A Thought WORTH REMEMBERING

The evidence of Nature is worth more than the arguments of learning.

—ST. AMBROSE.

Rest For the Presidential Hand

The public receptions at the White House, formerly taking place thrice a week, were first reduced to two a week, then to one a week, and now have been abandoned for the rest of the Summer.

While we think that every citizen in the land should have an opportunity to meet our president, we cannot help but commend this decision.

So many persons line up before the White House merely out of curiosity, later seeking prestige by speaking of the "public reception" they have attended!

Since former times many additional burdens have been put upon the president, and at the same time the population has increased and the capital been made more accessible by improved transportation. All of which wrecks a dreadful hardship on the hand of the president, which certainly deserves a vacation after being vigorously shaken for so long a period by everyone, nearly, that visited Washington.

Citizens with a special mission must have access to the president. That is democracy. Others who seek prestige by contact with the hand of the President should be limited in their intrusion into his time and their demands upon his strength. That is good sense.

The people of Ozona are grateful to the Commissioners Court and the county road crew for the work that has been done in the last few days on Ozona streets. The road crew has been assigned to the streets of Ozona in order to iron out the rough places that were becoming almost impassable. The grader is doing efficient work in this direction and when the work is completed all streets in the city will no doubt be in first class condition.

Have you noticed the tall iron post that has been set up at the southwest corner of Powell Avenue and Broadway? The big electric sign which is to blaze forth for the benefit of the visitor that this is Ozona, "The Biggest Little Town in the World" is to be mounted atop this post. Set at an angle of 45 degrees with the corner, the sign will be visible from the three roads leading into Ozona.

This electric sign was purchased by the citizens and business firms of Ozona, who made contributions to a fund raised by the Lions Club. The slogan used on the sign was selected by a Lions Club committee in a contest staged here last year for the purpose of choosing a suitable slogan for Ozona. The Lions Club committee in charge of erecting the sign is composed of F. A. Gray, L. L. Bewley and Tom Onstott. Members of this committee promise that the sign will be up and lighted within the next few days.

Every year, about this time, Ozona must suffer through an invasion by millions of flies. In black droves they fly and crawl over and into everything. They light on bald heads, on ticklish necks, on the baby's bottle, fall into the butter and walk on the bread. They tread in filth and walk on your food. There is scarcely a home in Ozona that is free from them, for long at a time at least. They get in no matter how good your screens. They sit at the door and wait until it is opened and then swarm in, or they crawl in through cracks that only a fly could find.

In other words, they are here in such numbers that it is virtually impossible to keep them out of homes or places of business. Where they are breeding or whence they come nobody seems to know definitely. No doubt they come from many places and breed in many places. It is probable that many flies were bred in the filth that accrued at the fair grounds after the rodeo. It is also probable that there are dozens of other places on premises of Ozona residents where flies breed. A systematic clean-up on the part of every resident of Ozona would aid materially in reducing this nuisance.

To trap or otherwise kill flies is a laudable undertaking, but the real way to get rid of them is to destroy their breeding places. Flies multiply so rapidly that it would be next to impossible to trap, swat or "flit" the output of one breeding place, whereas it would take but a few minutes in most cases to remove the favorable condition for fly breeding. Decaying animal matter, swill and refuse of any character furnishes an ideal breeding place for flies. Examine your premises and do your part toward eliminating the fly scourge.

In addition to the fly invasion, Ozona people must this year endure a like invasion from mosquitoes. A stranger in Ozona in the last few days might have suspected that he was in the midst of a smallpox infested community had he noticed the speckled countenances of local residents, the scarlet spot which marks the visitation of each horn-nosed blood sucker and germ carrier. Look on the front page of this issue of The Stockman and read the warning and advice given by Dr. G. Miller, county health officer, in regard to the mosquito and control methods. Our personal opinion is that the fly is a greater menace and a greater nuisance than the mosquito, but they are both menace enough and nuisance enough to warrant concerted action on the part of every resident of every community to stamp them out. The mosquito is easier to control than the fly and it would take just a few minutes of everybody's time to completely eliminate this pest.

Yo-Yo An Ancient Phillipino Game Says T. C. U. Student

FORT WORTH, July 17.—Geo. Soriano, yo-yo playing, poetry-writing native of the Philippines, is enrolled as a freshman in Texas Christian University for the summer term.

