AUTOGIRO

Before the gas engine was invented, before anybody had ever believed the airplane possible, Thomas A. Edison invented a flying machine which was to be lifted into the air by a horizontal windmill propeller, the power derived from a series of gun-cotton explosions.

The other day Mr. Edison saw James Ray and James Faulkner land at Newark after a flight from Philadelphia in a machine they called an "autogiro" which except for the engine, was just like the early Edison dream. It is entirely possible that the autogiro, which can rise vertically, land "on a dime" and fly as slow as 20 miles or as fast as 115 miles an hour will be the airplane of the future.

LONDON

The municipality of London is still the largest city in the world, with 7,849,000 population, compared with New York's 1930 Census figure of 6,981,927. But in the area known as "circled New York" the territory included in a radius of 19 miles from the City Hall, which takes in part of New Jersey and of three New York counties not included in the city proper, there is a population about 1,400,000 greater than in the so-called "London traffic area" which extends nearly thirty miles from the center of London.

Contrary to the general idea, the average height of buildings in London is higher than in New York. The many huge skyscrapers, rising from 30 to 60 stories, in New York, and counter-balanced by the tens of thousands of buildings only three or four stories high, London has only two or three buildings more than seven stories high, but very few under five stories. The London County Council recently refused an application for permission to build a new hotel ten stories tall, and fixed nine stories as the limit.

FOOD

Food fads and faddists cost the American farmer millions of dollars a year, according to Henry Bakers Association. Mr. Stude's organization is trying to get people to go back to the habit of eating bread — not whole wheat bread or Graham bread or any kind of "health" bread, but just ordinary white bread.

There is a good deal in the suggestion that many persons have been frightened away from bread by the idea that it is fattening.

The craze for slenderness is not confined to women; men have been taught that fat is dangerous. The real danger is in not eating enough nutritive food to supply the necessary bodily energy.

"Eat what's set before you," was the rule for children, when I was a boy. It is still a good rule. Most of us can digest anything and the wider our range of diet the more healthy we are likely to be.

Yellow Jackets Trim Ozona 12-0

Menard Eleven Bests Locals At Powell Field Saturday

The Menard Yellow Jackets sat heavily on the Lion's back on the Ozona gridiron last Saturday afternoon, beating the Ozona High School squad by a 12 to 0 count.

It was the same team that dropped an 18 to 13 game to Rock-springs two weeks before—a team which this time invariably faltered at the goal line and fumbled when holding the ball meant a touchdown.

In midfield the Lions were masters, even against the heavier Menard eleven. They could march down the field for first down after first down until within striking distance of the goal line when they would suddenly cease their advance and either give the ball to the opposing team on a fumble, an intercepted pass or on downs.

When the game started it looked like the Lions were good for at least four touchdowns. In the first quarter they made six first downs to Menard's one. Ozona kicked off at the opening of the game and Menard after three punches at the line kicked to Ozona's 30 yard line. Three punches by the Lions getting no results, Kyle kicked and a few minutes later Yellow Jackets returned the compliment, kicking over the goal line.

The ball being brought out to the 20 yard line, the Lions then opened up for what looked like a sure touchdown. An end run netted nine yards, and a buck put the ball over for first down. There was another exchange of punts and Ozona was left in possession of the ball on their own 15 yard line, the Yellow Jacket punter having placed one out of bounds on that mark. Here Kyle took the ball around end and gained 20 yards. Roger Dudley snagged 8 yards through the line, and Fat Kyle made it first down through the same hole. George Vick Montgomery was called around end for a 4 yard gain, and Kyle made it another first down. Three more bucks made another first down. Then with the ball in their possession on Menard's 30 yard line, after making 55 yards in a straight march down the field, the Ozona lads fumbled the ball and the visitors recovered, the quarter ending as they kicked out of danger to Ozona's 35 yard line.

An exchange of punts opened the second quarter with Kyle having the decided edge of the kicking. Backing the visitors to their own 16 yard line, the Lions lost the ball on downs and the visitors kicked weakly. Montgomery returning the ball to Menard's 30 yard line, Kyle then got loose for a 25 yard gain around right end. Again it looked like a cinch for a market, but Joe Chandler lost four yards on an attempted end run and on the next play another Ozona back fumbled the ball and the visitors recovered.

Another failure in the shadow of the goal seemed to take the heart out of the Ozona eleven and the Yellow Jackets marched down the field to within striking distance of the local goal. But within less than a yard of their goal, the Lions presented a solid defensive wall which the visitors were unable to penetrate in four attempts, the ball resting within an inch of the goal line on the fourth down.

Kicking from behind his own goal line, Kyle dropped a bad one that hit on the 25 yard line and bounded backward to the 20 yard line where it was grounded by an Ozona lineman. An end run that gained 15 yards and several plunges at the line finally put the ball across the goal line for the first touchdown of the afternoon. The try for point after touchdown failed, the score resting Menard 6, Ozona 0.

