Samples of the sugar carried by Dr. Bergius approximated confectioner's sugar. It was, he said, about half as sweet as cane sugar.

James Buchanan was the only president of the United States who was a bachelor during his entire term.

money. She gave the claim little thought until the veterans' bureau at Washington checked finger prints of the applicant and found them identical with those on record for the missing Gifford.

Why he dropped from the South Pittsburgh community, the former traveling salesman would not say. "I have always been a lone wolf," he explained. "I have never told anyone anything about my affairs, but I will tell you that there is a good reason for what I did."

"Something scared me at the time and I just dropped out of sight. I have nothing to hide." He refused to say more of his disappearance until his brother Henry Gifford, arrives from Tennessee. No one knows where he has been during all these eight years in which he was believed dead. Only the two years he has spent here are known. He has no desire to return to his old home.

"I haven't heard from my wife and I do not know what she has been doing," Gifford said. "I certainly am not going back to her. Somebody is going to be worried about this bonus for I am going to collect it."

He has retained an attorney to represent him in seeking the money. Shortly after Gifford disappeared in 1923 his car was found near Stevenson, Ala. In April, 1933, a body found in the Tennessee river near Bridgeport, Ala., was "definitely identified" from dental work and scar tissue as that of Gifford.

President Again Cuts Into GOP Plurality In Magazine Poll

Landon leads Roosevelt by nearly 11 to 8 in the semifinal returns of The Literary Digest's nationwide poll even though the president cuts into the Kansas governor's plurality for the seventh consecutive time due to the addition of approximately 125,000 poll ballots from metropolitan centers out of a total increase of 345,000 votes since last week's report.

Landon has a poll majority or plurality in 32 states while Roosevelt is shown carrying 16. In the electoral college these states would divide 370 votes for Governor Landon to 161 for President Roosevelt.

A total of 2,156,739 votes is reported in the current poll tally. The republican candidate gets 1,131,307 votes to the democrat's 878,526 and the union candidate's total of 75,119. The balance of 22,787 votes, or slightly over 1 per cent, is divided among the four minor candidates.

Lemke receives his largest state vote in his home balliwick of North Dakota where he is shown receiving a little over 12 per cent of the total vote there.

In Minnesota he receives slightly under 10 per cent of the state's vote and in all other states he is indicated receiving less.

A special polling of Chicago gives Roosevelt 16,934 votes out of a total city tally of 35,017 to Landon's 16,293 and Lemke's 2,385, indicating a scant plurality for the president in the Illinois metropolis.

In Philadelphia, Roosevelt is shown with 29,599 votes to Landon's 23,464 and Lemke's 2,615 out of 56,327 ballots reported from the Quaker city.

Pittsburgh, where special treatment was given also by The Literary Digest poll managers, gives Roosevelt 9,896 votes to date against receipts of 7,095 ballots marked for Landon and 1,240 for Lemke out of a total of 18,421.

Cleveland is reported balloting 2,083 for the democratic candidate to the republican's 1,025 and the union party nominee's 412.

New York City reported returning 136,158 star ballots so far which are divided 83,599 for Roosevelt, 42,089 for Landon, 8,872 for Lemke and 4,681 for others.

All of the returns from the several metropolitan cities are reported as included in the returns for the states of which they are a unit.

Landon shows a decrease percentage-wise in 25 states since last week's tabulation, an increase in 20 states and no change in three states. Only in Illinois and New York, where a heavy metropolitan vote is reported, does his standing decline substantially.

College, high schools and grade schools compose the three sections of division five. Collegian entries must build their floats to correspond to the theme "Beauty of Culture." For the high schools, the theme, "Beauty of History," has been selected. Grade schools also have this same theme but will not compete against the high schools for prizes.

Labor organizations, service clubs and patriotic and fraternal groups have been assigned to division six. Labor groups will portray the "Beauty of Labor." Service clubs will have as their theme the subject, "Beauty of Song," while the patriotic and fraternal organizations will compete on the subject, "Beauty of Service."

A grand sweepstakes prize of $100 will be awarded to the winning float competing against all others in the "Pageant of Beauty." Prizes in the contest among the bands will be divided into four classes. The college bands will compete in the first group. Then the out-of-town high schools will have their competition. Then the local high schools and finally the miscellaneous bands.

'EATS' A BEAD A DAY FOR 26 WEEKS

For 26 weeks, 10-month-old Robert Fowler has daily had to swallow a steel bead, which drops down a linen thread through the esophagus to the stomach and out through a tube in the abdominal wall. The treatment started with beads one-fourth of an inch in size, increasing until they now measure an inch and a half. It followed operations performed when the lad burned his throat eating live and was threatened with starvation. He is looking slightly bored by it all, being held by his mother, Mrs. Tyrus Fowler, in their Washington home. (Associated Press Photo)

More Turkeys This Season

Texas Supply Should Be Sufficient For Thanksgiving Use

AUSTIN, Oct. 23 (UP)—Plenty of Thanksgiving Day turkeys and reasonable prices were forecast here today in a bulletin of the bureau of agricultural economics, U. S. department of agriculture. Texas turkey numbers exceed those of a year ago by more than 35 per cent.

"Consumers who missed out in 1932 and 1933 may be able to catch up on their appetite for turkey this year," said the federal statisticians who usually limit their statements to tabulations of cold figures. "In view of the general meat situation, the big crop of turkeys will be special cause for thanksgiving on the part of the consumers at least. Turkey prices are low compared with their usual relation to other meat prices."

For the farmer the picture is less no bidders. Then the auction got off to a good start with one woman purchasing the general store for $4,475, built at a cost of $10,000, and the Town Hall (community building), once valued at $30,000.

roy. Owing to the big crop a rise in farm turkey prices cannot be expected. August farm prices were 15.5 cents a pound and 15.9 cents in September. Both were higher than at corresponding periods in 1932. Compared with October average from 1921-30, prices were down 45 per cent.

Man Missing For Eight Years And Once Though 'Murdered,' Appears To Present Claim For Bonus Money

SUBANVILLE, Calif., Oct. 23 (UP)—Jesse Owen Gifford, 45, for whose "murder" eight years ago a man was tried and acquitted, came from out of the past today to claim his veterans' bonus already collected by his wife at South Pittsburgh, Tenn.

He has worked here for the past two years as a truck driver. He has had no word from his wife or their two children since he mysteriously disappeared in August, 1925.

Gifford was in an automobile accident at Reno, Nev., last July 4 and has since been unable to work because of a broken leg. He needed his veterans' compensation money and when he applied for it under his right name he was advised that his wife already had obtained it.

Ten days ago Mrs. Gifford was advised that a man claiming to be her husband had asked for the

HOMES LOST AS ENTIRE VILLAGE GOES ON BLOCK

KINLOCK, Pa., Oct. 23 (UP)—When the borough of Kinlock went under the auctioneer's hammer nearly 1,000 inhabitants of the little mining village crowded into the one and only general store to try to purchase their own homes, or sadly mourn their loss.

The sale followed closing of the Valley Coal Company. The mine became unprofitable and the company's town went on the block. Many of the miners were able to buy their own smoke-blackened frame buildings for figures ranging from $25 to $100. But many did not even have a few dollars for the "20 per cent down, and the balance within 60 days."

Completions In U. S. Down

Producers Number 318 To 105 Dry, 46 Gas Wells, Report Shows

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 23.—Oil well completions in the United States during the week ended Oct. 17 totaled 469, a decrease of 24 from the previous week's total, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Of the total, 318 produced oil, 46 showed gas and 105 proved dry. New oil producers showed the greatest decrease, with a drop of 19, while there were nine more gas wells and 14 fewer dry holes.

Texas was the only major producing state to show a substantial increase in activity. The total of 223 completions in that state was two more than in the previous week.

There were eight less oil wells, with 180. There also were six new gas wells and 27 dry holes.

Oklahoma completions were down eight to 44, with 26 new oilers, 18 dry holes and no gas wells. There was no new development of importance.

Extension of the Bloomer pool of Barton county, Kan., with a 2,750-barrel well, was probably the most important development of the week. That well was among the 19 new oil producers in the state, which showed a decline in activity of nine completions. Six wells were dry and there were no gas wells.

Pennsylvania grade fields had a gain of nine completions, with 26. There were 60 oilers, 18 gas wells and eight dry holes.

Chrysanthemums, which normally bloom in the "short days" of fall can be made to bloom earlier in the year by covering the plants with dark cloth during the early morning and late afternoon to create fall light conditions in mid-summer.

OVER $1,000 TAKEN IN HOUSTON HOLDUP

HOUSTON, Oct. 23. (UP)—A purse-snatcher jostled Mrs. M. G. Berlin, cashier for the First Bank of Houston, on crowded Main street here yesterday and fled with $1,060.40 in cash, negotiable checks and money orders.

Mrs. Berlin told officers she was en route to the bank with the day's receipts in a large purse which she carried under her arm. A man grabbed the purse, ran into a nearby department store and lost himself in the crowd.

The woman said she could not locate an officer immediately and dashed into the store after the man, but she did not sight him.

Mrs. Berlin said the man was about five feet nine inches tall, weighed about 140 pounds and wore a gray suit and light gray hat with a black band.

The Hawaiian Islands have no snakes.

In this exclusive radio picture, the first taken since she filed suit for divorce from her shipbroker-husband, Mrs. Ernest Simpson, friend of King Edward VIII of England, is shown leaving a fashionable hairdresser's shop on Dover street, London, flustered by the presence of cameramen. She was whisked away by her chauffeur (right), recognized as one who frequently drives for the King. (Associated Press Photo)

FARM DEBT CUT 30 MILLION BY ADJUSTMENT COMMITTEES

AMARILLO, Oct. 23.—In the year ending September 1, the debts of 38,728 farmers throughout the country have been reduced to $30,446,610 through the voluntary farm debt adjustment program sponsored by the resettlement administration, it was announced today by Paul V. Maris, acting director of the rural rehabilitation division.

As a result of this activity, $2,181,867 in delinquent taxes has been paid to local governments.

Prior to adjustments these 38,728 farmers owed $118,940,410; after adjustment, $88,498,800. Their burden of debt was reduced 25 per cent.

The average debt reduction was $780, and the average farmer's indebtedness following adjustment was $2,285.

Fifty-one per cent of all cases under consideration were adjusted. At the end of the period 24,810 cases were pending.

"All of these cases were adjusted voluntarily by the farmers and their creditors," Maris explained. "Farmers burdened by debts presented their cases to their county farm debt adjustment committees. These bodies cooperated by getting debtors and creditors together and assisting them in working out adjustments."

The ability of the farmer to carry his debt load and eventually pay out, on terms equitable to both parties, was the basic consideration in all cases, according to Maris. He emphasized that neither the committees nor the resettlement administration attempted to effect arbitrary adjustments. They only assisted farmers and creditors in an attempt to solve a common problem.

While each case was worked out in accordance with its individual circumstances, debt reductions, extensions, reduced interest rates, and budgeted repayment plans were responsible in general for adjustments made.

"In many cases it has been possible for the farmer to refinance his debt at a reduced interest rate with the original creditor or some other lending agency," Maris said. "In other instances careful budget planning has pointed the way to systematic payment of debts."

"Creditors have benefited as well as debtors and have cooperated willingly to effect settlements under which their prospects for collections are greatly enhanced. Most of the accounts were inherited from pre-depression times and in many cases represented inactive accounts which creditors were glad to revive into active status. There has been comparatively little desire on the part of creditors to foreclose and acquire property which, in many instances, could not be used nor sold to advantage."

