MICHIGAN, CIVILIZED STATE.
MR. MELLON HOUSEKEEPING.
THE IDEAL CHILD.
HERE—REAL NEWS.

The State of Michigan is still trying to reach a decision on capital punishment. Certain legislators appear to think that to discourage murder the State must imitate the murder and inflict death.

It is proposed to restore capital punishment in Michigan, where it has long been unknown.

Michigan is a civilized State, an example to others in many ways. It is to be hoped the Legislature will not decide that civilization in Michigan needs the help of a hangman, or a man to throw the switch on an electric chair.

What is the ideal child, in your opinion? Secretary Hoover, president of the American Child Health Association, says the normal child, "is not superfluously happy or deeply discouraged, is robust, vociferous, not ruled by emotions." That is a good definition of a child destined to develop into a go-getter.

On the other hand, Napoleon, who told all the adult children of Europe what they should do, was not vociferous or robust. He was tickly, salted, sulked in a corner because his schoolmates laughed at his Corsican accent, and was entirely ruled by his one emotion, AMBITION.

The industry commission of the League of Nations reports 20,000,000 out of work in Europe and blames the United States, of course. Europe should also blame itself for allowing 20,000,000 pairs of hands to remain idle.

A good farmer keeps his horses and oxen working, a good industrialist keeps his machines busy. Europe needs canals, roads, houses, and it should be possible to find work for all. That would be easy if men could get away from the idea that the only sound reason for putting a man to work is to let somebody else make a profit out of his labor.

What is the real wealth of this country? Nobody could guess within a thousand billions.

For instance, Mr. Bonville, through his Denver Post, announces discovery in Colorado of a bed of manganese, by far the richest in the world, six million tons of ore in sight.

How many more billions are hidden away in the mountains that stretch across and up and down this country, feebly tapped here and there by prospectors, but never really PROSPECTED.

Great Britain receives the right reply to her note concerning Mr. Mellon's letter to college professors about international debts. Secretary Kellogg tells Britain that what Secretary Mellon writes to American professors is our business. That covers the ground.

Incidentally, the British admit that beginning in 1912 they will be getting from their European neighbors, recently called "gallant allies," more than enough to cover all payments to the United States. Mr. Mellon's statement was strictly accurate, barring one clerical error, and it enlightened his fellow citizens.

This IS news. A tractor and plow with no driver, all by themselves, guided by electricity, ploughed a twenty-acre field on the farm of the Nebraska Agricultural College yesterday. Farmers, professors and business men looking on. The first furrow only was ploughed under human guidance. That furrow acted as guide and the machine did the rest.

There you have the ultimate solution of the farm question, and proof that "back to the farm" is not necessary.

The farmer will sit, spaglass in hand, on a tower in the middle of his acres, watching one machine spraying potatoes, another cultivating corn, a third cutting green oats for hay, and not a farm hand on the place.

In Kansas alone this year additional "combination" machines for harvesting wheat will do away with 25,000 itinerant extra farm hands.

Brains, money and machinery will solve the farm problem as they have solved other industrial problems.

FREE BARBECUE EACH DAY FOR FAIR DECIDED

Meat, Bread, Pickles, Water & Coffee to Be Served Daily

$2,000 NECESSARY

Committee Named To Secure Rooms To House Visitors

A free barbecue dinner at noon each day during the three-day rodeo, races, stock show and celebration here July 4, 5 and 6 will be served to visitors by the citizens of Crockett County. It was definitely decided Monday night at the Chamber of Commerce meeting.

The free barbecue and the question of housing visitors were the only arrangements for the coming celebration that had not been completed by the Fair Association, representatives of that organization told Chamber members.

A committee of business men headed by Chris Meinecke was appointed recently to canvass the people of Ozona for their opinion on the question of how many barbecues to be given and Mr. Meinecke reported that the majority seemed in favor of one free barbecue dinner on each of the three days.

This decision was ratified by the Chamber of Commerce Monday night and committees named to carry out the plan on that schedule.

The fame to be offered hungry celebrators each noon day at the barbecue tables will be barbecued goat, mutton, and beef, pickles, bread, ice water and coffee. It is estimated that approximately $2,000 will be needed to put on the three days barbecues. The free feeds will be considerably less expensive this year than they were last on account of the fact that the barbecue pits are already built and many other expenses incurred last year will not be necessary this year.

Tom Smith was named general chairman of preparations for the celebration and will appoint his own working committees to have charge of the various departments. He will line up a committee for every phase of work necessary in preparation for the fair and will see to it that everything is in readiness.

Scott Peters was named chairman of a committee to have charge of housing visitors and was instructed to take steps toward getting a complete list of all available rooms in the city for the three days. Many requests are already coming in for reservations at the Hotel Ozona and these are now being turned down on account of a lack of space.

In order to get everything listed as soon as possible, Mr. Peters asks that all those who have rooms which will be available during the celebration to list them with him and as requests come in the rooms will be apportioned out.

