

This Week

A HOLLOW MAGNET. A VARIEGATED CLIMATE. MORE AEROPLANES NEEDED.

A real fighting Irishman has come to America. William Thomas Coogrove, President of the Irish Free State. Diffident, keen light blue eyes, soft voice, iron will and a lion's courage. That is a picture of the Irish President, for whom fear does not exist, not even the only fear admitted by his relatives, the Celtic chiefs of Gaul, who admitted that they feared one thing, that the sky might fall on them.

If you asked, "Can NOTHING be more powerful than SOMETHING?" you would get no serious answer.

But how do you explain this fact, announced by German science and proved by convincing experiment? A hollow magnet is more powerful than a solid magnet.

The absence of magnetized metal inside the magnet increases its magnetic strength. A magnet containing four hollow lamellae has as much lifting power as one containing nine solid lamellae.

Everything is possible in chemistry and physics, now that atomic construction and the horrible power and speed of the tiny electrons have been added to human knowledge. But that hollow magnet news is a thing to puzzle science.

A. D. Lasker, who ran the Shipping Board, once a young, brightly energetic boy, sitting in the outside office of Lord & Thomas in Chicago, now seems more brightly energetic, sits in the inside office and, waxes the piano.

He and his wife have just given a million dollars to Chicago University to study the "causes, nature and prevention of degenerative diseases."

Within three hundred years, the average life has increased from forty to sixty years, but a man of fifty has very little better chance of life than a man of that age one hundred years ago.

Lasker never gives money to find out why it is that human beings after fifty break down so quickly.

If the scientist will let him, Lasker should use some of his money in investigating suggestions that medical science would call "all nonsense." All nonsense is what the doctors called the theories of Pasteur, who taught them more than they ever knew before.

Michael J. Huch, eighteen years old, touched a live wire carrying 5,000 volts and, according to doctors, was "dead for half an hour." Quick action by firemen brought the boy back to life.

At first his mind wandered. Then he recognized friends, knew his own name, who he was and what he had been doing in the previous eighteen years.

The question arises, does the same thing happen to all of us, after we have been dead a long time, perhaps, as one earnest clergyman suggests, as long as a billion years, waiting for the world to end and Gabriel to summon us?

We have a variegated climate, dogs pulling sleds over Alaska's ice, ladies and their friends lying half-naked on the sands of Florida, California and the Gulf States.

And the thermometer does not tell everything about weather. We shiver and growl at 14 above zero, while Ulfar, McMillan, Arctic explorer, set foot, through radio, that he is quite comfortable at Bowdoin, Labrador, with the temperature 35 below zero.

It depends on humidity, elevation, ozone and other things probably of which we know nothing.

A dispatch from Nicaragua says Sandino, the rebel leader who killed some of our sailors, has been killed by a bomb from one of our airplanes.

The Nicaragua rebels now know that they have no more chance against United States flying machines than a rabbit has against eagles.

That is satisfactory so far as our Nicaragua fight goes.

But our President, Congress and Army and Navy departments should remember that several countries in Europe and at least one in Asia engaged us so greatly in air power that they could do to us, if they chose, what we have just done to Sandino.

WE NEED FIGHTING AIRPLANES, not merely a sample force of the Nicaragua size.

The Emperor of Japan sets an example in economy—carries a $5 match, cultivates his own rice field. That would surprise his great-grandfather. That Mikado, by hitting a finger, could chop off anybody's head, and did.

OZONA'S TRACK SQUAD WINS IN MEET AT SONORA

Local Juniors Capture First Place; Seniors Take Third

WILSON HIGH MAN

Woodrow Gets 17½ Of Ozona's Total Of 26 Points In Match

Ozona High School track stars in the Junior Division carried off first honors and members of the local teams in the Senior Division finished in third place in the invitation track meet held at Sonora Saturday afternoon and sponsored by the Sonora High School.

Woodrow Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wilson of Ozona, was high man in the Junior division, winning 17½ of the total of 26 which Ozona piled up to win in that division. Coach J. A. Floyd and a crowd of local rooters accompanied the teams to Sonora.

Christoval won first place in the Senior Division with a score of 48. Sonora was second with 45 and Ozona was third with 30 points. In the Junior Division, Rocks Springs trailed Ozona in second place with 24 points, and Sonora was third with 16. Five Class B schools competed, Ozona, Sonora, Rocks Springs, Christoval and Menard, with San Angelo and Del Rio Class A competing for exercise and training.

Alvin Hollmig of Sonora was declared the individual star of the meet, winning 24 of his school's total of 45 points. Woodrow Wilson in the Junior division took three firsts, 50-yard dash, broad jump and 100-yard dash. He also took third in the baseball throw and was a member of the local relay team which took third place in that event.

Randall Cook won second place in the broad jump and third in the high jump. Conley Cox won fourth place in the baseball throw, while George Victor Montgomery emerged in fourth place in the high jump.

In the Senior Division, Earl Deland was the local high point man winning 22 of the local's 30. He gathered four first places, in the broad jump, discus throw, 220-yard dash and 440-yard dash. He also won third place in the 100-yard dash.

P. C. Coates won fourth place in the broad jump and Thalis Elledge took fourth position in the 880-yard run. Carlton Phillips was third in the shot-put, and Arthur Kyle finished in fourth place in the 220-yard run. The Ozona Senior relay team was composed of Doc Lee, Arthur Kyle, Walter Kyle and Thalis Elledge. Cal Word was also a member of the squad from Ozona but did not place in either the shot put or the discus throw. George Bunker went to enter the javelin throw but this event was cancelled.

