April 16 Is Final Sign-Up For 1982 Farm Programs

April 16, 1982 is the final sign-up date for the 1982 farm program. According to ASCS County Director, Rusty Williamson, "Farmers who miss this deadline, will not be eligible for any farm programs or benefits. Other important sign-up dates include May 15 which is the final certification date for aerial measurement on fall seeded crops. May 31 will be the final planting date for 1982 crops of corn and cotton. June 30 is the final planting date for 1982 crop grain sorghum.

Regarding aerial measurement on spring seeded crops, August 1, 1982 is the final certification date for these crop sign-ups for measurements.

Another important date for farmers is June 1, which is the cut off date for entering 1981 corn, cotton and grain sorghum crops in the loan programs.

Williamson asks that area farmers come in to the office as soon as possible to get their names on the list for aerial measurement service.

Regarding the deficiency payments on grain sorghum, Williamson said that payments to farmers eligible for these will be forthcoming. However, it will not be for another three weeks at least, he said, due to the fact that checks have not been received from regional offices. The director said that

★★ ★ ★ Local Cattleman On 'Ag Task Force'

On March 31, Governor Bill Clements announced the appointment of 34 members to the Governor's Task Force on Agricultural Development for two-year terms at the pleasure of the Governor. John E. Birdwell, a Muleshoe cattleman, was named to this team. Birdwell is vice president of Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Vice President of National Cattleman's Association and a member of the Texas Tech University Board of Regents.

The Governor created the task force last December and charged it to examine in detail the status of Texas' agricultural production and agribusiness; to examine methods by which productivity of Texas' agricultural production and agribusiness can be improved and strengthened, and develop recommendations for legislation to address the needs of Texas' agricultural industry.

Governor Clements designated Robert L. Parker of Paris, Tx., to be chairman of the task force. Parker operates a feed mill and is President of the Paris Milling Company of which the local Texas Sesame is a division. Charles

★★ ★ ★ Muleshoe Deposits Up By $18 Million

Totals from eight area banks Friday revealed in deposits at the close of business on March 31, 1982. Loans were also up from a year ago March with an additional $15,793,181 being disbursed.

While loans in comparison to deposits seemed relatively lower, various bank officials explained that the figures were deceptive because a large amount of loan money had been handled through subordinated loans with FmHA. Most farmers are receiving their FmHA loans first and will receive bank subordination loans later in the year. Deposits from the eight

Mighty 'M' Band Gets Superior Rate

Muleshoe Mighty "M" Band was awarded division "I" in concert and also a "I" in sightreading contest in Dimmitt High School Thursday afternoon. The concert Division "I" rating, indicating a superior performance, was the first for Muleshoe since 1973. The division "I" in sightreading marked second consecutive for band to win this rating.

In the concert contest, bands prepare three tunes to be judged by a panel of three selected band directors. Tunes performed by Mighty "M" this year were: Peacemaker, by K. L. King, Black Knight, by Clare Grundman and Emlerata Overture by Claude T. Smith. All three judges, Sam Robertson of Snyder, James Streit of Quanah, and Warren Thaxton of Abilene evaluated the band as superior for a composite rating of #1. Only Dimmitt, Muleshoe and Littlefield earned the superior rating in Class AAA.

Sightreading contest immediately follows the concert contest and tests a band's ability to play music that the band has never played. Joe Mack Hill of Abilene (formally of Dumas) rated Muleshoe superior in this contest. Dimmitt was the only other band in class AAA to receive a "I."

Texans Face Federal Programs Decisions

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said today that Texans need to start deciding which of the federal programs threatened by President Reagan's budget axe they want to support in the future.

"Instead of crying over federal budget cuts, I think program administrators and local government officials should be thinking carefully about the real needs of Texans and how to fill those needs," Bullock said.

"The 1983 budget that the President has submitted to Congress proposes eliminating and trimming hundreds of programs Uncle Sam has been paying for. As best I can tell, these cuts will mean about banks surveyed showed a total of $191,240,619 in March, 82 as compared to the $173,141,974 in 1981 the same time. Loan totals reached $90,554,465 in March 82 as compared to loan totals in 1981 of $74,761,284.

For the two Muleshoe Banks, deposits for March 31, 1982 reached $65,690,227 and loans, $34,341,897. While the two banks totals reflected a loan increase, the First National was down in loans some $86,539, from March 81 figures.

Deposits in the First National Bank in March, 1982 were $30,222,227, up $1,532,355 from last years total of $28,689,872. Loan totals were down with 1982 loans reflected at $16,325,897 as compared to $16,412,436 of March 81. A figure down some $86,539 from the 81 period.

In Muleshoe State Bank, deposits for March, 1982 totaled $35,468,000 as compared to 1981 total of $33,289,000; an increase of $2,179,000 for the year's period. Loans for Muleshoe State reflect an increase of $7,905,000, with 1982 loans reaching $20,016,000, as compared to 1981 figures of $12,111,000 in the March reporting period.

Texas Farmers Will Plant Fewer Acres This Year

Texas farmers intend to plant at least half a million fewer acres to crops this year.

"Farmers are cutting back because of current financial troubles and to be eligible for farm program benefits," points out Dr. Carl Anderson.

"They face poor income prospects due to low farm prices and continued high interest rates," notes Anderson, an economist in cotton marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Final plantings may be even lower as farmers make last-minute decisions regarding participation in the '82 acreage reduction program."

Cotton plantings will likely be down more than a million acres to about 6.3 million this year. High costs of growing cotton and depressed market prices have combined to discourage planting cotton, says Anderson.

