THE CHURCH ON TOP.
TUBERCULOSIS AND CANCER.
WHO WILL RIDE?
WHEN OLD AND POOR.

Man builds the house for God to dwell therein was the old idea. The modern idea is a combination skyscraper church, stores, offices, apartments, swimming pools, gymnasium. New York's Manhattan Congregational Church will spend $2,000,000 on such a building, twenty-three stories high. The clergymen will live on the ground floor.

A Frenchman, Doctor Calmette, has developed an anti-tuberculosis vaccine, so successful that its use for all children is suggested.

There is no injection of tuberculosis germs. The vaccine merely "suggests" the disease, and rouses to activity the anti-tubercular bacilli in the body. The new remedy, called "BCG," was tried on monkeys and other animals for thirteen years in the Pasteur Institute before experiments were made on humans. "BCG" is said to reduce consumption in twenty-five cases out of twenty-six.

The famous American doctor, William J. Mayo, believes that science will find a way to immunize against cancer. A woman, Doctor Mand Sive, of Chicago, has bred mice in which cancer can be induced. She developed, and other mice invariably born with cancer.

When consumption and cancer are conquered, as they will be, men will be rid of their most deadly microscopic enemies. They already know how to deal with the deadly plagues from Asia, one of which, "the black death," wiped out nearly half the population of Europe.

Commercial flying, including ocean flights, may become a reality soon. Commander Byrd was besieged by would-be passengers willing to pay "any price" if he would take them to Europe. Young Lindbergh casually flew from St. Louis on a little trip to New York via Washington.

Bellanca, the Italian genius, builder of the Chamberlain-Levine airplane, is building airships for a commercial air line between Chicago and New York. Five ships are ordered, guaranteed to make the trip in seven and a half hours. Each car will carry twelve passengers, have three engines, and cost $28,500.

When you ask yourself, "Who will ride in them," remember that when the French built the railroad from Paris to Versailles, actors and actresses were hired to sit in the train looking out of the windows, smiling as though they enjoyed it. And when the first elevator with a steel column under it was installed in the Grand Hotel in Paris, about sixty years ago, old French ladies and gentlemen continued to walk up stairs to the fifth floor.

The world is a sad place for the old and poor, and children are cruel.

Long years ago, Anna Novke sang before the Emperor Franz Joseph in Vienna. Now, seventy-seven years old, she is ejected from her one room dwelling, "not so much because she doesn't pay her rent, but because she had twenty cats in the room with her."

Bent, old and gray, she stood on the sidewalk with her twenty forlorn cats, and children that call her "old witch" threw stones at her. A year ago as she hurried along the street to work they tripped her and broke her shoulder. She had been earning $1.00 a day doing fine embroidery. Cold charity will take care of her somehow—or at least see that the cats do not starve.

If past forty please read. The head of the American College of Surgeons says: "After forty comes the dangerous age."

Five great dangers that threaten you are kidney trouble, heart disease, tuberculosis, Bright's disease and paralysis.

It is possible, but fortunately, unusual, to have all of them. Also with a little thought and common sense you may avoid all of them, or get rid of them if they haven't gone too far.

KINCAID SAID TO BE SLATED FOR 3RD TERM

Ozona Man May Be Offered Sheep & Goat Presidency Again

Staff Correspondent

KERRVILLE, Texas, July 21—A strong possibility that T. A. Kincaid of Ozona would be offered the presidency of the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association of Texas for a third term was indicated here today as the twelfth annual convention of the Association swung into its third and closing day's program.

President Kincaid's faithful service and untiring efforts in the interests of the association membership were being discussed by members here for the convention and sentiment seemed to be generally in favor of offering Mr. Kincaid a third term as head of the association. Other presidential possibilities being mentioned, however, were Judge J. A. Whitten of Eldorado, member of the Livestock Sanitary Board and executive committee, Bob Davis of Uvalde, Roy Aldwell of Sonora, C. C. Belcher of Del Rio, Roy Hudspeeth of Del Rio and H. W. Rieck of Roosevelt.

San Angelo is presenting the strongest bid for the 1928 convention and indications are that that city will be selected as the next meeting place. Invitations have been received from Amarillo, El Paso, Austin and other cities. Election of officers and selection of the next meeting place will not be disposed of until the closing hour Thursday afternoon.

Prices offered at the sheep and goat sales held in connection with the convention were the highest in years, with spirited bidding. Approximately 1200 bucks were on the sale list and were being sold under the hammer wielded by Dwight Lincoln of Marysville, Ohio, auctioneer.

The top price of the first two days was $1200 paid by J. L. Clark of Menard for a registered Delaware ram owned by A. C. Gamber of Utah. The opening day's top was $1,075 paid by O. W. Cardwell of Telegraph for a billy owned by G. A. Pepper of San Antonio.

Opening bidding Tuesday was the highest in years. Vic Pierce of Ozona paid $375 for a Bullard buck only to be topped a moment later by Ed Downie of Sanderson who paid $530 for a buck also from Bullard. Otto Holley of Austin paid $625 for a buck owned by W. S. Hansen and a similar price was paid shortly afterwards for a Delaine.

