MONEY AND LOVE.
HOLMES, BRANDEIS DISSENT.
MODERN YOUTH.
NOBODY KNOWS THE FUTURE.

In New York a man killed himself. The reason:
"I've lost my money."
In Chicago a young Englishwoman, twenty-eight, jumped to death from a twelve-story window. Her message:
Shakespeare's "Men have died, and worms have eaten them, but not for love," is not true of women. Men die for money, women for love.

Justices Holmes and Brandeis of the Supreme Court, are often together in the headline "Holmes and Brandeis dissent." Justice Holmes eighty-eight, oldest man that ever sat on the bench, and Justice Brandeis, one of the ablest lawyers and one of the best men in the United States, are old fashioned Americans, taking freedom of thought and speech quite seriously.

Rosika Schwinmer applied for citizenship, and the Supreme Court rejected her appeal, because she is a pacifist, does not believe in war and says she would not fight.

She is past sixty, and could not fight much anyhow. Apart from that, Justice Holmes reminds his fellow judges that the Founder of Christianity was also a Pacifist.

There is no doubt that if Christ returned as an immigrant at Ellis Island, he would be rejected after brief inspection of his teachings.

You can hear the words of reproof, "What makes a rich man give all his money to the poor? Go back to Russia."

Those that deplore the tendencies of "modern youth," late hours, short dresses, wild dances, cocktails, and the rest, will be interested in an investigation and report by Chicago's Episcopal Church.

Young people are wild, says the report, but the blame rests with the parents. Dr. Young, head of the Howe School of Indiana, says he is more worried about the parents than about children.

It is a fact that bootleggers' customers are the parents. Children despise the law, and parents set them the example.

Nobody knows what may be ahead of him.

Frank Presbrey, in his able book, just published, "History and Development of Advertising," quotes an old advertisement offering $10 for the return of "one Andrew Johnson, who had run away from James Selby, a tailor, at Raleigh, N. C., to whom he was apprenticed. That boy, when he ran away, didn't know he was going to be President Andrew Johnson of the United States of America.

And Thomas A. Edison, when he sat at his telegraph key, thinking about sending more than one message on the same wire at the same time, did not dream that his THINKING would add tens of billions to the wealth of the world.

Richard E. Enright, for years head of New York Police, says murderers should be put to work to support their families, instead of being sent to the electric chair.

Working and producing, the murderer would be more useful than lying in quicklime, outside the prison wall.

Mr. Enright also advises that thieves be imprisoned and employed long enough to make them repay those whom they have robbed.

The murderers would approve his suggestion, the thieves not.

OZONA ALL SET TO ENTERTAIN FAIR VISITORS

10,000 Persons Expected To Visit Here Next Week

GROUND READY Track Smoothed Out; Improvements Made In Equipment

Ozona is on her toes in readiness to receive thousands of visitors who are expected to flock to this city next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday for the fourth Annual Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show.

Three full days of entertainment, the greatest celebration in the history of Ozona, is in store for every visitor to the city and to home folk at the fair grounds during the three days.

At least 10,000 persons are expected to be present for the three days entertainment and fair officials are confident that all previous records will be broken.

All departments of this year's entertainment have been expanded and improved and patrons of the Ozona July celebration are promised better entertainment than they have ever had before. Featuring the improvements this year will be the races. Larger purses are being offered than ever before and some of the finest horses in the state are expected to be here to take part in the contests. Entries in the Menard and Sonora race meets have been more numerous and on the whole a faster and better bunch of race horses than in previous years and Paul Perner, chairman of the racing committee, feels confident that practically every horse entered in these two meets, members of the West Texas Racing and Fair Association, will be entered in the Ozona meet, in addition to many others who did not compete in these meets. A total of $1700 in purses is being offered in the race meet here.

Both the Rambouillet sheep show and sale and the registered Hereford cattle show and sale will be larger than ever before. Joe T. Davidson, chairman of the cow show, Vic Pierce, chairman of the sheep show, and A. C. Hoover, chairman of the sheep sales, have announced that more entries have already been received in these departments than ever before and it is predicted that with this year's program, the Crockett County livestock show and sale will take its place among the most important in the state.

