

THE SPORTS PARADE

By HANK HART

Cooperating

Several of the committeemen who had a big hand in helping incorporate the Big Spring baseball club intend to put the club over on a big advertising scheme, others have agreed to give the San Antonio and West Fifth street park a thorough going over while still others are going to see to it that the players' uniforms are spick and span by game time, a series of moves which show that the workers are serious about reorganization.

Harold Beck, heading the publicity committee, intends to have handbills printed before game time today and put placards up over town to keep the populace informed as to when and where the games are being played. Herbert Keating and Bill Satterwhite have been delegated to see to it that the park is cleaned up and made presentable for the fans, while Harvey Clay, local cleaner and presser, gathered up all the players' uniforms this morning and was to have them ready immediately after high noon.

The playing field will be worked over as soon as possible. Dirt will be hauled both to the infield and the outfield and will be ready by the time the lights are turned on. The infield has long been an "eyesore." Rocks need to be picked up around second base and shortstop while the outfield is known to have several holes that make it dangerous for a fielder to run.

One of the workers cracked wisely during the Thursday night confab that "T-bones and shoe strings have done much to put this deal over if it did go through." Well aware of that fact are the directors. L. L. Guley, who operates the Busy Bee restaurant on lower Main, and John Collins, owner of the Master Cafe, who remained with the boys through thick and thin and are to be lauded for their earnest work.

Too, the deal wouldn't have been successful without the cooperation of Bob Cooke and T. J. A. Robinson, who have devoted a lot of time toward keeping the interest up and to Ray Ogden, who never has lost his enthusiasm.

Clarence Garmes, KST's congenial sports announcer, is leaving town Monday to assume a position in Tampa but he has worked up to the very last moment with the boosters. He's going to be missed.

Good Decision

Jack Hutcherson, franchise holder, made a trip to Lubbock to see about disposing of Johnny Soden, ace right-hander, but the deal didn't go through and it was discovered that the ripple could be made without sacrificing him. The club had been offered $750 for his services, that agreement calling for delivery at the end of the season. Now directors feel that they have at least two ball players who are going to bring much more attractive prices come August. Soden is worth twice as much while Willard Ramsdell, the Kansan, is pitching better ball than anyone on the club at the present time.

Allen Berndt should be ready by the end of the year. If he isn't worked down. Others may develop.

Doug Jones, who was defeated in Mertz trophy play Wednesday, decided not to enter the San Antonio "invitational" golf tournament. He announced his intention of withdrawing from active play for a week or two due to the fact that he thought he was "burned out."

Big Spring's first miniature golf course in several years will be officially opened here within a few days. Located on South Scurry street, it is to be operated by M. K. House, Sr.

Leave For AMA Tour In Austin

20 Riders Accompany President Thixton To Convention

Twenty riders of the Lone Star Motorcycle club were slated to leave Big Spring this morning for Austin where they are to attend the annual Texas Gypsy tour, a two day convention attracting cyclists from throughout the southwest.

Among the riders was President Cecil Thixton, who will recommend Big Spring as a probable site for the tour for 1939.

The meeting was held in San Angelo in 1937, the only time that the AMA sponsored "get-together" has been staged in West Texas and Thixton said he felt like Big Spring has an excellent chance to gain the award.

The tour yearly attracts 3,000 or more riders. Events staged are similar to the program Thixton staged here last month.

Following the two day convention the Big Spring representatives are to go to Corpus Christi for a short holiday.

HARBERT LOOMS AS THREAT IN WESTERN PLAY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 15 (AP)—Chick Harbert, of Battle Creek, Mich., who started playing golf at the tender age of 3-1-2, ranked as a dangerous threat today to displace Wilford Wehrle, Racine, Wis., as Western Amateur golf champion.

Harbert, who learned the game from his father, a professional, is one of the longest hitters in the game. At 23 he holds the world's medal play record, 268 for 72, 20 under par, established in winning the Michigan State open last year.

Harbert went in the third round match play over the Chain O' Lakes course with Billy Holt as his opponent. He got in by defeating John Holmstrom, Rockford, Ill., Illinois state champion, 4 and 3, and then walloping Harry Todd, Dallas, Texas, 5 and 3.

The 16 survivors of the first two match play rounds found former Champion Gus Moreland, Peoria, Ill., and the defending titleholder still in the running. Wehrle took on Johnny David of Indianapolis today while Mor and was pitted against Maurice McCarthy of Cleveland, who conquered Paul Leslie of Baton Rouge, La., yesterday.

GOSHEEN, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—Having failed to establish a new record over a half-mile track, Greyhound, world's premier trotter, will confine his activities to mile ovals the rest of the season.

The grey speedster from E. J. Baker's stable of St. Charles, Ill., tried to lower his own world mark of 1:59.3-4 at the historic track yesterday but had to be content with 2:01 for the twice-around-track.

Sep. Palla of Indianapolis, trainer and driver of the gelding, plans to start him next in a free-for-all trot at the grand circuit meeting at Agawam Park, Springfield, Mass.

CHECKER ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICIALS

DALLAS, July 15 (AP)—Dr. J. W. Robinson of Paris heads the Texas State Checker association for the coming year. He was elected yesterday as the organization closed its annual tournament in which A. J. Temple of Dallas was crowned champion.