The report of Secretary N. W. Graham of Ozona showed that $14,704.19 had been collected since last year's convention at Del Rio and that the association now has $4,837.82 on hand. Approximately $5000 had been collected during the first two days of the convention and more than 100 new members added to the association's roster.

The ever growing importance of the sheep and goat raising industry in Texas was stressed by a number of speakers at the convention sessions Tuesday and Wednesday. Among the speakers was Governor Dan Moody, who with a party of friends motored from Austin early Tuesday morning in time to address the convention.

Other prominent speakers at the opening day sessions were President Kincaid, F. J. Hagenbarth of Salt Lake City, president of the National Wool Growers Association, former Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, T. O. Walton, president of the Texas A & M College, J. J. Wardlaw, Del Rio, rancher; J. M. Jones of the A & M College; A. C. Gage, Portland Oregon, editor of the Angora Journal; and

Illinois Co. To Lay Pipe Line

Connect Yates Field With Tank Farm At Del Rio

Representatives of the Illinois Pipe Line Company were in Ozona this week perfecting final arrangements for right-of-way with Crockett County owners of lands across which the company's pipeline from the Yates oil field in Pecos County to Del Rio will run.

The new pipeline will be approximately 140 miles long and will lead to a large tank farm to be erected near Del Rio on the South Pacific lines. The Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas Co. has purchased 472 acres of land east of Del Rio for the location of 25 large oil storage tanks. The Southern Pacific lines will construct an 800 foot switch to the tank farm.

Work on the storage tanks will begin immediately and will be finished by the time the pipe line reaches Del Rio. Actual pumping of oil is expected to begin in November.

The pipe line will cross Crockett County on the west side and will add considerably to next year's tax valuations. An 8-inch pipe will be laid the entire distance, officials of the company declare.

A big pump station is to be erected near the ranch home of Ben Ingham. At that point point a 500 foot lift will be necessary to carry the oil over a mountain. The company will have six miles of line through Mr. Ingham's land. Twelve miles of the line has already been laid.

The pipe line enters Crockett County at the Pecos River bridge west of Ingham and enters Val Verde County through T. A. Kincaid's ranch in the southern part of the county.

A high-voltage electric power line will be strung the entire distance of the pipe line, the West Texas Utilities Company contracting to begin work on the line within the next thirty days.

NOTICE

Those knowing themselves indebted to Dr. G. L. Coates please call and settle as soon as possible. The fire Saturday night wiped out an accumulation of 30 years and the money is badly needed.

H. J. Butts of Chicago, representative of Swift and Co.

The convention got under way officially at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The address of welcome on behalf of Kerrville was extended by W. C. Baker and for the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce by C. L. Mason, its president. The response was made by J. A. Whitten of Eldorado and Coke Stevenson of Junction.

Among speakers on the second day's program were C. C. Belcher of Del Rio, W. C. Blanks of San Angelo, Capt. H. W. Rieck of Roosevelt, J. A. Whitten of Eldorado, Senator E. F. Berkeley of Alpine, Walter Humphreys, secretary National Wool Manufacturers Association, Mrs. R. R. Russell of San Antonio in behalf of the Trail Drivers monument and Dayton Moses, attorney for the Cattle Raisers Association.

One of the largest crowds ever to assemble in Kerrville is on hand for the three days convention, the number of visitors being estimated at around 5,000. Among the notables here besides those already mentioned are Former Governor W. P. Hobby of Houston, Alvin Owsley of Denton, Richard Kleberg, president of the Cattle Raisers Association, and others. Congressman Claude B. Hudspeeth had announced his intention of being present but was taken suddenly ill just before time for his departure for Texas and was taken to a Baltimore hospital where it is understood he will undergo an operation for a stomach disorder.

Convention headquarters are being maintained at the Bluebonnet Hotel, Kerrville's newest and

$7000 LOSS IN BURNING OF COATES HOME

30 Years Accumulation of Valuables Lost By Dr. and Mrs. Coates

HOME WORTH $4000

Insured For $3,000; Dr. Coates Carried No Insurance

Total losses amounting to between $6,500 and $7,000 were suffered by Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Coates and Mrs. Bryan McDonald of Canyon in the destruction by fire Saturday night of the home occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Coates and owned by Mrs. McDonald.

Mrs. McDonald carried $3,000 insurance on the house, which was valued at $4,000, while Dr. Coates carried no insurance on the household goods. He estimated his loss at between $2,500 and $3,000.

A 30 years collection of household goods and personal valuables some of them almost priceless, was wiped out in less than an hour by the blaze. Dr. Coates' medical library, valued at several hundred dollars, all of their clothing and personal belongings, valuable jewelry that had been in the family for years, cut glass and solid silverware worth hundreds of dollars and a collection of Indian basket weave, one chair worth $175, besides other valuable household effects were among the articles lost by Dr. and Mrs. Coates.

The fire is believed to have started from defective wiring. It was discovered around 10 o'clock by Dr. J. A. Fussell. Dr. and Mrs. Fussell were sitting in their front yard across the street from the Coates home when they noticed a light from the fire in the house. When Dr. Fussell went inside the home he found the fire just breaking through the ceiling, indicating that it had started between the ceiling and roof. After spreading the alarm, Dr. Fussell returned but the flames had engulfed the entire house and it burned to the ground in less than an hour.

