COUNTRY WEEKLIES VITAL SCHOOL FOR PARENTS THE PYGMIES LEARN HOW FIJI ISLANDERS

H. Z. Mitchell's "Sentinel" at Bemidji, Minn., wins the prize as best weekly in the National Editorial contest. This is a good time to remind the public in general, and national advertisers in particular, that country weekly newspapers are the most important organs of public opinion and protectors of public welfare.

And their advertising value, per mill line, is not excelled by any publication of any kind.

The reader of a country weekly buys everything, from shingles on the roof to cement in the cellar floor, and every advertiser has in him a possible customer.

What is the matter with our children? Not much, but a great deal is the matter with some parents.

The police are hunting for a little girl, ten years old, invited to go to a party by a plausible man, fifty-eight years old. The child did not know the man, the parents did not know him. But the parents said, "Certainly." Off she went in the stranger's car, and that's the last seen of her.

Every public school should have an annex with the sign over the door:

"Primary Common Sense for Parents."

Miss O'Brien, adventurous young explorer, returns to St. Paul, Minn., disappointed in the African pygmies. She shot all kinds of game, endured all kinds of hardship and says Africa is all right for a woman, but a little too rough for a man.

"The pygmies are darling little creatures," says she, "but I had to teach them to act wild." She wanted moving pictures of them.

Many American girls could teach any pygmy to act wild, and do so.

Fiji Islanders, bushy haired, active, gave a warm welcome to the monoplane Southern Cross, landed at Suva.

Those Fijians once had an annoying habit of eating white men. This time they only cheered them.

The fliers have beaten all records, including Lindbergh's long distance flight over water. It is 5,538 miles of scenic from Oakland, California, to Suva, Fiji Islands, via Hawaii.

The next hop, 1,700 miles, will take the fliers to Brisbane, Australia, on the way to Sydney. The world is really flying.

The 250 Fiji Islands, about eighty of them inhabited, belong to old grandmother Britannia. She rarely overlooks anything.

When young people that now read this column get their around-the-world flying machines they may find chances to grow up with the country on some of those uninhabited, unexplored Fiji Islands.

Crops in the corn belt have taken an upward turn. The Arkansas River Valley reports, "Wheat will make thirty-five bushels to the acre."

Nothing melts irritation on the farms like good rains, good crops, good prices.

Without accumulated money Niagara Falls wouldn't be harnessed, the Panama Canal, which helps Britain as much as it does us, wouldn't be dug; automobile production wouldn't be on a quantity basis and this country would have, perhaps, 240,000 expensive automobiles, instead of 24,000,000 inexpensive automobiles.

Great accumulations of capital, like great accumulations of power going down hill, represent power.

DISCUSS PLAN TO MERGE TWO LOCAL BANDS

Proposal Made To Put PTA and Town Bands Under One Head

INSURE SUPPORT

Proposal To Pool General Band Fund; Lions Name Committee

A proposal to create a general band fund for the support of both the town band and the Parent-Teachers Association's boys' band and to put the director on a salary for directing both bands and giving private lessons to members has been launched and committees from the Lions Club and the P. T. A. are conferring this week on the feasibility of such a plan.

Under the present arrangement, the Parent-Teachers Association solicits monthly contributions from individuals to make up the necessary sum to pay the Association's part of the director's salary. This amount is supplemented by monthly dues paid in by members of the adult band and these two sums are pooled to pay the director's salary.

The P. T. A. band is suspended during the summer months and when this support is withdrawn it is impossible for the members of the town to retain the services of the director during this time because of the prohibitive cost.

Under the proposed plan of pooling the fund for both bands and paying the director a salary to have charge of both the boy's and the adult band it will be possible to keep the band in operation the year round.

In addition to this advantage it will also be possible for the director to give private lessons to all members of both bands. At present private lessons are given only to those who are able to pay the fee. It is the plan to fix the director's salary at such a figure that it will be possible for him to give these lessons to all band members alike without extra charge to them. In this way it will be possible for all to get the same benefit out of the band work and it is believed under this plan the progress of both organizations will be speeded up.