The 1938 tournament site had not been definitely awarded, but was expected to go to Paris as an all-Southwestern event attracting players from Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

FINLAND READY FOR GAMES

SIMPLICITY OF HELSINGFORS IS NOTED

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Now that Japan has tossed in the towel, the 1940 Olympic games are almost certain to be conducted in Helsingfors, Finland, a neat little city of 200,000 in the Far North, only a brief reindeer drive from the Arctic Circle.

The site, if approved by the International Olympic committee at a special meeting to be called by the president, Count Henry de Baillet-Latour, of Belgium, will supply in great quantities the bucolic simplicity that the Olympic folks have been wanting to get back to.

When the Finns originally bid for the 1940 games, and lost out to Japan, their big talking point was the promise that they wouldn't spoil the boys with elegant surroundings, such as they were forced to endure at Los Angeles in '32 and at Berlin in '36.

Only Two Years

Now that they will have two less years to prepare for the event than they had foreseen, there seems practically no limit to the simplicity which the Finnish people might achieve. They should be able to appose the Spartan instincts of the most rugged of the Olympic badge-wearers.

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Ben Leonard has closed his midtown eatery and is taking life easy at Long Beach.... In the four games he has played since leaving the hospital, Burgess Whitehead hasn't made a bobble.... Bill Terry still hopes the North Carolinian will be back to help the Giants down the stretch.

A bunch of live wires down at Hattiesburg, Miss., are planning a novel stunt.... By agreement with the University of Southern California, Alabama will not begin football practice this fall until September 6.... The Crimson Tide plays the Trojans in Los Angeles Sept. 24.

MARSHALL WIDENS ETEX LEAGUE LEAD

By The Associated Press

The Marshall Tigers need only to get rid of the Texarkana Liners and the East Texas League race will become a gentle breeze.

Today the Bengals hold a nine and one-half game lead over third place Henderson and a half game more over the Tyler Trojans.

Texarkana remains in striking distance but the Liners must show more consistency than it unless Marshall loses some of its own.

Last night Marshall beat Henderson, 3-4, while the Liners were falling before Kilgore, 11-5. Tyler downed Jacksonville, 5-4, and Palestine beat Longview, 5-4.

The Tigers just wore out the Oilers in a free-hitting game. Kilgore used the willow more extensively than Texarkana. Fred Borwning and Jack Lavis kept Jacksonville hits well-scattered and Tyler cashed in in the clinches. Palestine won its fourth straight game by timely hitting behind shut pitching by Dixie Johnson.

Homer Peel To Join Toledo

PORT WORTH, July 15 (AP)—The Fort Worth baseball club of the Texas League had solved the problem of what to do with its erstwhile manager, Homer Peel.

Peel, who was fired last week, was reported to have been offered a position as manager of the Toledo team, but he had declined the offer.

TUNNEY THINKS LOUIS WILL BE CHAMP FOR LONG TIME

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP)—Gene Tunney believes that boxing's heavyweight champion, Gene Tunney, is looking securely on the head of Joe Louis—"at least for five more years and probably longer than that."

The former heavyweight titleholder, who came here preparatory to addressing educators attending a Purdue university summer session, is convinced that none of the current crop of fighters is capable of whipping the brown bomber.

What type of fighter will defeat Louis, should he remain active? "A good boxer," replied Tunney, "and a fellow who won't allow himself to be hit in the rear."

Jacot Limits Opposition To 6 Hits

Taken Here Today, Lubbock Comes In For Two Sunday

The Big Spring Barons returned home this morning and prepared to go to work. Their immediate objective at the present time in the WT-NM league standings, now held by the Wink Spudgers. Today their opponents at Barons field will be those same Wink Spudgers and it will be Pat Stacey's job to carry the pitching chores.

Enheartened by the news that the Big Spring club had become a corporation and they were about to receive their paychecks for the first time in more than a month, the Big Springers went out and won themselves a ball game Thursday night, defeating the Hobbs Boosters, 4-2. While Lefty Frankie Jacot was stopping the Rabehens with six scattered hits and giving up his only runs in the fourth frame the Barons were piling on Russell for 11 safe hits and the necessary marks in the late stages of the game.

Win in Eighth

They contributed the tying hit in the fifth frame, then kicked through with counters in the eighth and ninth frames.

Directors of the club, meanwhile, set about to ready things for their return and indications were that everything would be shipshape when the players took the field at 4:30 this afternoon. The official met for a short confab this morning.

The Barons will oppose the Spudgers again Saturday in a game beginning at 4 p. m., then grapple with the Lubbock Hubbers in a doubleheader Sunday and a single battle Monday.

Midland defeated Clovis again, 9-5, in a stormy game at Midland while the Wink-Lubbock fracas was rained out.

HAVERFORD, Pa., July 15 (AP)—The East's last contender for the national junior tennis interscholastic championship, William D. Stauder, of Millburn, N. J., faced a difficult hurdle today in Charles "Red" Olewine, of Santa Monica, Calif.

Olewine yesterday came through with an easy straight set, 6-1, 6-1, triumph over the defending champion, William Gillespie, of Atlanta. Umsieder had his hands full in defeating Richard McKee, of Miami Beach, 5-7, 6-5, 9-7.

Don Buffington, of Atlanta, and John Kramer, of Los Angeles, clash in the other semi-final.

Buffington yesterday eliminated Melville Jordan, Jr., of Woodbury Forest School, Va., 12-10, 6-2, while Kramer won over Larry Dee, of San Francisco, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

In the other semi-final Paul Runyan, 1934 champion from White Plains, N. Y., shot a 35, to be three up on tall Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa.