Dr. and Mrs. Coates had been away from the house about an hour visiting Mrs. W. F. Coates. They had had no fire in the house since noon and none in the coal range since the day before.

They have secured rooms for the present from Mrs. George Metcalf and have not announced their plans for the future.

Building Tees At Golf Course

6 x 8 Feet Stands Ars Ready To Be Filled With Dirt

Tee stands, 6x8 feet in dimension, have been constructed and placed on the nine holes at the Ozona Golf Course and are now being filled with dirt. Golfers who have been playing over the course have been handicapped from the absence of tees and when these are completed in the next few days intends to lower some records of the course.

The Ozona course is becoming more popular every day and every afternoon finds a dozen or more players making the rounds. The fairways are being smoothed out considerably and play is becoming more interesting. Sand and water boxes at the tees and flags on the green will be added as the club's financial condition improves and then Ozona will have as good a golf course as is to be found in this section.

Reports from the bedside of F. E. Piner this week indicate that he is still improving. Mr. Piner is in a San Angelo hospital where he underwent an operation to remove his foot after part of the member was shot away by the accidental discharge of a shotgun.

EIGHT CASES TYPHOID FEVER AMONG MEXICANS ONE DIES FROM DISEASE

Eight cases of typhoid fever have been reported among Mexicans residing in "Little Mexico," and one death has resulted from the disease, according to announcement by Dr. G. L. Coates.

Santana Gutierrez, 27, died July 13 in San Angelo following an attack of the disease. He had been suffering with the fever for nearly two weeks before he was finally confined to his bed, Dr. Coates said, and his death resulted from peritonitis caused by a perforation. One of the remaining seven cases is convalescent and the other six are still in the dangerous stages, the physician declared.

With flies as numerous as they are at present, there is great danger of further spread of the disease not only among other Mexicans but among the white people of the town, according to Dr. Coates. Ninety-five per cent of typhoid cases are carried by flies, he said, and where precautions are not taken for the disposal of waste matter from typhoid cases, there is great danger of an epidemic.

With numerous breeding places for flies left neglected, the pests are more numerous in Ozona at present than they have been in many years. Every effort is being made to induce families of Mexicans who are suffering from the disease to take precautions against spread of the malady, but without the proper authority no headway can be made in this respect, it was pointed out.

Monroe Baggett, county commissioner, who returned to the city the last of the week from a visit to Lampasas, made an investigation of the situation and after conferring with Dr. Coates instructed the latter to take whatever step he thought necessary to prevent further spread of the disease.

"Most of the cases of typhoid in Mexico at present constitute a greater menace because of neglect," Dr. Coates declared. "Unless something is done toward isolating the patients and putting them under proper care, most of them are going to die."

"The conditions, too, under which the patients are being cared for make the danger of spreading the disease among others of the race, and also among the white people, much greater. For instance in one family there is a patient suffering from typhoid. The family lives in a one-room shack with a dirt floor and they all eat, sleep and live there in the same room with the patient. Others are about as bad. If a spread of the disease is to be prevented under these conditions, drastic measures must be employed."

In preparation for a possible spread of the disease, Dr. Coates has secured twelve immunization serum treatments. Immunizing against typhoid has proven very successful and with such treatment available, there is no need for an epidemic to get started, he said.

Dr. Coates told county officials that the conditions should be reported to the state health department immediately in order that that department might send a representative here to take over further prevention measures. Dr. Coates has never been appointed county health officer and therefore has no authority to act in the matter, it was pointed out, that matter being up to county officials.

"The fly is the greatest menace under this condition," Dr. Coates said. "About the only way Ozona people could get the disease would be through the fly acting as a carrier. There are numerous breeding places for flies in the town that should receive attention. There is no excuse whatever for there being a single fly in Ozona. If the breeding places were destroyed that would be the end of the matter. I would suggest that a campaign against flies be waged along with other preventive measures."

Joe Cardwell is in a San Angelo hospital suffering from a carbuncle on his neck.

TYPHOID MENACE GROWS

Later reports, just before going to press Thursday morning, indicated a total of 21 cases of typhoid fever in "Mexico." Efforts are being made to bring Mexican Blue Cross nurses here to help take care of the situation.

General Rains Over Great Part Of West Texas Helps Ranges

A slow rain which continued through most of Thursday night of last week soaked the greater part of West Texas, relieving one of the hottest spells of the summer and bringing joy to the hearts of ranchmen whose ranges had become brown and bare in spots.

The rain at Ozona amounted to more than an inch of moisture. It was declared one of the most general rains of the year, extending over practically all of West Texas. It was heavier to the north and south of Ozona but heavy downpours were also reported to the east and west.

Upright, respected, married, a hard worker, a good job and, with life holding out promises of a happy and peaceful existence, Edison Forbes closed the book over which he had been laboring. Carefully arranging all records on the desk, he turned, put on hat and coat, switched off the lights stepped through the door, locked the door, dropped the key in his pocket and faced about—into the cool spring evening—for home.

Fate stalked him. An automobile turned the corner at a low rate of speed at its wheel a friend—a fellow townsman. Greetings exchanged; the car pulled up to the curb—and Edison Forbes stepped to its side.

