Kitty's Korner

By Kitty Montgomery

Just as surely as Christmas brings a rash of broken windows, street lights and property damage from BB guns, summer school vacation brings a rash of prank telephone calls.

In the past few years it has become more of a problem than ever, since everyone has extensions all over the house and every child who is old enough to dial a phone has one of his very own.

We hear many complaints on this subject almost every year, but lately some of these calls have created some pretty serious problems. At least one mother left her small child to answer the telephone and he fell, injuring himself, while she was hearing abusive language from an anonymous caller (adolescent type voice). On another occasion one of the town's older citizens had retired for the night (early by youngster's standards) and was constantly aroused by the ringing of the telephone. This went on for hours with the caller hanging up when the phone was answered.

And then, of course, all businesses have the usual: "Do you have Prince Albert in the can?" An answer in the affirmative brings "Please let him out." This is an old one and by now I am sure there are several variations. Most everybody is wise to these old faithful jokes, everyone past the age of six, and usually go along with the prankster.

Young children who play with the telephone quite often get a listed number. Just as often they never hang up the phone, tying up the other end for hours at times.

If those being bothered by the calls can find out who the caller is and report it to the proper authorities, their telephone calls can be traced. And a person using abusive language on the telephone is breaking the law and can be prosecuted.

Parents are responsible for their children's use of the telephone and will be held so until the children are grown. Many annoying calls could be eliminated if parents refused to let more than one child be shut up in a room with a telephone for any length of time whatever. Kids usually think this is a fun thing, but if a parent gives them a serious lecture on the subject and explains the consequences, they usually understand and find another outlet for their excess.

As for people who are bothered with prank or crank calls, there are several things which can be done to discourage them. 1.) Never talk when you discover a prankster on the line, just hang up. He will find no fun in having the receiver clicked in his ear and he will hunt elsewhere for someone to abuse who will talk back to him. 2.) If you have received several calls with the caller hanging up when you answer the phone, let it ring 30 or 40 times before answering again. 3.) If all else fails, go to the telephone company and insist that a tracing device be installed on your telephone. This is a little trouble, but a sure way to eliminate the nuisance.

Hot weather finally arrived, and it's really making up for all that nice, cool, rainy weather we had been enjoying so much. Of course, it's no hotter than it's supposed to be for this time of year; it just seems so because we were plunged into it so abruptly. Guess we'll all be accustomed to it by the time the first norther arrives.

By the way, we are well into the bridal season, so I guess I'm a little late in bringing this up. However, we have forms for brides and are happy to pass them out upon request. Also, we are available to assist in any way except on Tuesday. Another thing is pictures. With our new process, we are able to enlarge or reduce, but still need black and white for a really good (Continued on last page)

MEDINA HOME CHORUS to perform at the Ozona Church of Christ Wednesday evening. The public is invited to attend and enjoy the "Sermon in Song" presented by the youngsters. This is the fourth summer for the group to tour throughout Texas and

Choral Group From Medina Home To Sing

"Open my eyes that I may see... glimpses of truth thou hast for me" will be the introduction to the Medina Home Chorus as they tour for their fourth summer throughout Texas. The group will give their singing program Wednesday evening, June 28, at 7:30 at the Ozona Church of Christ. The community is cordially invited to attend.

The Chorus will visit 57 congregations of the Churches of Christ with their "Sermon in Song - IV." Various civic clubs will also host the Chorus as they sing their appreciation and commitment to America. Also included in their program is a short color and sound movie showing the campus and activities of the children.

Eugene N. Helm is the director. Mrs. Naomi Snyder will accompany the group and will be the mother to the children while on tour. The boys and girls, ages 14-19, strive to teach the Word of God in song and life as they travel.

Their previous tours in the summers of 1969, 1970, and 1971 have been both inspirational for the congregations they visited and educational for the young people of the Chorus.

They have cut two records: "Open my Eyes" and "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Both stereo records, made by Century Records, contain the spiritual and patriotic numbers their first visit to Ozona. Their entire program consists of song along religious and patriotic lines. Included in the program is a short color and sound movie showing the campus of the home and the activities of the children.

