Drilling Rig For Humble Deep Test Moved On Location

Members Of Drilling Crew Find Living Quarters Here

Steel derrick has been erected and drilling rig moved in preparation for spudding the Humble Oil & Refining Co. deep test on O. Trap Co. acreage about four miles south of Ozona. Hole will be started within the next few days, according to information available here.

The test is to be drilled to a depth of 8,000 feet, and may go to 10,000 feet, unless production is obtained at a lesser depth. The test is to seek production from the Ordovician formation, an extension of this deep oil production from the Big Lake field.

A 130-foot steel derrick has been erected on the drilling location. Wash pits completed and drilling machinery was being moved in this week from Grand Falls. Rotary equipment is to be used in drilling from the start, with no spudder to start the hole.

The first operation on the drilling site may be the sinking of a water well. Tests on a nearby well which supplies water for stock in the trap proved it inadequate and company officials are understood to be undecided whether to drill a well on the lease or haul water from Ozona for drilling purposes.

Between fifteen and twenty families, employed on the drilling crew, are moving to Ozona to make their home during the operations. The newcomers have been busy the last week hunting down places to live and getting settled down in the new location. They expect to be here from eight months to a year.

ONE THING and THEN ANOTHER

By FRED GIPSON

MASON—Slumgullion: It's a night what some men will do to keep out of work. You take my fourth brother-in-law, Lee Madrox, of Junction, now, Lee's packing around a sore rag on what's left of one finger, just because he was getting tired of having to get out of bed so early on these cold mornings to milk the cows.

On his wedding anniversary the other day, he couldn't take it any longer and drove into town and let the lid of an automobile luggage compartment drop down and cut off the end of one finger. Now his wife does the milking.

Lee says it surely does give a man a funny feeling, though, to go off and leave the end of a finger lying in the middle of the street for people to stand around and stare at and roll about with the toes of their boots.

Here at home the other day, all the girls were hovering around Lee's sore finger and exclaiming, like women will, when he told them the doctor said he'd have to cut a little more of it off for it ever to get well. And Stella piped up and said "Oh, you'll have to go under the ether to stand it, won't you?" And Lee grinned and shook his head.