It was the last care free hour of either of the young men for months to come. They did not know that the chance meeting was Fate sealing a tragedy—and heart aches.

Within three short hours—the grim hand of destiny had placed them as pawns upon a chess board—and the story of "Cedar Swamp" was begun. Don't miss this interesting serial—complete in twelve chapters—from the pen of Michael J. Phillips. It starts this week in The Ozona Stockman.

And you will then read "Cedar Swamp" every week.

Published Every Thursday Morning at Ozona, Texas, County Seat of Crockett County by

W. EVART WHITE EDITOR and PUBLISHER Entered at the Post Office at Ozona, Texas, as Second Class Mail Matter under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

Ozona, Texas, Thursday July 21, 1927.

One of the strongest arguments in favor of incorporation of the town of Ozona that has come to light in many months has presented itself in the unfortunate outbreak of typhoid fever among local Mexicans.

With one death to date and seven other cases reported, the situation is grave to say the least, especially with no ready authority to step in and take the matter in hand and prevent further spread.

Typhoid fever is recognized as one of the most dangerous diseases. Although perhaps not so readily communicable as smallpox, it is nevertheless fully as dangerous, and where the proper precautions are not taken can spread as rapidly. Whereas smallpox can be communicated from the clothing or anything that has come in contact with or near the patient, typhoid is spread through contamination of food or water from flies or otherwise.

People have come to recognize smallpox as a highly communicable disease and consequently take precautions against it. But they are not so well informed about typhoid in many instances and therefore do not take it so seriously as they do smallpox.

For lack of regulation, the outbreak of typhoid in Mexico presents a serious situation for Ozona people. There is no sanitary organization to see to it that families where the disease is present do not throw waste from the sick room in the open where it is accessible to flies. There is no method of isolating the patients and putting them under proper supervision and care. Crockett County, the richest per capita county in the whole state of Texas, does not even have an officially appointed county health officer whose duties as such would authorize him to take hold of such a situation and work it out for the best interests of the community. It does not have a health officer whose duty it would be to report the local situation to the state health department so that that department would send a representative here to take charge of the case.

Had the incorporation movement been approved at the last election the situation which led to the outbreak of typhoid would probably never have arisen. The health officer and sanitary department of the town or city have clearly defined duties and it is their duty to see to it that the health of the residents is protected. In the present situation, for instance, a little organized effort would rid this town entirely of flies. If there were some constituted authority to enforce a modern health code, there would be none of the flagrant fly-breeding places to be found here now.

The only argument that has ever been advanced against incorporation is that it would make taxes higher. Wouldn't it be worth 25 cents on the $100 right now to know that you and your family is safe from typhoid fever? Wouldn't it be worth the price that it would cost for the entire city government to know that sanitary conditions in the town are being watched day in and day out and that men who make that their business are on the job constantly see ing to it that this is made a better and healthier town in which to live? Sanitary regulation is only one of the benefits that a nominal city tax will buy.

And another thing—

The misfortune which befell Dr. G. L. Coates Saturday night in the destruction of his home by fire might as well not have occurred. Of course, there has been no method devised in any city or town for absolute fire protection, but some of them have carried fire prevention to such a point that loss from this source is kept at a minimum.

In the case of Saturday night's blaze, it is doubtful if the property could have been saved had there been sufficient water and fire fighting machinery, but one thing is certain, that some of the loss could have been avoided. For instance, the fire was discovered in time that with efficient fire fighting equipment, the blaze could have been kept back sufficiently to allow the rescue of some of the household furnishings. Also the garage and outhouses could have been saved and damage to electric light and telephone poles prevented.

These are comparatively small items, to be sure, but in the example the fire had gained too much headway before it was discovered to have saved much. But had it been discovered thirty minutes sooner, the result would likely have been about the same, possibly a little of the household furnishings might have been saved.

The fire wagon was powerless to help because there are no fire hydrants in that neighborhood. Adequate fire protection could be provided in Ozona with a municipal organization to get behind the project, and the cost would not be felt by the taxpayers. Also we venture the statement that the amount saved through a lower insurance key rate, which would be granted on the strength of adequate fire protection, would more than pay for the equipment over a period of a few years.

This subject of fires is close to the hearts of Ozona people. A little investigation into the advantages which incorporated towns enjoy in the matter of fire protection would go far toward making up their minds that Ozona has rocked along long enough without taking her place beside the other progressive towns of the state.

D. 1927, the same being the 24th day of October A. D. 1927, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 23rd day of July A. D. 1927, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 419, wherein Noelke & Murphey, a firm composed of W M Noelke and T J Murphey are Plaintiffs and James G. Atwood and Jennie D. Atwood and the unknown heirs of James G. Atwood are Defendants, and a brief statement of plaintiff's cause of action, being as follows:

Trespass to try title and for damages, plaintiff alleging that on or about the first day of January, 1927, they were lawfully seized and possessed of the following land situated in Crockett County, Texas, to-wit: Survey 9, Block PP, Certificate 2220, T. C. Ry. Co. lands, containing 614.2 acres, holding and claiming the same in fee simple title, but that at such time the defendant unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected them therefrom and unlawfully withholds from them the possession thereof, to their damage in the sum of $10,000.00.

