$7,000 WORTH OF LIQUOR IS TAKEN IN RAID

Two Men Held, Truck And Reo Coupe Are Seized

BOOZE DESTROYED

Horse Theft Charged To One Man In Escape Attempt

Approximately $7,000 worth of bootleg booze, a new Ford truck and a Reo coupe, a total of approximately $10,000 worth of property, were seized by Sheriff W. S. Willis and Bert Ellison, customs officer stationed here, in the hold-up of a liquor laden truck on the Pandale road near here last Thursday night.

Two men were arrested in connection with the seizure and taken to Eagle Pass where they will face charges in federal court of transporting liquor. One of the men, Henry Curry of Midland, will be brought back to Ozona in connection with the alleged theft of a horse from A. A. Perry, Jr. Local officers were apprised of the approach of the liquor truck in a telephone message from border officers. Mr. Ellison had started to Langtry and stopped a man giving his name as L. P. Peacock driving the Reo coupe. After questioning the man a few minutes, Mr. Ellison released him, he having left before Sheriff Willis received the telephone message from the border and being unaware of the approach of the liquor.

A few miles down the road, however, he saw the truck approaching and saw a man quit the truck and take to the pasture. He investigated and found the liquor cargo.

In the meantime, Sheriff Willis, who had a description of both the runner's car and truck, met the runner at the edge of Ozona and followed him back to a local filling station where he was arrested. The next morning he revealed the name of the truck driver as Henry Curry and declared that the latter owned both cars and the liquor cargo.

Sheriff Willis and Mr. Ellison, who were advised Friday morning of the theft of Mr. Perry's horse, found the riderless horse at the intersection of the Pandale road and the highway west of town and found Curry walking near the road toward town. He readily admitted his identity and was placed under arrest and brought here, where a charge of horse theft was lodged against him and he was then turned over to federal officers. Sheriff Willis expected to go to Eagle Pass this week to bring Curry back to Ozona on the theft charge.

The liquor cargo consisted of 600 points of Straight American whiskey, 8 cases of tequila, 4 cases of Carta Blanca beer and 50 gallons of alcohol. All of the liquor was destroyed by the officers except the alcohol, which will be turned over to government warehouses. Sample bottle of each kind of liquor were also retained for evidence. The truck and Reo coupe was also seized by the government and will be sold at auction.

To Hire Trappers In Northwest Part Of Crockett County

Responding to a request from a number of ranchmen in the section, the Crockett County Commissioners Court in session this week, voted to pay half the expense of maintaining two government trappers in the northwest part of the county to aid in the extermination of wolves and other predatory animals.

The trappers are to be selected by R. C. Landon, agent of the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Biological Survey, and will be under his supervision in the work.

Drive To Finance Motorcade Party

Total Expenses Incident To Entertainment Is $100

Total expenses incident to entertainment and feeding of approximately 80 members of the Old Spanish Trail Motorcade from Florida to California here last Wednesday amounted to approximately $100, according to reports of committees at the regular meeting of the Lions Club Monday noon.

This report included the meat purchased for the barbecue, the beans, bread, pickles and other trimmings for the meal, and payment of the three men who rode the wild horses for the entertainment of the eastern visitors.

The finance committee, composed of Scott Peters and J. L. Littleton, reported that a canvass would be made in the next few days to raise this amount by individual subscription to the fund. Entertainment of the motorcade is considered strictly a community affair and should be financed by the community as a whole. Donations to the fund, which has been advanced by the Ozona National Bank, will be received by either member of the finance committee or at the bank, and those persons interested in helping finance the motorcade party are asked to leave their donations at the bank.

Baggett, George Harrell, J. M. Baggett, E. G. Baggett, A. C. Hoover, Chas. E. Davidson and Roy Miller.

Menard Is 39-0 Victim Of Lions

Locals Find Easy Prey In Trip Saturday; Angelo Sat. ?

The jinx that rode the Ozona High School Lions to Sonora the previous week and resulted in a scoreless tie with the Bronchos was sidetracked on the trip to Menard Saturday and the locals won another one-sided battle with a score of 39 to 0.

This is the fourth engagement of the season for the locals and the purple and gold goal line has not yet been crossed. The first encounter of the season with Eldorado resulted in a 40 to 0 win for the locals, and the next with Rankin was a 7 to 0 victory.

Menard, like Eldorado, proved an easy opponent for the fast Ozona lads and the locals were able to score on almost any line of attack they chose, line bucks, passes, and runs shoring about equally in accounting for the series of touchdowns.

With an idle week-end on their hands under their established schedule, the locals were looking toward San Angelo for opposition this Saturday. Coach O. G. Lewis is reported to be negotiating with Angelo coaches for a game with the San Angelo Bob-Kittens, the high school second team, on the local grid next Saturday. The outcome of the negotiation had not been announced at press time, however.

HEAVY RAINS DRENCH WEST TEXAS RANGE

Fall Declared Worth Million Dollars To Ranchmen

3 3/4 INCHES HERE

Draws Overflow, Water Holes Filled All Over The County

Heavy rains which drenched practically all of West Texas over the week-end will be worth a million dollars to West Texas ranchmen, breaking a threatened serious drought and furnishing moisture to the ground which will insure a good crop of weeds and grass this winter and spring.

