Kitty's Korner

By Kitty Montgomery

Well, here we are again, and I wouldn't have made the effort this week, except for a little old lady friend of mine. After I missed writing my column a couple of weeks a while back, I saw my little fan in the post office one day. She really gave me "what for" for leaving my corner out. I explained what a chore it had become after all these years and just frankly told her I didn't have anything to say. She replied, "Oh, honey, don't leave it out anymore, even if it's not any good." So, after that, I'll try to prod along and you'll just have to put up with me. O. k.?

Predatory animals have always been a problem to livestock men and with the surge in animal conservatives, ecologists, naturalists or whatever they are properly called, the last few years, the problem has become more of a problem.

Most people in these parts think that when a predatory bird or animal is eating up your lamb or calf crop, you ought to be able to get rid of him, without breaking the law or bringing down some society or another on your head.

This brings me to a clever little story someone passed to me the other day. It was printed in some livestock journal.

It seems that at a national meeting of livestock men some time back the predatory animal problem was being discussed. Coyotes were said to be eating livestock at an alarming rate and increasing in numbers while control measures were being limited.

Among those present was a lady representing one of the various societies. "You ranchers can prevent rapid increase in coyote numbers without poisoning or otherwise slaughtering them," she declared. "All you have to do is find their dens, castrate the males and turn them loose. Then they can't reproduce."

There was a brief silence, then a sheepman from the back of the room said timidly, "Lady, we ain't so worried about the coyotes breedin' our sheep, it's eatin' them that makes us unhappy."

WHERE'S THE WINNER-- Crockett County Sheriff Billy Mills and County Agent Pete Jacoby, plus a big crowd of 4-H youngsters and adults look around for winner of the half beef, Steve Sanchez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benny Sanchez, when his name was drawn last Friday in the park for the big first prize. Dale H. Bebee won the ham, and Tom Powers, the smoked turkey. Crockett County 4-H members sold 1279 tickets for the drawing. Proceeds will go toward construction of the projected state 4-H Center at Lake Brownwood.

Nursing Home Plans Returned For Change New Plans Due Next Week

The Crockett County Commissioners Court met in called session Monday with Austin architect John Chiles Allen. Allen presented an amended floor plan for the proposed geriatrics wing for the Crockett County Hospital. The plan called for 15,326 square feet housing a 40-bed facility. The court approved the plans subject to approval of the Hospital Board.

After studying the plans, the Hospital Board requested a change, enlarging the laundry room in order that all laundry might be done at the facility. Allen expects to have the new plans back for the hospital board meeting next week, and if approved, the court will study the revised plans at their regular meeting May 14. If both groups approve the plans, the final drawings will be finished in 90 days. There will be a period of 30 days while bids are being taken and after the contract is let.

Also, the court authorized transfer of $35,000 to the Hospital Fund.

A bid for repairing a county pickup was accepted from Perry Hubbard Body Shop, and a

Exports Hike Grain Prices

The export situation is the key to the longterm outlook for feedgrains.

If export sales continue at or near current volumes, above average prices are anticipated at harvest," says Roland Smith, grain marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "However, if the U. S. returns to a low level of export marketing, prices of grains could be sharply reduced."

Massive grain purchases by the Soviet Union beginning last July are having a major impact on the current U. S. grain situation. Soviet wheat imports are projected to be four times that of 1971 and the U. S. will supply most of this trade. U. S. exports of corn, grain sorghum and soybeans are up due to production problems in many foreign countries.

"Domestic grain usage has gone up as well," points out Smith. "Increase in livestock numbers is the primary cause. Cattle on feed last fall were up 19 percent in the Southwest 30 percent in Texas."

Severe cold, wet weather this past winter also brought increased livestock feeding, according to the specialist, thus adding to the demand for grain.

What about the supply situation?

"Production should reach record levels in 1973," contends Smith. "Nationwide, feedgrain acreage should increase about seven percent. The U. S. Department of Agriculture's decision to reduce the 'set-aside' acres for the feedgrain program has promoted increased plantings."

"Grain sorghum acreage in Texas should be up about 10 percent over 1972 while soybeans should show a phenomenal 56 percent increase," says Smith. "About 125,000 more acres will be planted to soybeans this year as a result of skyrocketing prices in 1972 and indications ahead. However, except for soybeans, acreages are still expected to be below 1971 levels."