For the rodeo events, new and wilder brones, Brahma steers and wild milk cows have been assembled and some of the best ropers and riders in the state are expected to compete in these events for the entertainment of the crowds. There will be, in addition to the rodeo, race meet and stock show program, a free barbecue in the city park each day at noon during the three days and a dance each night on the concrete platform at the fair grounds, music to be furnished by one of the best orchestras in West Texas.

The second frog derby produced by West Texas will be another feature of the July 4th program. The frog derby, for purses totaling $200, will be held immediately after the close of the day's racing program. Already nearly 100 entries have been received and fully 150 or 200 frogs are expected to be entered by the time the starter gives the signal and the crowd yells "they're off." There will also be a carnival on the fair grounds lots for the entertainment of those who do not take part in the dancing during the evenings.

Committee chairman who will be on the job at the grounds during the daily programs are as follows:
SHEEP—J. W. Owens.
GOATS—B. B. Ingham.
CATTLE—Joe T. Davidson.
HORSES—Rob Miller.
WOOL—Jones Miller.

JULY 5 TO BE LIONS DAY AT OZONA RODEO

Banquet To Be Held At Hotel Ozona With Local Lions Hosts

INTER-CITY MEET

Clubs In Surrounding Towns To Be Invited To Be Present

Lions from all surrounding towns will be invited guests of the Ozona Lions Club at the second inter-city meeting of clubs in this section at a banquet and special program to be held at the Hotel Ozona next Friday evening, July 5, the closing day of the fourth annual Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show.

This was the decision reached at the regular meeting of the club at noon Monday. Designation of the last day of the rodeo as Lions Day has been agreed to by officials of the fair association and representatives of the clubs to be invited to the inter-city meeting will be urged to get here in time for the rodeo and racing program at the fair grounds Friday afternoon.

The program for the inter-city meeting and banquet will be arranged by a committee assisting President M. M. Fulmer, who will name the committee to aid him in mapping out the evening's program. The banquet will begin at about 8 o'clock Friday evening and will be concluded in time for visitors from nearby towns to return to their homes that night, it was agreed. A special menu will be prepared by J. I. Hancock, manager of the hotel dining room and cafe.

This will be the second inter-city meeting of Lions clubs in this section suggested at the recent state Lions Convention held in San Angelo. The first such meeting was held at Sonora recently and was attended by nearly 100 Lions and ladies. There were visitors from San Angelo, Menard, Eldorado and Ozona.

In view of arrangements for the inter-city meeting Friday night, there will be no regular meeting of the club at its noon luncheon hour at the hotel Monday, it was agreed.

Hunt To Take Up 4 Passengers During Rodeo Next Week

Airplane rides for visitors and homefolks will be an added attraction at the fourth annual Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show to be held in Ozona July 3, 4 and 5. Embree Hunt, pilot for the S. E. Couch Ryan Broughman monoplane, announced this week that the plane would be available for commercial flying all during the rodeo, taking up passengers for short rides over the city and surrounding section. A charge of $3 a passenger will be made for the rides.

Mr. Hunt also plans to take up passengers in similar manner every Sunday afternoon, and in case its services are needed it will be available for cross-country flights.

Handsome Pair Spurs Offered Best Bronc Rider At Ozona Rodeo

A pair of silver-mounted "Paddy Ryan" spurs, made by the Crockett Bit and Spur Company will be awarded the best bronc rider at the fourth annual Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show here next week. It was announced this week by the Jones Saddlery Company, local distributors of the Crockett bits and spurs.

The spurs, with leathers to be furnished by the Jones Saddlery Company, sell regularly at $15 a pair. The bronc rider who wins the best three day average purse will also win the silver mounted spurs.

Ben Lemmons is in El Paso receiving medical care.

To Grade, Sprinkle Sts. Before Rodeo

Commission And Fair Officials To Co-Operate In Matter

Work of grading the streets of Ozona to get them in tip-top shape in preparation for the opening of the fourth annual Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show next week was started this week. The county road crew was ordered to the city to pad the streets in condition by Commissioner E. B. Ingham.

