Leave the Seeds In

Introduction of the seedless watermelons, thanks to the ingenious and tireless experiments of Cheong Yin Wong at Michigan State College, will be hailed with delight by the thoughtless. They will suppose that anything so delicious as a watermelon filled with seeds cannot but be improved by abolition of the troublesome seeds. That is a serious error. There is no evidence that humanity has yet been raised to the level where it is worthy of a seedless watermelon. Let the experimenters at Michigan State College and elsewhere concentrate on the improvement of homo sapiens. When a number of improvements that might be mentioned have been made and tested for durability, then and then only can it be said that man deserves a perfect watermelon. As it is, the seeds in a watermelon serve in somewhat the same capacity as the fleas on a dog; they are a reminder of human fallibility, of the imperfections of even the greatest delights that the world affords and of the range provided for the questing spirit of improvement.—New York Sun.

Bergdoll Again

In August, 1917, rich Grover Cleveland Bergdoll of Philadelphia evaded the draft and fled from his home to escape his military duty, thus becoming a deserter from the army. He was a fugitive until Jan. 7, 1920, when he was arrested at his mother's home and on March 17 he was convicted of desertion and sentenced to imprisonment for five years in Castle William. There he told a preposterous story of having buried $100,000 or more in gold on a mountainside only he could identify, and the authorities let him leave his cell and go in custody of two sergeants to dig it up. He induced his warders to allow him to stop at his mother's house, from which on May 21 he made his way to a waiting automobile, reached Canada and eventually Germany, whence he has been pleading ever since for permission to return without penalty to the United States to enjoy in peace the protection and advantages of the country he would not serve in war. These pleas for Bergdoll have taken various forms. His mother has been indefatigable in her efforts in his behalf. A spectacular visit to this country was made by his wife—a German whom he married in his exile—to excite sympathy in his behalf. The fact that he has begotten children has been cited in his behalf. Hitherto the government has been commendably firm in refusing to compromise with him. The latest news from Washington in his case is that the department of justice has denied a claim for return to him of seized property and that it will be liquidated, the proceeds to go to the treasury. If Bergdoll and his family were not rich—rich because of the opportunities the country he would not serve afforded to his father—he would not have been set free from his jail by credulous keepers; he would not have got to Germany; he would have served his term as others did and nothing would have been heard of him by the public.—New York Sun.

Pipe Down!

***If international controversies could be won with the vocal cords this might be the proper strategy. But unfortunately wars aren't decided that way. So all we get out of proclaiming our hate by word of mouth is a mad which finally like the "you're another" that precedes the school yard brawl, leads only to conflict. Despite the overwhelming sentiment for adequate armament in this nation, we don't want war. We want to avoid war. We want peace. We are willing to pay for whatever armament is required to maintain peace. But we want no part in any international melee which, on top of our already vast burden of domestic trouble, might be the end of America as we know it. So we think it's time for those who love to view with alarm to pipe down; to speak softly. And the softer the speech, the bigger will be the stick.—New York World-Telegram.

CENTENARIAN WISDOM

In 1922 the late Senator Cornelius Cole was 100 years old, and Los Angeles gave him a banquet, at which, his mind as alert as ever, he spoke.

He said, according to the Saturday Evening Post, that he had only one message for those present, and that it had been impressed on him through long experience; namely, that human liberties were won in this country at heavy sacrifice of blood and fortune; that liberty is easily lost; that we must be ready to fight again if necessary to keep it; that we must never suffer any man to arrogate to himself the powers of a king, emperor or dictator.

At that banquet was Paul G. Hoffman, now head of the Studebaker company. Speaking in New York recently Mr. Hoffman recalled Senator Cole's statement, and said:

"We listened tolerantly because he was an old man, but privately most of us thought he was living in a world of ideas belonging wholly to the past. . . . What did an old man's warning have to do with us? We had just finished making the world safe for democracy.

"I have thought of that address a thousand times. The old senator was not in his dotage. It was we who were blind. Do I need to ask you to think of the countries where in recent years civil and religious liberty has vanished? Do I need to ask you to think of how seriously at this moment those liberties are in jeopardy in democratic countries?

"Why are they in jeopardy? Because of pressures operating against free enterprise. Those pressures come from two sources: First, those who are wrongly called economic planners, but who have something in mind quite different from planning—namely, government control of the processes of production and distribution; secondly, from minority groups.