The fall ranged from three to six inches all over the stock raising section of West Texas, practically every part of the country reporting a heavy downpour.

Water holes throughout Crockett County and most other counties in this territory were filled to overflowing and draws got out of banks. The fall in Ozona for the period amounted to 3 3/4 inches, according to the rain gauge at the Joe Oberkamp store. The fall was heavier in the county outside of town, however, according to ranchmen.

Both draws through Ozona were out of banks Sunday morning as a result of the heavy downpour north of town. Traffic over the highways was tied up several hours Sunday morning until the flood waters had subsided. A Buick sedan belonging to L. L. Bewley founded in the Johnson Draw and remained there several hours, water almost covering the top. The car was not materially damaged, however, Rusty Smith also attempted to make his car swim the draw and had to abandon it in mid stream, it was reported.

Not only will the rain be of incalculable benefit to the range, but it allayed the dust nuisance in Ozona and in the stock pens and lanes that was becoming almost unbearable.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cox, who have been living on a ranch near Marfa, will make their home in Ozona soon. They will live with Mrs. S. E. Couch, Mrs. Cox's mother.

Oiling Streets May Be Abandoned

Opposition Of Women Reported By Committees In Charge

Opposition on the part of women of the town and the project now under consideration for the voting of bonds to pave highways in two directions out of Ozona, may cause abandonment of the proposal to oil the streets of Ozona as a means of eliminating the dust nuisance, it was indicated in committee reports to the Lions Club Monday.

Considerable opposition from housekeepers, who fear that oil on the streets will be tracked into houses and ruin floors and floor coverings, has been heard. A. H. McLeod, chairman of the committee, reported, and it is doubtful that the plan if carried out would prove satisfactory.

The committee was continued, however, until further information is gathered, and a suggestion was made that after prices are secured on the necessary oil, that a canvass of property owners along the various streets be made and the majority opinion on the oiling project be secured, the club to take action in the light of information thus gained.

P. L. Childress Chosen Member Wool Growers Storage Co. Board

P. L. Childress of Ozona was elected to membership on the board of directors of the Wool Growers Central Storage Company at a special meeting of the directors of that concern held in San Angelo last Friday. Mr. Childress will fill the vacancy created on the board of directors of the wool body by the recent tragic death of S. E. Couch, one of the founders of the concern and a vice president at the time of his death.

The death of Mr. Couch removed one of two of the original charter members on the directorate of the company. Robt. Massie, president, is the only charter member now on the board of directors. Mr. Couch had been a stockholder and director of the Wool Growers since 1919 when the company was organized.

A Thought WORTH REMEMBERING

The man who is just and resolute will not be moved from his settled purpose, either by the misdirected rage of his fellow citizens or by the threats of an imperious tyrant.

—Horace.

If you are taking up a collection for a certain worthy cause, be it charity, public improvement or community enterprise of whatever nature, you will have no difficulty in raising the amount in Ozona. Nearly every person you might approach will give to the extent of his ability, or what is expected of him in his position.

That is an accepted fact in Ozona, and one that has not so far been abused. There are no more liberal givers of money in the world than in Ozona. There is not a town in the whole world where it is easier to raise a given amount of money by public subscription toward a worthwhile cause.

But ask these liberal givers of money for their time, their personal application and influence and see how far you get. Ask them to lend their influence to a cause, and by their actions and active support make known their stand, and see what the answer will be. Liberality with money in cases of worthwhile endeavors is a commendable spirit, a splendid attitude and an inestimable gift to the community. But for real growth, for a real forward-looking community, men are needed to DO things.

Money will do a lot of things in this world, but it alone will not get things done. There must be somebody to do them, with the aid of money. There are always a few Georges in every community who conscientiously try to fill the vacancy created by many shirkers, but there are not enough of them. The old guard of faithfuls are doing their dead level best, working doing the things that need to be done, the things that can not be bought and paid for except with personal attention, work, influence, push and shove.

Help out the Georges other than with your cash. Put your ear to the ground and listen to what they are trying to do and then go to them and offer your SERVICES. That's the stuff that is needed to get things done. Don't accept the statement that a thing can't be put over because this fellow or that fellow opposes it or is indifferent to it. Anything can be done if we all join the Georges. Think it over, and then come out in the open on the next issue.

"Is that the 'dotted line' we are always being asked to sign on?" inquires Hugh Childress, Jr., the banker, as he gazes into the leopard cage at the would-be circus.

Oiling the streets might be a good way to get them paved. Some of us might get tired of being hammered over the head for tracking oil in on the rugs.

Now that the world series is over we can get back to work.

Ozona belongs to its citizens and will be what they try to make it.

Education is great. There are youngsters here who four years ago couldn't throw a forward pass.

October is a great month in which to pay up your subscription to The Ozona Stockman. Really, we can't think of a better time than right now.

Chain store competition is not putting as many merchants out of business as the people who buy on credit from the friendly merchant. If you owe your merchant, pay him now.

PREVENT FIRES!

