

Italian Aid For Nazis Talked By Hitler And Mussolini

BERLIN, Mar. 18 (AP)—Extension of the Rome-Berlin axis to Moscow and possible eventual participation of Italy in the European war on Germany's side were cited today by excellently informed Berlin circles as the main apparent results of today's historic Brenner Pass meeting between Führer Hitler and Premier Mussolini.

The two statesmen appeared to have worked on plans for a complete reorganization of Europe, with Soviet Russia as their partner. Berlin was filled with rumors that German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop would confer with Russian Premier-For-Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov as soon as possible, either in Berlin or Moscow.

Hitler and Mussolini were said to have agreed on possible ultimate participation of Italy in the European war on Germany's side if and when such a course should be deemed preferable to the present status of Italy as "not neutral and yet not warring."

Until the time should come for filling in the date for a declaration of war, it was said, Italy would lose no opportunity to demonstrate to the western powers that she is Germany's ally economically, politically and ideologically.

Italy for instance abruptly ceased furnishing certain implements of war to France as she had done hitherto.

This present German-Italian agreement will be followed by other agreements for putting resources of each at the disposal of the other as partner.

In the event of Italy's entering the war, it was said Germany would supply her partner with all the things necessary for waging modern war.

Hitler and Mussolini further agreed, according to sources considered glib-edged, that an Italian-Russian rapprochement must follow.

Murder Ring Is Uncovered In New York

10 Arrested In 'Kill-For-Pay' Combine; Gangsters Paid Off

NEW YORK, Mar. 18 (AP)—A murder-to-order combine which killed by contract for "big shot" racketeers was said today by a Brooklyn prosecutor to have been responsible for at least a dozen—possibly 200—gangland slayings.

Linked in Seven Murders
Brooklyn District Attorney William F. O'Dwyer said 10 men were under arrest in connection with the crimes. He said the gang was implicated in seven murders and two attempted slayings in Brooklyn, and three killings in Sullivan county in up-state New York.

One of those arrested was Irving Cohen, 37-year-old motion picture bit player, wanted, according to the district attorney's office, in connection with the slaying of Walter Sage in Loch Sheldrake, Sullivan county.

Cohen, who acted under the name of Jack Gordon, and was known in the underworld as "Big Coney" has a minor police record, said James Moran, chief clerk of O'Dwyer's office. He was seized in Hollywood.

Sage's body, weighted down with a slot machine, was fished out of Swan's lake near Loch Sheldrake in July, 1937.

Youthful gunmen, described as "young punks," did the trigger work under agreements with such racket overlords as Lucky Luciano, imprisoned Manhattan vice king, Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, and Jacob (Gurrah) Shapiro, O'Dwyer said.

The prosecutor quoted one informer as saying the gang leaders had boasted to him of having "rubbed out" seven witnesses in District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's Buchalter trial.

Two young members of the syndicate, fearful they would be deserted by their leaders and left to face alone charges under which they now are held, spilled their stories, O'Dwyer said. He named them as Anthony (Duke) MacFetridge and Abraham (Prety) Levine.

Levine told O'Dwyer he had tried to go straight but the mob leaders wouldn't allow him to ease out of the racket.

Sums of $10 and $20—sometimes as little as $3—were paid for the killings.

"I have an idea that the electric chair is going to be working overtime in catching up with justice," the prosecutor asserted.

WORKERS ON A MINE RESCUE MISSION—This mine rescue squad was one of several who took part in the saving of 113 miners following an explosion in the Willow Grove mine at St. Clairsville, O. Sixty-nine other men remained entombed and were given up for dead. Four others were known victims.

Entombed Men Believed Dead

SE. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, Mar. 17. (AP)—All 78 victims of the Willow Grove mine explosion were given up for dead today, and the state prepared to pay death claims of nearly $400,000.

Hope for 69 entombed coal miners faded 48 hours after the explosion. Four others were known dead. Officials reported in another 24 hours they could break through the poisonous gases and rock barriers which blanketed the trapped men.

More than 100 other miners, most of them gassed or injured, were rescued.

Bodies of John Marks, motorman and Ross McFadden were removed from the mine before dawn today. John Richards, superintendent, and Howard Sanders, tippie boss, died of fumes in rescue efforts.

While crowds of tearful relatives and friends continued a vigil at the mine entrance, the state set up a special office to handle applications for death and injury claims. A compensation commission official estimated the state would pay approximately $5,250 for each man who perished.

Anti-Politics Law Broadened

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18 (AP)—The senate today passed legislation making the Hatch anti-politics law apply to an estimated 500,000 employees in state and local government.

The vote was 58 to 23. The bill now goes to the house, where only today Speaker Bankhead said he was "not in favor" of it. There, opponents hope to pigeonhole it for the session.

Sponsored by Senator Hatch (D-NM), the measure would apply to state employees paid partly from federal funds the same restrictions against political activity which now are applied to federal workers.

The vote was 58 to 23. The bill now goes to the house, where only today Speaker Bankhead said he was "not in favor" of it. There, opponents hope to pigeonhole it for the session.

Gasoline Tank Caps Left On Porch Of E. O. Ellington Home

At any rate, Dr. Ellington found that many of the automobile tank caps on his porch when he left his home Monday morning. He notified police and turned the caps over to them. Police were at a loss to account for the articles being left on a porch except to theorize that perhaps whoever had taken them was frightened away while in the vicinity of the Ellington home.

NYA Project Is Launched

Henry C. Snodgrass was here Monday to launch the National Youth Administration project which will result in the construction of a caretaker's cottage and concession house at the city's Moss Creek lake site.