"Special privilege is an invitation to government control, and no business can long survive bureaucratic domination."

THE "ISM" PERACHERS

"There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation and pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results. They carry on mad hostility against all established institutions. They would choke the fountain of industry and dry all streams. In a country where property is more evenly divided than anywhere else, they rend the air shouting agrarian doctrines. In a country where wages of labor are high beyond parallel, they would teach the laborer he is but an oppressed slave. What can such men want? What do they mean? They want nothing but to enjoy the fruits of another man's labor."

This statement was made about one hundred years ago in the United States Senate by one of the greatest American statesmen—Daniel Webster.

Every tradition and institution in America is periodically under attack. The man who invests the capital that keeps business running is accused of monstrous iniquities. Socialism, communism, fascism, nazism—all of these, judging by the critics of our social order, are better than democracy.

The fact that the American system has given the highest standard of living on earth is disregarded. The fact that the American workmen have luxuries, enjoyed only by the well-to-do or official class abroad, is covered up. Fortunately, the American people, secure in the knowledge of their heritage, don't seem to be fooled very easily by these detractors and their assorted "isms."

Americanism

Whooping for armament to make our country safe; making no effort to stop the wild spending that is more certainly fatal than war.—Akron Beacon-Journal.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By John Craddock

NEW YORK, March 6.—BUSINESS—It was becoming apparent last week that the threat of a raw silk shortage, coupled with rock-bottom prices, might cause some mills to shut down in this country before long. Only 17,500 bales of raw silk are in transit from Japan, which reports it has sold all the silk in its stocks. Dealers expect a boost in the retail price of silk stockings after Easter. Aside from the possible crisis in this industry, U. S. businessmen saw nothing on the domestic horizon to alter their prediction that another step upward toward full recovery would begin sometime during the spring. Iron ore movement, depressed last year, is expected to be heavier this spring. This is vital to prosperity in the West and Northwest. One major steel company plans to operate 64 ore steamships out of its fleet of 73; the company last year operated only 29 ships. That retailers of woolen goods expect a good sales improvement is indicated by reports that unfilled orders on hand in woolen mills are some 60 per cent higher than a year ago.

WASHINGTON.—With a 250,000,000 bushel wheat surplus to dispose of, it is understood the department of agriculture is considering the practicality of arranging three-way barter deals with foreign countries. For example, the United States might ship wheat to Germany in exchange for farm machinery and other manufactured goods, which would, in turn, be reshipped by the U. S. to South America in exchange for rubber, coffee and other raw materials this country needs. Foreign trade experts of the department have been consulting with state, treasury and commerce department officials, congressmen, and representatives of other governments. Barter would be applied first to wheat, it is said, and if successful, then later to cotton and other crops in which farm surpluses exist.

Now Dad Can Carve Leg Of Lamb With Greatest Of Ease

That troublesome household question, "who is going to carve?" will be settled without a war, after all. Now dad will do the job gladly and skillfully, because at last he is going to know just how it should be done—and he is going to realize the truth of the old saying: It's easy when you know how.

For the National Live Stock and Meat Board has gone into this important matter scientifically and thoroughly, and has come to the rescue of the uneasy carver who is haunted by visions of an elusive roast skidding into the lap of an unsuspecting guest.

Witness the illustrated instructions for carving the leg of lamb given in the adjoining columns. This is one of the roasts which always has been considered the most troublesome, and friend husband has attacked it with fear and trembling. He had a vague idea that he must cut across the grain of the meat, but how to accomplish this was the question. Should he cut slices off the top or should he plunge right in and cut in the other direction clear down to the bone? By mastering the method for carving a leg of lamb, as given here, he can face the roast with a feeling of complete assurance that the task will be done with ease and finesse.

In any carving it will help to keep these fundamentals in mind: Always have your knife sharp; moistening to any smooth, non-porous surface like glass, metal, or plastic, yet can be pulled off without leaving a trace. . . . For commercial laundries, a new washing machine that has a time-saving unloading device; the whole batch is mechanically wrapped in a special fabric belt which can be unloaded by hoist and carried direct to extractor or dumped into a truck tub. . . . For department stores and specialty dress shops—where lipstick stains made by customers cause costly mark-downs on dresses—sanitary shields which are held between the teeth and completely cover the lips! packed in dispensing wall cabinets, customers pull one out before trying on a gown. . . . A fluid that adds to the life of typewriter ribbons; it brings the ink from the unused part of the ribbon to the worn portion, and also dis-

1. Place platter so that the leg bone is to the carver's right. Insert the fork firmly into the large end of the leg and cut two or three length-wise slices from the side nearest the carver.