"Farmers, on the other hand, are anxious to meet their indebtedness as rapidly as possible."

Bill Cerney, Notre Dame "B" coach, calls the blocks made by the aspirants for the reserve team "stumbling blocks."

Basketball Team Holds Practice

A cage team representing Montgomery-Ward took their first workout of the year in the high school gym Thursday night with 15 boys participating in the practice.

An effort will be made to form a city league.

Taking part in the workout were: Cy Coleman, Willys King, Howell Marshall, George Phillips, Cecil Reid, Richard Ghuson, Frank Howell, Henry Reynolds, Logan Snodgrass, E. M. Conley, Hyle Gray, Henry Riechbourg, P. O. Nance, Milton Everett and Vernon Wadley. The aggregation will practice every Wednesday night.

PWA Marks Funds For New Projects

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (UP)—The Public Works Administration today announced $7,986,551 in outright grants and $1,033,200 in loans to finance 97 construction projects in 34 states.

The announcement closely followed a republican congressional committee charge that PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes is favoring "doubtful" states in distributing his $3,000,000 fund to aid the candidacy of President Roosevelt.

Ickes denied the accusation, pointing out PWA had allotted only $179,859,365 since July 28. If PWA "were playing politics," he said, "we'd be splashing our money all over the lot."

Allotments included: Texas: Gonzales, museum, $24,545 grant.

Dallas-Fort Worth: WQAI, San Antonio, and KRGV, Waco, Kern Tips Will Handle the Day-by-Day, Cy Leland the Color.

HOUSTON, Oct. 23. (UP)—Port Houston earned $389,029.09 during the first nine months of 1936, reflecting the highest upturn in water transportation here within the past four years.

Earnings were reported to the Harris county commissioners court by County Auditor Harry L. Washburn, who said September business was the greatest of any corresponding period since 1932.

The Army-Washington and Lee grid game this fall was the first between the two institutions since 1916.

MAN FACES CHARGE IN FATAL ACCIDENT

LUFKIN, Oct. 23. (UP)—E. W. Lawson, 35, Groveton farmer, surrendered to Sheriff R. A. Pace at Nacogdoches yesterday on an indictment charging him with murder in connection with the death of Flavell Burks, 17, Henderson high school football player killed last Friday night in an automobile collision near Lufkin.

The complaint alleged that Lawson was driving while intoxicated. His truck allegedly struck an automobile in which Burks, four teammates and an assistant coach were returning to Henderson after a football game here.

Lawson was released under $4,000 bond. He said he had been working on a pipeline and surrendered as soon as he learned that officers were seeking him.

JUDGES OF STATE CONVENE IN DALLAS

DALLAS, Oct. 23. (UP)—County Judge Clyde Garrett of Eastland, congressman-nominee, called county judges and commissioners of Texas to order today for their annual convention.

Road building, federal aid, social security, charity work and committee reports were on the program for discussion.

Garrett reported on a trip representatives of the association made to Washington several months ago seeking additional federal aid in building highways and liberalization of WFA rules.

The association inspected voting machines and decided to use them in the election of its officers Saturday morning.

FOOTBALL BROADCASTS

Two Southwest conference football battles will be featured in broadcasts sponsored by the Humble Oil & Refining company on Saturday afternoon. Each game has an important bearing on the championship race; each brings together traditional foes in a colorful spectacle.

So far as the conference race is concerned, the game between Baylor and Texas A. & M., holds the spotlight. The game will be broadcast under the Humble company's sponsorship over stations WACO, Waco; KRID, Dallas; KTRH, Houston, and KTSA, San Antonio. Bill Ware will handle play-by-play, Gene Wyatt the colorful atmosphere of the game. The broadcast begins at 2:30 p. m.

The other game to be broadcast Saturday lacks nothing in interest to thousands of Texans. It is Rice against the University of Texas, and despite the fact that each team has met with a conference defeat, tradition headlines the meeting of these old rivals. It will be broadcast at 2:30 p. m. over stations KPRC, Houston; WFAA-WBAP,

THE NATIONAL ELECTION SITUATION BY STATES

The lineup for the 1936 general election, as it affects governors, senators and presidential electors, is shown in this outline map of the United States. The figure in each state indicates its representation in the electoral college, with the delegations voting for President Roosevelt in 1932 underscored.

of Huntsville, Jesse James of Cameron, I. H. Good of Cooper and Harold Hankamer of El Paso. Speaking for the senate, in addition to Small, were Weaver Moore of Houston, John B. Redditt of Lufkin, Tom Holbrook of Galveston and Tom DeBerry of Bogata. McKinney, chairman of a house committee which inquired into the old age assistance administration, stated plainly after the first session he would "never sign a tax report which did not include deliberalization."

Conferees eliminated senate amendments to tax brokers, billboards and large radio stations. The oil tax was left at 2 3/4 cents per barrel, the figure set by the house and not changed by the senate.

Meanwhile, much interest developed over whether Governor Allred would call another session of the legislature immediately after the end of the current one next Tuesday. To his declaration several days ago that he would not call the legislature back unless revenue to pay pensions was provided, the governor asserted in an interview he saw no reason to have another session to consider deliberalization should the legislature turn down revision of the law.

"New Or Never" "If deliberalization is not passed at this session," he said, "I do not know that it would be passed at another." He indicated, nevertheless, that a number of matters needed pressing attention, including local bills of interest to many sections of the state and enabling acts to make effective constitutional amendments approved by the people last year.

regained consciousness. The vacancy left in the senate by his death will be filled by appointment by Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald, the appointee to serve until the new elective term starts in January.

Speculation in the Michigan capital about Wilber M. Brucker, former governor who defeated Couzens in the primary; former Governor Alex J. Groesbeck who first appointed Couzens to the senate; former Governor Fred Green, or some member of the Couzens' family.

Couzens' early association in Ford's motor enterprise, which prospered under what an associate described as Couzens' "hard-headed financial management," laid the basis for his personal fortune. He was one of the wealthiest men in the United States senate.

He disagreed with Ford over politics in 1915, and resigned, later selling his interest in the company to Henry and Edsel Ford for nearly $30,000,000.

KING SUMMONS PRIVY COUNCIL

LONDON, Oct. 23. (AP)—King Edward tonight called a meeting for Oct. 27 of his privy council — to whom he would make formal announcement if ever he decided to marry.

European problems arising from the civil war were believed scheduled for discussion, but speculation also was aroused by the divorce action of Mrs. Ernest Simpson, American born friend of the King, against her husband.

Mrs. Simpson's case against her husband will be heard at the assizes in Ipswich which will be opened tomorrow. Interest there centered chiefly on a murder trial, a rarity in that section—the Simpson case was scarcely noticed locally.

Authoritative sources said the forthcoming privy council meeting would be a routine session. It is to the council Edward would announce—if he decides to forsake bachelorhood—that his majesty has given his "consent" to royal nuptials. In this connection it was recalled Edward already has had parliament make provisions for payment of $40,000 annually for his queen—if and when he marries.

Tahoka Negro Dies In Chair

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 23. (AP)—Antonio Carrasco, a killer from Texas' Big Bend country, and Elmo Banks, a Tahoka negro, were executed in quick order here early today.

The first to die was Carrasco. Eight minutes after guards lifted his lifeless body from the electric chair, Banks was ushered into the execution chamber and speedily put to death. The double execution required but 15 minutes.

Before he died Carrasco denied in Spanish that he was guilty. Banks had nothing to say before he was strangled in the chair.

Carrasco was convicted of killing Mr. and Mrs. Riley Smith in their home in famed Big Bend country. His trial was a sensation in the border country.

The negro Banks drew the death penalty for the slaying of Deputy Sheriff F. E. Redwine of Tahoka.

ENGLAND PLANS TO BUY U. S. AIRPLANES

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Great Britain, a reliable source said today, plans to purchase American aircraft to supplement the royal air force planes because domestic production has been unable to keep up with Britain's rearmament program.

Despite denials by the air ministry, it was reliably reported those favoring American purchases were winning out against reported wrangling between home manufacturers and those in the ministry wishing to buy in Britain.

One unconfirmed report said 300 planes already had been ordered in the United States.

Measure Signed To Provide Pensions For Coming Month

AUSTIN, Oct. 23. (UP)—Money for November old age pensions was provided today when Gov. James V. Allred signed the bill transferring approximately $500,000 from a permanent pension reserve to the available fund.

Liquor taxes that have accrued since October will also be available and the combined amount can be matched with federal funds.

Altogether it is expected the total available will be sufficient to meet November pension rolls. A bill to pay interest on pension warrants still remained on the senate table. If it is passed and the tax bill also passes, Governor Allred hoped bankers would advance money on the interest-bearing warrants until tax receipts begin.

GEO. GENTRY NAMED FRATERNITY CHIEF

ABILENE, Oct. 23.—District 9 of Phi Delta Kappa, national educational fraternity, named officers for the new year at the initial meeting Thursday night at the Hilton hotel.

George H. Gentry, principal of the Big Spring school system, was chosen president, to succeed Dean Walter H. Adams of Abilene Christian college. Hoyt Ford, Hardin-Simmons instructor, was reelected secretary.

Dean R. G. Boger of McMurry college was the principal speaker talking on "Place of Music in a Liberal Arts College." Plans were discussed for the year's program and for publication of a new bulletin in February. The bulletin will be part of a statewide series.

Next session will be held December 10, the place to be announced later.

LIBERTY LEAGUERS OUTLAY IS $461,851

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Total receipts of $419,282 and expenditures of $461,851 since January 1 were reported today to the clerk of the house by national headquarters of the American Liberty League. The report covered transactions to October 19.

The report showed loans and contributions totaling $30,704 in amounts over $100 between September 1 and October 19. Expenditures during this time were $37,515.

DIONNES APPEAR AS NEW PROFIT SOURCE

CALLANDER, Ont., Oct. 23. (AP)—Mrs. Dionne's quintuplets appeared today as a new source of profit to American capital.

A Toronto real estate firm announced that acting for an American and Canadian syndicate, it had taken options on hotels, lakes and land hereabout with a view to providing resort accommodation for the tens of thousands who come here during the summer to see the babies.

In their less than two and a half years of life, the quintuplets have acquired more than a half million dollars as cinema stars and as endorsers of products used in their care and upbringing. Most of this fortune came in American dollars.

The firm of Robins Limited, Toronto, said details of the proposed development have not been worked out, nor have the names of the members of the syndicate been made public.

And not the least of the beneficiaries of the unprecedented multiple birth on May 23, 1934, has been Papa Oliva Dionne himself. Deprived, with the babies' mother, of the quintuplets, he made a tidy sum through a brief "personal appearance" tour, and more recently has taken in as much as $100 a day, it is said, by giving his autograph to tourists at 25 cents an autograph.

DEMOS' ADVERTISING FUND IS QUESTIONED BY THE GOP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (UP)—The senate campaign expenditures committee today called on the democratic national committee to explain the nature of funds received from advertisers for advertising or printing in the democratic national convention program.

The committee said the inquiry was intended to determine whether money paid for advertising in the bulky program represented true advertising value or whether it represented in part political contributions.

Republican campaign spokesmen have charged pressure was placed on advertisers to purchase space in the democratic program. They contended the advertising represented forced political contributions.

The committee said it was acting upon a complaint made by the republican national committee this week which charged formally that many corporations had purchased advertising and alleged the payments were really "contributions in the guise of advertising."

The republican complaint, which was sworn to, charged the payments violated the corrupt practices act which prohibits any corporation contributing to election funds.