A finance committee to solicit funds for the barbecue is to be appointed by Mr. Smith and will be out soon making a canvass of the town.

County Road Crews Grade Ozona Streets

Crockett County road crews have been quite active during the last few weeks improving Ozona streets and roads leading out from town. Most of the streets in town have been put in good condition for graded streets and all roads are in fine shape.

A new road has been cut to the south across the flat between the down town section and "Mexico". The main street has been extended along the fence almost to the draw and then curves to take the road around the point. This new road will eliminate a series of almost a half dozen roads that cut across the flat.

Nearness of Celebration Pointed Out And Action Urged

Appointment of general working committees to complete arrangements for the Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show, July 4, 5 and 6 to welcome visitors and to have charge of various phases of work during the celebration, has been announced by Tom Smith, general chairman of celebration plans.

Mr. Smith was named general chairman at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Monday and was instructed to appoint his own committees and to see that each functions properly.

"The date for the opening of the fair is not far off," Mr. Smith said "and these committees must get to work immediately if everything is to be in readiness for the event. We want every man to work on these committees and our motto is DO IT NOW."

Following are the complete committees as named by Mr. Smith:

tion of transferring its allegiance from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to the South Texas Chamber, according to President Kincaid in answer to an inquiry to the Ozona Chamber of Commerce from Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber. Mr. Wade's inquiry was based on an item in the Star-Telegram recently to the effect that the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association had joined the South Texas body.

"The matter of joining the South Texas Chamber was brought before the executive committee at its meeting in Sanderson," President Kincaid said, "and E. K. Fawcett of Del Rio, an officer in the newly formed South Texas organization, was instructed to look into the matter, find out the cost of joining, etc. So far as I know no membership has been taken out by the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association in the South Texas Chamber and so far as I know also there is no intention on the part of the Association to withdraw from the West Texas Chamber."

R. R. Dudley Wins Ugliness Honors

"Dark Horse" Candidate Wins in Walk Over 3 Others

Roger Dudley as a "dark horse" candidate grabbed an early lead to finish in a landslide which swamped three opposing candidates in the "ugliest man" contest staged as one of the entertainment features of the Methodist picnic held last Friday at Live Oak.

Rev. Stanley Haver, Paul Perner and Chas. Schauer were the avowed candidates for the "honor" but Dudley slipped into the running without so much as passing out a candidate card and was a favorite from the start. After the overwhelming victory, he was awarded the degree of "Bachelor of Ugliness" amid the plaudits of an admiring crowd of supporters.

After the balloting, Paul Perner offered his alibi to the effect that if he had known Roger would enter the race he would not have considered offering himself as a candidate against such overwhelming odds.

There were approximately 100 present for the picnic and program. Various athletic contests and games were enjoyed and an old fashioned picnic spread laid out noon.

Mrs. B. E. Ingham carried off honors in the "Maggie and Jiggs" contest, exhibiting remarkable skill in the manipulation of a rolling pin with a dummy of a man for a target. Mrs. Ingram placed the rolling pin squarely on the dummy's "dome" twice out of three throws, a feat second only to that of Maggie herself. Persons who interviewed him declared that Mr. Ingham showed no surprise whatever when informed that his wife had won the rolling pin hurling contest.

The "Devil's River Bronco," captained by Paul Perner, emerged untamed in a tug of war with the "Pecos River Mustangs" under the leadership of Pon Seahorn.

Several foot races and other athletic contests were staged and the outing was pronounced a decided success.

CATTLE SALES REPORTED

Massie West Tuesday sold approximately 400 cows and calves at $45 a pair and around 100 yearlings at $25 a head. Ira Carson is also reported to have sold 60 or 70 head of yearling heifers at $25 a head. Both deals were made thru a Sonora commission man.

ROAD PROJECT SHELVED UNTIL IRION BUILDS

C. of C. Declares Effort Would Be Wasted On Stretch

AID NOT EXPECTED

Delay Not For Government Aid But Continuous Good Road

Pending action on the part of Irion County toward surfacing the road through that county connecting Tom Green and Crockett, this county's proposed road building project on the Barnhart-Ozona road will be shelved, it was decided at the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

This action was taken on motion of T. A. Kincaid, who pointed out that it would be more or less wasted effort on the part of Crockett County to build a good road to Barnhart unless Irion County surfaces its road from the Crockett County line to the Tom Green County line.

"It wouldn't do us much good to build a good road from here to Barnhart if we still have to pull the mud two-thirds of the distance to San Angelo," Mr. Kincaid declared. "If Irion County builds a road, and the project that Tom Green County now has under way to build from San Angelo to the Irion County line, is carried out, then it would be time for Crockett County to get busy and build its road to Barnhart, whether state or federal aid is forthcoming or not."

The only way Crockett County can ever hope for aid on this road is through its designation as a state highway, Mr. Kincaid pointed out, and the county can't hope for designation at least in the next two years. The present financial condition of the highway department and the status of political affairs in the state capitol will not be conducive to any further designations at least during the present administration, it was pointed out, and if Crockett County wants a road before that time she must build it herself.