Annual Fire Prevention Week, which has just closed, was in a way a commemoration of the great Chicago Fire of 1871, for it was on October 3, 1871 that Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern and started a conflagration which raged two days and nights, killing 250 persons and destroying $195,000,000 worth of property.

Since 1926, those sponsoring Fire Prevention Week disclose, there have been diminishing fire losses. Nevertheless, in the last year for which statistics are available, 1928, ten thousand persons were killed and property worth nearly half a million was destroyed by fires in the United States.

Most of these fires were preventable. It is said ninety per cent of the deaths and destruction were avoidable. It is up to every citizen to keep in mind always the necessity for constant watchfulness and care to prevent fires. The penalty of neglect in this respect is heavy indeed.

MacDonald—A Peace Prophet
 Ramsay MacDonald's visit to the United States is important for many reasons—but perhaps most important because he comes as a messenger of peace, with the intention of hastening the worldwide peace movement. When Armistice Day comes this year, the outlook for world peace, we hope, will be much brighter because of MacDonald's visit.

We have made many sacrifices for war, says MacDonald—why not make some sacrifice for peace? These words are noble and beautiful. They point at a new era of international understanding, and loving kindness the world over.

This apostle of peace—this good will messenger from Great Britain—comes not as a Prince or King to these shores, but as simple Ramsay MacDonald, son of a Scottish farm laborer. When Hoover and MacDonald speak, two men speak who have treasured and never abandoned the simple, sincere manners of their origins. Let us hope the accomplishment of these two figures, acting in friendship and cooperation, is great indeed.

MR. DARROW SPEAKING

Those who read the report in the San Angelo Morning Times Thursday that quoted Clarence Darrow, Chicago attorney, on the subject of mental and moral heredity, found subject matter enough to occupy long periods of serious thought.

Darrow has established quite a reputation as a "free-thinker," "new thoughtist," atheist and what not. His latest utterance for publication now identifies him chief-counsel-at-large for all morons.

Under the definition advanced by Darrow, all persons who perform manual labor are morons or imbeciles. He said:

"If a person is really intelligent, the first thing he does is to arrange his life so that somebody else will do the work for him," and added that, "if we had no morons, it would interfere with the paving of streets, building sewers, running of railroads, factories and other industries, and would also raise havoc with church attendance."

He raised the question of who the undesirables are, and plunged into his usual prattle about mental types, etc. Parading under the banner of super-liberty, Darrow has made himself obnoxious to true lovers of freedom for many years. He is the self-appointed leader of a so-called school of thought that, if generally accepted, would leave life without compass or goal. His line of preaching is "every man for himself, and woe betide the idiot who accepts a small fee."

Darrow, well fed, prosperous, shrewd and void of any respect for those who do not sit behind the mahogany desks of the plutocrats, knows that he has nothing to lose, financially, by calling all manual workers morons. His clients are not laborers, for those who toil at the kind of work he referred to do not possess the money he demands as fees.

However, it must be conceded that Darrow has one strong point in support of his line of chatter. Jurists that have been influenced by his subtle and confusing argument, to the extent that they have made a farce of law by permitting his guilty clients to escape just punishment, supply the best evidence that the percentage of morons is remarkably high. —S. A. Times.

Good Will

That intangible something which a few of the largest manufacturers set in their Balance Sheet as an asset which runs into six figures. Something which represents an actual value, yet which is hard to sell to a successor on a tangible basis.

Good will is not based on Price Consideration. It is not based on any one man in any establishment. Nor can it be pinned down to any one great quality.

A business house takes on the form of a single unit. The entire personnel, from the stock boy to the check signer, becomes as one, and as one, it is judged.

The house policy can not be set and adhered to by the manager. Every member must coordinate in their attitude toward the firm. Oftimes we are judged by what we think of ourselves.

Ours is not a territory which would care for a six-figure good will asset, but we do claim a four-figure consideration.

Every member of our firm is loyal to the core, and that means they are loyal to YOU, our customers. Because, you see, YOUR best interests become ours. There is not a "clock watcher" in the house. That indicates their interest in You. They are willing to stay as long as you need them.

For that reason we ask no more of them than they can do well. Seven days a week would wear them out utterly, and a worn-out body cannot be over zealous to your interests.

"Business goes where it is wanted"—We want your business if your good will goes with it—"And stays where it is well treated"—We Go The Limit To Please You.

LEE WILSON, Prop.

Big Sale

Remember Steddon, a pretty, unsophisticated daughter of a narrow-minded minister.

Rev. Doctor Steddon, violently opposed to "worldly things," denounces the movies.

Dr. Bretherick, an elderly physician, and a friend of the Steddon family, is astonished at Remember's condition as the result of an unfortunate affair with Elwood Farnaby, a poor boy and son of the town sot. They have been in love since childhood but Doctor Steddon is opposed.

Remember is persuaded by Dr. Bretherick to go West after Elwood is killed in an accident, using a bad cough as an excuse.

On the train going to the West Mem meets Tom Holby and Robina Teele, movie stars. The train stops, narrowly escaping a wreck.

At Tucson Mem is met by Dr. Galbraith. Later she writes that she has married "Mr. Woodville" and leaves Tucson for Yuma.