The Junior relay squad from Ozona was composed of Woodrow Wilson, Randall Cook, Pleas Childress, Jr., and George V. Montgomery. Woodrow Wilson was awarded a silver medal as individual star in the Junior division and the Junior team was awarded a cup for first place in the meet. The medal becomes Woodrow's permanent possession, the cup to figure in competition again next year. Following are the tabulated results of the meet:

R. A. Young of San Angelo, former Baylor University track star, was the starter. It was the first invitation meet held at Sonora and Coach W. W. Holcomb wants to make it an annual affair.
About 300 spectators witnessed the meet. Members of the Sonora high school mothers' club served refreshments after the meet to visitors and the participants in the meet.

Mrs. Susie Word Dies In Ozona

Resided Here 3 Years; Body Sent To Paint Rock For Burial

Mrs. Susie Word, a resident of Ozona three years and of Texas for a quarter of a century, died at her home here at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon as a result of an illness lasting less than a week. Mrs. Word was seized with a paralytic stroke Tuesday following an attack of the flu and grew steadily worse until her death Saturday afternoon.
The body was taken to Paint Rock, her former home, where funeral services were held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The body was laid to rest beside that of her husband who died in Paint Rock in 1905.

Mrs. Word with her children came to Ozona from San Angelo three years ago. She was 60 years old at the time of her death. Surviving are four sons, Taylor, Howard and Dewey Word, all of Ozona and Bob Word of Patricia, Texas, and three daughters, Mrs. Ruby Thompson of Ballinger, Mrs. Cora Leatherwood and Mrs. Alice DeMott, both of San Angelo.

City Baseball League Brewing

Diamond Enthusiasts Pushing Plan; Town Team Planned

The baseball bug has bitten. While local followers of the national pastime are out limbering up the wing and toughening the mitt as well as acclimating their craws to diamond dust, plans are brewing for the organization of a city league of three teams and a town team for competition with neighboring towns in a West Texas circuit.
The city league plan as advocated by several followers of the game would include a three-cornered league with the clerks supporting one team, the mechanics another and the ranchmen a third. From the best blood of these teams the town team to meet neighboring squads would be selected.
The plan has been approved by leaders in all three camps and a meeting is expected to be called within the next few days to perfect plans.

W. A. Adams Buys 17 Sections In Pecos

W. A. Adams, who recently sold out his ranch northwest of Ozona to Pleas Childress, has purchased a 17-section ranch in Pecos County out of the tract recently purchased by four Crockett County ranchmen from the Scharbrauer Cattle Company of Midland at $5 an acre.
The property is located about twelve miles south of Fort Stockton and is declared by Pecos County ranchmen to be among the best ranching sections in the county.
J. C. Montgomery, Roy and Floyd Henderson and W. W. Childress recently purchased 147 sections out of the Scharbrauer Cattle Company holdings, 30 sections of the amount being purchased jointly by the four. Mr. Adams purchase was out of this 30-section tract.
The new owners of the land are to be given possession June first and they are now engaged in fencing their holdings. Mr. Adams has not decided whether he will stock the land immediately or lease it for awhile.

Seven Autos In A Day Sales Record

Chevrolet Agency Sells Six New Cars, One Used Car Friday

Seven automobiles sold and delivered in one day is still another new record set by local dealers. Joe North hung up such a record for other dealers to shoot at Friday of last week when an epidemic of Chevrolet purchasing broke out. From the time he came down to the shop Friday morning until he went home at night he had disposed of six 1928 model Chevrolets and one used car.
The six new Chevrolets were distributed as follows: trucks to Richard Flowers, John Williams, West Texas Utilities Company, and E. B. Deland; roadster to the West Texas Utilities Company and a coupe to W. T. Childress. Tot Richardson purchased the used car.
Will Odom purchased a new coupe earlier in the week and a cabriolet was delivered to Evert White Monday, the latter car being included in a carload shipment unloaded at Barnhart Monday.
Lee Wilson was in Dallas on business the first of the week.

HALF MILLION GALLON WATER TANK PLANNED

New Reservoir To Be Erected Higher On Company Hill

DRILL NEW WELL

Additions Will Improve Pressure And Water Service

A new water reservoir with a capacity of approximately a half million gallons of water is to be constructed by the Ozona Water Works on the hill north of its present plant, it was announced this week by Miss Dixie Davidson, manager of the concern.
The new tank, which will be of concrete, it is understood, will be higher than the present tank and much larger. It will be 125 feet across and six feet deep. The present tank, which was just recently cleaned and repaired, will be retained as an auxiliary reservoir, for use in case of the necessity of repairs on the larger one and for emergencies.
Drilling of a new well was also begun this week in order to increase the supply of water for local consumption. The plant has been equipped throughout with electric motor driven pumps and has been given a general overhauling and repairing. A new road is also being contemplated by the management to the plant, going around the hill in order to eliminate the steep hill climb necessary to reach it at present.

The new reservoir is expected to make considerable improvement in the local service. It is higher up on the hill and a larger tank and will therefore increase the pressure in the mains considerably.

Clearing Lot For Couch Buildings

Frame Bldg. Razed, Restaurant To Be Moved Off Location

Work of razing the frame building adjoining the Joe Oberkamp store, occupied by H. W. Ellis electrical shop, got under way this week in preparation for the erection of the new tile stucco building by S. E. Couch. Mr. Ellis has moved his electrical shop in the back of the Stockman office building.