That the annual reasonable rental value of said lands and premises for all purposes is $10,000.00 and that they and those under whom they hold title have had continuous peaceable and adverse possession of said lands, cultivating, using and enjoying the same without any adverse claim having been made thereto, continuously for more than ten years next preceding the filing of this suit, such possession, use and claim being prescribed for the acquisition of title under Texas ten year statute of limitation, and that they have met all the requirements of such statutes and thereby perfected their title to said lands.

Not only so, but in this relation they show further that they have acquired title to said land under five years and three years statute of limitation prescribed by the Texas laws.

Wherefore they pray that the defendants be cited to appear and answer and that they have judgment for the title and possession of the said above described lands, for writ of restitution, for rents, damages, costs of suit and general and equitable relief.

Herein Fail Not but have before said Court, at its next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Ozona, Texas, On this the 24th day of June A. D. 1927.

About your Health
Things You Should Know

Hot Weather Hints

Assuming that there will be some hot weather this summer, it behooves the "lads" as well as the "ladies" to get all the comfort out of it that is possible. Perspiration, a most valuable process, should not be arrested, but its discomforts should be dealt with intelligently, if it becomes disagreeable.

Light, airy clothing is indispensable; it permits free access of air to the person, which is effectual in carrying away excess moisture. Some people have sweat-glands that are excessively active, especially the fat bodies with nervous temperaments—these may attempt to limit skin-drainage, by maintaining more free action of bowels and kidneys. It is not always advisable to cut down water-drinking in hot weather, unless it be the intake of ice-water, which for many reasons is not good for the human system. Neither should plenty of exercise be neglected; exercise and plenty of good, cool water, are among the best conservers of health.

If your perspiration has a very offensive odor, your elimination by bowels and kidneys is insufficient; lessen your dietary of animal and saccharine foods.

Locally, bathing, especially the cool shower is tonic; the coarse dry towel is a faithful ally. Many powders are used for dusting remote surfaces, know the quality of the stuff you buy. If the skin presents a "greasy" surface, the stearate of zinc is excellent—may be used freely without danger of poisoning in any way. The only precaution to be observed, never dust baby so that he inhales the powder—and this applies to any dusting-powder on the market. The stearate of zinc is a good face-powder after shaving, especially if the cuticle is oily in appearance. Borated powders are very useful on irritable skin, and, entirely harmless. No dusting compound should contain lead.

fire Saturday night causing a loss of between $2,500 and $3,000 to them and around $4,000 to Mrs. Bryan McDonald of Canyon, owner of the house, will be given Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Victor Pierce by Mrs. Pierce and Mrs. Harvick.

EPWORTH LEAGUE ASSEMBLY AT KERRVILLE

The Annual Recreational and Inspirational Gathering of Epworth Leaguers for the entire region west of the Colorado River in Texas will be held at the Methodist Kerrville Assembly Grounds near Kerrville. The grounds rise from the banks of the Gaudaloupe river to the top of Mount Walberry, one of the highest points of the Kerrville Hill country. The large Cafeteria serves excellent meals, and the dormitories and cottages, with showers and modern conveniences are well adapted to care for all the needs and comforts of the young people. Trained leaders will have charge of all the activities lasting from Wednesday, August 3 to Wednesday August 10.

Dr. Mumaw, former missionary to the Belgian Congo, and Dr. J. D. F. Williams, field secretary of the Central Texas Conference Epworth Leaguers, will be among these. The general oversight of the Assembly will be in charge of the League's Conference organization, heading up in Rev. Z. V. Liles, Dean of the Assembly. Rev. Liles is presiding Elder of the San Marcos District.

Already eight of the young ladies of Ozona have arranged to attend this Assembly and one young man, Mrs. Monroe Baggett will accompany the Ozona delegation. The nominal charge for room and board will not exceed ten dollars. Swimming, hiking, tennis and many other features will mark the occasion.

Ned Friend and family left this week for Carlsbad, N. M. where they will go through the famous Carlsbad Caverns.

METHODIST CHURCH NEWS

Evening service at the Methodist church are marked by the small number of home people and the comparatively large number of out-of-town visitors. There were eighteen visitors last Sunday coming from Idaho, Chicago, St. Louis, Dallas and Ft. Worth, and only fourteen home people.

On Friday of this week we will have our Watermelon Feed, provided for all the attendants and friends of the Sunday School, and presided over by Will Odom, the superintendent.

On Friday afternoon at four, there will be a shower for the Cradle Roll and Beginners departments.

Mr. and Mrs. Posey of Lubbock are here visiting Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Baggett for a few days. Mrs. Posey is Mrs. Baggett's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Oberkamp are planning to tear down and rebuild the house which they own south of the Hugh Childress home.

Joe Oberkamp has sold his home on north Powell Avenue to Andy Nelson. The house will be occupied by Mrs. Nelson's father, Dad Hallcomb. Possession is to be given August 1.

Miss Dolly Coates is visiting in Galveston.

J. J. North has returned from Temple where he has been undergoing medical treatment. He is spending a few weeks on his ranch recuperating.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Scothorne of San Antonio are here visiting Mrs. Scothorne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Davis. Before her recent marriage, Mrs. Scothorne was Miss Alice Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe North are in Temple where Mr. North is undergoing medical treatment.