"Records Open" NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (UP)—Forbes Morgan, treasurer of the democratic national committee, said today the financial records of the committee were open to the senate campaign investigating committee. Informed that the senate committee had asked the democratic organization to explain the nature of funds paid for advertising in the democratic national convention program, Morgan said:

"I'll be very glad to answer any questions asked by the senate committee in connection with the convention program or in connection with any other fiscal matter concerning the democratic committee."

He denied republican charges that the democratic committee forced contributions in the guise of payments for advertising space in the convention book.

"We couldn't force excessive contributions from the Ford Motor company and other firms who took advertising space strictly on business merits," Morgan added.

FORMER ASSOCIATE OF MAHAN ARRESTED WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, announced today the arrest of Edward Fliss, described as a former associate of William Dainard, alias William Mahan, now serving a life term for the kidnaping of nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser.

Hoover said Fliss was wanted for questioning in connection with location of part of the Weyerhaeuser ransom money.

ers, it was reported, had decided to move the seat of their capital to Barcelona where President Manuel Azana and three high cabinet officials already have set up offices.

With this development government leaders said, the Madrid forces would be able to make the civil war drag on indefinitely, no matter what the fate of Madrid, in the hope sympathetic nations such as Russia might eventually offer concrete military aid before the Socialists' cause was irretrievably lost.

Northwest of Madrid, fascist guns pounded scattered government resistance in El Escorial sector.

Within Madrid, leaders installed a new supreme military chief and rushed a civilian reserve army of 100,000 men to the front.

Gen. Jose Asensio was relieved of command of government forces in the Madrid area, and the 60-year-old Gen. Sebastian Pozas was put in his place.

Pozas, the war ministry announced, was a tactical expert with long experience in military campaigns, and the Madrid government felt he might be able to direct their forces in a successful attempt to halt the fascist Madrid attack.

Centennial Next Year Is Rumored

DALLAS, Oct. 23. (AP)—The Times-Herald said today Texas' $25,000,000 central Centennial exposition here would be repeated next year if several large exhibitors were willing to carry on.

The paper said the conclusion was reached at a closed meeting of exposition directors who hope to arrive at a definite decision by Oct. 31, when the option for use of the Texas State Fair grounds next year will expire.

Directors refused to be quoted, the paper said, but information from reliable sources said the exposition had been of such help to Dallas business men much pressure was being brought for its continuance.

The Herald said directors decided they must have definite assurance of continued participation by the large automobile exhibitors and others.

Preserves

The time of year and the weather is here for preserves, and, unfortunately, very few of us have had the fruit or the opportunity to do our preserving for the winter. With this fact in mind we have ordered your preserves for you, and were fortunate enough to buy them cheap enough that we can sell them to you cheaper than you would have been able to preserve them yourself. We have to offer you now the BLACK & GOLD brand, in Apricot, Peach, and Plum, as follows:

5-lb. cans, 65c. 2-lb. cans, 35c.

Although we bought enough for an ordinary winter supply for you, our advice is to buy yours now, because they surely will not last too long, with the demand there is for them now.

1c Sale

There is always something new "under the sun," and we have one for you today. It is the new concentrates Super Soda, made especially for clothes, and we can unhesitatingly recommend this product to you in addition to making you a price of 20c (the regular one) for one box, and then give you an additional box for 1c; a total of 21c for 2. Then for your other kinds of washing take along six bars of Crystal White soap for 25c.

THE TEXAS Aggie-Baylor Bear game Saturday holds the interest of Southwest football fans. Slippery Lloyd Russell carries the hopes of the Bears. The slippery-hipped and marcury-footed lad from Oak Cliff has already enjoyed two years of stardom on Southwest gridiron and now his stellar performance is waiving for him an all-conference halfback position. Young Russell is the big gun of the Baylor Bear offensive and to him falls the lot of leading the Golden Bruins Saturday against the fast-stepping Aggies.

DICK TODD, sensational sophomore is the dynamite back of the Aggie eleven.

THE SCORE: Baylor University 485, Texas Christian University, 482. No, that's not a prediction as to the outcome of next Saturday's football game between the two schools. It's the all-time scoring record for the 42 times that Bear and Frog have met on the gridiron.

The victories and losses for the two clubs over the 35 years covered by their competition, are as evenly matched as the scores.

T. C. U. and Baylor have been struggling for football supremacy since 1901, when the two schools were neighbors in Waco. Of the 42 contests played during these years, Baylor has won 19, T. C. U. 18, and five have been ties.

In the early days of the competition, one game a year was not enough. The two teams met twice in the seasons of 1901, 1902 and 1910. And three games were played in 1904, 1905, 1907, 1908 and 1909.

In modern times—since T. C. U. was admitted to the Southwest conference in 1923—the Frogs hold the upper hand.

OBIE BRISTOW, who wrote this department recently from Rochester, Minn., suggesting a place where Bloody Cross of San Angelo might get a brain transfusion, was stopped with this bit from Cross' typewriter:

"As I understand it, Mr. Bristow beseeched a diagnosis and the transfusion specialists after an inspection of his concrete cranium, despairingly proclaimed his case hopeless.

"A 'marcy death' advocate suggested they cut off Mr. Bristow's head and bury it.

"But the farmers' association protested there are too many rocks in the Minnesota soil now."

P. E. SHOTWELL, the former Breckenridge mentor, is at Longview this year, and has a flock of lettermen and a few "baby giants" out for his team. With a squad

WILSON TO START IN BACKFIELD

With nine players on the injury list, Steer coaches were forced to make several changes this week for the conference test tonight with the Ranger Bulldogs. The kick-off at Steer stadium is slated for 8 p. m. School officials said the game would be played regardless of weather.

Jack Wilson, one of the best guards in the district last season, will start in the secondary against the Bulldogs. The shift was made because of injuries to Settles and Gibson, Settles received a broken arm in the Breckenridge battle last Friday night and Gibson was injured in practice this week.

Wilson's guard slot will be filled by Phillips.

Madison will be in the game at quarterback and coaches are anxious to see him go. He has had his right arm in a cast for three weeks but will play tonight without the cast.

Workouts this week were light, but coaches spent some time on pass plays and defensive drills. Burris, who is rapidly developing into a nifty receiver, will be at a wing position to snag passes.

Steers remained indoors yesterday because of the cold and mist.

High School Football. George Gentry announced that spectators would be permitted to drive their cars inside the park.

The Ranger Bulldogs hold the cellar position in the Oil Belt. They have not won a game this season and have scored only two touchdowns.

Recruit Scores

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 23 (AP)—C. Walter (Ole) Nelson of Chicago, 6-foot-3 1/2 inch sophomore on the Michigan State eleven, began playing football only five months ago, but is already the talk of the campus. Line Coach Tom King saw Nelson playing freshman basketball. Scoring 208, Nelson is fast for his size. In his first game he scored a touchdown on an end-around play, outrunning the Wayne university secondary.

Those Kickin' Smiths!

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—There are four Smiths playing football in the national professional league—and each is a field goal kicker. After the 1936 grid season was more than two weeks old, Ernie Smith of Green Bay had two field goals to his credit, Riley Smith and Ed Smith of Boston each had one, and Bill Smith, Cardinals, also had obtained a three-pointer.

DICK TODD IS AGGIE SPEEDSTER

By the Associated Press
Roosting in a spot unfamiliar to them for many years, the top of the Southwest conference grid heap, the Texas Aggies left at noon today for Waco for their game with the conference "dark horses," the Baylor Bears. The Aggies have a light workout scheduled in Waco this afternoon.

The heavy wins of their victory over Texas Christian, their first over the Frogs since 1924, maintained its effects to some extent as late as mid-week but cooled considerably after the players saw motion pictures of the game.

The game will be a homecoming for the Bear exes, but Aggie-Bruin relationships of the past few years have favored the visiting team on homecoming days.

Feature game of the week in Southwest conference circles, the tilt will bring together two star backfield performers for the first time in their careers, Lloyd Russell, Baylor's crooning senior quarterback, and Dick Todd, the Aggie's sophomore flash. Both qualify under the "triple threat" clause, and each personally conducted his team to victory the past week-end.

In the Baylor camp Coach Homer Jennings put his charges through a last scrimmage session yesterday. All week the Bruins have drilled until dark working on an effective method to stop the touted running attack of Coach Homer Norton's team. Continued defensive drills throughout each practice have given the Bruins confidence that they can stop the sweeping runs of the Cadets.

Larry Kelley Guides Yale To Victories

Bulldog Captain One Of The Smart Men In Football
By TOM PAPROCKI (Associated Press Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Yale football team reflects the personality of its irrepressible captain, Larry Kelley, judging from the manner in which the Bulldog gridder outsmarted Cornell, Pennsylvania and Navy to run up three victories in their first three starts. The boys in blue took advantage of the inexperienced Cornell players and dug deep into their bag of tricks to win. Against a potentially powerful Pennsylvania eleven, Yale looked like a truly smart team, outwitting the Quakers at every turn.

There have been some attempts to account for Penn's failure to take advantage of its several scoring chances with the explanation that the Red and Blue giants failed because they were over-anxious. Perhaps, but more than likely, it was simply because Larry Kelley and company were smart enough to make the Quakers play right into their hands.

Yale's victory over Navy was scored in a typical Kelley manner. Just when it appeared that the Middies were destined to send Yale down to defeat, Kelley popped up with a play, intentional or otherwise, that changed the entire complexion of the contest.

Navy was leading the Eli eleven 7-6 late in the third period. Tony Mott of Yale got off a booming punt which Sneed Schmidt, Navy back, fumbled on his own 25-yard line. Schmidt and Bob Carey, Eli end, were rolling around trying to get their fingers on the bounding ball when along came Kelley to kick the oval out of their reach and toward the Navy goal line. The officials must have been convinced that Kelley's act was accidental or they would have ruled it a foul. It is anything but "cricket" to kick intentionally a loose ball.

Gilbert Seeks All-America Grid Honors

Alabama Poly Star Plays Football's Toughest Position—Center
AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 22 (AP)—Walter Gilbert, Alabama Poly's nominee for all-America honors, believes the position he plays is football's toughest—center.

"The man in the middle is the stepchild of the football team," observes the Auburn captain. "He's always getting the blame, whether it's for fumbles by backs or collapse of the line on charges near the goal."

Gilbert believes a center, above all things, should be cool-headed under fire.

Welching 200 and standing 6 feet 1 inch, Gilbert has starred in football at Auburn since his sophomore year. He now is a senior.

Fast, brassy afield and an accurate snapper-back, he won all-Southeastern conference honors and all-America mention last season.

"As far as Auburn is concerned," Meagher declares, "Gilbert is this year's all-America center."

The good-looking athlete says he has no Rose Bowl aspirations for the team he captains and believes the experts were unfair in touting the Tigers so highly before the season got under way.

Gilbert is 20 and prepped at Darlington school in Rome, Ga. His home is at Fairfield, Ala.

Chicago Loses Fine Prospect

Ned Bartlett, Speedy Halfback, Advised Never To Play Again

CHICAGO, Oct. 23 (AP)—The University of Chicago football fortunes, at a low ebb for more than a decade, have suffered another blow in the loss for the season of Ned Bartlett, speedy halfback from Glendale, Calif., who suffered a brain concussion in Vanderbilt's 37-0 rout of the Maroons.

Bartlett, who has suffered similar head injuries in the past few years, was advised never to play again and his loss robs Coach Shaughnessy of the player about whom the Maroon offensive hopes for the season had been built.