Plantings of barley, oats and rice are expected to be down only slightly.

On the other hand, farmers will likely increase grain sorghum plantings to five million acres, up from

4.8 million last year. Final plantings, however, may be less if a significant number of producers decide to comply with the 1982

Health Studios Nutrition

Mrs. Murray's Health classes have been studying nutrition for the past three weeks. She has scheduled many different activities. One week, the classes were put on a nutritional diet. This diet was to show that one can lose weight and still eat the right kinds of food. The classes also had a relaxation day, exercise day and an aerobics day.

Her second period class went to the Home Economics Department for a demonstration by Mrs. Nonette Robinson on Nutritional Pizza.

Everyone enjoyed learning to make the pizza, but especially eating it.

The classes also have made up a week's menu for the cafeteria ladies to choose from. These menus are being reviewed now, and they might become a meal; so watch for a change in the menu.

Because of the potential danger, students were asked to walk in single file throughout the plant. They were also required to wear hard hats and white frocks. The managers feared that some of the sights might cause some students to turn back, but all made the trip without incident. Students who participated were George Franco, Sylvia Leyva, Casey Stewart, Rodney Millsap, Gilbert Recio, Gilbert Fabela, Derick Magby, Thurman Coleman and Lorenzo Coleman and Lorenzo Kirven. The students were accompanied by Mrs. Molly Degge, Mrs. Mary Nell Bleeker, Coach Windy Williams and Garret Williams.

Safety Tips From Bailey County Electric

When changing pipes, be sure to look up before standing the pipe up.

When moving pivot systems, be sure to re-connect all external grounds to avoid the hazards of electric shock.

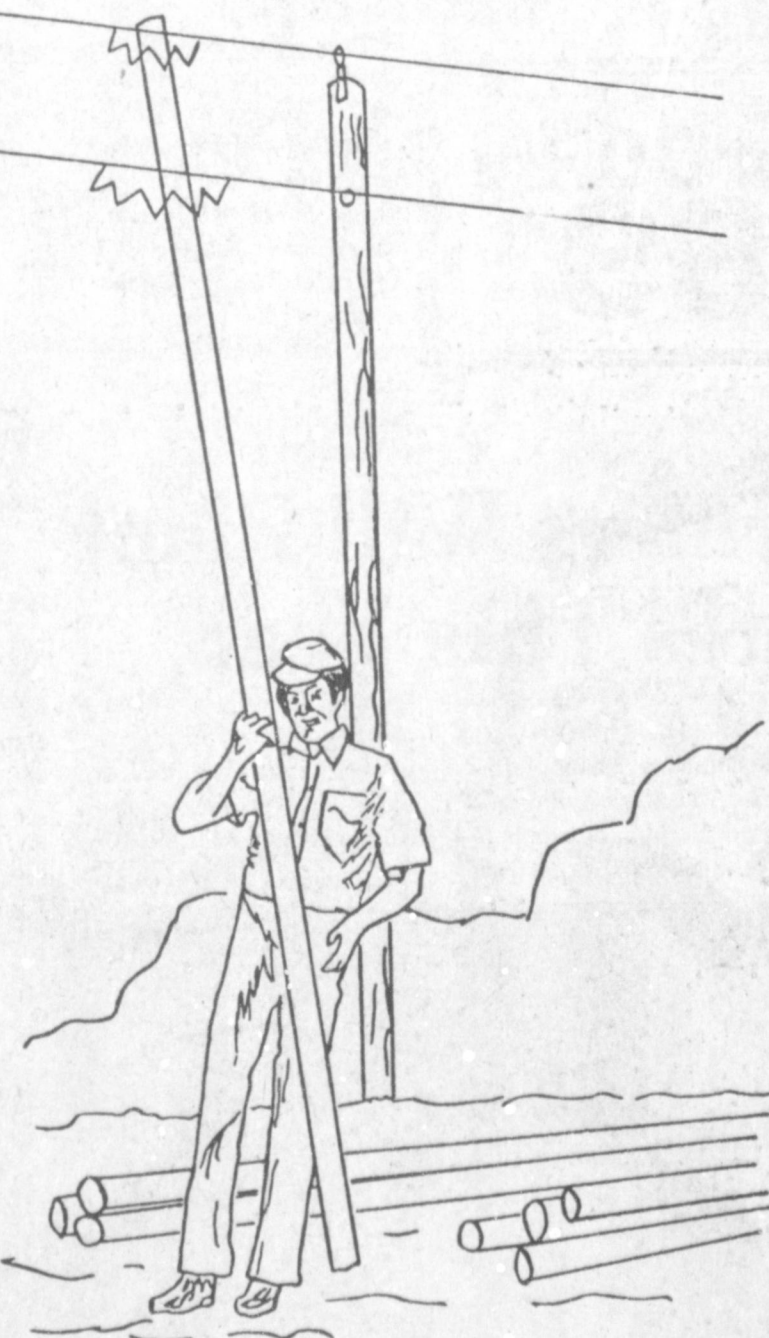

Many types of farm equipment are of such height and length that they become an excellent path to the ground should you fail to recognize the danger of an overhead line.

Use extreme caution when using metal, metal-reinforced or wet ladders around electrical wires.

When grazing around irrigation equipment, make sure all controls are covered to prevent livestock from damaging switch gear, control panels or breaking grounding connections.

Consider any overhead line dangerous. Keep objects at least 10 feet away from powerlines.

Report any potential powerline hazard to your electric power supplier.

for history purposes and will serve to protect a producers yield and base acreages for subsequent years.