Preliminary work was undertaken Monday by Snodgrass, around 50 boys to the job. He had some materials laid in on the ground for the building.

The project is set up for $6,801, of which the city will contribute $3,221 in materials and supplies and the NYA $2,580 in labor and supervision.

Plans call for the building to be of a stabilized adobe type and to be finished and furnished with articles turned out by NYA workers in this district.

Youths from 18 to 25 (inclusive) years should apply to the county welfare office if interested in securing employment on the job, city officials said.

Convict Escapes

HUNTSVILLE, Mar. 18 (AP)—Eugene Collier, 32, serving a 15-year prison sentence for robbery from Dallas county, was sought today after his escape from the Blue Ridge prison farm near Houston yesterday.

Youth Held In Parent's Death

DALLAS, Mar. 18 (AP)—Detective Inspector Will Fritz said that Arnold Benson, 21, former University of Texas student, was held in jail for observation today after his mother, Mrs. Tillie Darver, 35, was found drowned in the Trinity river.

Albert Darver, husband of the victim, said in the presence of detectives and newspapermen that Benson, mentally ill, had threatened his mother. Once, Darver said, the son had declared he would strangle his mother if he got a chance. On other occasions, Benson was described as harmless.

The body was recovered near the point where she had been dragged into the water as she struggled, according to Benson's statement to authorities.

The suspect had told a farmer early today that the drowning occurred on the West Fork of the Trinity between northwest highway and California crossing.

The farmer, Tom Rudge, said the youth, dripping wet and clad only in a thin undershirt, appeared at his home, eight miles north of Dallas, at 3 a. m. today and told his story.

The suspect, who surrendered without resistance, showed officers the spot where he struggled with the woman, who had gone on a walk with him after he had had dinner at Mrs. Darver's home.

During the walk, the youth apparently had what his physician called "a walking spell," and the woman was unable to control him. He had been in a hospital for seven weeks and under medical care for about a year.

Must Remain Inside

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18 (AP)—Still suffering from a head cold and a temperature, President Roosevelt was ordered by his physician today to remain in the White House residential quarters until he recovers.

Dr. Ross T. McIntyre said the chief executive's condition was not serious.

Henry Moates Entry Winner For County

Judging For District Classes Under Way This Afternoon

With the new $6,000 Howard county warehouse virtually filled with more than 135 head of choice baby beeves, lambs and pigs from an eight-county area, the third annual Big Spring District 4-H club and FFA livestock show officially got underway here Monday morning.

County Judging
Highlighting the morning session was a special judging of Howard county entries by George W. Barnes, Texas A. & M. college extension service animal husbandman and beef cattle specialist.

Grand champion of the county was a 556-pound heavy nurse cow steered by Sam Buchanan and fed out by Henry Moates. Reserve champion was the 900-pound heavy drylot calf of S. F. Buchanan breeding fed by James E. Coates.

James' calf won its class while Delbert Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Akla Simpson, had the top light drylot calf, a 775-pound animal bred by D. H. "Pop" Snyder.

Frank Thieme, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thieme of the Foran area, had the best lamb in the county and exhibited the best group of five in that class.

Other county winners, in order named, were: Drylot heavy—John Appleton, 836-pounds; W. D. Coates, 906; Willis Winters, Jr., 876; John Appleton, 880.

Drylot light—Henry Moates, 808; W. L. Wilson, Jr., 850; Willis Winters, Jr., 850; Buddie Barr, 816.

Sheep—Wendell Lawrence, second and third places, and second in group of five.

Arrival of George Bond, Martin county agent, with his 4-H club boys and 18 milkfed and drylot calves boosted the total number of baby beeves on hand at noon to 81.

In addition there were approximately 50 sheep and more than half a dozen pigs and brood sows.

Judging for the district classes was due to get underway at 1:30 p. m. with Barnes placing the stock. Barnes, a man who knows his stock and how to judge, worked rapidly during the morning and was expected to finish his work before late in the afternoon.

The show is being staged in the warehouse, designed by county officials for agricultural and livestock exhibit purposes. Throughout the morning the building, virtually filled with calves, sheep and pigs, had a continued procession of spectators.

An added attraction was the ram exhibit by L. F. Hodges of Sterling county. In the show there were entries from Martin, Glasscock, Sterling, Tom Green, M. chell, Nolan and Howard counties.

NECK BROKEN, GIVES BIRTH TO SON—Mrs. Iva Battaglia, her broken neck caused in a special collar to keep her head immovable, gave birth to an 8-pound, 11-ounce boy in Baltimore. She broke her neck in a fall a month previous to the birth of the child, with whom she is shown. Mrs. Battaglia is a doctor's wife.

British Cabinet Changes Forecast

Chamberlain Urged To Wage More Active War

LONDON, Mar. 18 (AP)—Germany's boldest aerial stroke of the war—a one hour and 25 minute raid by 14 Heinkel bombers on the Scapa Flow naval anchorage—was followed today by expressions of belief in political quarters that Prime Minister Chamberlain is planning a drastic cabinet change to institute a more dynamic war policy.

The British press clamored for greater initiative in the government's direction of the war and the sharp division of opinion on Chamberlain's conduct of it was heightened by scheduled debate in the house of commons tomorrow.

Informed political observers expressed the conviction Chamberlain is planning ministerial changes soon.

Some thought he might adopt the pattern set in the World war by David Lloyd George for a small war cabinet engaged solely in direction of higher war policy with all departmental routine given to ministers outside the cabinet.

In such a plan it was considered likely that Chamberlain would retain in the streamlined cabinet these three—Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon and Lord Halifax, foreign secretary.

The news said raid in Saturday's twilight brought the war's first civilian casualties and the announcement that an unidentified British battleship had been hit.