A committee composed of Hugh Childress, Jr., and Ewart White was nominated by the Lions Club Monday to confer with a committee from the P. T. A. and officials of the band to work out some plan of taking care of the band. Having a first class band here would be a decided advantage to the town, it was pointed out, in fairness to the director and to members of the adult band, some plan of community support should be worked out that will apply to the town band as well as to the boy's band.

Action of the Lions Club came about after Leonard Hensley, manager of the adult band, had laid the project before the club.

Crockett County Band To Give Concert Mar. 15th In City Park

The first public concert of the Crockett County Band for the present season, will be given Friday evening, March 15, in the city park, it was announced this week by J. H. Thornhill, director.

The band has been in regular practice twice a week for several months and with a growing membership is being made into a first class musical organization. There are at present eighteen members of the band and it is expected that the membership will reach twenty-five by the middle of summer.

Doctor R. H. Carroll, president of the Carroll College for girls at San Antonio, was a visitor here in the interest of his school last Sunday. He preached the morning sermon at the Ozona Baptist Church.

Error In Texas Almanac Admitted

Editor Promises That Crockett Figures Be Corrected

The following letter was received by The Stockman this week from Stuart McGregor, editor of the Texas Almanac:

Editor,
Ozona Stockman,
Ozona, Texas.
Dear Sir:

My attention has been called to an article in the Stockman of February 14 relative to an error in the 1929 edition of The Texas Almanac. I regret to admit that you are entirely right in your criticism. I have discarded the original copy and do not know just how this error occurred, but if you will compare other counties you will see that they run at the ratio of one to three and up in all cases with the exception of Crockett County, which was given at the approximate assessed value. The Texas Almanac is proofread several times, but in a volume containing so many figures these errors will creep in. I will take pains to make correction in the next edition.

Very truly yours,
Stuart McGregor,
Editor, The Texas Almanac.

E. H. HUNT'S SHIP CRASHES; UNHURT

Clarksville, Tenn., March 6.—The monoplane of Carl C. Cromwell, wealthy oil operator of San Angelo, Texas, turned over and crashed in an attempted takeoff from a farm near here today. E. H. Hunt, pilot, was uninjured. He estimated the damage at $5,000.

Hunt, enroute to San Angelo from New York, made a forced landing on the farm Monday because of magneto trouble. He previously had left Cromwell at Bradford, Pa., where the oil man boarded a train after a snowstorm made flying difficult.—S. A. Times.

Judge Montgomery's Car Destroyed By Fire After Wreck

Mr. and Mrs. Judge Montgomery narrowly escaped serious injury Tuesday when their car, a 1928 Buick coupe, turned over between Junction and Sonora, caught fire and burned up.

Something went wrong with the steering gear of the car, Mr. Montgomery said, and the car skidded turned over. It immediately burst into flames and was destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery suffered only slight bruises. When the car turned over acid was spilled from the battery on their clothing which was ruined. Mr. Montgomery carried no insurance on the car and in addition to loss of the car they lost several hundred dollars worth of clothing, papers and other valuables in the fire which followed the wreck.

When he was unable to get Lee Wilson, local Buick dealer, by long distance telephone, Mr. Montgomery went back to Junction where he purchased a Chrysler and came on to Ozona.

U. of T. Leases Bring $260,612

U. S. Bureau Making Tests For Potash In Crockett Co.

Austin, Texas, March 6.—Grazing leases on University of Texas lands brought in a revenue of $260,612.09 during 1927-28, according to the twenty-third annual report of the University Board of Regents to Governor Dan Moody. The cost of handling has been, in recent years, about 1 per cent of the receipts. Since 1895, the leasing for grazing purposes of the lands owned by the University has been in the charge of the University land agent. Between 1884, when leasing of the public lands first began, and 1894, the average annual income was $7,670. In 1898, it was $40,409, from which figure it has risen in thirty years with R. E. L. Sauer as land agent to the 1927-28 figure. The accrual rate has been close to $270,000.