The sheet iron building occupied by the Rainbow Cafe is to be moved off the building site to the lot west of its present location and will be occupied by the cafe temporarily while the new building is under construction. When the building is completed, the cafe will occupy one of the three business houses to be included. A ready-to-wear and dry goods store will occupy another of the buildings and the third has been leased to Joe Oberkamp, who has announced that so far the place has not been sub-leased.

Materials for the new building have already been ordered and as soon as the lot is cleared work will begin on the foundation immediately, it was declared. The building is to be completed and ready for occupancy by June 1, Mr. Couch announced.

The duplex apartment house being erected by the West Texas Utilities Company on its lot in the north part of town adjoining the house recently erected for Tom Onstott, local manager, is nearing completion. The duplex will be occupied by Otho Drake, local commercial manager, and Mr. Carter, office man and bookkeeper.

Mrs. John Bailey and Mrs. N. W. Graham entertained the Forty-two club Thursday at Mrs. Bailey's home. The St. Patrick's Day motif was carried out in decorations and table markers. Four tables of play ers enjoyed the hospitality.

THE OZONA STOCKMAN

Published Every Thursday Morning at Ozona, Texas, County Seat of Crockett County by

W. EVART WHITE EDITOR and PUBLISHER
Entered at the Post Office at Ozona, Texas, as Second Class Mail Matter under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

Ozona, Texas, Thursday, March 8, 1928.

Now that Ozona has a band, and incidentally one that is destined to make its mark in the life of this community before many more months, the next vital need is a band stand.

In a month or six weeks more the new Ozona white way will be completed. There will be eight light standards around the city park. With the new trees that were recently set out and the other beautification work that has been done on the park, it is becoming a more attractive place every day and with completion of the white way will be a truly beautiful spot at night.

From the standpoint of improving the appearance of the park, a neatly constructed bandstand, say of cobblestone finish or stucco, would add immensely to the beauty of the park. But such a stand would not only be a thing of beauty, it would also prove of great benefit in promoting community spirit through concerts by the band at regular intervals. It could also be used as a speakers stand or for any other purpose in connection with a public gathering or entertainment.

In this connection it might be pointed out that other towns in the state have found it a great public benefit to erect not a bandstand alone but a combination bandstand and rest room. The lower part of the stand is wasted space unless it is utilized as a rest room, library or some similar purpose. If the idea should meet with favor, it might be possible to plant the nucleus for a public library in this manner, by starting one in a part of the bandstand, in charge of some organization or group or organizations. The rest room idea could still be incorporated together with the library if both are thought worthwhile undertakings.

But whether or not the plan is enlarged to take in a library and rest room, a handsome bandstand, which would not only serve as an ornament for the park but would be a distinct contribution to the advancement of the community, could be erected at a comparatively small cost.

Information has come indirectly that backers of the move for incorporation of the town of Ozona are making preparation to file another petition with the County Judge at an early date asking that another election be called to decide the question. This action is being contemplated, it is reported, on the strength of requests from numerous persons that another election be called in order that the present sentiment of the people might be disclosed.

We do not know what method of municipal government was sought in the petition of 1926 but whatever route was followed a second election can be called at this time. If incorporation is sought under certain forms of city government a second election can not be called until a year has elapsed. More than a year has elapsed since the last election.

Ozona can be incorporated under either one of three statutes, those relating to cities, towns and villages, to towns and villages or under the commission form of government. In the first two instances, the form of government is the aldermanic, the City Council consisting of a mayor and five aldermen. The powers granted to cities and towns is much greater than those granted to towns and villages, according to authorities, and Ozona has the requisite population to incorporate under any of these provisions.

Under any of the statutes the proceedings for incorporation are virtually the same. A petition signed by twenty qualified voters and taxpayers must be filed with the County Judge, who will then order an election. If incorporation is sought under the commission form of government, the mayor and commissioners will be elected at the same election at which the question of incorporation is decided. If it is sought, however, under the other forms, a second election must be called by the County Judge for the election of the city officials.

A city baseball league composed of three teams and a town team for competition in a circuit of West Texas towns is the present talk among local sportsmen. The proposed city league would consist of teams from the clerks, mechanics and ranchmen and a schedule of games would be worked out to decide the local championship between these teams. A town team would be recruited from the best these three teams had to offer.

Such a line-up would add considerably to the life of the community during the coming summer and we hope it will be possible to work up the teams. Anyway, we notice some of the boys warming up the old wings.

In less than four months Ozona will throw open its doors to all West Texas at its third annual summer Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock show. Plans are rapidly taking form for the show this year and fair officials are already predicting that it will surpass by far the two first efforts.

Fair officials are hard at work getting things in shape for the event. And it is time for the rest of us to get to work also. Four months sounds like a long time, but it isn't so long when there's lots to do. And there is lots to do toward getting the biggest crowd in the history of West Texas to Ozona next June for the Rodeo, Races and Stock Show. It's time to talk it, write it, think it. Ozona's reputation for hospitality and entertainment is widespread through this section and the people need but to know that Ozona is offering another and better entertainment and they will be ready to come. But it is up to us to let them know.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

GRIMSTEAD, "the pirate," who is stranded on a California mountain side.

BURTON, his daughter, is with him against her will.

ROSS GARDINER, "second in command," and

SIMMINS, butler-chauffeur, is given a lift by

DAVENPORT, a young man whose car runs on electricity, and who wins a $10,000 bet from Gardiner by predicting rain.