It is understood that officials of the Fair Association have indicated that the streets will be thoroughly sprinkled every day during the rodeo in order to eliminate the dust, in the event rain does not fall between now and the opening day. The Lions Club at its meeting Monday decided to see that the sprinkling work is done in case fair officials did not have it done.

BOZO, STANDARD ENTRY, WINNER OF FROG DERBY

"Bozo," the blue streak from San Angelo, captured in the wilds of Tom Green County and learning in a few hours association with a bunch of newspaper men the stupendous sum involved in a $100 purse, twice crossed the line in a tiny cloud of dust ahead of a field of 58 others to win first money in the first frog race staged at Barnhart last Thursday night.

"Bozo," who, according to his trainers, developed his speed dodging automobiles on the Mertzon-San Angelo highway near the twelve-mile bridge where he was captured, was the entry of the editorial force of the San Angelo Standard-Times.

"Bozo" was a little slow in taking off in the first heat. With a shouting, cheering mob gathered on the rim of a circle 30 feet across, 30 of the 59 frogs entered in the race were released from under a tub in the first heat. Under a glare of electric lights swung over the race track, the frogs were temporarily dazed and it was a few minutes before they began to wriggle out from the pile. A big fellow, who gave the impression of having made up his mind where he was going and why, stepped out from the common rabble, wriggled his tail a few times, pawed up a little dust and struck out for the rim of the circle.

The 29 remaining frogs were placed in the ring for the second heat. The second heat was apparently anybody's race, for in a few seconds the frogs began to

Frog Derby To Be Held Here July 4

Nearly 100 Entries Received; $200 In Purses Offered

With nearly 100 entries already received, the second frog derby in history gives promise of being a bigger race of high stepping horned frogs than even the promoters dreamed.

The second big horned toad derby, modeled after the first one held last week in Barnhart, will be held in Ozona on the afternoon of July 4, the second day of the fourth annual Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show, according to the promoters, Alvin Harrell and Doug Kirby.

Purses totaling $200 are being offered to winners in the Ozona Frog Derby, the promoters announce. First money will be $125 in cash, second money $50 and $25 to the winner of the consolation race. The exact time and place of the derby has not been decided but it is expected to be immediately after the rodeo program is concluded at the fair grounds, possibly around 7 o'clock on Thursday evening, July 4.

More than 200 frogs are to be available on the day of the race, Ozona boys being engaged now in catching the racers near here. Several head of pedigreed stock have already been placed in pens ready to be chosen as entries in the big event. An entrance fee of $2.50 is being charged and frogs are available at 10 cents each.

Thursday, June 27, 1929.

In less than a week more the Fourth Annual Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show will get under way. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, July 3, 4, and 5, the greatest show in the history of Ozona will be presented and at least 10,000 visitors are expected to be here during the three days.

Three years in the past Ozona has entertained a vast throng during its three days celebration and she will entertain them in the same hospitable fashion again this year. Ozona's hospitality is known throughout West Texas, its free barbecue three days, its greatest rodeo, race meet and stock show west of Fort Worth, its wonderful hotel, its elaborate entertainment and its hospitable people. Those are factors which have combined to make the annual Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show in Ozona the great success it is. Headed by a town who work together to the last ditch and leave nothing undone that is in their hands toward making a successful entertainment out of this annual affair, and backed by a town that is 100 per cent willing to co-operate and work with the fair association heads, a successful entertainment is assured. All West Texas is cordially invited to visit Ozona on this occasion and enjoy the entertainment and hospitality of "The Biggest Little Town in the World."

Jim Ferguson has broadcast to newspapers of the state a signed attack on the two proposed amendments to be voted on July 16 and asks newspapers to publish this down-in-the-sandhills concoction of inane drivel so typical of the Forum which Jim edits to relieve his mind of the vituperation which constantly oozes from it.

One of the amendments provides that the governor's salary be raised to $10,000 a year. Jim thinks that's too much, and well he might. With Ma in the seat and Jim behind it, he would be willing to accept the job again, no doubt, and pay the state a bonus for the privilege. The other amendment provides that the membership of the supreme court be increased from 6 to 9 members. Jim thinks three minds can agree quicker than nine. This amendment has the endorsement of better lawyers than Jim Ferguson and we, for one, are inclined to put more faith in their opinion than in Jim's. We hadn't definitely made up our mind as to these two amendments, but Jim has just about made it up for us.