"If you want to pull the mud two more years and wait for a possible designation and state and federal aid, all right," Mr. Kincaid said, "but if we want a road sooner we will have to build it ourselves. And if it were a certainty that we would get the designation and aid at that time I would be heartily in favor of waiting."

A letter from H. L. George, consulting engineer of San Angelo, was read. Mr. George declared that after further consideration of the local problem he had concluded that such an elaborate preliminary survey as that suggested on his recent visit here would not be

ROOMS WANTED FOR VISITORS DURING FAIR

In order to take care of the thousands of visitors who will be here for the three days rodeo and races July 4, 5 and 6, every available room in town must be thrown open to the visitors.

If you have a room that will be available during the celebration, list it NOW with SCOTT PETERS, chairman of the housing committee. You may make whatever charge you think reasonable the committee will not try to fix a price, but the committee wants every room listed so that no visitor will be without a place to stay during the three days. Don't wait until you're asked about your room, call Mr. Peters now and start the list.

THE OZONA STOCKMAN

Published Every Thursday Morning at Ozona, Texas, County Seat of Crockett County by

W. EVART WHITE EDITOR and PUBLISHER

Entered at the Post Office at Ozona, Texas, as Second Class Mail Matter under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

Ozona, Texas, Thursday June 9, 1927

The bond issue proposal to surface the Ozona-Barnhart road has been sidetracked by the Chamber of Commerce pending action on the part of Irion County toward surfacing its road from the Crockett to Tom Green County line. Until Irion County builds its road, Crockett County would not gain a great deal by building its road to Barnhart, it was argued at the Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Ever since the Ozona-Barnhart road building project has been under discussion recently, the point has been made that this road is a necessity for Crockett County people, the connecting link to the railroad and the source of supplies. It was pointed out that when this road is impassable, which it often is, that Ozona people were virtually cut off from the outside world by reason of the closing of its supply artery.

Now, the action of the Chamber of Commerce in shelving the issue it seems to us, was first shelving the erstwhile main talking point in favor of the road. There was no particular urge that a good road be constructed all the way to San Angelo, though that would be fine. Ozona is not dependent on San Angelo, although it is true that most of us go there occasionally. But we are dependent on getting to Barnhart and back for that is our shipping point. We may be just plain dumb, but we fail to see why building a road to Barnhart would be wasted effort because we have no good road all the way to San Angelo.

But whether that action be right or wrong, the fact remains that it has been shelved and the way is now clear for some action on something else. There are still two vital issues before Crockett County people that have never been settled—the proposed new school building and the hospital. These two questions apparently fell in the discard when the road matter came up, and now that that issue has been disposed of, they might again come in for consideration.

Plans have been presented to the committee for an adequate and attractive school building that it is estimated will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000. That committee has held several meetings and has possibly done some things, but not one member who could report on its activities was present Monday night.

Whether or not the $100,000 bluff has had anything to do with "calling off the dogs" on the school building project, we do not know, but whatever the cause, it seems to us it is inadequate in view of the vital need for additional school facilities here. If a $60,000 building will be sufficient to take care of local school needs, we believe it would be an easy matter to put over a bond issue for that amount. And if Crockett County people can be convinced that $100,000 is necessary to erect the kind of building that is necessary we believe that, too, would be approved by the voters at an election. Whatever the amount that is necessary, let's decide it now and get something done.

We've heard it said that Blue Grass is beautiful in Kentucky, but personally we do not admire it so much in West Texas, especially about this time of year. We are speaking of the park again. The Blue Grass was beautiful for about a week early in the spring—but take a look at it now.

Good old Bermuda grass is hard to beat for any purpose. Compare the park with some of the well kept lawns in front of Ozona houses and imagine how much prettier the park would be now if it were sown in Bermuda.

Speaking of beautification, Ozona might employ to profit a plan that has proven very successful in other towns. Vacant lots and public property have been eyesores in many towns simply because owners of vacant lots who did not live near them had no pride in their appearance and the public property went begging because nobody felt the urge to put it in condition.

To take care of this situation, the various organizations in many towns have co-operated in a campaign of beautification with surprising results. The plan is to apportion vacant lots, public parks and buildings among the different organizations. Each organization is responsible for a plot of ground either hiring the work done and paying for it out of the treasury or calling upon its members. Some organizations plant flowers and grass and in some instances have planted flower beds in the shape of the organization insignia.

This plan, we believe, would be successful in Ozona. The Odd Fellows, Masons, Chamber of Commerce, Woman's Club, Eastern Star and the various churches might be induced to take a hand in such a beautification plan. And if these organizations did undertake the work, we are confident of the splendid result.

A GOOD TOWN

We hear the term, "a good town" or "a bad town" on every hand. So and so says this is a dick nailing good little town. What inference do you get from that? To some it would convey the meaning that there was plenty to drink, to others that the general trend of citizenship was a peace-loving God-fearing community.

