NEW OZONA HI COACH LINING UP GRID SQUAD

O. G. Lewis of Canyon Urges Huskies To Begin Practice

OUTING PLANNED

Eligibles Plan Training Period On River Before School

O. G. Lewis of Canyon, Texas, the new athletic coach and mathematics teacher in the Ozona High School for the 1928-29 term, is laying plans for an unprecedented enthusiasm for athletics in Ozona during the coming school term, both in the schools and among the town people, and is lining up prospective members of the football squad for a try at the district championship.

Although unable to leave his work in the Canyon State Teachers College until the close of the summer term, Mr. Lewis has written Walter Kyle, star half back on last year's squad, urging that the boys get in training immediately and to "begin to think football, talk football and plan for it."

"Let the whole town know we are going to do something," Mr. Lewis wrote. "See how many boys you can get that might be interested in football to fall in with us. We want at least 30 men out. Search the place and see if they are eligible and if so get them up, for we are going to put boys over in football this year."

"I am sorry that I cannot come on down but we will have to do the best we can under the circumstances," Mr. Lewis continued. "I am very optimistic over the interest you have shown. That is the spirit it takes to win. I am anxiously awaiting the time when we can hear some snappy signals and the thud of a punt."

"Boys, get the spirit and do everything you can, and when I get there we will start things off with the old snap."

Mr. Lewis has made a splendid record as an athletic coach in his five years as a teacher and coach. He has never failed to put out a winning track team and has gone into the county Interscholastic League finals in both football and basketball.

Eleven veterans of last year's squad will be available for the team this year, with three others who were "subs" last year ready to don the moleskin. The vets include George Bunger, three-year man, Dock Lee, 3 years; P. C. Coates, 3 years; Arthur Kyle, 3 years; Carlton Phillips, 3 years; Buster Miller, 2 years; Earl Deland, 3 years; Walter Kyle, 3 years; Tot Grimmer, 3 years; Carl North, 2 years; and Herman Chandler, 2 years. Roger Dudley, Miller Robison and Ray Deland are also expected to come out for the team.

The prospective grid squad is talking plans for an intensive period before the opening of school. It was planned to get the squad together for an outing on the river with the new coach for a few days work-out before school opens but it is doubtful that Mr. Lewis will be able to get here in time for this plan to be carried out. Walter Kyle, however, declared that if other plans fall, the boys would don their suits in the next few days and go through some light practice here before the opening of school.

Averaging 74 pounds to the head of mixed lambs belonging to Wayne West were weighed out at Barnhart Thursday, consigned to J. A. Womble. The lambs brought 11 and 13 cents a pound. The mutton lambs weighed around 77 pounds and the ewes 72.

Ira Carson and Early Baggett were on the road to Barnhart with their lambs this week. Mr. Baggett has sold his lambs to J. A. Womble.

Albert Bailey recently sold 100 head of heifer calves at $40 a head to George Montgomery.

5000 Head Mutton Lambs Bring 11c

Vernon And Bascomb Cox And J. M. Dudley Sell Crop

Five thousand head of Crockett County mutton lambs were sold here this week at 11 cents a pound, declared by ranchmen to be the highest price paid so far this year.

The lambs were sold by three local ranchmen, Vernon and Bascomb Cox and J. M. Dudley. A San Angelo commission firm was the purchaser. The lambs are for fall delivery.

A number of Crockett County ranchmen have contracted their lambs recently at 10 cents a pound. The price range is on the whole about the same as the prevailing quotations last year, stockmen report.

W. T. U. To Hold Cooking School

Expert Cook To Demonstrate On Hotpoint Electric Ranges

A free cooking school and Hotpoint Electric Range demonstration will be held here next week by Miss Stella Floyd of Chicago, head of the home economics department of the Hotpoint factory, under the auspices of the West Texas Utilities Company. A detailed announcement of the free cooking school is given in a full page ad carried by the Utilities Company on page 4 of this issue.

The cooking school and electric range demonstration will be held at the Joe Oberkampff furniture store. The school will be conducted along lines similar to that held here last year just before the company completed its power line into Ozona.

A valuable prize, some useful electrical appliance, will be given away each day of the cooking school. Refreshments will also be served each day. The school will be held four days next week, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, from 2:30 to 5 o'clock, p. m.

Dallas Party Is Injured In Crash

Dallas News Man and Family Overturned Near Ozona

John F. Lubben, secretary-treasurer of the A. H. Belo Corporation, publishers of the Dallas News and Journal, and his wife, son and daughter were injured Friday afternoon when their car turned over about ten miles east of Ozona on the Ozona-Sonora road.

Mrs. Lubben suffered two fractured ribs and their son, Joe Lubben, received a long gash across his knee which required several stitches to close. Mr. Lubben and his daughter, Mrs. J. A. Wickes of Austin, were badly bruised and shaken.

Young Joe Lubben was driving the car, a big Buick sedan. The roads were being graded and shaped up after recent heavy rains and the grader had just been over that stretch of the road. The grader had filled a deep rut with loose dirt and the car, going at a speed of about 35 miles an hour, struck the rut, skidded and turned over. The car landed squarely on its top, with the wheels in the air. The top held up the weight of the body however, and the occupants were able to open the door and crawl out. The windshield and one window were broken, flying glass from the windshield cutting the younger Lubben's knee.

