As far as the constitutional amendment election was concerned, Texans spoke out loud and clear and for the most part good sense. The first amendment, concerning an ethics commission to pay raise for legislators, seem to fool the voters and went down to defeat by a majority.

Apparently Texans are tired of proposed amendments, the defeat of Number 1 that deep down, Texans are aware that amendments hit them right in their books and they just are in the mood to be expanded.

Texans have seen welfare reform since the ceiling was raised two years ago, and are obviously not going to let the state a blank check as welfare is concerned. You could find a Texan who would turn down financial aid for the aged and the truly disabled, but we have seen such chicanery in the welfare reform recently to be in the mood for an in-crease. Thus, the defeat of the amendment Number course, the cities passed amendment number four and since it, they outnumbered in the rural area. You can't blame for being concerned with problems, but one won't they were really well served on the issue.

The enormous tax package passed by the legislature burdens the consumer heavier taxes than ever in the state's history. All the new taxes go into the middle of this year, and you doubt that Texans ever pass another proposed amendment. And that's a fact, kkk

Organization Formed For Disaster Action

A group of Ozona residents met Friday morning at the civic center with John Lukert, State Department of Health, for the purpose of forming a "Disaster Committee" for Ozona and Crockett County.

Mr. Lukert, who has been working with communities in organizing for disasters, was introduced by Lawrence James. He informed the group that all kinds of aids were available from the state and that most communities have prepared for the various disasters, natural and otherwise, which might occur at any given time.

Lukert pointed out that many communities have the resources at hand to take care of emergencies, but with organization there is often panic. He stressed the importance of being prepared in a community such as Ozona due to its isolation, and suggested that a committee be set up to coordinate emergency facilities. This should begin, he said, with a master committee analyzing the existing facilities and how they operate, and following up with specific goals for organization. He told the group that most things already exist, that being prepared is essentially the task of coordination among various groups.

Lukert named five basic areas in coordinating resources and planning. Among them, the hospital emergency room. The public needs to be trained in the use of the emergency room, he said. Too often when a disaster occurs, the hospital emergency room is rendered almost useless because of the inpouring of the public in the area.

Other areas include transportation, equipment for emergency situations, trained personnel and communications.

Mrs. Lowell Littleton Retires After 33 Years Teaching In Public Schools

When school reconvenes in the fall, a familiar face will be missing at Ozona Primary School. Mrs. Lowell Littleton tendered her resignation to the school board effective the end of this school year.

Mrs. Littleton has taught kindergarten in the Ozona school for the past eighteen years and before that was a teacher in Ozona junior high. In all, she has taught thirty-three years. Thirty of those years have been spent in Ozona.

Mrs. Littleton, Lucille Hardberger, was born in Haskell County and attended public schools in Knox City where she was graduated from high school. She received her B. A. degree from Hardin Simmons University and did her post-graduate work at Texas Tech and Sul Ross.

After teaching a year in Weslaco, she and Mr. Littleton were married in Lubbock September, 1928. They came to Ozona where Mr. Littleton was associated with the bank. Mrs. Littleton did not begin teaching in the Ozona school system right away. However, in her earlier years of teaching here, she was the one and only teacher at Liveoak, some forty miles southwest of Ozona.

She recalls that some of her most interesting experiences occurred at the one-room Liveoak school. Upon arriving at the school on her first day as teacher, she found a rattlesnake coiled at the front door. During noon hour, she and the children shared sack lunches and fed their scraps to Mr. Brown's bear. Nobody seems to remember Mr. Brown's first name. He had a farm on Liveoak creek and kept the bear tied to a stake. About a year after Mrs. Littleton came back to Ozona to teach, the bear got loose and killed Mr. Brown.

Mrs. Littleton taught Language arts in Ozona junior high school and continued to teach in the Ozona schools except for two years during the war.

She has been active in civic and church work as well, having served as president of the Ozona Woman's Forum, the Ozona Music Club, Womens Missionary Society and the local chapter of Texas State Teacher's Assn. She holds a life membership in the Texas Parent Teacher Association. She served on the McKnight Volunteer Council at the time the Interfaith Chapel was built.

Presently Mrs. Littleton is district chairman of International Affairs for Heart of Texas Federated Clubs. She is also on the Board of Trustees for Hardin Simmons University.