Here again the Lions showed more fight, receiving the Menard kick and returning the ball in two successive first downs to midfield. A long pass Kyle to Dudley, was

Meet Of Baptist Assn. Postponed

Members Unable To Get Here On Account Of High Water

Swollen streams and muddy roads as a result of heavy rains Sunday and Monday prevented the arrival of delegates here for the scheduled twenty-eighth annual session of the Del Rio-Uvalde Baptist Association Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

The meeting of the Association has been indefinitely postponed. Rev. M. M. Fulmer, pastor of the local church, announced. The dates for the meeting will be fixed in the next few days as soon as officials of the body can be reached for a conference.

The session will not be held at least for the next two weeks on account of the revival meeting which starts in the local church next Sunday, with Dr. J. B. Tidwell, head of the department of Bible at Baylor University, doing the preaching.

The gathering will represent the combined meeting of the Associational Woman's Missionary Union, auxiliary to the Association, and the General Association meeting. The dates for the postponed meeting will probably be fixed for sometime early in November, Rev. Fulmer said.

Lemmons Dry Goods Announces Big Sale, Continue Ten Days

A "Good News Sale," in which a brand new line of fall and winter merchandise is being offered at exceptionally low prices, will be inaugurated by the Lemmons Dry Goods Company Friday of this week.

The sale will continue ten days. Prices on standard brand merchandise have been sharply reduced in this sale in order to acquaint Ozona people with the class of goods being handled in their home town store and to allow customers of the concern an opportunity to buy needed articles for fall and winter wear at an appreciable saving right in the beginning of the season.

Announcement of the big sale is carried in a double page ad on pages four and five of this issue of The Ozona Stockman. Turn to the center spread and read the items and prices listed there and then go look over the Lemmons stock of high quality merchandise. There are many other items on sale that could not be included in this ad, Mr. Lemmons says.

Neville Davis Buys Couch and Kessler Store At Barnhart

Announcement was made this week of the purchase by Neville Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Davis of this city, of the Couch and Kessler Store at Barnhart. Mr. Davis took charge the first of the week and is open for business with a full line of groceries, dry goods and feeds, the announcement by Mike Couch, local grocer and former part owner of the Barnhart store, said. Bill Kessler, who has been manager of the Barnhart concern, has returned to Ozona and will be connected with the Mike Couch grocery here.

Bright Prospects For Good Prices On Lambs In Kansas Feed Pens

Ranchmen who have shipped lambs to the feed lots in Emporia, Kansas, are elated over prospects for good prices when the animals are finally placed on the market. Arthur Phillips, Crockett County ranchman, said here the first of the week upon his return from Emporia, where he took his lambs to the feed pens.

Four-fifths of the lambs in the Emporia lots are from Crockett County, Mr. Phillips declared, there being some 60,000 on feed when he was there.

ROAD SURVEY APPROVED BY COUNTY DADS

Commissioners Accept Straight Route For Barnhart Road

GET RIGHT-OF-WAY

Court Appoints Jury Of View To Fix Damage To Land Owners

The Crockett County Commissioners Court has given its approval to the straight route survey for the Ozona-Barnhart road for the hard-surfaced highway provided for in this county's $375,000 bond issue, with state aid, and has appointed a jury of view to assess damages to land owners along the route for the right-of-way.

This was the information conveyed to the Lions Club Monday by County Judge Chas. E. Davidson, Judge Davidson, E. P. Arneson, member of the firm of Walton and Arneson, engineers, who have been in charge of surveying Crockett County highways, and B. E. Ingham, member of the Crockett County Commissioners Court, were program guests of the club for its luncheon.

Mr. Arneson met with the Commissioners Court Monday, Judge Davidson said, and submitted surveys of the route and the court informally approved the straight route which keeps to the divide and does not cross the Johnson Draw at any point along the route.

The Commissioners Court Wednesday morning appointed a jury of view composed of Paul Perner, Chas. Coates, W. P. Seahorn, John Bailey and Ralph Watson to assess damages to landowners along the route of the highway for the right-of-way.

Official designation of this new route can not be made at this time of court, it was pointed out, by reason of the fact that the statutes require that a written notice be posted twenty days and that a petition be presented to the Commissioners Court asking for the opening of such a road. This petition was prepared and signed by ten citizens and the notices were posted in accordance with the law Monday.

The court is scheduled to meet again on November 1 when the new route will be officially approved by the Commissioners Court and the jury of view can make its assessments at that time. By going ahead with appointment of the jury of view and getting everything in readiness, it is hoped that considerable time will be saved in getting the right-of-way for the route so that the last obstacle in the path of an award of the contract on this road by the state Highway Department will be removed.