One cottager was killed and seven other civilians—including two women were wounded. Seven naval men were listed as casualties also, but the admiralty did not specify whether they were killed or wounded.

The air ministry's report of a counter raid on German warships in Heligoland Bight during daylight hours Saturday and the admission of naval authorities that the Oriskany Islands' station, like all "our eastern and northern bases," is "always" vulnerable to attack, did not cushion newspaper criticism.

The fact that only one German bomber was shot down prompted questions about the effectiveness of the Royal Air Force.

On the one hand and Germany and virtually Italy on the other hand to peace.

It was considered more than likely that meanwhile, German naval and air force activity against Britain would continue and German-Italian diplomacy would be most active in Soviet Russia and the Balkans.

An authorized spokesman soon after the Hitler-Mussolini meeting said it was held "to discuss all questions which concern both allied and authoritarian nations."

"These questions result from the fact that Nazi Germany today is engaged in the decisive fight of her history, a fight forced upon her by the western powers," the spokesman declared.

"On the other hand Fascist Italy as not neutral yet not warring nation presents her claims to the right to live which young nations are now pressing."

From this it would appear that Mussolini in some way or other would join Hitler's demand, reported already to have been presented to Sumner Welles, that Great Britain must cease control of such bottle-necks as Gibraltar, Malta and the Suez Canal.

Authorized German sources expressed the further opinion that economic arrangements would be perfected.

It was understood that Hitler would press Mussolini to cease supplying France with certain war essentials.

Authorized sources remained non-committal regarding President Roosevelt's outline of peace conditions last Saturday, and said that peace in the Balkans was the predominating need of the hour and that Germany welcomed every tendency directed against extension of the area of conflict.

As Dictators Confer, Welles Talks With Pope
ROME, Mar. 18 (AP)—Two conferences among men from whom Europe waited to know whether the future held peace or more war occurred today at the same moment.

In one, Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini met in a railroad car in Brenner Pass while a snowstorm whipped across the nearby frontier between their countries.

In the other, Pope Pius XII and Sumner Welles conversed in the churchly quiet of the Vatican.

The possibilities of peace were believed to have been the principal topics of both conversations—held simultaneously, either by design or coincidence.

Welles, President Roosevelt's fact-finder in Europe, was accompanied to the last-scheduled conference of his tour by Myron C. Taylor, the president's own envoy to the Vatican, and remained with the pope an hour.

Although no further meetings have been arranged for Welles, it still was possible that he might see Premier Mussolini again before the time for him to embark for home Wednesday.

Airmail Route Is Permanent

Placing the star route airmail service from the west on what appears to be a permanent basis was seen Monday when Nat Shick, postmaster, advertised for bids on the route to cover a three year span.

Bids, said Shick, will be accepted until April 18 when they will be opened.

They call for transporting airmail six days a week from Monahans and intervening point to Big Spring in time to be dispatched over scheduled American Airlines planes later the same day.

The postoffice department specified that the bids would cover the service of gathering airmail at Monahans at 12:51 p. m. and collecting it at bus stations at Odessa, Midland and Stanton for delivery at the Big Spring bus station at 3:23 p. m.

Greyhound Bus lines now has the contract for $240 per annum. The service was instituted on Feb. 1, 1939 more or less as an experiment. The new bids cover the period from July 1, 1940 through June 30, 1943. Each proposal must be accompanied by a $1,400 bond.

More Letters Asked To Show Support Of Air Line

More letters outlining benefits accruing directly to the writer or his business from a north-south airline with a stop in Big Spring are needed by the local committee pushing for such an airline.

Thus far only meagre response has come from appeals for letters, although many have given verbal support to the proposed airline.

The chamber of commerce must have this in writing and the letters should be addressed to J. H. Greene, manager. They should set out how such an airline would be of benefit to the person writing the letter or to his business, and how it might be used by that person or firm.

Maverick Favors Third Term Talk

SAN ANTONIO, Mar. 18 (AP)—If the movement for a third term for President Roosevelt, started in Austin Saturday by Max T. Miller, if properly organized, it will receive the support of Mayor Maury Maverick, he declared today.

"I am for a third term for the president," the mayor said.

Maverick added that he hopes the Texas delegation to the national democratic convention is unopposed so "that we will be ready for any movement that comes up and will be free to meet it." He said he would be willing to go "along with the Garner forces if the delegation is unopposed."

Maverick explained that "going along with the Garner forces," meant he would travel with them, not that he would support Garner.

Nazis Report French Attack Is Repulsed

BERLIN, Mar. 18 (AP)—A series of fierce skirmishes near Zuebruecken on the western front, in which German outposts repulsed strong French patrols attempting to feel out Nazi positions, was reported today by DNB, official German news agency.

The engagements were accompanied by heavy artillery exchanges all along the line, said in one sector more than 2,000 shells were fired, DNB said.

Joe McCarthy Says Overconfidence Won't Lick World Champion New York Yanks

BUFFALO BRAIN WON'T PREDICT PENNANT, THO

By DILLON GRAHAM
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 18 (AP)—The Yanks are great because they don't let themselves think they're great.

Praise is pretty easy to take—and believe. And fans and experts alike have called the current Yanks the finest baseball team ever assembled.

But these Yanks—from Sophomore Charlie Keller to Veteran Bill Dickey—haven't allowed those lavish loads of praise to go to their heads.

Marce Joe McCarthy, the portly pilot who is sending the New Yorkers through their practice paces down here in sunny St. Pete, figures that's one prime reason the Yanks are able to win their fifth straight American league pennant this summer.