President T. A. Kincaid and Mrs. Kincaid left early in the week for Kerrville to attend the annual convention of the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association.

Sonora Officers Chase Car Thieves Thru Here

An exciting chase which led through the main streets of Ozona about 10 o'clock Wednesday night was enjoyed by a number of spectators on the streets here when two men in a Chrysler "60" roadster, alleged to have been stolen in Sonora, roared through town with Sutton County officers in hot pursuit in a Buick.

Sheriff W. H. Augustine, who had been notified of the theft, attempted to stop the thieves when they entered town, but after slipping down a bit the driver stepped on the gas and turned into Powell Avenue headed toward Barnhart. The car was going too fast to make the curve out of town and after circling over the flat, the car turned down a side street and made another attempt to make this turn, this time successfully, and was off in the direction of Barnhart.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Baggett have returned from Lampasas where they visited their son James, who is attending Camp Marlhamont, summer camp of the San Marcos Baptist Academy. James is doing fine with his school work, Mr. Baggett said.

Tom Smith of Ozona, Wednesday delivered 960 head of old ewes and lambs at Barnhart, consigned to W. M. Womble of Fort Worth. The animals brought $10 a pair.

Tom Casbeer, county treasurer, was in San Angelo on business the first of the week.

Chas. Schauer is having his home moved back about twelve feet in preparation for making an addition to it and repairing it generally.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Adams have moved into their home, which Mr. Adams recently purchased from Roy Parker. The house was moved to lot owned by Mr. Adams on South Powell Avenue.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS To the Sheriff or any Constable of Crockett County—Greeting:

You Are Hereby Commanded to summon George L. Marsh, and the heirs and the unknown heirs of George L. Marsh, and the heirs of the unknown heirs of George L. Marsh, whose residences are to plaintiff unknown, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Crockett County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Ozona, Texas, on the 4th Monday in October A. D. 1927, the same being the 24th day of October A. D. 1927 then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 12th day of July A. D. 1927, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 422, wherein J. H. Tippett is Plaintiff, and George L. Marsh, and the heirs and the unknown heirs of George L. Marsh, and the heirs of the unknown heirs of George L. Marsh, and P. L. Childress and the Texas Company, a Corporation, are Defendants, and a brief statement of plaintiff's cause of action, being as follows:

1. That on or about the 29th day of April, 1927, he was lawfully seized and possessed of the following described land and premises situated in Crockett County, Texas, hereinafter claiming the same in fee simple, to-wit:—

Section 5, Block W, Original Grantee T. C. R. R. Co., Abstract No. 5212, Certificate No. 236, containing 640 acres of land, more or less, patented to George L. Marsh January 18, 1882, by Patent No. 146, Vol. 63, described more particularly by metes and bounds as follows:—

Beginning at an E. Md. at the S. E. Corner of Survey No. 4 made for G. C. & S. F. R. R. Co., Script No. 2017, being the N. W. corner of Survey No. 17, Block 14, University lands; thence South 1900 varas to stake and mound at S. W. corner of Survey No. 17; thence W. 1900 varas stake; thence North

1900 varas at S. W. corner of No. 4; thence East 1900 varas to the place of beginning;

2. That on the day and year aforesaid, defendant unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom, and unlawfully withholds from him the possession thereof, to his damage in the sum of Sixty Four Hundred ($6400.) Dollars;

3. That the reasonable rental value of said land and premises is Six Hundred Forty ($640.) Dollars, per year.

4. That plaintiff has had and held open, peaceful and adverse possession of said land for more than ten years, using, occupying and enjoying same and claiming same as his own against the world that said land has been fenced by plaintiff for more than ten years next preceding the filing of this petition, plaintiff using, enjoying and claiming same under said fence for a period of more than ten years next preceding the filing of this suit.

5. That defendants are claiming some right, title or interest in said land and premises, but plaintiff alleges that if any right they have, that same is a junior and inferior right to that of plaintiff, and that said claims cast a cloud upon plaintiff's title;

6. That the residence of the defendant, George L. Marsh, is said to be in Lucas County, Ohio, but of this the plaintiff is not certain, and plaintiff prays that personal citation be issued to the said George L. Marsh, to Lucas County Ohio, and that citation by publication also be issued and published for the said George L. Marsh for the time and in the manner prescribed by law.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment of the Court, that defendants and each of them be cited to appear and answer this petition, and that plaintiff have judgment for the title and possession of the above described land and premises, and for the removal of cloud from his title, and that writ of restitution issue, and for his rents, damages and cost of suit, and for such other and further relief, special and general, in law and in equity, that he may be justly entitled to receive and in duty bound will ever pray.

Herein Fail Not but have before said Court, at its next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Ozona, Texas, On this the 12th day of July A. D. 1927.

CHAPTER I A Fatal Smashup

"Another little drink won't do us any harm!"

The two young men in the small car sang it together, a reedy tenor and a pleasing baritone. They were on the river road, coming south from Burley to their home town, Scottsdale. The hour was 10 o'clock of a mild spring evening. A moon whose rays were filtered by thin clouds illuminated the road running through well-timbered bluff lands. Below and at the right, the river shone with subdued light. It could be heard splashing about the rocks in the rapids.