In order for a producer to protect his 1983 base acreage, he needs to sign his farm into the program as a participating farm. This will apply even if none of the crop is planted, as the zero acres planted by the applicable certification date need to be certified.

Producers need to be sure that their 1982 certification is complete in order to guarantee 1982 program benefits for their entire farms regardless of participating crops. Even if one crop does not affect another crop, the entire farm could suffer disqualification due to inaccurate or false certification.

percent reduced acreage program for feedgrains, says the economist.

Texas farmers also plan to plant slightly more corn, soybeans, hay, peanuts, sugar beets and sunflowers.

Texas' winter wheat crop seeded last fall totals 8.2 million acres, up from 7.8 million a year ago. This is the largest wheat acreage ever seeded in Texas, says Anderson. The increase stems from fairly strong market expectations at planting time plus lower production costs when compared to cotton. Many farmers have shifted acreage from cotton to wheat.

"This year's decrease in planting intentions for total crop production clearly reflects the distressed financial condition that agricultural producers are facing," says Anderson. "Because many commodity prices are below the cost of production, farmers are cutting back."

"Along with reducing total plantings, many farmers are cutting back on such production inputs as fertilizer and irrigation water because of the high cost of credit and difficulty in projecting sufficient cash flow to cover borrowed capital. This should lead to somewhat reduced food and fiber production in 1982 and eventually to higher farm prices," says the economist.

An air conditioner?

A very special air conditioner called the add-on heat pump. It cools in summer and heats in winter. And it works with whatever kind of furnace you have.

The add-on heat pump will improve the performance of your furnace by keeping it off completely during a good portion of the winter. The add-on heat pump can satisfy your home's heating requirements more economically when temperatures are above 30° or so. That's about 80% of our area's normal heating season.

Then, when summer comes, the heat pump becomes a cool pump, efficiently air conditioning the home. So, when you're in the market for air conditioning, look into the add-on heat pump.

Microwave ovens are time-savers for many busy Texans. Used at their optimum, they can be both time and energy savers. However, optimum use takes practice. Beginners should allow plenty of time to prepare complete meals, select dishes that are family favorites and tested recipes. Learning to adapt recipes for microwave cooking comes later with experience. In general, advance meal planning is the key to getting the most out of this modern convenience appliance.

Consider these three factors when planning complete microwave meals: holding time, standing time and reheating.

Some foods retain heat longer than others, depending on the density and size of the food. For example, carrots stay hot longer than sliced carrots. Then serving food in the same dish extends holding time. So does wrapping or covering the food in plastic wrap or foil, or covering it with a lid.

Cook foods with a long holding time (20 to 45 minutes) first. Large roasts, unsliced hams, turkey, baked potatoes, corn on the cob and squash and potato casseroles will remain hot while you microwave the rest of the meal.

Most casseroles, whole vegetables, sliced meats or chicken pieces, medium-sized roasts and pies can be held 10 to 20 minutes and still be served hot. Bread and rolls, sliced carrots, green beans, whole kernel corn, hamburgers, fish fillets and pork chops can be held only three to 10 minutes before serving and should be cooked as close to mealtime as possible.

Standing time allows foods such as meats, eggs, bacon, chicken, fish, baked potatoes and corn to continue cooking after removal from the oven. Cover these foods to prevent heat loss. Standing time is usually indicated in recipes and should be considered when meal planning.

The time needed to reheat precooked foods is another factor to consider when planning complete microwave meals. The instructions provided with the oven are the best guide.

Children expect to get 'ripped off'

COLLEGE STATION — A Texas A&M University marketing professor wanting to learn more about young consumers has found youngsters are disenchanted with the business world.

After surveying 45 third-graders and 54 fifth-graders, Dr. James McNeal of Texas A&M's College of Business Administration and C. J. Anderson, a former doctoral student, said many children expect to get "ripped off" or misled by stores, packaging, advertising and salespeople.

"Half the children felt scared or uneasy while shopping, particularly when they shopped alone," McNeal said. "They said they felt like they were being neglected by store personnel, and that it was sometimes difficult to get people to sell them things."

McNeal suggests one problem leading to a mistrust for the business community is a child's uncertainty when making purchase decisions.

"The kids have difficulty in ascertaining product quality," said McNeal, "and they have problems relating prices to a product's worth. They also have concerns about product performance — whether the product would break, how well it would work and if it would be safe."

to reheating. Most foods can be reheated on the high power level, except for meats, refrigerated main dishes and individual plates of food, which should be reheated at 50 percent power. Thinner, smaller pieces of food reheat more quickly than large pieces. A covering prevents loss of moisture. Wax paper, plastic wrap, paper towels and oven-proof lids are all satisfactory coverings.

A casserole or plate of food is hot enough when you can feel warmth on the bottom of the container. Be cautious when reheating foods with sugary fillings. The pastry may seem cool, but the filling may be hot enough to burn.

Follow reheating times carefully. To keep from ruining the food, check it occasionally and then continue reheating it for a few seconds or minutes longer.

Try to take full advantage of the speed of microwave cooking. Arrange the order so that all foods are served at the proper temperature at one time. Prepare some dishes for the microwave while other food is being defrosted or cooked. Cook foods that require the same temperature setting together. It makes the preparation faster and saves energy.

For more information, attend the microwave school on Tuesday, April 13, at the Civic Center.