NEW LIONS PRESIDENT AND INSTALLING OFFICER - Tommy Sanders, left, will be installed as president of the Ozona Lions Club during noon ceremonies today and Bill Watson, right, will be installing officer. Sanders is Ozona High School Band director and Watson is owner and operator of Watson's Department Store. He is also Zone Chairman for the Lions Club.

Screwworm Cases Increase By 100 In Week

Over 100 cases of screwworm had been reported in Crockett County livestock by noon Tuesday, 85 of the cases reported this week.

County agent Pate Jacoby said Tuesday that Crockett County was not yet in the drop area for sterile flies, but that a drop will be made for every case reported. The program is running about a week behind, but Jacoby reminded ranchmen that it is most important to get samples and send them in.

Jacoby said "we know the sterile flies will work if we can get them, and the more cases we turn in, the more flies will be dropped."

Drops are being made over all areas with confirmed cases, however, all suspected cases should be turned in, in order to get more sterile fly drops, which has been proven the only effective method to control the screwworm.

OZONA YOUNGSTERS PLACE IN SONORA JUNIOR RODEO

Three Ozona youngsters placed in events in the Sonora Junior Rodeo held last week in Sonora.

Kay McMullan, outstanding 4-H Horse Club member, won the senior girls barrel race. Kay had good time for an easy first place.

In the junior division, Cliff McMullan came in third in the breakaway roping, and Shane Fenton was second in the steer riding.

Ross Hufstедler Funeral Service Held Saturday

Funeral services for Ross Hufstедler, 67, were held Saturday afternoon from the Ozona Church of Christ with Bill Morrison, minister, officiating. Burial was in Cedar Hill Cemetery under the direction of James Funeral Home.

Mr. Hufstедler died Thursday evening in Clinic Hospital. He suffered a heart attack at his home here the previous Sunday morning and was rushed to San Angelo by ambulance. He was reported improved by mid-week, but apparently suffered another attack Thursday evening.

Mr. Hufstедler was born March 19, 1905 in Tolar. He was married to Anna Estes June 18, 1927 in San Angelo. He was a long time member of the Ozona Church of Christ and had been a resident of Ozona for 45 years.

Mr. Hufstедler served as song director in many services at his church and in local service clubs. He sang in community choirs recruited for special events in the community for many years. Many will remember his big bass voice.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, Joe Hufstедler of El Paso and J. G. Hufstедler of Fort Worth; a brother, Lloyd Hufstедler of Las Cruces, N. M.; a sister, Mrs. Fay Maxwell of El Paso and three grandchildren.

Lions Install New Officers; Sanders Prexy

Installation of new officers for the Ozona Lions Club is the highlight of the regular weekly luncheon today at the El Sombrero Cafe.

Bill Watson, Zone Chairman for the Lions, will be the installing officer.

New officers include Tommy Sanders, president; Glynn Burns, first vice president; Vernon Jones, second vice president; Jim Williams, third vice president; Bill Watson, secretary-treasurer; Ray Henderson, tiler; and S. E. Carnes, tiler.

The new Lions Club Sweetheart is Patti Schroeder. New directors are Jimmy Lott, A. E. Morris, Jessie S. Segars and David Wallace. Holdover directors include Bill Dixon and Troy Williams.

Members of the nominating committee were Harold Shaw, Bill Watson, George Glynn and Dr. Joe B. Logan.

Felipe Vargas Goes On Trial On Charge Of Murdering Lupe Fierro

The murder trial of Felipe Vargas, III, who was charged in the shooting death of Lupe A. Fierro November 14, 1971 began Tuesday morning in 112th District Court.

Selection of the jury began at 9:30 Tuesday morning. Attorney for the defense is County Judge Troy Williams, and handling the prosecution is 112th District Attorney Dixon Mahon.

Ranges Best In Years From Generous Rains

Showers over the past week have pushed the June rainfall record to 5.06 inches in the city and even more generous amounts around the county. Most rangelands in the county are in better condition than in many years.