The party had just come through Sonora and did not know how near they were to Ozona. A passing car was hailed and the injured boy was sent back to Sonora for medical attention, the other members

$10.00 FOR A SLOGAN!

Lions Club Offers Prize For Best Slogan For Ozona; To Be Included In Proposed Electric Sign For City

Do you want to win a cash prize of $10, render your town a signal service and have your "brain child" emblazoned permanently in illuminated letters over the main business street of the city?

The Ozona Lions Club wants a snappy slogan for Ozona, one that will be easily read, easily remembered and one that will be impressive enough that even though a visitor forgets the name of the town he will not forget its slogan.

The Lions Club will pay $10 in cash for the best slogan submitted and flings wide the gates to everybody to participate in the contest. The club wants the very best slogan that the combined brains of the community can produce.

The contest is open to everybody. The rules are simple and every resident of Ozona is urged to compete. Whether or not you are interested in winning the $10 prize, the club urges that everybody submit a slogan in order that the judges might have as many different ideas as possible from which to select.

The slogan is to be incorporated in the electric sign of welcome which the Lions Club proposes to hang over the main street of Ozona at a point where it will be visible to visitors coming in from any of the three roads leading into the city.

Suggestion that the name of Ozona and its slogan be featured in the electric sign was made to the club Monday by George Murphy of San Angelo, assistant superintendent of the West Texas Utilities Company in this district. Mr. Murphy was present as a guest of Local Manager Tom Onstott and T. J. Lewis, local commercial manager for the company. He told the Lions Club that the West Texas Utilities Company would furnish power for the electric sign and maintain it free of charge forever.

Mr. Murphy pointed to the San Angelo slogan "End of the Rainbow" as an example of the slogan idea and the good that will result from its adoption. President M. M. Fulmer appointed L. L. Bewley and Rev. J. H. Meredith as a committee to arrange for a prize contest for the best slogan for Ozona and a $10 prize was offered for the best slogan.

The slogan should not be over five words in length and shorter if possible. The briefer, the snappier, the more descriptive the slogan the more weight it will have with the judges. The committee made no suggestions as to what line of thought the slogans should follow, leaving the field wide open for any suggestion.

The contest is open now and will continue through September. Slogans should be written on a piece of paper and mailed or handed to Mr. Bewley or Rev. Meredith or to the Ozona Stockman. The contestant's name should be written on the back of the suggested slogans. There is no limit to the number of suggestions any person can make. Write them all on the same piece of paper or separately. Mail them or give them to the committee in a wad or as you like. But get them in as soon as possible. A committee of judges will be selected from the Lions Club to choose the winning slogan.

Error In Transfer Of Minutes Gives Taxpayers Thrill

The thrill which Crockett County taxpayers got with announcement that a five-cent reduction had been made in the county tax rate for 1928 was short lived.

The reduction, a later check showed, was through error rather than intentional. The error occurred in the transfer of the minutes of the Commissioners Court proceedings to the minute book in the Clerk's office.

The itemized tax rate for 1928 as recorded in the Commissioners Court minutes showed a total rate of $1.45, while the rate for last year was $1.50. This reduction of 5 cents would have made a total cut of 8 cents on the $100 valuation for Crockett County taxpayers, the state board having reduced the state rate 3 cents. But a comparison of the minutes with the original notes of the court showed that an error of 5 cents had been made in one item, the seventh class fund, which will remain at 10 cents as last year.

of the family catching a ride back to Ozona. The boy was brought to Ozona later and the family is now quartered at the Hotel Ozona.

A broken windshield and door, broken motorometer, and a wrecked body was the extent of damage to the car. It was brought to Ozona for repairs by the Wilson Motor Company, Mr. Wilson going to Big Lake Friday afternoon for necessary parts which were not in stock here.

Dr. John F. Lubben, Jr., of Dallas arrived Sunday night to be with his family.

Watch for announcement of the Ozona Theatre of its program for Monday night, September 17. You won't want to miss it.

Physicians Hope To Save Phillips's Eye Injured In Mishap

Encouraging reports were received this week from the bedside of Arthur Phillips, who is in a Temple sanitarium undergoing treatment for his eye, injured recently near Sonora when a passing car threw a small rock and smashed the windshield of his car, the glass piercing Mr. Phillips's eyeball.

Hillery Phillips, brother of the injured man, returned from Temple Saturday and reported that attending physicians were still hopeful that the injured eye could be saved. A piece of the shattered glass is thought to be still in the eye and physicians are watching developments to see whether or not an operation will be necessary to remove the glass.

Spud New Test On Cox's Ranch

Barbara Oil Co. And Associates Drill Near Fort Lancaster

The Barbara Oil Company of Oklahoma and associates last week spudded in an oil test on the H. B. Cox ranch in Crockett County. The test is located on the south end of the R. Dickerson survey No. 1 and is near Fort Lancaster.

The test is to be drilled to a depth of 2500 feet unless production is secured above that level. Associated with the Barbara Oil Company in this test are J. C. Cunningham, J. L. Murray and A. B. Gray.

The Fuhrman Petroleum Company, drilling another test on the H. B. Cox ranch, announced this week that its No. 1 Padgett, also down at 225 feet in red beds, waiting for 12½-inch casing.

W. T. U. Co. Will Maintain Sign

Murphy Tells Lions Co. Will Furnish Power For Welcome Sign

The West Texas Utilities Company will furnish power for an electric sign, which the Lions Club proposes to give the city, and will maintain it forever, George Murphy, assistant superintendent of Group K, West Texas Utilities Company, told members of the Lions Club at its luncheon Monday noon at the Hotel Ozona.