Corn acreage will increase only slightly while the state's winter wheat acreage is reported to be up by about nine percent.

Should there be a viable wool and mohair industry in this country? That is a recurring question which in 1954 was reflected in the National Wool Act whereby it became a national policy to seek an annual production level of 300 million pounds. Availability of raw wool had been declared an essential for national defense, since in time of war only domestically produced wool could be counted on to meet our minimum requirements.

Due to low-cost foreign competition, domestic wool producers were in plenty of trouble in the early 1950's. A Tariff Commission study at that time found our domestic production costs to be about 10% below what low-cost competitors could produce and deliver it, including tariff, to our markets, and recommended addition of a 10-cent per pound import fee.

Instead, President Eisenhower proposed what became the Wool Incentive Act, whereby the Secretary of Agriculture would annually establish an incentive price level designed to encourage increased production of up to 300-million pounds which since 1954 has been from 62 to 72 cents on wool.

The Wool Act provided for an annual incentive payment to growers of the percentage difference between the average annual domestic price and the incentive level. In 1971 our wool and mohair prices were the lowest in 33 years, and the incentives, to approach the incentive level, were high. Wool prices that year averaged only 13c, in 1972 it was 35c and this year (1973) no incentive payments are expected because of good market prices for both wool and mohair.

It should be pointed out that no incentive payments whatever can be made from U. S. appropriated funds. Such payments, if any, are exclusively from import tariffs imposed on imported competitive products. Thus, technically at least, Australian and New Zealand growers pick up the tab for most of the cost of financing our incentive program and payments made to individual U. S. growers. The law prohibits more than 70 percent of the tariff generated revenue from ever being used to finance the incentive program. It is usually much less.

Strange Prices

As millions of Americans protest excessively high meat prices, it's appropriate to comment on U.S. drug prices.

Anyone who's ever lived abroad, and bought drugs or medicines at modest prices, is struck by the fact that U.S. drug and medicine prices are often four or five times that in other countries—for an identical product.

Some of the difference might be in higher labor and production costs; but the truth is that some drugs and medicines are priced on the basis of exclusiveness and what the public will bear in its ignorance. While that's permissible in our free enterprise sys-

Faith Deaths
The question has recently been raised whether authorities should intervene when individuals carry faith convictions to the point of endangering lives. One case which raised it was a deliberate drinking of poison by two individuals to demonstrate the truth of Bible quotations thought to recommend such an act.

The two fundamentalist preachers died in Tennessee after drinking strychnine to test their faith. A rescue squad which rightly rushed to the church where the drinking took place was reportedly not allowed to take the men to the hospital.

Some members of that church were quoted immediately afterward as saying they would continue to preach the drinking of poison and allowing snakes to bite members, as tests of faith.

No editor wishes to intrude into anyone's particular faith; it is nevertheless true that authorities have an obligation to provide for the public safety. It is also true that of the many, varying human interpretations of the Bible, some are certain to be off the mark.

In cases where public health and safety are concerned, anyone endangering lives by his or her advocacy should be the subject of careful and gentle persuasion, by the proper authorities—more forceful persuasion if necessary.

Does dew fall? If so, when does it fall?

Dew does not fall, so there is no need to answer the second question. However, dew is an interesting weather element and close observation of it can tell you something about the weather to follow during the day.

Dew collects on surface objects, like blades of grass, and is moisture taken from passing, warmer air. The earth objects which collect it from the air must be colder than the air—so as to condense some of the moisture out of the surrounding air.

Seeing dew, either at night or early morning, is a clear weather indication—though not a foolproof one. The absence of dew tells you that chances are good that rain fall is ahead—sometime in the next twenty-four hours.

IRS & REFUNDS
The Internal Revenue Service says late-filing taxpayers will have to wait six or seven weeks before any refund checks due them can be put into the mail.

Nixon On Watergate

President Nixon's agreement to have White House aides and former White House aides testify under oath in the Watergate bugging scandal was a welcome decision.