Not since the days of Northwestern's "Hard-Luck Hank" Bruder has injury so wrecked the hopes of a potentially great athlete. Starting as a sophomore

Bierman's Glad, Now
MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 23 (AP)—Things usually turn out for the best—or Bernie Bierman, Minnesota grid coach, should think so. Julius Alfonse was ineligible last season, which would have been his last year to play. So things looked dark for the Gophers. But the Gophers went through the 1935 season unbeaten, anyway. Now Halfback Alfonse is back—and is one of the most important members of the 1936 Gopher machine.

COACH TOM Dennis of Fort Arthur furnishes a football question mark this week-end. Fort Arthur plays Amarillo today in Fort Arthur in an intersectional clash that bids fair to be a whale of a scrap. One can draw a conclusion of what Fort Arthur has to offer an obstacle to Hillboro's parade into the state finals after this game is over.

THIN GOLF yarn by Jess Rodgers of Midland will be of interest to many Big Spring golfers. "The Midland Invitation Golf Tournament Oct. 31st and Nov. 1st calls for an introduction to the Midland top flight golfers. "E. S. Forgeron, perhaps the top golfer in town, has won many trophies with his long high drives, his straight iron shots and careful approaches. "Forgeron" as he is known, is a temperamental golfer. When he is "hot" they all duck playing the big Frenchman, he is almost unbeatable, when he is missing putts, they all duck him too, for a different reason.

"Forgeron" played on the Midland golf team in the Sand Belt league, and met all the top golfers in the vicinity. "Forgeron" played in either No. 1 or No. 2 position on said team and was seldom defeated in match play.

"In the recent tournament at Big Spring, Eddie Morgan, the winner of the tournament, and a probable entrant in the Midland tournament, made a sensational "Dick" Merrill finish to nose out "Forgeron" only after sinking twenty-foot putts and recoveries, and playing many extra holes, he finally won the match on the 20th hole of a scheduled 18-hole match, and this in the semi-finals.

"Last season Forgeron won the first flight in the West Texas tournament in San Angelo, and in every meet he is way up toward the top. The man for the galaxy of stars to beat in Midland the last of this month is Forgeron on his home course. He knows the course, he is able to let fly with his long drives, and his iron is an asset for hitting the greens from any distance less than 200 yards.

"Next to the writer, and not always the way the play is done in tournaments, but a decidedly interesting method of elimination, the Midland tournament will be run off in groups of four foursomes, i. e., there will be 16 men to the flight, or four foursomes.

"The four top winners of the four foursomes will then form a foursome, the winner of this selected group will be crowned champion. In this manner, there is never any doubt as to how the other semi-finalists are doing, they are all in a single group. Match play temperament will be the feature of this match. Playing a single opponent calls for one job, but playing three opponents, any one of which may get "hot" and turn the course down at any moment until elimination is a feature well worth the metal of any golfer's nerve. There will be as many flights, as the multiple of 16 will go into the number of players entered in the tournament. The championship flight will be composed of the top 16 scores of the 16 best qualifying round scores. The first flight will be composed of the next 16 top scores and so on through the route until the fifth or sixth flight.

The fun of a golf tournament is not the championship flight, the championship flight is strictly business, and a battle of experts, the fun is in the lower brackets, the third, fourth and fifth fighters. Man situations arise, and the talk of the "dub" is the color of tournaments. For instance in Big Spring, two "B" shooters made a run for shelter when it started raining; someone asked how they stood when halted by the rain, with great glee came the answer, "He had me four down at the turn, but I shot a string of 11's at him and he withdrew, we are all square on the 17th."

"Another hot golfer is Don Sivals, able captain and one of the hardest match players to beat in town. Then comes Paul Oles, Pat Riley and Cap Lyman, also Frank Johnson, Bill Simpson and literally hundreds of others who can go out and shoot this Midland course in the low 80's. No one knows who will be on their game the week of the big tournament. Last season when Midland was playing Iran for the play-off and trophy in the "Kat-Klaw" league, Bill Simpson turned in a sub-par round, and headed the list for the day.

"Pat Riley and Paul Oles probably played the most matches and won the most matches during the past "Sand Belt" season, they both were to be commended for always being on hand, and off-hand I do not recall exactly, but I think neither lost more than one match.

"There are some weathered old veterans, such as Shorty Wells and Cap Lyman. Shorty had won his share of tournaments down in the Fort Stockton area, but has let his game get rusty. Cap Lyman playing No. 1 or 2 on the Midland team came here from Breckenridge where he is a veteran of tournaments dating back to the dim past. Cap met his men and whenever defeated, it was by a stroke, and he must be counted in until defeated in this coming week. Frank Johnson has been on the team for quite a while and has won his many matches in the top flight. Frank can straighten out his game and play any entrant toe to toe, and he is one of the Midland entry top chances to win the local meet.

"Things have not gotten to such a place where we can say exactly who will compete, but the old faithful stand-bys of the vicinity of Midland will probably be our hand. We expect at least a dozen or more of the Big Spring players, Ohio Hillow, the big noise of that town, has been under consideration for the auctioneer at the Calcutta, if he can be gotten, no better auctioneer has been seen by the writer. Shirley Robbins, Eddie Morgan and Jones, the runner-up to Eddie Morgan in the recent Labor Day tournament in Big Spring, and many others are expected to head the delegation from that city. "Morgan Neal and his Odessa golfers will be on hand, and Poe Woodard, the long shooter from Stanton will likely have his gang. The Lamess, Colorado City and other teams that competed in the Sand Belt league here in Midland can send threats that will make the winner shoot sub par golf."

throwing end of frequent passes, the Baylor outfit has become a dangerous aerial unit. It clicked to perfection in the final quarter against the Texans and the Erwin Bears will rely heavily on aerial bombardments. Cotton Kimbriel, Carl Brasell, Lloyd Russell and Julie Gernand have all proven to be capable receivers.

Probable lineups:
Aggies—Bill Stages, Fort Worth; Roy Young, Fort Arthur, It; Joe Routh, Chapel Hill, It; Charlie DeWare, Ebenham, c; Walter Phyllan, Taylor, rg; John Whitfield, Itasca, rt; Johnny Morrow, Wortham, qb; Dick Vitak, Granger, qb; Dick Todd, Crowell, It; Jim Shockley, Gilmer, rb; Les Cummings, Bryan, fb.

Baylor—Ken Clark, It; Hervey Blue, It; Frank Housner, It; John Reynolds, c; Emmett Kriel, rg; Owen Parry, rt; Jim Kimbriel, re; "Bubba" Gernand, qb; Lloyd Russell, It; Bob Masters, rb; Carl Brasell, fb.

The TCU Horned Frogs entertain the Mississippi State Bulldogs tomorrow. Mississippi State seems to have the better running game, while TCU rates as the favorite in the air attack. The two lines appear to be of about even strength, with a slight weight advantage for the visitors.

Injuries will handicap TCU somewhat. Sub-Capt. Drew Ellis, 220-pound right tackle, will not be in shape. Slinger Sam Baugh is taking the rest cure this week and whether or not he will be able to go Saturday is still uncertain. Still marked by crutches, the University of Arkansas Hogs left today for Shreveport, La. They play LSU tomorrow.

Having wound up a week of hard practice, Coach Jack Chevigny announced his Longhorn team in good condition for the game with Rice Saturday. Coach Jimmy Kitta indicated the Owls would take to the air.

more, Bartlett, extremely fast and shifty, stamped himself as one of the best open-field runners at Chicago in several seasons.

Against Michigan he scored two touchdowns within six minutes and otherwise distinguished himself with hard, accurate tackles and a demonstration he already had acquired the art of blocking. But he never again duplicated this performance. Soon after the Michigan battle he suffered a badly wrenched knee and was of little use for the remainder of the season.

In his junior year he sprained an ankle several times before putting himself permanently on the unavailable list by cracking two ribs during one of his rare game appearances.

Returning to school this fall, he reported for practice in fine physical shape, but in a pre-season scrimmage he injured his hip. Against Lawrence college in the Maroon opener, however, he showed to advantage, breaking away for a 41-yard touchdown sprint, scoring another touchdown on a shorter dash and passing for good yardage all afternoon.

The opening minutes of the game, he collided with a teammate in spilling a Commodore. He was in a hospital for several days before being released to learn that further football might prove serious.

Larry Kelley

Kelley picked up the rolling ball three yards from the enemy goal line and carried it over. No score was allowed, but the ball was given to Yale on the 3-yard marker. In two plays Yale was over the line and enjoying the margin which was to prove sufficient for victory.

Once again Yale walked off with the long end of the score while the foe wondered how and why it was beaten.

One of the tricks the Yale eleven used in trouncing the inexperienced Cornell eleven was the ancient Status of Liberty play. The incident was discussed in a recent fanning bee and caused "Moon" Duote, president of the Southern Football Officials' association and Ross Rowl official in 1935, to recall the occasion when a version of the Status of Liberty play ended Tennessee to score over Louisiana State university. Duote was one of the greatest backs under Mike Donahue at Auburn. He won fame by kicking a field goal from the 40-yard mark off a head-gear, an act which caused the Southern conference to bar the use of head-gears for kicks. A week later Duote showed he really did not need the head-gear by booting a field goal from the 50-yard line.

Too Much for Tigers
"The most spectacular play I ever saw on the gridiron enabled Tennessee to beat L. S. U. by one touchdown at the close of the 1935 season," Duote said.

"With the score tied and about one minute left to play, Tennessee pulled a fake kick from a modified Status of Liberty, from which a long pass developed. This special formation had been purposely shown the L. S. U. team several times during the game, only with the side back taking the ball on an end run to his left. Each time Tennessee was thrown for a loss.

"At the most opportune time, Tennessee faked an end run, Vaughn, the Volunteer passer, instead of giving the ball to the man faking the end run, held the ball behind his back until the whole L. S. U. team had passed him in pursuit of the side back who had cleverly faked the end run, and then nonchalantly made a long pass to Rose, the Tennessee end who had pulled up in the right corner of the end zone.

"Not a single Louisiana player was within 15 yards of Rose when he caught the ball."

Pony-Abilene

Bobcat secondary is considered better balanced. Brownwood features James Thomason, hard-driving fullback, and the Bobcat attack is built around Harry Hayes, one of the best all-around high school half-backs in West Texas.

BEAST GAME
The Breckenridge Buckaroos, who rank among the first ten teams in the state schoolboy grid race, will have a fairly easy test tonight with the Eastland Mavericks, one of the second division teams in the Oil Belt race.

There are about 35,000 foxes in Alaska fox ranches.

Hometown Blow-Off Awaits 'Yankee-Italo Triumvirate'

Tony Lazzeri

By SAM JACKSON
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Lazzeris, the Crossettis, the Di Maggios and their compatriots are ready for the big blow-off. It will be staged in a locale where blow-offs are rather common—San Francisco's Italian quarter.

The fact that all three helped drive the Yankees to the American league pennant and world championship of 1936 has not hurt any. Now the Yankees' Italian triumvirate is going to be welcomed home in royal style.

Frank Crossett

Di Maggio already has been met at the ferry by Mayor Angelo Rossi—himself of Italian extraction—and quiet, self-effacing Lazzeri and his wife have reopened their pleasant cottage down the peninsula.

Parents invited
The celebration, tentatively slated for early November, awaits the return home.

But it took the ballyhoo and subsequent performance of young Joe Di Maggio in his first year with the New York Yankees to raise local baseball consciousness to fever pitch.