Commissioner B. B. Ingham and officials of the Fair Association are to be commended on their action in having the streets of Ozona graded and sprinkled before the rodeo. Perhaps by next year, visitors to the rodeo will be able to ride over paved streets in Ozona, but, anyway, they will be assured smooth streets this year and the sprinkling process will keep residents from having to dig out their domiciles when the show is over.

Among Ozona visitors in Barnhart last Thursday night to witness the first frog race ever held in Texas were Hugh Childress, Jr., Miss Mary Childress, J. L. Littleton, Leonard Hensley, Alvin Harrell, Mr. and Mrs. Evart White, Doug Kirby, Jack Sharp and Jake Young.

Mrs. Lee Wilson and children, Woodrow, Melba and Erma Lee, left Saturday for California where they will spend several weeks visiting relatives and vacationing.

FOR SALE—Infant bed, screened in, large rubber tired wheels. Also breakfast room set with four chairs. For information call 31 or 14.

The regular meeting of the Ozona chapter of the Eastern Star will take place on the 3rd Tuesday night of each month.

What Happened Before

The Sheridan Dramatic Club, of which Tom Bilbeck, the narrator, Maryella, the girl he cares for, and Jim Cooper, his rival, are members, are to give "Pygmalion and Galatea" at the Old Soldiers' Home. Mr. Hemmingway, husband of one of the actresses, thinks Bilbeck is in love with his wife. The escape of prisoners from the local penitentiary keeps Bilbeck busy at his newspaper work, so that he gets away from the dramatic group. But Maryella summons him, and starts telling the story of "Pollyanna" who believes that everything that happens turns out to be for the best.

"She is a sweet child," I said admiringly.

"But she doesn't die, so it is all right," Maryella hastened to reassure me. There is a great lesson in the book though, and if every one would take it to heart this world would be a better place to live in. Don't you think so?"

I looked at Maryella's eyes sharply. I never can tell from the rest of her face whether she is in earnest or not. She was perfectly serious.

"Yes," I admitted cautiously.

"All we can do," she went on, "is to make a beginning; but maybe others when they see how beautifully it works will follow our example."

"Us?" I questioned in alarm. "Whom do you mean by 'us'?"

"Why, the Sheridan Dramatic Club of course! All the members whom we have asked so far have agreed to do it. Jim Cooper started it. He just finished reading the book to me last night. I think it is an adorable scheme and also very practical. I wanted you to be one of the first to come in. Mrs. Hemmingway and Jim and I are the only ones so far, but if you'll try it we'll bring it up before the club and maybe change the name of the organization to the Optimists or something like that."

"Ouch!" exclaimed Mrs. Hemmingway, who had been sewing a way industriously while Maryella and I were talking.

"What's the matter, dear?" Maryella inquired.

"I just stuck the needle in my finger about an inch, darn it," murmured Mrs. Hemmingway feelingly.

"You mustn't say 'darn it,'" reproved Maryella. "The fact that you pricked yourself is all for the best. You ought to be glad."

"Why?"

Mrs. Hemmingway was a trifle petulant.

"Because"—Maryella paused and thought a moment—"because if the needle wasn't sharp enough to prick you, you couldn't sew with it. So you see it is all for the best."

She turned to me triumphantly. "You see how it works out, don't you, Tom? Isn't it lovely?"

"It would be even a better example if it had been your finger," Mrs. Hemmingway pouted, kissing her own injured digit in the absence of her husband.

Maryella disregarded the comment and continued to me: "Even our afflictions will make us happy if we look far enough back or far enough ahead. There is always some blessing disguised in every ill. All we have to do is hunt for it and if we look hard enough we'll forget all about the misfortune itself and see only the benefit."

Maryella in a moment of enthusiasm is a glowing magnet. I could no more have resisted her than as she stood before me like a little saint fairly alive with the spirit of optimism than an emotional sinner can stand against an old-fashioned revivalist. I knew there would come moments of doubt later when I would kick myself for a sentimental fool, but now I was carried away by her belief in her propaganda.