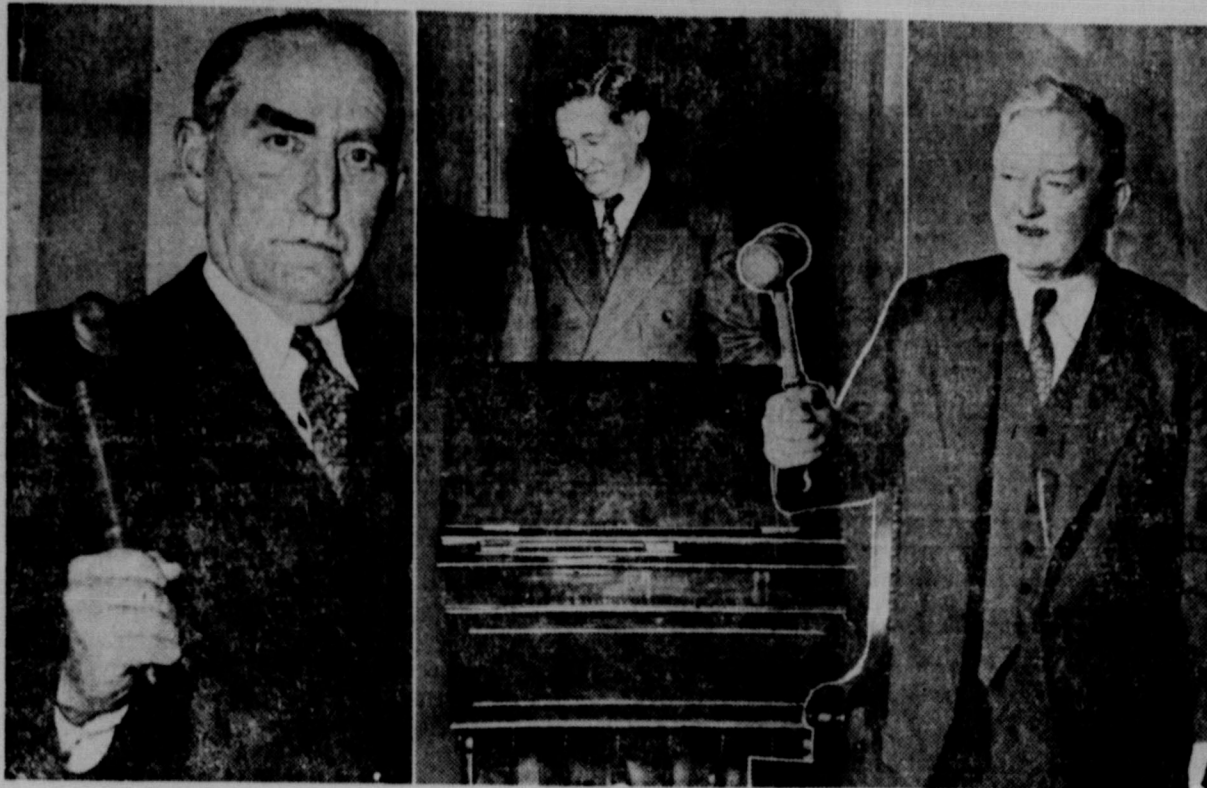

"Wasn't under the ether when I lost the first part."

Women seem to be queerly fascinated by pain, anyhow. For instance, men folks can be out in the pens working a bunch of stock, and just as quick as somebody slaps a branding iron to a calf and it starts bawling and taking on, the women will all come rushing out to stand around and watch the spraying of blood shooting from a dehorned head and shudder and shiver and exclaim:

"Oh, isn't that cruel! How can you do it? It's so awful!"

76th Congress Knuckles Down to Work

Both new and familiar faces are seen in the halls of congress as the nation's legislators opened their seventy-sixth session Tuesday. Above, with gavels, are Speaker William B. Bankhead, house ringmaster, and Vice President John N. Garner, presiding officer in the senate. Center: One of the new senators, California's Sheridan Downey, examines his desk. The Republican minority in the new congress boasts 81 more representatives than last year, and eight more senators.

Over Million In Bank Deposits To Start New Year

Year's End Statement Shows Healthy Financial Condition

Again Crockett county residents start off a new year with a million dollars on deposit in the bank.

As evidence of the healthy financial condition of Crockett county, of a profitable year in the ranching business and forward movement of business interests of the county generally, the report of condition of the Ozona National Bank at the close of business on the closing day of 1938 shows total deposits of $1,123,465.72.

The total in deposits represent a gain of $75,034.42 from the same date a year ago, when deposits were $1,048,431.30. Other gradual gains in business are to be noted in a comparison of other information contained in the bank's statement of condition.

For instance, the cash account of the bank climbed from $647,478.22 at the opening of last year to $683,059.92 in the last statement. Loans outstanding by the bank amount to $541,785.76 now as against $504,443 last year.

The bank mailed dividend checks Tuesday representing a semi-annual payment of 10 per cent on its capital stock of $100,000. Its surplus is listed at $35,000, with undivided profits amounting to $53,249.21.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Williams and children of Eldorado spent the holiday season with Mrs. Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Smith. Mr. Williams killed a ten-point buck on a hunting trip while here.

Shot, And Its Throat Cut— Fallen Deer Springs To Its Feet and Makes Escape From Astonished Hunters

A ten-point buck, shot through the neck and his throat cut as the hunter's coup de grace, came back to life, jumped up from the ground to send sprawling his would-be slayer, the hunter who sat proudly on the deer carcass while a companion went for a truck to haul in the meat, and then made good his escape, to furnish the best hunting story of the recent season.

The hunters were Charlie Davidson and his brother-in-law, Mark Garver of Baton Rouge, La., and the incident, which they and other members of the family vouch for, took place on the Davidson ranch a few miles south of Ozona.