TEXAN IS VICTIM OF GUN ACCIDENT

MARLOW, Okla., July 15 (AP)—Thurman T. Dodson, 20, Plainview, was killed yesterday when an accidental blast from a shotgun struck him in the chest. O. E. Nite, a relative, at whose home home shooting occurred, said Dodson came here Wednesday to work in the brown corn harvest. He said that when Dodson went to a car to get the shotgun, with which he had been hunting rabbits, he pulled the gun toward him by the muzzle. Nite said something apparently caught the trigger and discharged the gun.

Lefty Grove's Arm Is Ailing

'Soupbone' Breaks Down At Midgame As Sox Triumph

By SID FEDER Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON, July 15 (AP)—The mysterious ailment that numbed Bob (Lefty) Grove's ailing but craftily pitched arm was tentatively diagnosed today as an intermittent claudication (a spasm of blood vessels) by Dr. Edward J. O'Brien, the Red Sox physician.

Although he described it as "unusual," Dr. O'Brien reported to General Manager Eddie Collins that indications pointed to a complete recovery.

They had lean Lefty Grove in a hospital today with a "dead arm," and the rumors started the rounds that old Moss may not pitch any more this year.

Of course, there's no definite word yet that the greatest southpaw of his generation is on the shelf, and first reports from physicians indicated things may not be as bad as at first suspected.

But when a pitcher like Grove, particularly a 35-year-old pitcher, can't even hold a ball, let alone fire it across, you can look for almost anything.

It would be the toughest kind of a break for Lefty, for Sox manager, most of all, for the Boston Red Sox, if the ailing soupbone that sent the great Grove to the hospital yesterday should keep him on the sidelines.

Grove, with his fast one gone but his pitching "brains" working better than ever, seemed headed for one of the greatest campaigns in his 15-year career. Yesterday's 15-11 wallop of the Sox handed the Detroit Tigers was the portend of a 14th win of the season, even though Jackie Wilson had to finish. With Perry just about half over, Lefty showed no signs of let-up, it's reasonable to assume he might have won 28 games, which, they'll tell you, is fair to middlin' flinging.

It was positively weird the way it happened yesterday. There was Lefty, going along great, tossing shutout ball. All of a sudden, in the fifth inning, his salary wing folded. There was no muscular reaction. He couldn't even grip the ball.

Pirates Full Ahead

"I've never had such an experience before," he related afterward. "Physicians wouldn't even hazard an opinion until, as they explained, they completed long diagnosis and extensive X-ray examination. The unfortunate collapse of Lefty's arm was the top development of a big league program that saw the Pittsburgh Pirates pull half a game in front of the Giants in the National league race, and the Yankees remain at the head of the American league flag chase.

The Pirates scored twice in the ninth on a wild pitch to tie, and then won out 3-2 in the 11th over the Dodgers. The Giants dropped a 1-4 decision to the Cleveland Reds with a pair of errors producing the only run in their third straight defeat.

Shortly afterward, Manager Bill Terry announced indefinite suspension, without pay, for his No. 1 catcher, Harry Danning, who has been ailing several days. Although Terry said it was for breaking training, mystery surrounded the whole business.

Tommy Henrich's homer sparked the Yanks to a 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Browns in a game cut to seven innings by rain. There was no change in the standings, however, since Cleveland whipped the Washington Senators 5-1.

Clay Bryant took a three-hitter and Bill Lee a five-hitter as the Cubs clouted the Phillies twice, 3-0 and 5-1. The Boston Bees fired a 15-hit bombardment and trampled the Cardinals 10-5. The White Sox topped the Athletics 9-3.

S. ROBBINS LOW BIG SPRING QUALIFIER IN ANGELO MEET

SAN ANGELO, July 15 (AP)—Three Big Spring golfers made the championship flight in the San Angelo invitational golf tournament which got underway here Thursday with the qualifying round.

While A. G. Weender, San Angelo, was gaining medalist honors with a 71, even par, Shirley Robbins took low score for the Howard county trio with a 70.

Frank Morgan trailed with a 76 while Jimmy Lyles came in with a 72.

Robbins will oppose Ralph Trullinger, Lubbock, who shot a first round 70; Morgan meets with Billy Bob Coffey, Ft. Worth, who had a 73; while Lyles is to play the medalist.

First and second round medalists are to be played today, quarterfinals and semifinalists Saturday with a final match set for Sunday.

Cunningham Whiffs 16 Batters In 8-1 Victory

With L. D. Cunningham retiring 16 batters on strikes, the Big Spring Motor company softball crew walloped the West Siders in the feature game at the Mundy diamond Thursday night.

The West Siders collected their only tally in the third frame.

Cunningham paced his team at bat, getting a home run and two singles.

Conoco came from behind to snag honors in the other battle, kicking T&P, 6-3, on a four-run uprising in the sixth frame.

McDonald accounted for two of the Chiefs' runs with a circuit smash in the third stanza.

Society + THE WORLD OF WOMEN + Fashions

Students Of Conference Adopt Slogan Which They Follow Daily

"What we all do, we do together"—a slogan adopted by the second annual young peoples' conference in session on scenic Mountain Island, is exemplified throughout a daily schedule followed by the 67 students and 11 faculty members assembled for worship, study and constructive play.

The entire group retires at 10 o'clock, arises at 6 o'clock, eat at the same hours, study and play on schedule, attend vespers and chapel services in a body, and sing songs of old and new together.

