The hearing is to receive evidence on the condition, if any, under which the amended permit may be issued, and to determine whether state certification may be issued under federal pollution control

"Preliminary information available to the staff of Texas Water Quality Board indicates that a waste discharge confirming to the conditions in the proposed permit would not unreasonably impair the quality of waters in the state, the hearing notice states.

Lions Trounce Eldorado 61-8; Will Host Ballinger Friday

Ozona's Lions mangled the Eldorado Eagles there Friday night to the tune of 61-8, extending their winning streak to 2-0 for the young season. The Lions will take on the Ballinger Bearcats in the first home game Friday night, Oct. 19, to try for their third win of the season The Lions will be heavy favorites, with the advantage of their home field and by virtue of leading the district in scoring, yards rushing and defense The Bearcats downed Reagan County 14-0 in a defensive battle in Big Lake last Friday night, and according to one poll are ranked fifth in the state for Class AA, so the Lions could have their work cut out for them.

Scoring got underway in Eldorado last Friday night with only a minute and a half gone in the game as ozona halfback Gary Warren dashed 55 yards to paydirt. ohn Galvan's kick went wide A little later in the first period halfback Blake Moody made a 22 yard run to score again for the Lions, again the PAT failed. In the final moments of the first quarter. Moody again charged for the third Lion score, this time on an 18-yard run. Galvan hit the mark this time, and the Lions led 19-0 going into the second period. Second period scoring got ur der way with lavier Reves diving over from the one to end a 32 yard drive. Again

The Ambulance Chasers

You don't have to be too old to remember a time when a certain minority of lawyers, generally considered to be unable to find legitimate clients, were scornfully referred to as "ambulance chasers." The "ambulance chaser" would hasten to the side of an injured victim and attempt to build a law suit against the person or persons who might be accused of having contributed to the cause of the accident. The tactic of the "ambulance chaser" was to promise his prospective client that he had nothing to lose; if the lawyer won the case, he would profit handsomely, but if the case came to naught, there would be no fee.

Today, the practice of "ambulance chasing" has been raised to an exotic level involving many millions of dollars, in the form of "malpractice suits" against doctors. If anything "goes wrong" in either a treatment or an operation, i.e., if the patient does not get well or if he dies the hapless doctor is more and more frequently subjected to a law suit filed against him for "malpractice." The financial rewards to the lawyer are great anywhere from 30% to 50% of the cash award to the alleged victim of "malpractice." Of course, in this game there is no way that the malpractice lawyer can lose; since, no matter what a doctor does, every patient is eventually going to grow older (i.e., "get worse") and is going to die. No doctor on earth can prevent these inevitable things from happening. Of course, the skilled medical practitioner may be able to postpone death in his patients for many years, and he may be able to maintain health among his patients for a much longer period of time than if they had not been treated; but, sooner or later, the doctor is going to lose out, Hence, all that the malpractice lawyer has to do is wait for the of Houston, San Antonio nevitable to happen, and then pounce upon the hapless and Corpus Christi citizens.

Thomas Ehrlich, Dean of the School of Law at Stanford University, recently pointed to a survey which showed that only 18% of the people have "a lot of confidence" in the legal

One good way to start cleaning up the malpractice mess would be to curb through legislation the fees that a lawyer may collect from such a suit, thus guaranteeing that the lawyer would be acting in the best interests of both patients and doctors, and not simply to line his pockets with gold.

Azorean Independence

The Azores consist of nine islands ranging out into the Atlantic as far as 1500 miles from the mother country, Portugal. The population is approximately 250,000. More than 700,000 additional Azoreans have moved to the United States, mostly to New England and California, where there are large Portuguese communities. Thus, Azoreans feel a strong affinity for the U.S. and almost none at all for the leftist revolution that threatens to turn mainland Portugal into a Communist dictatorship, Farmers are the backbone of the Azorean economy, and since the new mainland government took over, the farmers have been paid less and less for their crops, have been taxed more and more, and have found their livelihood to be the subject of rigid controls. During repeated demonstrations they have vented their wrath on various Communist officials and have declared their desire for an independent Azores. It is obvious that they want and expect the U.S. to help them to get it.

The U.S. has a strong interest in this movement toward independence. Our important Lajes airbase, for example, is located on the island of Terceira. Here are found the strategic refueling facilities which were so vital in the resupply of Israel during the 1973 October War. Here also are located facilities used in the tracking of Soviet submarines in the Atlantic. Lajes airbase is by any standards, extremely important to the security of the United States.