CHAPTER VI

Simmins Brightens Up

A tiny fire blazed merrily at the edge of the shelter, a marvelous sight in all this deluge to Burton when she turned out in the morning. Her father and Gardiner sat leaning against a log in the background and Simmins fussed with a coffee pot over a small gasoline stove. Grimstead looked good natured, and amused by the turn of events; Gardiner was company-manners polite, which meant that he was disgruntled; Simmins was bright and chipper.

There was no doubt of it; some thing had happened to Simmins. His manner was free and independent and human; no longer did he conceal rigidly his naturally frivolous proclivities.

"Coffee, Miss," he should have enunciated mechanically. Instead of which he remarked: "That'll warm you up."

That morning Davenport found Simmins clad in a mackintosh, delving in the pockets of the larger car.

"You certainly did call the turn!

I congratulate you sir!" said Simmins. And to rook his ribs does my heart good! I'll buy me a little souvenir with the tenner you let me in for. I suppose that goes, sir?"

"Certainly," laughed Davenport. "You'd better make yours a Liberty bond though, Simmins, if you take my advice."

"Liberty bond, sir, with a tenner?" puzzled Simmins.

"Tenner," repeated Davenport, also pretending to be puzzled. "I see! Did you imagine for a moment I'd bother with a sum like ten dollars?"

"What else, sir?" asked Simmins uneasily.

"Ten hundreds, of course, replied Davenport.

"Good Lord! If it had not rained I'd have been out a thousand dollars?"

"Most certainly," Davenport assured him seriously. "As it is, you shall have my check for a thousand the moment Mr. Gardiner pays his debt."

And now you know why Simmins passed the coffee in that care free, swashbuckling spirit that would warm her up!

"Looks as if it might rain forever," remarked Grimstead after a pause.

Davenport looked at his wrist watch and made a rapid calculation.

"It will stop at ten minutes to ten," he stated.

"I'll acknowledge that you called the turn on this storm, but you're cutting too fine," said Grimstead. "Be reasonable."

"Nevertheless, if you'll allow me five minutes either way," smiled the young man. "I'll lay anybody another bet." He glanced at Gardiner who did not look up.

The millionaire laughed.

"Well, you are a good sport; I'll say that for you. I'm no heavy gambler, like you young fellows with lots of money. I'll bet you a box of cigars, just to make it interesting."

"All right."

"By the way," added Grimstead, "didn't you say something about a tree—?"

"It's down, square across the road," interrupted Simmins, cagerly.

"The deuce you say!" Grimstead sat up. "How many others are down?" he inquired after an instant.

"None, sir, not one!" cried Simmins triumphantly, as though the glory were his own personally. "I took especial pains to look."

"This is the most extraordinary exhibition of either fantastic bull luck or prophecy or a mixture of both I have ever witnessed!" said Grimstead. "It's almost uncanny!"

"Not at all. The story was the exact product of a whole series of causes and effects working out; and as causes and effects are all subject to physical law, which is unchangeable, any prediction as to the time or the direction or the strength or duration of a storm can be entirely exact, provided it is based on those causes and effects."

CHAPTER VII

A Startling Discovery

At the hour predicted by Davenport the rain ceased and the clouds broke in the instantaneous California fashion to admit a bright shining sun. The whole world was a-glitter with jewels, and little mists eddying through the forest drifted in and out of steady, broad shafts of light. Grimstead stared curiously at Davenport's little machine.

"Make her yourself?" inquired

Grimstead.

"Such as she is," acknowledged Davenport. "I didn't use much pains with her looks because she is just an experiment. I'm trying something out."

"You said she was electric driven?" queried Grimstead.

"And I suppose charging a battery costs nothing," struck in Gardiner scornfully, "and there are charging stations everywhere."

"Often enough for my purpose," rejoined Davenport with entire good humor.

"I should think you'd want more speed and power," observed Grimstead.

"Geared as she is I can make 50 an hour on paved road, and that means power for anything within reason—I haven't had it braked; but it must develop between 35 and 45-horsepower."

"Your battery can't have a long charge-life at that rate," pursued Grimstead. "I don't see how you keep charged. How many hours do you make—?"

"I don't know; I haven't determined yet. That's what I'm experimenting on."

Grimstead paused to get this straight.

"Do I understand you to say that you are running on the original charging?" he asked, "that you have not recharged since starting?"

ANNOUNCING THE ATWATER-KENT RADIO For Ozona

Believing always that the people of Ozona and Crockett County want only the best that money can buy, we have just accepted the agency in this county for the famous ATWATER-KENT Radios.

A compact set, convenient, economical and priced at a figure that will startle you, we are convinced that the Atwater-Kent is by far the best radio buy now on the market.

We believe this or we would not have accepted the agency in this territory. After a thorough test of the sets, we are more convinced than ever that they can not be equaled in value in the radio world. This wonderful radio set is now available to the people of this section and we will be here at all times to see that it gives you service.

There are many distinctions claimed by the Atwater-Kent Radio. Not the least of these is the fact that it requires no troublesome batteries. Just plug it into a light circuit and twirl the dials.

No more run down batteries, no expensive and troublesome recharging. Your radio operates perfectly on the 110-volt circuit that furnishes your home with lights. Reception is clear and volume surprising.

And still another distinction of Atwater-Kent—the PRICE. You do not need to pay into the hundreds of dollars for a good set. You will not believe it when we tell you the price of this newest thing in the radio world. Let us put one in your home some night on trial. Listen to it and ask the price. You will buy it.