"Almost every person in the Philippine Islands, from the time he is a small child, knows how to play yo yo," he says. "And contrary to reports, the game of yo yo is native to the Philippines and not to the Chinese," he states. "It is a sport that has been peculiar to our people for many years although the new generation is tiring of yo yo somewhat and is turning to the newer games, as tennis and other American sports.

"But it is my best game," says Soriano, "I enjoy it and since a small boy have played yo yo which is mostly a children's game. There is no equivalent for the word. It is just as if one's name were Mary, there is no translation for it and yo yo is merely a native expression applied to the game."

Soriano comes to T. C. U. from a high school in Ponca City, Okla., where he took part in oratory, won typewriting prizes, and wrote sonnets for a high school poetry magazine. He plans to return to

T. C. U. in the fall to work toward a Bachelor of Arts degree and later wishes to teach in the Philippine Islands.

Ozona Girl Chosen S M A Class President

(Special To The Ozona Stockman) SAN MARCOS, Tex.—The Senior class of San Marcos Academy for the summer term of 1929 sets a record as having the largest number of graduates of any of the preceding summer sessions. The class roll contains twenty-seven names and the program for the summer calls for social activities along with the literary work.

The seniors have elected the following students as officers for the class: Eugene "Hoot" Masur, Lockhart, president; W. L. Gibson, Hooks, vice-president; and Miss Hallie Kirkpatrick, of Ozona as secretary-treasurer.

HALF SHEEP, HALF GOAT

Livestock men have always maintained that a sheep and goat will not breed, but Walter Dunlap, who ranches in the Sheffield country, brought in a specimen this week which disproves this contention. This animal, raised by Mr. Dunlap, is half sheep and half goat. It is a ewe (or nanny) has goat hair on the sides and back and wool on the legs, has a head and body like a sheep and small horns like a goat and bleats like a goat.

This strange animal is in custody of R. J. Cooke, proprietor of the Ozona Meat Market, who says

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible readings, it will prove a grand heritage to them in after years.

ABIDING IN CHRIST'S LOVE

John 15:9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14. Jesus said: As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you; continue ye in my love. 10. If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love. 12. This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you. 13. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. 14. Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.

PRAYER: Hold thou me up I shall be safe.

it will be kept for exhibition purposes.

THE NATION HAS NAMED IT

"A GREAT PERFORMER"

Marquette

$965
to $1035

These prices f. o. b. Buick Factory, special equipment extra. Marquette delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing. Government terms can be arranged on the liberal G. M. A. C. Time Payment Plan.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values.

"A Great Performer" the Marquette is being hailed, the nation over. Never before in a car of moderate price have there been such acceleration, speed, control, handling ease, roadability, flexibility, balance! Only Buick could offer such performance. In Marquette you get an engine of remarkably large displacement. You get speed that holds an honest 68 or 70 miles an hour with unequalled ease, steadiness and security. You get acceleration of from 10 to 60 miles an hour in high gear in 31 seconds.

And this great new car introduces many more unusual features: Beautiful Fisher bodies. Exclusive new upholstery proofed against water, dust and wear. Dustproof tilt-ray headlights. An exclusive new sloping non-glare windshield. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers. Easy-acting, completely enclosed brakes. The Marquette is easy to own on the liberal G. M. A. C. terms. Come in and see this complete car. Take the wheel and learn the thrill of Marquette performance.

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

The Sheridan Dramatic Club, of which Tom Bilbeck, the narrator, Maryella, the girl he cares for, and Jim Cooper, his rival, are members, start a performance of Pygmalion and Galatea at the Old Soldiers' Home, but are interrupted by a fire. During the rehearsals Tom Bilbeck is accused by the husband of one of the actors, Mr. Hemmingway, of being in love with his wife. Riding away from the scene of the ill-fated play in their costumes and overcoats, the group of players is held up by two escaped convicts, one of whom is captured by Bilbeck after a struggle.

He obeyed meekly enough. "Will you answer one question?" he asked deferentially. "Yes. What?" "Are you a ghost?" "No." "Then what are you?" "I only agreed to answer one question." "Oh!" He was obviously disappointed. "What are you going to do with me?" "Turn you over to the sheriff, I suppose."