"Individually and collectively, the players do not believe these glowing compliments," said McCarthy as he leaned against the dugout and looked out on the field where his athletes were tossing the ball around.

They Still Hustle

"They are hustling as hard as ever. There's not the slightest sign of the overconfidence that has wrecked many championship clubs in the past.

"The chief ambition of every player is to win the World Series again this year," he said.

These Yanks know they are good. They figure they can beat any team in baseball. But they don't subscribe to such high ratings as some of their admirers have given them.

They believe that they must travel at top speed all season to win. Boston and Cleveland are getting together all the time. And the Yanks know it will require their best collective efforts to whip them.

McCarthy Confident

McCarthy confidently believes the Yanks will win another world's championship next October. But he won't predict that. Marce Joe plays 'em too close to his vest to make such a spring forecast.

The 1939 champions and the powerful, colorful 1927 outfit under Miller Huggins are generally regarded as the greatest of Yankee teams.

McCarthy answers the question of how those two clubs compare by remarking that no club ever won so many championships as his present outfit.

"How the 1939 Yanks would fare with the 1927 club is only conjecture," he says. "It is just interesting conversation for the fans. Like arguments about how Joe

Bucs To Carry 25 Men Until May 15th

Frisch Wants To Get Good Look At All The Rookies

By the Associated Press
SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—Frankie Frisch plans to carry a full crew of Pittsburgh Pirates almost up to May 15, when major league squads must be cut to 25 players. His idea is to get a good look at the rookies under fire. After the cut the squad will number 10 pitchers, three catchers, six infielders and six outfielders.

MIZE AND DAVIS IN SHAPE TO PLAY TODAY
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—A lively stepper in the grapefruit league, the Detroit Tigers were seeking their sixth straight victory today as they engaged the St. Louis Cardinals. The hospital list of the Redbirds was reduced by the recovery of Johnny Mize and Curt Davis, however, and they hoped to square accounts.

COSCARARAT'S 9TH INNING HIT WINS FOR NATIONALS

By WHITNEY MARTIN
TAMPA, Fla., Mar. 18 (AP)—The long-abused National leaguers today strutted the streets in broad daylight, and if pleased, very lightly, would say casually: "Oh yes, the American league. We had their stars over for a practice game yesterday. Beat them, 2 to 1, with our reserves."

Which, in essence, is true. The National league all-stars did win an exhibition game, which more than 13,000 spectators contributed approximately $20,000 to the Finnish substitutes did bend their talents to score in the winning run in the ninth inning.

But in reality, the game proved nothing, except that the pitchers are far ahead of the batters in spring training.

However, the victory was greeted gleefully by the senior circuit.

For a spring exhibition it was a corking ball game, with the big surprise the inability of the row on row of siege guns in the American lineup to get much more than a loud foul. They were held to five hits, Bill Dickey and Frank Crosetti getting two each and Jimmy Foxx one, and none was better than a single.

The National leaguers all collected six blows, all singles, putting two of them together in the ninth for the ball game.

The Americans took the lead in the second inning when Dickey's single and went home on Crosetti's first hit.

The Nationals tied it in the fourth when Ott walked, advanced when Harry Danning was hit by Buck Newsum, and scored on Demaree's single to right, beating a fine throw by Williams by inches.

Bob Feller started the eighth inning for the Americans. He had plenty of stuff, but was wild. A double play pulled him out of a hole in that inning, but in the ninth Al Lopez, Boston Bees catcher and pride of Tampa, sent a slashing single to center, went to second when Hal Trosky, Cleveland first baseman, dropped Rolfe Hemaley's throw on Terry Moore's sacrifice, and scored the winning run on Pete Coscararat's single through short.

Streamlined Turkey Will Fit The Oven, Is Easier To Carve

By EDDY GILMORE
WASHINGTON, Mar. 18 (AP)—The streamlined turkey which the bureau of animal industry has been perfecting for four years met the public today, and the public gobbled it up.

"Oh," gasped the lady with the green hat, "there's something at last that will fit the oven."

"Yep," said her husband, "and I believe it's the first turkey I ever saw that I wouldn't be afraid to face alone with a knife. I mean to carve, of course."

The streamlined turkey is one of the features of the baryard side-show which the bureau has moved into the fern-festooned patio of the agriculture department.

The bird is white and weighs about eight pounds. Beside him is his brother who hasn't been streamlined; he weighs 14 pounds.

Apartment houses, small dwelling kitchens, and families that don't include 10 to 15 persons are some of the reasons for the whittled-down gobbler. Turning out this bird has been quite a job, and you can easily tell it's the star of another feature of the exhibit the sideshow.

er feeding, the scientists have been in the egg-control show. By propable to regulate and standardize the shape of the egg, and encourage the hen to try harder for a bigger output.

One pile of eggs shows what happened when a flock was just left to itself. Eggs of 100 different sizes, shapes and colors were laid.

Another pile shows what happened when the scientists stepped in—200 eggs of regulation size, shape and color.

Easter Week Sermon Series Inaugurated At First Methodist

"It Is Never Too Late" will be the subject of the sermon this evening at the First Methodist church. It will be the second on The Seven Words From The Cross, which the pastor, J. O. Haymes, is using as the basis of his sermons each evening this week. Sunday evening the pastor spoke on the first words, "Father, Forgive Them, For They Know Not What They Do." He showed the vital connection between the cross and forgiveness. It is not easy to forgive sins, but love is the bridge which spans any chasm and makes forgiveness possible, he pointed out.

Twenty-two persons united with church on Palm Sunday, twenty of them on profession of faith. The public is cordially invited to attend the service each evening at 7:45. The young people of the church will meet at 7:00 each evening in the church parlor. The theme for their meetings will be the happenings of the last week of Jesus' life.