The President's commitment to suspend anyone indicted and dismiss anyone convicted is also welcome and proper. These decisions should satisfy even the ardent critics of the Administration that President Nixon wants investigators to get to the bottom of the Watergate affair.

With televised hearings and a continuing emphasis on the bugging scandal, some Democrats still hope to parley the political espionage into an issue which will win them congressional seats in 1974 and the White House in 1976.

Mother's Day

The observance of Mother's Day is a recent one in the United States, beginning only in 1907. Then it was the idea of Miss Anna M. Jarvis, of Philadelphia, that at least once a year sons and daughters should pay tribute to mothers. Miss Jarvis arranged for a special service in one of the Philadelphia churches and suggested white carnations be worn by those attending.

The observance, on the second Sunday in May, has rapidly spread to every part of the United States and the fact that it became custom in all the states only four years after it had been suggested testifies to the sentiment for such an observance in this country.

In later years, the custom of wearing a white carnation on Mother's Day was changed and those whose mothers were still alive wore red flowers, instead of white. First observed in the United States, Mother's Day has become an international occasion and mothers in every area of the world are now honored each year on Mother's Day. More than anyone else, the mother who cares for both home and her children is destined to influence the character and future of the country. And often this responsibility is combined with a back-breaking and steady ordeal of sewing, washing, mending, cleaning and teaching. It is to this mother, who dedicates her life to her home, her family and children, that the country owes a debt of gratitude. It is this mother who represents the finest in our civilization.

V-E Day

As time races along, V-E Day falls further and further into history's background and to those who remember it emotionally, it's surprising to realize most Americans today have no memory of that memorable Tuesday in May—the 8th, in 1945, when the Second World War ended for most of the world.

There is impressive new evidence that many of today's younger generation now want to learn more about that war, its causes, its settlements—to understand today's world and its problems. For World War II, in many ways, made the world we live in today. That explains the rash of new books and magazines, and growing interest in history's greatest conflict.

For Americans, May 8th, 1945, came after a hard winter, like a new lease on life, and the new growth and warmth of springtime almost seemed to visually express the great relief and new hope to servicemen in Europe. The hope was the world could avoid another war of such magnitude. So far the world has managed that, but the United States, among the winners, has suffered two costly, long wars in Asia. (France and Britain, also winners in 1945, have experienced lesser struggles away from home.)

The hope of 1973, looking back, must be that the United States will avoid wars in the future, big and small. But it would be unrealistic to carry that policy and hope to the point of allowing the nation's defenses to grow weak. There have always been hungry nations ready to conquer the rich and weak, and as the world's population problem worsens in future years there is no assurance this situation will change. The lesson of World War II is that we must remain strong—to prevent war and preserve cherished American freedoms.

Drowning Time

Already drownings are occurring in some sections of the nation—in the ocean and in lakes and streams.

One precaution swimmers should observe is to try to swim in groups, especially in the oceans. This offers any swimmer in distress immediate help and it also affords protection from sharks and other dangerous fish. Sharks are quite often very close to ocean swimmers, despite notions to the contrary, and if this is doubted try fishing for them from the surf.

It is always shocking to read of persons who are unable to swim going out in boats without life preservers—and many drown in this way every year. Others underestimate currents or their ability or distance. And such mistakes are often paid for with life itself.

Lippizzan Stallions To Perform In Area

The Royal Lippizzan Stallions of Austria, featuring the rarest, most aristocratic breed of horse in the world, will be in the San Angelo Coliseum for one performance Tuesday, May 8, at 8 p.m., and in the Ector County Coliseum in Odessa Saturday, May 12, at 8 p.m., and Sunday at 2 p.m.

Starring with the Lippizzans will be Colonel Ottomar Herrmann, whose ancestors have owned and trained Lippizzans for over 300 years. They were given Lippizzans by the Hapsburg Emperor, Ferdinand II, to lead the Austrian armies during the Thirty Years War, 1618 to 1648.

Col. Herrmann took out a group of Lippizzans from under the very eyes of the Russians in World War II, one of the men who saved the rare breed from extinction. Col. Alois Podhajsky took out the Spanish Riding School Lippizzans, under the protection of General George Patton. The way the rare breed was saved was told in the Walt Disney movie, "Miracle Of The White Stallions."