One of her pet projects, and one she has participated in for many years, is assisting students in obtaining higher education. In all she has taken part in sending 10 students through college and graduate school, both foreign and American. The students came from America, Mexico, Japan, China and Africa. She has to her credit a medical doctor, a research chemist and is presently assisting a Chinese boy get through dental school. She is also helping a girl from Africa who is enrolled in Howard Payne in Brownwood. She was both pleased and dismayed when the mother of the girl presented her to Mrs. Littleton as a gift. It seems it is some sort of tribal custom.

When asked if she planned to relax and take it easy after her retirement, she quickly exclaimed "Oh no! I have many plans. I want to look into handling some art exhibits, get my insurance agency going again and get things in order generally."

WINDING UP 33 YEARS AS A TEACHER, Mrs. Lowell Littleton guides her kindergarten charges in their study routines in the final days of the just closed school term. Mrs. Littleton has retired from teaching effective with the close of the 1970-71 term. Thirty years of her teaching career went spent in the Ozona school system.

AMERICAN MORALE HIGH NOTWITHSTANDING

"Who is number one in women, in food, in scenery?" asked a recent Gallup Poll survey. In all three cases, Americans chose America. Despite the media's addiction to presenting the worst in American life, the average American still believes that his country is number one in many of the basics of human life.

Gallup Polls are a good corrective for the pessimism of the news media. The polls generally show how little the media express the values and spirit of the majority of Americans. For example, who would have believed on the basis of daily news coverage that President Nixon, Vice President Agnew and Billy Graham would turn out in a Gallup Poll survey to be the three most popular Americans?

American morale is not reflected by the national media. It is much higher than the networks would lead us to believe. Nor are American values as few and morals as low as the media present them.

There is a serious gap between the American people and those who control the media. The latter seem intent on demoralizing those whom they should be serving. The vast majority of Americans believe in God, family and country. Very few Americans want to see the media attack these values through the promotion of the sexual and leftist revolutions.

The morale of the masses who daily build America is high. Polls often indicate this. The same masses rightfully expect the media to report the truth of their basic optimism and beliefs. People resent a minority's manipulation of news media for endless anti-government propaganda. We freely elected our government and we feel our values are represented by that government. Let's stop downgrading ourselves.

THOSE CROWD ESTIMATES

When the radical leftists led the first of the spring marches in Washington, the earliest estimates of the crowd given over the radio were 500,000. As the day wore on, the guesses fell to 300,000 and then 200,000. Later it was said that the number was 175,000.

What was intriguing about the figures is that the biggest one was given first. Afterward the estimate progressively diminished. That's the way it happened when the peaceniks were having their day. Now see what happened on May 8, when the Rev. Carl McIntire led the Patriot's March for Victory.

The first estimate given over the radio was that only 2,000 or 3,000 paraders had turned out in the national capital. Later in the afternoon the number was put at 5,000—practically double the first figure. Then at about 6 p.m. it was said that 14,000 had gathered.

It is hard to figure out how this kind of thing happens so often. Not that anybody is trying to favor the radical side over the conservative side. Perish the thought! But it does happen that way.

STOCKADE VETERANS

Herb Philbrick, who lives in Washington, D.C., sent us his eye-witness account of the veterans who demonstrated against the war in Vietnam. The image on TV, he pointed out, was that of responsible ex-servicemen, legitimately concerned with the welfare of our nation. What Philbrick observed was "rabble for the most part, low-grade, foul-mouthed, alcohol-drenched riffraff—the type you usually find in the stockade or brig."

Hundreds of park benches were torn up and $75,000 worth of flowering trees and shrubs were destroyed around the Washington Monument, reported Philbrick. Ten of the 50 American flags around the Monument were torn down, and the other 40 were saved only because the Park Police absorbed physical attack in rescuing them.

In order to avoid serious injury from the mob, the Park Police had to take refuge inside the Monument for 11 hours, until 4 a.m. A $17,000 restroom trailer on the grounds was also set afire and destroyed. The mob of alleged veterans broke into the basement of the Monument and smashed electric lights, including most of the expensive spotlights around the Monument.

The wire services mentioned that "two anti-war members of Congress came to address the veterans." Perhaps we should mention who they were: one was Rep. Paul McCloskey, who has done everything he can to discredit U.S. defense of Southeast Asia. The second was Rep. Bella Abzug, who was condemned as early as March 18, 1941, by the liberal New York Post as a person who had "generally followed the Communist party line." She was a wheelhorse in the National Lawyers Guild, cited by a congressional committee as "the foremost legal bulwark of the Communist party."

She has been active in other organizations controlled by the Communist party, including the National Council

A GAS outdoor grill gives food a tangy outdoor flavor without the time and bother of charcoal fire. Char-broiled flavor comes from the smoke of meat juices dripping on hot briquets. Charcoal itself provides no flavor.