Planning A Garden? Detailed Ground Plan Is Necessary Before You Start Garden Planting

(First In A Series)
By ROBERT E. GEIGER
As a feature service writer more than half of the hard work connected with a garden is in planning it. Many people, especially city dwellers, haven't much choice about the size, location or quality of the land they will use. But, fortunately, almost any soil can be made suitable for gardening by the addition of organic matter and plant food.

After selecting your site, make a scale drawing of it. Then hold a family conference and decide on what to plant—vegetables, flowers or both. Americans are getting more and more to be outdoor enthusiasts and the "outdoor living room" is becoming a part of many new homes. This innovation doesn't require a lot of space, but it does call for careful planning. If you have one it should contain some of these features: A pool, a shady nook a rock garden, a bird bath or sundial, an oven for barbecues or picnics and a mass of well planned flowers and shrubs for background.

Suggested plan for one of the "outdoor living rooms" of which Americans are becoming fonder.

ones should be in front, mediums in the middle and tall ones in back. Whatever your plans, be sure every detail is worked out on paper before digging a spade into the soil.

Tomorrow: Planning a vegetable plot.

MISS LANEIOUS NOTES

By Mary Whaley
Round and round you go and where you land is a matter of conjecture; but it certainly is fun, this roller skating on a rink.

After repeated brags about being pure... But it took the combined aid of our escort and some of the crowd to get us around that first time. We were doing all right but the skates had ideas about going places that we couldn't keep up with.

But after so long a time we got our bearings and in a burst of ill-advised speed, took off in a weird fashion. The crash as we went down brought the nicest young boys to our aid. One removed the body from the floor and another fastened our skates back on. Another one appeared from nowhere to inquire if we were still in one piece.

After several slips and slides and the left leg not telling the right leg what it was doing, we did better and about the time the whistle blew to stop, we were making time at the corners and had stopped holding our breath every time someone got too close.

Aside from a few stiff joints and minor bruises we came off exceedingly well although we had to eat humble pie about that "champer" stuff. There may come a time when we learn to stop bragging, we hope!

Estimated 1,000 Visitors At Museum During 'Open House'

DEMONSTRATOR—Miss Lilie Ward, of the Club Alumnum Test Kitchens of Chicago will be at the B. Sherrod Supply company store, 118-12 Runnels street, all during this week, to conduct demonstrations for benefit of the public. These demonstrations are free, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

People of Big Spring and surrounding territory responded in large numbers Sunday to the open house invitation of the West Texas Memorial association with possibly as many as 1,000 passing through the museum at the city park during the four hour interval.

Actual registrations passed the 500 mark and museum officials estimated that nearly that many failed to sign the guest book.

From the time the doors opened until after the scheduled closing time at 7 p. m., the building was crowded most of the time. Members of the 1930 Hyperion club were official hostesses for the afternoon and not only presided at the registration book, but assisted visitors around the museum and served refreshments of coffee and cake. Mary Ann Dudley and Jean McDowell played an old German music box, which proved a real curiosity, during the open house period.

Also on exhibit for the first time were some old photographs, given by Mrs. L. S. McDowell, depicting early ranch days and other scenes important in the history of Big Spring. Popular as usual were the paintings of the late H. W. Caylor, among them "The Dry Water Hole," "The Trail Herd," "Uncle Billy Davenport," a "Texas Sheriff," "The Lost Buffalo" and others.

INFANT SURVEYS A TEMPERATURE OF 110

SPOKANE, Wash., Mar. 18 (AP)—An infant girl who survived a temperature of at least 110 degrees began her fourth day of life today. Hospital attendants said her condition was "improving."

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Yount, was brought to Spokane Friday night. The father and A. A. Shuler kept the baby alive with artificial respiration while Mrs. Shuler drove the 65 miles from Ritzville, Wash. Dr. E. J. Barnett said the baby's temperature Friday night was "at least 110—our thermometers won't go any higher." Later the temperature dropped to 99.

Dr. Barnett ascribed the child's condition to a "disturbance in the heat regulating center of the brain."

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bucher, Jr. had as their weekend guests his mother and sister, Mrs. Jerry Bucher and Beatrice Bucher of Brownwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Thomas had as their guest Sunday her mother, Mrs. L. D. Hodges of Brownwood.

A Sweet Little Plan

A plan which, according to Washington reports, is being hatched in connection with the sugar-control law, calls for action by Texas representatives in congress.

The present sugar-control law expires at the end of 1940. If it is not renewed, if no substitute measure is enacted, sugar will become an unregulated commodity, which might or might not be a good thing.

Under the existing law, the secretary of agriculture virtually controls the price. He estimates this country's sugar consumption and allocates the production among the cane-raising states, the beet-raising states, Cuba, Puerto Rico and Hawaii.

The present sugar-control law expires at the end of 1940. If it is not renewed, if no substitute measure is enacted, sugar will become an unregulated commodity, which might or might not be a good thing.

It is an undertaking which would favor a small, selfish and aggressive minority at the expense of the consumer, the general public, the island possessions and the cane states.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—Gower Gulch, the local street corner cowboy rendezvous which broke into the headlines with a shooting recently, has about one chance in 2,500 of contributing a cowboy star to pictures.

Bob Tansey figures it that way, and Bob has been around cowboys and pictures a long time. He writes cowboy pictures, directs them, produces, all at the same time.

That's nothing new, however. The first of the screen's cowboy stars was G. M. "Broncho Billy" Anderson. Terry Ramsaye, the film historian, relates the legend of Broncho's debut in "The Great Train Robbery."