So I promised to join the cheer-up movement and to seek for the kernel of good in every husk of hardship.

"I knew you'd do it," Maryella congratulated. "You'll find it makes everything look so different!"

"Some problems are harder than others, of course. One of the very first things that struck me this morning was remembering about your being bowlegged. I couldn't figure out any way that it could be all for the best, but finally I got it. Jim Cooper helped me."

"Oh, he did," I said truculently. "What cheerful outlook could you two get on the dark fact that I am laid out in curves like a park, instead of straight like a city street?"

"We decided that it was all for the best, because if it wasn't for the curve you would probably be so tall that your head would bump the ceiling. After we got that one everything else was easy."

What was the use of being angry with her? She evidently regarded my curves impersonally, as if they were some freak of nature impossible to explain, like the Grand Canon or Niagara Falls. It was more fun being with Maryella than against her in a discussion, so I willingly let the subject drop. Adopting our new code, I decided that it was all for the best.

"How long before you'll be and a sharp pain hit me right under my liver and extended through to the pit of my stomach and almost 'knocked me out'. I was dizzy for hours afterwards and the pain just stayed in my side.

"My kidneys were acting so freely I had to be up four or five times every night. Loss of sleep made me weak and nervous and my whole system was badly run-down. My liver was out of order, I was badly constipated, and was continually taking laxatives.

"Since taking the wonderful Sargon treatment my only trouble is to keep from eating too much, and I never have a sign of indigestion. All the pain is gone from my side, my nerves are in fine shape, and I sleep fine. I'm no longer constipated. Sargon Soft Mass Pills certainly are wonderful for they do their work thoroughly without griping like other laxatives.

"I had read about Sargon, but I never had the slightest idea I would get such remarkable results from it in so short a time."

through with that?" Maryella asked Mrs. Hemmingway, who was pinning ruffles on a curious-looking garment.

"I think I can finish in another hour," she answered.

"Then, Tom," Maryella went on, taking charge of me and the expedition with her customary eye for detail, "let's get started for the Old Soldiers' Home right after lunch. Is the car running all-right to-day?"

"I don't know. Are we going out in the car?"

"Can't — It will be much nicer. Besides, there is no train back late at night and we don't want to sleep there. I called up Mrs. Lillelove and she says we can use their bus after there is no funeral in town this afternoon. That holds twelve, and if you'll take me and three others that will be all we need. Fred Merryweather went out on the train with the scenery and properties this morning."

I agreed to this arrangement. I had a few private doubts as to whether Grandmother Page would negotiate the thirty miles out to the Home and back without making any fuss about it, but I kept them to myself. The prospect of the long drive with Maryella on the front seat beside me was so roseate that I overlooked all the blue goops that might be hovering in the background.

As a justifiable precaution, however, I went to the garage to inspect the car as soon as I left Maryella's House. Grandmother rattled with joy when she saw me coming, as she always does: I gave her a lump of hard grease and patted her on the radiator. As far as I could see she looked as if she would last twenty-four hours longer.

Just to be on the safe side, however, I put a hand of baling-wire and some babbitt metal in the toolbox and bought a package of chewing gum in case the acetylene-gas system should leak anywhere.

When I called at Maryella's house I found that my load consisted of Maryella herself, Mrs. Hemmingway, Mrs. Lillelove and Jim Cooper!

"I don't like to take my car out in bad weather," he explained in answer to my look of surprise. "It's all for the best anyway, because this way we can all be together."

I hastily smothered the reply that rose to my lips and busied myself adjusting the carburetor.

It was snowing slightly and a pleasant winter sting was in the air as I threw in my clutch and Grandmother started up with a jerk as if I had struck her with a whip.

We left town at two o'clock and here is the surprise with which I close this chapter—arrived at the Old-Soldiers' Home at three-thirty without having to stop for anything!

CHAPTER IV.

Comrade Pirk Henwether.

I have never received a more royal welcome than that tendered us by those living at the Home. They had heard us coming a long way down the road—that is one of the advantages Grandmother Page has over most cars—and when we came around the turn the Home Band burst into melody.