The club is considering the purchase of an attractive welcome sign to be hung in the downtown section in such a position that it can be seen by visitors coming in from either of the three roads leading into the city.

"The West Texas Utilities Company will be glad to assist in this undertaking by furnishing power for the sign and maintaining it forever," Mr. Murphy said. This announcement was greeted with a loud handclapping from club members. Mr. Murphy conferred with members of the sign committee after the meeting and gave many good suggestions on securing the sign.

Mr. Murphy also suggested that the name of Ozona be featured in the sign and that the city adopt a slogan for the city, pointing to the slogan of San Angelo, "Rainbow's End" as an example. The San Angelo slogan has gone all over the country, Mr. Murphy pointed out, citing an instance of a resident of Canada mentioning the slogan to him.

The club took immediate action on Mr. Murphy's suggestion and appointed a slogan committee composed of L. L. Bewley and Rev. J. H. Meredith to work out a contest to secure a suitable slogan for the city.

The program for Monday's meeting of the club was in the hands of J. L. Bishop and Dr. J. A. Fussell. Miss Kathryn Baggett entertained the club with a reading and the several visitors present were called on for brief talks. John F. Lubben, secretary-treasurer of the Dallas News, who, with members of his family, was injured when his car turned over 10 miles east of Ozona on the Sonora road Friday afternoon, expressed pleasure at being able to attend the club luncheon and said that although he regretted his misfortune he had rather it had happened near Ozona than any other place. Mr. Lubben's son, Dr. John E. Lubben, Jr., was also present and spoke briefly.

Wilson Motor Co. Holds Record For Sale Of Buick Cars

Not only is Ozona the best town in the world in which to live and not only has it the best people in the world but it has more Buick automobiles per capita than any town in the world.

This is the record and rating as compiled by the Buick Motor Company and furnished by the Wilson Motor Company, Buick distributors in Ozona and Big Lake. The complete "Honor Roll" of Buick owners in Crockett County and Big Lake together with some additional facts about the Silver Anniversary Buick is contained in a double page ad carried by the Wilson Motor Company in this week's issue of The Ozona Stockman. The Buick Honor Roll contains 205 names of Buick purchasers sold by the Wilson Motor Company.

Lee Wilson, proprietor of the Wilson Motor Company, has set a world's record in Buick sales in a town this size. Out of the total of 205 Buick purchasers, 53 of them are "repeaters," Mr. Wilson points out, this number having purchased their second, third and fourth Buick.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Roberts, former operators of the Hotel Ozona Coffee Shop, are here for a visit with friends. They have just returned from a trip through Colorado and New Mexico.

OZONA SCHOOL WILL OPEN ON SEPTEMBER 3

Opening Exercises To Be Held At 9 O'clock Monday Morning

FACULTY CHOSEN

O. G. Lewis New Coach & Math Teach; Another School In Co.

School days are just around the corner.

One week from next Monday, Ozona school children will again get on the march in answer to the summons of the school bell.

This was the edict handed down by the School Board and relayed to the eager ears of the anxious hordes by Supt. John L. Bishop.

September 3 is the date selected by the school board for the opening of the 1928-29 session of the Crockett County Schools, Mr. Bishop said.

The opening exercises will be held, probably in one of the churches of the city, beginning at 9 o'clock Monday morning. The complete program for the opening exercises has not been arranged, but the assembly will likely be addressed by County Superintendent Chas. E. Davidson and several musical numbers will be arranged, Supt. Bishop said.

At the conclusion of the opening exercises, the students will assemble in their rooms at the high school and be assigned books and lessons and get everything shaped up for beginning the year's work.

Crockett County will add another school to its system with the opening of the 1928-29 session. A school is to be established in the community at the plant of the Pecos Valley Power and Light Company in the northwestern corner of the county. Building has been provided for the school and Miss Anna L. Duke of San Angelo has been selected as teacher.

Local teachers will attend institute at San Angelo this year, the sessions of the Concho-Colorado Teachers Institute opening there on Friday, September 7 and continuing through Saturday, Mr. Bishop said.

The faculty of the local school was completed recently with the acceptance by O. G. Lewis of Canyon, Texas, of the position as math teacher and coach, the superintendent announced. Mr. Lewis is a graduate of the Canyon State Teachers College and is above the average as an athletic coach, according to information here. He has been teaching at Tahoka the last two years and for three years prior to his connection with the Tahoka schools he taught in the school at Littlefield. During his time as teacher and coach he has produced a football team above the average and has never failed to produce a winning team in the county track meet. In three successive years he sent football and basketball teams to the finals in the county meets. He is married and has no children.

J. S. Whatley Loses Two Fingers In Saw

J. S. Whatley, local cabinet worker employed at the L. L. Bewley cabinet shop, has returned from San Angelo where he underwent an operation last week for the amputation of two fingers on his right hand which were injured as a result of being caught in a Dado saw at the cabinet shop.

Four fingers were mangled by the saw, but physicians were able to save two of them. One finger was amputated at the first joint and the other at the second joint.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurst Meinecke have returned from a visit to Houston and Galveston. Mrs. Glenn Taylor, a sister of Mrs. Meinecke, accompanied them to Houston which is her home.

Sometimes a girl who is the picture of health is that way because she painted the picture herself.—Florence (Ala.) Herald.