But did it ever enter your head just what makes a good town? Ozona is the best example we know. Just why is our town any better than, say, one of her neighbors.

In the first place the people of Ozona have always had the bug that is not always found of wanting the best they can get in every thing. They have built nice houses when they could have got along on far worse. They have grouped themselves politically, socially, and to a certain extent geographically. No individual man tries to grandstand himself into notoriety. They have, with a few exceptions, done the thing that was best for the community as a community, and not for, or by, some individual.

Ozona people are progressive. They support what they think is right. A certain business man in town predicted that within five years we wouldn't be such a good town. Glance around your square. Remember the old shacks that once infested it? The old pool room, the old saloon, the old livery stable, the old hotel, the old picture show, the garage, and the old cobbler din? Would you have all that back again, were it in your power? There is in the business section, counting the court house and church, at least a half million dollars invested. Within the radius of four blocks square there is enough invested to build almost every house in town. If there is any pride in your heart for your town, if you want to see it grow bigger and better, don't you think it a wise thing to support those institutions which add so much to its prosperity.

Merchandise in the down town district is worth more than it is anywhere else in town. Rent in the down town district is far higher in consideration of the population than is the rent in San Angelo. One of the best located houses in Angelo pays only $225.00 rent, with a population of 20,000 to draw from. The best located house in Ozona costs $100.00 per month with not over 2,000 population to draw from.

If you are here purely for the money you can grab, if you are one of these tight persons who nation to help build your town, nation to help build your town, looks after Number One first, last and always, if you have no inclination this article is not for you. If on the other hand, you do think you are living in the best place in the little old U. S. A., if you are interested in her welfare, then trade where you are getting a return benefit, Ozona merchants.

THE COLON BACILLUS

This microbe is a good first cousin to the typhoid germ, and, like the latter, is capable of doing harm to its host. The attack of the "coli-B" is more insidious, not necessarily marked by fever or acute pain.

Within the human colon, which is its natural habitat, the colon bacillus may be of certain benefit to its possessor; in fact, all of us carry it about with us. It is when the germ gets into the blood-stream, that it sets up mischief, often of very serious nature. Most every "surgical" gall-bladder is thoroughly stocked with colon bacillus, as found by operators. Many cases of slow, progressive, rebellious arthritis are caused by colonies of coli-B, carried into the joints by the blood-stream.

The colon bacillus generally escapes from the colon through an ulcer of the colon or rectum; hence any patient with hemorrhoids, or bleeding with the bowel evacuations, should have the condition attended to at once, before a more general infection takes place. I have seen kidneys destroyed, and serious bladder troubles set up, where the colon bacillus was the only infecting germ that could be found; and such patients usually had a chronic rectum, endured for a number of years without medical attention.

There is no reason why our people should not be educated in the matter of prevalent disease germs; and, the colon bacillus is always with us. Useful, perhaps, in its proper sphere, but extremely ugly when it finds its way into the joints, gall-bladder, kidney, appendix. Every precaution should be preserved to keep it where it belongs.

In Confidence

Readers desiring a personal reply can address Miss Flo, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Miss Flo:

Among my acquaintances is a woman who has a pretty little flapper daughter of seventeen. The girl is all that is good and wholesome, and is as innocent and full of fun as a kitten. But she bobs her hair, paints her face, rouges her lips, dances, joy-rides, and all in all goes a pace that must prove demoralizing in the end. When I criticize my friend for permitting her daughter to do these things, she just shrugs her shoulders and says, "What can I do about it? All the other girls make up and act like that, and I can't make her different from the others and spoil her fun."

I think she actually encourages her daughter's wildness, because the daughter tells her everything without fear of being scolded. Don't you think the mother is wrong?

-F. R.

The majority of mothers are anything but pleased with the pace their daughters are going—but it isn't easy to bring up the modern young girl with simple, well-bred standards, or by the standards of past generations. Youth will be served! Lock a girl in her room and she will probably climb out of the window. Forbid her to have boys call on her at home, and she will meet them outside. Refuse to let her go to nice club dances and she will slip away to low dance places. Invariably, the wildest and most reckless girls are those with parents who are too strict.

Every intelligent woman knows that it is a mistake for a young girl to make up and wear clothes that attract attention. As a matter of plain common sense and knowledge of the world they know that a young girl handicaps herself by these methods. She takes away her chief charm—her youth and freshness. By plastering her lovely youthful complexion with rouge and powder, the young girl puts herself on a level with the older woman who may need these adjuncts, and when she destroys the greatest advantage she has, how can she compete with the older woman who has the knowledge, experience and poise that the younger girl lacks?

Undoubtedly, all mothers know this—but they must also realize that the young people of today are living in the world of today and will do as they do today. Because a girl bobs her hair, paints her face, rouges her lips, dances and joyrides—because she is young, pleasure-loving and irresponsible, is no reason for prophesying dismal things about her. It is a passing phase of life, and she will get over it if she is given a little time and a little understanding. On the other hand, the power of suggestion is strong, and the results may be disastrous if you make the girl think she is reckless and wild, and bound to come to some bad end.