If the Communist bid for power in Portugal is defeated, Azoreans may become less eager for independence and the issue may become moot. But if, as seems much more likely, events develop in such a way that Azoreans wish to sever their ties completely with Lisbon, then we hope the U.S. will not hesitate to support them. This is one place where we can and should bring our influence to bear. The possible establishment of Soviet naval and air bases on these strategic islands should be incentive enough. Civil War in Angola

An immense new tragedy is taking place in Africa, this time in Angola, the mineral and oil rich pearl of the ex-Portuguese empire. Scheduled to become formally independent on November 11, Angola has become a savage battleground between three rival forces, two of which seek total control of the country for themselves. Ten thousand or more Africans have already died, and some 300,000 whites, mostly Portuguese settlers, are fleeing for their lives. Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith undoubtedly had Angola in mind when he pointed to the sorry record of black Africa and said his country would never be ruled by a black

U.S. Representative 21st District

When I was in the district walking door-to-door in San Antonio and meeting with people in San Angelo, Del Rio, Fort Stockton, and Ozona, one of the questions I was most often asked was "Why can't the government do something about spending?" It's a fair question. The largest concern of my constituents with their government is the recurrent inflation and large government spending which they observe. I would like, in this column, to outline why the government in the past has had such difficulty in showing fiscal restraint.

Many people are conservatives in general and liberals in particular about govemment spending overall. but ask for increased spending in areas that concern them whether this spending be for highway construction, more housing, military pay raises, agricultural subsidies, or tax benefits. The task for a responsible legislator is to do his best to keep the needs of the entire nation first in his judgment even if this sometimes means voting against spending projects in his own district or for some of his own constituents. Until just before I took office, in 1974, Congress had no systematic budgeting procedure. Each bill that authorized spending was taken up separately, and then, later, the specific dollar amounts to be appropriated were determined. At the end of each fiscal year. Congress merely totalled up the cost of the bills it had passed into law. It made no difference whether or not the total conformed with the mates. If legislation forced the Treasury to spend more than it took in, Congress raised the debt ceiling to allow the government to borrow enough money to fulfill its obligations (thus, a person's vote on raising the "debt ceiling" suggests nothing about whether or not a representative is careful in spending the government's money, but rather, whether or not he wishes the government to pay its bills. Some congressmen vote for many large expenditures during the year and then vote against raising the overall debt ceiling, which is equivalent to giving instructions to buy a number of items in a store and then to refuse to pay the bill when the total comes due). A consistent pattern in recent years has been for the government to spend more than it takes in. It must then borrow money from the taxpavers. thereby creating inflation. This habit must be stopped and I have voted against the largest increases in the federal deficit this year. At the same time, any representative who is honest and straightforward with the people he represents must say that there will not be a balanced budget this year or next. During a recession, government income declines while expenditures for social security and unemployment benefits increase. Medicare and medicaid costs have risen at a rate of almost 20% per year. When these bills come in, they must be paid and it is extremely difficult to predict exactly in advance what the bills or the revenues from taxes will be

In the future, Congress will be required, by law, to agree on total spending figures for various areas of our life by May 15 each year. Then, before October 15, the Congress will have to decide how the specific expenditures will be made. In short, there will be a unified budget so that Congress will know in advance whether it will be running a budget deficit or a budget surplus. This year the President asked for a budget that predicted a $67 billion deficit and various spending measures passed by Congress enlarged that deficit. I observed that this week the Republican Mer bers of the Congress set a target of reaching a balanced dget within three years, but they did not expect to be able to reach it before then. hope that they may be wrong I thing we may be able to reach it sooner, but it will be difficult and will require careful scrutiny as each spend ing bill comes along.

I will appreciate your understanding when I conclude that I must vote against some spending bills even if spent in our district, since ! must do my part to keep down overall federal spending Few tasks are more difficult

Dahlias should be at their best now, but chrysanthemums, in most cases, will not reach their peak until next month. They do need plenty of water though to keep them growing in their bud to maturity and

Look for liatris this monthit is a hardy perennial native to Texas that is well worth using in a wild flower garden or border. The colorful purple wand-like spikes present one of Texas' most spectacular wild flowers. It will grow in poorer soil than most garden plants but thrives best in a good, rich soil mixture. Troup in masses for best results. These plants multiply by offsets from their corm-like base or may be grown from seed sown in late autumn. Try some.