Easter Blessings

'He Is Risen'

EVERYONE READY--Rev. and Mrs. Brock Sanders and children are all ready for church at the Richland Hills Baptist Church, where Sanders is the pastor. The Sanders have been in Muleshoe approximately 16 months. Their hobbies include camping, fishing and water sports. (L-R) Rev. Sanders; David, 11; Julie, 14; Martha Ann, six and Mrs. Sanders.

"For God So-loved the world . . ." These words found in the Holy Bible in John 3:16 so wondrously depict the love that Jesus Christ has for His people. Another phrase comes to mind . . . "Greater love hath no man . . ." God's only son suffered and died on Calvary that we might live, He laid down His life for us . . . sinners though we are.

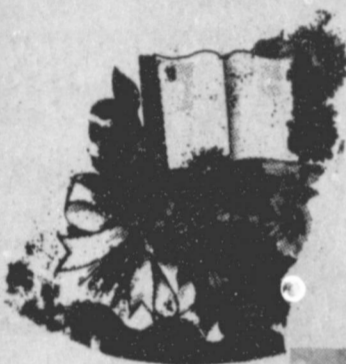

After the crucifixion, on the third day, Christ arose from the grave. . . what a cause of rejoicing and celebration! The beginnings of what we know today as the Easter celebration.

At this Easter time, let's reflect on the sacrifices made for us by Christ. The life He lived and the death He so freely gave and the glorious resurrection. We should always keep in our hearts and minds that we are here by the grace of our Lord, so that His death will not have been in vain.

In baptismal services, the submergence of the sinner signifies the burial of Christ, the emergence, the resurrection into a new life. In our lives, we can be raised to walk a new life when we accept Christ into our lives. We, through Christ, can conquer sin, death and can arise from a watery grave to walk anew in life, and will live again through eternity.

At this special time, let us as families, and as followers of Christ, draw ever closer to Him and declare our vows anew and walk in the way that He has shown. Let us never forget what the Easter holiday signifies and give thanks unto the Lord for the goodness that He has wrought.

ALL DRESSED FOR CHURCH--Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gutierrez and daughters are all dressed and ready for church services at the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church, where they are members. Mrs. Gutierrez is employed at West Plains Medical Center. Gutierrez is employed at Bailey County Electric. For hobbies, Mrs. Gutierrez lists sewing and tennis. Gutierrez' hobbies are golf, tennis and working on cars. They reside at 412 West Sixth. (L-R) JoAnn, 11; Gutierrez; Latricia, six; Mrs. Gutierrez and Michelle, 10.

OFF TO CHURCH--Mrs. Eva Ashford is on her way to church at the Trinity Baptist Church, where she is a member. Mrs. Ashford has been a resident of Muleshoe since 1936. She is a semi-retired sales clerk and alteration lady. Her hobbies are sewing, flowers, music and crochet. Mrs. Ashford resides at 716 West Avenue C.

EASTER SERVICES--Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Altman and LeAnn of 968 West Ave. K are on their way to church at the Trinity Baptist Church. Altman is employed at American Valley, Inc. and Mrs. Altman is employed at Muleshoe State Bank. They all enjoy water sports.

By Spencer Tanksley
County Extension Agent

It's time to gear up for that spring vegetable garden. And two major steps are getting the right varieties and planting at the right time.

Proper planting time is important if maximum quality and production is expected, points out Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Since such warm-season crops such as tomatoes, peppers, corn, eggplants, beans, squash, cucumbers, okra, watermelon, sweet potatoes, pumpkins and cantaloupes are sensitive to cold temperatures and can be killed by even the lightest frost, gardeners must be aware of the average date of the last frost for their particular area.

According to the National Weather Service, the average dates of last frosts for various regions are as follows: South Texas, Feb. 1; Coastal Bend, Feb. 17; Upper Coast, Feb. 25; Southwest Texas (Winter Garden), Feb. 28; South Central Texas, Mar. 15; East Texas, Mar. 19; Central Texas, Mar. 25; Northeast Texas, March 24; North Central Texas, Mar. 26; West Central Texas, Mar. 29; Far West Texas, Mar. 28; Rolling Plains, Apr. 1; South Plains, Apr. 11 and Panhandle, Apr. 22. Remember, these dates are average which only means there is a 50 percent chance a frost may occur at a later date.

It's also wise to wait until the soil has warmed before planting seeds of warm season crops, says Tanksley. Soil temperature at planting depth should be in the upper 60s or into the 70s to increase seed germination and insure a good stand.

Some vegetable crops are cold-hardy and can tolerate light frosts or freezes. These include beets, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, peas, lettuce, onions, parsley, radishes, spinach, cauliflower, collards, mustard, kale and turnips.

These can be planted in late winter or early spring.

Tanksley suggests planting some warm season crops in late spring as they will produce more high quality produce. During the hot summer such heat tolerant crops such as southern peas, okra, eggplant, sweet potatoes, squash and small-fruited tomatoes do best.

Tanksley advised planting the best adapted varieties that are available as this can mean the difference between gardening success and failure. Some of the current vegetable variety recommendations by the Extension Service are as follows:

One of the most often overlooked and possibly the most important aspect of proper pruning is the fact that it modifies growth conditions. Plant production during the growing season largely depends on plant vigor during the preceding year. If a tree or vine is allowed to over produce due to lack of pruning, a smaller amount of shoot growth and metabolite storage occurs. This means a weakened plant and a decrease in production.

Open Center Method for Peach, Plum and Nectarine Trees

First year. Prune a three to four foot tree after planting to a single stem and top at a height of 24 inches. Prune large trees slightly higher because of such vigorous growth in the nursery. This is not always desirable because of subsequent problems in planting and training. This "heading back" is important to balance the top with the root system and to begin the scaffold system correctly. Remove all branches so new branches have no competition.