The sound of the shot had aroused curiosity at the Old Soldiers' Home, and now half a dozen of the most nearly complete of inmates led by Colonel Stewart came down the road in military order. They were armed with rifles and had bayonets fixed. I learned afterwards that the weapons were Spanish-American War trophies which were not loaded and had not been fired for sixteen years.

We told the Colonel what had happened and he sent one of the old men back to the Home with the ladies with instructions to telephone the sheriff. The rest of us went after the other escaped prisoner.

He had broken away from the road and gone into a patch of woods that lay alongside, as we could easily tell by his fresh tracks in the snow. It seemed as if it was going to be a comparatively simple matter to trail him.

We changed our minds, however, when the tracks led out of the comparative quiet of the timber-land to a meadow. Here they ceased abruptly. There was enough wind blowing so that the snow was kept clear in some places and drifted in others. He had evidently avoided the drifts.

We had only one lantern or we could have searched to better advantage and by spreading out might have picked up the footprints without much delay. As it was we worked slowly and ineffectually.

A complete circle of the field gave us no clue. The snow was falling more rapidly now and even our own tracks were filled in very soon after we made them. I was anxious to get started, too, while the roads were not badly drifted.

"I think we've done all we can to-night," I suggested to Colonel Stewart. "That fellow is going to have a hard time traveling very far in this storm and probably he'll lay low somewhere until it's let us. The sheriff can organize a big posse and pick him up after daylight."

The colonel agreed. He was anxious to get his men under cover.

We took our prisoner back to the Home. There we found the lady Greek sitting around disconsolate with their wraps on amid a group of negligee but wide-awake old soldiers having the time of their lives over the extra attraction of a thief-hunt.

There were no handcuffs in the institution, naturally, so we bound our prisoner to a chair pending the arrival of the sheriff. He looked disconsolate enough. I was suddenly sorry for him. Poor fellow, all he had done was make a break for liberty. It was only because we were all against him that he was against us.

"Hard luck, old chap," I said to him.

He looked up at me. "It's all right," he said. "I don't mind a bit. I'm glad to stay in here overnight, where it's warm. I'm kind of worried about Julius, though, out there in the snow. I wish you'd get him, too. He's delicate, and I'm afraid he'll catch cold."

"Well, I'm going home," I said by way of farewell. "But before I go is there anything I can do for you?" "Not unless you're going to tell me what you are wearing those white things for. Did somebody steal your—"

"No, they didn't," I snapped, turning away.

"Ain't you going to tell me?"

"No."

I rejoined the rest of our group around the fire.

"I'll go out and start the car," I notified them, "and back up to the gate once more. When you hear me outside you can come out."

"Let me go with you," Jim Cooper offered.

I would just as soon have gone alone, but there seemed no way of declining his assistance, so we trailed out in the snow together with an oil lantern flickering unsteadily in the wind.

It was only a few hundred yards to where the automobile was standing, but the wind, which was increasing, threw the snow into our faces in stinging blasts that made walking difficult and conversation practically impossible.

The lights of the car were still bravely hurling wedges of illumination into the black-and-white night. The seats were covered with snow. So was the windshield; around each wheel was a little heap.

"You can get inside if you will," I told Cooper, "and advance the spark as soon as I get an explosion."

He did as I directed. I primed the motor thoroughly. I had no particular reason to suppose that the engine would start now when it had refused to do so half an hour before, except that from long experience I had great faith in the perversity of inanimate subjects, especially internal-combustion engines. Grandmother Page had thrown me down in an emergency, but now that the immediate danger was over I had no doubt that she would start up cheerfully. There is something unmistakably feminine about a gasoline engine.

"All ready," I said as I gave the crank a sharp pull upward.

I noticed that it pulled rather hard, but I bent an extra effort and yanked it over compression.

"Bang!" responded Grandmother Page enthusiastically.

The first explosion was followed by a hideous clashing sound and then a terrifying thumping which could be heard above the explosion of the motor.

"Cut her off!" I yelled.

When Grandmother Page had subsided Jim Cooper asked solicitously:

"What's the matter?"

"Didn't you hear the racket she was making?" I asked sarcastically.

"I didn't notice anything special," Jim observed, which remark put him by unanimous vote into the Loyal Order of Henwethers. Pilk had nothing on him for saying the wrong thing.