Mem does a small part in a movie with Tom Holby and Robina Teele, then goes to Palm Springs to work for a storekeeper.

At Palm Springs she meets Mrs. Dack and her son, Terry, with whom she becomes intimate. Later, going to Los Angeles, Mem gets work in a studio laboratory. Later she loses her job then her mother comes to visit her.

Well, she would sell what God had made of her for what man might make of her.

At the studio she had met the casting director, Arthur Tirrey. It was he who said to this one or that one, "Here is a part, play it, and the company will give you so much a week."

He was the St. Peter of the movie heaven, empowered to admit or to deny. He was the man for her to seek. He had seemed decent enough, and he had looked at Mem without insolence. But you can never tell!

Mem studied herself a long while in the mirror, since her eyes and her smile must be her chief wardrobe, her siren equipment. She practiced such expressions as she supposed to represent invitations and they were silly and made her rather ill.

She reached Tirrey's office and found him idly swapping stories with his assistant. He spoke to her courteously, motioned her into his office, closed the door, and took his own place behind the desk.

The telephone rang. He called into it: "Sorry, Miss Waite, that part has been filled. The company couldn't make your salary. I begged you to take the cut, but you wouldn't. Times are hard and you had better listen to reason. Sorry. Good-by!"

This was a discouraging background for Mem's siren scenario. But she determined to carry out her theory and in all self-loathing, adjusted herself in her big chair to what she imagined was a Cleopatra sinuosity. She thought of her best lines; secretly twitched up her skirts and thrust her ankles well into view.

She turned upon Mr. Tirrey her most languishing eyes, and tried to pour enticement into them as into bowls of fire.

She pursed her lips and set them full. She widened her breast with deep sighs.

Tirrey seemed to recognize that she was deploying herself. He grew a little uneasy. But he was as polite to Mem as if she had been Robina Teele.

"What can I do for you?"

"I want a chance to act."

"What experience have you had?" he asked.

Mem was suddenly confronted with the fact that all actors must offer themselves for sale—not the pretty women only, but the old men, too, and the character women.

Actors are much abused for talking of themselves. Few of them do when business is not involved, but when it is they must discuss the goods they are trying to sell. Shoe merchants talk shoes; railroad presidents, railroads; politicians, politics; clergymen, salvation. Each salesman must recommend his own stock and talk it up.

So Mem had to grope for experience and dress her window with it. And she had so little she had a little, as one does who tries to sell anything.

"I was with the company that Tom Holby and Robina Teele played in. I took the part of an Arabian woman. Mr. Folger, the director—er—praised my—er—work."

"Well, he knows," said Tirrey, "but he's not with this company, you know. Have we your name and address and a photograph outside in our files?"

"No."

"Well, if you'll give them to Mr. Dobbs, with your height, weight, color of eyes and hair, and experience, we'll let you know when anything occurs. I'll introduce you to Mr. Dobbs and he—"

He moved toward the door to escape from the cruelty of his office, but a frenzy moved her to seize his arm in a fierce clutch.

She tried to play the vampire as she had seen the part enacted on the screen by various althy toves. She drew her victim close to her, pressed tight against him, and poured upward into his eyes all the venom of an amorous basilisk.

"I'll pay the price! I know what it costs to succeed, and I'm willing to pay. I'll do anything you say, be anything to you. You can't refuse me!"

She could hardly believe her own ears hearing her own voice, tho with pride in the acting she was doing lifted from the disgust for the role.

He looked at her without surprise, without horror, without even amusement. But—also without a hint of surrender. His only mood was one of jaded pity.

"You poor child, who's been filling your head with that stuff? Are you trying to vamp me?"

The crass word angered her.

"I'm trying to force my way to my career, and I don't care what it costs."

Tirrey's sarcastic smile faded: "Sit down and listen a minute to me. A little common sense ought to have told you that what you've been told is all rot. Suppose I were willing to give a job to every pretty girl who tried to bribe me with love. Do you know how many women I see a day—a hundred and fifty on some days; that's nearly a thousand a week. And if you won me over you'd still have to please the director and the managers and the author and public. How long would our company keep going if we selected our actresses according to their immorality?"

"Forget this old rot 'about paying the price.' Tell Mr. Dobbs your pedigree and we'll give you the first chance we get, and no initiation fee or commission will be charged. How's that? A little bit of all right, eh? You're a nice child, and pretty, and you'll get along."

He lifted her from her chair and put his arm around her as a comrade, and slapped her shoulder blades in an accolade of good fellowship.

She broke under the strain and began to cry. She dropped back into her chair and sobbed. It was good to be punished and rebuked into common decency by the way of common sense.

It chanced that the president of the company was returning to his office from a visit to one of the sages. This was the man whose name was familiar about the world. Every film from his factory was labeled: "Bermond presents—"; "Copyright by the Bermond Company"; "This is a Bermond picture." The slogan of the company was, "This is a Bermond year."

When Mr. Bermond heard Mem crying, his heart hurt him. He did not like scandal, disorder, confusion, or grief on his lot.

He went to Mem and tried to console her. He took her hands down from her contorted face and forced her to look at him. Seen through the cascade of her tears she was strikingly attractive, appealing.