The U. S. Bureau of Standards is the official government testing laboratories where every product which purchasing agents of the national government propose to buy are impartially tested. Any product that is purchased by the government must first be approved from thorough tests made by the Bureau of Standards. The fact that this important organization found Frigidaire satisfactory for Government use is attested by the fact that the White House, the Presidential yacht Mayflower and scores of government departments are equipped with Frigidaire.

Over 75 per cent of the electric refrigerators now in use in this country are Frigidaires. The fact that a half million Frigidaires are now in use and giving satisfaction should remove all doubt as to their dependability. Nor is the government the only large organization that has adopted Frigidaire. The Carnegie Steel Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa. after a careful investigation placed an order for $145,000 worth of Frigidaire water coolers. The largest ice cream manufacturers in the country have purchased several million dollars worth of Frigidaire ice cream cabinets. The world's largest apartment house in New York purchased over $100,000 worth of Frigidaires for its apartments.

There Is a Frigidaire Ideally Adapted to Every Home
 Twelve Different Models and Sizes

THE BEAUTIFUL FRIGIDAIRE

The Frigidaire cabinet sets a new standard of beauty in the refrigerator field. Handsome finishing, beauty of lines, pleasing proportion, the new two-tone trim—the Frigidaire will make a beautiful addition to the finest home.

NO UGLY PROJECTIONS

In the Frigidaire cabinet everything is enclosed. There is no unsightly machinery sticking out like a sore thumb. You will look at your Frigidaire many times a day for many years. You have the right to demand the beauty of Frigidaire cabinet.

NO WASTE SPACE

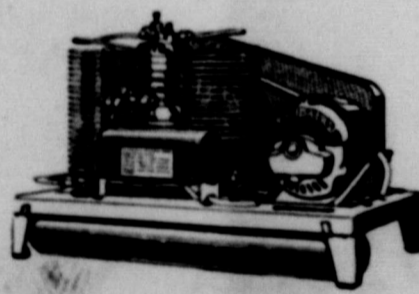

The Frigidaire design prevents any waste space either at the bottom or top of the cabinet.

POWERFUL REFRIGERATOR

When you buy a mechanical refrigerator you want to be sure that you will have plenty of ice and adequate refrigeration. You have a right to insist that the mechanism be free from trouble and as quiet in operation as is consistent with a machine strong enough to give you abundant refrigeration.

OVER-SIZED MOTOR

Frigidaire is equipped with a big motor, almost twice as large as would be necessary under ordinary circumstances. This assures you ample power to operate the machine under even the most trying circumstances.

USES LESS CURRENT

The fact that Frigidaire is equipped with an over-sized motor makes possible this powerful refrigerator without the excessive use of electric current, which always comes when a motor is overloaded.

ALL PARTS ACCESSIBLE

The Frigidaire mechanism is very simple. There are only fourteen moving parts and all of these can be easily got at for adjustment. Although your refrigerator may not need attention in many years, it is a comforting thought to know that it can be adjusted easily and quickly without removing any parts, right in your home. No mail order repairing.

IT FREEZES ICE QUICKLY

Frigidaire will freeze plenty of ice in from 3 to 4 hours and do this repeatedly through the day if necessary. And all the time the temperature of your box remains at a low mark.

There are hundreds of other points of superiority of Frigidaire that our salesman would be glad to explain to you. Let us demonstrate the saving a satisfaction you will get from a Frigidaire.

Dr. Frank Crane Says

LIFE AFTER DEATH

A gentleman writes me a letter, from which quotations are as follows:

"The other day my wife died. She was 39 years old. She was a martyr to her duties and to her children.

"After 19 years of marriage and hard work this wonderful wife and wonderful mother, who never complained, was taken from us.

"Now is the time when she could have taken life more easy and could have enjoyed the growing up of her children while preparing herself for old age.

"In two days she is gone. My duty towards the children will keep me going and going strong, but I feel the need for something that shall keep me going on myself."

"I would like to know if there is a season for such happenings and furthermore that the deceased one is happy in another life. Please hear the cry of a spiritual man left in the middle of life (I am not yet 49), deprived of the only one faithful companion and with nine children, from 18 to two and one-half years. I have the feeling that no other woman can ever enter my life.

"I need a number of thoughts that shall satisfy me mentally and emotionally that everything is for the best and some certainty as to the life after death."

There is no certainty of the life after death. That is a matter that must be taken on faith and hope.

Of it we have a reasonable hope.

Those who live the higher life that is above the animal, all have a feeling of another life.

While the Scriptures do not positively teach another life they assume it, as Christ says, "If it were not so I would have told you."

Honor, patriotism, self-sacrifice and devotion reach out into another life. In this life they are often thwarted.

What the Almighty's reasons were for taking this mother we cannot say. No one knows. But the best plan from any point of view is to go on assuming that he had a good reason. Nothing can be gained by giving up.

If we believe in the high purposes and devoted life of the deceased we shall ourselves participate in them.

If there is another and the deceased is cognizant of our doings here, she cannot but be gratified to know that we are living up to our ideals.

The memory of this mother has faded into a memory, but that memory will continue to inspire and bless her children and her husband.