So the wise mother tries to develop a sense of humor, and cultivate the spirit of youth in her own heart, that she have more tolerance, understanding and sympathy with her daughter's seeming reckless spirit. She makes an effort to become her daughter's confidante, as your friend has done, that she may keep close enough to her to know what she is doing and to keep her sense of proportion from becoming distorted.

Lucky is the mother whose daughter tells her everything without fear of being punished and scolded, for it is the understanding mother who can sympathize with her daughter's desire for good times and help her to get them, who gets well enough acquainted with her daughter to help her and protect her.

WHO'O WHO

Jeanne Beaufort, beautiful daughter of a Virginia tobacco planter, brave and daring, has lost her father and two brothers in the Civil War. She swears to get revenge. At the time she is living with her aunt, Mrs. Wetmore, in the South. Jeanne lays her plans and goes to her Aunt Delier's in Richmond, Va.

Henry Morgan a debonaire young officer, who falls in love with her. She repels his advances. She is engaged as a spy for the Confederate government and urged to use all the wiles and power of her sex to find one

Parson Kennedy and bring him within the Southern lines. It is planned to have her make headquarters with a family of southern sympathy in Washington. Jeanne learns telegraphy and other technical branches of her new calling. And clad as a boy often in the Blue of the North, she makes her way through the lines. She learns of an organization of eleven Union spies and of their meeting place in a Richmond loft. As she overhears the leaders address the masked men seated about a table Jeanne is discovered and dragged into the room. The leader unmasks as he threatens her with death, but is dissuaded from shooting her by the suggestion from one of the men that one of their number marry her. She consents and when one of the masked men volunteers to marry she refuses and claims the right to choose.

She rejects the volunteer and selects the one who suggested the marriage. Him she names "Irony." To her surprise the leader is no other than Parson John Kennedy.

He performs the ceremony. "Irony" says his name is among those who sign as witnesses, (just before leaving her bound), in the following code form:

- John Kennedy, D. D.
- C-WG-L H-RD-M
- A-NK-S P-PA-G
- G-RD-A J-NK-F
- J-WG-A F-BN-S
- F-WG-S W-BE-H

Later Jeanne learns that Morgan is a spy.

CHAPTER VII

The officers filed out gravely, the General's son among them. All those carefully laid plans gone like a puff of smoke! All that certain in the minds of them all that nothing on God's earth could prevent a firing squad at sunrise.

Captain Armitage entered his tent calmly enough; but once there he fell to pacing. By and by he snuffed the candle.

The spy lay quietly, wasting no effort at the bonds, tied none too gently. The guard paced back and forth and occasionally paused to glance inside the tent. Hour after hour went past.

At midnight the spy heard a rather unusual sound at the rear of the tent. It was a whispering sound, as of one crawling over grass.

Presently a strange hand worked at the ropes.

There came a faint whisper: "When you hear me talking to the guard, slip out at the rear. Make straight for the river. The way is fairly clear."

The whisperer felt his hand be caught by two small ones. He drew it back quickly, for the kiss had the feel of hot lead.

A little later a shot was heard along the river bank. Two more shots followed hurriedly at the tent of General Armitage, where a light still burned.

"I have to report, sir, that the spy has escaped!"

At about midnight Captain Armitage had stopped to question him. Just before that he had looked in the tent and the spy was still there. When General Armitage returned to his tent, he found his son.

"Ah, John," said the father violently all these plans gone to pot in a night! Damnation! Spies outside and traitors within! In God's name, how can we end the war when such things exist?"

"I am the traitor, Father," said the son quietly.

"What's that?" The General leaned across the table, his mouth open like a fish at their widest.

"I freed the spy."

"You, my son?"

"Yes. But before you give any orders, Father—"

"Say, sir!" came quickly through the lips of the man opposite.

"Before you give any orders, sir, I want you to hear the rights of it such as they are."

"Rights? Did you give the spy his information, too?"

"No, sir." When the spy said to search him after he was dead, did not the strangeness of that request strike you, sir? It was a woman."

"A woman!" The General stepped back. "You say a woman?"

"Yes, sir, a woman. And if you will permit me to explain, sir, the explanation will be short."

"There was no intrigue, such as would be your natural assumption. This is why I released her."

And briefly the son recounted what had taken place on a certain night in Richmond. "Sir, I was one of those men and she was the woman." "Go to your tent and consider yourself under arrest. You're no son of mine henceforth."

When Jeanne Beaufort climbed ashore she knew now and understood he had saved her, not as Alice Trent but as the Jeanne Beaufort who had faced alone the anger of eleven men.

He was the man who had stepped out that night and offered to marry her to save her life. She knew that she loved!

Five days later Jeanne was serving tea in a drawing-room in Washington. Every time the bell rang her heart leaped wildly. She feared to see Armitage; yet inconsistently she longed to see him. She craved to know if he would recognize in "Alice Trent" the woman of the loft, the cabin and the tent.