"Sarah Bernhardt failed in her first play, you know, and you may be a second Sarah some day," he said. "Just you wait."

Mem's eyes were filling with rainbows. A bystander drew Bermond aside. It was Claymore, a dramatist who had had a few successes before he established himself in the moving pictures as a director.

"That girl has the tear," he said to Bermond. "That woman you've given me for my next picture is awful. Let me take this kid and give her a real test. She might have just what we want."

"Sure! Fine! Go to it!" said Bermond, and hastened to Mem with the good news that Mr. Claymore—the great Mr. Claymore—was going to give her a chance.

The next morning found Mem at the studio betimes, borrowing mascara and advice from Miss Calder.

Claymore was waiting for her when she came from the women's dressing rooms. She was daubed, smeared, lined, powdered, rouged, mascaraed, and generally caldamed for duty. Her heart was beating in alternate throbs of fear and frenzy. Her feet were at the brink of the Rubicon.

Claymore had provided a camera man, a few men to handle the electric lights, a property man, and even a pair of musicians—a violinist and the treader of a wheezy little portable melodeon.

Claymore marched her into the scene and gave her a little of what he called footwork.

"Go back to that door and come forward to this spot. Shake hands with—er—with your lover—er—Well—no. Let me see. That's too simple. Let's get down to business."

"You've a—Oh, well, just for instance, you've been—er—betrayed and your child has died and you've been accused of murdering it and you're now being called before the judge and the jury. Do you get me? You're coming into a courtroom under a charge of murder; you feel your shame, but you're innocent of the charge, yet you're overwhelmed with guilt for your fall and the father of the child is—was killed in the war, say—and you don't much care whether you live or die; so you're in despair, yet defiant. That's a triple layer of emotion for you and I don't suppose you can get much of it over, but—just try to give the atmosphere of it. Now back to the door. Walk through it once."

Claymore was as much embarrassed as Mem, for his invention was not in its best working order so early in the morning. He felt as silly as a man badgered by a peevish child to tell a story.

But his trite plot stirred Mem

What is lovely never dies,
But passes into other loveliness.
—Aldrich.

It is sometimes interesting to delve into the very distant past, through the many books available to us, to find out how our very ancient ancestors felt about beauty culture.

In my search I came across a story which amused as well as enlightened me. The tale was about a very elegant, artistic gentleman of the year 3300 B. C. who suddenly discovered that the feminine sex was losing interest in him. He attributed this lack to the fact that his hair was turning grey, and so he rushed to a learned gentleman of the village.

"Tell me, O learned one," he said "what can I do to recover the color of my hair?" A modern beauty specialist might have hesitated, but the learned one immediately gave the formula of the treatment. "Get the blood of a black cow, rub it up in oil and boil, after which it is to be applied to the locks," answered the Learned One. Unfortunately, the book has no record of the success of this treatment, but there is no question in my mind that much time and money, whatever the currency of the day happened to be was spent both by men and women in trying to prolong youth and enhance beauty.

Perfume was an essential to the life of the Egyptian. Religious rites could not be performed without incense. Perfume was used in embalming, and was also a vibrant part of the aesthetic side of life. Famous archaeologists who have in these modern times broken the silence of the old Egyptian tombs, unearthing mummies buried thousands of years ago, have brought forth evidence of the activities in the beauty field in ancient times. Some of these explorers discovered cream jars which had been buried with the mummies and which still gave forth a delicate haunting fragrance, which they could not analyze.

To critics who sometimes feel that too much time is devoted by the women of today for beauty culture, I should like to recommend these records which date back to the earliest times known to human knowledge. For they show conclusively that there has never been a time in the history of the world when men and women were not interested in prolonging youth—and enhancing their personal appearance.

Pays $69,120 For 6-Section Ranch

E. M. Kirkland, Sutton and Edwards ranchman, last week closed a deal with the D. J. Wyatt estate for six sections known as the Steen ranch about fifteen miles southeast of town. Kirkland paid $18 per acre, or $69,120 for the ranch. He is to get immediate possession, it was stated. No livestock was included in the deal.

It is understood that Mr. Kirkland will stock the ranch with sheep and goats. He owns about fifty sections of land in this county and Edwards county.

Mr. Kirkland recently spent about $50,000 for building in Sonora, and it is understood that he is planning to put that much more into buildings here at an early date.—Devil's River News.

SHEPHERD.—William Moser, one of the most successful ranchmen in the southwest, has come out in favor of the candidacy of C. C. Belcher, Del Rio attorney, warehouse manager and ranchman for Congress.

Mr. Moser says Mr. Belcher is just the man that the ranch country wants, that he knows the business of the ranch country and its problems and is eminently qualified to serve the people in the congress of the United States. Mr. Moser thinks it is a matter of good business judgment to vote for a man who knows the west and its needs instead of a man who has been a politician all his life and whose knowledge of the needs of the livestock men is very limited.

Mr. Moser thinks there is no chance but that Belcher will be elected.