Pep and conference spirit is stimulated by the catchwords "Hurry, Harry, Hurry," which have almost become a song of enchantment among the students who go about the campus repeating the magic words.

"Take Lid Off"

After several hours of classroom work, students gather in the mess hall for lunch and do what they call "taking the lid off" for a relaxing time by singing peppy rounds and novelty songs under the competent leadership of Marjorie Burrows of McCamey, who is conference president, and Harold Rea, recreational director, pastor of the First Christian church.

"The lunch hour is concluded with the singing of the sacred hymn, 'When He Calls Me, I Will Answer' and the boys and girls go to their dormitories for an hour of rest.

Eighteen churches are represented in the conference which is held for intermediates and seniors of the First Christian. Students are here for the week of training from Ranger, Stamford, Abilene, Brownwood, Coleman, Ballinger, two churches of San Angelo, Fort Stockton, McCamey, Pecos, Monahans, Odessa, Midland, Slaton, Post, Spur, Crowell and Big Spring.

Food Consumed

Mrs. Anna Stagg, who has charge of the kitchen and dining room, is assisted by five others in serving three hot meals every day. She says she and her helpers arise at 5 o'clock each morning in order to have breakfast ready by 7 o'clock. To give one an idea of the amount of food consumed, 25 pounds of sugar are used daily for food alone.

Following a rest and quiet hour in the afternoon, a recreational period is held at which time contests and games are played. In the evening the old ballads are sung and the Rev. C. C. Schurman, pastor of the local church, brings a brief message on "Mountain Top Experiences" at the vesper service which is held in the moonlight.

One of the most impressive activities of the conference is the Friendship Circle which concludes the day's program. Each joins hands reverently while an inspiring message is delivered by one selected.

The dormitories, dining hall and chapel hall were originally the CCC barracks on scenic Mountain Island.

Thursday afternoon the group went on a hike and picnic and Friday the highlight of the day will be a movie of life in China by O. J. Goulter, missionary of that country.

Saturday evening the annual consecration and communion service will take place and Sunday morning there will be a sermon which closes the conference.

Faculty Members

The faculty consists of Ray Lindsey of San Antonio, dean of training school; Charles Marion Ross of Fort Worth, regional director; the Rev. C. C. Schurman, local pastor, local director; C. A. Johnson of Odessa, dean of men; Mrs. Wallace Jones of Ballinger, dean of women; the Rev. Oliver Harrison, Pecos; Albert Jones, Stamford; the Rev. J. E. Pickering, Midland; Mrs. Dean Chennoweth and E. H. Henson, San Angelo; E. J. Goulter, missionary of China; and Harrel Rea, Post.

Missionary To Fill Pulpit Here Sunday At First Christian

O. J. Goulter, missionary of China who is here as a faculty member of the young peoples' conference, is to fill the pulpit of the First Christian church Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock, the Rev. G. C. Schurman, pastor, announces.

He has selected for his subject, "Missions Amid the Flames of Invasion." What part have missions played in building the New China which has emerged with such amazing rapidity? Why are missionaries staying on during Japanese invasion, at the risk of their lives? What is the reaction of China to the most extensive piece of missionary service the world has ever seen? This and similar questions will be dealt with by the speaker in his address on the modern missionary program in China and its results.

China's greatest leaders, General and Madame Chiang, are Christians and are earnestly striving to establish China as a modern nation with a republican government, Mr. Goulter said.

Mr. Goulter has worked in China for 15 years during which time he was in the midst of her most densely populated areas. He has done famine relief work and has made a survey of rural education for the Chinese government as well as directed a rural extension program for the government.

He and his family will be returning to China shortly to work in the territory now being desolated by the Japanese military machine.

READING AND WRITING

"CASTAWAY BOATS," by Captain Victor Slocum (Farrar: $2).

Those who suspect Friday of being a bad day to start a voyage will find some comfort in one of Captain Victor Slocum's stories which he includes in "Castaway Boats."

This is the story of the "Saginaw's" gig, not by any means the most dramatic of the 14 records which make up the book, but the one which somehow interested this reader most. Danger, privation and in some instances death followed the departure of the "Saginaw" from the Midway Islands on a Friday, and the departure of the ship's gig from the scene of the subsequent wreck—also on Friday. At least some of the ship's crew believed Friday was a factor.

The "Saginaw" had been sent to the Midway Islands to prepare a coaling station. The men were delighted when the appropriation ran out and the "Saginaw" was ordered home. Before it could head for San Francisco, however, the ship was required by naval custom to visit Ocean Island, a danger responsible for several shipwrecks and a likely spot for castaways. The ship cracked up on a reef instead.

There was a curious efficiency about what followed. Part of the wreck disappeared, and part stuck on the reef. Captain Slocum directed most intelligent efforts at salvage. Water, stores and so forth were saved so far as possible—when the crew found that the reef abounded in rats they were ordered not to kill them because later they might be needed for food.

The detail must be shipped. Captain Slocum at once initiated three projects: the ship's gig was prepared for a voyage to Honolulu; another salvaged boat was made ready to return to the Midway Island to post notice of the "Saginaw's" plight; the construction of a schooner was begun, using the scraps of wood saved from the smash. Stores were slender, but fairly administered.

But the journey of the gig, though it did bring rescue, was one of the most shocking hardships, and it was heart-breaking. For just as the Sandwich Islands were reached a breaker caught the gig unaware, it overturned, and all but one of its exhausted crew of five drowned.