2. Turn the leg so that it rests firmly on the surface just cut. Holding the roast firmly with the fork inserted into the left end, and beginning at the shank end to the right, make the first slice down to the leg bone and continue to make thin slices parallel to the first until aitch bone at the large end is reached.

3. With the fork still in place, the knife is run parallel to the leg bone to free the slices all at one time. The slices should be about one-fourth to three-eighths of an inch thick.

SUBTRACT.—Despite a considerable increase in cash income of farmers since 1932, the depression low point, talks with agricultural leaders reveal that in many regions farmers are obtaining very little more merchandise with their added spending money. One reason, of course, is a general rise in prices, but another, not so obvious perhaps, is the increasing burden of hidden taxes. The average weekly tax bill of the American farmer has now mounted to where it equals 23.2 per cent of his total cash income, according to a recent study prepared by the National Consumers Tax Commission in Chicago. In other words, even though he doesn't have to pay an income tax on an annual net income of say $900, he must subtract $208.80 before knowing how much he can spend for actual merchandise. The latter figure represents the amount he will pay in hidden taxes during the year in retail stores or in cooperatives.

MORE GAS—March gasoline sales will rise six per cent over the month last year, it is now expected. That means 100,000,000 more gallons, or 3 1-3 to a car. So owners and employees of America's 200,000 service stations—comprising one-eighth of all retail establishments—may expect a busier month. The average retail price for the country is down about a cent a gallon from last year, but further price declines are not anticipated this spring or summer. Stocks of gasoline in refiners' hands are lower than a year ago; while fair-bound motorists, both to New York and San Francisco, may keep the pumps turning at a sufficient rate to cause higher prices in another month or so.

WE'RE talking about that friend of yours who owns a 1939 Buick—

You've heard plenty from him, naturally, about the fresh-as-the-morning-breeze styling of his taut and trim new Buick—and the way it perks abody up just to look it over!

You've listened while he sang the praise of a ride that's like a lullaby—soft and gentle as a tender touch, but sure, unwavering, steady, in cross-wind or at speed.

No doubt you've sensed his joy at those eight eager Dynaflex cylinders, that need only the gentlest sort of hint to hike you straight to the forefront—and the snug and reassuring steadiness of this low-slung, stable stepper's gait!

All of which is well and good, but has your good friend told you this:

... That Buick's prices are easily the lowest prices for the value you'll find anywhere on automobile row?

... That this far-ranging great-hearted eight—with all the sky-larking life those extra cylinders give it—still costs less than some sixes?

... That factory list figures run anywhere from $51 to $102 less than a year ago—and that they buy worlds more in self-banking Knee-Action, Handshift transmission, 15% softer BuCoil Springing, visibility stepped up as much as 412 square inches, any number of so-called "extras" such as the Flash-Way direction signal?

That will prove, we think, that this shining star is in your reach—so why should you be without it?

Fred Gipson—

(Continued from Page One) what with the way he insisted on pulling down all her clothes out of the closet and chewing up her hose and otherwise making himself obnoxious.

And during that time, I learned also that "Snookums Sweetums," bless his little soul, ate right at the table with her, in his own special chair and sometimes she had the awfulest time imaginable getting him to drink his milk. And he must always have a special sort of bread that she ordered from the baker, just for him, because ordinary bread was so likely to give him indigestion.

And it wasn't long before my mind was way off all thoughts of romance and parlor-lounge wooing. I was thinking of those old hound dogs I used to keep at home.

Once in awhile, just for the hell of the thing, one of them might take a notion to prowl into the house and maybe lick up a bowl of butter or swipe a panful of corn-bread. And you had to go right away and give him a quirtling if you expected to get anything out of him for the next week. Because he'd keep remembering that he had one coming and would worry about it so that you couldn't even get him to catch a frying chicken for dinner.

But just as quick as you laid on him for a minute or two, he was happy again and ready to go bring in the milk calves for you, chase the hogs out of the corn field or run a foxtrail all night long.