Cool weather for this time of year has also been a boon to pasture lands around the county. However, hot days are forecast and the mercury hit 100 degrees Monday afternoon and Tuesday afternoon.

A cool front late Wednesday touched off thunder-showers, and the official gauge at the Water District office recorded .9 of an inch. During the same period up to six inches of rainfall was reported in the south part of the county. A shower Saturday afternoon added another .11 of an inch to the record and larger amounts were reported to the north and to the west of Ozona.

While amounts of rainfall have varied with each shower, rain has been general over the county this month with all points reporting good rains.

The murder charge was filed against Vargas when Fierro was dead on arrival at the Crockett County Hospital after a shooting three miles east of Ozona Sunday evening, Nov. 14.

Vargas was in his pickup with his two sons, Raul, 14, who was killed in an automobile accident the following April, and a six-year-old son, Fierro was the only person in his vehicle the night of the shooting.

That the shooting was the culmination of a long-standing feud between the two men was indicated in statements made by Vargas and his son, Raul.

Both statements alleged that Fierro "tried to run over us" in the vicinity of Lockett Pool. Vargas said he and his children were out riding when Fierro made a swipe at his vehicle, braked and almost skidded into him, frightening him and the children.

Both statements indicated that there had been several altercations between the two men over a period of years and Fierro had recently threatened Vargas. Vargas said he followed the Fierro pickup east about three miles and stopped to tell him "to quit bothering him."

Evidently one pickup stopped on one side of the road and the other stopped opposite it on the other side. In Vargas' statement which was corroborated by that of the boy's, Fierro started across the pavement toward the Vargas vehicle. Meanwhile Vargas took a gun from the seat of the pickup. According to Vargas' statement he said "I asked him (Fierro) if he was drunk and he just kept coming. I fired a couple of shots at the pavement. He kept coming and I wrestled away and got in the middle of the pavement and started shooting at him. When he started swinging at me I shot at him until there were no shots left. And then he got hold of the gun and said 'You s.o.b. you shot me a bunch of times.' I told him to stay away from me and he wrestled the gun away and pushed me into a ditch and pointed the gun at me and started firing. I heard a shot come from that gun."

"Lupe leaned against the pickup and put the gun in the bed. I told him 'I wasn't going to shoot you. You kept coming at me and I didn't want to shoot you.'"

According to Raul's statement, when he saw his father and Fierro fighting over the gun, he jumped from the pickup and tried to assist his father. His father told him to run. He said he saw blood on the side of Fierro's shirt.

The younger Vargas caught a ride to town and reported the incident after his father told him to run.

The ambulance was dispatched and brought Fierro to the local hospital, but he was dead on arrival.

When Vargas was told that Fierro was dead, he collapsed with a long-standing heart ailment and was hospitalized for several weeks. He has been out on bail since his release from the hospital and is living with his family in Sonora.

Raul, the 14-year-old son, also moved to Sonora with his father, and was killed in a one-vehicle accident during the last part of April as he was riding to Ozona with a group of boys.

YOUTH CENTER ACTIVITIES have picked up in the game category with this new snooker pool table which was installed in the new addition to the center along with other pool tables and two ping-pong tables. Above, Ronald Koerth and Kirby Kirklén battle it out.

PINBALL MACHINES are always busy at the Youth Center. A lot of fun to play alone or with a partner. These machines are installed in the older wing of the center near the television room. There is also plenty of room for dancing and music abounds.

ONLY SLIGHTLY SLANTED

Sometimes we wonder if folks appreciate the degree to which some of the "news" which originates in the Atlantic Coast Establishment is slanted. Admittedly, it is difficult to comprehend the extent of bias which can be found in and among the high paid "news" writers on the Eastern seaboard.