Davidson and Garver had hunted unsuccessfully and were on their way back to the ranch house when they saw the big buck. The former, being in better position, pulled down on the buck and brought him down with a shot through the neck. The hunters went to the fallen buck and slashed his throat.

Mr. Garver sat down on the deer while Mr. Davidson walked to where they had stopped the pickup in which they were riding. In a few minutes the big fellow revived and sprang to his feet, sending Garver sprawling to the ground, and made off before either hunter could gather his wits to take a shot.

They trailed him for more than two hours, or until too dark to follow the trail of blood, thinking for sure he could not go far. But the next day they picked up the trail again, put dogs on it, and hunted nearly the day through, and until now the deer has not been seen again. And the two flabbergasted hunters are convinced that he was some relation to a cat. At least he boasted of a couple of lives.

Escapes Injury In Second Accident In Five Weeks Period

Dudley Ingham Collides With Bridge To Wreck New Pontiac Coupe

Dudley Ingham, a son of Mrs. B. B. Ingham, again escaped injury in an automobile accident Tuesday night, the second in which he has figured in a period of five weeks.

A new Pontiac coupe which young Ingham was driving was almost completely wrecked when it collided with a concrete culvert at the west edge of town, spun across the highway to crash into a second curb a few yards beyond, turn a flip and come to rest in the (Continued on last page.)

Soil Committee Re-elected; Plan New Year's Work

25 Present At Annual Meet; Same Heads To Direct '39 Work

Administration of the Soil Conservation practices under the range program of the AAA in Crockett county for 1939 will be under the direction of the same county committee that has supervised operations since its beginning in this county.

All members of the old committee were again re-elected at the annual meeting of ranchers participating in the program held in the district courtroom here last week. Under department rulings, one additional alternate committeeman was elected for the new year, making two alternates instead of one as heretofore.

Approximately 25 participating ranchmen were present for the annual meeting. In the election of committeemen, Max Schneemann was again named county chairman, Early Baggett, vice chairman, and Will Baggett, member. Wayne West was re-elected alternate and George Bean was added as the second alternate.

Although no definite information is in the hands of County Agent C. J. Van Zandt and members of the committee regarding next year's program, it is understood that there will be little (Continued on last page.)

To Dedicate New Community House In Service Sunday

Out-Of-Town Speakers To Be Here For Event at 3 p. m.

Ozona's new Community House, built of native stone at a cost of more than $5,000 and devoted to the use of the Mexican youth and underprivileged of the community, will be formally dedicated at services in the Community House auditorium next Sunday evening beginning at 3 o'clock.

The new building was constructed with a contribution of $5,000 from the Robert Massie estate Educational Foundation, a fund for educational advancement in West Texas left by the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Massie, pioneers of Crockett county. People of the Mexican settlement, business firms, the county government and individuals also co-operated in the enterprises, which was sponsored by the Missionary Society of the Ozona Methodist church.

Miss Mary Riddle, social worker, sent from the Missionary council of the Methodist church, is in charge of the work being done from the Community House, a program of strictly non-denominational activity, of education and play direction. Nearly 200 youths of the Mexican settlement are taking part in the program.

Rev. Eugene Slater, pastor of Methodist church, will act as chairman at the dedication ceremony. The dedication program will open with a hymn by a group of Mexican children, and prayer by Rev. Clyde Childers, pastor of the Ozona Baptist church. Scripture reading will be followed by a brief history of the community house movement.

Statue Of Davy Crockett Set In City Park Here

Monument To Hero Of Alamo Last Centennial Expenditure

Davy Crockett, one of the outstanding heroes of Texas history, a member of the immortal band which made a last and futile stand against Santa Anna's army at the Alamo, has at long last come to be materially honored in this far western county which took his name in honor of his memory.

A statue of Crockett, carved in relief from a block of native Texas granite, was set up last Saturday in the city park here, the last of a number of memorials to Texas heroes established from funds of the Texas Centennial commission. The commission appropriation for the local memorial was $7,500.