Just as the first "Westerns" were shot in the wild plains of New Jersey, so cowboy stardom has not swerved much from its effete origins.

But they didn't find Gene Autry in Gower Gulch. Gene's from Texas, and he knew his way about, but they picked him off the air.

Tom Mix was a Westerner all the way, with a full past of range adventure before he hit pictures, and Ken Maynard, out of Texas, came to movies from a wild-West circus.

Chapter 12 'A MAN FOR YOU'

Then Pierre appeared with Lily. He had discarded his coat and tie, and someone had wrapped his head in a brigand's scarlet kerchief.

"Weren't we funny?" she asked, laughing, and Tom suddenly saw the ridiculous side of their meeting.

"I had you pictured as a dried-up spinster," Lily explained, "and here you turned out to be young and pretty. You were an awful disappointment."

"This will never do," cried a red-head called Myrtle. "You must have smut on your face before you are branded as one of the gang."

"Tom turned pork chops, eyes red with smoke from the open fireplace, hair tousled from the low-hanging cedar boughs. There was smut on her face and grease stains on her new frock, but she was happy. She had never been as happy.

"She has one!" Bartell spoke with a finality that caused Tom's breath to catch. He was looking at her as though he detested her.

"He's one fellow," Bartell went on, "who is going to handle her as she needs to be handled. He'll knock that temper out of her if he has to use a belying pin. And when he's through with his disciplining, she'll sit up and beg."

"Tom looked at Bartell and hated him anew. There he sat, sun shining down on him as though it had been made for the sole purpose of bringing out the highlights of his hair, the bronze of his skin, the fiendish glints in his eyes, and to illuminate that slow, leazy smile.

The crowd waited. Tom elevated a bun with a pork chop protruding at a rakish angle. "If this fellow has a sister, see if she'll take you in hand," she suggested.

While the group hooted at Bartell, Tom enjoyed her sandwich, sand, cinders and cedar needles. Nothing had ever tasted as delicious.

"My dear, Myrtle swooped down on her, "you're going dancing with us tonight. You're too good to lose. Imagine any girl holding her own with Allen! Pierre, you can be my man for the evening, and I'll lend Jack to

Pierre sprang to his feet and hurried to Tom. "But, if Miss Toland will be so kind—"

Tom flashed him a look of gratitude and turned to Myrtle. "That's sweet of you, dear, but I'm so poor at returning anything I borrow."

Abe liked Prudhomme. He was as enthusiastic as his lack of teeth would allow. "I tell you, Miss Tom, I wouldn't put it past him to grow us a five-legged frog."

What should she wear? Tom tried on each frock she had purchased, while Abe waited at the foot of the stairs to pass judgment.

"You look like the pink stuff they sell at the circus," he said. "Oh, I didn't mean lemonade," he corrected. "I mean the stuff that looks like spun sugar. And if it will help you any, the girls are wearing semi-formals tonight."

"I'm that what inspired this visit?" Tom inquired. "You look like the pink stuff they sell at the circus," he said.

"No, it isn't. Who is this Prudhomme person?" "They dined, and they danced. Pierre—the might as well call him that; everyone else seemed to—danced perfectly. She felt she could dance with him forever, give herself up to the joy of rhythm and music.

"She couldn't criticize his dancing, that is his footwork, but there was something wrong. She couldn't hear the music for the thudding of her angry heart. Angry, because she must go the way he directed. And she was con-

"I'm sorry," and for the first time he sounded sorry. "It's just—well, don't you see, Tom, this isn't the day and age to go off with a man you don't know. I promised old Timothy I'd look after you like a—"

"Like a mother," supplied Tom, who had softened at his evidence of concern, then winced as he'd attributed it to a promise given her great-uncle.

"No. After all, we do belong to the same fraternity. He wouldn't have let me in on that if he couldn't stand having his past record checked. But—" he looked at Tom with a boyish grin—"to break down and admit the truth, I'd planned on taking you myself."

"Tom didn't understand the sudden rage which shook her. "Your new car will carry three, won't it?" she asked. "And without musing either Lily's or my frock."

"Bartell stood up abruptly. "I've been waiting for that, and I believe I will ask Lily. She doesn't scratch when you try to be nice to her."

He was gone suddenly, the door banging behind him. Tom's door also banged as she went in to don a house dress, preparatory to fixing Abe's dinner.

Tom dressed for the dance with unusual care. She reveled in donning clothes without the feminine members of the Toland family sitting around, criticizing every move. She also missed their caustic remarks; wondered why they didn't write and if they were never going to.

Slipping into a pale yellow frock, its only claim to distinction being its lines and the flat white jonijs applied to the shoulder, and cascading down the full skirt, she thought it a bit ridiculous, to take such care. After all, she was dining and dancing with a man she expected to hire. Wouldn't Great-aunt Hannah throw a mit at such democracy in a Toland?

Her prospective employee called in a cab at the appointed hour. He looked distinguished in his dinner clothes.

"You have a French woman's flair for the right ensemble," he complimented. The Alameda, where the dinner dance was to be held, was the antithesis of the hotels Tom had known. It was a low, Spanish structure, rambling in a half moon about a velvet lawn studded with palms and magnolias.

Most of the crowd had gathered, but Tom was there in time to see Lily's triumphant arrival. She clung to Allen's arm "as though she were afraid someone would snatch him from under," scoffed Tom.

"They dined, and they danced. Pierre—the might as well call him that; everyone else seemed to—danced perfectly. She felt she could dance with him forever, give herself up to the joy of rhythm and music.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—Some of these people who sit in the seats of the nation's mighty high salaries are going to be taken down a few pegs.