Permanent ceramic briquets in the gas grill reach cooking heat in a few minutes, and there is no long wait to start cooking. The heat is regulated manually so there is no need to move a grill up or down.

The News Reel

A re-run of "The Ozona Story" as gleaned from the files of "THE OZONA STOCKMAN"

Thursday, May 28, 1971

Seeking surcease from war's demands, Crockett County folk are laying plans for a 1942 observance of a tradition as old as the county, the annual barbecue and rodeo.

Due to urgency of the need for every piece of scrap iron in the nation to help the war effort, the Texas Highway Department has agreed to transport all scrap iron which ranchmen will dump by the highway adjoining their property.

Thirty new registrants for sugar ration books were signed up during the past week. The new sign-up brought the total to 2675.

After eight years in management of the Hotel Ozona, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Blaylock have given up their lease and are to leave Ozona Monday. A representative from Austin met with local officials this morning at the courthouse for the purpose of discussing civil defense for the county.

Charles Williams, son of Mrs. Charles Williams, underwent surgery in a San Angelo hospital early this week.

Mrs. Joe Clayton was hostess to the Twentieth Century Club at a luncheon-bridge in her ranch home.

Mrs. W. A. Smith of Del Rio was here last week for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Patrick.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bunker are the parents of a daughter, June Childress Bunker, born in a San Angelo hospital last Saturday.

Byron Williams will leave Saturday for A & M University where he expects to enroll as a freshman for the summer term.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thompson have returned to their home here after visiting their daughter, Mrs. Jeannine Booher, in New York City last week.

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club By Mrs. Bailey Post

Hopefully, some showers will appear before the end of May and keep the grass and plants alive and flourishing. During such a period with so little rain, is when natives are really appreciated, if you are fortunate enough to have some in your home landscape. They do not require as much water or care.

If you want to have fine rose blooms this fall, proper care during the summer will assure an abundance of flowers and attractive foliage. Keep spent blooms removed. Since roses are heavy feeders, give a balanced fertilizer or rose food every six to eight weeks. Have soil moist, spread fertilizer over soil, work into top inch of soil and water thoroughly to a depth of eight to ten inches.

A good mulch will conserve moisture and protect roots from extreme heat. From a late A&M newsletter, there is a new systemic fungicide available for use on roses. It is manufactured by the Dupont Co., but is now available in only a few areas of the state. A major benefit is the control of black spot and powdery mildew.

Watch for bagworms on trees this month and if found, a spray of malathion or dimethoate (cygon) while the insects are small will control them. This same spray will control lace bugs also.

If any of your plants have sickly yellow leaves appearing, there is possibly an iron deficiency. This may be corrected by applying iron either to the soil or to the leaves of the plant or to the zone of the soil in the root zone of the plant. This can be amazingly fast with an iron chelate solution as a spray or mixed with water and poured over the soil to be taken up by the root system. Another acidifying agent, ferrous sulfate may be used to correct soil alkalinity if applied in the proper amount.

Keep daylilies well watered now that they are coming into bloom. Though the flowers stay open only one day, they are one of my favorites. It seems less care is required, and no insects or diseases have bothered. If you select varieties of early, mid-season and late blooming, they will be flowering for months. For arrangements, I replace the freshly opened blooms each morning in a placement of green foliage that will last several days.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

From Kitty's Kitchen

This is really a delicious version of that old favorite, Swiss steak. Swiss Steak - Horseradish
3 pound slice of round steak
2 teas. salt
Black pepper
1 clove garlic cut
Flour
Salad oil
1/2 cup water
1 large onion, sliced
1/2 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon horseradish
Prepare steak, seasoning it well with salt and pepper, rubbing it with the cut clove of garlic, and pounding in all the flour it will take (use edge of saucer or dull side of a butcher knife.) Treat both sides like this and brown the meat well in sizzling salad oil--the least amount that will keep it from sticking to the skillet. Transfer the steak to a shallow, oval casserole and add only the 1/2 cup of water and the onion, if you prefer.

cut the meat into serving portions before you lay it in casserole. This makes it easier to use a round casserole with a fitted cover, and you can drain off the sauce more easily. Under no circumstances increase the amount of water.