When new shoots are four to six inches long, select three vigorous shoots branching from the top six inches of the main stem. These three shoots will grow to become scaffold limbs. They should be evenly spaced with each pointing in a different direction. Cut back all shoots to about four inches.

During the first growing season, allow three scaffold limbs to grow as much as possible. Cut back other shoots periodically to reduce their competition with developing scaffolds. This trashy-trunk growth helps reduce problems of sandblast and sunscald and results in greater tree growth and earlier fruit production.

Second year. During January and February, cut off all branches growing from the main stem except the three scaffold branches. Cut scaffold branches back at 32 inches to encourage subscaffolds. Remove waterspouts or suckers growing from lower parts of the main trunk.

During the growing season keep the trunk clean and stub back shoots rising straight up or into the center of the tree. Choose only two side branches (on each main scaffold branch) about 30 inches from the trunk to become subscaffolds. Select young shoots growing outward and spreading. Continue to stub back competing shoots and remove waterspouts.

Third year. In February, head back all tall shoots and open up the center of the tree. Cut off suckers and waterspouts growing upright. Stub long shoots to 18 inches along subscaffolds.

During the growing season, remove suckers and waterspouts on the trunk and towards the center of the tree. Select for branches with the spreading habit to increase horizontal surface.

Mature trees. Prune mature trees to a height of about eight feet. Cut off all shoots above this height. This allows easy picking without ladders and good sunlight penetration within the center of the tree. Remove all low hanging limbs and sprouts below three feet. Peaches and nectarines produce only on last season's growth. Too many branches during the growing season shade limbs and inhibit new growth for next year's crop. During the dormant season, leave only 18 to 24 inch stubs of last year's growth spaced every four inches along older limbs. Each year remove some of the older branches toward the center of the tree to encourage young productive branches.

Mature plum trees. The plums usually require less pruning than peaches. Remove about one-third of the previous season's growth and thin interior branches and fruiting spurs. Each year remove all overcrowded and low hanging limbs plus suckers and waterspouts.

To maintain tree vigor, use a heavier degree of pruning every third year. Light pruning results in more fruit of small to medium size while severe pruning increases fruit size but reduces yield.

Crucial Decision For Farmers-- One of the most crucial and immediate decisions facing grain and cotton producers is whether to participate in the acreage reduction program announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The 1982 farm program requires that cotton, wheat and rice producers reduce their planted acreage by 15 percent and feed grain growers reduce planted acreage by 10 percent, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Stacey Campbell Writes Again From Norway

Stacey Campbell, a Muleshoe High senior, is a Rotary Exchange Student to Norway. She once again shares some of the experiences with her high school and community friends:

Dear Muleshoe Friends,

Hi! It's been a while since I've written to you, so I guess I have a bit of catching up to do! Right now I'm sitting in our school library. The kids are all chatting and sneaking bites of their sandwiches when no one is looking. The date is March 17 -- my, but I just realized today is St. Patrick's Day! No one is wearing green! I think I'll go around and pinch everybody. This makes four American holidays that I haven't celebrated, Halloween, Thanksgiving, and Valentines being the other three.

The weather outside is gray and dingy, and the sky can't decide whether it wants to rain or snow. I can't wait till the warm weather arrives! It's on its way, as grass is peeping out where the snow has melted.

Last month I witnessed a once in a lifetime event. It was the bi-annual World Ski Championship in Oslo, which consisted of cross-country skiing and ski jumping. Norway, of course, was outstanding. They earned seven of the thirteen gold medals and also received four silver and three bronze medals. Norwegians are as crazy about ski competitions as we in Muleshoe are of football competitions. Even though the majority of the days were overcast and thick with fog, thousands of Norwegians came to support their tea. People waited sometimes for an hour or two to take the tram to Holmenlollen, the competition area. Many, including my friends and I, walked several miles in order to see it. Everyone carried Norwegian flags which they proudly waved to foreigners. The group of exchange students I was with carried a huge American flag, which we held up high to support the American competitors. The races and jumps were something else. The air was filled with shouts of "hi-ya, hi-ya!" which means "gol gol!" for Norwegians and foreigners alike. Huge masses of people sang, did the bird dance, completely filled with excitement. Those who were not able to attend had their eyes glued to TV sets. The thing that impressed me the most, of course, was the ski-hopping. It was thrilling to experience seeing those daredevils fly through the air with their skis parallel to their bodies!

Yesterday I received some cassettes of the "Top Forty" from my family. It's so strange listening to the top ten songs and recognizing only one or two.

Last night I gave a program on Muleshoe to my Rotary Club. You would be surprised how fascinated and interested they were in normal "everyday" things like a field of cotton, or school buses, dry lakes, etc. The program went very good considering I had to give it all in Norwegian. It was a little difficult, as my Norwegian conversations don't usually involve talking about agriculture and ranching.

I am very proud of my Norwegianian, as at a Rotary conference with all of the exchange students I was the best Norwegian speaker of the whole group. A lot of the kids still speak English most of the time. I speak Norwegian most of the time, using English very rarely.

Last weekend I was at our winter cottage with my sister and nine other friends, both boys and girls. We had a fantastic time. We are given freedoms here that are unheard of in America. Parents here trust their children. I feel that this is really great as nobody takes advantage of situations. I think it's strange how the majority of parents in the U.S. are really strict with their teenagers and all the sudden give them complete freedom when they go to college or whatever. That's probably one of the reasons freshmen in college go crazy and spend so much time partying.