Before many moons, Secretary Morgenthau's Internal Revenue gang is going to give that list of 400 top salaries published back in January a whole of a shaking up. It'll come in the form of an additional list and after it's made public the "400" is not going to be quite so exclusive.

Prodded for an explanation of why they didn't put the whole list out in the first place, the treasury boys said their bookkeepers just weren't caught up when Congress met and called for the salary figures.

Right off the bat, you can expect to see one soap-suds king, F. A. Countway, president of Lever Bros., washed out of first place as the nation's highest-paid corporation executive.

V-P'S IN THE MONEY

What's principally going to upset 'em big apples in the 1938 salary cart is that the movie companies, Loew's, Inc., and its subsidiary, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and Warner brothers are going to be in the new list. The packing companies will also be in the revised list, but that won't make much difference.

If Loew's and MGM are still paying the same old salaries, Mr. Countway won't even finish second, because in 1937 they paid J. Robert Rubin $601,123 for being vice-president and N. M. Schenck (his friends call him "Nick") $489,802 for being president.

Whether the Brothers Warner will come in there is something else to speculate on. As a matter of fact, Mr. Countway, with his $469,713 pay envelope, may not even be in the running.

WHAT ABOUT CLAUDETTE?

It's a pretty good bet, too, that Claudette Colbert, with her $301,944.51, won't hold her place as the highest-paid actress and the nation's No. 1 female breadwinner. Greta Garbo works for MGM you know. Her 1937 salary was $472,499 and Garbo never was a girl to work for less this year than she was making last.

All in all, the completed list should make a pretty fair showing for 1938. With 600 men and women drawing down more than $75,000, it couldn't have been exactly a depression year.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—On Broadway, song pluggers are thicker than flies in fly time. You can close your eyes and reach out your hand and touch one. Let's touch three or four now and see what we get.

We get Bob Stone right off the bat. We get Norm Foley, and Mack Goldman, and Eddy Wolpin. They're on the job tonight, as all song pluggers are on the job every night.

We get Stone, Foley, Goldman and Wolpin because this happens to be their night to have dinner at our hotel. Tomorrow they'll go to some other hotel, but don't let that bother you. Four other song pluggers will be here to take their place.

A song pluggers' dream of heaven is a "major plug." A major plug means having your song played by a dance orchestra between 5 o'clock in the afternoon and one o'clock in the morning over either NBC or CBS.

Let's say you work for a firm that has published a song called "How Were Your Dreams Last Night?" Of course there isn't any song by that name. This is just to illustrate a point.

The more times you get that song played over the two major broadcasting companies, the more money you make. Either of these networks hits an audience of millions. When a million people listen to a song, some of them are going to buy it. The more times it is played, or "plugged," the higher the sales charts climb.

So, every night around dinner time the song pluggers move in on the hotel dining rooms where the big dance bands play. Usually they are alone. They come in and sit down and kill a lot of time over dinner, checking up on their own numbers, checking up on the opposition.

That's what Bob Stone is doing right now. He is checking up. He is sitting so close to the orchestra stand that he could reach out and pull "me Baron's leg. Mr. Barron is the orchestra leader. Stone represents the Sam Fox publishing firm, and the song he is working on is "Tumbling Tumble Weeds."

Four or five tables away are Mack Goldman, of the Harms company and Norm Foley, who represents Witmark Goldman is interested in "In A Little Dutch Garden." Foley wants to hear "Make Love With a Guitar."

Finally, there is Eddy Wolpin. Mr. Wolpin is a Chappell man, and he has a couple of winners just now. When he hears the orchestra play "All The Things You Are" it makes him very happy. When he hears "Do I Love You," that makes him happy too.

This may not seem fair to you, but money behind a song will make it just as quickly as talent. If you have a number that is a beauty, and another only half as pretty, the proper exploitation will make a lot of the mediocre song while the really beautiful one dies. That's why song pluggers are important.

MONUMENT DEDICATED TO BLAST VICTIMS AT NEW LONDON

NEW LONDON, Mar. 18 (AP)—A 120-ton granite monument was dedicated today to the memory of 280 pupils and 14 teachers who died in the explosion of March 18, 1937.

While hundreds of relatives, friends and neighbors gathered here for the simple ceremony, services were held at the Pleasant Hill Baptist church, across the way from the cemetery where about 100 of the blast victims were buried.

The monument is across the street from the new $400,000 school building erected with safety devices against a repetition of the disaster which, investigators said, apparently was caused by an accumulation of natural gas ignited by a spark when a switch was thrown in a manual training room.

Stores in the area were closed today from 2 to 3 p. m., marking the hour of the tragedy.

DIES IN N. ORLEANS DALLAS, Mar. 18 (AP)—Funeral services were held today for George Houston Coyne, 64, Cisco polo pony breeder, who died at New Orleans Friday.

fusedly aware of his arms, of the lazy, teasing smile he sent down when she dared to look up.

Sometimes she was afraid the music would never stop. And sometimes she was afraid it would stop too soon. And then it did, and Bartell, escorting her back to the table, thanked Prudhomme, for the dance.

"The—the conceited prig," she murmured. And, to Pierre's attentive, "I beg your pardon," she said: "Mr. Bartell seems so very sure of himself."

"But, of course," agreed Prudhomme, with exaggerated nonchalance. "I am told he is the most successful young attorney in this community; specializes in estates, and in the drawing of wills. That, Miss Toland, he sent her a quizzical glance, "should make you feel very secure."

It made her feel very insecure. Tom's worries descended in a cloud, cutting her off from the gaiety of the party. When Bartell, a protesting Lily clinging to him, paused at his table to say good-night, she was sure he was up to some mischief directed at her.