The driver of the little car brought it to a stop in the road. He had dark hair and eyes and regular features. He was considered good looking, though there was weakness in his eyes and about the loose set of his mouth.

"Come across with that bottle, Eddie," he commanded. He placed his hand against the side of the other's head and pushed violently. He was boisterous and a little malicious.

"Quit it, you nut!" commanded Edison Forbes, knocking the other's hand down sharply. He produced a flask from the lower, outside pocket of his coat. It was a little over half full. He passed it to the other, who took it eagerly, removed the cork, and tilted the bottle. The liquor gurgled down his throat.

Forbes jerked it away. "Hey, what's the matter with you?" he asked, half-laughing, half-vexed. "Trying to get away with ten dollars' worth of booze in one swallow?" He raised the bottle and looked at it humorously, trying to determine the exact quantity against the moon. "Come home to your drunken old father!" was his address to the bottle. He too, tilted it.

The liquor was Canadian whiskey, but a reproach to the name when compared to that imported before the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment. For this had been manufactured for an illicit, eager, not too discriminating trade. It had passed through several hands before importation. Each middleman had done something to cheapen and degrade it before passing it on.

The stuff was strong as vitriol and it lapped at the throat and stomach lining like liquid fire. The young men gasped and coughed, the barbaric stuff brought water to their eyes, and all but choked them. There was an instant and savage kick to it.

"Little close harmony now old man," suggested the dark youth thumping Forbes on the shoulder. They swung into a favorite of the training camp quartet:

"Farewell, farewell, my own true love

Farewell, farewell—"

A high-pitched scream of mortal terror; another; and then a crash and a tinkling of glass, cut across the song. They stopped instantly.

"What's that?" queried the tenor, fright in his weak face.

"Sounds like a smash-up ahead!" replied Forbes, rapidly. "Let's go."

The other was unnerved by the portent of tragedy. He was trembling. He made three attempts to start the car before he succeeded.

The regular meeting of the O will take place on the 3rd Tuesday of each month of the Eastern Star night of each month.

The road at this point curved rather sharply as it followed the edge of the bluffs, so that little was visible in front but the tall trees.

They had proceeded but a short distance when a turn brought them to the scene of the accident. A southbound truck was well on the wrong side of the road. It was in collision with a touring car which in an effort to avoid the truck, had dropped into a ditch which bisected the roadway. The ditch was planked only across the narrow surface of the built up highway at this point.

The truck had forced the car downward and back, so that its rear wheels were in the ditch. The truck had partly telescoped it. The massive wheels and forward end rested on the crushed-in bonnet of the car.

All this Forbes and his companion saw as they stopped their own car and made a hasty survey. The moon had temporarily conquered the clouds and now shone brightly. They saw that the driver of the car, a woman, was dead. She had been crushed between the back of the car and the steering wheel. She still sat upright, the nose of the truck against her body.

The driver of the truck was in his place. His arms were on the steering wheel. His head rested on his arms. The truck windshield had been broken. This was the only damage to the heavier vehicle. It loomed, a shapeless bulk, under

"You fool!" he said fiercely, as they stumbled to the ground. "Running a booze truck, and without sense enough to keep sober. See what you've done."

He jerked the man roughly about so that he could see the havoc his reckless driving had created. The little car, partly under the truck, and looking as though it were being devoured by the monster astride it; the body in the telescoped seat. "You've killed that woman."

Forbes shook the driver savagely. Libbey's eyes opened wide. His jaws sagged apart. His nose, broken and twisted in some past brawl, threw a grotesque shadow across his face. He backed away from the sight that Forbes' hands forced him to look upon. "Lemme get away from here!"

Forbes was strong and sinewy. He was very little taller than the driver and much lighter, but he held the bulbous Libbey easily. "Get away!" he echoed contemptuously. "You'll get away with a about ten years for manslaughter. They'd ought to hang you."

its closely fastened tarpaulin. The body of the truck was tilted from the road at a dangerous angle.

Forbes' companion had been sobered by the spectacle. He stood by and wrung his hands ineffectively. Forbes climbed into the seat of the truck and raised the driver's head. The man opened his eyes. It was apparent that he was partially dazed by the shock. But there was raw liquor on his breath. "What's the matter?" he mumbled, stupidly.

"I thought so!" snarled Forbes. He turned to his companion. "It's Scots Libbey. I bought our booze impossible. He was an employe of a booze-riag which was smuggling contraband liquor into the United States by the shipload, and so was admittedly within the shadow of the law. Forbes himself had, only an hour before, persuaded the driver to break open one of the cases stacked beneath the shrouding canvas, and sell him a bottle from its contents.

"What'll we do, Eddie?" implored the dark-haired youth, shivering from the upset to his nerves; "try to get her out?"

"We can't until help arrives," returned Forbes. The river road was little used, except by the farmers living along it. That is the reason the booze truck, making the run to Detroit, had chosen the byway. These cruisers avoided chance encounters whenever possible. "The coroner must see this jam before we move anything."