Cover the casserole tightly with aluminum foil if you do not have a fitted cover, and bake in a slow oven, 275°, about 2 hours, or until the meat is very tender. When done, lift the steak onto a platter, using two spatulas, long enough to pour what sauce has accumulated into a small saucerpan. Or drain sauce off by holding back steak with a spatula. Return steak in casserole to oven while you stir sour cream and horseradish into the sauce until it is smooth. Pour over the casserole and serve at once.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER
By Congressman O. C. Fisher

Racial discrimination in assignment of students to schools, teachers to classrooms, or to regulate employment in government jobs, would be outlawed if legislation introduced in the Congress last week should become law. I joined with many other House members in offering the proposal.

The urgent need for this action became apparent as a result of the recent Supreme Court ruling on compulsory busing, and because HEW is dictating to many schools a requirement that a quota system based on race -- irrespective of qualifications or merit -- be followed in the hiring of school teachers.

It's time to quit fooling around and resolve this issue, once and for all. It's time to reassert the intention of the drafters of the Constitution that all Americans be treated equally, with no discrimination or favoritism based upon race.

Legislation to increase the minimum wage and expand coverage is being pressed in Congress. It appears likely a bill will be enacted this year. Senate Labor Committee chairman H. A. Williams, Jr. wants to set the minimum at $2.25 per hour. A House subcommittee has recommended $2, and the Administration wants to settle for $1.80.

Any increase at this time would be inflationary and would definitely increase unemployment. Youngsters, the handicapped, and fringe workers whose production capacity is limited, would be the hardest hit. Those people deserve better treatment than that.

Only two people emerged from the recent demonstrations as heroes. College students David Simpson and Charles Blocher went into action when a mob of several hundreds were in the act of pulling down and beamrching the American flag. Although outnumbered 100 to one, the two succeeded in keeping Old Glory flying from the heights of a flagpole! For this they were publicly commended by President Nixon.

HOURS AND YEARS
"Grow old along with me... the best is yet to be," the sundial seems to say. It's a nice thought—but is it true?
What is best in life? Childhood? Adolescence? The Middle Years? The peace that should come with the twilight of life? Who is to say?
Life is full of many questions and very few answers. The hours bring with them unexpected contrasts of happiness and sorrow—of assurance and dismay—of wealth and poverty, both spiritual and material.
Because of this very uncertainty, we need something far more stable than a sundial to "grow old along with." We need steadfast endurance, solidity. We need faith.
Where to find it? How about looking, first, in the church of your choice? Next Sunday?

Sanderson Rites Unite Lellee Mitchell, Mr. Hayre

Miss Mary Lellee Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Keith Mitchell of Sanderson, became the bride of Thomas Mark Hayre, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Maurice Hayre, also of Sanderson, in a double-ring ceremony Saturday evening, May 22, in the First Presbyterian Church of Sanderson.

Rev. John W. Byrd, pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Van Horn, and Rev. Richard Harrison, First Presbyterian Church, Sanderson, officiated.

Organist was Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson of Sanderson and soloist was Mr. Dave Knight of San Antonio.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown fashioned of silk organza. Appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace flowered the closely fitted bodice, scalloping the high stand away neckline and flouncing the long tapered sleeves. Silk bows, sprinkled with seed pearls, accented the sleeves at the wrists. The lace motifs were repeated on the gently flared skirt. A wide band of scalloped lace caught the hem, carrying it wide and full into a chapel train.

An exquisite matching lace veil framed her face and cascaded to her shoulders. She carried a white Bible, topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. Ronald Odum of Bridgeport, Conn. served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Christopher Knox of San Antonio, Miss Sarah Boyd of Temple Terrace, Fla., and Miss Peggy Carnahan of San Antonio.

Flower girls were Lisa Mitchell of Ozona and Darlene Stegall of Sanderson. Pages were Bobby Stegall and Scott Mitchell, both of Sanderson.

Candlelighters were Lea Montgomery of Ozona and Clay Mitchell of Sanderson.

Best man was Monty Corder Harkins of Sanderson. Groomsman were Steve Hope of Hereford, Edwin Sawyer III of Sonora, and Charles Hardy of Austin.

Ushers were G. K. Mitchell Jr., of Philadelphia, Penn., Tommy Couch of Sanderson, and Travis Harkins of Kerrville.

The church was decorated with baskets of white flowers on either side of the lower altar, and candelabras flanked the above altar.

A reception followed the wedding in the fellowship hall of the church.

Members of the houseparty were Mrs. C. C. Mitchell, Mrs. N. M. Mitchell, Mrs. N. M. Mitchell Jr., Mrs. Herman Couch, Mrs. Sid Harkins, Mrs. Richard Harrison, Mrs. John T. Williams, Mrs. C. O.