BLOOD SPILLS ANEW AS JEWS, ARABS DISPUTE HOLY LAND

IN PALESTINE, THE HOLY LAND—"Holy" to Moslems, Jews and Christians who for centuries have lived there, each group retaining its own customs—in Tel Aviv, a street of which is shown above. Tel Aviv, all-Jewish city, has been established about 26 years, has a population close to 125,000, and is near Jaffa. Tel Aviv figures inevitably in stories of Jewish-Arab disturbances which spring from the plan for a Jewish national home in Palestine to shelter Jewish refugees, and from the Arabs' deep-rooted conviction that Palestine is their own land.

SOLDIERS AND SHIPS have been rushed to Palestine by England whose scheme to divide Palestine into three states—Arabian, British, and Jewish—is opposed by Arabs and Jews. Above a British railcar patrols railway line between all-Jewish Tel Aviv and Haifa, scene of bloodiest of recent outbreaks. Jerusalem, sacred to Christianity, has also seen rioting.

"Vital Questions" In Sermon Theme

"Vital Questions" was the subject discussed last evening by Evangelist J. P. Crenshaw in the Church of Christ revival meeting now in progress at Fourteenth and Main streets.

Mr. Crenshaw said in part: "In Genesis 3:9 God asked the man that he had made this question: 'Where art thou?' The God that made you has a right to expect you to be just where you ought to be in your relation to Him. We may become partially hidden in the conflicting doctrines of the day, but the time will come when God will call us to face Him, and answer this question.

"In Genesis 4:9 this question is asked: 'Where is thy brother?' I am my brother's keeper and I will have to answer for the influence exerted on my fellowman.

"We read in Matt. 2:2 a question asked by the wise men, namely: 'Where is he that is born King?' It truly is a question worthy of the consideration of wise men. It happens in the world to come to be my lot, I must find Christ while here.

"In Acts 9:6 we read of another vital question: 'Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?' If a man reaches the place in his serious thinking that he is ready to submit to anything the Lord demands, he will then be sure to ask of the Lord Jesus of man what is necessary for his salvation. Notwithstanding the conflicting doctrines taught, a man can with the word of the Lord learn his duty and do it and be found well pleasing unto God."

Investigation Of Project Ordered

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Administrator Ickes suspended action on eight public works projects in California today and ordered an investigation to determine whether a lobbyist was active in their behalf.

A memorandum Ickes sent to Assistant PWA Administrator Howard Gray, suspending the projects, declared that Glenn E. Miller, identified as the lobbyist, was "persons non grata to the Public Works Administration."

Ickes' action followed suspension earlier in the week of a Riverside, Calif., application for a sewer system project after investigation disclosed the city had paid Miller $1,000 for "alleged services" in its behalf.

Bomb Explodes In Jerusalem Street

JERUSALEM, July 15 (AP)—A bomb explosion in the midst of an Arab bazaar crowd in David street in the old city of Jerusalem today led to rioting and brought British troops and police to the scene.

Six Arabs were killed and 40 wounded in the explosion and the ensuing clash, adding to the tragic toll of the Holy Land disorders which became acute again July 11.

Police closed all the gates of the old city. The government hospital yard was quickly filled with wounded, stretcher bearers and relatives and friends of the victims.

The first contract for subway was awarded in 1900 in New York City.

Fritz Lanham Has Five Opponents In Race For Congressional Seat

FORT WORTH, July 15 (AP)—Fritz Lanham of Fort Worth, veteran of two decades in the national house of representatives, has more opponents in the July 29 democratic primary than any other member of the Texas congressional delegation.

Challenging him are Alvin E. Amos, first-term state representative from Fort Worth; Curtis McBroom, Fort Worth attorney and former resident of Weatherford; Lanham's old home; A. H. Wheeler, Arlington publisher; J. J. Connolly of Fort Worth; B. F. Barnes of Weatherford; and Dr. F. E. Harrison of Fort Worth.

Lanham has opposed President Roosevelt on certain measures and some of his adversaries attempt to make it an issue.

"I have supported President Roosevelt many times," the ten-term representative replies. "There are some things on which I have not agreed. If congressmen voted the way someone said every time we might as well not have a congress."

Lanham has said he is very fond of the president both personally and politically. He points out that in past years he campaigned for Mr. Roosevelt in doubtful areas.

The Fort Worth representative had four opponents in 1936 yet was spared the necessity of making a run-off campaign. He garnered 22,711 votes in the first primary to 15,044 for Julien C. Hyer and 12,623 for the three other candidates, one of whom was Dr. Harrison. Hyer then decided to withdraw.

Amos says he is 100 per cent for the new deal. He urges elimination of lobbyists and boss control of government, abolition of child labor and enforcement of a miniimum wages and maximum hours law. He has the endorsement of many old age pensioners here.

Dr. Harrison, who received but 1,600 votes in the 1936 race, operates a clinic-hospital. He states he favors federalization of old age pensions without paupers' oaths and protection for small independent business.

One of Wheeler's campaign planks is headed: "Stand by the president." A publisher of small town newspapers for 30 years, he asserts he is for the new deal with reservations, which any independent editor would make.

McBroom stresses support of the president's program in its entirety.

TO DEMONSTRATE 6-MAN FOOTBALL

DENTON, July 15 (AP)—Six man football will be demonstrated by former stars of North Texas State Teachers college tonight as a climax of a three-day coaching school directed by Jack Sisco, head gridiron mentor of the college.

