DISAPPOINTING OIL MONTH EXPECTED TO BE FOLLOWED BY BIG FALL UPSWING

By ALFRED WALL. TULSA, Okla., Aug. 17 (AP)—Apparently having resigned itself to a somewhat disappointing August volume, the oil industry has its eyes focused on fall business in the hope that there will be a general pickup in all industrial lines. Leaders here were almost unanimous in their opinion that the best peg for optimistic sentiment was the indication that business would be bolstered by a fall upswing. A speeding up of industrial activity, it was pointed out, would eat away the big stocks of industrial fuels that so long have plagued the oil market. At the same time, with more jobs, better pay for workers, the drain on gasoline stocks would be increased. Independent refiners and majors alike had just about given up hope of a better return for their motor fuel this season. The biggest factor in spiking such hope during the past week was the statement from Standard of Indiana, biggest Midwest refiner, that competitive conditions would not permit it to meet the three-fourths of a cent increase in tank wagon gasoline rates. Other companies which had followed Shell's lead in posting the increase promptly dropped back to their previous prices. Generally Stable. Marketers described petroleum markets as generally stable, with local fluctuations and price wars clouding the picture. The gasoline consumption figure for August, it was indicated, would be about equal to that for July and far below August a year ago. Crude producers were worrying again about the price and volume of their product. They were afraid the continued low price of gasoline would filter down through the market structure until the price of crude would be affected materially. Forecasts were made that oil company earnings for 1935 would run 25 to 30 per cent lower than the "big year" of 1937. In this connection the Oil Weekly commented that "such a record very likely would be materially better than for most other industrial groups." It was an active week for the drillers. They completed 516 wells, 57 more than the week before, according to the Oil and Gas Journal. In Texas another distillate field was discovered in the Rio Grande valley of southern Hidalgo county and the K.M.A. field remained the most active in the country, with 108 wells drilling. Nell Brown returned Tuesday evening from Fort Worth where she was the guest of Mrs. Charles Brady.

READING AND WRITING

SUWANNEE RIVER: STRANGE GREEN LAND, by Cecile Hulst Matschat; (Farrar & Rinehart; $2.50).

The third volume of the "Rivers of America" series is out. It is perhaps the best proof to date of the publisher's idea, which is simply to tell the story of America from a new viewpoint.

The Suwannee is unique in that it was made a world possession by one man, Stephen Collins Foster, and that man never saw the stream. But to Mrs. Matschat it is a concrete reality, because she lived at (or perhaps "on" is the word) its source for a long while.

The river rises in Okefenokee swamp, which is second in size to the Everglades and covers a considerable portion of southern Georgia and northern Florida.

The swamp is one of those pockets in which a people has lived for centuries with little or no change. The inhabitants are not, however, poor whites in the traditional sense—they are tall, well formed and shrewd.

When Mrs. Matschat left Okefenokee she left in a flat-bottomed boat to float down the Suwannee itself. She also left behind her real interest in the river, as her book shows abundantly. If for no other reason than that Foster wrote about the lower reaches and the life thereof as he imagined it, we might expect a little more description from Mrs. Matschat.

There is much of interest in this part of "Suwannee River," of course. One could hardly journey 200 miles to the sea on any river without turning up worthy material, particularly if one were as sensitive as the author. Still, since Foster's famous song was finished this region of plantations has met and been crushed by the combined forces of politics, economics and "progress," and many readers will want to know about it.

Which is, as we see it, the only flaw in a beautiful and intelligently prepared book.

LAKE SLAYING SUSPECT IS IDENTIFIED

DALLAS, Aug. 17 (AP)—One of two suspects held here in connection with the slaying of Adolph Laake, Paige, Texas, filling station operator, had been identified as the driver of a car seen in Laake's station shortly before the killing.

Detective Inspector Will Frits, who with Detective Jack Archer took the two men into custody here Monday, said Marion Lusk of Paige yesterday furnished the identification of the driver of the automobile. Deputy Sheriff M. E. Perkins of Bastrop county took pictures of the suspects back to Paige for four other persons to view in an effort to identify the second man. Frits said these four also had seen the automobile at Paige. Lusk was doubtful in his efforts to identify the other man, stating that he had not gotten a good look at the driver's companion.

Perkins also took a bullet fired from a .32 calibre pistol, found in the suspect's car, to Austin for the state police identification bureau to compare with markings on the bullet that killed Laake.