Lippizzans are famous for their great leaps into the air, called "airs above ground," and Col. Herrmann is considered to be the greatest trainer of the "airs" alive today. Originally these were battle maneuverers, used by mounted nobles to inspire terror in the hearts of the enemy. Now performed for their aesthetic beauty, Lippizzans are called the ballet dancers of the horse world.

CINCO DE MAYO TO BE CELEBRATED THIS WEEKEND

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Parish will hold its traditional Cinco de Mayo celebration this weekend, according to James Plagens, pastor.

Festivities will begin Saturday evening with a bar-b-que supper followed a dance. Activities will continue Sunday at noon with a bar-b-que lunch followed by bingo and games at 2:00 and the traditional parade at 5:00. All are invited.

Miss Martha Cantu, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ricardo Cantu, will be crowned Cinco de Mayo Queen at the dance. Miss Mary Sanchez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Polo Sanchez is runner-up in the Queen contest.

"The Cinco de Mayo celebration has its roots in Mexico's history when Mexico won its independence from France in the 1800's. It is similar to Irish-Americans celebrating St. Patrick's Day," Father Plagens said.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Freedom with an If

"I will suspend your jail sentence and let you go free on one condition," said the judge to a teenager found guilty of malicious mischief. "You will have to go to church every Sunday for a year."

But on appeal to a higher court, the go-to-church requirement was thrown out. The court said forcing anyone to attend services was a violation of the religious freedom guaranteed by the federal Constitution.

Probation—that is, letting a prisoner go free "on condition"—is a common method of dealing with lesser lawbreakers. Judges do have a right to put reasonable limits on the person's activities, such as not leaving the county without the permission of his probation officer.

But, as the above case shows, the judge cannot use probation to take away basic constitutional rights. In another case, a requirement that the probationer would have to donate a pint of blood to the Red Cross was also held unconstitutional as a "cruel and unusual" penalty.

Nevertheless, special restrictions may make sense in the context of a particular situation. Another case involved a woman who had twice been convicted of unlawful conduct during anti-war demonstrations.

The judge granted probation on condition that she not take an activist part in any more such demonstrations. And this restriction was duly upheld on appeal.

"The conduct it forbids," said the appellate court, "even if lawful in itself, is conducive to future criminal activity of the same kind of which (she) was convicted."

The court added: "The granting of probation is within the sound discretion of the trial court. A defendant has the right, if he feels that the terms of probation are more harsh than the sentence, to refuse probation and undergo such sentence."

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Due to the unpredictable late spring and freeze, grass is late coming out, as well as many spring blooming shrubs and flowers.

May is not too late to start planting glad bulbs every two weeks for late blooming.

If the once-a-year blooming climber rose has finished blooming, cut them back and remove all old and dead limbs. Also, prune all early blooming shrubs that have finished blooming so the new growth will be the height you want them to be next spring.

Potted plants may be taken outside now to become hardened before the sun gets too hot. Place in the shade for a few days, out of direct wind.

If you have a sunny spot, and want color year after year with very little care and expense, try some of the new cannas. They give showy blooms all summer if given fertile and moist soil and their "banana tree" foliage gives a tropical accent to the summer scene.

They need fertilizer with high phosphorus content. Plant so the eye is less than two inches below the soil. When setting out petunias or other small plants, protect them for several days from the sun and wind until they are well established. Uncover before night if pill bugs are bothering or sprinkle insect powder nearby.

To supplement the color provided by summer annuals and perennials, don't overlook the summer blooming bulbs. Some of these are fine for hanging baskets, containers and borders. Dahlia, Agapanthus (evergreen), tuberous rooted begonias, peruvian daffodils, tigerflower, tuberose, Gladiola and Zephyranthes (fairy lily).

If not controlled, insects can take over this month. Carefully inspect trees, shrubs, bedding plants and lawns for signs of damage. Also look for black spot and powdery mildew which are encouraged by spraying leaves and foliage of shrubs and plants, especially roses.

Before it gets too hot, the roses and other perennials should be mulched. If you are lucky enough to have cottonseed hulls, spade these into the soil around the roses. Hulls and cotton seed meal are among the best organic mulches and fertilizer.