One day he appeared in mufti with an officer unknown to her, a Lieutenant Lowell. Shrewdly she watched Armitage, and her covert scrutiny finally convinced her that he harbored not the slightest suspicion that "Alice Trent" and the woman he had saved were one and the same. They were at war, he on one side and she on the other. God was a just God, but nevertheless, He had His playful ironies. She loved a Yankee!

When Armitage and his friend left the house they walked along in silence for a while.

"Well?" said Armitage finally.

"She is all you say, John, and more. But if I possessed your turn of mind, I'd fight shy of her."

"That's my intention. What would you have done in my place?"

"Where?"

"Jeanne Beaufort."

"Oh. Since you ask, I'd have got up with the firing squad. It's a devil of a mess you've got yourself in. Here you are, guilty of a treasonable act, meriting court-martial and long imprisonment. Your dad has disowned you. And who could blame him? You are at liberty to-day because the whole organization stood back of you. You are on probation; so mind how you walk. You'll never convince those who don't know that you didn't have an intrigue with that woman. Your father turned you over to the Government—a pretty brave thing to do. Have you beer, to see Kennedy yet?"

"No, I suppose I ought to."

"Go to his rooms now. Tell him you thank him. Without his aid you would have faced court-martial. He's not always clear in the upper-story; for he's had a tough time of it, and it left its mark."

"All right. I'll go over and have a talk with him."

Kennedy did not seem to be particularly glad to see Armitage.

"Son, there's only one real question I'm going to ask you," he said. "Did you know this Jeanne Beaufort that night in Richmond? Had you ever met her before?"

"Good Lord, no."

"Well, for a while you will be under my orders. Watch that rascal Morgan; follow every woman he speaks to. In other words, find this woman you let go; find Jeanne Beaufort."

The old plantation home of the Beauforts was like the run of its kind. The kitchen was under a single story. The shelving roof ran up to the windows of the wing, to the spare bedrooms. Upon the shelves lay the figure of a man, and from the corner of his eye he watched the nearest bivouac-fire. By and by taps sounded, and the man entered the garret and dropped to sleep.

Jeanne had returned home to find that her father's regiment, with others, was quartered at the plantation for the severer months. She was delighted. It put wings to depressing thoughts; it gave her physical as well as mental occupation.

It was like old times to see these bright-faced young officers about with their courtly airs which the Northerners lacked.

To-night she sat at the piano. The younger officers were gathered about her. The older members of the staff sat about the table talking in subdued tones. They too, had insisted that she play and sing while they pattered ever maps which were growing smaller.

The entrance of an orderer interrupted the song.

"Sir, I have to report that Sentry Jennings found these shoes at the end of his beat. They were warm when he found them, sir."

Instantly Jeanne and her admirers gathered about the table. A General took up a shoe and looked it over carefully.

"Made by the Yankee government was his comment.

"Army shoes," said Jeanne. "More than that, they are officer's shoes."

All except the general looked at her in wonder.

"You are right, Miss Beaufort," said he coming to her rescue. "It signifies that we have an unwelcome visitor hereabouts. The next thing is to find him. Mann, will you see the proper orders are given to prevent this Yankee from getting out of our lines."

"Yes, sir!" The young officer ran from the house.

The General put the shoes upon the table and rose. The rest of the staff rose with him.

Presently, Jeanne was alone. With her arms folded across her bosom, she met her gaze upon the shoes, mute witnesses of a business she knew only too well. Some where in the camp there was a man in stocking feet.

They were stout shoes, but at the same time they were small and shapely. The muck, which was still damp upon them, made manifest that the owner had come across the river below the plantation; for at the north of the camp the soil was firm and rocky.