Committee Debates Over Question Of Campaign Reports

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Members of the senate campaign expenditures committee divided today over the question of making senatorial candidates account for expenses and contributions of their running-mates for lesser offices.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) said the committee debated using that method to force candidates for the senate to furnish more complete accounts of individual expenditures and receipts, but compromised temporarily. It added this statement to a new questionnaire for all senatorial candidates.

"If receipts and expenditures in your behalf have been grouped with those of other candidates, please give a breakdown of the part of the amount received in behalf of your nomination or election to the senate. Likewise, give a breakdown of the part of the amount which was spent in your behalf."

The committee laid aside its investigation of a letter sent out by the Pennsylvania democratic campaign committee over the purported signature of Senator Guffey (D-Pa.), asking contributions to a state campaign fund.

R. H. Bailey, Jr., Guffey's secretary, denied yesterday that the senator had authorized the letter, and

Amarillo Celebration Due To Close Tonight

AMARILLO, Aug. 17 (AP)—Popular demand prolonged one feature of the celebration here of the opening of Highway 66, the Will Rogers route, but the program generally closes with tonight's presentation of "Old Southwest Days," a pageant which has drawn capacity crowds to Butler field.

When the 8,000 seats at the field were filled the second consecutive time last night, it was decided to present this feature again.

Gov. Clyde Tingley of New Mexico and Miss Joan Hyland of Amarillo, "Miss Southwest," officially dedicated the highway yesterday and a parade of cowboys, tribute to the late humorist, was repeated. Cowpony races and polo were other features on today's program.

Letter Back After 5 Years VALLEJO, Cal. (UP)—The efficiency of the American postal system was demonstrated again when a letter sent by A. Kaufman to a customer in Florida eight years ago was returned to him from Salt Lake City with the notation "Missent to Salt Lake City, Utah."

Sheppard said the committee would await Guffey's return from Europe. The committee asked the treasury to investigate complaints that internal revenue officials had been active in California and Arkansas senatorial campaigns.

August 15, Scheduled Time For Hitler To Act, Passes Quietly By DEWITT MacKENZIE Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer NEW YORK, Aug. 17—So we've finally succeeded in squeezing past the fatal fifteenth of August—the day set by uneasy European tongues for an invasion of Czechoslovakia by Germany. Instead of guns being fired in anger, we have the unexpected and pleasing spectacle of the French air-chief General Vuillemin, in Germany for a friendly tour of the vast aerial garrisons and aircraft industries. That really is an exceptional circumstance, for the feeling between Germany and France has been bitter. One of the first speculations I heard regarding Vuillemin's visit was whether Hitler was trying to frighten France. That is a possibility, of course, and therefore legitimate to consider. Still, with all the untoward things we can figure out, we shouldn't overlook the possibility that this is Hitler's way of trying to assure Europe that he means it when he says he doesn't intend to invade Czechoslovakia. Invasion of Czechoslovakia at this moment likely would mean a European war, disastrous to everyone involved. Herr Hitler has given every indication that he intends to influence Czechoslovakia, but no indication that he proposes to commit har-kari in the process. I was down in Ashland, Kentucky on the fatal fifteenth, making a speech to some of the good folk of that attractive and hospitable community. Naturally, the first thing people wanted to know was whether there was going to be war—and I was supposed to have the answer. That was sort of a tough spot for a prophet, because we were faced with the possibility that the wide-spread European prediction of war might be coming true at that very moment. Still, as I reluctantly admitted, there isn't much use in a chap setting himself up as a prophet and then running for cover the first time there's something to prophesy about. I agreed to come clean. Need Fewer Panics I couldn't escape the feeling that there was a fine example in a lad I used to hear about in my native Vermont. A farmer lost a valuable horse, which jumped a fence and wandered away. Searching parties failed to find it. Finally the lad said he would bring the horse in and he did. They asked him how come. "Well," he said, "I went over to the horse's pasture and sat down on a stone, and I said to myself: 'Where should I go if I was a horse?' And I figured that if I was a horse I should go over by that patch of fine green grass beside the old red mill on the creek. And I went over by the mill and the horse was there." We shouldn't have fewer panics.