Consider, for example, these comments which appeared in one of our largest Eastern newspapers (circulation, 700,000; yearly subscription rate $33.80) upon the death of FBI Director, J. Edgar Hoover:

"He has gone off into that pop purgatory . . . with exposes of communism in the Boy Scouts, and where a tremendous publicity apparatus can still turn the head of the secret police into a national hero . . . If you believe in human freedom, you must say that we are better off in America with Hoover gone . . . There was no single worse subversive in this country in the past 30 years than J. Edgar Hoover . . . We live in a country where few people feel free to talk openly on a telephone, because Hoover's secret police might be listening . . . None of us should have been surprised at what Hoover did to the country; his mother was a Calvinist . . . He could not have moved past mandatory retirement age, without the cowardice of Presidents Kennedy, Johnson, and Nixon . . ."

Extreme? Not at all. Such is "normal" with those who cheer wherever the Communists score a victory, and hiss when they hear the name of our President (any President — whether Democrat or Republican) and who must stay awake nights to think of more ways to run down our country, attack our ideals, and smear our leaders.

That's why it is good to learn that Friends of the FBI have sponsored an in-depth scholarly study of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. A top team of qualified experts have been assigned the task to probe the wild charges against the Bureau and the late Director. We look forward to the publication of their report.

ARIZONA SETS AN EXAMPLE

The fight against the growing union tyranny must be carried at both the state and federal levels. Happily, there are courageous governors and state legislators who are willing to stand up to the union monopolists. At the federal level, however, the situation is very disappointing to believers in freedom.

The bright spot in the struggle against oppressive unionism is Arizona where Gov. Jack Williams has signed into law a bill that deals with the problem of harvest-time strikes on farms and that labels secondary boycotts as an unfair labor practice. Gov. Williams and the legislators who obtained passage of this bill displayed high political courage and dedication to principle. Gov. Williams already is under attack by union bosses who vow to have him recalled from office.

The harvest-time strike and the secondary boycott against stores are the principal weapons of the United Farm Workers Union which seeks to gain monopoly power over food production in the United States. Cesar Chavez, boss of the union, has moved out of the California lettuce fields and extended his power grab to Arizona and as far away as the Florida citrus and sugar cane fields. Of Chavez' earlier campaign against grape growers, the Philadelphia Inquirer said: "To join or not join a union ought to be a matter of free choice for grape pickers or other workers. They should not be forced into it by a boycott of their employers' product."

Chavez' United Farm Workers Union most probably fears the "secret balloting" provision of the Arizona law as much as an anti-boycott feature. The record of the farm union strikes clearly demonstrates that the majority of the farm workers don't want to be organized under Cesar Chavez' leadership. The farm union movement is a hoax and would not survive but for the muscle of the union organizers.

Under the Arizona law, which provides an example to other states, a farmer can get a 10-day court injunction if he can show a judge that he stands to lose at least $5,000. It flatly outlaws the secondary boycott as a union pressure device.

Farmers must have such protection against harvest-time strikes, Cecil Miller Jr., president of the Arizona Farm Bureau Federation, has given this clear explanation: "A strike at an automobile plant is bad, but when it's over, the steel is as good as ever. If a farmer who grows grapes or melons gets hit with a strike at harvest, in 10 days he can be ruined -- his whole year's work wiped out."

Unquestionably, the Arizona law represents social justice for Arizona's farmers whose hard work should not be destroyed by an edict from a tyrannical union boss. The AFL-CIO executive committee in Phoenix, Ariz., in all likelihood seriously misjudges public reaction in proposing a nationwide boycott of Arizona products in protest against the state ban on boycotts and har-

THE REAL CAMPAIGN ISSUES

MONEY ALONE IS NOT THE ANSWER

Big-spending politicians should have been given a fatal blow by a distinguished group of Brookings Institution economists. In a searching analysis they concluded that dollars multiplied by millions do not bring about solutions to many of our socio-economic problems such as welfare, education, and urban blight, but instead threaten to become paralyzing. They argue the critical lack has not been money. Federal social spending has soared from $30 billion to $110 billion in ten years. The underlying shortage has been attainment of constructive results, the Brookings authors contend. They do endorse open-minded experimentation on a long-range basis. This impartial scrutiny of our spending efforts should be given careful consideration by voters and by those in charge of the public purse strings at all levels of government. Appropriation of money alone is not a cure-all. It takes sound research, planning, and effective programs to achieve the goal of a better society in which to live.

vest-time strikes. This kind of union action, evidencing contempt of the public interest, most probably would alert millions of Americans to the need for strong laws to deal with the union monopolists.