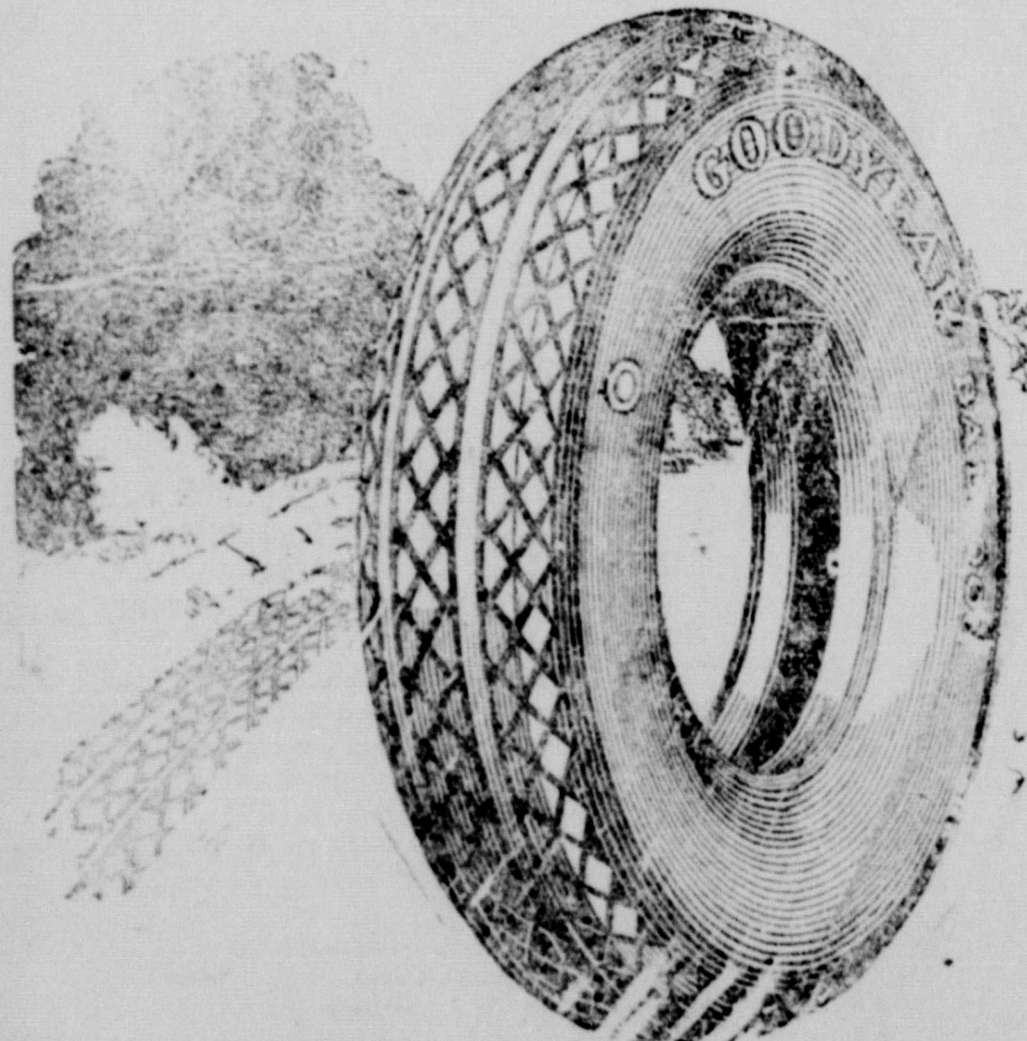

From the South! What did that mean? A slight shiver wrinkled her spine. There was ever that fear in her heart that some day she would meet one man in the pursuit of his duty. What would happen when that dreaded moment came?

He was in his stocking feet. A man did not wander around camp in that fashion. He was somewhere within the house! This knowledge came as a shock.

A Yankee spy, an officer was hiding under her roof! Her first impulse was to seek the General and disclose to him her discovery. Then the old weariness and distaste bore down upon her.

Lately she had executed her missions loyally, with the same care and shrewdness as heretofore; but the passions hate was gone. A Yankee was still a human being.

SERVICE

It's one thing to buy goods at wholesale, sell them at retail and pocket the profit, and another to throw in a liberal portion of service in the deal.

We could have made out with our small store, but we could carry a larger variety of merchandise and display it more conveniently for customers in larger quarters, consequently we spent several hundred dollars enlarging our store in order to improve our service.

We were getting along fine with our small oven, but we can give better service with a larger one. Therefore, we are spending several hundred more in installing the very latest improved type of bakery oven, several times larger than the old one.

We can make more money on retail goods than on wholesale, but many Crockett County ranchers prefer to buy wholesale, therefore, we installed a stock of wholesale groceries, thus affording considerable saving to our customers who are in position to handle groceries in wholesale lots.

We might send our customers elsewhere to get their feedstuffs, but we can better serve them by handling it in our own warehouse. We might send our gasoline customers to other places to get air and water, but instead we furnish this free service here.

We might have let Ozona continue to get along with out a tourist camp, but we are now spending several hundred dollars more in building a modern camp house.

Fulmer In Charge Sunday School At Frio Encampment

The Alto Frio Baptist Encampment opens June 24 and closes July 3. The encampment is held at the grounds one mile south of Leakey in the Frio Canyon in Real County. The site is one of the most beautiful in the country. Over a quarter mile of river front on the beautiful Frio river and plenty of shade. Every camping convenience will be provided. Tents, cots, and board will be furnished at a very reasonable fee. For those who wish to do their own cooking, a market and grocery with all kinds of meats and vegetables will be on the grounds. Fishing, boating and swimming, as well as games of all sorts will furnish plenty of enjoyment to all who attend. All sports will be under the supervision of qualified directors and every safeguard provided against accident.

The program for this year is as good as the best. Dr. I. E. Gates of San Antonio will speak every night while Dr. Powell of San Marcos will speak in the mornings. Class work in Sunday School and BYPU courses will be offered each morning from 8:45 to 10:00 for those wishing to take them. Competent teachers have been secured and the work will prove interesting and a blessing to all who take it. At other periods in the day there will be devotional passages, and open forum assemblies. Dr. E. P. Kennedy of Uvalde is president of the encampment and will be pleased to answer questions or furnish information regarding it. Rev. M. M. Fulmer of Ozona will be in charge of the Sunday School and will be pleased to acquaint people with the encampment and help them make their plans. The encampment invites everybody, and a good delegation ought to accompany Bro. and Mrs. Fulmer.