Outlines "Balanced Building" Program J. H. Greene, chamber of commerce manager, outlined a "balanced" program for building a city before the Rotary club Tuesday noon. Greene listed major factors which contribute to the progressive growth and all-around development of a town, looking toward permanent results. After paying tribute to the planners who had laid the foundation for a city in Big Spring, Greene pointed to the strategic location of this place as an elemental factor for growth. He listed water supply, adequate not alone for immediate needs but for a city several times this size, schools, hospitals, professional men, churches, recreation and entertainment, friendliness, industry, streets and roads as elements of the "balanced program." Roads, he said, were not only for tourists, but for trade. All these virtues should be thoroughly publicized, the chamber manager declared, to the end the town be well advertised. Turning to public indebtedness, he said that citizens of a progressive community ought not to consider the amount of indebtedness and cost of government solely as a liability, but should also "balance the books" by looking on the results of these expenditures as community assets also. CRUSHED TO DEATH DALLAS, Aug. 17 (AP)—Seth Bullock, 44, of Farmers Branch, was struck and killed early today by a truck loaded with oats as he walked on a highway near here.

Fugitives (Continued from Page 1) attackers and he fired his rifle, causing five of the number to give up the escape attempt. Captain Hamilton, who has been conducting an investigation, said Greer was held by Jack Kinsey and stabbed by Leonard Smith. Into River Bottoms The chase spread northward into the Trinity river bottoms. When the posse made its first contact with the escapees in the river bottom yesterday, it was discovered that they were armed with Greer's shotgun and pistol. When they escaped it was believed their only weapons were dirks, with which Greer was stabbed. The shotgun was recovered when it was dropped by one of the convicts killed. Aaron dropped the pistol when he was shot, but it was picked up by another of the men who ran. Greer was reported still in a "very critical condition." When two brothers and a sister, officially notified of the death of Charles Aaron of Houston, arrived at Eastham prison today to claim his body, authorities discovered Charles Aaron was still alive, and that Elmer (Buck) Aaron, 26, of Pampa, serving 10 years from Haskell and Gray counties for burglary, had been killed. Funeral services for five of the men were to be held this afternoon, and they were to be buried on the Eastham farm. Relatives of Johnson claimed his body. The sports writers will poll baseball writers in their cities, and vote each town as a unit, with first place counting five points, second place three, and third place one.

Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs To Clash In Softball Contest It's not for the honor of anybody, not even for sweet charity's sake, but the Rotarians and Kiwanians are going to get together in a mortal softball combat here soon. It was announced by leaders of the two clubs Wednesday. Proceeds from the game will be used to finance the high school football training camp, starting August 28. Dr. H. H. Bennett, chairman of the Rotary forces, said the game likely would be called for August 28. He also had slurring remarks to make about the quality of ball players among the Kiwanians. Dr. Bennett predicted a lop-sided victory for his club members, to whom Dr. W. B. Hardy, president of the Kiwanis club referred as "those old fellows." Dr. Hardy said his club would be ready to trim the opposition when the umpire (Ged rest him) calls "play ball."

CHARGES GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS HAVE RED CONNECTIONS WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Representative (R-III), a member of the house committee investigating subversive activities, named eight government officials today as "acknowledged members of the American league for peace and democracy which he said had connections with the communist party. The officials named are Harry Lynderson, district rural electrification administrator; Dallas W. Smythe, of the central statistical board; Fred Slicock, head of the forest service; Robert Marshall, an official of the public lands service of the agriculture department; Oscar Chapman, assistant secretary of the interior; John Carmody, rural electrification administrator; Mary Anderson, director of the women's bureau, and Alice Barrows, in the office of education. Mason made his charge during testimony by H. L. Chailaux, American Legion official, concerning communist activities in the United States.

MONUMENT RISES ON SPOT OF ROGERS AND POST CRASH BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 17 (AP)—A pink granite monument which some day may be Alaska's "farthest north" air beacon stood today on the site where three years ago Will Rogers and Wiley Post, famed humorist and diar, were killed in an airplane crash. The monument was dedicated Monday evening, with flares and fog filling about the obelisk as 300 whites and natives sang songs and heard eulogies by Texas and Oklahoma representatives. A telegram from Mrs. Wiley Post stated she regretted she was unable to attend. Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Ellington returned Tuesday evening from Glendale, Calif., where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rowe. They returned via American Airlines.

A NEW RECORD FORT WORTH, Aug. 17 (AP)—What Walter Paschal does he does well. The young Fort Worth third baseman started making errors in the game with Houston here Tuesday night so, while he was at it he knocked out a modern league record. The six boots committed on the "once in a lifetime" spree was the most made by a third baseman in the league in 48 years; since Jimmy Maloney, a crackerjack infielder for Dallas, kicked seven the afternoon of April 18, 1889, against Houston, too. In a wastebasket. She said he told her he had cut his head and hand on a glass door. A negro landress testified the doctor had her wash two blood-stained pillowcases last Wednesday.