"Burst" is absolutely the correct word, as you would realize if you had heard the sound and had seen the expression of the players. Grandmother Page shied and nearly jumped into the ditch. The air was "The Star-Spangled Banner," but the slide trombonist evidently had the wrong music.

But what a bass-drum virtuoso! I have never heard a bass-drum played more feelingly, even in Sousa's band. What expression, what shades of meaning the artist put into it! You could just picture the bombs bursting in air. First came the boiler-factory motif, then a minor counterpoint melody of bursting quick-detachable tires, and finally a reversion to the original theme in the major key, ending in a magnificent crescendo, a sort of tone-picture of a courtship between two coast-defense guns at two hundred yards' range.

It was magnificent! Grandmother Page was shamed to absolute silence for the first time since we have been acquainted.

As we pranced up to the gate the melody grew a trifle thinner. All the players seemed to be working just as hard, but the result was discouraging. One by one the artists would cease playing and shake their instruments with a puzzled look. At length none was left but the bass-drum player. He hammered away regardless until the leader took the drumstick away from him.

Colonel Stewart, the acting head of the Home, met us with outstretched hand. He was a fine, hearty old fellow with white hair and a close-cropped military mustache.

"The boys certainly appreciate your kindness in giving a show for them," he told us. "We're eight miles away from anywhere out here and they don't get many chances even to see moving pictures."

The members of the band came up and he introduced them.

Industries Are Trekking Toward the Smaller Towns

CONGESTED quarters, high rents, exorbitant taxes and unsatisfactory labor conditions are slowly but surely driving industries from the larger cities to the country.

THOUSANDS of manufacturers, mill owners and big business men yearly are realizing the advantages of quiet, uncrowded, inexpensive living and excellent labor conditions offered by the small towns and are trekking in that direction.

THE majority of the small towns in West Texas can have their share of industrial development because they have the necessary facilities, of which none is more important than ample, uninterrupted, economical electric power.

THE WEST TEXAS UTILITIES COMPANY, with its more than 2,000 miles of transmission lines and 70,000 available horsepower of electrical energy, guarantees the industries the same efficient service they have enjoyed in the great cities of the country.

The great new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine responds to the accelerator with an eagerness that is literally amazing. Touring speeds are negotiated with such smooth, silent, effortless ease that you almost forget there's a motor under the hood. And when the throttle is opened wide—the pace is faster than the most experienced driver would care to maintain!

Back of this exceptional performance is a brilliant array of engineering advancements—typified by a high-compression, non-detonating cylinder head... automatic acceleration pump... hot-spot manifold... semi-automatic spark control... and a heavier crankshaft, statically and dynamically balanced.

GUIDEPOSTS TO Health and Happiness

By Bernarr Macfadden

OVEREATING OR TEMPERANCE IN EATING

Of all the diabolical traditions to which modern man is enslaved the pernicious habit of overeating undoubtedly tops the lot. Sir William Osler, one of the greatest surgeons the world has ever known said: "Excessive eating does more damage than excess drinking" which can only mean that all the evils of the drink habit taken together, moral, financial and physical, are surpassed by the direct results of immoderate eating. And yet who has not taken part in a conversation like the following: "It's lunchtime." "I don't feel a bit hungry." "But it is time to eat!" "I really don't want a thing." "But you must eat. You'll get a headache or sick or something. You've got to eat to keep up your strength!"

And so we sit down to a table and gorge ourselves, taxing our stomachs with a load of food that it is not inclined or prepared to digest. Or else we become worried, go to a doctor, get a prescription for an expensive "tonic," and prod the appetite into a synthetic desire for food.

This is all wrong. Temporary loss of appetite is nothing to worry about. For millions of years man lived in blissful ignorance of the mandate "three square meals a day." He ate only when he was hungry. Then civilization came along and originated breakfast, lunch and dinner, and man tried desperately to adapt himself to the new order of things. And in the main he has succeeded. But every once in a while these poor fettered bodies of ours rebel. The inborn habits of millions of years have not yet been abolished.