Ozona extends the hand of welcome to the tourist, to the short time visitor, to the transient population, but not to those who would come as permanent residents, those who if possible would come to Ozona to make their home.

"We haven't room for you," is in effect this town's answer to those who would come here to live. The problem of housing the ever growing population of Ozona is an acute one. The housing situation is probably doing more to retard the growth of this community than any other factor. In fact, all other factors seemed combined to make for the growth of the community in population, but a population that lives in tents is about all that can be accommodated here and such a population would scarcely be to the town's credit.

Families of means, families that come here to enter business may be able, after considerable effort, to buy a lot and build a home. But unless they are "well fixed," as the popular expression goes, it is next to impossible for a new family to acquire a home of their own here. In a county with an average of nearly six sections of land to the family real estate values in the town are as high and in some respects higher than in the city of Dallas.

High real estate values denote a growing community in most cases and react favorably to the owners of the property, that's true. But when the situation is such that encouragement of home ownership among families of moderate means becomes impossible, it is time for the community as a whole to seek some means of relieving the situation. Wage earners, artisans, professional men and business people come here with a view to making their home. They can't buy a building lot because the price is prohibitive from their standpoint. They can't build because they have no place to build. They can't rent because there are no rent houses available. There is nothing left for them to do, then, but move on. And so they do.

Those who do find a place to hang their hats, in one two or three rooms, they pay a price that entitles them to have a house to themselves, with a yard for the children to play. But after one has knocked about in Ozona for a time hunting for a place to live he is glad to get these two or three rooms at any price.

There are a number of ways in which the situation might be relieved somewhat. One is for owners of real estate to invest in apartment or rent houses. Nobody would accuse us of laying claim to being a financier, but it does look reasonable that such an investment would pay a big dividend. And we have the word of men more capable of judging that it WOULD.

Still another way to better the situation would be to open a new addition. Ozona is bounded on nearly all sides by hills and limited by the draw. If something could be done to eliminate the danger of overflow from the two draws through Ozona, it would release at least a half-section of new residence building lots. And Ozona needs more room to grow. A new addition on the hills, along the draws or out on the open flats would open up a new period of growth for Ozona.

Ozona property owners have an opportunity at present to provide adequate fire protection for their properties at less cost than has ever been possible before. With the Ozona Water Works installing new four inch mains along many streets of the town, replacing small mains that are no longer adequate, property owners now have an opportunity to tap these larger mains and install fire plugs at vantage points along the main residence streets and provide fire protection to a larger part of the town.

The Water Works crew laying the new mains will put in a "T" joint and lay a lead for a fire plug at any point property owners desire without charge, it has been announced. The only cost, then, will be for the fire plug. These can be secured at from $40 to $55 each. A small amount to a fund and make up enough to buy one of these plugs without any one individual making any great sacrifice. If you want a fire plug connection, notify the water works office before the pipe is laid near your property.

The Busy Bailer

Every day it seems I meet At work, at home or in the street, Folks with nothing else to do, But worry what we're coming to; And heaven knows my own affairs Provide me with sufficient cares; I'm like a sailor in a boat Who pumps like hell to keep afloat.

I haven't time to brood or think About your morals when you drink And if the women bob their hair, Upon my word I do not care. It never causes me distress Or worry how the women dress; It takes my time to bail my boat, And I must bail to keep afloat.

My friend, I do not care if you Are heathen, Gentile or a Jew; Upon the Sabbath when you wish I do not care how much you fish; And while I do not care to dance, I do not care how much you prance I'm busy bailing out my boat— I guess that's why I'm still afloat.

Meddlers, why do you abuse And tax my patience with your views? Straighten out your own affairs And let the neighbors tend to theirs. Forget what this world's coming to And work on what's assigned to you; If on the sea of life you'd float Don't bail the other fellow's boat! By E. A. Sperry in The Valve World.

One of my patrons from another state is now 86 years old, and is here for a short vacation. He is not a freak; he is a normal man, and more. He has no need of my medicines or advice; he knows how to live, perhaps better than I do; but he lets me take an inventory—his blood-pressure, condition of his heart and circulation in particular; just wants to see if anything is wrong that he has not noticed!

Now, if this man can live so long and happily, why cannot you and I do it as well?

The big one, outstanding reason is, we violate too many laws of right living. We lie in bed too late mornings. He is up at five A. M. every day. We go to bed too late nights; he is in bed before 9:30 every night. We stuff our bodies with food at the end of day; his best meal is—breakfast; his lightest meal, "supper." We have high blood-pressure, tubby bodies, indolent nerves, poisoned arteries, and all that go with them—he doesn't. Yet, he is just the sort of human being that we are.

He has done everything in the shape of hard work that came along—it doesn't hurt him any. We accuse our work of being the cause of our troubles—when it is excess of highly-seasoned food and indolent habits. My good old patron has lived in the open; we are in all day, and out most nights. If our mode of living is absolutely unavoidable, if we die before our Creator intended us to.

"Back to first principles" is homely, but powerfully conducive to four-score years of life, or more.

Effective War On Sheep Scab

Crockett County Shows 330 Exposures; All Animals Dipped

The condensed report of sheep scabies activities in Texas for the month of June shows that although there were 244 inspections made in a total of 27 counties, there were only 2,095 sheep dipped because of exposure to disease.