Owing to the fact he has been up in the big time so long that his efforts are taken as a matter of course to the additional fact that he made his early baseball reputation in Salt Lake City, Lazzeri has perhaps less of a personal following in his home town than the other two. His father is a trucker.

Joe Di Maggio

Crossett, unmarried like Di Maggio, lives with his parents in the smart Marina district overlooking the Golden Gate. He played semi-pro ball around San Francisco several years.

Although North Beach retains its strong Latin personality—supporting two Italian-language daily newspapers, among other things—virtually every resident, like Lazzeri, Crossett and Di Maggio, is a good American citizen.

Parents of all three will share in the festivities.

On his arrival home Joe denied he was engaged to a New York girl.

Crossett's Single, Too
Lazzeri's parents live across the city from the principal Italian colony, but in and near "Butcher town" there are numerous fellow countrymen and this lesser colony has its own athletic club and traditions.

Joe Louis Is Mike Jacobs' 'Ace In Hole'

Mike Qualifies As Master Fight Promoter; Learned From Rickard

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—There is more than a little bit of Tex Rickard in Promoter Mike Jacobs. That's natural enough, for Mike was associated with the late genius of fight promotion, and learned a flock of the master's tricks. Rickard always insisted that heavyweights were the only fighters really worth promoting. Mike does not disagree with Rickard's reasoning entirely, but he does think there is no reason to snub a smaller fighter who has what it takes to draw customers through the turnstiles.

Joe Louis is Old Mike's ace in the hole, but at the same time the wily promoter feels that he can devote a little of his time and energy toward giving the fight followers a chance to see a fellow like Harry Balsamo in action. Particularly because the Bronx middleweight has suddenly grabbed the pugilistic spotlight with a terrific punch. The old wallop still appeals to the fans, and since Balsamo promises to be one of the great thumpers of modern times, if not of all time, Jacobs is definitely interested.

A few months ago, when Balsamo was fighting around the small clubs in New York City, Jacobs took the trouble to watch him in action. He saw enough to convince him that Balsamo had crowd appeal and signed him up for several appearances in his Hippodrome.

Balsamo's career is remarkably like Louis' had been up to the Schmeling debacle. Harry, like Shufflin' Joe, had compiled a brilliant record in the amateurs. A thunderous puncher, he ran off an amazing string of knockout triumphs.

His professional exploits to date also have been featured by stunning punching performances. In one year of campaigning in the money ranks, Harry has accounted for 17 knockouts in 20 starts, and at the moment is as much of a sensation in the middleweight ranks as was Louis during his weight activity.

Louis' amazing rush was halted by Max Schmeling—a German. Balsamo is the soul of confidence. He has great faith in his ability and will say, "I guess I can take care of almost anybody in my class."

"I think I'm a natural fighter," he declares, and intends carrying on in the game. "One upset would not discourage me because many great fighters of the past were beaten at some time or other and survived to go on to the top."

That was about nine years ago. Harry went to the Y. M. C. A. where Bill Thompson started to show him a few things about the art of boxing. Harry proved an apt student, and after two years—in 1929—launched his amateur career. He slugged along as an amateur until 1933. He engaged in something like 50 bouts and won Metropolitan, State and Golden Gloves championships in the middleweight division. Only three defeats were charged against Balsamo as an amateur.

He went to work in a card factory after graduating from public school but found the work too tight for his liking, so he got a job with a railroad, loading scrap iron. Later he went to work as a subway brakeman, a job he held until he got a leave of absence to try his hand at the ring game.

That tough work left him with a muscular, well-formed body. Harry is a model for a sculptor. Standing 5 feet 10 1/2 inches he carries his 160 pounds gracefully. He is as tough as the scrap iron he used to handle. There is not a soft tissue in his body. His knuckles run in a straight line, indicating that he is unlikely to have much trouble with his maulers despite the terrific punch he packs. His boxing has improved with every start, until now he is regarded not only as a great hitter but also as one of the cleverest boxers in his division.

Canine Angler
CHICKASHA, Okla., (AP)—Sport, a registered English pointer, is an angling sensation here. Sport's owner, George Beeler, Jr., saw a two-pound fish swimming around in shallow water. Beeler tells the story: He pointed to the fish. The dog waded in, slapped at it, and dived under. He came up with the fish flapping between his jaws. At least, Beeler says so.

Santa Anita Handicap On Feb. 27 May Have 25 Starters

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23 (UP)—A purse exceeding $100,000 is expected to go to the owner of the winning horse in this season's running of the world's richest stake—the Santa Anita Handicap, which features the annual meeting at this swank track in the Los Angeles suburbs.

A mark of 125 nominations and 25 starters has been set by track officials for the third running of the handicap on February 27, 1937, which would make a gross value of $137,000 and leave the winning owner $102,000.

For the first running of the handicap in 1934 there were 70 nominations and 20 starters at fees of $100 and $1000 each, respectively, for a gross value of $127,000. Last year 82 nominations and 15 starters totaled $123,000.

Estimate for this year's race is made by Charles H. Strub, general manager of the Los Angeles Turf club, operator of the racing plant, who believes his forecast is conservative, inasmuch as nominations do not close until December 1, 1936, with no stand-out horses this season.

There is also an extra inducement of a $10,000 prize for the trainer of the winning horse. In the Santa Anita Derby Feb. 22, 1937, there is a good prospect of the winning owner getting $50,000.

Daily Purses Highest
Daily purses are the largest ever offered by a racing association for a single meeting. On weekdays there will be five races at $1,000, two at $1,200, and one at $1,500. Saturday and holiday programs consist of five races at $1,000, two at $1,200 and one at $3,500 or more.

The 63-day racing season opens Christmas Day. First official nomination for the Santa Anita Handicap came from England. Raoul Walsh, motion picture director, called the name of Thankerton, which ran third in this year's English Derby.

The Arkansas Razorbacks have the best offensive record for the season, having rolled up 87 points in four games. S. M. U. boasts the best defensive, having a total of 7 points chalked up at last Thursday with which Fordham beat the Mustangs.

Bernie Bierman has never lost a game to a grid team he himself has coached, either at Tulane or Minnesota.

freshman squad has two. Fuller Rogers of Mar is the brother of Glynis "Bull" Rogers, present varsity guard. Wilbur Taylor of Austin, brother of Bud Taylor, who won all-conference honors as a guard with the Frogs a few seasons back, is out for the same position with this year's pollwags.

The little brothers of former Frogs varsity men continue to show up around T. C. U. This year's

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW FARBON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

EN ROUTE—The base of every presidential candidate is local politics. It was a local political feud in California that cost Charles Evans Hughes the presidency in 1916. It is local political feuds which have caused Roosevelt to do some fancy light-ropes walking in Wisconsin and Indiana.

And local feuds also are giving headaches to Governor Landon.

His day in Ohio was a graphic illustration of the campaign difficulties a national candidate must face—and the awkward honors he can pull if his advisers don't tip him off in advance. The first episode occurred in Cincinnati.

Taft And Politicians

This was the first stop of the day, and Landon began his electioneering by addressing a breakfast rally for local party workers. Sitting next to the governor was young Charles Taft, son of the late chief justice and ex-president, active in Cincinnati reform politics.

Landon regards young Taft very highly, and in the course of his remarks took some sharp raps at machine politics and politicians, paying glowing tributes to Taft as the type of leader opposed to machine politics, the type which the republican party needs and wants.

Landon's public praise of Taft was a generous and kindly act—but it was the last thing he should have done at this particular meeting.

For sitting all around him were machine politicians. The entire Cincinnati republican organization is a machine outfit. It is the spearhead of the fight against the city's famous "charter" government, in which young Taft is an active leader. Taft is as much persona non grata to the local GOP as Roosevelt is to the DuPonts.

Landon's words so enraged the Cincinnati politicians that they stormed out of the dining room sputtering with indignation. He discovered his inexperience—but too late.

Cleveland Ship

Twelve hours later, at the close of his foray in Ohio, Landon unwittingly pulled another, and more serious, bull.

One of the big features of his address in Cleveland was an attack upon the new deal's administration of relief. Landon charged that it was wasteful, inefficient and politically ridden. This was good strategy nationally, but in Ohio is was GOP poison.

The big republican issue against democratic Governor Martin Davey is his bungling—if not worse—of relief handling. So bad did the situation become that the federal government stepped in, took relief out of Davey's hands and set up its own organization—in which it can't be said that a number of big shot republican office-holders, notably the mayor of Cleveland.

Not realizing these facts, Landon denounced federal relief and proposed to give it back to the states. It was like biting the hand that feeds you.

State republican leaders were as sore as bolts. Attorney General John W. Bricker, GOP candidate for governor, told friends privately that for the remainder of the campaign he was going to tend to his own knitting—and the national ticket could go hang.

Inquisitive

Some of the newsmen on Governor Landon's train were congregated in one of the compartments discussing Landon's chances of carrying Wisconsin. Remarkable one of the reporters.

"Well, one thing is sure. He certainly made a lot of friends in Wisconsin."

"Who did?" asked a voice from the doorway.

The correspondents looked up to find Landon watching them, smiling.

"What are the chances of joining the party?" he asked. A place was made for him, he borred a cigarette and lit up.

"Now, go ahead with your discussion, boys. What were you saying about my chances of carrying Wisconsin?"

After his speech in Milwaukee, Landon turned up at a party given by The Milwaukee Journal for visiting reporters and joined a bridge game, playing for more than an hour.

Bill Nye

There is one member of Governor Landon's entourage whose name and picture have not appeared in the press—but whose opinions, apparently, seem to carry great weight with the GOP standard-bearer. He is Joseph M. Nye, better known as "Bill" Nye.

Bill's background is as colorful as his influence with Landon is mysterious.

An ex-secret service operative, he guarded Woodrow Wilson during the Versailles conference, and had numerous other exciting assignments. His present connection is with a New York bank protecting firm. Following Landon's nomination, Nye appeared in Topeka in the role of personal guard of the governor.

Nominally, that still is his position, but actually he has become one of Landon's closest counselors. The following is an example of his influence:

During Landon's visit to Omaha a prominent local business man who contributed heavily to the governor's campaign and was riding with him, urged him to stop for a few minutes at a Catholic institution where several thousand children and their parents were assembled. But Nye flatly turned down the suggestion.

"The governor will not get out," he announced.

"And I say he will," hotly declared the business man.

Landon, sitting between the two bickering men, listened to them in silence. Finally, Nye withdrew his objections and Landon made a brief halt.

Again during the governor's foray

Canada Finds US Campaign More Exciting

Trend Watched Closely Due To Effect On Trade Reciprocity Pact

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 23. (UP)—The Canadian government is watching the United States presidential campaign with greater interest than it usually accords foreign political affairs because of the outcome of the general election hangs the fate of the Canadian-United States trade reciprocal treaty.

Government leaders here, noting the speeches of Gov. Alfred M. Landon, are convinced that a republican victory would be a death blow to the pact. A victory by the democratic party, on the other hand, would assure that the pact would run its full span of three years, with the possibility that it would be renewed in 1938, they believe.

Opposed by Conservatives

The agreement, which became effective at the beginning of this year, has aroused considerable discussion in both countries. It was ratified by the Canadian parliament over the bitter protests of former Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and the Conservative party. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the Liberal party, adhering to a policy of "free trade," have defended the pact in the face of criticism.

A somewhat similar situation exists in the United States.

Latest trade figures available here show that, whatever its defects, the treaty has resulted in increased trade between the two countries. During the eight months it has been in operation, Canada's exports to the United States have increased by $25,000,000 over a similar period in 1935, and imports from the United States rose by $28,000,000.