Much of the action against monopoly unionism should come from the federal government. In Congress, U. S. Rep. Sam Steiger of Arizona has displayed political courage and leadership by introducing a National Right to Work bill. But the administration isn't aiding this libertarian cause.

In fact, the administration, in the person of Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson, recently begged the union bosses for approval, citing the administration's pro-union actions.

On May 30, Secretary Hodgson addressed the biennial convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and said:

"Let's ask some direct questions. Have we sponsored right to work laws? We have not. Have we proposed applying anti-trust legislation to unions? The answer is no. Have we proposed a labor court system? Of course not. . . President Nixon has done more to open representation and bargaining doors to federal employees than any other President in history. By a 1970 Executive order, the President set up machinery for representation elections, jurisdictional disputes, grievances, etc., and union membership has shot up. Today more than 60 per cent of federal employees are organized." It is shocking that Mr. Hodgson would brag about the administration's failure to curb compulsory unionism and actually hail the spread of unionism in the public service of the country, which is bound to erode the rights of government workers who won't want to be pawns of union bosses.

If the outlook is dismal at the federal level, the example of Arizona is evidence of what grassroots struggles against monopoly unionism can be achieved. Arizona has shown the way. It has set a precedent that should result in admiration and emulation from libertarian-minded citizens and office-holders.

NEWS for OUTDOORSMEN

By VERN SANFORD

Texas fishermen are migratory. Greenery on the other side constantly beckons.

Actually, most of us can catch more fish within a few miles of our own home, but there is something in distance that thrills us. Perhaps it's the scenery.

When it comes to scenery, there is no view more spectacular than that around Hells Canyon, on Snake River. This stream finds its headwaters in Wyoming, then moves westward across Idaho to become the boundary between Idaho and Oregon. That's Hells Canyon country!

Here the Idaho Power Company has constructed three dams—Brownlee, Oxbow and Hells Canyon. All three are on that wild stream that eventually finds its way to the Pacific.

Hells River Canyon is the deepest in Idaho. At the crest, where the Seven Devil Peaks overlook the country at around 12,000 feet, there is almost perpetual snow. Down in the canyon, however, it gets hotter than the proverbial hinger.

We flew there last summer with another Texas outdoors writer, L. A. Wilke. Purpose was to get in a bit of fishing and sight seeing, but it was too hot to fish much. However, after less than an hour of casting below Oxbow Dam in the middle of the day we did catch a string consisting of rainbow, smallmouth bass and squawfish.

Although the latter is an edible fish, and a distant member of the salmon family, it is something like our own carp. Up there it is called the tourist trout. This because it is so easy to catch in those waters which are cool despite the intense daytime heat in the area.

Evenings are cool so the area is fast becoming the playground of those seeking water sports. Actually, it is a fun-seeker's paradise.

Idaho Power spent more than $230 million to harness the Hell's Canyon reach, with three new lakes having a total length of 3 miles and a combined surface area of 19,000 acres. All three lakes are tracked by 142 miles of modern highways.

On each of the impoundments the company has established major parks and has dotted the shorelines with boat-launching ramps and docks. There are three major free camping areas, with sanitary connections, for mobile homes and trailers.

Here you'll find year-round fishing for bass, crappie and catfish. (Trout are limited to seasons.)

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Spicy Testimony

To sensation-seekers at the courthouse, this was the big day. A local politician was on trial for seduction, and the victim—a 16-year-old schoolgirl—was scheduled to take the witness stand and tell her story.

But the girl became so nervous about testifying in public that the judge ordered everyone except relatives and newspaper reporters out of the courtroom.

Later found guilty, the defendant appealed on the ground that he had not had a public trial. However, his appeal was denied. The court said clearing the courtroom was justified if that was the only way to get the girl's story.