In addition to grazing and oil leases as a source of revenue for the University, there is also a prospect of an income from potash fields, according to the Regents' report. In line with Congressional action, the United States Government, through its Bureau of Mines in the Department of Commerce, is now making tests on University lands in Crockett County for the purpose of determining whether potash is accessible there in commercial quantities. The United States Government is to be very slowly reimbursed for the cost of exploration only out of the profits derived from production of potash in case of there being any profits. The agreements that have been signed are very generous to the University.

Utilities Co. Moves Lewis To San Angelo, Onstott Charge Here

T. J. Lewis, who has been commercial manager in charge of merchandise sales in Ozona for the West Texas Utilities Company for the past eight months, left Thursday for San Angelo to take up his duties as city salesman there, having been transferred there by Taylor Rowe, district manager. This change is considered a promotion for Mr. Lewis.

While in Ozona Mr. Lewis made a good sales record for the company and at the same time made many friends among Ozona people who will regret his leaving.

For a time at least Tom Onstott, local manager for the company, will have charge of the sales from the local office in addition to his other duties.

Joe Pierce, Jr., is in Temple where he will remain for a month undergoing medical treatment and visiting his father, J. S. Pierce, Sr., who is recovering from a recent operation in a Temple hospital.

LEE WILSON ACQUITTED

It took a Big Lake jury just one minute Monday to acquit Lee Wilson, Ozona and Big Lake Buick dealer, of a charge of selling a used car without giving a bill of sale. The charge was filed some time ago by a highway inspector. It was proven that the bill of sale was given as soon as the matter was called to Mr. Wilson's attention and that the spirit of the law, which was passed in an effort to prevent theft and sale of automobiles, had not been violated. The case was tried in county court, N. W. Graham, Ozona attorney defending Mr. Wilson.

Ozona Resident For 30 Years Succumbs To Apoplexy

DIED SATURDAY

Burial At Ozona Cemetery Sunday Afternoon

Hundreds of sorrowing friends of Ozona and surrounding sections followed the remains of Mrs. Tom Nolen, a resident of Ozona for more than thirty years, to its last resting place in Cedar Hill Cemetery where funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Nolen died Saturday afternoon in Del Rio following a stroke of apoplexy almost four weeks before. She had been unconscious almost the entire time since the stroke and her death was expected. Members of the immediate family were at her bedside when the end came. Mr. Nolen had taken her to Del Rio for treatment when she was stricken at a hotel there. She was later transferred to a hospital where every medical agency was enlisted in an effort to save her life.

The funeral cortege moved from the residence of C. C. Montgomery where brief services were held. Services were conducted at the graveside by Rev. J. H. Meredith, pastor of the Methodist Church here. Rev. McWhorter, former pastor of the Ozona Methodist Church here and a close friend of the Nolen family, was to have conducted the services but arrived too late. The pallbearers were N. W. Graham, Judge Chas. E. Davidson, Ned Friend, John Young, A. C. Hoover, Chris Meinecke, Jones Miller and Floyd Henderson.

Mrs. Nolen was 52 years old. The family had made their home in Ozona for about thirty years, moving from here to San Angelo three years ago. Mr. Nolen was county and district clerk of Crockett County for several years, entering the oil and ranching business upon moving to San Angelo. The family is well known throughout West Texas.

Surviving are the husband and two daughters, Misses Josephine and Lois Nolen, one sister, Mrs. E. S. Briant of San Angelo, and a brother, Will Gurley of Dryden. Mrs. Nolen was a member of the local chapter of the Eastern Star and surviving Eastern Star members attended the funeral in a body and took part in the funeral services at the grave.