Newsprint Exports Rise

The Canadian goods which have derived the greatest benefit from the treaty are newsprint, lumber, pulpwood, fish, livestock, liquor and dairy products. Newsprint exports to the United States during the first eight months of this year totaled $32,000,000, compared with $45,000,000 in 1935; export of planks and boards rose from $1,957,000 to $7,409,000; pulpwood from $460,000 to $4,746,000; lobsters from $1,470,000 to $1,670,000; beef cattle from $4,436,000 to $7,210,000; dairy cattle from $124,000 to $1,017,000; horses from $506,000 to $1,771,000, and cheese from $45,000 to $1,110,000.

American products to benefit most were machinery, agricultural implements, automobiles and fresh vegetables. In the first seven months of this year, the least for which details are available, Canada imported $19,323,000 worth of machinery, compared with $9,377,000 in the similar period of 1935.

Farm Implements Gain

Agricultural implements imports rose by more than $2,500,000 to $6,083,000, automobiles from $1,742,000 to $4,383,000, and fresh vegetables by $866,000 to $3,278,000.

Canada's total exports to the United States during the first eight months of this year were valued at $211,000,000, compared with $216,000,000 last year. Imports from the United States this year have totaled $296,000,000 compared with $208,000,000 in 1935.

AN HONEST DEBT

President Roosevelt's declarations that this country is in better condition today than when he assumed the office he occupies, must be taken as the deliberate statements of an informed man, or he must be what the ranting priest called him—a liar. As everything in the president's past life invites us to the conclusion that he is a man of courage, both mental and physical, and as liars are never courageous, we may safely conclude that he is telling the truth.

It may be that some of the men who once had millions of money—other people's money, sometimes—at their command, are not so well supplied now, and that because of their somewhat straitened circumstances they are constrained to believe that everyone and everything else, including the nation, is in like condition. That however does not reflect the true situation of the nation or of the great body of its people.

The debt of United States is an honest debt, created for the benefit of its people. Because the fruits of the borrowing went to the farmer instead of the financier, to the artisan instead of the stock broker, to the employes of corporations instead of being added to the swollen salaries of executives, is no reason to tremble at its size and to raise doubts of its genuineness as being created to meet an imperative need. The debt has a purpose, it is meeting that purpose, and the people who are being benefitted will repay the debt and raise no row about it. That is being raised by those whose privilege is being curtailed and whose liberty to exploit our people and our resources is being ended.

Labor and production create wealth, not the stock exchanges and the money lenders, and labor and production are being given the means and the opportunity long denied them—an opportunity to repay the benefits they have received.

The president knows and is not afraid to tell what he knows.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—The tumult of the Irish Literati is swinging over New York again with the return of Erin O'Brien-Moore to Broadway, but tumult is an accustomed atmosphere to this Celtic actress of the stage and screen.

In "Street Scene," the play, she starred as the Irish girl figuring in a sordid, dramatic murder. In "The Black Legion," her latest movie, she storms through all the startling episodes of that notorious clan. And in her drawing room, be it in Hollywood or New York, there is the explosive tempest bound to spring from the ubiquitous gathering of Irish authors, artists and composers usually encountered in the O'Brien-Moore presence.

Colleen From Way Back

How else could it be with this colleen whose traditions are based on an ancestral dynasty of Irish editors, whose hair flames like a Tipperary sunset, and whose cheery laughter is as warm and infectious as a Tom and Jerry on Christmas Eve?

"It's grand to be back," she declares, losing her diminutive self in one corner of the vast divan. "I guess I've lived such a nunlike existence for the last few months that any sort of excitement makes me think I'm going to a three alarm fire."

In the 10 days since her return Erin has been to a dozen parties, attended a dozen theaters and renewed acquaintance with so many friends that the list reads like a theatrical Who's Who!

"Wasn't Judith magnificent as the queen?" she demanded, meaning Judith Anderson in the new production of "Hamlet." "There was none of the over-stuffed austerity that is usually associated with the character. She was simply glorious. And Gielgud—there hasn't been a play to affect me so much in years. I wonder if Leslie Howard is really going forward with his own production? I mean, after Gielgud's success, he's taking an awful chance."

Wants To Stay In New York

This observation only served to lubricate the O'Brien-Moore vocal chords. As a fast and lucid conversationalist, she is as intriguing as she is picturesque. "You don't dare stop talking in Hollywood because the moment you do somebody starts running down their agent...hope I don't have to go back soon...I may have to fly back for a picture, but I'm tired of work. I've had two years. I want to stay in New York and be myself awhile, and do a play."

Meanwhile the telephone maintained its insistent clamor. Delivery boys, barging in at regular intervals, deposited consignments of orchids from enthusiastic admirers. The fused atmosphere of Broadway and County Cork boiled through the lobby and out across Times Square.

"Vessah, Erin O'Brien-Moore is back."

ROOSEVELT SPENDS $510 OF OWN FUNDS IN DEMO CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (UP)—President Roosevelt has spent $510 in his personal election campaign, according to a report made public today by the senate campaign expenditures committee.

The committee revealed the president gave a $500 contribution to the democratic county committee of Dutchess county, N. Y., his home, and had spent $10 for postage. The committee made public the personal reports of other presidential and vice presidential candidates. Vice President John N. Garner reported he had received no contributions and made no expenditures.

The republican candidates, Gov. Alf M. Landon and Col. Frank Knox, reported they likewise had no personal receipts and made no expenditures since nomination. Their campaigns being financed by the republican national committee.

BRIDGE

EN ROUTE—The base of every presidential candidate is local politics. It was a local political feud in California that cost Charles Evans Hughes the presidency in 1916. It is local political feuds which have caused Roosevelt to do some fancy light-ropes walking in Wisconsin and Indiana.

This was the first stop of the day, and Landon began his electioneering by addressing a breakfast rally for local party workers. Sitting next to the governor was young Charles Taft, son of the late chief justice and ex-president, active in Cincinnati reform politics.

Landon regards young Taft very highly, and in the course of his remarks took some sharp raps at machine politics and politicians, paying glowing tributes to Taft as the type of leader opposed to machine politics, the type which the republican party needs and wants.

Landon's public praise of Taft was a generous and kindly act—but it was the last thing he should have done at this particular meeting.

For sitting all around him were machine politicians. The entire Cincinnati republican organization is a machine outfit. It is the spearhead of the fight against the city's famous "charter" government, in which young Taft is an active leader. Taft is as much persona non grata to the local GOP as Roosevelt is to the DuPonts.

Landon's words so enraged the Cincinnati politicians that they stormed out of the dining room sputtering with indignation. He discovered his inexperience—but too late.

Cleveland Ship

Twelve hours later, at the close of his foray in Ohio, Landon unwittingly pulled another, and more serious, bull.

One of the big features of his address in Cleveland was an attack upon the new deal's administration of relief. Landon charged that it was wasteful, inefficient and politically ridden. This was good strategy nationally, but in Ohio is was GOP poison.

The big republican issue against democratic Governor Martin Davey is his bungling—if not worse—of relief handling. So bad did the situation become that the federal government stepped in, took relief out of Davey's hands and set up its own organization—in which it can't be said that a number of big shot republican office-holders, notably the mayor of Cleveland.

Not realizing these facts, Landon denounced federal relief and proposed to give it back to the states. It was like biting the hand that feeds you.

State republican leaders were as sore as bolts. Attorney General John W. Bricker, GOP candidate for governor, told friends privately that for the remainder of the campaign he was going to tend to his own knitting—and the national ticket could go hang.

Inquisitive

Some of the newsmen on Governor Landon's train were congregated in one of the compartments discussing Landon's chances of carrying Wisconsin. Remarkable one of the reporters.

"Well, one thing is sure. He certainly made a lot of friends in Wisconsin."

"Who did?" asked a voice from the doorway.

The correspondents looked up to find Landon watching them, smiling.

"What are the chances of joining the party?" he asked. A place was made for him, he borred a cigarette and lit up.

"Now, go ahead with your discussion, boys. What were you saying about my chances of carrying Wisconsin?"

After his speech in Milwaukee, Landon turned up at a party given by The Milwaukee Journal for visiting reporters and joined a bridge game, playing for more than an hour.

Bill Nye

There is one member of Governor Landon's entourage whose name and picture have not appeared in the press—but whose opinions, apparently, seem to carry great weight with the GOP standard-bearer. He is Joseph M. Nye, better known as "Bill" Nye.

Bill's background is as colorful as his influence with Landon is mysterious.

An ex-secret service operative, he guarded Woodrow Wilson during the Versailles conference, and had numerous other exciting assignments. His present connection is with a New York bank protecting firm. Following Landon's nomination, Nye appeared in Topeka in the role of personal guard of the governor.

Nominally, that still is his position, but actually he has become one of Landon's closest counselors. The following is an example of his influence:

During Landon's visit to Omaha a prominent local business man who contributed heavily to the governor's campaign and was riding with him, urged him to stop for a few minutes at a Catholic institution where several thousand children and their parents were assembled. But Nye flatly turned down the suggestion.

"The governor will not get out," he announced.

"And I say he will," hotly declared the business man.

Landon, sitting between the two bickering men, listened to them in silence. Finally, Nye withdrew his objections and Landon made a brief halt.

Again during the governor's foray

PREDICTS DEMOCRAT WINS IN DELAWARE AND NEW JERSEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (UP)—Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley, just returned from a $100-a-plate dinner in Philadelphia which added almost $150,000 to the party's campaign coffers, said President Roosevelt "will carry New Jersey and Delaware."

It was the first time Farley publicly has claimed these states.

"The basis for Farley's confidence was 'information.'"

What about John W. Davis' anti-new deal speech of last night?

"Yes, I've got a few words to say about that estimable gentleman," Farley said. "Take this down: 'Everybody is familiar with the fact that Mr. Davis is attorney for Wall Street firms bitterly opposed to Roosevelt. Mr. Davis had to make a public choice between his employers and his party and he chose his employers. And the people, too, are familiar with the fact that Davis took a walk from the Chicago convention in 1932 and has been walking ever since. I call it bad sportsmanship.'"

"Is there any truth in the report that you were instrumental in having Chicago authorities bar a parade for Alfred E. Smith when he arrives there to speak?"

"To use the words of a formerly well known democrat," Farley replied, "that's a lot of baloney."

The election, said Farley, "is in the bag—and it's our bag."

Canada Finds US Campaign More Exciting

Trend Watched Closely Due To Effect On Trade Reciprocity Pact

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 23. (UP)—The Canadian government is watching the United States presidential campaign with greater interest than it usually accords foreign political affairs because of the outcome of the general election hangs the fate of the Canadian-United States trade reciprocal treaty.

Government leaders here, noting the speeches of Gov. Alfred M. Landon, are convinced that a republican victory would be a death blow to the pact. A victory by the democratic party, on the other hand, would assure that the pact would run its full span of three years, with the possibility that it would be renewed in 1938, they believe.

Opposed by Conservatives

The agreement, which became effective at the beginning of this year, has aroused considerable discussion in both countries. It was ratified by the Canadian parliament over the bitter protests of former Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and the Conservative party. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the Liberal party, adhering to a policy of "free trade," have defended the pact in the face of criticism.

A somewhat similar situation exists in the United States.

Latest trade figures available here show that, whatever its defects, the treaty has resulted in increased trade between the two countries. During the eight months it has been in operation, Canada's exports to the United States have increased by $25,000,000 over a similar period in 1935, and imports from the United States rose by $28,000,000.