Cutting away from one's self rather than toward, making sure no one is near a sharp edge, and putting equipment away properly so no one gets hurt, are important safety precautions. Pre-schoolers also begin to form sanitation habits. Instead of just insisting they wash their hands, explain why it's necessary, tell them about germs that cause illness. Teaching pre-schoolers about food habits and nutrition can be fun. If pre-schoolers learn that trying new foods are fun, you're off to a good start with nutrition.

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for the many acts of kindness and sympathy on the death of our father. We would also like to thank all those who made his last days comfortable. A special thanks to the hospital staff and Dr. Johnson.

RECIPE

By Sarah Anne Sheridan
Macaroni salads are hearty enough to feature as main dishes for luncheon and evening menus. They should contain something crunchy like crisp celery, something colorful like strips of green pepper and something to give them zest like scraped onion or a tangy salad dressing.

1 c cooked crabmeat
1 c green pepper chopped.
1/4 c chopped pimentos
1 c chopped celery
1/4 c slivered almonds
3 hard cooked eggs, chopped

2 t salt
Pepper to taste

I should have known everything would be all right when I took Bob home to the ranch during spring break. One of the nicest things about our falling in love has been finding that we agree about almost everything under the sun.

Bob won Mom's heart the minute we got there. Laurie, my little sister, asked, "Come see my bird's nest?" "Sure," Bob said, and away they went. Mom beamed. She thinks anyone who likes children and birds is all right.

Later, Bob played basketball with my brothers and tinkered with the tractor, getting black and greasy right along with Dad. Everybody loved him.

Sunday we all went to church. Standing there, singing with Bob, my family close by, I thanked God for His goodness.

I'm glad that God and His Church have been an important part of my life and of Bob's. Our life together will be enriched by this shared reverence.

Your church offers joyous fellowship. Why don't you go—and take your family with you?

State 4-H Horse Show Is August In Odessa

4-H horsemen over the state have their sights set on competing in the State 4-H Horse Show which will be held in the Ector County Coliseum in Odessa the first four days of August.

For 4-H members with horse projects, the state show ends a year of practicing and working with their horses with the hopes of capturing some of the top honors at the annual event, points out B. F. Yeates, horse specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Sponsoring this year's show along with the Extension Service is the Odessa Chamber

Brush Control Chemical To Be Discussed Tonight

How a new brush control chemical is working out in actual use on West Texas Ranch Country will be discussed at a bar-be-cue supper at the Civic Center this evening at 7:30 p.m.

The chemical, Tordon 225 mixture herbicide, first became available for commercial use last year. It is said to be twice as effective as 2, 4, 5-T, previously the most widely used chemical for brush.

The meeting is being sponsored by Dow Chemical U. S. A., makers of Tordon 225, and is open free of charge to all ranchers in the area. Dow representative Robert Fears, Lubbock, will be in charge.

M. E. Nicholas is still recuperating in Methodist Hospital in Houston after suffering a heart attack at his home here March 28. Nick expects to be home some time next week. His room number is 789.

We will discontinue giving S & H Green Stamps as of May 10. VILLAGE DRUG 8-1c

SECOND ROPING OF SEASON IS SATURDAY

All local and area ropers and riders are invited to take part. Events get underway at 3 p.m.

of Commerce. According to Yeates, events in roping and cutting and English and drill team competition will be open invitational. Competition in the halter, showmanship, western pleasure, reining, pole bending and barrel racing events will be limited to those qualifying at district horse shows over the state.

A total of 20 boys and girls from each of the 13 Extension Service districts are eligible to compete in the qualifying events of the state show. These will include the district champions in each of the classes plus others selected on a point basis. District shows will be conducted in June and July.

A new attraction at this year's event will be a handicraft show, notes Yeates. Those 4-Hers participating in the horse show will be eligible to enter any of their handiwork that they have designed in conjunction with their horse project. Entries could include riding apparel, training equipment and other related materials. Awards will be given for the top entries.

There are many good reasons why it takes some land of your own to be sure of a future in agriculture. You're always welcome to drop by our office and talk over the advantages of taking out a long-term mortgage on farm or ranch property. Right now could be the best time for you to start using borrowed money to buy land... Instead of using your own money to rent or lease.