Those dogs knew they didn't belong in the house. And they respected a man who kept them out. They slept in the barn or under a doorstep or wherever was handy. And they were thankful for a mess of corn meal mush or a batch of clabber milk. And they took their bread, brown, or white or black, downing any and all of it with the same eager relish. And if the pork or venison was short for too long a period of time, they didn't hesitate to take a young rabbit's trail and kill their own meat.

They weren't parasites. They didn't want to be. They stayed with a man because they liked a master that liked to follow the chase as well as they did. They were his companions.

But, on the other hand, had some dame gone and tied a pink ribbon around the neck of one of them and cuddled him in her lap and talked baby talk into his long floppy ears, most likely he'd have started gnawing people's ankles, too, before long. And a man couldn't much blame him.

Which leads me to believe that maybe after all I don't despise lap dogs so much as I do people who make lap dogs out of them. Anyhow, which ever way it is, when I see some fur-draped dame slithering down the street on the end of a chain behind a nasty-tempered pooch, I just naturally see red and I can't seem to help it.

No self-respecting dog would

To honor the visitors, Dr. and Mrs. Tandy entertained with a Mexican supper at their home here Friday evening. Guests besides the visitors were Pascal Northcutt, Al Nemmo, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Harrell, Mr. and Mrs. Pleas Childress, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Short. Saturday the visitors were shown a part of West Texas and a glimpse of Old Mexico in a 400-mile loop through the Yates oil field and the picturesque West Texas scenery farther west and down the border route to Del Rio and Villa Acuna, across the border in Mexico.

Miss Hammond is an artist. She and Mrs. Sayles, the former Marjorie Bland, were suitmates at International House in New York. She has been visiting lately in Los Angeles and San Francisco. From Ozona, the visitors went Sunday to San Angelo where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Landon for a Sunday night supper.

Mrs. J. B. Witt of Santa Monica, Calif., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Riddle and her sister, Miss Mary Riddle.

An adult English class has been organized at the Community House, with meetings every Thursday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. Last Thursday, 15 mothers, daughters and daughters-in-law were present. They are making dresser scarfs.

The volleyball and softball courts have been completed under the direction of Albert Cano. After the games, a shower bath is available for players.

The Happy Girls club has for one of its projects this month beautification of the grounds. They are planting trees, shrubs and flowers.

Los Troubadores—let's see, that makes us think of singing! Yes indeed! That is the name chosen by the affiliated Junior Music club, composed of about 25 boys and girls who meet every Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock for an hour of choral practice under the direction of Mrs. H. B. Tandy, with Mrs. Neal Hannah accompanying. They are doing good work.

A knock at the door—Mr. McDonald. Milk for the kindergarten? Yes, indeed, we'd love it. This has happened many, many times.

Thanks Mr. and Mrs. Mac.

RANCH TALK

By SUNSHINE MATTHEWS

From Headquarters of

Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association

Announcements have been made... a number of state wool publica- tions of a rise in the price of wool because of an increase in the market.

Rusty McGinty, Plains, Texas, fourth. Cow milking: Sonny Hancock, Roswell, N. M., first; John Bowman, Oakdale, Calif., second; Allen Holder, San Angelo, third; Tony Salinas, Encinal, N. M., fourth.

Emmett Pfluger of Eden is planning on show lambs for the 1940 spring shows. He has eight lambs from the Bullard ewe, "Majestic," out of five registered ewes.

Luk Pasco, publisher of the American Sheep Breeder, had a golden Rambouillet ram statuette on display at San Angela during the fat stock show.

Dick Knight of Sterling City has sold two doubles of yearling ewes out of the wool for June 1 delivery at $5 a head.

Forty-three hundred yearling ewes were sold at Stanton out of the wool, with a five per cent cut, for May 15 delivery at $5 to a Wyoming buyer.

Joe Calverly of Garden City has sold two doubles of yearling ewes out of the wool for June 1 delivery at $5.

Concern has been expressed by C. B. Wardlaw, president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, Del Rio, that ranchmen might "jump the gun" on almost certain better prices on their wool and mohair for 1939.

Whitehead & Wardlaw and L. J. and L. B. Wardlaw of Del Rio completed their shearing recently and found their mohair clip much lighter than the average.

Norman Martin, Dublin Hereford breeder, sold a heifer at private sale at the San Angelo Fat Stock show to Louis Cerf of Ennis at $500.