Newsprint Exports Rise

The Canadian goods which have derived the greatest benefit from the treaty are newsprint, lumber, pulpwood, fish, livestock, liquor and dairy products. Newsprint exports to the United States during the first eight months of this year totaled $32,000,000, compared with $45,000,000 in 1935; export of planks and boards rose from $1,957,000 to $7,409,000; pulpwood from $460,000 to $4,746,000; lobsters from $1,470,000 to $1,670,000; beef cattle from $4,436,000 to $7,210,000; dairy cattle from $124,000 to $1,017,000; horses from $506,000 to $1,771,000, and cheese from $45,000 to $1,110,000.

American products to benefit most were machinery, agricultural implements, automobiles and fresh vegetables. In the first seven months of this year, the least for which details are available, Canada imported $19,323,000 worth of machinery, compared with $9,377,000 in the similar period of 1935.

Farm Implements Gain

Agricultural implements imports rose by more than $2,500,000 to $6,083,000, automobiles from $1,742,000 to $4,383,000, and fresh vegetables by $866,000 to $3,278,000.

Canada's total exports to the United States during the first eight months of this year were valued at $211,000,000, compared with $216,000,000 last year. Imports from the United States this year have totaled $296,000,000 compared with $208,000,000 in 1935.

Election May Bring Senate 'Young Blood'

Membership Due To Include More Veterans Of The World War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (UP)—The election offers prospects that a dash of young blood will enter the senate next session, augmenting a substantial representation already there.

Too, it seems likely at this stage that the World War veteran membership also will be increased.

Veterans organization officials look forward from now on to a steady increase in veteran membership in congress. Civil war experience guides their estimates. There were 124 World War veterans in the house last session, which was, however, a drop from 130 in 1934.

New Blood

Last session 16 senators were World War veterans. Terms of only two expired, and one of them, Senator Russell of Georgia, already is assured of returning. Senator Benson of Minnesota is running for the governorship.

To replace this one loss in the assured election of Claude Pepper of Florida, 36-year-old veteran, unopposed as democratic nominee. In addition, Rep. Josh Lee, 44, of Oklahoma, a veteran, is democratic senatorial prospect in that usually democratic state.

Other young bloods seeking senate rank include:

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., 34, Massachusetts republican.

The two major party contenders in Michigan, former Governor Wilbur M. Brucker, 42, republican, a war veteran, and Rep. Prentiss M. Brown, 37, democrat.

Governor H. Styles Bridges, 39, of New Hampshire, whose election is viewed by republicans as a New England certainty.

Allen J. Ellender, 45, democrat, unopposed in Louisiana to succeed Mrs. Huey P. Long.

In for 30 More Years

Statisticians compute the average age of World War veterans at about 42 years. That puts them at an age when they begin to show up in increasing numbers in congress and among the ranks of governors.

Civil war experience indicates that for another 30 years World War veterans will share largely in public life. President McKinley, last of the civil war presidents, served past the turn of the 20th century.

Already a cry has arisen from among the ranks of the veterans themselves not to let their growing public power lead them into excessive public demands. But that is another question for the next 30 years to settle.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

Chapter Nine
ELIAS REMEMBERS

Inspector Kennedy leaned forward slightly.

"Have you remembered?" he asked eagerly.

"I... but it can't be," she said slowly. "Why, I hardly know him at all. And, anyway, he was a friend of Billy Ross, who was one of my best friends."

"What's his name?" asked Inspector Kennedy.

"The voice sounded like Mr. Mahony—he came to tea this afternoon," answered Elias. "But he couldn't possibly have done it. Why should he? And he wasn't going to the dance. He told me so."

"He was talking to you about the dance, was he?" asked the Inspector. "Asking you questions?"

"Well—yes," admitted Elias. "But why should he want to kidnap my uncle and kill my uncle?"

"Who is that Mr. Mahony, and where does he live?" demanded the Inspector.

"He was a friend of Billy Ross, a friend of mine who was very badly hurt in a motor smash," answered Elias. "He was staying with Billy when I met him. I don't know where he is now."

Nor did Lawson know where Mahony was living. In fact, nobody did. Mahony had not yet bothered to tell anyone his change of address.

"I'll find his address all right before morning," said the Inspector. Luckily for Mahony, that statement was a trifle optimistic.

Mahony's first action after driving away from the Little's house was to return to the Albert Hall. He had left his own car in a park near the Hall, and in the men's cloakroom he had left an overcoat, a hat, and a pair of grey flannel trousers.

He had worn the overcoat, hat and trousers on his way to the dance, since an Arab kit is chilly wear in an open sports car on a cold winter evening. Since he intended to deny that he had ever been to the dance if anybody questioned him, it was essential that he should remove those things before the dance finished.

In a quiet street in Kensington he stopped the car and changed his costume round, so that he now appeared as an Arab instead of a monk. Leaving the car in a side street near the Hall, he returned to the Hall on foot and entered.

The dance was still in full swing when he arrived; the floor was still crowded; everything was just as he had left it before Elias's kidnapping, except that now the dancers were unmasked. Mahony did not unmask. Avoiding the dance floor, he made his way towards the men's cloakroom.

Half-way to the cloak-room he felt a sudden touch on his shoulder. He turned. Facing him was the man dressed in the costume of Charles II who had taken Elias to the spot where the men dressed as monks had seized her. From conversation he had heard in the car while Elias was being taken away, Mahony knew that the man's name was Mulgrave.

Seen unmasked in the brilliantly lighted passage, he was a disheveled, cynical-looking man of forty-five, with a heavily veined face, small calculating eyes, and a heavy, brutal mouth.

"So you've got back at last, have you?" he said roughly. "Where the devil have you been all this time? And where are the others?"

It was obvious that, judging from Mahony's costume, he mistook him for one of the kidnapers. Evidently those worthies had not returned to the Hall after their recent setback.

For a moment Mahony was undecided how to answer. Then he had an inspiration.

"The game's up," he said hoarsely. "The whole scheme's a flop. The others have all been copped by the police. I came here to grab my things from the cloak-room and make a quick getaway."

The red veins in Mulgrave's face showed up suddenly against a deathly pale background.

"Copped?" he gasped. "But... how the hell did that happen? Our plan was absolutely water-tight."

Mahony laughed grimly.

"It's wrecked now," he said. "And I'm going to beat it as soon as I've got my things. I've got a fast car outside, and I know where to go. You'd better grab your things and come with me."

"But..." began Mulgrave. Mahony had no intention of arguing. For one thing he was too unsteady on his feet. For another he wanted to get away as soon as possible before the police arrived at the Albert Hall. But he wanted to take Mulgrave with him if possible. He decided to bluff.

"Hell," he said. "What are you arguing the toss about? The police will be on their way here now. Are you coming, or are you going to stay and be pinched?"

And he resumed his progress towards the cloak-room.

That decided Mulgrave. He also made for the cloak-room.

Mahony reclaimed his belongings and fairly hustled Mulgrave out of the cloak-room and out of the Albert Hall to the car park where his Aston Martin was waiting. With a roar they whirled away, heading north.

"Tell me exactly what happened; how did things go wrong?" asked Mulgrave excitedly as they drove along.

"Don't talk; I'm busy. You'll learn all about it when we get where we're going," replied Mahony shortly.

There was a slight smile about his lips as he drove the car at high speed through the silent and empty streets. He was reflecting that, as a piece of kidnapping, his abduction of Mulgrave had been rather neat.

Leaving Hampstead behind him, he headed out across the lonely heath. Half-way across the heath he brought the car to a standstill. All round them was bare grass, and away in the distance the lights of Hampstead and Highgate twinkled brightly. Mahony switched off his headlights and turned to Mulgrave.

"This is our first stopping-place," he stated. "Get out of the car."

"Get out of the car?"

It seemed that Mulgrave did not understand.

"What do you mean?" he asked. "I mean get out of the car. I don't want you to bleed all over the upholstery," said Mahony.

During this speech he quietly produced his pistol. Mulgrave looked at it, and from it to Mahony, rather as a rabbit, paralyzed with terror, looks at a deadly snake.

"But w-what—?" he began.

"Shut up," said Mahony, his voice suddenly cold and savage. Mulgrave shut up.

"You've been kidnapped," went on Mahony in the same cruel, biting tone. "And now you're going to be murdered. At least, I think you are. But maybe you're not. It will all depend on how much information you can give me."

"But you can't bring me out here, and m-murder me in c-cold blood," protested Mulgrave in a terrified tone. "You can't do it."

"But I can," said Mahony. "Quite easily."

He spoke quietly and naturally. And yet, somehow, the manner in which he spoke made it quite clear that he would not have the slightest hesitation in shooting Mulgrave if he considered it necessary. The realization made Mulgrave feel slightly sick.

"W-what is it that you want to know?" he quavered.

Mahony thrust a hand into his hip-pocket and produced from it a newspaper cutting. The cutting was from a copy of the evening paper which the barmaid in the wayside pub had been reading just before the motor smash the previous night. It consisted of one small paragraph.

Miss Ruth Fraser, a popular young Society girl, has been missing from the house of her guardian, Mr. Gerald Lee-Ramaden, of 173 Upper Brook Street, since yesterday afternoon. Miss Fraser, who is twenty years old, is an intrepid airwoman and a well-known tennis player. Mr. Lee-Ramaden states that she left home with the intention of going shopping, and has not been heard of since. It is feared that she may be suffering from loss of memory.

Since the barmaid's comment on this paragraph had agitated Billy Ross considerably, Mahony concluded that Billy had known something about the young woman's disappearance. And Mahony felt that if he was going to shield Billy, it was certainly up to him to try to undo as far as possible any harm that Billy had done. That was the chief reason why he had kidnapped Mulgrave. He wanted to ask questions.

"I want to know where that girl is," he said. He leaned forward and switched on the dash-board light in his car so that Mulgrave could see the cutting clearly.

of them. During the bombardments of Irun, for example, more than fifty projectiles were dumped into the Bidasoa river or onto the beach at Hendaye, France.

The geography of Spain, that feat of nature which stopped many a good general, including Napoleon Bonaparte, simply doesn't lend itself to the use of modern methods. There are so many natural barriers that invaders, to capture them, must use assault by the good old infantry. Trenches were used for the first time at Irun, and then so badly dug by both sides that they proved unusable.

Near the end of August, after six weeks of war, this correspondent watched the insurgent attack government positions at San Rafael, with the tall buildings of Madrid plainly visible on the skyline. A young lieutenant borrowed my field glasses to correct the fire of his

Spain's Guerilla Warfare Is Little Different From That Centuries Ago

A group of Spanish insurgents follow the guerrilla practices of their forefathers as they snipe at the enemy from a river bank near Irun.

FRANCO-SPANISH FRONTIER, Oct. 23 (AP)—Guerrilla warfare is the rule throughout the Spanish conflict and the battles are little different from those of a century ago.

Anyone who tells you Spain is the proving ground for the next World War simply hasn't seen a battle. Radio stations announced hundreds of thousands of men locked in combat with the latest equipment—but the radio stations are the only ones in Spain who think so.

Many of the "modern arms" shipped into Spain from foreign countries are old stocks, swept out of arsenals at bargain prices. Field guns, constructed at the Spanish works at Oviedo, date from 1905. Shells are often more than 30 years old and fail to explode for that very reason.

Take Mineral Data In Texas

Work Of Planning Board In State Of Great Potential Value

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Oct. 23—Texas planning board is pioneering a work whose tremendous potential value to the state shows it should have been started long ago.