Joe Allet, backfield coach at Louisiana Normal who is a leading advocate of the six-man game in his state, has presented the fundamentals of the novel sport which was first introduced in Nebraska four years ago.

Johnny Stovall, an all-time football great at North Texas Teachers college, will head the array of star players.

Dr. Will C. House's mother, Mrs. D. L. House, two sisters, Mrs. M. P. Baker and Mrs. Jim C. Mills, and sister-in-law, Mrs. J. M. House, all of Dallas, are expected to arrive Saturday to spend the weekend.

Wrecked Plane Is Found Off Sardinia

ROME, July 15 (AP)—Wreckage of an Italian airliner which plunged into the sea 70 miles off Sardinia carrying 20 persons to their deaths was found today by searching planes.

Victims of the biggest disaster in Italian civil aviation included six women and a girl among the 18 passengers and four crewmen.

The plane, "L-Volo" of the Ala Littoria line, left Cagliari, Sardinia, for Rome at 7:35 a. m. yesterday and its last radio signal was received at 9:04 a. m.

The official report of the accident said the sea was blanketed by thick fog and blamed the disaster on "a forced landing without visibility."

The girl victim was Laura Ferri, 14, niece of General Giuseppe Valle, undersecretary of aviation. The women passengers included her mother and aunt, sisters of the undersecretary.

The plane was piloted by Captain Giovanni Braccini, veteran flier.

Six bodies were recovered from the sea last night.

LIFETIME JOB FOR ALLRED

President Roosevelt wrapped up Jimmie Allred's social security number and handed him a lifetime job that means a stable portion of economic independence, a large amount of judicial prestige, and a chance for service that upholds the reputation of the courts. Good judges are the bulwark of freedom and justice.

One looks at Dan Moody who took to private law practice after his terms as governor. Since those days as the first citizen of Texas, he has accumulated an independent fortune. Likely Mr. Allred could have done the same for the prestige of gubernatorial experience could have been a material advantage in the practice of the legal profession. Pat Neff heads a great university. James E. Ferguson is one of the best of the lobbyists at Austin. Mrs. Ferguson is a housewife. Ross Sterling has done well in private business. W. P. Hobby became well-known as a newspaper publisher in Houston.

However, money should not be the first outlook of those who go from the governor's chair. It would be well if some arrangements could be made whereby those of distinguished service in the governor's chair could be retained in the public service in some place of honor and trust.

Mr. Allred has proved himself an apt politician, his record in the Texas executive's chair has been all that President Roosevelt said of it, now it remains to be determined if the judicial mind is as good as the political.

Conceivably, President Roosevelt may have solved two problems when he made the appointment. By naming Allred to the bench, he cleared the way for a good friend, Tom Connally, when next political wars are waged over the senate seat. Mr. Connally has supported most of the presidential measures and his opposition to the court reorganization bill was on such a plane that he retained the apparent confidence and friendship of the executive. Thus the appointment may have strengthened some political fences while rewarding a friend who has demonstrated liberal views such as the executive has wanted on the bench.

The likes of people differ, but down deep we all like much the same things in life. And we can enjoy seeing others like something, whether we ourselves like it or not. We can like the fact that they like it. Women like to look beautiful, and men like to look as though they had common sense. And men like beautiful women and women like to have men look at least half intelligent.

And if you'll come to see us here now often, you'll like us better yet better—because we know that you like in the way of good people and fair prices.

Today And Tomorrow

TODAY AND TOMORROW ... THE TURN SINCE APRIL

Living close to the event and following the details of the news day by day, it is extremely difficult to distinguish between what really matters in the long run for the peace of Europe and what is merely a momentary sensation. But it would seem, looking backward, that events took an important, perhaps a decisive, turn in the spring of this year, and that the present pause, the relative quiet which prevails just now, is due to the fact that all the governments concerned are adjusting themselves to the change.

If we look back to April just after the Nazi seizure of Austria and the negotiation of the Anglo-Italian agreement, we can see that the diplomacy of Europe was determined by three main expectations. One was that General Franco would win his war within a few weeks. The second was that Czechoslovakia was lost and that it would quickly be absorbed by Hitler. The third was that the British government under Mr. Chamberlain's leadership had discounted Spain and Czechoslovakia, and that it hoped these victories would satisfy Mussolini and Hitler sufficiently to make possible a general European peace based on agreements with Italy and Germany.

That is where matters stood at the end of April. Then events took a decisive turn and the three expectations turned out to be false. General Franco did not win a quick victory. The resistance of Republican Spain, strengthened by the arrival of munitions, proved sufficient to postpone more or less indefinitely the victory of General Franco. In May it transpired that Czechoslovakia was not another Austria, and that the Czechs could not be taken except by conquest in what would be a major war. The fact that Spain and Czechoslovakia did not collapse as expected undermined the policy of the Chamberlain government. For while Mr. Chamberlain might have permitted the Germans and Italians to win, he could not even if he had wished it, compel the Spanish republicans and the Czechs to surrender, or force France to connive at such an outcome.

This change in the situation as it stood in the spring and as it stands now, has been the cause of a radical change in the British conception of the European problem. The change is still in process. But unmistakably, there is under way a reevaluation of British policy inside the conservative party and inside the Chamberlain government.