Ollie Cox of Sweetwater will furnish the rodeo stock for the Abilene rodeo during the fat stock show there on March 24 and 25.

You Must Decide

WHAT PRICE HUMAN LIFE...

TRUCKING interests demand legislative authority to increase the existing truck load limit on Texas highways, arrogantly ignoring the fact that highway hazards to life and limb grow greater year by year.

On the highways of Texas in 1937, the last year for which authentic figures are available, 670 persons... men, women and children... lost their lives in accidents in which trucks were involved... and 3,360 others were injured... many of them permanently disabled.

In the past six years... 1932 to 1937, inclusive... the number of persons killed annually in truck accidents increased from 241 to 670... and those injured from 887 to 3,360. These indisputable figures... taken from actual accounts of truck accidents published in Texas newspapers... show that in the six-year period 2,936 persons lost their lives and 15,183 were injured in truck crashes on the highways of our state.

The number killed is greater than the population of Odessa, Gateville, Lampasas, La Grange, Raymondville or a score of other thriving Texas cities... while the number killed and injured exceeds the population of Sherman, Marshall, Corsicans or Paris, all ranking business centers of the state.

Analysis of official records of accidents in which trucks were involved reveals a further vital fact... that the heaviest and largest trucks, as a class, operating over Texas highways in 1937, showed a death rate of four and one-half times that of all trucks, large and small, and almost seven times that for all motor vehicles, including trucks.

The combination of weight and size of motor vehicles is thus definitely proved to be the controlling factor in fatal highway accidents... the heavier the vehicle... the harder it hits... the more surely it kills or cripples.

The statutes now in effect have governed truck operations on Texas highways since 1931 and the ever-growing toll of truck accidents, injuries and deaths, reflects only the increasing ingenuity of the operators of overloaded trucks in evading or openly defying the laws created to control them in the interest of public safety.

Texas citizens and taxpayers have built and maintained Texas highways. They are definitely entitled to the safe use of them and not to be driven from them by those who seek to operate upon them for selfish gain.

A Simple Cottage

The extreme simplicity of this small home is effective and makes it representative of a style of architecture which each year becomes increasingly more popular. Designed for a small family, the house is a compact dwelling unit with all of its space used to advantage. Its chief attraction is an unusually large living room that boasts two side exposures and one each on the front and rear. The Federal Housing Administration insured a mortgage on this home for $5,400 after a valuation of $6,300 had been assigned it. The owners, who live in Connecticut, will amortize the mortgage over a period of 25 years.

Feeding Of Cattle Proven Profitable To Texas Operators

COLLEGE STATION, March 8.—Texas ranchmen and farmers see in feed lots an opportunity to add to their income and at the same time balance their operations.

"The big part of the job has already been done," says Geo. W. Barnes, animal husbandman of the Texas A. and M. college extension service. "The Texas Agricultural Experiment station has run feeding tests and is able to give definite recommendations fitted to every type of farming area in the state. This information has been brought to farmers and ranchmen by our county agricultural agents, vocational teachers, and the press, and demonstrations have been set up that have proved feeding of cattle with home grown feeds is profitable under practical conditions."

Barnes said county agents had reported 1,532 feeding demonstrations completed during 1938, involving 33,560 cattle, and that the operations returned a profit of $555,596. The cattle showed a gain of almost 12 million pounds while on feed.

Many more demonstrations are underway, but not completed. There were, for example, 2,882 4-H club boys enrolled in beef cattle demonstrations in 1938.

"With 17,019 trench silos filled in Texas in 1938, the roughage problem has been solved," Barnes pointed out. "We now have a way to store supplies of feed indefinitely, and the number of trench silos is due for further rapid increases. The year 1938 showed that Texas is ready to start marketing its feed crops through cattle."

WARDROBE CLOSETS

Planners of efficient small homes have learned the need for abundant closet space, but the lack of closets is still a problem to the home owner whose house was built a decade or more ago.

One simple solution to the problem is the installation of factory-made wardrobe closets. One such closet now available features a space-saving door which swings back into the wardrobe entirely out of the way. Simple, practical, and economical, it contains enough shelves to give it the usefulness of the average closet. In spite of the sliding door, the wardrobe closet has no complicated mechanisms to rattle or make noise. They are available in a number of different sizes to fit the space allotment of the room. All woodwork in the closet is cut accurately to size.