JINGLE BELLS

As I shook hands enthusiastically with the bass-drummer, Colonel Stewart said:

"This is Comrade Pilk Henwether. You'll have to speak pretty loudly to him, as he is nearly stone deaf."

I congratulated him. "It's all for the best."

"We're sorry we couldn't play that piece all the way through," apologized the band-master. "We know all the notes, but it's so cold that the wind instruments all froze up. I told the boys not to blow damp, but I guess they couldn't help it."

"Never mind," I soothed. "It's probably all for the best."

He looked at me suspiciously, but apparently saw no guile in my eye because he went on cheerfully:

"It will be all right when we get inside and thaw out the horns. Then we'll play it again for you."

We had a lovely time that afternoon. The old soldiers were as eager to play as children. In the summer-time they had lots of visitors, but in the winter it was rather dull. The Home is on Three Bears Lake, eight miles from the town of Fair Oaks at the other end where the railroad station is. As a consequence few people take the trip in winter except for some special reason.

Comrade Abel Dreyenfurth had lost a leg at Antietam. That did not interfere with a lively desire to learn to fox-trot, and Maryella spent an hour teaching it to him. The bass-drummer, Pilk Henwether, discovered in me a kindred soul.

"I like you, Mr. Bilbeck," he confided at the top of his voice. "I can sort of tell what you are talking about because you make faces when you speak."

The undertaker's bus arrived just before dinner. We all ate together in a large mess-hall. The dwellers at the Home cook their own meals and do all their own housework.

"That's the chief objection I got to the Home," said Pilk Henwether, hardly raising his voice above a shout. "There ought to be some female veterans. I'm durned if I like washing dishes."

The dinner was good, all except the dessert, which was fallen angel food cake with ice-cream.

"Henry Klingman made it," Pilk confided, "and I think it's punk, if you want my honest opinion. But I wouldn't let him hear me say that because it would only hurt his feelings."

As Comrade Klingman was in the room and Pilk Henwether spoke in his ordinary tone of voice, there seemed little doubt of his feelings receiving a jolt.

"It ain't so bad though," Pilk went on, "when you come to think that Henry has only got one arm. He says the other one was shot off at Chancellorsville, but it's my private opinion he lost it running a buzz-saw after the war was over. Anyhow, he draws an extra allowance as a one-armed man."

by the acquired behaviour of a mere handful of centuries. We still slay and maim and pillage as our forefathers did. And likewise—for apparently no reason at all—we suddenly find ourselves minus an appetite at the "right" time and utterly ravenous at unheard-of hours.

So don't worry when this happens to you. Go right on about your business and wait until you are really hungry.

A word about proper eating when the appetite is normal:

Try to eat the foods that appeal to you most, provided they are sensible and nourishing. Eat only two or three different dishes at one meal and avoid those combinations that fight with each other. No matter how hungry you may be, don't fall on your food ravenously. Give yourself the pleasure of prolonging the enjoyment of eating something you like. This stimulates the entire digestive mechanism all along the alimentary canal and causes the salivary juices to pour into the mouth. Then when you swallow your food it is met in the stomach by the proper solvents.

There is an old adage that says: "The platter kills more than the sword." Remember that. If there were any way of checking up, it would unquestionably be found that the number of people killed in war is less than the number of people who have committed suicide by overeating.

scatter from the pile and make for the finish line. But some of them stopped to dine on a luscious bug snatched out of the air, others scratched out a bed in the cool sand and stopped for a snooze and others were merely getting a little closer view of the crowd. But one fellow, entered by Lee Patrick of Ozona, finally made it across the finish line and won the right to race the incomparable "Bozo." But "Bozo" had a walk-away in the run-off, beating the Ozona entry almost before the latter had realized his responsibility.

The consolation race, with all frogs except the winning "Bozo" was declared a tie between a frog entered by Doug Kirby of Ozona and Royce Brownrigg, also of Ozona. In the run-off both frogs refused to again budge from the ring and the owners matched for the purse of $10, Kirby winning. The race was sponsored by the Barnhart Commercial Club, and D. I. Taylor and Clyde Newberry were in charge of the affair.