"Keep thy shop, and thy shop will keep thee."—Chapman.

If we could wield the facile pen of a Brann we would here and now pour out a flow of verbal violence that would rattle the window panes.

Last week some pusillanimous, low-life scum of creation sneaked out under cover of night and dropped poison to three or four dogs, harmless animals, playmates of little children and loyal friends of grown-ups. These animals, objects of the boundless love of childhood, after hours of agonized suffering, died, innocent, faithful, courageous dumb animals murdered by a fiend whose only object was to inflict suffering and to snuff out innocent lives.

It is sometimes necessary to kill dogs. They may become so vicious that they are a menace to human safety. They may develop the dreaded rabies and in that case it is humane to end their suffering.

But the person who harbors a hate for all dogs irrespective of whether or not he comes in contact with them, and goes out with a deliberate intention of killing them is a varmint that should be exterminated from the face of the earth at the earliest possible moment. The skunk in human form who will deliberately kill an innocent playmate of a little child is unfit to associate with human kind and would be a disgrace in Hell!

Now, if the scalawag who tries this cap and finds it to fit and takes exception to this classification will just call around personally we will do our best to give him satisfaction.

HE WENT ABOUT DOING GOOD

Matthew 4:23,24. And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people. 24. And his fame went throughout all Syria: and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatic, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them. FINAL INSTALLMENT

"You can go back to her, Duane! It never seemed possible, but now it's true. Fight with us from cover—then go back to her. You will have served the Texas Rangers as no other man has. I'll accept your resignation. You'll be free, honored, happy—and rich. Jennie's rich, Duane. And she loves you! My God! how that girl loves you! She's—"

But Duane cut him short with a fierce gesture. He lunged up to his feet and the rangers fell back. Dark, silent, grim as he had been, still there was a transformation singularly more sinister, stranger.

"Enough. I'm done," he said somberly. "I've planned. Do we agree—or shall I meet Poggin and his gang alone?"

MacNelly cursed and again threw up his hands, this time in baffled chagrin. There was deep regret in his dark eyes as they rested upon Duane.

"I accept, Duane," he rejoined quietly. "I'll go about the arrangements at once."

Duane was left alone. Never had his mind been so quick, so clear, so wonderful in its understanding of what had heretofore been intricate and elusive impulses of his strange nature. His determination was to meet Poggin. Meet him before anyone else had a chance—Poggin first—and then the others! He was as unalterable in that decision as if, on the instant of its acceptance, he had become stone.

At a few minutes before half-past two a dark compact body of horsemen appeared far down, turning into the road. They came o a sharp trot—a group that would have attracted attention anywhere at any time.

They came a little faster as they entered town—then faster still—now they were four blocks away—now three—now two. Duane backed down the middle of the vestibule, up the steps, and halted in the center of the wide doorway.

There seemed to be a rushing in his ears through which pierced sharp ringing clip-clop of iron hoofs. He could see only the corner of the street. But suddenly into that shot lean-limbed dusty bay horses. There was a clattering of nervous hoofs pulled to a halt.

Duane saw the tawny Poggin speak to his companion. He dismounted quickly. They followed suit. They had the manner of ranchers about to conduct some business. No guns showed.

Poggin started leisurely for the bank-door, quickening step a little. The others, close together, came behind him. Blossom Kane had a bag in his left hand. Jim Fletcher was left behind, and he had already gathered up the bridles.

Poggin entered the vestibule first, with Kane on one side, Boldt on the other, a little behind him.

As he strode in he saw Duane. "Great Scott!" he cried.

Something inside Duane burst, piercing all of him with cold. Was it that fear?

"Buck Duane!" echoed Kane.

One instant Poggin looked up, and Duane looked down.

Like a striking jaguar Poggin moved. Almost as quick, Duane threw his arm.

The guns boomed almost together.

Duane felt a blow just before he pulled trigger. His thoughts came swift like the strange dots before his eyes.