Whereas it had been supposed in April that peace could be bought by abandoning Spain and Czechoslovakia, experience and further reflection have been leading to the conclusion that peace cannot be bought on these terms. From every quarter the evidence has been coming in that to abandon Spain and Czechoslovakia is not to win peace but to give to Germany and Italy the indispensable strategic means to fight a great war. With Czechoslovakia under German control, the resources of Central Europe would enable Germany to defy the power of the British navy. With Spain a part of the Fascist alliance, France is surrounded. The Mediterranean ceases to be a highway between France and her African empire, between Britain and her Near Eastern empire.

Thus instead of appeasing Germany and Italy by abandoning Spain and Czechoslovakia, the policy would give to Hitler and Mussolini such a strategic superiority that they could dictate the reorganization of Europe and the redistribution of the British and French empires.

There is little doubt that this view, held already by perhaps 80 per cent of the French is now taking hold in the minds of the British ruling class. That is why Mr. Chamberlain does not put the Anglo-Italian agreement into effect. That is why he is increasingly resigned to the fact that France would fight for Czechoslovakia, and that Britain cannot separate herself from France if there is a war.

Thus the great change in Europe since April may be said to be the realization that Spain and Czechoslovakia cannot be sacrificed to the cause of peace and that they must be defended in the interest of peace. It is, of course, a very dangerous policy. But Europe is an extremely dangerous place. The choice open is not between a safe course and a dangerous one, but only between a course which is more dangerous and one which is somewhat less dangerous.

The opinion now in the ascendant is that it is less dangerous to oppose Germany and Italy before they control the vital strategic points, that is now when they are unable to wage a long war, than it would be later when they were in a strategic position to fight a long war.

On this estimate of the position, the British and the French are tending to consolidate their forces. (Copyright, 1938, New York Tribune, Inc.)

Man About Manhattan
—by GEORGE TUCKER—

NEW YORK—With no intentions of slighting the fair cuties now displaying their charms on Broadway I must come out with the first statement that two little Mexican girls have more explosive "zing" than any showgirls in New York.

They are Joyita and Maravilla, and you may have seen them if you are partial to Mexican movies. For that is where they began their careers before Benito Collada, wielding more of that accustomed legendism, rounded them up in Mexico City and carted them off to his Greenwich Village residence, El Chico. He must have chaperoned these theatrical and nightclub operators down there to get them out of town with signed contracts.

Permit me then to be your go-between, since they speak no English and your correspondent knows nearly a dozen words in Spanish. Spoken to be sure, with some trace of a southern accent, but Spanish nevertheless, and here we go.

The Benoritas Joyita and Maravilla are sisters. They look about 18 but I suspect they are nudging 20. Maravilla is slightly taller, which brings her about five-feet-two. She has a countenance that is highlighted by a pair of the most amazing dimples you ever saw. Joyita is perhaps a year younger, barely reaches five feet in height, and has an engaging roughness that shimmers through her personality like moonlight in wine.

I should like at this point to give an adequate description of their eyes, but being no poet, I can only say that they are not just show-girl eyes. It is true they use mascara, and it is equally true that they use all the tricks of theatrical make-up designed to make little girls what they aren't. But there is a difference. Mr. Benito, there is a vast difference, but you will have to see for yourself to understand what I mean.

Apparently they have a thousand costumes, for I never have seen them wear the same dresses twice. But usually they are adorned with large Mexican sombreros, and they come walking out singing joyously and lustily, songs of the Mexican rancheros.

If you are a pretty girl and are visiting El Chico, be not surprised at any thing which may happen to your escort. For they take great delight in teasing their sister femmes by showering attention on attendant swains. It makes for good fun, and that after all is what you go to nightclubs for.

(Hey, fellows, Pass!!! In New York, during off hours, they live on Riverside Drive, in Mexico City their address is No. 65 Campeche. And if that isn't a friendly bit of information I don't know what is.)

And now, if you'll excuse me, I'll be putting on my hat and getting down to 80 Grove street. I gotta hear some more about those Mexican rancheros.

TULSA.—Just after a popping Fourth of July, the city council banned fireworks.

Diek Langworthy and John E. Brown, youthful editors, presented Mayor T. A. Penny a copy of their mimeographed weekly which said:

Said the mayor: "Of course I'll give the kids a hearing."

That's right. They found traffic tickets on their cars after the lecture. Acting Mayor E. M. Oliver said they were parked improperly.

Hot Bonds
GERING, Neb.—A million dollars worth of Scotts Bluff county and Gering municipal bonds went up in smoke, but it was an occasion for cheers. The bonds were paid off. After wasting several boxes of matches, officials resorted to a blow torch to do the job.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

by ROBBIN COONS

By DAN DE LUKE

(Stand-In for Robbin Coons)

HOLLYWOOD—Edward G. Robinson goes back to gangland this week for the sake of science. He makes a big haul.

Not since Robert Montgomery's "Night Must Fall" made the list of 10-best last year has Hollywood produced a socko crime movie like Robinson's "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse."

It's physiological—the study of a Park avenue physician who turns burglar so he can do medical research in the underworld. But the camera doesn't fuss with long words. It focuses on a rogues' gallery of warped characters and their adventures with the amazing doctor.

A vein of macabre comedy, more plausible than in Robinson's previous "A Slight Case of Murder," crops up continually. It ends in a hysterical scene when the doctor's sanity is questioned by a befuddled juror at his trial for murder.