Two Texas Counties Still Under Blanket Scabies Quarantine

Though 625 inspections were made in the September scabies survey for infection among the sheep of the state, only two quarantines were warranted issued, according to the monthly report made by J. H. Rasco, chief inspector for the Livestock Commission. Tyler and Val Verde counties are still being held under blanket quarantine. Crockett county had 5 inspections made, with 154 sheep found exposed and dipped; El Paso county one inspection, 39 exposed and dipped; Irion, 60 inspections, 147 exposed and dipped; Kimble one inspection, 18 exposed and dipped;

Menard, 11 inspections, 271 exposures and 225 dippings; McCulloch one inspection, 179 exposures and 109 dippings; Schleicher, 9 inspections, with 296 exposures and dippings; Terrell, 30 inspections, 600 found infected, a total of 768 exposed and dipped; Tom Green county had 46 inspections, and 237 exposed and dipped. Three quarantines were released to two issued during the month leaving 44 special quarantines still in force in the state. Four hundred and twenty-seven form A certificates were issued, and one herd held pending further dipping. Three thousand eight hundred goats were found infected or exposed and were dipped during the month, though no West Texas county was involved in the report of exposures. Five quarantines were issued in cattle scabies eradication measures during the month. Dallam county was the only one in which dippings were necessitated, 1,127 animals being sent through the vats.

Freshmen Frolic At Chicken Barbecue Given By Juniors

Freshmen displayed their typical playful spirit when they participated in various forms of outdoor amusements at a chicken barbecue given for them by the Juniors at Baggett's Grove last Friday evening. The faculty members present portrayed their childish tendencies also by taking an eager part in all the games, some of which called for exceptional strength and daring. Possibly the feature of the evening's amusements was the boxing match staged between Messrs. Sadler and Lewis.

There were 44 guests present including Freshmen, Juniors and faculty members. Pansy Whatley supervised the entertainments while Louise Henderson supervised the serving of the refreshments. Chicken, chicken dressing, frijoles, potato salad, pickles, beans, ice cream and cake were served. Everyone enjoyed the evening and came back to town feeling fine.

BAD HABITS A KING STIMULATION

Most people believe that to achieve success in life it is essential to have a good president in the White House, a good pastor, a progressive Commercial club in town, national prosperity, and neighbors devoted to God and country. The truth is, success depends entirely on the man who achieves it. He must have fewer bad habits than is the human average; with such an advantage, success is certain. Another feature of the argument is, a man with fewer bad habits than the average actually gets along more comfortably than his acquaintances whose average of bad habits is higher than the unwritten law.

My favorite recollection of literature is that story of some drunken courtiers returning from a carouse. . . . Encountering a proletarian sleeping off a debauch, they escorted him to the palace and put him to bed. When he awakened he found himself arrayed in royal raiment, surrounded with luxury and lackeys who hastened to do his bidding; he went to sleep a drunk and awakened a king. And he was the most impudent king in history; he grandly ordered this and that, and it was none too good for him. If the courtiers engaged in the prank failed to bow sufficiently low, they were reprimanded; a servant who neglected gold plate in serving food, was whipped, although the vagrant had been accustomed to pewter. Soon the vagrant was beaten, his rags restored and turned into the street. . . . Every man believes he is capable of being a king, and that he has been wronged, because he is not. And if suddenly promoted to so high an estate, he would be as meag and incapable as the worst of them.

A Methodist preacher of national distinction told me this story: When a boy his mother was always expecting to die of heart trouble; whiskey was kept in the house, to stimulate her heart when it threatened to stop beating. . . . She died at ninety-one and her heart beat feebly three days after all her other organs were dead.

The most universal human longing is for the possession of money. This is denied by a few, who say Principle is their goal, but the truth of the statement cannot be reasonably questioned (it is a human characteristic that certain facts we all know to be universal are almost universally denied). . . . And the surest way to acquire money is the exercise of character honesty, industry, politeness. . . . Aristocracy of birth is not fair, and nature accepts nothing that is not fair. Besides, the best of us date back in lineage to a very bad mess. So every one has the same chance at aristocracy, and what we recognize as the greatest human achievement: the possession of money.

Burt McConnell, well-known writer and explorer, of Quebec, is saying farewell to civilization and plunging into the wilds of Canada. He will wear nothing and endeavor to live without human aid until Thanksgiving.

GUIDEPOSTS TO Health and Happiness

By Bernarr Macfadden

WHAT ARE "NERVES"

Did you ever stop to wonder why it is that only wealthy people can afford nerves? One of the hobbies of a large group of society women is to have a breakdown in the winter and be ordered to Florida, and perhaps another breakdown when hot weather comes around and then the doctor is almost sure to prescribe a sea voyage.

Poor things! It really isn't their imagination; most of them are literally a "bundle of nerves." But instead of prescribing Florida in the winter and Europe in the summer, their physician (if he dared) should suggest a few days over a wash tub. That would soon cure their jumpy nerves.

Neurasthenia is the result of idleness of body and mind. Jumpy nerves are the result of having nothing to do. It is Nature's law that every living thing must burn up a certain amount of brain and body tissue each day in order to keep normal and healthy. Sleeping late, breakfast in bed, a limousine ride to a smart hotel for lunch, perhaps a matinee in the afternoon, a formal dinner party and an evening of bridge, while sounding like an ambitious program, is utterly worthless as far as physical or mental exercise is concerned.