His rising gun had loosened in his hand. Poggin had drawn quicker!

A tearing agony encompassed his breast. He pulled—pulled—at random.

Thunder of booming shots all about him!

Red flashes—jets of smoke—shrills—yells.

The end—yes—the end!

With fading sight he saw Kane go down, then Boldt. But supreme torture—bitterer than death—Poggin stood, mane like a lion's, back to the wall, bloody-faced, grand, with his guns spouting red!

All faded—darkened. The thunder deadened. Duane fell, seemed floating.

There it drifted—Jennie Lee's sweet face, white, sad, with dark tragic eyes—fading—fading—fading—

Light shone before Duane's eyes—thick, strange light that came and went. It seemed a long time with dull and booming sounds rushing by, filling all. It was a dream in which there was nothing. Drifting under a burden—darkness—light—sound—movement. Obscure struggling thought—vague sense of time—long time.

There was blackness and fire, creeping consuming fire. He was rolled and wrapped in it—and a dark cloud carried him away, enveloped him.

He saw then, dimly, a room that was strange, strange people moving about, over him, with faint voices, far away, things in a dream.

He saw again, clearly, and consciousness returned, still strange, still unreal, full of those vague and far-away things. He was not dead, then. He lay stiff, like a stone, with a weight ponderous as a mountain upon him. And slow dull beating, burning agony racked all his bound body.

A man bent over him, looked deep into his eyes, and seemed to whisper from a distance: "Duane—Duane—Ah, he knew me!"

After that another long time of darkness; when the light came again, clearer, this same dark-eyed earnest man bent over him. It was MacNelly—and with recognition the past flooded back.

Duane tried to speak. His lips were weak and limp. Their movement was barely perceptible.

"Have—you—sent—for her?"

"No, oh, no. It's not that bad. You've got a chance. Why, man, you'll get well. You'll pack a sight of lead all your life, Duane. The whole Southwest knows your story. You need never be ashamed again of the name Buck Duane. It'll live in Texas with that of Davy Crockett. Think of Jennie—home—mother!"

Then there was a white house—home—and his heart beat thick.

How familiar it all was—how strange, too! And all seemed magnified.

The someone in white cried low and knelt by his bed.

His mother flung wide her arms with strange gesture.

"That man—that's his father! Where is my boy? My son, oh, my son!"

It was sheer pleasure to lie by the west window and watch Uncle Jim whittle his stick and listen to him talk. He was old now and broken.

He told so many interesting things about people Duane had known, people who had grown up, and married, failed, succeeded, gone away, died. But it was hard to keep Uncle Jim off the subjects of guns, fights, outlaws. He could not seem to divine how mention of those things made Duane shrink.

Uncle Jim, old, childish now, and he had a pride in Duane. He wanted to hear it all—all of Duane's exile. And if there was one thing more than another that pleased him it was to speak of the bullets Duane carried in his body.

"Nine bullets, wasn't it? Nine in that last scrap. By gum! A man's a man to carry them. And you had three before?"

"Yes, uncle," replied Duane.

"Nine and three—that makes twelve. An even dozen. You could pack more than that, my boy, and get away with them. There's Cole Younger—I've seen him. He's got twenty-three. But he's a bigger man than you—more flesh."

"Funny, wasn't it, about the doctors only cuttin' one bullet out of you—that one in your breast bone? It was a forty-one caliber, an unusual cartridge."

"There was one bullet left in Poggin's gun, and it was the same kind as the one cut out. By gum! boy, that bullet would have killed you if it'd stayed there."

Fame Of Sargon Spreads Over Entire Nation

New Scientific Medicine Proclaimed Greatest Medicine of All Time By Tens of Thousands Who Have Taken it

Never before, perhaps, in all history has the demand for a proprietary medicine ever approached the wonderful record that is now being made by Sargon, the new scientific formula which has been accomplishing such remarkable results throughout this section. Its fame is rapidly spreading over the entire country and wherever introduced, Sargon is the most talked of medicine in the country today. Nothing like it has ever been seen before.