In silent exasperation I lifted the hood and with the aid of the flickering lantern examined Grandmother's gizzard.

One look was enough. I closed the hood once more and stood silent, communing with nature.

Something in my manner must have penetrated Jim Cooper's consciousness.

"Is anything the matter?" he asked. "There is," I announced briefly. "The pump froze while we were hunting for escaped convicts, and as soon as I started the engine she stripped her gear. She won't run again until I get some new parts from the factory."

I turned out the acetylene lights and started home. Jim Cooper followed silently.

Half way to the Home he said brightly:

"It's all for the best, Tom. Think how glad the automobile-repairmen will be."

When we entered the ladies stood up ready to go.

"I didn't hear you come," said Maryella. "The car is awfully quiet to-night, isn't it?"

"It is," I assented glumly. "And will be for several days to come."

When I had explained what had happened a cry of dismay escaped the lips of Mrs. Hemmingway.

"I promised John I would come right home as soon as the performance was over, and he will be terribly anxious," she wailed.

"I wish I had gone home in the funeral bus," bemoaned Mrs. Liljelove.

"I wish you had," I echoed feelingly.

"It's probably all for the best," chirped Jim Cooper like a parrot.

(Ornithologist's note: Parrots do not chirp.)

"Where do you find the ray of comfort in this?" I demanded sarcastically.

"That's easy," Jim explained.

"For one thing I am glad that it wasn't my car. For another it will give us all a chance to spend the night in an Old Soldiers' Home, which is something most people who aren't veterans can't do."

"Spend the night here?" Mrs. Hemmingway exclaimed in dismay.

"It's impossible. I have to go home!"

"How?"

"I don't know how, but you must think up some way."

"Nonsense!" I exclaimed. "It can't be done to-night. There's no train until morning. You can call up your husband and explain it to him."

"Oh, is there a telephone?"

"Sure. There must be," said Jim Cooper. "You talk to John and tell him it's all for the best." "I'll try," Mrs. Hemmingway said cheerfully.

The telephone was conveniently located in the living-room so that all private conversations were distinctly audible to any one in the building.

After considerable delay in getting a long-distance connection, tunately had not left the office. Mrs. Hemmingway managed to get the ear of her husband, who for-

"Is that you, John dear, I can't get home to-night. I'm going to stay all night at the Old Soldiers' Home."

"The rest of us tried to talk about something else so as not to appear to be listening, but we couldn't help it, and a sudden silence fell at her next remark.

"Yes, of course, Tom Bilbeck is here. 'It's all for the best.'"

The receiver hummed for a moment. Even we knew that he had raised his voice.

"Silly; of course I'd come home if I could. But Tom broke his automobile."

"No, no. He didn't break it on purpose."

"Listen, dear, you mustn't say such things over the telephone. Some one might be listening. Besides, you are entirely mistaken. How could I fall in love with a man who looks like Tom Bilbeck?"

There was absolute silence in the room, also on the part of Mrs. Hemmingway.

"Yes, he has got a funny face. Of course I laugh at him and all that, but— what's that? You're coming here? Oh! Is there a train yet coming this way? Good! That will be lots of fun. Then we can go home together in the morning. I am so glad. Good-by, dear!"

Mrs. Hemmingway hung up the receiver and turned back to our frantically silent company. I wished that I could say something to show that I was alive, but my throat choked.

Something in my face must have shown, however, because Mrs. Hemmingway looked at me and exclaimed in dismay:

"Did you hear what I said, Tom?"

Going At the Bully in the Regular Old-Time Fashion — By Albert T. Reid

Crude Production In June Up 28,000 Bbls.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 17.—Daily flow of crude petroleum in Texas during June averaged 836,000 barrels, against 808,000 barrels in May and 686,000 barrels in June 1928, statistics compiled by Bervard Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, issued monthly by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas, reveal. "This is by far the highest output on record," Mr. Nichols said. "A total of 25,079,000 barrels was gathered during the month, compared to 25,034,000 barrels in May. During the first six months of the year, 145,135,000 barrels were produced, against 124,750,000 in the first half of 1928. "Field work was less active in June than in May, but the number of new wells completed was considerably above that in June, 1928. During June, 580 new wells were completed, which makes 3,492 for the first half of the year. In June, 1928, 445 new wells were drilled and 3,429 were completed in the first half. There were 309 producers among the new wells in June this year, which brings the total for the half to 1,860, or only four more successful wells than in the first six months of last year."