Nine inspections were made in Tom Green, and 12,583 sheep were found to be free of infection and exposure. There were no dippings whatever in that county, as was the case in most of the other counties where investigations were conducted.

In Crockett County, ten inspections were made, 330 exposures were found, 4,800 sheep went free, and 330 were dipped. In Concho County, two investigations were made, 1,671 sheep went free and there were no dippings.

Fourteen investigations were made in Edwards County, but 24, 225 sheep went free and there were no dippings. Gillespie had 36 dipped because of exposure, and 4,522 went free.

In Irion County, 16 investigations were made, no sheep were found to be exposed, and 24,238 went free. However, in Kerr, where 10 investigations were made 117 sheep were found exposed.

Kimble County called for only four investigations, and all of 4,600 sheep went free. In Menard, 26 investigations were made, 179 sheep had met exposure, 87 were dipped and 13,341 went free.

In McCulloch, where only five investigations were made, two sheep had been exposed but 116 were dipped, leaving 1,700 to go free. In Reagan County, two investigations were made, and 11,043 sheep were released with a clean slate.

Schleicher County had 21 investigations and 22,837 sheep went free. And Sutton County, which had 10 investigations, had 17,603 sheep to go free.

Uvalde County had a total of only five investigations, leaving 2,978 sheep to go free, while Val Verde had 57 investigations, had all of 10,583 sheep inspected to go free but dipped 75 animals nevertheless.

According to Chief Scabies Inspector J. H. Rascoe, the total number of quarantines issued was one; releases, five; quarantine in State, 28; form A certificates, 133; herds held for further dipping, three.

THE TIGER TRAIL

by Edison Marshall

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Dr. Long is visiting Southley Downs, to which he is conducted by Ahmad Das, an Oriental. There he meets Mr. Southley, whom a detective friend, Alexander Pierce had told him to watch, and his son Ernest Southley, Mr. Hayward and his son Vilas, and then Josephine Southley, whom he had seen faint on the train. Josephine tells him the story of Southley Downs and its ghost, which is not the ghost of a human being but of a tiger.

Dr. Long has a quarrel with Vilas as Hayward over Josephine, and finds that the Haywards have a strange authority over the Southleys. He is ordered to leave Southley Downs. The rain prevents him leaving at once. Dr. Long and Ernest go out on the road in the rain looking for the tracks of a tiger that Ernest says are there.

They find the tracks. Later Ernest and Dr. Long see a prowling creature in the hall of Southley Downs. This frightens the elder Hayward, who also sees it. Ernest begins to feel that Ahmad Das is perpetrating some devilry.

The elder Hayward is later found dead, his neck broken as if by a giant's blow.

The coroner and police arrive in order to investigate.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Sam's other errands he had done with dispatch.

"And where did you pick up the rowboat?" I asked. "You went over in Mr. Southley's duck canoe."

The question drew a long and detailed explanation. The motor craft, it seemed, had been procured by the coroner, and was to be used to convey the body. The duck canoe was not large enough to bring any supplies, so Mr. Southley had ordered Sam to procure a large, well-made rowboat to go back and forth in. At first he had despaired of finding any, until the old man who had steered on the way back to the house encountered him and offered his own boat and services for hire. He was a quaint old character that lived by the river at the edge of the city, and he had heard of Sam's inquiries. But he insisted that he be carried along to handle his own boat. The reason was rather obvious. The old man was evidently in need of the few extra dollars that his own services would bring.

"And what's the old fellow's name?"

"Robin—and he talked like a cockney."

Southley and I were with the inspector—his name turned out to be Freeman—when he examined the body. He made no comment. Since I had given up all hope of a greater detective coming to our aid, I turned over all the clues I had gathered to him. He was entirely scornful.

"Like as not you and young Southley spoiled a whole lot more clues than you found, by tramping around the body."

"We were careful about that, inspector," I assured him.

"I don't mean to infer your motives weren't the best," he went on with a world of tact, "but amateur aid doesn't help any, as a rule. The hat is evidently the property of the murdered man. This cuff-link—"

He examined the cuffs off the silken shirt that Hayward wore. "It's his cuff, too," he said shortly. "Broken off when he fell."

There was nothing more to be said on this point. The link in the left sleeve was the mate of the broken link we had found.

He heard our story, and we walked down with him to show him where the body had lain. He listened very attentively to our theory—that Hayward had attempted to flee from his enemy.

"It's a queer case," he told us then. "I don't know of any like it. As you say, he must have used something as heavy as a sledgehammer, and yet not hard like a sledgehammer. Anything very hard would have broken the skull into pieces, at the speed that it must have come. Those queer scratches are funny, too. But at least we've got the murderer gretty well sewed up. If he's in this house he can't get away—because already guards are watching the shores of the swamp. If he's on the highlands yonder, he can't get off them either, except into the water where my men will see him."

Soon after this the body was carried down to the boat. The negroes seemed all to have disappeared when the moment came, but Ahmad, inscrutable as ever, and the bewiskered old man that we called Robin, came to our aid. The inquest was to be held three days later, after the detectives had time to make their investigations.

"There's room for me I hope?" I asked.

"Yes—"

"It will be necessary for me to leave this place and go back to my practice in Tampa."