Sargon was first placed on the market just a little over six months ago. Its success was immediate and people everywhere were quick to recognize in it a new and epoch-making product—a medicine of great power and extraordinary merit. In leading cities where it has been placed on sale it has required from 70,000 to 100,000 bottles to supply the unprecedented demand, establishing a record probably never before equaled in the history of drug trade.

Countless thousands of men and women, in all walks of life, suffering with stomach, liver and bowel troubles, some of them of long standing; as well as thousands of weak, thin, nervous men and women apparently on the verge of collapse have voluntarily come forward and testified that they have been fully restored to their normal health, strength and weight by its use.

Still others, who seemed fairly well, yet suffered with constipation in its worst form, indigestion, dyspepsia, headaches, shortness of breath, bad complexion, bad breath, loss of appetite, sleeplessness at night and of terribly dejected, depressed feelings, stated that they have been entirely relieved of these distressing symptoms and restored to health by its use.

Sargon is the result of the last ten years of world-wide scientific research; it embodies new knowledge of certain organs and fluids of the body recently come to light; it is helping build up run-down men and women by modern methods undreamed of a generation ago.

Sargon may be obtained in Ozona from the Ozona Drug Co.—Adv.

About Your Health

Things You Should Know

by John Joseph Quinn, M.D.

IMPORTANT MINERALS

The blood is enriched by certain minerals in our food, beyond question. I mention Lime, (Calcium) Potassium, Iron and Iodine as among those of first importance.

These minerals abound in earth, and are taken up by plants which grow everywhere in the soil. Food animals get the minerals by eating the plants, and store them in the red muscles, such as our beef-steaks, hams and mutton-chops. Our animal and plant foods are richer in mineral content when they are grown on the lower levels of soil. The hills lose continually their minerals by rainfall and drainage, so that hill-grown animals and plants are poorer in mineral values.

The chief value of the minerals is in the growth of bone in children, particularly the teeth. The milk of a cow grazing in the hills is much poorer food for the child than from a cow that fattens on valley food. Corn, wheat, garden vegetables are far more nutritious if grown in bottom lands. The careful observer even, may have noticed that cattle in mountain sections of the country carry less fat than animals of the lower plains. Vegetation is more dwarfed on the sunburned arid hill-sites. The reason is, that the minerals have been washed away from the elevations.

And, haven't you noticed that the adult human being in higher altitudes is, generally wiry, with thinner muscles, as well as more "nervous" in temperament? Minerals are feeders for nerves as well as for muscles. The logical conclusion therefore is, if you are too fat, seek moderately high altitudes; if too lean, try to secure your cereals, vegetables and meats from rich, alluvial valleys of the lower levels.

OTHERWISE RIGHT

You're all beaten up again. Have another row with your wife? No, not a row—just the same old story. She's right and I didn't agree with her quick enough.

Mrs. A. C. Hoover, Mrs. Glenn Rutledge and Mrs. A. E. Defand were in San Angelo on a shopping tour Wednesday.

"The bullet went through Jones and killed Smith. They arrested Jones."

"Why?"

"Well, it was through Jones that Smith was shot, wasn't it?"

"No matter where I hide," sighed the leopard. "I'm always spotted."

Dr. Frank Crane Says

The Passing of the Horse
It seems as if the day of the horse is about over, at least in the city.

For centuries the horse has been the symbol of speed and power. He was transportation. The oldest sculptures represent rampant battle steeds, and heroes have generally been sculptured riding on horses.

But this age of motor cars is finding him too slow. We may love horses and delight in them, but apparently they are bound to go.

Agitation is now taking place in London to ban the slow-moving horse-drawn vehicle from the crowded streets.

One daily paper says: "Officialdom stands by idle while every day lumbering horse-drawn vans and carts cause long traffic blocks in congested thoroughfares. The loss and inconvenience caused by the traffic delays are incalculable, and yet nothing is done to ameliorate the nuisance."