Ralph Watson, of Ozona, former commissioner there, is running about 4,000 head of sheep, 3,000 of them ewes, and 1,000 dry sheep. They shear from ten to ten and one half pounds a year, when sheared twice annually. When he began to breed up his flock seven years ago they sheared only nine pounds. The shrinkage is 56 to 58, a light shrink.

Three hundred and twenty-four out-of-state sheep were consigned to the Ozona sheep sale.

The Town Doctor Says— THERE ARE THOSE WHO'LL SAY, "IT'S ALL A LOT OF BALONEY"

Almost every honest endeavor to induce people to DO something for their community is branded by certain types of individuals as hot air, bunk, hokey and "It's all a lot of baloney." The fellow who starts whispering, "Tie it outside," when THINKING residents talk about the value of "boosting" is usually the fellow who goes outside the record regarding the truth when making conversation about himself. Such people are so engrossed in their own littleness that they cannot grasp the BIGNESS of COLLECTIVE thinking.

The greatest service anyone can do for his community is to THINK about it. Let everyone think a community is GOOD and it WILL be—not overnight—not in a month—nor perhaps even in a year. But THINKING it is good will create and cause ACTION that will gradually and surely MAKE it good. On the other hand, think your town is NO good and it will be just that and nothing different!

THINKING about those things that will improve your community is not a DUTY—it's BUSINESS; therefore, it isn't a question of why you should but why SHOULDNT you be a booster?

A booster is one who supports his town enthusiastically—one who gets BEHIND and PUSHES vigorously, consistently and PERSISTENTLY. The other fellow gets in FRONT and leans BACKWARD, or gets in the road making it tough going for the PUSHERS.

A booster is an optimist and a joy-maker; he is not a cynic nor a crepe-hanger.

A booster cheers; he never jeers, sneers, or hisses.

A booster sticks up for his community; he never turns his nose up at it.

A booster gives every fellow a "break"; he never "dishes the dirt."

A booster says, "I'll do it for the good of the community"; not, "What do I get out of it?"

A booster admires success; he never infers, "There must be something crooked about it."

A booster says, "You bet this is a good town"; he never says, "Oh, yes, it's all right if you like it."

A booster is for anything that is good; a KICKER objects to everything, good or bad.

A booster is a POSITIVE quantity; a KICKER is a NEGATIVE minus.

A booster pushes and goes A-HEAD; a KICKER balks, stands still and never gets anywhere.

A booster, instead of saying, "It's all a lot of baloney," says, "There may be something in that," and then THINKS about it.

GUIDEPOSTS TO Health and Happiness

By Bernarr Macfadden

What Is Wrong With Physical Culture?

"There is something all wrong with the idea of physical culture," a man of fifty said to me one day. "Why should it make the young man healthy and strong and the older man uncomfortable and sick? If it's so fine, why isn't it universally beneficial? Take me, for example. Every time I eat something that is supposed to be good for me it upsets my digestion. Tennis and swimming are out of the question—my heart won't stand it. A long walk exhausts me. Physical culture is a young man's game all right."

Many middle-aged people will agree with this man. They have experienced the same trouble. They feel "better" when going along in the same old rut and taking no unaccustomed exercise. Therefore "something is all wrong with physical culture."

Something IS all wrong—but not with physical culture. Ignorance and indifference are the real culprits. In the last fifteen years physical culture has taken tremendous strides, but the biggest stride of all is yet to be taken. That is the educating of people to the real meaning and purpose of physical culture.

In its truest sense it means to begin from the moment of birth to live as we were intended by nature to live. Eating bene and tissue building foods. Regular elimination. Sufficient rest and sleep. Wholesome play. A happy, healthful frame of mind. And a worshipful reverence of the human form—the earthly temple of the soul during the span of life.

Too many people think that physical culture means strenuous and unpleasant exercises, and denying oneself things that the appetite craves. They point with pride to the high standard of athletics in our schools and colleges and call that physical culture. To prude it is synonymous with immodesty and sex. But these fallacies are gradually being destroyed.