"ON TIPTOE"

"That's it."
 "Where did you start from? How long have you been out?"
 "Left San Rafael about three weeks ago." He stooped to examine a dial. "Been just 1100 miles."
 The pirate chief, like all good commanders, was always ready to climb himself to the crow's nest. This speck on the horizon was probably a mirage that would vanish on nearer approach; but there was just a remote possibility it might be a galleon heavy with untold wealth.
 Or indeed, it might be something between the extremes. A craft laden mainly with dreams, but with a trifle of metal ballast worthy of a pirate's attention.
 So like a prudent chief, he bore down on the stranger.
 "Such a battery, if it could be well proved out, would be valuable," pursued Grimstead. One of the great elements in his success was that he knew better than to cry down the obvious. "I confess I can't imagine the principle."
 "Like to look at it?" inquired Davenport.

This was luck Grimstead had not hoped for—yet. He assented with alacrity. All crowded curiously around while the young man raised the hood.
 They saw what appeared to be an ordinary large electric motor set across the frame. In front of it and connected to it by two thick wires was a black box measuring about a foot along all dimensions.
 "There she is!" said Davenport cheerfully.
 "That! Is that your whole battery?" cried Grimstead, pointing an incredulous finger. "Why, that thing wouldn't run a bell three weeks, let alone a car. You are joshing me, young man. Where is your running battery? Under theseat?"
 Without reply Davenport raised the seat cushions to display a recess occupied only by tools; lifted the trap door of the rear to show a nearly empty interior.
 "You see, I have nothing up my sleeve with which to deceive you," said he, jestingly. "There's the whole works."
 On return to camp Grimstead fell back to consult lowvoiced with his second in command.

"What do you make of it, Boss?" he inquired.
 "He's lying, showing off. The thing is impossible."
 "Well, he certainly drove up last night from somewhere."
 "He probably lives quite near, and recharges from water power."
 "Probably," agreed Grimstead, "but even at that he's got something. That box isn't any larger than a starting battery. We'll have to look into it a little. A battery as compact as that will drive others off the market."
 Davenport put everybody to work, after a quick meal had been improvised and eaten, so that by mid-afternoon a comfortable and convenient camp had come into existence.

At supper time Simmins, panic-stricken, claimed total ignorance of camp cookery.
 "I'll do it," stated Davenport briefly. "You'll do the dishes, run the errands, get the water and carry the wood. I'll chop the wood." He looked around at the others.
 "That's the only thing I want you all to leave strictly alone—the axe. I'll do all the axe work myself."

CHAPTER VIII
Another Bet

"Well, this is something like!" cried Grimstead as he lowered himself to a cushion of aromatic boughs near the camp fire. He was well fed and warm and dry and pleasantly tired. He glanced about the scene with satisfaction. Every thing was trim and ship shape, just the way he liked to see things.
 "Young man," he went on in a large paternal manner, blowing the first cloud from his cigar, "where is your shop? San Rafael, did you say?"
 "My shop—oh, Sausalito," replied Davenport.
 "I suppose you could use a little more."
 "Who couldn't?"
 "A little additional capital might enable you to expand to advantage."
 "Additional capital," said Davenport unexpectedly, with a grin, "wouldn't enable me to expand an inch."
 "But you just said you could use more money."
 "That's different."
 "I don't see how it's different," said Grimstead a little impatiently, "but it crossed my mind that if you needed a little—buy in a share you understand. Of course an investigation—"

 "So you are interested in my battery, after all," said Davenport.
 "Kono!" Grimstead acknowledged. "At least I'm interested in what you say about your battery. The state of Missouri isn't big enough to hold me when it comes to what you claim for it. I shrewdly suspect that in that you're trying to spoof me. But it's obvious you've come from somewhere, and it's obvious that little battery brought you. Even if it's only five or ten miles, and you expect to get home again, you've got something big."

"Of course," Davenport pointed out, "I haven't tried to sell anything. And I don't suppose, in view of technical knowledge, I would have any right to resent your doubting my word. Nevertheless, I repeat that with that battery as my sole motive power I have driven about 1100 miles."

"Without recharging?" demanded Gardiner.
 "Without recharging," repeated Davenport.
 A polite but restrained silence succeeded this remark. Davenport himself relieved the situation.
 "Don't feel embarrassed!" he laughed. "Say it if you want to; I won't be offended. It may relieve your minds. There's no way to prove it to you right now, so there's no sense worrying about it."

"Pardon me," put in Gardiner suavely. "I think your statement could be at least partially tested with the facilities at hand."
 "What do you mean?" asked Davenport.
 "I mean that if you are willing to allow your battery to carry a load for any specified length of time I can arrange the load."

 "If it's not beyond the power of my battery, go to it," agreed Davenport. "I figure she'll give about 40 horsepower."

"That is more than ample. For how long—"
 "Long as you like—until we get out of here, if you please."
 "Is it another bet?" asked Burton.

"I'm willing," said Davenport, "doubles or quits. Is it a bet?"
 "I don't bet that heavily against another man's game," said Gardiner, "but I'm ready to risk five hundred that I can produce a legitimate test right here, and that this thing won't stand up under it. It is understood that my test must be met, and that the time limit is four days."

"Well, that's rather an 'unsight unseen' proposition itself," rejoined Davenport. "But just to show you I'm a sport I'll go you provided ed that it is not beyond the strength of the battery. Its endurance within its strength is all I claim."

"What I propose," said Gardiner "is that the terminals of this battery be connected with the self-starter of our car; and the starting pedal be locked down. Then the battery, through the self-starter, will be turning over the engine against the compression. I don't know the exact power required, but it is considerable. Tomorrow

I will compute it exactly. It is sufficient to exhaust the ordinary starting battery in from 10 to 20 minutes."