Because I hadn't forgotten my promise of departure. Besides, there was no further reason for me to stay. Alexander Pierce had failed to come. I had just been a guest, a spectator, from the first, and Josephine had seen to it that I had been no more. The renouncement in the den the evening before had told that all too plainly. I couldn't deny to myself how much I would have liked to stay, to see the affair to its end, perhaps to behold the curse lifted from the old manor house, and to watch the shadows depart from those sad eyes. Never before had the thought of being of service been so dear to me. But the stand the girl had taken in the den was impossible to disregard.

"I don't see why you can't go, Long, if you want," the inspector said. "You were just a guest here—though I will say that you came at a propitious time—and besides, both of the Southleys vouch for you. Vilas says you are innocent, and they say that you were in the library when the crime was committed. Of course, you must tell us where we can get you on a moment's notice."

I told them, and asked them to wait until I got my bag. It was all packed and ready. And as I came down from my room I met Josephine in the hall.

She started back at the sight of me. I couldn't read the look that leaped to her face, except that it was a hurt look, almost a look of pleading. It was a surprise to me. Evidently she felt that she would miss whatever support I had been than a whisper. Perhaps it was just a little tremulous.

"I don't think you are very kind, doctor," the words came back. "You don't understand."

"Unkind because I wish you happiness? At least I can do that—with propriety. There has been enough between us that I can do that. The walks we had—they will be very beautiful to think about."

"I wish you'd not say any more."

But I went on remorselessly: "And don't think I'm going to be bitter. Women have always sacrificed for the men they loved—everything they had to sacrifice. No man can blame them if he is one of the sacrifices, as I was—in the den—last night."

She stopped as if I had struck her.

"You mean—that you think I renounced you last night, that I let you fall when I could have saved you—because I loved Vilas Hayward?"

"I would sooner attribute it to that than to some less worthy reason. At least it showed me that your love for him was everything—that nothing in the world could stand in its way."

"Then there is no use in pleading with you any more, Dr. Long. Some time you may understand—and maybe a little sorry. If you'd only stay, that time might be soon—before it is too late."

We could say no more. We had reached the boat. I shook hands with the Southleys; and, even as I said good-by, two strange impressions were knocking at the doors of my consciousness. They were not distinct. One of them was that old Robin was gazing at me with what was almost a look of abject bewilderment on his face the other was that Josephine was whispering to Inspector Freeman—a hurried, urgent message.

When I looked at them they had moved to opposite sides of the group. His lean face was thoughtful. I gave my bag to the negro, and started to step on the boat.

"Wait just a minute, Dr. Long," the inspector commanded.

I turned to him. "What is it?"

"I've just been thinking—that I really haven't a right to let you go. I've learned that you had a scene with the elder Hayward—words and all that—on the night he was killed. It puts a different

We have a stock of Buick parts and proper tools and equipment and experienced Mechanics to see that you get real service out of your car. We will take care of your every want every day in the year. We have an investment of about $40,000 in Ozona and Big Lake so as to be prepared to serve you. What other car can you buy and get this?

Not only do you get this service when you buy a Buick from us but also you help Ozona and Big Lake, for the profit is spent right here in our town, it doesn't go off to some other town to some dealer who pays no taxes here and who doesn't help in any enterprise for the good of Ozona and Big Lake. We are ready and willing at all times to do our part on anything that will make Ozona and Big Lake bigger and better. These are facts that you can't sidestep if you are loyal to your community.

But the most important is the fact that this new 1929 SILVER ANNIVERSARY BUICK is the greatest Car ever built for the price or even hundreds of dollars more than the prices of the different models of the new Buick. All we ask is a chance to demonstrate this wonderful Car to you. It will thrill you as you were never thrilled before.

face on the situation; so I guess I'll have to command you to stay here until I know it is safe for me to let you go, doctor."

All the white occupants of Southley Downs—and that of course included the brown-skinned Ahmao, whose race is the root and source of the whole Aryan breed—met in the library immediately after the motor boat's departure. All of us took chairs, and Inspector Freeman stood in the center.

"This isn't a third degree, or anything like it," he explained. "I'm simply in search of explanations. I want to know who's who, and who knows what."

He called on Vilas Hayward first. "Where were you on the night of the crime?" he asked.

"I went to bed at midnight." "You were present in the den, in which you were insulted by Dr. Long?"

"Yes, sir. But I'm willing to forget that."

Yet his eyes did not look as if he were willing; they glowed darkly.

"But we're not willing to forget it," the detective replied. "The matter of motive of this murder is probably the most important feature in identifying the criminal. If we have a motive, we have something to work on. I believe that your father took your part in the discussion."

"That is true."

"And Southley did also."

Vilas hesitated—just an instant.

"Yes, he supported me."

"I believe his daughter sided in with you, too."

Talk may be cheap, but not when you talk back to a policeman.

"I would hardly say that."

"At least she offered no explanation why Dr. Long attacked you. Isn't that true?"

"It is."

"How did Dr. Long take this combined stand against him?"

"I don't know what you mean."

"It seems to me I am perfectly clear. Did he become angry?"

"I won't venture to say. It was plainly the greatest shock to him when Miss Southley took the attitude she did. I suppose my father gave him the greatest cause for anger."

"Why?"

"My father took the most determined stand against him, insisting on an apology or else a departure from the house."

"And what right did he have to insist that any of Southley's guests be told to go? What was his explanation for this breach of hospitality? The doctor was Southley's guest, not your father's. Why did your father feel he had a right to insist, in the terms he did, that Southley expel the doctor from his house?"

"I—don't believe I know."

"Think a minute."