Courts generally agree that a judge may exclude spectators if the modesty of a witness makes that necessary. But suppose the purpose is not to protect the witness but to protect the public. May a judge exclude spectators because he thinks the testimony might corrupt their morals?

Unless local law authorizes it, judges ordinarily do not have that power—no matter how lurid the testimony may be. Thus:

In a rape case, the judge excluded spectators on the theory that their "only motive was to satisfy their morbid tastes." But an appellate court ruled that the judge had exceeded his authority. The court said the defendant's right to a public trial is too fundamental to be cast aside so easily.

"A judgment of conviction, where the defendant has not refused a public trial, cannot stand," said the court, "even against the meanest criminal in the land."

What if the defendant himself wants to keep out spectators, for reasons of his own? In a pandering case, the defendant took that position, demanding that the entire proceedings be conducted in secret.

But the court ruled that he had no right to that much privacy. "A crime is a public wrong," said the court. "The community is deeply interested in the administration of justice, and the presence of its members at a trial is as basic as (the presence) of a defendant. The people have the right to know what is being done in their courts."

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club
By Mrs. Bailey Post

After the great rains of the week, you could almost guess, plants and trees take deeper green and new growth. Out here in our arid climate, I honestly believe that we appreciate a good rain more than they do where rain falls bountiful during most of the year.

You haven't noticed, the oleander shrubs are in bloom now. They stand out, dry, and windy weather better than some of the shrubs, if kept watered. Insects don't seem to bother them, maybe because of the poison in the leaves. Do be careful of these plants if you have small children in the family.

Cut off old blooms on pansies, marigolds, calendulas and any other blooming plants, to extend a longer flowering season. Many gardeners are using old plants, which can be used in and out as they bloom. Finish blooming. If pots are not placed in soil to their rims, they will receive more water, perhaps each day. Be sure the containers have drainage holes and contain good soil. Plants that do well in pots or planters are geraniums, daylilies, hibiscus, cissampelos, succulents, lantana, petunias, mums, calceolarias, bougainvillea and small evergreens that stay attractive the year around.

If you plan to have a fall garden, prepare the area now to have it ready. June and July are prime times to sow seed of broccoli, collards and tomatoes. Although your spring collard seeds produce large plants, the most tender collards are those seeded in June and July, also a much better quality. There are other vegetables you may want to add to these mentioned.

Frank Ashby of Oklahoma City has been here visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hubbard. He has returned home to enroll in a summer session at the University of Oklahoma.

HONEYMOON

The wedding bells rang, the bride was radiant, the groom's mother cried, just a little, and the maid of honor caught the bouquet. It was a perfect wedding, and the honeymoon has been ideal.

Tomorrow, this young couple will be going home to begin a new way of life. In it, reality will be combined with romance. There will be the blending of two temperaments under a single roof. There will be all the frustrations of daily living, and the pain as well as the pleasure that comes with just being alive.

How will they adjust? That depends on the basics that were taught to them years ago, in their own homes—and in church.

Washington News Letter

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

Total U. S. withdrawal of combat troops from Vietnam has given rise to increased concern for the fate of American prisoners held by the communists.

Now, bombers and naval guns must be relied upon to do the job if the enemy is ever induced to bargain in good faith.

Reports from Hanoi are that their war clique relies upon the U. S. Congress to bail them out and enable them to achieve a military victory.

The Communists have made it clear they are hell-bent on continued mass slaughter and are totally disinterested in any peaceful settlement of the conflict.

Thus, reliance must be placed upon bombers and naval guns and massive destruction of the enemy's war-making ability.

It is clear that the only language Hanoi understands. Everything else has been tried.

Why Americans own $54,000,000,000 worth of U.S. Savings Bonds.

One good reason is the Payroll Savings Plan. About three-fourths of all Bonds are purchased through the Plan.

That's because the Payroll Savings Plan is such an easy way to save. All you do is sign up where you work and the amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

You've got your reasons to save money. There's one great way to do it painlessly. Join the millions who are buying Bonds the Payroll Savings Way.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months after the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.