"That's ingenious," acknowledged Davenport, "but it's going to be as noisy as a street car. It's going to destroy our peace and quiet, and will end by getting on our nerves, I'm afraid."
 "It's begun by getting your nerve, I'm afraid," sneered Gardiner.

Confidence

Readers' column - personal reply on address Miss Flo, in care of this newspaper

Dear Miss Flo:

I am a young wife with two small children. I stay at home and do everything I can to keep my husband's love, but still he runs around with another woman. I've coaxed and pleaded with him to give her up and he always promises that he will. But he doesn't. I love him and he says he loves me, but I can't go on in this manner. It's too humiliating. Neither am I willing to give him up. Isn't there some way in which I can cure him of his philandering ways? My friends tell me that the only way I can break up the affair is to show him that two can play at the same game, but that sort of revenge strikes me as being awfully cheap. Still, I want my husband, and I'm prepared to do anything to hold him.

W. R.

Judging from the number of women who follow the course of action which your friends have outlined for you, I suppose that it must be the usual course for the injured wife to take. In rare cases, it may prove successful, but I believe that the result is almost always the same—quarrels, separation and divorce!

When a woman makes up her mind to show her husband that she can play the same game, she usually means that if he is doing wrong, she will too, and two wrongs have never yet made a right.

Nevertheless, feeling the way you do toward the man, there is only one thing to do. Stick to him! For while to some people he may seem like a poor prize to fight for—if you love him, there isn't any bigger reward—and no matter how hard the fight may be, you will consider the struggle well worth while if you are successful.

The problem of handling the other woman has been written about and advised upon by hundreds of people, but the solution of how to handle a wandering mate, in the best analysis, is up to the wife who knows better than any one else her husband's weaknesses.

Some women have cured their husbands of their infatuation by throwing them into constant companionship with the "other woman." They invite her to their homes and virtually encourage the affair, until the man becomes so fed up with the other woman's society that he is glad to cry "quits."

With some men tears and pleas are the worst attempt that can be made. Other men can resist anything but tears.

An attitude of indifference some times brings a man to his senses, but it takes a woman of tremendous will power to wear a mask over an aching heart.

Threats to leave him might serve in some cases, and in others it may have no influence at all. An actual packing up to go, with mind fully made up to leave, has convinced many men that the game isn't worth-while. Again, completely ignoring the cause of their unhappiness as if it never existed has resulted in many women winning back their prodigal mate.

If your husband is nothing worse at heart than a philanderer, you have nothing much to worry about, because sooner or later his interest in the other woman will wane.

In the meantime, don't become discouraged, for you aren't the first—nor are you the last—woman who has had the other woman to battle. Countless wives have gone through the experience, and if you remain cool and sane—if you handle the difficult matter in a tactful diplomatic manner, it is ten to one you will, in the long run, come out victorious.

"Oh Kay," Senior Play To Be Given Friday Night, 7:45

The class play of the 1923 Senior Class of the Ozona High School will be staged at the Ozona Theatre Friday evening of this week beginning at 7:45. The title of the play is "Oh Kay" described as a thrilling mystery drama in three acts. Tickets will be on sale at the door Friday night, the admission price being 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Senior Class officers are predicting a packed house for the performance. J. A. Floyd, Senior class sponsor, is directing the play.

The cast is composed of the following: Clara Patrick, Velma Richardson, Johnye Cross, Pauline Perner, Eleanor Ingham, Ethel Bennett, Mildred Davis, Arthur Kyle, Cam Longley, Mary Childress and Kathryn Baggett.

Special music for the affair will be furnished by the Crockett County Band.

"ON TIPTOE"

Gardiner leaned back with a triumphant glance at his chief.

"Oh!" cried Burton, indignant. "You aren't going to give up like that, Mr. Davenport. Were you bluffing? I didn't think you'd do that!"

"I wasn't bluffing," said Davenport quietly.

"Then do it!"

"Well, I'll tell you," suggested the young man, "there's no use getting excited or disagreeable about it. Let's be reasonable. Tomorrow morning we will move camp a little to get away from the racket, and then we'll start her up. Stay an extra day if you want to, it's worth it."

"I'll agree to that," acquiesced Gardiner, "as far as the general camp is concerned, but personally I suppose to stay here within sound of the motor."

Burton exclaimed indignantly, "but Davenport was under the impression..."

"Well," said he cheerfully, "you encourage me. A little while ago the battery countant has over 10 or 20 minutes; and now it's night-time already. I'll agree you said, 'stay here, if you want to, provided Simmons stays too.'"

"Simmons!" exclaimed Gardiner. "Why should Simmons stay here?"

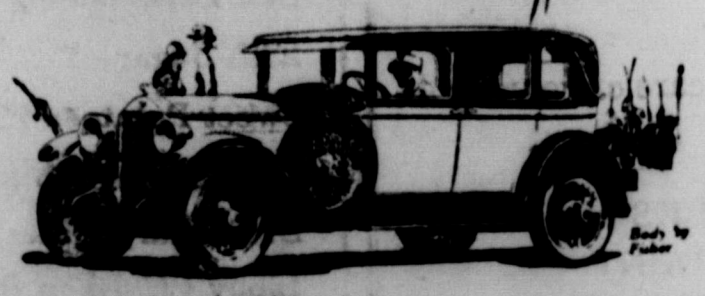

"For the same reason you do," replied Davenport blandly; "just to hear the motor go."