Athletics is not the definition of physical culture; it is merely a part of the whole. In schools and colleges too much attention is paid to training chiefly the bodies of those who are already in good physical condition by making available to them special apparatus that is not available in everyday life. The weaklings are shoved into the background and forgotten.

Physical culture is NOT a young man's game. It is not a game at all. It is the free and glorious privilege of every individual of any age. The cureall for sickness of mind and body. The preventive of disease and unhappiness, when begun early.

It is the only necessary guidepost to health and happiness on our journey through life.

—Bernarr Macfadden.

Milady's Beauty Secrets
By Helena Rubinstein

Of self-same color is her hair. Whether unfolded or in twines. Heigh-ho, fair Rosaline! —Lodge.

The feminine hairdress calls for more than distinctive style to be perfectly successful. It calls for texture, gloss and finish as well.

And this is not alone to be attained through purely artificial means. The credo of hair beauty is the belief and the practice of the (tremendously important) daily brushing. There is no better way to develop hair beauty. The softness and lustre which come from this regular care cannot be duplicated, not even with a pint of brilliantine.

It is more than merely surface beauty which brushing develops. It is the sheen of health and scalp activity and no artificial aid can stimulate this.

The most successful way to brush the hair is with military brushes. When using hand brushes the pressure falls directly on the hair instead of being distributed between the scalp and the handle of the brush. Also, the military brushes make for an even regularity of movement.

After one week of regular brushing you won't recognize your hair. I cannot understand why so many women neglect this so easily cultivated part of their beauty.

Next in importance in developing the loveliness of your hair is the frequent use of a good tonic. Many of you, I find, ask me about hair tonics when there is definite injury to be corrected, whether it be premature graying, falling hair or broken dry strands. A hair tonic should be more than a corrective to you. It is first of all a preventive of all those conditions of hair ill health.

There are three classifications of hair—the normal, the dry and the oily, and the tonic you select should be specifically suited to your particular type. Rub it well into the scalp, a drop at a time, using the very ends of your fingertips, not the cushioned pads of the first joint of your fingers. Not only will the tonic stimulate and strengthen the roots, but it will help along the good work of brushing until a fine, natural gloss has become a permanent feature of your charm.

The third important unit in cultivating the high lights of hair beauty is that much used, often abused product—brilliantine. There are certain arrangements of the hair which demand the maximum of lustre. The satin-smooth bob is one such style, and to those who wear this type of hairdress, I address the caution—a very little brilliantine goes a long, long way. One single drop in the palm of your hand and then rubbed briskly into the hair brush will be more than sufficient for the average person. Another method of applying brilliantine is by placing a drop or two in the palm of one hand, rubbing both hands together, then smoothing on the hair.

"Well, part of it," I admitted. "You mustn't think I meant it." She tried hastily to repair the harm she had done.

"I simply had to make John think it was all right." A loud "Whoa!" outside distracted our attention from the conversational tangle into which we had fallen.

"The sheriff!" exclaimed Colonel Stewart, going to the door.

A fur-wrapped figure came in, shedding snow.

"Evening, sheriff," the colonel greeted.

The sheriff unwrapped a muffler which had been over his mouth before he responded.

"Evening, Colonel."

GOOD POLICY

Preaching is one thing; good business policy is another. Men find things to criticize in preaching; only a dumb-bell opposes the safe and sane business proposition.

If you study your newspaper as you should, then take note of the great number who are overtaken in crime, folly, and other wrongdoing. Set the number down in your memorandum-book each day for a month. The number will astonish you—and the sad total will be a shouting, thundering argument for right living.

There is absolutely no excuse for doing wrong—for it is the poorest business policy in the world; why? because it leads inevitably to disaster.

Taking intoxicating drink, for instance. Over-indulgence or for that matter, taking it under any circumstances save under advice of a good doctor for illness—is a very, very poor business policy. Why? Because its victims are legion.

If cheating, defrauding and falsifying were not wrong morally, it would remain one of the worst business policies. Such an operator may apparently succeed for a time, but will be exposed in time, and bring sorrow to the perpetrator.

The price of a clear conscience is beyond doubt effort well expended. Compared with the dividends reaped, the clear conscience pays more than the best stocks on the market today. To maintain a spotless character and reputation is to have the best credit and backing in the world.