Vilas' face darkened ever so slightly.

"I don't believe I care to have you question the manners of my dead father."

"It is a fair question."

"In spite of the difference in their ages, Southley and my father were old friends. They were very free with each other in all things."

"And did your father say anything of an insulting nature that the doctor might want to avenge?"

"He called him a 'pup,' I think, as well as other things."

"You say you went to bed at midnight. When did you learn of your father's murder?"

"After the levee broke—when the others came back to the house and told me."

"The sound of the breaking levee awakened you?"

"Yes."

Freeman called on me next. I told my story, as far as it concerned the finding of the body. I corroborated most of Vilas' testimony.

"How much time were you alone after the scene in the den and the time of the murder?" he asked.

"A few minutes after a midnight walk with Ernest—between a few minutes before one o'clock and immediately after."

"How did you spend your time?"

"I was undressing for bed."

"And then what did you do?"

I told him of our stalk through the halls. He seemed particularly interested, but also somewhat scornful.

"It isn't the purpose of the State to chase down ghosts," he said.

"I think the less thought and said about that matter the better. You all were under a nervous strain, and I've heard the testimony of people in that condition before. It usually isn't worth the paper it's written on. I want to know if you had any time to yourself between the scene in the den and the murder."

Of course his reason for wanting to know was perfectly obvious. He wanted to see whether I could have possibly had time to hire one of the negroes to murder the elder Hayward. He knew that I had not done the deed with my own hands, from the fact that I had already established an alibi.

"We've got a motive for you, Long," he told me at the end, "but not much else. There are others that we have some of the other things, but no motive."

He called on Ahmad Das. The latter told him how he had gone out to the garage after the car; how he had looked in vain for Hayward on the driveway, and how later, he had found the body.

The detective flushed slightly and leaned forward.

"You didn't like the elder Hayward, Ahmad?" Freeman asked abruptly.

"No, sahib."

"Why didn't you? What had he ever done to you?"

"He was not pleasant to serve, sahib. Many times he swore—"

"And I believe he struck you once, Ahmad."

Ahmad's voice lowered. "Yes."

"And why did he?"

"I was slow in a service that he asked."

"He didn't like you either, Ahmad."

"It is true."

"Considering his influence with your master, did it ever occur to you that he might get you thrown out of employment?"

"Employ—"

"Get you kicked out of your job?"

"No, sahib; I never thought of that."

"One more crack like that and you're through," murmured the fellow on shore as he watched the ice crack under the skater.

Dr. Frank Crane Says

THE MAN WHO KEEPS HIS WORD

It is like the shadow of a great rock in a weary land to run across as we do occasionally, a man who keeps his word.

You may be able to sue on written promises and contracts put in writing, which are usually binding but somehow the man who does not keep his word strictly is a slippery customer and it is hard to get hold of him, even with a piece of writing.

The fundamental security for a man doing what he promises is, after all, character.

If a man has character and is upright you are safer in lending him money than if he gives you a mortgage on his farm. Doing business with a liar is never satisfactory. Somehow he will attempt to wriggle out of his promises.

It is easy to detect the strictly honest person. When he owes you money he does not avoid you, but openly and frankly pays you something on account right along, if he cannot pay the whole amount.

The test of the fundamentally honest man is his punctuality in meeting his engagements or in frankly explaining to you why those engagements cannot be met.

The courts are full of people trying to avoid their plain engagements.

A man who is in debt sincerely tries to meet that debt whether it hurts him or not. It is very trying and very disturbing to our faith in human nature to find a person who is always looking for alibis, always seeking explanations for not doing as he said he would do.

The good loser, the man who loses and yet is cheerful is the man who is after all one of the chief pillars of the social fabric.

One of the differences between a liar and a publicity agent is that the publicity agent sometimes gets paid.

TAKE OFF THEM WHISKERS - YOU AIN'T SANTA CLAUS!

From the way their ads read you'd think some of the present day tire dealers were going to be unhappy the rest of their lives if they accidentally sold you a tire at a profit. I hate to be a kill-joy but that stuff is the bunk. You know and I know that in the tire business, as in any other business, Christmas only comes once a year.

Maybe I'm slow but I make no pretense of being a philanthropist. I don't try to tell you I'm selling tires below cost, and I don't think you expect to buy them that way. I sell Goodyear Tires. I sell them at a fair margin of profit and I back them with helpful, money saving tire service. And this combination of quality plus service is keeping my old customers and constantly bringing me new ones.

Next time a tire dealer offers you something for nothing you just grin and tell him: "Take off them whiskers, you ain't Santa Claus." Then come around and let me sell you a Goodyear.

Patch It Up!

Dear Miss Vera,

I am nineteen years old and very much in love with a fellow who is six months older than I. He always does as his people and friends advise him and by doing so often does many things to offend me. After going together for eight months we were engaged. I left home to attend school, not thinking it would cause any scandal, and it was not long before it was whispered that I had left home for another reason. He began believing this tale, and wrote me to ask if it were true.

Two months later I returned home. He begged me not to be angry, said he no longer believed the story, but I fear we would never get along again. I know I love him. He doesn't believe the tale at all now since I showed him my test papers for every month. He seems to think others believe the story and would look down on him for associating with me. What shall I do?

VONILUE KID

Dear Vonilue Kid, the best thing would be to patch it all up. As long as you love him, forgive him for believing the lies about you—he is too much influenced by talk, and does not really mean harm. I am sure you will get along well together as soon as some time passes and all this misunderstanding is forgotten.