This is the survey of Texas mineral resources, the compilation of data showing what we have, and efforts to get this information into the hands of industrialists who may make use of it. The entire program represents a constructive appeal for new industries in the state to develop these resources.

The first phase of this work will be directed, the planning board has battery of 195's. It was the first pair he'd used. Previous practice had been to shift the gun to change its direction of fire.

Shells Fall To Explode

The insurgent battleship "Esperanza" shelled San Sebastian with munitions manufactured in 1908. Most of the shells failed to explode, to the consternation of rebel purchasers who declared they had purchased the shells from an English firm as "guaranteed goods."

At Irun, this correspondent accompanied a young French reserve officer on a survey of government position. The officer advised barbed wire to protect a farmhouse from rebel assaults. When he returned the next day the barbed wire had been strung behind the farmhouse.

One of the chief reasons for the loss of Irun by the Popular Front was insistence of the anarchists that they be permitted to leave the lines to go home for lunch.

General Francisco Franco and General Emilio Mola planned their entire insurgent campaign on road snags, distributed free to Spanish tourists by a French tire company.

An Associated Press correspondent watched an insurgent six-inch gun hammer away at a farmhouse less than one mile away. It took eleven shots to hit the farmhouse and six more to hit it a second time.

LAST GLIMPSE OF OUTDOOR WORLD FOR 'COP KILLERS'

These two men, gazing wonderingly at the sunlit expanse below their death row cell, are probably getting their last look at the world. A few hours after this picture was taken, they were scheduled to be strapp'd in Cook county's "humane" electric chair. The doomed men are Andrew Bogacki (left), and Frank "Bones" Korczykowski, sentenced to death for the murder of a policeman. (Associated Press Photo)

indicated, toward those industries using clays found in Texas for the manufacture of pottery. Contact has been made, even this early, with several eastern pottery manufacturers, with a view of urging the establishment of plants to use Texas clays and feldspar.

A statewide mineral resources survey is being completed, which was made possible by federal financing secured by the planning board. A preliminary report of the mineralogists in charge of this survey showed that more than 100 commercial minerals have been located and classified. Data on all these mineral deposits is being assembled and classified.

Besides its oil, sulphur and potash deposits, which are well known, Texas has been found exceedingly rich in other minerals. The state has been backward in developing these minerals chiefly for its lack of any organized effort to bridge the gap between their existence and

DEPARTMENT STORE SALES OVER STATE MAKE GOOD GAINS

AUSTIN, Oct. 23—Department store sales in Texas during September increased substantially over the like month last year and the gain in sales from August to September was greater than the average seasonal gain between these two months, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research.

Reports from 87 representative establishments show total gains of 16.7 per cent over September last year. The increase from August to September was 40.3 per cent against an average seasonal gain of 35.5 per cent. During the first sales increased 16.6 per cent over nine months of the year aggregates those of the corresponding period last year.

Percentage gains were great than the average for the state. Corsicana, Dallas, Lubbock, Fort Arthur, and San Antonio.

The ratio of credit sales to cash sales during September was considerably below that of the 11 month last year but a larger percentage of outstanding accounts were collected than occurred September a year ago.

Four regiments and a variety number of battalions comprise the French Foreign Legion.

Pact Outlined On Neutrality For Americas

U. S. Sounds Out Nations On Treaty To Modernize Peace Machinery

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (UP) — The United States, in the interest of maintaining peace in the western hemisphere, is confidentially sounding leading Latin American nations on a sweeping draft convention of neutrality to outlaw official wars and block credits to belligerents, it is revealed here unofficially.

The text of the proposed draft convention has been handed in confidence informally to diplomatic envoys here for transmission to their governments for study and observations before the inter-American peace conference convenes at Buenos Aires December 1.

In essence it seeks to modernize the peace machinery of the western hemisphere.

It first would pledge the nations to the principle of pacific settlement of disputes. In case such principles fail it would bind those nations not to "commence hostilities without a previous and unequivocal" declaration of war with reasons given or an "ultimatum with a conditional declaration of war." Unofficial wars among signatories would thereby be outlawed.

League "Escape Clause"

Although the purpose of the draft convention primarily parallels the League of Nations cognizance is taken of the fact that some of the probable signatories to this pact already are members of the league. An "escape clause" is provided to prevent conflict with league obligations.

At the same time the proposed treaty was regarded as "affording the league a model instrument for strengthening its own peace machinery which failed to function during the Italo-Ethiopian war.

In case of hostilities without a declaration or ultimatum, neutral powers, under the terms of the draft treaty, would be free to declare "for the purposes of their municipal legislation concerning neutrality" that a state of war exists. This action would not be deemed an "unfriendly act nor afford grounds for complaint.

The treaty would give neutral powers freedom to impose such restrictions or prohibitions on trade and commerce between them and belligerents as they might deem appropriate in the interests of international peace without contravention of provisions in other agreements of trade. Such measures would apply to all belligerents.

Would Embargo Arms

The neutral nations would pledge themselves under the proposed treaty not to permit the exportation of "arms, ammunition or implements of war to any of the belligerents or to any neutral country for transshipment to or for the use of any belligerent."

The treaty lists the articles included under arms, ammunition and implements of war in six specific categories covering rifles, carbines using ammunition in excess of caliber .22, machine guns, howitzers, mortars, all ammunition in excess of caliber .22, grenades, bombs, torpedoes, mines, tanks, military armored vehicles, vessels of war of all kinds, aircraft carriers, submarines, aircraft assembled or dismantled both heavier and lighter than air, gun mounts, bomb racks, revolvers, airplane parts, engines, Livens projectors, flamethrowers, mustard gas, Lewisite and several other types of gas used in warfare, to mention a few of the more important.

The treaty also would prohibit the flotation of loans through issuance of bonds or other evidence of indebtedness and the "establishment of any credit by or on behalf of the government of any American republic engaged in war with another American republic.

Provides For Exceptions

The embargo provisions on munitions and credits would not be obligatory on signatories in the event of war between an American republic and a non-American state.

Article 8 of the proposed treaty, which contains eight articles in all, would provide for the establishment of a "permanent international consultative committee" to co-ordinate action under the treaty. This committee would be composed of the secretaries of state or foreign ministers of each contracting state.

Duties of this committee would

Harlow, Powell, Loy and Tracy At Ritz Theatre In "Libeled Lady"

A collection of outstanding film stars as great as bright as that in the famed "Dinner At Eight," will greet the theatre-goer at the Ritz Sunday and Monday, when "Libeled Lady" is offered. Four top-rank stars are seen in the leading roles—Jean Harlow, William Powell, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy.

The picture also will be featured at a Saturday midnight matinee. To take care of a cast of such prominence, the producers have built a story that calls for four principals. The story, that of an heiress slandered by a metropolitan newspaper, and suing for libel to the tune of one million dollars, involves the heiress, the newspaper's managing editor, the girl whom he is pledged to marry, and a very clever gentleman of the Lothario school who has achieved a unique reputation for his ability to quash just such libel suits.

The play presents not only a cross-triangle of conflicts upon the part of these four, but also presents new angles on newspaper drama.

Tall flowers and grapevines planted around the garden make a good windbreak.

Boy Players In Ritz Film

Mickey Rooney, Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Cooper Together

"The Devil is a Sissy," playing at the Ritz Friday and Saturday, is a picture that not only achieves an intriguing name but also is one which brings together three of the biggest young names in pictures: Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Cooper and Mickey Rooney.

It is a story of today, of three boys facing life on the sidewalks of New York. Freddie is the young son of a couple who are separated, and who is placed in an East Side school by an embittered father. In the school Freddie, the cultured youth, meets Jackie and Mickey, two tough youngsters.

He is admitted to their gang, becomes involved in one of the group's planned minor robberies and arranges, however, for the theft of his mother's own house, and when this comes out in juvenile court the other members of the gang are disgusted with him. It takes a runaway, with Freddie slaying the hero in helping his fellows out of a serious scrape with gangsters to bring a happy climax.

Playing with the young actors are Katherine Alexander, Ian Hunter, Gene and Katherine Lockhart, Dorothy Peterson and Peggy Conklin.

Prehistoric bones found on a farm near Christoval, Texas, have been sent to a San Angelo, Texas, museum.

ON NEW YORK'S EAST SIDE

Jackie Cooper and Freddie Bartholomew in a scene from "The Devil is a Sissy," feature at the Ritz Friday and Saturday which tells the story of a gang of youngsters on the lower East Side of New York. Mickey Rooney is a third youthful player in the cast.

Three Westerners Form New Starring Group In Pictures

First of a series of eight Republic pictures which will concern the adventures of three hard-riding, pistol-toting "soldiers of fortune" of the West—called "The Three Mesquiteers," is the feature attraction at the Queen theatre Friday and Saturday.

All eight pictures of the series will be filmed with the same title. The word "mesquiteers" is a derivative of mesquite, name of the trees of the Great Plains, through which the three ride in search of trouble as well as romantic adventure.

The story theme—that of three soldiers of fortune living under a one-for-all philosophy—is similar to that of the great Dumas drama, "The Three Musketeers," and promises the same exciting and combative elements.

WESTERNER

Introducing Ray "Crash" Corrigan, one of three new western players who appear together in "The Three Mesquiteers," an adventure story which is at the Queen Friday and Saturday. Robert Livingston and Syd Saylor are Corrigan's buddies in the story, first of a series.

ONE OF FOUR

Jean Harlow has the assistance of three other first-rank stars in the picture, "Libeled Lady," coming to the Ritz Saturday midnight and on Sunday and Monday. They are William Powell, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy. The four appear in a melodrama concerning the suit for libel an heiress files against a newspaper, and the efforts of the paper to defeat her suit.

Portraying the chief roles are Robert Livingston, Ray "Crash" Corrigan and Syd Saylor. The first two are known for their ability to ride, rope and shoot, while Saylor furnishes the comedy relief.

TIM MCCOY IS STARRING IN PICTURE AT THE LYRIC

Tim McCoy, one of the top performers among western players, is the star of the outdoor melodrama coming to the Lyric Friday and Saturday. Francis Grant plays opposite him to furnish the romantic interest in a play called "The Traitor." Tim exhibits his skill as rider and fighter in fast-moving sequences.

MORE NEWS IS COMING—

During the past year, many startling and vitally important events have occurred. Not since the World War has The Herald been filled with so much interesting news. But there is still more big news coming. Never before have the activities of the national government so greatly affected the life of every individual—every farmer—as they do today. There is a presidential election in November, and whether the Democrats are elected or the Republicans, there will probably be some radical changes in the government. What about the pensions? Will the state pay them in full. There will likely be some changes in the relief setup in the coming year. What will these changes be? All of these matters are vitally important and concern YOU. And The Herald will keep you posted on all of them.

YOUR HERALD AS AN INVESTMENT—

Perhaps it has never occurred to you, but your Herald is an investment. It pays big dividends in pleasure—entertainment—education—AND IN MONEY. The family that tries to get along for even a week without The Herald loses far more in happiness than the small cost of your subscription, which is slightly less than 1c per day. There isn't a bigger value on the market today than The Herald. Think of it...and you'll send in your subscription today.

HOURS AHEAD—

When you subscribe to The Herald you get the news while it is still NEWS. Because The Herald goes to press hours later than other papers, it is able to bring you news hours ahead of any paper in West Texas. So far this year The Herald has scored several big scoops over all other papers, and there is seldom a day that it doesn't bring stories that are not carried in other papers.

LOCAL ART—

The Herald maintains its own photographic staff and engraving plant. Thus it is prepared to give you news pictures of all important local events.