In some congested regions of Paris, such as the Place de l'Opera and the Place Vendome, horse traffic is banished within certain prescribed hours.

The indictment against the horse seems to be that he is slow and that he is dirty.

There is strong support for the suggestion that London should follow the example of Paris.

Others would banish the horse if only for the sake of the animals. One cannot watch without pity horses struggling on the slippery streets.

They are often stationary in the traffic blocks with their noses just above the exhausts of motors giving out foul fumes which have been known to kill human beings.

Altogether it looks as if this age of rapid transit is going to do away with the horse, which has been called "the greatest friend of man."

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Peters and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Clayton spent the week-end in San Antonio to hear the grand opera being given there.

Seven Sections Of Grass Burn

Fire Near Big Lake Threatens Town, Origin Unknown

BIG LAKE, March 6.—A raging prairie fire, fanned by a west wind which spread it toward Big Lake, burned off seven sections of grass about four miles northwest of Big Lake shortly after noon Wednesday. Origin of the fire never was determined.

The blaze was checked when it reached the Stiles road, a large group of fighters preventing its becoming started across the highway. All the boys in the high school were rushed to the scene with practically the entire citizenship of Big Lake.

No livestock was lost in the fire, it was reported. The loss of grass, however, is heavy. The fire burned over the land owned by J. Jagers, D. W. Loftin and Edgar Beeton.

The San Angelo fire department was asked for assistance when it was thought the high wind would carry the fire to Big Lake. The Seagraves 500-gallon pumper, driven by Zip Lee, assistant chief, and Ed White, and the county truck, driven by J. H. Gerald, were sent out. After making the trip to Big Lake in two hours and 35 minutes they were informed that the blaze had been stopped.

Dr. Viteles of the University of Pennsylvania has made a very interesting survey of automobile records.

He reports that women drivers become involved in accidents three times as often as men.

At first blush this seems to be rather an indictment of the woman who drives. But let us examine the fact further.

Most of the accidents in which women are involved are minor ones. They are able to act intuitively and quickly in an emergency, and so there is much less damage than results from accidents in which men are involved.

In addition, most of the accidents that happen to women drivers are the result of their carelessness. They drive slowly, and are struck far more frequently than they strike other cars, bearing the brunt of the recklessness of others.

However, it is a common failing of the woman driver to be inclined to choose the center of the road, even when she is going slowly.

One Sunday morning, the pastor noticed a new member at church. He went over to talk with the newcomer.

"Well, well, I'm mighty glad to see you, Rastus. Guess you-all haven't been to church in a good while."

"I had to come. I need strength," answered Rastus. "You see, it's this way. I've got a job whitewashin' a chicken coop and weedin' a watermelon patch."

"Their chauffeur seems a sober, careful fellow."

"Well, for the wages they pay they can't expect anything else."

"Last Of The Duane's"

"It would indeed, uncle," said Duane, and the old, haunting, somber mood returned.

But Jennie was with him most of the time, and when she was by there was a deep, quiet joy such as had never been his.

She knelt by him at the window, her sweet face still white, but with warm life beneath the marble, her dark eyes still intent, haunted by shadows, but no longer tragic.

"The pain, Duane—is it any worse today, dear?" she asked.

"No, it's the same. It will always be the same, Jennie. I'm full of lead, you know. But I don't mind that."

"It's the old mood—the fear?"

"Yes. It haunts me. I'll be able to go out soon. Then it'll come back."

"No—no, Duane," she said.

"Some drunken cowboy—some fool with a gun will hunt me out," he said miserably. "Buck Duane! To kill Buck Duane!"

"Hush! Listen to me," she whispered, with tender arms round him. "I understand. But you will never have to draw again, Duane. You'll never kill another man, thank God! For you will have me with you always. Soon you'll be well. Then, Duane, we'll—we'll be married."