The figure, about eight feet in height, is carved from a block of granite some 12 feet in length and three feet square, with the name Crockett on the lower part of the shaft face and a brief outline of outstanding facts of the subject's life on the back. The upright shaft stands on a foundation slab of granite of nearly the same size, the granite used in both pieces weighing nearly twenty tons.

DAVY COMES TO TOWN

Far be it from us to attempt any detailed criticism of a work of art, being as far from accomplished in that field of endeavor as one could possibly imagine. But there seems to be a general undertone of disappointment on the part of the citizenship of Ozona...

For $7,500, the general opinion seems to be, we should certainly have got both sides of Davy Crockett. Instead, it's two ten-ton slabs of granite with a relief carving of a figure in the traditional buckskin garb of the pioneer Texan.

All of which is by way of expressing a yearning for one of the many fine things for a community that much money would have provided had it been handed over to you or me for spending, instead of being left in the hands of a bunch of politicians...

But, ho hum, there it is. Try to sell it for $7,500.

Dr. F. E. Townsend is preparing to descend on Washington in January and remind congressmen that many of their elderly constituents would like to be pensioned generously—at the expense of younger taxpayers.

I Give You Texas

By BOYCE HOUSE

"Bad liquor" reads a sign above a package store on the Fort Worth-Jacksboro highway. At any rate, you can't say you weren't warned.

A West Texas friend of mine would dispute the accuracy of the "bad liquor" sign, however. He says that, once upon a time, the Arkansas legislature had been in session 60 days and hadn't been able to agree on a thing.

Resolved, that some likker air better than other likker but that all likker air good likker—and it passed both houses unanimously, the only thing they agreed on the whole session.

Did you ever stop to think what a placid and unspicacious life a federal judge leads? No opening of new highways; no crowning of queens. His picture appears in the papers just twice; once, when he is sworn in and, the other time, when he dies—unless he happens to get impeached.

Odd sight: A group of boys in the Jefferson oil field shooting a nickle package of firecrackers on Christmas Eve while gas flares, in the background, were putting on a million-dollar fireworks display.

Saw Andy Rhodes, Eastland oil operator, recently. He drilled one of the most famous gushers in the Eastland county boom—the Sailor Perkins well, named for the

In that book, "Forgotten Men of American Literature" which I propose to write some of these times, Robert G. Ingersoll will have a place. He once declared:

of time and fate, was not born of any book, nor of any creed, nor of any religion. It was born of human affection, and it will continue to ebb and flow beneath the mist and clouds of doubt and darkness as long as love kisses the lips of death."

A favorite story: A young fellow was writing a letter in a hotel lobby to his girl but brought the epistle to a sudden close with these words: "I would write you more but a villainous-looking Irishman is gnawing over my shoulder, reading every line I'm writing."

The Irishman exclaimed "You're a darn liar; I haven't read a word."

64 Lives pared To Year's

AUSTIN, Jan. 8 (AP)—The 1938 season showed a 64 per cent increase in the number of lives lost in automobile accidents, according to a report by the National Highway Traffic Safety Council.

As a result of the increase, the council says, the number of lives lost in automobile accidents in 1938 would be about 64 per cent more than in 1937.

1938 Shows 23 Per Cent Cut In Traffic Deaths

64 Lives Saved Compared To Previous Year's Record

AUSTIN, Jan. 4.—State police released their 1938 death book today and showed a gain of 23 per cent in the encounter between man and automobile.

As a result there are 464 motorists and pedestrians alive in Texas today who had the previous year's record been continued—would be dead. The 1938 death count rose to 1,579 persons, but remained far under the 1937 all-time high mark of 2,043 dead.

Strict supervision over reckless and speeding drivers, educational work, engineering and public opinion performed the feat, said Homer Garrison, Jr., public safety director, who had ordered Texas highway patrolmen concentrated at points where death had successfully stalked most of its victims in 1937.

Christmas holidays were seized with discouraging weather conditions which vaulted the death figures to an estimated 30 persons, but unofficial returns for the month of December showed a drop of 65 under that month of the previous year when 230 Texas travelers were killed.