Robinson gets excellent support from his police and crookdom pals. Claire Trevor is the blonde "fence." Donald Crisp is a different kind of detective. Humphrey Bogart is the suspicious big shot of the crime ring wherein the doctor experiments on such quaint human guinea pigs as Maxie Rosenbloom and Allen Jenkins.

Swiftly-paced, Anatole Litvak's direction wins a gold megaphone. He's the foreign importation who married Miriam Hopkins and did "Tovarich."

Shirley's Latest

When Shirley Temple bursts into tears a minute after she sings "Be Optimistic," it strikes a lugubrious keynote for her new picture, "Little Miss Broadway."

Eight-year-old Goldilocks is charming as ever when she smiles, dances tap in her baby shoes and whispers lyrics a little off key. But please, Mr. Zanuck, don't make her cry so much!

"Little Miss Broadway" depends more on Shirley's tears than its creaky plot to make everything seem sensible. She is an orphan adopted by Edward Ellis, manager of a hotel hangout for jobless vaudevillians. A rich old cress, Edna Mae Oliver, wants to raise the hotel and send Shirley back to the orphanage. Her nephew, George Murphy, helps Shirley melt Edna Mae's heart.

Miss Temple Swings

When the story's forgotten, the picture shines. Two droll faces, Jimmy Durante and El Brendel, mimic again. Horse-viaged Donald Meek is a close rival. George Murphy, with Shirley as a light-footed partner, never dances better.

There are six numbers by Walter Bullock and Harold Spina, the live-lip being "Swing Me An Old Fashioned Song." Shirley does.

"Little Miss Broadway" is better vaudeville than "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," but it's not in the same class with "Heidi."

LOVE ON THE RANGE

BY NELSON C. NYE

Chapter 13

WHY AND WHEREFORE

"I've a notion to go to bed," Ankrom yawned. "If you want me for anything you can find me in the bunkhouse."

"Take one step out of this room, by golly, an' I'll put you under arrest!" Ratchford growled. "You or anyone else. There's been a killin' here tonight an' I aim to find out the why an' wherefore of it—an' who done it!"

A hush closed in upon the room as the sheriff ceased speaking. Ankrom saw that these people about the sheriff glanced covertly at one another. There was something sinister, something evil in the hush.

"Streeter," the sheriff's voice broke in upon his thoughts, "I'd like for you to give the same spiel to these folks you gave to me."

Electric Silence

Ratchford was leaning forward.

Every eye in the room focused on Ankrom's feet

There was a dangerous droop to the corners of his mouth as he eyed Claydell. "Just what," he asked portentously, "did you mean by that last crack?"

Claydell raised his bushy eyebrows, shrugged. "Wasn't it evident?" he asked.

Betty's voice crossed the silence recklessly. "My father was not a gambler!"

Claydell's brows shot upward. He looked surprised. Ratchford's voice reached roughly out. "You misunderstood me in your overwrought condition. I am sure you would be better off in bed, young lady," he smiled. "This affair tonight must have proved an awful shock to you."

Ankrom could not be sure, but he believed that in the rancher's last words he had caught a touch of sarcasm. But a glance at Claydell's suave face was enough to convince him that he had not. Only sympathy was registered there.

"Do you think I could sleep after what has happened?" she flared. "Sleep? Perhaps not. But lying down would rest you."

"I guess she can manage to sit up with us till daylight," Ratchford's voice reached roughly out. "The ain't so bad shook up as all of that. She was around when the colonel crossed the line. She may have seen something. When she gets a little stronger I'm goin' to question her, and until I do I aim to see she stays where she can't be got at."

Claydell made a clucking sound. "What makes you think she might have seen something, if I'm allowed to ask?"

"I," said the sheriff heavily, "saw a woman duck out from under that tree as I came up—the pepper tree where we found Struthers' body."

Once again the silence was electric. And then it happened.

Some heavy object struck the floor with a metallic clank. Every eye in that room seemed to focus at Ankrom's feet. Ankrom had no need to send a glance downward to reveal the cause of the accusing looks he read in those staring eyes—he knew. He had felt that cold metallic thing go slithering down his leg; the gun that a half hour ago Betty had forced upon him.

In plain sight the weapon lay upon the floor!

Political Speakers On KBST Tonight, Saturday Night

Politics takes the spot on the KBST log over the week-end.

Tonight the McCraw-for-Governor West Texas rally at San Angelo will be brought to KBST listeners. The local station will switch to San Angelo at 8:30 o'clock and will broadcast the rally there for a full hour.

Saturday night at 8:45 Sam McCorkle of Dallas, originally scheduled for last Saturday night, will be heard from the KBST studio speaking in the interest of Gerald C. Mann's candidacy for attorney general.

Tonight's broadcast will be the first time during the present campaign that McCraw has been heard on KBST. It perhaps will be the only opportunity for KBST listeners to hear him, as a visit to Big Spring has not been definitely scheduled.

Appeals To Nazis To Let Refugees Take Belongings

EVIAN - LIES - BAINES, France, July 15 (AP) - Myron C. Taylor, chairman of a 32-nation conference on the refugee problem, pleaded with Germany today to let her refugees take their personal belongings.

Taylor, head of the American delegation, at the final session of the 10-day meeting called by President Roosevelt termed German cooperation "vital and imperative" if the plan of finding homes for perhaps 200,000 Jews and other prospective refugees were to be successful.

The intergovernmental conference will pass the job of helping emigration and the establishment of refugees' new homes on to a permanent committee which is to meet in London August 3.