Every man knows right from wrong by native intuition. Every man has been at the forks of the road. It has always paid to turn to the right. There is no better business.

The square shooter is the happy man; the crook does not know the meaning of happiness, because always apprehensive; he is never sure of being safe; his restlessness becomes self-torture in course of time. The best business policy in the world is—the Golden Rule.

LIGHTNING KILLS FORTY-FIVE GOATS

Frank Brandenberger reports the loss of about forty-five goats during a thunder storm about two weeks ago on his ranch south of Mason. The goats were standing under a tree for shelter when lightning struck the tree, killing all the animals. The goats belonged to Mr. Brandenberger's son, Sam, and among them was a high-grade billy. Only about one-eighth inch rain fell during the storm, according to Mr. Brandenberger.—Mason Co. News.

Warehousemen To Meet In Del Rio

Kincaid Calls Meet For Better Understanding With Producer

Seeking to establish a better understanding between the producer and the wool and mohair houses in West Texas, and to bring about some kind of co-operation between the 20-odd warehouses devoted to the marketing of wool and mohair in the state, T. A. Kincaid, president of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association of Texas, has invited the warehouses to send a representative to a caucus between warehousemen, to be held at the annual convention of the association at Del Rio, July 31, Aug. 1 and 2. Dissatisfaction with the present marketing system has led to the reports that some co-operative warehouses may be established in the southwest. Wool prices this season were unwarrantably low, thinks Mr. Kincaid, whose letter to the warehouses follows:

Writes Warehouse Heads

"Gentlemen: Numerous producers of both wool and mohair in Texas have talked with me, there have been newspaper articles and some letters written in regard to organizing some kind of a co-operative marketing system for our wool and mohair.

"I believe we have in Texas one of the best systems of any state in the union for handling wool and mohair, that is, through the warehouses. However, I do believe from my observations that the warehouses handling our products could better themselves by organizing into more of a co-operative marketing system, since the national government is encouraging co-operative marketing and is offering financial aid to the producer for this purpose.

"From all reports the producer seems to be extremely dissatisfied and is talking of organizing other commission houses along the co-operative plan. I am writing each of the wool and mohair warehouses in our state and offering as a suggestion that each of you send one or more of your officers and directors to a caucus to be held during the annual convention of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association in Del Rio, July 31 to Aug. 2, 1929, and there discuss this proposition among yourselves as a committee for this purpose, so that we may be able in some manner to bring the producers and the warehouse people on better terms and in a more co-operative manner, both to the producers and the warehouses.

"Something Should be Done"

"It seems that the time has come when something should be done that we may be able to market our products in a more orderly way in the future than in the past and in sending this letter to the different warehouses I sincerely hope it will be taken in the spirit in which it is intended, that is, to better, if possible, the great industry that we represent.

If the suggestion meets with your approval, I will be glad to hear from you at once at your earliest convenience, so that arrangements can be made for the meeting of the committee."

Moncrief Test Strikes Water

No 1 Massie Is Plugging Back From 1,450 Feet and May Shoot

W. A. Moncrief's No. 1 Massie in Crockett county, is plugging back from 1,450 feet to test a showing of oil from 1,417-20 feet, as the result of encountering sulphur water from 1,447-50 feet. The wildcat may be given a shot.

Last Wednesday the test swabbed 30 barrels of oil in two hours, lowering the column of oil to the bottom of the 6 3/4-inch casing, which was set 80 feet off bottom or at 1,340 feet. During the first 24 hours after the pay was topped, the well filled a 9900 feet with oil free from water.

No. 1 Massie is 1,170 feet from the south line and 1,320 feet from the west line of section 47, block UV, G. C. & S. F. Ry Co. survey. It is about 14 miles southwest of the Powell pool and about the same distance northwest of Ozona.

Mr. Wilmore, father of Mrs. G. Miller, died Tuesday morning at his home in Gradyville, Ky., according to word received by Dr. Miller. Mrs. Miller was called to her father's bedside last week. Mr. Wilmore had been sick but a short time.

Andy Nelson was seized with an acute attack of gallstones Tuesday night and is reported seriously ill. A Chevrolet coupe belonging to Dan Wills was stolen Sunday night from the garage at Mr. Wills' ranch, according to reports to local officers, who are working on clues to the identity of the thief.