It is time to dig and store gladiolus bulbs to be sure of not freezing. The corms should be dug up, cured, fumi-gated and stored for use next year. If protected they may stand our winter. Leave the freshly dug corms in bright sunlight for a day to get rid of extra moisture. Then remove any excess soil and place corms in boxes or wooden flats. Keep in a well-ventilated, warm location for 3 weeks to allow new corms and cormels to farm in 85 degree temperature. After this, break off and discard old corms. Clean the new corms with a cloth or brush and dust with Arasan or Spergon. Store for a few days at about 80 degrees. Then put corms in perforated paper or cloth bags and store for winter in 35 to 40 degrees.

Crown large, healthy spring flowering bulbs into pots containing equal parts of soil, peat, and sand, Firm soil mixture around each bulb, leaving only the tips showing. Store planted pots in a cool, dark place for 6 to 10 weeks and keep uniformly moist. When top growth begins, move pots gradually to a warm, sunny window, Plants should be in flower for the Christmas season.

Brought to you By Lillian Brown

What can you do if your budget is limited, and yet you would still like to make your home more attractive and more comfortable?

In previous columns we've discussed, and in future columns we will continue to discuss, the ideas you can use to brighten your home. And today, we present a way in which you can start on a program of beautifying your home without spending a great deal of money all at

You can begin your program by buying one thing at a time whenever you can, and thereby regularly and continually add new dimensions to your home without a big strain on your budget.

You might want to start your decorating program with one bright chair to offset drabness of a living room Perhaps an attractive table lamp would make a great difference. Maybe you could use a handsome, framed mirror to hang over your sofa, credenza or dresser. You may have been thinking about replacing your old cocktail table with a pair of the new smaller tables. Or, how about an elegant headboard to replace the ordinary looking bedstead your're now using? The impor-tant thing is to think about a regular program of making your home ever more attractive and starting when you can. When you are ready to shop, we are here to help you.

Exciting things are happe ing in the Make It Yourself With Wool Contest-- Expense paid trips to London and Paris y Pan American Airlines for 2 National Winners. A Viking 6440 Sewing Machine for the National Adult Winner, 2 Singer Sewing Machines, scholarships, fabric lengths,

The purpose of Make It Yourself With Wool is to focus attention on the beauty and versatility of wool; to encourage use of this incomparable fabric or yarn in sewing, knitting or crocheting fashionable garments and to offer experts the opportunity to compete for valuable prizes and win recognition for their sewing, knitting or crocheting

The contest is open to all American citizens regardless of sex, race, color or creed, who meet the age and other requirements and abide by the general rules of competition. The category is determined by the contestants age before Jan. 1, 1976. This year the winner of the Texas Adult Division (22 years old and up) will be competing in the National Competition. Other Divisions are Senior (17 to 21 years) Juniors (14 to 16 years) and Pre- Teens (10 to 13 years). Pre-Teens still only go through District Competition. All those entering the Competition must select and construct the garment themselves. They may receive advice and instruction but must select, cut, press, sew. knit or crochet the garment. Please check entry forms for rules pertaining to your individual category.

All entries must be made from loomed, knitted or felted fabric or yarn of 100% wool or of a minimum of 70% wool and no more than 30% synthetic fiber or blend. However, the fabrics or yarns do not have to be spun or loomed in America.

Entry blanks for Districts 5 and 6 may be gotten by contacting your County Extension Agent or by writing your District Director, Mrs. V. C. Whitworth, Doole, Texas 76836. The District Competition will be held at 2:30 p.m. on Nov. 1, 1975. State finals-Kerrville. December 6, 1975 - 2 p. m. Entry blanks are available office. (2-2721) Box 969. --0-- industries are halfway to their goals of improving energy efficiency by 15 per cent before 1980, the Federal Energy Administration and the Department of Commerce report.

Among six energy-intensive industries which are conducting major energy conservation campaigns, industry-wide figures compiled by the American Petroleum Institute showed a 7.8 513 per cent energy efficiency improvement over 1972, and the Manufacturing Chemists Association reported a 7.5 per cent

The petroleum industry figures are measured by reduction of energy per unit of input, and the chemical figures by reduction per unit of output.