You might give him a lecture or two—in a tactful way—pointing out how harmful it is to believe everything that one hears!

A BOY WITHOUT A CAR

Dear Miss Vera,

I am going with a boy who does not own a car. He is very polite and is very good to me. I am rather fond of an older boy who has a car. Would it be wise for me to exchange or not?

Should the girl mention to her friend that she had an enjoyable evening or enjoyed his company or should she wait for him to mention it? What should she say when he mentions it?

BLUE EYES

Dear Blue Eyes, there is no reason why you cannot be friendly with both boys. To break friendship with a boy just because he has not got a car would be, to say the least, a bit mean.

If you are fond of the older boy why not be friends with him, too? But don't be friendly with him just because of the car! It is the person that counts. If circumstances are such that you cannot be friendly with both boys, why, pick the one you like best regardless of such exterior things as the ownership of an automobile.

It is nice to thank a boy for a pleasant evening. There is no reason why you cannot express delight when in good company. There is no formula for responding to a boy's statement that he enjoyed your company. If you have also enjoyed his, tell him so. Or, if you prefer, tell him you are glad he enjoyed your company.

Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State. The sum of $5,000.00 or so much thereof as may be needed is hereby appropriated for the expense of publication of said Amendment.

Servants at Your Call

Wealth among the ancients was reckoned by the number of servants in the home. In the yesteryear of modern time one servant in a family was considered a luxury.

To-day every family—poor or rich—may have as many servants at their command as need, and all this at a cost of but a fraction of the family budget.

The modern servant is electrical. It is always ready to do your bidding—never tiring—never complaining and no afternoons off.

Household drudgery is now a thing of the past. Wonderful electrical devices make housework a pleasure and milady gains many hours of pleasure and social duties.

Farming and ranching are now done scientifically. The lazy and costly farm or ranch hand has passed into history.

In spite of its constantly increasing usefulness and availability the cost of this service has steadily decreased, while all other costs have increased.

Are you enjoying the full time—usefulness of these servants? One of the distinctive privileges of this company is the opportunity to explain to you without just how you can use these modern electrical appliances.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT—AUTHORIZING LEGISLATURE TO EXEMPT FROM TAXATION PARSONAGES, AND PROPERTY OF ASSOCIATIONS FOR RELIGIOUS, EDUCATIONAL AND PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT

H. J. R. No. 20)

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION
Proposing an amendment to Section 2, Article 8 of the Constitution of the State, so as to authorize the Legislature to exempt from taxation any property owned by a church or by a strictly religious society for the exclusive use as a dwelling place for the ministry of such church or religious society, and which yields no revenue whatever to such church or religious society, and property used exclusively and reasonably necessary in conducting any association engaged in promoting the religious, educational and physical development of boys, girls, young men or young women operating under a State or National organization of like character; providing for an election upon such proposed Constitutional Amendment, and making an appropriation therefor.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: Section 1. That Section 2, Article 8 of the Constitution be so changed as to read hereafter as follows:

All occupation taxes shall be equal and uniform upon the same class of subjects within the limits of the authority levying the tax; but the legislature may, by general laws, exempt from taxation public property used for public purposes; actual places of religious worship, also any property owned by a church or by a strictly religious society for the exclusive use as a dwelling place for the ministry of such church or religious society and which yields no revenue whatever to such church or religious society; provided that such exemption shall not extend to more than is necessary for a dwelling place and in no event more than one acre of land; places of burial not held for private or corporate profit; all buildings used exclusively and owned by persons or associations of persons for school purposes and the necessary furniture of all schools and property used exclusively and reasonably necessary in conducting any association engaged in promoting the religious, educational and physical development of boys, girls, young men or women operating under a State or National organization of like character; also the endowment funds of such institutions of learning and religion not used with a view to profit; and when the same are invested in bonds or mortgages or in land or other property which has been and shall hereafter be bought in by such institutions under foreclosure sales made to satisfy or protect such bonds or mortgages, that such exemption of such land and property shall continue only for two years after the purchase of the same at such sale by such institutions of purely public charity; and all laws exempting property from taxation other than the property above mentioned shall be null and void.

SEC. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1928, at which election all voters favoring said proposed amendment shall write or have printed on their ballot the words "For the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, exempting from taxes property owned by churches or strictly religious societies for the exclusive use as dwellings for the ministry"; and all those opposed shall write or have printed on their ballots "Against the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas exempting from taxes property owned by churches or strictly religious societies for the exclusive use as dwellings for the ministry."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have same published as required by the Constitution and existing laws of the State.

Bear Cub Entertains Curb Crowd In Ozona

A tiny bear cub, captured by Jake Yancy on the Ford Coates ranch near Marfa, furnished plenty of entertainment for the downtown crowds in Ozona this week.

The little cub, brought to town by Mr. Yancy and shown about to interested groups on the business streets, thinned out downtown cat population considerably and ran up a big ice cream cone bill at the drug stores.

The cub is apparently but a few weeks old but has inherited a Gene Tunney punch that stands him well in his efforts to make his way among the city house cats. His inherited sweet tooth was gratified at frequent intervals by admirers who showered him with ice cream cones just to see him devour them much after the fashion of the young American.

The tiny bruin was separated from its mother by Mr. Yancy and a companion and was captured after being treed. The mother bear and another cub escaped.