Lowered speeds and more alertness on the part of drivers, Director Garrison pointed out, brought about a decrease of 1,189 among the year's injured. The total injury group included 14,994 persons, many of them never to walk again, the reports stated. A stronger driver's license law made effective in late 1937 was given credit in the safety march for removing three per cent of permit applicants from behind steering wheels.

A month by month comparison of the two years—1937 and 1938—revealed death reductions every month of the latter year with the exception of March. The lowest death month in 1938 was April with 94, the highest being the estimated 165 deaths in December. Similarly, sharp drops occurred in the injured persons columns.

Speaking of traffic law enforcement Garrison said an addition of 100 highway patrolmen to the force of 200 last June permitted expansions of patrol stations and a high increase in the number of arrests for reckless and drunken driving.

"Even with the limited body of 100 officers to maintain night and day patrol duties it is easily seen that the presence on the highways of double that force would save the lives of hundreds more motorists and pedestrians," Garrison said.

Methodist Episcopal Bishop Arthur J. Moore, returning from Shanghai to his headquarters in San Antonio, Texas, declared that more than 100 missions, hospitals and schools have been destroyed in the war between China and Japan. "A century's work has been dissipated," he said.

He commended the work of local traffic officers and safety associations of the state and cities in keeping the death record below the figure of the preceding year.

The safety official blamed a lack of vigilance on the part of drivers for many of the deaths, and pointed to the state law which gives vehicles approaching from the right clearance over all other travelers and the statute that was most violated in circumstances leading to collisions.

Speeding vehicles that do not have clearance in overtaking and passing others were responsible for the hundreds of fatal head-on collisions, he declared.

Texas Producers Get 42 Millions On AAA Program

300,000 Ranchmen and Farmers Share In Gov. Subsidy

COLLEGE STATION. — More than 300,000 Texas farmers and ranchmen who adopted the AAA's agricultural conservation program in 1938 will receive approximately $42,000,000 in conservation payments, to be distributed for the most part in January, February and March of 1939, according to current AAA estimates.

George Slaughter, Texas agricultural conservation committee chairman, said computation of payments is in full swing at AAA headquarters here and that checks will start going to producers about January 19.

He urged those eligible for payment to send in their applications for grant as early as possible, explaining that the state office cannot begin distribution of checks to a given county until at least 25 per cent of that county's applications for payment have been received.

Total 1938 payments will exceed the aggregate of 1937 checks by about $9,000,000; and the bulk of conservation grants will be issued considerably earlier this year, Slaughter predicted.

The money will go to cotton, wheat, rice and peanut farmers who substituted soil-conserving crops for some of their soil-depleting (cash) crops, and for carrying out other soil-building practices, and to ranchmen who have sought to improve and protect grazing land according to AAA range program specifications.

Slaughter represented these payments as "at least a step toward equalization of burdens imposed upon the man behind the plow by tariffs and freight rate differentials."

Youngest donors to the fund for a campus chapel at Texas State College for Women, Denton, are Misses Anita Lee Voelkel, 3 years, and Patricia Sue Voelkel, 8 months, who sent contributions of one dollar each. Prospective students of 1932 and 1935, the two small philanthropists are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit E. Voelkel of Austin and nieces of a present student at the college, Miss Minnie Mae Voelkel. The chapel will be about fifteen years old when they attend TSCW.

Memorial Museum At University To Open January 15

AUSTIN, Jan. 4.—The Texas Memorial Museum will open its doors on the University of Texas campus January 15. Dr. E. H. Sellards, director, announced here today.

The $600,000 building, built by American Legion, ex-student and student contributions augmented by federal funds, has been completed, except for landscaping, since early November. Its opening, however, has been delayed until exhibits in the University's collection could be housed.

The building is of white shell stone, and the architecture is simple Grecian style. Natural lighting is furnished by the three glass-brick windows, 25 feet wide and 67 feet high. Fifteen tons of structural glass were employed in building the windows.

Prominent in these exhibits are the 13 dioramas showing the history of Texas from 1718 to 1876. Collections of early English china, American colonial crystal, majolica pottery, early Texas costumes and a display of Texas horns are grouped in the history division.