Lily's words confirmed her fear. The little blonde pouted prettily at Prudhomme. "Allen has some silly old business to attend to, so I have to go home."

Lily had made this a challenge to Prudhomme, but he didn't accept it. He merely bowed and expressed his sympathy.

Tom found the party increasingly drab. She wondered if she had taken cold. Something caused her to feel depressed when she should be happy, and when Prudhomme expressed a fear that she was tired and suggested he take her home, she accepted with alacrity.

She remained silent as their cab sped down tree-lined avenues where street lights seemed strung like fat Chinese lanterns, the lacy branches of pepper trees silhouetted against them.

"I should discuss business with you," she offered as they crossed the bridge.

"Not tonight," begged Prudhomme. "Can't we forget for these few hours that you are to be my employer?"

Continued tomorrow.

Names Listed On City Ballot

Eight men, candidates for the city commission, had their names placed Monday morning in the order they will appear on the ballot for April 2 voting.

Only two candidates—Mayor R. V. Jones and J. C. Loper, were present for the drawing although all had been notified. Names were drawn from a hat by party not connected with the city.

This was the order in which the names were drawn: E. D. Merrill, R. V. Jones, J. C. Loper, J. R. Collins, E. R. Graves, D. W. Webber, W. S. Satterwhite, and R. L. Cook. Unless there are other names added by means of a petition bearing the names of 50 qualified voters, this is the way the ballot will appear when voters select men for three places.

Absentee voting will start Friday and continue for 10 days until three days before the election. Entrance of names on the ballot by petition may be done until three days before the election.

Two Arrested On Charges Of Theft

Two men, arrested by members of the local sheriff's department, were in the Mitchell county jail Monday facing charges of felony theft.

Approximately half of the missing material was reported recovered.

Sheriff Dick Gregory and Chief of Police Dick Hickman of Colorado City came here Sunday to take the two men into their custody.

Before that time he had made his home in Big Spring for many years.

Rodeo Money To Oklahoma

FORT WORTH, Mar. 18 (AP)—Bow-legged Clyde Burk of Comanche, Okla., showed $1,100 in his jeans today and waddled toward home.

Last night he became the unofficial all-around champion cowboy of the Southwestern Fat Stock show rodeo.

By roping and trussing up a calf before most of his neighbors could draw "Jack Robinson," it took him only 25.2 seconds—he earned $650 and won the calf roping contest.

That is big money to any dogie chaser, most of whom earn $40 a month and room and board.

Previously he had won $448.

Now Burk is what bronc-busters and whoopee-hollering boys call a rich puncher.

The pokes of a lot of the range folks bulged today.

Mike Fisher of Dunning, Neb., pocketed the money for the steer wrestling championship and Nick Knight of Cody, Wyo., rode every bronc he straddled for the chips in the jolting event.

Hoyt Hefner of Wichita Falls took the bareback bronc riding title and Smoky Snyder of Buena Park, Calif., went home with the Wild Brahms bull riding money.

Chester Byers of Fort Worth is the champion trick and fancy rider.

Back to the land of the cactus went Dick Griffith of Tempe, Ariz., with the trick and fancy cowboy riding title and pretty Pauline Nesbitt of Nowata, Okla., bagged the cowgirl trick and fancy riding purse.

New Explosive To Get Tests

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18 (AP)—Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the senate military committee said today the war and navy departments had agreed to give Lester P. Barlow, Baltimore inventor, an opportunity to demonstrate the power of a secret explosive which he and a collaborator had invented.

Sheppard made the announcement following a closed session of the senate and house military and naval committees at which Secretary of War Woodring, Secretary of Navy Edison and Barlow testified.

Each of the four committees, Sheppard said, would designate two members to witness tests on land and sea as soon as arrangements could be made.

SUGGESTS BARON MANNERHEIM AS NEW LEADER

HELSINKI, Mar. 18 (AP)—Field Marshal Baron Carl G. Mannerheim, Finland's deeply admired army commander, has been proposed also as director "of the national fate in general."

So far it is only a newspaper suggestion, offered yesterday by the influential Uusi Suomi, and there has been no indication that the field marshal would accept. Many such opportunities have been offered Mannerheim in the past but he never accepted.

Uusi Suomi, in a special dispatch from Moscow, also said Soviet Russia planned to begin immediately construction of fortifications along the new frontier with Finland and that they are to be known as the "Voroshiloff Line" for Russian war commissar Klementi E. Voroshiloff.

Scout Council To Meet Tuesday Eve

Executive board of the Buffalo Trail council will convene in an important session at the Settles hotel at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, it was announced here Monday.

C. S. Blomsheld, district chairman, said he was anxious to have a large representation from the host city at the parley.

The meeting will follow the district first aid contest for Boy Scouts. This phase of the program starts at 5:15 p. m. in the high school gymnasium and will be judged by qualified first aiders from Couden refinery, the state highway department, Texas Electric Service and the Red Cross chapter.

Any troop scoring as high as 80 on its tests will be certified to compete in the council aid contest in Midland Saturday. Stanley Mate and Jack Hodges, council field executive, will assist in the district eliminations.

MARKETS Wall Street

NEW YORK, Mar. 18 (AP)—Thoughts of a new European peace drive, given further emphasis by the Hitler-Mussolini conference, today helped chill stock market sentiment.

Leading issues fell fractions to a point or so in the first hour, but offerings soon dried up and losses subsequently were cut. Transformed into minor advances in some cases. Closing prices, however, were definitely irregular.

Negative comment was found in the fact volume dwindled appreciably on the downdrift. At the same time, there was little or no pickup when pressure lifted. Transfers for the full session were under 500,000 shares.