Two days ago a Norwegian girl was killed and another one found missing while they were on a class trip to Berlin. Everyone is talking about it and it's the main topic in the news. It's really strange because such things appear in our newspapers every day, and we really don't dwell on it much in the U.S. An interesting thing I participated in last month was a peace march sponsored by our school. We spent a whole school day in different groups working on peace themes. We made a lot of posters, had plays and sang songs dealing with peace. Then we marched from the school to a shopping center, (a fifteen minute walk), carrying posters and singing. It was a fantastic experience. It's funny, because I've never thought much about the possibility of war until I came to Norway. Norwegians think of the U.S. and Russia as being the super powers.

I had a talk with my family the other night on religion. Only two of them believe in some kind of "superpower", and none of them believe in life after death. But at the same time they are baptized, confirmed, and celebrate Christmas and Easter. And it isn't only my family with these views and customs, it's most of the Norwegian people. Many times I have to defend Christianity. It is very difficult as I have never thought about most of the questions. I have just accepted certain facts as being true. Anyway, my interest in religion has really increased, and I plan to study it in depth upon returning.

Now that my Norwegian is better, and as I have learned to communicate, I have made much better contact with my family and friends. I'll never forget how frustrating it was when I first came to Norway, when I couldn't manage to express myself. I was pretty lonely sometimes. But it was worth it for sure! I'm having a good time now. I've made so many good friends and not just surface friendships, but deep friendships. I have met people from many different countries. With NATO's headquarters being in Oslo, this opportunity has been great. One good friend, Margaret is from Venezuela. Her father works in their embassy here in Oslo. It's so interesting experiencing other cultures.

EDITORIAL

Vietnam & El Salvador

A host of amateur media strategists, politicians and well-meaning anti-war spokesmen have almost convinced the nation if the U.S. intervenes in El Salvador, it will be the beginning of another Vietnam.

Nonsense. Vietnam is a huge country, bordering Red China, eight thousand miles from the continental United States. El Salvador, a small country, is at our back door, and could be cleaned up rather easily by U.S. military forces—if they seriously intervened. The Reagan Administration says they will not.

If intervention were the only way to prevent a communist-controlled anti-American force of terrorists and guerrillas from taking over there, it might well be justified. The long-term interest and security of the nation might justify it, and it might well be that such action would reduce the death toll in the end.

But the point of this editorial is that El Salvador is not Vietnam, and the attempted analogy can't be taken seriously. Another point about the Vietnam war should be remembered (and seldom is).

U.S. military forces won that war. We didn't lose Vietnam on the battlefield, even 8,000 miles away. We lost that war on the home front, when the American people (watching TV) became sick and tired of the war, disillusioned about our South Vietnamese allies, and the cost and controversy became excessive.

When President Nixon began pulling U.S. troops out of Vietnam, the military situation was relatively stable. The U.S. Army and Marines and air and naval forces had won all the major battles. The country was not totally pacified, but had those troops remained, South Vietnam would not have crumbled, as it did after hundreds of thousands of Americans had left and it was again attacked from the north with major forces.

These two points should be kept in mind: U.S. forces could rather easily clean up El Salvador, if it comes to that, which one hopes it doesn't. And U.S. military forces won the war in Vietnam—before being withdrawn because of public opinion and controversy over the war at home.

Freeze!

It's now obvious the nation can't afford pay hikes to its millions of federal workers and probably not to social security recipients, of which there are 36,000,000.

So what will happen? Congress—in this election year—will probably lack the intestinal fortitude to freeze pay hikes and social security increases. (But not if Congressman Delbert Latta (R-Ohio) has his way.)

This is the best time for a freeze in years because inflation is much slowed and the cost of living is not rising sharply. That doesn't mean federal workers and social security recipients won't feel the freeze, or that it's fair or just.

It simply means the nation doesn't have the money for these increases, and can't continue borrowing so much, or the cost of living and inflation will rise sharply again—and no one will have gained.

There is also much truth in the contention that federal workers today have it better than workers in the private sector. A year's pay freeze would be a disappointment but federal workers in most cases would still be left better off than their private economy counterparts—and with vastly more security.

Likewise, social security adjustments (increases) in recent years have been generous. In some areas of the country they have more than offset rises in the cost of living. Many recipients would not mind passing up July's scheduled increase too much if it enabled the government to get its economic house in order, and safeguarded the future of the system—which will be broke next year unless something drastic is done.

But where are the congressmen who will bite this bullet and follow Congressman Latta, senior Republican on the House Budget Committee?

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS 142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

During the Great Depression, when much of our best farmland literally blew away in the Dust Bowl, Texans realized that soil conservation had to become a priority if the agriculture industry was to remain viable.

In 1935, Texas passed the first law in the United States creating soil conservation districts as government subdivisions. This law became the model for national legislation setting up the Soil Conservation Service and the soil conservation system for the entire nation. Effective soil conservation made U.S. agriculture more productive and more prosperous.

However, in recent years rising demands on productivity, the conversion of cropland to urban use, strains on farm cost-income balances, drought and a new understanding of the costs of soil erosion have made conservation more important than ever.

The most damaging form of erosion is caused by water run-off, which results in the loss each year of more than four billion tons of soil. That is the equivalent of a one-foot-thick slice of soil large enough to cover 2,247,000 acres. Wind erosion takes another billion and a half tons (more than 800,000 acre feet), and gully erosion, about 300 million tons (165,000 acre feet).