Outstanding of the botany and zoology exhibits, housed on the third floor, are rare exhibits of Texas insect, plant and animal life.

The anthropological exhibits range from collections of Chinese and Gaudemalan costumes, implements of early Texas Indians, and the skeletons and household implements of a group burial taken undisturbed from Lamar county, Texas.

The geology exhibits include large relief maps of Texas from its earliest geologic days to the present relief topography. Three-dimensional dioramas in this exhibit show the underground and surface structure of the most famous Texas oil fields. Also prominent is a collection of "tektites," believed to be the only "glassy" meteorites in this continent; and an exhibit of fossil elephant and mastodon bones taken from South Texas.

THE BITE THAT FAILED

Texas Business Fares Better Than Nation's Average, Report Says

AUSTIN, Jan. 4.—Texas business continues to fare better, economically speaking, than that of the remainder of the country, Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the bureau of business research at the University of Texas, pointed out today as he surveyed the outlook for Texas industry and trade at the end of 1938.

"Compared with the nation as a whole, the business decline during the past year in this state has been mild and indications are that Texas will soon follow the upward trend of national business thus escaping most of the rigors of the depression experienced during the past year in the North and East," he said. "During 1938 manufacturing employment in Texas has been approximately 8 per cent under last year, as compared with a drop in manufacturing employment in the country as a whole of approximately 20 per cent. Texas factories show decreased pay rolls under last year of approximately 5 per cent; while factory pay rolls in the nation have decreased approximately 27 per cent.

Planned for Comfort and Efficiency

This inexpensive compact home in Connecticut was appraised by the Federal Housing Administration at $8,900 and was built with the aid of a mortgage insured for $2,900 by FHA. The home, of frame casework, shows the result of careful planning through its efficient arrangement of rooms. The bathroom is accessible from each bedroom and the living room without the necessity of passing through any other room.

Income Of Livestock Producer Up, Cotton Drops For November

AUSTIN, Jan. 4.—Cash income from agriculture in Texas dropped sharply during November from the November, 1937, figure, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the bureau of business research at the University of Texas. The decline was due chiefly to reduced revenue from cotton and cottonseed, he said. Receipts from cattle, calves, and sheep were well above the income from these sources last year. Total farm cash income for the state during November as computed by the University bureau was $39,758,000, compared with $57,514,000 during November, 1937, a decline of 31 per cent. Aggregate farm cash income from January to November, inclusive, was $380,740,000, compared with $508,590,000 during the corresponding period of 1937, a decline of 25 per cent. Government farm subsidies are not included in these computations, Dr. Buechel said.

For 11 Years—Reasonable Prices and Terms!

A map maker made a mistake several years ago. He forgot to put a touch of yellow on a dot of land in the St. Lawrence river, known as Barnhart Island. As a result, the island appeared in white on the new map. This meant that it was part of Canada instead of New York State. The error was copied in new maps. Now, however, it has been discovered. A bit of yellow will give Uncle Sam a 400-acre Christmas present—an island which he already owns.

Services Of Expert Advised In Altering

When an old house is bought with the intention of modernizing the services of an expert are generally required to determine to what extent modernization is necessary to make the house comfortable for modern living.

There is a certain amount of interior inspection, however, which may be made by the layman.

Some of the things to check in examining a house include leaky faucets, clogged drains, sticking doors and windows, broken sash cords, and weather stripping. The prospective purchaser should see if the baseboards have shrunk or if they fit snugly to the floor. Creaking floors should be checked. The plaster, especially at the top of door frames, should be checked for cracks, and all exposed wires should be examined to determine whether or not they are properly insulated.

HOUSES WENT CHEAP

LIVERPOOL, England.—There was only one bid when two houses were put up at auction in Liverpool. They were knocked down for $2.50 apiece. Reason—the houses are scheduled for demolition.

Approximately 600,000 passengers travel daily by train in and out of New York.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q. What causes excessive resilience in our living-room floor?