Did you ever hear of a day laborer or a well trained athlete taking to his bed with a case of nerves—of course not. It just doesn't happen, because there isn't any reason for it to happen. Improper nourishment can cause a physically active man to collapse but that is beside the point.

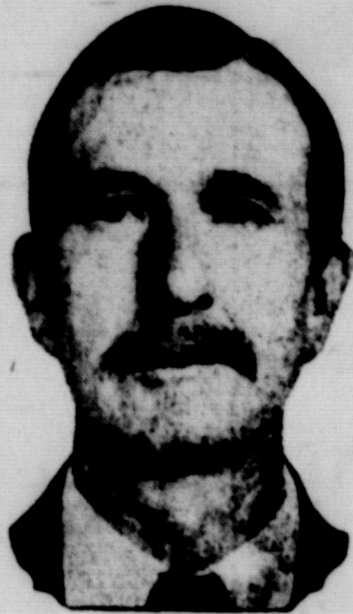

It is amazing how much endurance the average healthy person has. Haven't you yourself gone to bed at times with the soles of your feet throbbing and your brain whirling madly around? But does not a good night's sleep in a well ventilated room make you feel like a new person next morning.

The long and short of the matter is that "nerves" are due primarily to poisons or toxins as medical men call them. These poisons are generated by the system and the only way to get rid of them is by proper digestion and assimilation, regular elimination and sufficient exercise of brain and body.

Glad To Tell His Friends About It

"I've seen Dallas grow from a small town to a great city and I have many friends in Texas. I want them all to know about Sargon, and what it did for me.

Wm. D. VAUGHN

"My stomach was out of order for a long time. Although I ate very little, I was often in misery after meals and smothering spells would frequently wake me at night. I was constipated, my blood was thin and my color was as yellow as gold. I had severe pains in my back and sides and my kidneys would get me up all during the night.

"Since taking Sargon, I'm in better health than for years. I eat like a hungry school boy and can digest anything. There's not a pain in my body and I sleep good all night. Sargon Pills toned up my liver and ended my constipation. Now my skin has a good healthy color and I feel like a new man." Wm. D. Vaughn, 1910 S. Akard St., Dallas Ozona Drug Company, Agents. ### WILD TOBACCO PLANT IS FATAL TO CATTLE

Here's another menace for which cattle raisers might beware: wild tobacco!

Certain types of wild tobacco, containing nicotine, are poisonous to cattle, according to Dr. C. Dwight Marsh, specialist of the Department of Agriculture, who said that cattle generally will avoid the weed if good food is available, but sometimes they sample the wild tobacco with fatal results.

The weed known to botanists as Nicotiana trigonophylla grows in many localities in the relatively dry range areas of the Southwest—Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and southwestern California and Utah. It resembles cultivated tobacco, although the leaves are narrower. After several deaths in a herd in Arizona, the owner and Dr. Crump of the Bureau of Animal Industry, suspected the weed as the cause. They drove a herd of cattle away from a patch and marked it carefully. Next day the cattle had returned and eaten the wild tobacco and two were very sick as a result. These animals seemed to have acquired a taste for the weed.

Another wild tobacco, N. attenuata, which is almost equally poisonous, is found not only in the Southwest, but extending as far north as Washington. Nicotiana glauca, commonly known as tree tobacco, because of its shrublike growth, is also known to be poisonous to livestock.

As the plants grow on limited areas it is not difficult to destroy them, and on the range, where livestock are herded, it should be easy to keep them away from patches of wild tobacco if the herders take pains to learn the appearance of the plants.—S. A. Times.

Miss Bernice Bailey furnished the entertainment program at the Lions Club luncheon at the Hotel Ozona Monday noon, playing several piano selections that were greatly enjoyed.

amazingly. He could not know how close his random shots had come home to her and flung her back from the forward-looking artist to the loon fugitive who had stumbled into California laden with disgrace.

She was all atremble and her eyes darted, her fingers twitched. Claymore marveled at her instantaneous response to his suggestion. There were born artists who shivered on the least breath of inspiration and suggestion.

His first impression of Mem was that he had found a genius, and he fought against the obstacles he encountered later with the zest of a man digging toward known gold.

In a kind of stupor Mem obeyed his commands like the trained confederate of a hypnotist. She went to the door, came in reluctant, shamefaced, doomed. She advanced slowly till she reached the edge of the rug he had indicated, then halted, and with a fierce effort hoisted her head in defiance and braved the lightning of the judge.

She heard Claymore call to her: "That's fine! Now we'll take it!"

She started back but was checked by the camera man's "Wait, please!" He ran forward and shouted directions on all sides for lights.

"Hit those spots! Throw the ash can on her. Bring up that Kliegl. Put a diffuser on that Winfield. What's the matter with the second spot? Your carbons are flickering. Mike! Mike! Trim those carbons on the second spot! Pull 'em!"

NUMBER OF FEEDER LAMBS ABOUT SAME AS LAST YEAR

Approximately the same number of lambs and sheep will be fed for market this fall and winter as were fed in the same period last year, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

On October 1, says the bureau, the indications were that the Corn Belt States, excluding western Nebraska, probably would feed more this season than last, that Colorado would feed at least as many as last year, that western Nebraska would feed about as many, and that the total fed in the other western feeding States might be somewhat less than the year before.