"Well," sighed Grimstead after a moment, "this trip certainly promises to be interesting. If the thing works even partially as you say it does, you must have a brand new principle in battery construction."

"It is a new principle," said Davenport. "Would you like to hear about it?"

About Your Health

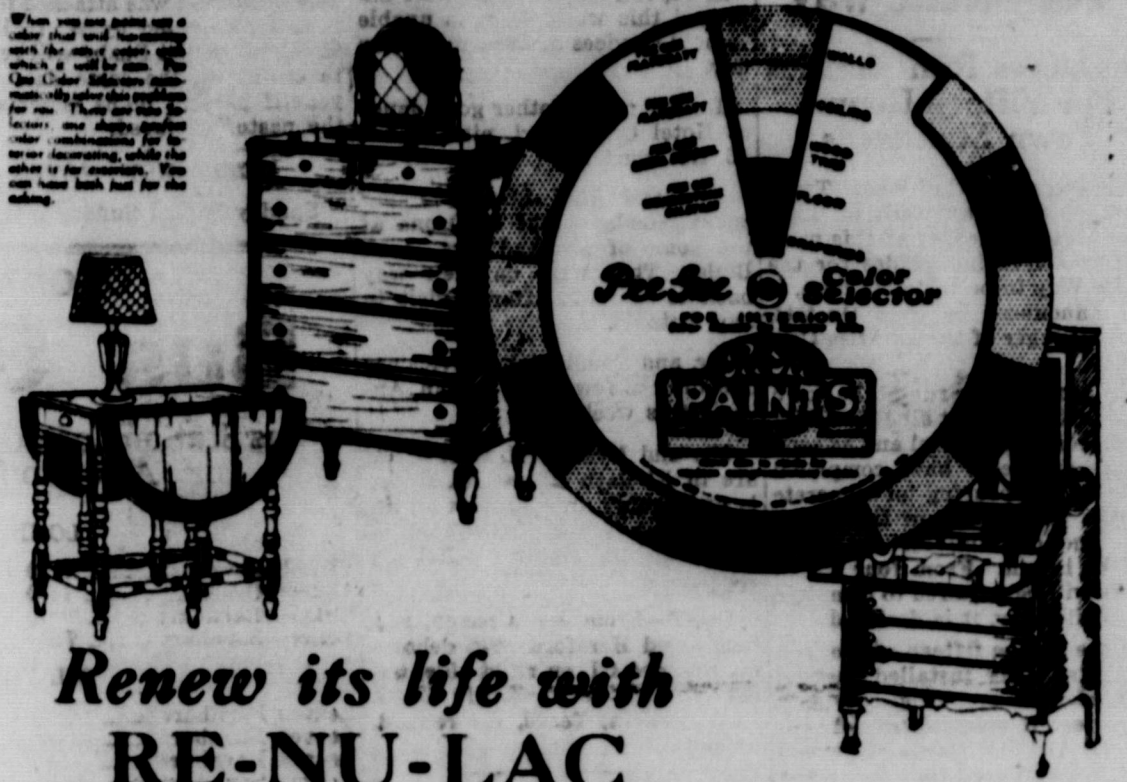

"INTESTINAL FLU"

As if the hydra-headed monster, influenza, were not terrible enough in its easily-recognizable form, humanity must, it seems, be harassed by that obscure, baffling, demon for which medical science has shied no handier name than "intestinal flu." A very distressing ailment, a characteristic of Spanish influenza, it is distinctly a respiratory disease, caused by germs which take lodging in the breathing passages, hence we find sneezing, coughing, and general irritability, along with exceptionally high temperature in most cases. Rarely have I seen cases with low temperature, and the disease is not difficult to diagnose at the first call. But this "intestinal" thing is a different proposition. The victim always in a run-down condition begins with a chilly, creepy feeling of considerable intensity, which lasts for a day or more, before being compelled to seek his bed, no matter what the treatment the bewildered physician applies. The temperature will mount to 104 or 105, about the third day; there is no cough, or other symptom referable to the lung or breathing passages. No point of infection can be made out by physical methods. A temperature of 105 is a phenomenon that I had much rather not see, my hair is too grey for my age anyway. Still the patient maintains by sheer will-power I think—to get well. And, I don't know how an accomplished it!

My motive in this article is to warn my readers at this season, to take the best possible care of themselves, it being so only way I can suggest, of avoiding attacks. Don't overload the stomach; keep the digestive tract eliminating freely; drink plenty of water; eat good, nourishing food, but not so excess. Keep the surface of the body comfortable. Avoid crowds. Alkaline mineral waters are very useful. Do not worry. Do not exhaust the body. Immunizing vaccines are worth a try, too, I am sure; your physician is your friend.

Surveys Started For "White Way"

Engineers Run Grades For Fifteen Down-Town Standards

Engineers of the West Texas Utilities Company were to have been here Wednesday of this week to start surveying grades for the White Way to be installed here, it was announced by Tom Onstott, local manager of the Utilities Company.

Grades are to be run in the down town section so that all of the light standards will be level and as soon as the engineers have completed their work, pouring of concrete for the foundations of the standards and ditching for the cable will be begun. From four to six weeks will be required to complete the White Way, it is declared.

There will be fifteen of the iron light standards installed instead of fourteen as was originally contemplated, it was announced. Directors of the Ozona National Bank have ordered that one of the standards be installed in front of the bank, the institution to pay the monthly rental at the rate that is being charged the county. Business men in other parts of the town are reported to be contemplating a co-operative plan of getting more standards erected at vantage points not included in the original plan.