A. The floor should be examined by a competent carpenter. The floor joists may be too small or too widely spaced or not sufficiently braced with bridging. All wood floors have a certain amount of spring.

Q. How far should a concrete footing under a chimney go down for a one-story house?

A. All footings should be designed of a size to support adequately the load to be carried. They should extend below the frost line prevailing in the neighborhood.

Q. I would like a frosted or obscure glass effect on one of my windows. How can this be done without replacing the present glass?

A. Clean the glass with alcohol; cut out a sheet of tissue paper of the desired color to fit the glass and apply a spar varnish thinned with a quarter as much turpentine. This will penetrate the paper and stick it to the glass, as well as make the paper water-resistant.

Q. Several of the doors in my house stick. What can be done to correct this?

A. Possibly the screws of the hinges are loose. If this is not the case, maybe you can countersink the hinges a little deeper in the door and eliminate the sticking. Otherwise it may be necessary to plane the edges of the door.

Q. How can I prevent the woodwork of my house becoming mildewed?

A. Mildew on woodwork is caused by excessive moisture in the wood itself. Woodwork often absorbs too much moisture if not properly back-painted. If this is the case, the remedy is to remove the woodwork and back-paint with a good protective primer. The face of the woodwork should also be primed.

Q. The floors in our house are all painted. Will waxing help preserve them?

A. Waxing should prolong the life of the paint considerably.

Q. What type of architecture is best suited for a small home?

A. It is a matter of individual taste, but climate and local conditions should be given consideration.

30 Descendants Honor Jones Millers On 61st Wedding Anniversary

Approximately thirty descendants, children, grandchildren and great grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Jones Miller gathered at the Miller home here Sunday to honor the pioneer Crockett couple on their sixty-first wedding anniversary and Mr. Miller's eighty-first birthday.

It's a tradition, this family gathering and celebration on New Year's day and is the highlight of the year for members of the group, and especially for the honored couple. All of the children of the couple were present with the exception of Mrs. P. T. Robison, who was unable to attend. The other children, Mrs. J. W. Owens, Mrs. Paul Hallecomb, Will, Rob and Roy Miller were all present.

In the drawing for money prizes following the turkey dinner, Mrs. Paul Hallecomb, Mrs. Will Miller and Mrs. Slick Miller drew the lucky envelopes, containing the grand prizes for each group. Games were enjoyed during the afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Sberburge spent New Year's in Kerrville and Bandera.

And then they'll stand right there the rest of the day, to make sure they get to see every bloody detail, from beginning to end.

Ranching's come to a pretty pass these days. Out on the rolling prairie country around Big Lake and Rankin, some ranchers don't even own a saddle horse. They round-up their stock in a pick-up truck.

Imagine, roping a sheep from a pick-up! Me—I'm agin it."

Notice to women with matrimonial aspirations: Get a job as a waitress in Happy Walker's cafe at Eden. Marriage is assured.

Happy's wife claims they can hardly get a girl trained for the work before she's got some Concho county farmer or ranchman roped and hog-tied. They've lost 11 girls in the last couple of three years.

Better get in your application soon, on account of the present waitress, Miss Julia Pearl Cochran, is young and mighty good-looking and has been there several months now and isn't expected to last much longer.

Every man who does any amount of writing is going to make some mistakes. I make them regularly. And regularly the editors are tromping on me for doing it. For which reason, I ought not raise too big a howl when I catch some other poor pounder of the keys sticking out his neck.

But, if ever I'm caught having a horse lick his master to show affection and then lap water like a dog to get a drink, both in the same story, like I read the other day—will somebody come kick the seat of my pants right hard. I'll have it coming to me.

That writer never saw a horse.

Speaking of writers, I stepped into the office of the McCamey News the other day and found J. L. Martin tapping out a two-fingered jitterbug rhythm on a virtually extinct species of typewriter known as the "Oliver."

"What's it going to be this time?" I questioned.

He leaned back and stroked three hairs across his bald pate and replied: "I'm doing a book on metaphysics, I don't think anybody knows anything about metaphysics, therefore I feel that I'm as capable of writing a book on the subject as any man I know."