A light flashed through the tree tops above them and was gone. "Someone's coming," announced Forbes. "That's a car climbing Waterman's hill. Move the flivver to one side, kid, so they can drive up." He retained his grip on the driver of the truck.

The dark-eyed youth climbed into his car. There was no passing into his car. There was no passing on the left or east side, since the ditch was there, and the vehicles in collision. But on the right side one might with care negotiate the crest of the bluff.

This the young man did, driving urgently but carefully until he was in the highway on the Scottsdale side. There was a level space a few rods below where he might have parked. But he did not stop here. Instead, the engine whirring urgently, he wheeled to the left into a byroad. This connected with the main highway, a mile to the east. He turned off the lights as he fled. The moon furnished sufficient illumination and the way was reasonably clear.

Forbes' lip curled at his companion's cowardice. He made a quick inhalation, as if to shout, but thought better of it. After all the fellow might as well go. There would be explanations to make. The fewer who had to tell how they came to be on the river road that night, the better. Scottsdale was a small and Puritanical city that hated and loathed the booze traffic and illegal drinking. It visited its displeasure on those who drank.

His companion was safely away behind the light of the car which had shone a few moments before surmounted the hill. He turned his head to watch its approach, and the next instant was on his back in the deep ditch. Libbey had no relish for facing trial for taking a human life. He had struck with surprising quickness and force, considering his roly-poly body and his semi-drunkenness. Fear had sobered him; that was evident from the speed he showed getting away.

He ran across the road. As Forbes scrambled up he plunged recklessly over the side of the steep bank toward the river. It was a long and steep descent, but not one particularly perilous. The surface was grassy and soft with the melting snows and the spring rains. There were bushes but few projecting rocks.

The river at this point was not formidable. The broken white water of the rapids was swift but shallow. Even as he stood on the brink and peered after the hurtling figure, Forbes visualized the man's destination—across the river to the railroad only two miles beyond where from one of the small towns nearby he could catch a train that would land him in Detroit or Chicago.

He decided that it was not worthwhile to chase the fugitive. The telephone would be faster and surer than his own legs. A message to Lancaster and Loomis would result inevitably in Libbey's being picked up.

He turned back to the wreck. He tried to wipe the blood from his face. But his nose was bleeding copiously from the chauffeur's blow and he succeeded only in smearing it about considerably. He felt a sense of responsibility for the accident. It was evident that the driver had decided to become his own customer. But it was only after Forbes had persuaded him to break into the case of whiskey at Burley.

A restraint had been removed when the guard had habitually traveled with the truck. Barney Oik had been taken ill and compelled to go to bed at Burley. This left Scots Libbey in sole charge of the cargo. And moral laws have little force with the drivers of booze trucks. By the very nature of their calling they are not of high caliber. Fear of fists and bullets is all that keeps them at all faithful.

Savage self-contempt possessed Forbes. This tragedy had ended the temporary exhilaration of the alcohol he had consumed. His knees trembled; his stomach rose. Pandering to his cursed appetite had lighted the powder-train that ended in this—the snuffing out of a useful and blameless life.

The car from the south had drawn up, and stopped, unheeded by him. He was deep in his own whirlwind. He drew the bottle from his pocket and hurled it into the adjoining field. A shining arc was created that glittered in the moonbeams and in the light of the automobile.

A grave bearded man, dressed in the garb of a farmer, left the vehicle and approached him. The newcomer was followed by a younger man, from his general resemblance to the other, his son. "What's this?" demanded the man with the beard. He looked with disapproval at the blood-stained face of Forbes.

"A booze-runner ran into that car and killed the woman," was the full reply. He was still hearing the clamor only of his own mental battlefield. The two men surveyed the wreck verified his assertion.

and came back to confront him. "Where's the driver?" asked the spokesman.

Forbes waved his hand toward the west. "He ran away just before you came. We better telephone and head him off before he jumps a train."

The two men considered. The older turned to his companion and said: "Stephen, you go over there and find what he threw away." The youth climbed the fence. His search was brief; the bottle was easily seen against the brown earth of the field. He handed it accusingly to his father.

"You'll have to come with me," said the elder, coldly. "I'm Constable Wooten of Highlands township."

"Why should I go with you?" asked Forbes in surprise.

"You just threw away a half bottle o' liquor. You've been drinking. And your face is all bloody. I'm going to turn you over to the sheriff as the driver of the truck."

"But I told you—" began Forbes impatiently.

"Yes, and if we find the man you said has run away, then you're all right. But I haven't seen any driver but you."

Calm Days—Hot! Sultry! Stifling!

There is nothing more satisfying than a glass of Iced Tea Properly Prepared. Its cool—soothing—invigorating. People use it where it is really hot. Ceylon, India and Japan produce the majority of the consumed amount.

SEAL Brand Orange Pekoe is a mixture of choice black teas which will appeal to all lovers of fine tea, and especially to those liking the flavor of Ceylon and India Teas. There is none better than Seal Brand. Its flavor is distinctive. Its taste is mild and mellow, with a curious elusive fragrance not found elsewhere.

It is put up in muslin tea bags and each bag produces Five cups of tea. Expensive!? Well, rather, according to weight. Three ounces sell for 56c—20 tea balls, but it makes 100 cups of real tea. Ask your neighbor, she knows.