Things You Should Know

By John Joseph Gaines, M. D.

MISLEADING

The day is gone when such terms as "stomach trouble," "liver troubles," "female complaint," "heart disease" and such like, convey intelligent meaning; and yet, many people, when told by the quack that they have liver trouble, or "dropsy," or "neuralgia," are apparently satisfied with the diagnosis. Such statements mean nothing more than to unskillfully point to the location of an unknown pathological condition. It is quite likely that the impostor and ignoramus who pronounces it colon trouble knows absolutely nothing of the real condition which he pretends to treat.

Even intelligent newspapers today report that certain citizens died of "Heart trouble" or "Heart Disease." And this, when there are, roughly speaking, over two dozen easily recognized diseases of the heart and its appendages!

It is against ignorance and cupidity that the honest physician struggles, often too vainly. In years ago, "dropsy" was said to be an incurable disease. Now we know it is only a symptom of disease of some other organ, curable or incurable. Neuralgia is not a disease at all—it is literally pain in a nerve, and may be due to a number of causes; and upon the removability of the cause, depends the cure of the disease.

How the quacks love to print the cure of Mrs. Jinks' "Female trouble!" They even furnish her newspaper portrait, so eager are they to aid suffering humanity. It is amazing that some people are so unsophisticated that they read and believe such stuff! The afflicted female probably needed only a stout purge—even if such a personage ever existed; and if she did, she was probably well paid in cash for the "testimonial."

necessary until after the bond issue had been voted. He declared that a survey that could be completed in a week or ten days would be sufficient and much less expensive.

Letha Ezma Ferguson, 18, of Wayne, W. Va., claims the national title with a school record of 12 years and 9 days without ever being absent or tardy. She graduates this Spring. This is the best record to date. Is there a boy or girl in this territory with a better record?

Why Fret and Fume With PUNCTURES?

Lee Puncture Proof Balloons Will Eliminate That Trouble

We have received a new stock of 30x77 size Lee Puncture Proof balloons for Buicks and other big cars. We have carried the 29x4:40 size Lee tire for a long time but it is just recently that owners of larger cars have had an opportunity to use them.

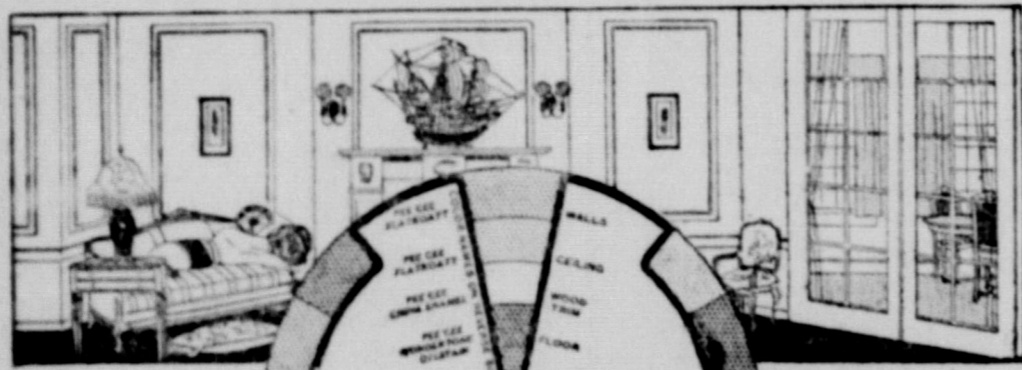

Lee Puncture Proof tires are all the name implies—they are positively puncture proof. Five layers of steel discs are vulcanized into the rubber, making it almost impossible to puncture them, even with a hammer and nail.

We also have this remarkable tire in 31x5:25 and 29x4:40 sizes.

Pee Gee China Enamel
With shimmering effect. For use on doors, windows, trim, and all interior or exterior woodwork. It gives a smooth, hard, brilliant finish that does not yellow with age. Also made in various tints and eggshell finish.

To help you Select the Color

YOU want your home to reflect that feeling of "hominess." Harmonious colors will help do that.

There are a number of color groups that you can choose from on a Pee Gee Color Selector (which we will give you) which will quickly give you the desired effect.

The necessary Pee Gee Paints to carry out any one of these delightful color harmonies are available.

Never sacrifice paint quality for a temporary saving. No better paint is made than that bearing the Pee Gee label and the price is no higher than ordinary grades are sold for.

Supposing--

The laws of olden days were still in force when men were thrown into prison for not paying their debts.

Debts as a general rule are unnecessary, and can be avoided by depriving yourself of the things you do not actually need, and MAINLY by setting aside a little money regularly.