Jimmie, his son and editor of the News, doesn't figure his father's work is going to be terribly interesting, however.

"I caught him reading over a part of what he'd written the other day," Jimmie said, "and the next time I looked his way, he was sound asleep."

But try reading the old man's

"Just a Missourian" sometime, or his "Delmaree," the only poem by an American author written in dactylic hexameter, other than "Evangeline." You'll likely figure then that Jimmie's likely wrong about how interesting this book's likely to be.

changes in plans for the new year. The last of local applications for payments for 1938 practices were mailed to state headquarters from the local agent's office this week. It was reported. There were a total of 117 participating land owners and lessees, who will receive a total of $150,000 in government funds for improvement practices. These practices included for the most part prickly pear eradication and tank building, with some cedar and lechuguilla eradication, deferred grazing, contour ridging and other approved practices.

The county association's operating expense was reduced to an estimated 1 per cent during the past year, the county agent reported. This is considerably below the state average of administrative cost, which was 2.6 per cent last year, and is estimated at about the same figure this year. This county's administrative cost last year was 2.5 per cent.

Payments for 1938 work are expected to start coming in within the next two or three weeks. Ninety-seven compliance reports were sent in several weeks ago and the remaining were sent in this week.

Several ranchmen have already started work on 1939 practices. County Agent Van Zandt reports. Tow Owens is clearing prickly pear from 12 sections, Stephens Perner is clearing about two sections and George Bean is starting clearing of some six sections.

member of the Massie Foundation administrative committee, will speak in behalf of that group, and Judge Charles E. Davidson, veteran Crockett County Judge, will pay tribute to the memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Massie. Then will follow expressions of appreciation from residents of the Mexican community, and group singing by Mexican boys and girls.

Miss Mary Riddle will speak on ideals of the community house, and Mrs. S. L. Batchelor of San Antonio, president of the West Texas Woman's conference, will speak. Mrs. J. W. Downs, home secretary of the Woman's council of the Methodist Episcopal church, will also be here and will address the assembly. Mrs. Downs is from Nashville, Tenn., and heads the group which sponsors community work among underprivileged throughout the southern area of the Methodist church.

The dedication address will be made by Mrs. L. B. Cox, Jr., president of the Woman's Missionary society of the Methodist church, made by Mrs. L. B. Cox.

A hymn, "Blessed Be the Tie that Binds," will follow, after which Rev. A. C. Nance, minister of the Church of Christ, will pronounce the benediction.

Henry Jackson of San Angelo, chairman of the Massie Foundation board, is expected to be here and it is hoped that all members of the board may be able to be present. Efforts are also being made to have Miss Mary Saldana and Frank Bernal, San Antonio Mexican couple who spent several months here last year doing settlement work among the local Mexican population. Both Miss Saldana and Bernal are products of the Wesley House, a similar institution, in San Antonio. A cordial invitation is extended everybody in Ozona to take part in this dedication service.

OUR PROFESSIONAL INTEGRITY

Is Represented in that Symbol

While Webster's Dictionary defines the symbol as a "Mark; used in a prescription to indicate that directions are to be put on the medicine package," it has taken a different meaning in the eyes of the public. They have come to accept it as a mark indicating that only a person with professional training and great reliability shall compound the drugs called for in the prescription. We have adopted the last as our definition. Every prescription brought to our store will be filled according to the following precepts:

SAFE...

Only registered pharmacists fill your prescriptions... exercising the greatest possible care to compound them exactly as ordered by your doctor.

HONEST...

Only the highest quality chemicals will be used. Every care will be taken to see that these are fresh at all times. No substitutions will be permitted.

ECONOMICAL...

Only a price that is fair will be charged. Many prescriptions call for chemicals that are expensive and difficult to obtain... naturally they require a higher price. However, no prescription will be charged for at exorbitant rates.

We have appreciated the patronage of this community over the past years, and state this pledge to you as an indication of our future plans for the operation of this business.