Four other associations reported the following achievements (measured by reduction of energy per unit of output against a 1980 goal of up to 10 per cent energy efficiency improvement from the 1972 baseline period): Aluminum Association, 3.4 per cent (through 1973); American Iron & Steel Institute, 2.7 per cent; American Paper Institute, 2.5 per cent (through 1973); and Portland Cement Association,

These associations and others are working with government to establish industry-wide energy conservation programs and goals as well as to monitor their own energy consumption and efficiency. Their reports cover between 60 and 90 per cent of the sales or capacity of their respective industries.

Poor Market Prices Result Of Excessive Number Of Cattle

Cattlemen across the nation are suffering from poor market prices brought on mainly by excessive numbers of calves. And they can remedy the situation only by culling their cow herds and reducing the number of replacement heifers, contends Billy Reagor, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The Extension Service is cooperating with the American National Cattlemen's Association in urging producers to reduce the size of the cow herd and thus bring about a more favorable beef supply-demand situation for all concerned.

"Due to the overload of beef cows, late summer and fall culling will be doubly important this year. First of all, culling will take the pressure off fall pastures and reduce herd maintenance costs during the coming winter months. Secondly, supcularly pork and poultry, are down at this time, so there is a ready outlet for the increased beef supply that would result from heavy cow culling.

Cow slaughter is currently heavy and was 47 per cent more during the first half of 1975 than the same period a year ago. If this pace continues through the remainder of this year, the nation's cow herd on Jan. 1, 1976 may be down by almost one million head from Jan. 1, 1975. Heifer retentions for cow herd replacements are also down about 7 per cent from a year earlier. The economists believe that if cow slaughter continues at a heavy rate for the rest of the year and into 1976 and if heifer holding is not excessive, the total cow herd may get back in line with population and income growth

"The adjustment in cattle numbers must come about if prices to cattlemen are to be orderly if cattlemen make the decision to act now. On the other hand, the current disastrous situation can be extended over a prolonged period if cattlemen take a

'wait and see' attitude. " In addition to a more stable beef supply and price situation, reducing beef cow herds will also help producers improve herd quality by eliminating poor producers, reduce feed and other costs by eliminating "boarder" cows. and increase the flexibility of their operations.

The agent suggests that cowmen reduce cow numbers to maintain a cash flow A cow-calf operator could cull more cows and retain some calves. Then, during the next year, he would have the flexibility of putting the heifers back into his breeding herd if conditions warrant. Some consideration also might be given to backgrounding the yearlings for an additional period if costs are not

The American National Cattlemen's Association advises cattlemen to give close consideration to culling their cow herds. Beef cattle specialists with the Extension Service can provide additional information on possible changes in herd management to help remedy the current crises cattlemen are facing.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the separation of powers, legislative and executive provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article II, Separation of Powers, is amended to:

Provide that the powers of government of the State of Texas are divided among three distinct branches: legislative, executive, and judicial. Except as otherwise authorized by the constitution, members of one branch may not exercise any power properly at-tached to either of the others.

Article III, The Legislature, is amended to: Continue the present structure of the legislature consisting of a senate with 31 members and a house of represen-tatives with 150 members. The present organization and procedure of the legislature are continued except that the provision allowing closed executive sessions of the senate is omitted. Provisions on the conflict of interest of members of the legislature are continued, as is the governor's power to veto bills or line items in appropriation bills. The article provides for single-member senatorial, representative, and congressional districts. A compensation commission is created to recommend the compensation and allowances to be received by members of the legislature. The legislative compensation, set by law, may not exceed this recommendation and does not take effect until after an intervening general election. The article provides for annual sessions of 140 days in odd-numbered years and 90 days in evennumbered years, and a veto session of 15 days upon request of three-fifths of the membership of each house. The legislature may meet in organizational sessions prior to the convening of the legislature in regular

Article IV, The Executive, is amended to:

Continue the present status of the governor and all other statewide officers, and include the commissioner of agriculture as an executive department officer. The governor is limited to two consecutive terms. The governor is authorized to designate chairmen of state boards, and to remove gubernatorial appointees to state agencies for cause unless the removal is vetoed by the senate. The article mandates the legislature to provide a new governorelect an appropriation so the governor-elect may organize an office prior to inauguration, and permits the legislature to grant powers of fiscal control to the governor. All governmental agencies, with several excep-tions, have a life of not more than ten years un-less extended by the legislature, and, at the regular session held in odd-numbered years, the governor shall submit to the legislature a report efficiency of the execu- years on a date pre-tive branch. The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment revising the SEPARATION OF POWERS, LEGISLA-TIVE, AND EXECU-TIVE PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution.

will become effective January 1, 1976, except Article III, Section 5, which becomes effective January 1, 1981.