Shipments of feeding lambs and sheep, through markets, into the Corn Belt in July, August and September were reported as a little larger this year than last, territory east of the Mississippi fewer than in that period of 1928. Lamb feeding is expected to be on a considerably larger scale this year than for several years in all of the eastern Corn Belt States except Michigan. As to the western part of the Corn Belt, indications are that Iowa and the Corn Belt area of Nebraska will feed somewhat more than last year and Missouri and Kansas considerably fewer.

WHAT ABOUT THE ROADS?
(Devil's River News)

There was some few weeks ago considerable talk about building a paved or hardsurfaced road to the Crockett County line, Edwards county and toward Menard. Has this progressive move died?

Ozona and Crockett county are contemplating paving to the Sutton county line and from Ozona to Barnhart. If Ozona should (and they will) build to our county line then Sutton should meet the project. It would be ridiculous if this county should fail to meet Ozona halfway. Now is the time we should get busy and circulate a petition for better roads.

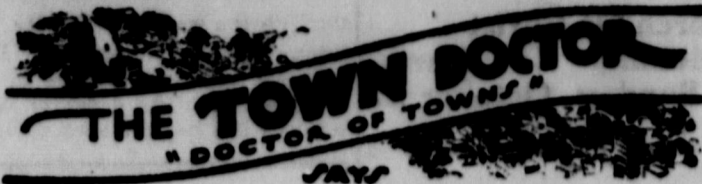

Lions, don't sleep on your rights—get busy and start the move. It will be more for Sonora's benefit than it will Ozona's good. That will mean that most of the Ozona merchants and ranchmen will come here after their supplies and freight, and this will mean something to Sonora.

Crockett county is considering a $50,000 bond issue. If that county can afford to vote that much in bonds Sutton county can do likewise. It would hardly take that sum for this county. A $150,000 bond issue would be sufficient with which to construct good roads in our county.

BUSINESS GOES WHERE IT IS INVITED

Merchants who bewail the fact that "business isn't what it used to be," yet fail or refuse to profit by the example of those with whom business is better than it used to be, have no "business" to complain if their business goes elsewhere.

Merchants who spend time crying about new or outside firms taking their business away from them, but shut their eyes to the very evident cause and reason for it, can't blame anyone but themselves if their business goes "floopy". If business isn't good with you,

"beefing" about it all the time won't improve it. Who wants to do business with a constant calamity howler anyhow?

Business is good—there is more business today than there ever was—the difference is there are more and keener concerns after it.

Everybody knows that—your customers included. If you are not getting the business, it's not your customer's fault.

You can get the business if you will rid yourself of old superstitions and prejudices; if you will take away the nickel you are holding so close to your eyes that you can't see the ten dollar bills on the other side of it; if you will recognize that modern buyers do not and will not do business with old-fashioned sellers, unless they have to—and then do something about it, instead of standing around, wringing your hands and crying about it. If you don't invite the people to do business with you, don't give them, consistently and persistently, every reason why they should do business with you, you surely won't get their business, but the fellow that does, will.

Now, you don't have to do this—it's your business and you can run it to suit yourself, but if you won't do it, don't blame anything or anybody but yourself if your business goes on the rocks and your customers forget you. Don't get sore at your newspaper, either, if it accepts outside advertising copy. If you don't want the business bad enough to ask for it, don't kick if others, who know how to sell, ask for it, and get it.

Bride-To-Be Is Honored With Shower

Mrs. J. M. Baggett entertained with a shower for Miss Marie Doty at her home Saturday morning. Miss Doty is to be married to Stephens Perner Sunday, October 20, at her home in Eldorado. Miss Lois Riddle rendered a pitiful selection and Mrs. Bascomb Cox sang to Mrs. Morris Dudley's accompaniment. Miss Caroline Fox read an appropriate selection. Miss Tommy Smith invited the honor guest to pull the old oaken bucket out of the well which was draped with queen's wreath to match the pink and white decorations. The first gift was a lovely bouquet of La France roses from the groom. This was followed by many beautiful gifts of linen and silver and other gifts. Cake and hot chocolate were served with tiny parasols for favors.

NOTE how these blocks or "teeth" are placed IN THE CENTER of the tread. NOTE how the "teeth" also extend UP THE SIDES—to prevent skids on turns—to take hold in ruts—to pull out when tires sink deeply into mud, sand, slush or snow. MORE than 20 winters have proved the All-Weather the safest and best of all non-skid treads. Now comes this extra-deep-cut, extra tough, super-edition of that same famous tread to master the very worst driving conditions. It is one of many super features, exclusive to the

Gallant Glenna Breaks Women's Golf Record

Glenna Collett has succeeded herself as champion in the women's national amateur golf championships, of which she became the only four times winner in the thirty-third year of this tournament, over the Oakland Hills Course at Detroit, Mich. Glenna deserves praise indeed, as she has gained the distinction of being a four times winner only after a hard struggle which lasted until the final putt, Mrs. Leona Fressler of Los Angeles furnishing stiff opposition.