FINISHING RENTALS HALTED BY REPAIRS

Because the age of the building often revealed by outmoded plumbing fixtures, apartment use owners frequently find that finishing rentals can be halted through modernization of bathrooms and kitchens.

The wide difference between well-designed efficient fixtures of today and the drab plumbing commonly found in buildings built 15 or 20 years ago often enough in itself to increase returns on apartment properties.

FIRST FLOOR WASH-ROOM ASSET IN HOME

The current demand for a first-floor washroom, sometimes called downstairs lavatory or powder room, should not be overlooked by prospective home owner or one who is considering modernization of his present dwelling.

In rating homes for insured plans, the Federal Housing Administration considers the number of baths and lavatories in the light of whether or not they are efficient for the number of persons, including servants, who are likely to occupy the property. In homes with only one real bathroom, the powder room is frequently needed to provide plumbing sufficient to prevent an unfavorable rating.

WATER SOFTENING

In both public and private water supply systems throughout a large part of the country the water has enough mineral content to make it "hard." Clogging and corrosive action on plumbing lines, heating plants, and cooking utensils result from this undesirable water condition. Moreover, "hard" water makes mending of all types more difficult.

Water-softening equipment is made by a number of manufacturers. These manufacturers will make an analysis of the water to be treated and recommend the type and size of equipment which should be most satisfactory.

SHOULD STUDY FUELS

Prospective home owners should make a careful study of the costs of the fuels and service available in the community in which they plan to buy a residence.

The degree of comfort and the convenience to be expected from individual fuels should be balanced against the relative costs. A logical choice of the fuel to be used for heating, cooking and other uses may then be made.

Legislators Disposed To Check To Voters Question Of Tax Raises To Satisfy Liberal Pension Clamorers

If People Want Added Millions Tax Burden Must Vote It

AUSTIN, March 8.—(Special) If the people of Texas want to assume a new tax burden of $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 a year in order to pay liberal pensions to aged people, school teachers, dependent persons and those with impaired eye-sight, they are going to have to say so with votes at the ballot box, sometime this summer.

That appeared to be the consensus of informed opinion in Austin this weekend, as the house of representatives sent all of the various tax bills it has received to a subcommittee with instructions to bring out recommended legislation without delay. Whatever tax plans are submitted to raise the social security money, they will, in the opinion of those closely in touch with the situation be incorporated in one or more constitutional amendments.

This legislature appears at this time entirely unwilling to heap that much tax burden upon the citizens without a direct mandate at the ballot box. So the prospect at this writing is that this will be an entirely taxless session of the legislature.

Whether the constitutional plan incorporating a tax program will be a series of amendments, offering alternate proposals, such as a sales tax, a "use" tax, a transaction tax, an income tax, a gross receipts tax, and increased natural resource taxes, or whether it will be a single "omnibus" amendment, including several of these tax plans, depends entirely upon the prevailing sentiment among members of the house committees on taxation and revenue and on constitutional amendments.

The familiar arguments against each of the tax forms mentioned have been heard by the legislators from spokesmen from each of the affected groups. The sales tax, obviously is a burden upon the lower income group—the farmer, the laborer and the small salaried worker. The transaction tax is a multiple sales tax, with its evils and burdens multiplied. The gross income and "use" taxes are but sales taxes, with the collection method simplified. The natural resource people claim they are approaching the breaking point in their ability to pay further taxes. The protests from representatives of almost every economic group, including, farmers, labor, manufacturers, retail merchants, oil men and consumers have poured into Austin until many of the legislators are convinced that the best way out of the maze is to check the problem back to the people.

They think that the voters who are at work—trying to make a living, educate their children, pay their taxes and carry on a normal life, may be shocked into backing the legislators in a sane and sensible social security program that will take care of actually needy people, and not attempt to play Santa Claus to everybody in the state. They point out that this type of citizen still outnumbers the group who want "something for nothing," and many predict that if the legislature checks it back to the people as a whole to write the formula for extracting $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 of additional taxes from their depleted incomes, they may go to the ballot box and turn thumbs down on the "pensions for everybody" program of the demagogues and professional pension agitators.

Meanwhile, conservative sentiment in both houses is proceeding on the theory that if the tax problem is submitted to the voters for solution, the way will be cleared to effect some governmental economy, achieve an improved fiscal setup for the state government, abolish some useless bureaus and commissions, and pare down the excessive operating costs.