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the judiciary provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article V.

Judiciary 18 Establish a unified judicial system consisting of the supreme court, court of appeals, district courts, and circuit courts. Existing county courts and county judges are continued until otherwise provided by law. All judges (except municipal judges), district attorneys and district clerks must be elected by the people. The supreme court and the court of criminal appeals are merged into a single court of last resort, and this supreme court is authorized to provide for efficient administration of the judicial system and to balance case loads. Individual rights for a trial by jury and appeal by the accused are continued. The state is granted the right to appeal in criminal cases in limited circumstances, and the legislature is permitted to establish methods of appeal to the courts from decisions of state agen-

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment revising the JUDICIARY PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution." If adopted by the voters, will become effective September 1, 1976.

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the voting and election provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article VI, Voter Qualifications and Elections,

Provide for registration and qualifications for voting including voter residency require-ments to be established by law. A citizen of the United States who is at least 18 years of age and who meets the registra-tion and residence re-quirements provided by law is a qualified voter unless the person has been convicted of a felony and for that felony is incarcerated, on parole, or on probation, or unless the person is mentally incompetent as determined by a court. Voting by the people in all elections must be by secret ballot, and the legislature shall provide by law for residence, registra-requirements, for the administration of elections, and for the protection of the electoral pro-cess. The general election for state and county officers is to be held in even-numbered scribed by law.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as

"The constitutional amendment revising ELECTION PROVI-SIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, If adopted by the voters, will become effective September 1, 1976.

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the education provisions of the Texas onstitution. Article Education, Provide that the Permanent and Available School Funds and the county public school funds are continued for the support of the free public schools. The State Board of Education is retained and the Permanent and Available University Funds are continued for the benefit of The University of Texas and Texas A&M Systems. A new Higher Education Fund for Texas is established for the benefit of colleges and universities outside The University of Texas and Texas A&M Systems. The state ad valorem tax of ten cents on $100 valuation is continued as the source of revenue for the Fund. The ten cent higher education tax may be changed by law within the ten cent maximum. The legisla-ture may allocate by law a portion of the Higher Education Fund to certain state vocational and technical institutes. The article provides that the public education system must furnish each individual an equal educational opportunity, but a school district may provide local enrichment of educational programs exceeding the level pro-vided by the state consistent with general law. Authority to issue Permanent University Bonds is continued but the bonds may not exceed 30% of the Permanent University Fund. The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will ap-pear on the ballot is as

"The constitutional amendment revising the EDUCATION PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, will become effective September 1, 1976, except Article VII, Section 9, which becomes effective January 1, 1979.

PROPOSITION NO. 5 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the finance provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article VIII, Finance, amended to:

amended to:

Provide that state taxes may be levied and collected only by general law and to prohibit any state ad valorem tax on real property or tangible personal property except the ten cent tax provided for in Article VII and a personal property must betaxedequallyanduniformly in proportion to market value. Existing exem tions from ad valorem taxation are continued. The present dedi-cation of motor fuel taxes for highway purposes and the Available School Fund is retained. The "pay-as-you-go" princi-ple for the operation of state government is retained. The legislature shall establish separate formulas for appraising land to promote the preservation of open-space land devoted to farm or ranch purposes and may establish separate formulas for appraising land to promote the preservation of forest land devoted to timber production. The $3000 exemption from state ad valorem taxation for residential homesteads is continued and the legislature by law may in-crease this amount. A separate $3000 exemption from ad valorem taxation by political sub-divisions is provided for the residential homestead of persons at least 65 years of age and the political subdivision may increase this amount. The legislature by law may exempt from ad valorem taxation certain property owned by veterorganizations, nonprofit water corporations, and persons in need because of age or disability, and economic circumstance. The legislature may also exempt property to preserve historical, cultural or natural history resources. Taxpayers are provided a new method of correcting inequitable tax assess ments by paying ad valorem taxes under protest and suing for a refund in a district court. State debt may be authorized by law only if approved by a two-thirds vote of each house of the legis-lature and submitted to and approved by a major-ity of the qualified voters of the state voting on the question. Public funds and public credit may be used only for public pur-poses and no public funds or public credit may be used to influence the election of a public officer. The article prohibits a retail sales tax on agricultural machinery or parts, fertilizer, feeds or seeds, prescrip-tion drugs or medicine, or food, except food sold by restaurants for immediate consumption. An assessment voted by marine food or agricultural producers on their product sales is not a tax if provision is made for the individual producer to receive a refund of the assessment when the producer does not desire to be assessed. The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will ap-pear on the ballot is as follows: "The constitutional amendment revising the FINANCE PRO-VISIONS of the Texas Constitution." If adopted by the voters, will become effective on September 1, 1976, except Article VIII, Section 2, Subsections (b) and (c), which becomes effective January 1, 1978, and Article VIII, Section 6, Subsection(c) which becomes Counties may be merged or county seats relocated if approved by two-thirds of the qualified voters in each affected county who vote on the question. The present elected constitutional county offices are retained and four year terms of office are provided. The voters of a county may create addi-tional offices, eliminate offices, or combine the duties and functions of offices. The voters may also grant ordinance making power to the governing body of the county. Cities and towns having more than 1,500 inhabitants may become home-rule cities. Tax limitations are established for operating pur poses for cities and counties and the legislature is required to fix debt limits for cities, towns, counties, and school and community junior college districts. The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is follows:

"The constitutional amendment revising the LOCAL GOV-ERNMENT PROVI-SIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, will become effective on September 1, 1976.

PROPOSITION NO. 7 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the general provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article X. General Provisions, is amended to: Provide the basic requirements relating to public officeholders such as the official oath and residency requirements. The provision defining the separate and community property of spouses is retained, and the protection of a homestead from forced sale is continued. The legislature is required to protect certain personal property from forced sale. Current wages for personal service are not subject to garnishment. A private corporation may not be chartered except under general law, and no bank may engage in business at more than one place in this state. The legislature must provide for the regula-tion of bank holding companies. The present system of local-option elections for the prohibi-tion or sale of alcoholic beverages is continued. The legislature is required to prohibit lot-teries and gift enterprises but may permit certain bingo games and raffles. The presently ex-isting provisions for re-tirement benefits of

from the river basin of origin if the surface water is necessary to supply the reasonably forseeable water requirements of the basin for the ensuing 50 years, unless the removal of water is sufficiently replaced to the point of removal from outside the state or is on a temporary, interim basis. The seaward beaches of the Gulf of Mexico and coastal submerged lands belonging to the state are held by the state in perpetual trust for the people, and subject to reasonable limitations prescribed by law, the public has the free and unrestricted right of use and benefit of the beaches. The provision is continued that, except as otherwise provided by law, a rate of interest in excess of ten percent a year is usurious, and that if a contract does not specify a rate of interest. the rate under the contract may not exceed six percent a year. Discrimination against handicapped persons is prohibited, and a goal of the state is established to provide every resident access to adequate, comprehensive health care. The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as

'The constitutional amendment revising the GENERAL PRO-VISIONS of the Texas Constitution.'

If adopted by the voters, will become effective September 1, 1976.

PROPOSITION NO. 8 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the mode of amending provisions of the Texas Constitution. The proposed article will be the last article of the constitution. If only Proposition No. 8 is adopted, the article will replace Article XVII of the present constitution. If other propositions are adopted, the article will be appropriately renumbered to remain the last article of the constitution. If all propositions are adopted, the article will be Article XI. Article XVII, Mode of Amending the Constitution of the State, is amended to:

Establish a procedure constitutional amendments requiring a two-thirds vote of each house of the legislature and majority approval by the voters. The calling of a limited or unlimited constitutional convention with voter approval is provided. The question of whether to call a constitutional convention must be submitted to the people every 30 years.

Males Dominate Technical Fields

In 1974, the large majority of the persons in most science and engineering fields were men, according to a special nationwide survey conducted for the National Science Foundation by the Bureau of the Census.

Of the eight fields covered by the survey, six were about 85 per cent male or more. Engineering and environmental science had the highest proportions of men-99 and 97 per cent respectively. Men also accounted for about 85 per cent or more computer specialists, mathematical specialists, life scientists, and physical scientists. The two fields with fewer men were psychology, about 72 per cent male, and social science, about 79 per cent male.