This soil loss translates directly into productivity loss. Research in one southern state showed that each inch of eroded topsoil cost the producer approximately five and three-fourths bushels of corn per acre per year.

Loss of soil nutrients is one of the major reasons for these yield losses. One estimate is that each ton of medium-textured topsoil eroded results in loss of 26 pounds of potassium, seven pounds of phosphorus and two pounds of nitrogen.

That farmers understand the dimensions of the problem is illustrated by a recent survey conducted by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service. By an overwhelming majority, farmers said soil conservation should be the highest priority goal for that agency. That may be the obvious function of the Soil Conservation Service, but in recent years soil conservation has taken a back seat to other areas.

Our farmers are better educated and better equipped than ever. They know conservation methods.

FIRST 'Bullet Train' NEW YORK -- Amtrak announced plans recently to build America's first "bullet train"—a Japanese-style passenger train that will speed between Los Angeles and San Diego at 160 mph.

PLAN HASN'T STARTED President Reagan acknowledged recently in a national radio address that his economic program hasn't worked, but he said that's because it "hasn't really started yet."

Caspar Weinberger, Defense Secretary: "The United States would do whatever was necessary to keep Russian missiles out of Cuba."

COSTS-CONSERVATION The federal government no longer needs to spend money to encourage energy conservation because soaring utility rates are forcing people to conserve, Energy Secretary James B. Edwards told Congress recently.

Yet a significant number of farmers have failed to use proven methods of conserving their soil. Windbreaks, terraces and conversion of cropland to pasture take cropland out of production. Maneuvering large farm equipment around existing terraces is time-consuming and increases fuel consumption. These short-term reasons for not using every means available to conserve the soil have potentially disastrous long-term consequences.

It is imperative that the Soil Conservation Service and other government agencies do everything that they can to encourage voluntary use of conservation methods. We must continue to direct our agriculture programs toward that end.

We depend on our farmers for food for ourselves and much of the rest of the world, and for much of the prosperity of our national economy. We must look toward the future and ensure that our agriculture industry continues to be the most productive and most prosperous of any nation's in the world.

Our nation has seen once the awful effects of failing to take care of our soil -- the terrible Dust Bowl of the 1930s. We must never allow that to happen again.

AUSTIN—Recent research by the Texas Transportation Institute of the Texas A&M University System reveals some interesting facts about high-risk drivers in Texas.

There are four groups of people who are most likely to be involved in car accidents: (1) males 25 years or younger; (2) persons with two or more previous car accidents; (3) elderly drivers; and (4) drunk drivers.

In particular, I would like to share with you the findings regarding drunk drivers as compared to the other high-risk groups.

There are many more car accidents involving drunk drivers in rural areas than there are car accidents involving the other three high-risk groups in rural areas. However, most of the accidents involving all four groups occurred in large cities.

46% of the DWI accidents occurred on the weekends compared to 28% of the accidents of the other drivers on the weekends. Three-fourths of the DWI accidents occurred between 7:00 p.m. and 5:00 a.m., while the accident rate for the other drivers was half that rate.

DWI accidents occur more frequently at curves and more frequently involve running off the road than the other groups' accidents. It is unusual, however, that accidents of the other high-risk drivers occur at inter-sections twice as frequently as DWI accidents.

DWI accidents are severer than the accidents of the other high risk drivers. 50% of DWI accidents involve personal injury and 3% cause fatalities.

Offensively, there are many steps that we can consider taking in reviewing these findings. Two suggestions are that more law enforcement is needed in rural areas on weekends and better lighting and larger signs are needed, especially at curves.

"Defensive driving" should always be employed, but particularly, drivers should look out for drunk drivers during weekend night driving. Rural residents should realize that the one car they meet on a deserted road may be more dangerous than a rattlesnake coiled to strike—it may be a drunk driver at the wheel.

Other steps need to be considered as well. For instance, the next session of the Legislature will weigh the possibilities of increasing the penalties for drunk drivers.

However, we must continue to encourage and support important research projects which provide us with hard data to help us determine the most beneficial steps we can take to prevent the occurrence of traffic accidents and injuries.

Character is what makes individuals do more than the law requires.

PAINTING HELP
SPOKEN HERE.

BY Bonnie Blaire
TRU-TEST COLOR CONSULTANT

Dear Bonnie:
I am having to move from a large house into a small apartment. Is there anything I can do to keep from feeling closed in... to make my spaces seem larger?
Signed, Discouraged

Dear Discouraged:
There is much you can do with color. The most room enlarging color of all is light blue. It is even more enlarging than white because blue is a receding color. If blue seems too cool, warm it with some yellow, apricot or peach accent touches. Paint woodwork either to match walls or white.

Keep floors very light. Coverings for sofa or large chairs should be kept light or the same color as walls. Use as little furniture as possible and keep it scaled down to size of room. Avoid heavy dark woods. Use glass, brass and chrome for shelves and tables.

Keep the window walls free of heavy drapery. Use sheer fabrics that will let the eye travel thru and beyond the window wall to extend the space. Or dress the windows with hanging plants and glass shelves with colored glass.

Flower prints on white give a light bright look. And finally, mirrors multiply light and a mirrored wall will double your space.

For room enlarging blues, see the palest colors on TRU-TEST Custom Color strip cards C12 thru C13.

Texas Crime Rate Shows Decrease

The crime rate in Texas registered a slight decrease in 1981 compared to the previous year, according to Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director.

"This rate, which is based on the number of crimes per 100,000 population, declined 1.5 percent in 1981," Adams said.