"We'll take Uncle Jim along and mother and go far from Texas, north somewhere—to Indiana, Michigan, anywhere that we want. I have money, Duane! Isn't it wonderful? The little, ragged girl you met out in Bl—out in the Rio Grande!"

"Do you remember my greaser sandals—no stockings! And I was lame then. Oh, it all comes back! But that's past. We'll buy a farm, and you will be busy with horses and cattle and sheep."

"You'll forget. I'll love you so. Maybe—I hope—oh, I pray—there'll be children. We'll be happy, Duane."

They watched the sun set golden over the line of low hills in the West, down over the Nueces, far beyond the wild country of the Rio Grande which they were never to see again.

TWO GIRLS

Dear Miss Vera,

We are girls 15 and 16 years old, and are not considered bad looking. How old should a girl be when she has fellows? Should the parents object to a boy and girl of 16 keeping company? Is a boy of 25 too old to go with a girl of 15? Is a girl of 15 too young to let a boy bring her home? Would a boy who didn't care anything for a girl walk 16 miles to see her every Saturday night?

15 and 16 YEARS.

Dear girls, you ask questions which I have often before been asked, and the answer must be about the same as I have given before. It stands to reason that there is no definite age when a girl should start having male friends; it all depends on circumstances. There are no general rules about these things. There is a big difference between 25 and 15, but, later the difference between 35 and 25 is not so very appalling; so that a boy of 25 cannot be considered too old for a girl of 15 when one thinks of the future of the couple. Why should a girl of 15 be too young to let a boy take her home? If anything, she should be glad that he proves courteous enough to afford her the protection of an escort. The last question you ask is a new one on me, and all I can say is that it looks as if the boy in the case does care something for the girl.

Didn't Come To Her Party

Dear Miss Vera,

I like a boy very much. He is about two years older than I and a real good fellow, and I have met him at lots of parties, but when I invited him to one I held he promised to come and then stayed away. Later I saw him and when I asked him why he had not come, he just said he had been busy. Also he has never asked to see me. What can I do?

WORRIED.

Dear Worried, why be worried about him? Evidently you haven't yet gained his attention to the extent you would like to gain it, but Time may remedy this. Just keep on being nice as you can be every time you chance to see him, and perhaps—most likely, in fact—his interest in you will grow. Invite him again to a party after a short while and see whether he comes to it or not this time. I certainly wouldn't feel hurt about it, though, if I were you—probably he would have come to your party had he been able to do so, and probably he would like to but is reticent about asking to see you. Why not help him along with a few subtle hints and see how they work?

Concho, Texas, March 6.—“Sheep never had stomach worms and tape worms until you came along with your post-mortem examinations,” a veteran ranchman here told Roy Terry, county agent, the other day. “They used to die, though,” he added with a twinkle in his eye. Last year 10,000 sheep were treated for stomach worms in Concho county in demonstrations by Mr. Terry, who declares that capsules of tetrachlorethylene are proving the most efficient remedy since ranchers have learned how to use them.

Find Farm Flocks of Sheep Pay

Bonham, Texas, March 6.—The sheep population in Fannin County has doubled within the last twelve months, according to Edmund Singleton, county agent, who attributes the increase to the successful experience of a few farmers who were induced to start small flocks of sheep on their farms several years ago. “T. S. Cunningham ham who lives near Leonard has averaged around 100 per cent on his investment for three years from a flock of from ten to fifteen head. He states that he makes a profit from any other department of his greater profit from his sheep than farm. J. Wright Russell purchased a car of good grade Rambouillet ewes from off the range last January a year ago and from these he has raised almost a 100 percent lamb crop, selling his mutton lambs and keeping the ewe lambs to increase his flock. His first load of fat lambs averaged 72 pounds a piece and sold for 14 cents per pound, and this added to the wool clip from ewes, more than paid the original purchase price. He now has 350 ewes.”