Firefighters In Action

In the month of March Muleshoe fireman responded to twenty two fire calls, one of which was a false alarm. Some 1,120 man hours were spent in firefighting with about another 400 hours spent in cleaning equipment and getting ready for the next call. Four hundred and seven miles were registered on seven units. Most of the fires in the second month were cotton burrs, and a close second cause was trash and weeds. Thanks go to the Morton fire department for handling a Bailey County fire at Baileyboro while we were busy with three other fires within five hours.

Wednesday 31 of March was family Social nite, with a chili supper. Mrs. J. W. Holmes and family were presented a plaque in behalf of the department's appreciation for his long time membership and dedication to the department and his community. J. W. (Shorty) died November 12, 1981 after 47 years with the department.

Memorial services will be included in this year's State Fireman and Fire Marshals convention June 12-16 at Abilene for those firefighters who have died since June, 1981. Shorty Holmes will be included.

"This is the first decrease recorded in the crime rate since 1977."

The crime rate for 1981 in Texas was 6,042.6 major crimes per 100,000 population compared to 6,135.7 crimes per 100,000 population in 1980.

Adams also noted that total major crimes reported in Texas last year rose 2.5 percent compared to 1980. An estimated 891,549 major offenses were committed in Texas during 1981 compared to 869,439 for the previous year.

The data were prepared by the DPS Uniform Crime Reporting Bureau based on reports submitted by 737 Texas law enforcement agencies representing over 97 percent of the state population.

Violent crime, which increased 14.8 percent in volume during 1980, was up less than one percent last year. Robbery cases declined by 3.4 percent in 1981 while the remaining categories of murder, rape and aggravated assault showed respective increases of 2 percent, 1.8 percent and 3.6 percent.

Property crimes (burglary, theft and motor vehicle theft) rose 2.7 percent during 1981. Burglary and vehicle theft each increased slightly over 5 percent

Cotton Entering Loan

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports a total of 115,485 bales of 1981-82 crop cotton entered the CCC loan during the week ended March 10.

Loans were repaid on 12,245 bales during the week, leaving 5,056,900 still in the program.

Loans remain outstanding on 107,400 bales of 1980 crop cotton.

compared to 1980. Thefts were up less than one percent.

"The estimated value of property stolen during the commission of all major crimes in 1980 totaled over $945 million," Adams said. "Approximately $188.4 million worth of property was recovered by law enforcement agencies last year."

Twenty-one percent of the major crimes were cleared by arrests in 1981.

Total arrests for all offenses, excluding traffic violations totaled 829,042, an increase of 3.7 percent compared to the previous year. There were 52,458 drug arrests last year, amounting to a 16.7 percent rise over 1980.

Five Texas police officers were killed in the line of duty by felonious action during 1981, compared to 10 in 1980. Nine officers died in duty-related accidents last year.

Arson cases reported to the DPS in 1981 totaled 8,424 compared to 9,602 for the previous year. Property loss from arson last year was estimated at $94.4 million.

Two fools meet when one runs another's life and the other permits it.

REFUNDS RETURNED TO ENTITIES--Bailey County Appraisal District met Tuesday night and checks were delivered to representatives of entities for refunds on 1981 appraisal funds and also from state funds. From left: Rosa Lee Powell delivers checks to Jack Lane of Three Way Independent School District and Jim Shafer, Muleshoe ISD. Ronald Scott and Ronnie Holt accept checks from Chief Appraiser Dale Jones for Bailey County and Muleshoe ISD.

Not every man who goes to church considers himself a saint.

The hardest task in life is to refuse to be tempted by false honors.

The only way to get business is to go after it and keep going after it.

The best way to win an argument is to exhibit patience and self control.

The best way to become financially independent is to learn how to say "no" to yourself.

Those who live on interest rarely worry about the troubles of the man who lives on wages.

Easter

The breath of spring is in the air, and flowers, trees, and fields are bursting forth into a new life. It is truly wonderful to behold all the beauties of nature.

However, the glory of the resurrection blooms more beautiful than springtime on earth.

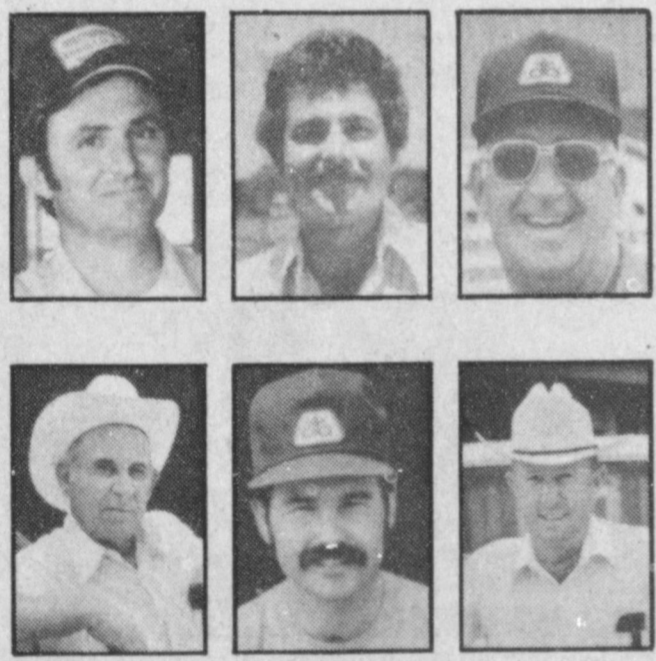

Attend church this Easter.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