Chas. E. (Tot) Grimmer was appointed county surveyor at this term of the court and was instructed to make surveys of the lands along the route of the new highway so that the jury of view could have definite and official information about the ownership of lands to be traversed.

Mr. Arneson in his talk before the Lions Club Monday explained that he was not in position to say of what material Crockett County roads would be constructed, but said that they are to be "hard-surfaced, rock asphalt or better." The proper surfacing material is a scientific problem, to be worked out in connection with physical facts apparent in the area traversed by a road, he said, and this problem will be solved by state and federal engineers after construction has started.

Mr. Arneson also told members of the club that the Old Spanish Trail highway, east and west across this county, would pass through Sheffield. There are two requirements in modern road building, he declared. First, the road must be safe as far as possible, and second it must be direct. "The east and west road

Crockett Well Pumps 80 Bbls.

Powell Well Completed; Magnolia No. 2 Hoover Bails 8 Bbls.

McMan-Amerada No. 2 L. & P. Powell, in the south end of the Powell pool in Crockett county, has been completed at 2,572 feet, pumping 80 barrels of oil in twenty-four hours after yielding 150 barrels the first twenty hours in pumping off a head.

The well had a gradual increase in oil from 2,472 feet, where the first oil was struck, to 2,580 feet and had no increase in drilling to 2,596 feet, where it showed three bailers of water overnight. Plugging back to 2,572 feet shut off the water. No. 2 Powell is in the southwest corner of section 52, block BB, E. L. & R. R. Ry. Co. survey, a diagonal northeast offset to The California Co.'s No. 2 Powell and an east offset to Cushing Gasoline & Refining Co.'s No. 3 Powell, both producers.

Magnolia Petroleum Company's No. 2 A. C. Hoover, a small wild-cat producer about 15 miles southwest of the Powell field and approximately the same distance east of the Yates pool, in Pecos county, had been bailing a daily average of about 8 barrels of oil. In eleven days ending last Sunday morning the well bailed 111 barrels. Pay from 2,038-54 feet was shot with 60 quarts. Location is 334 feet from the east line and 2,310 feet from the south line of section 2, block FF.

Lamb Market Shows Strength As Result Of Copious Rains

The lamb market has been showing great strength during the last few days with the last three days marking up prices. One commission man had more orders than he could fill at the prices he was offered. Judge J. A. Whitten of Eldorado said he had been offered $3 a head for his mixed lambs and refused it.

A group from Lampasas offering 4 cents for mutton lambs and 4 1-2 cents for ewe lambs had met with refusals yesterday afternoon. Several ranchmen had refused 4 cents for their lambs. Claud Linthicum said he was holding his mutton lambs for five cents a pound. Instead of the hysteria of selling, ranchmen were pointing to the $6.50 and $7 being paid for feeder lambs on the market in the north.

Judge J. A. Whitten said he is to feed a string of 1000 to 1500 lambs in pens at Eldorado where he can see the lambs and feed them what he wants to feed.

From Barnhart today went a mixed trainload of feeder lambs and feeder cattle. Judge Davidson is sending about 500 head of steers to the north. Ralph Watson and Orval Word were loading out some lambs to the feed pens last week. There are now about 50,000 head of Crockett county lambs in the feed pens. They are going out on the drought rate.

Commission men were experiencing difficulty in filling orders at the old prices. It was a week of victory for the ranchmen but how far he can press his advantage was a matter of debate yesterday among the business leaders.

The week saw the greatest collection of lamb buyers and the greatest number of orders reaching the commission men.—S. A. Times.

through this county is a federal and state project," Mr. Arneson declared, "and consequently the requirements are more strict. But in striving for attainment of a direct route for a highway, the needs of the country are studied. Highways are sometimes built to miss small communities in order to make a more direct route between centers of population. But in this thinly populated section Sheffield assumes an importance and it was for this reason that the highway was routed through that town."

More Rains Over Ranching Section

Nearly Two Inches Fall Here Monday; Streams Are Swollen

The week-end saw another helping of bountiful rains for the West Texas ranching section, falls that covered practically the entire area and ranging from an inch to six and seven inches.

All West Texas streams and draws were filled and considerable damage was done by high water in some sections. Brady again suffered flood damage from high water in the same creek which overflowed a week before. The South Concho river went on a rampage and claimed two lives at Christoval, Earl Calhoun of Eldorado and E. M. Duke, Jr., of Del Rio being drowned when their car was swept down the swollen stream at the Christoval crossing Sunday night. The two men were last seen in Christoval at 10 o'clock Sunday evening and are thought to have crossed the river on their way to Eldorado but found the draw this side of that town too high to be crossed and turned back, the flood waters of the river sweeping them downstream. The bodies were not recovered until early Tuesday morning.

The Pecos River was reported out of banks as a result of heavy waters upstream and all draws and small streams in the area were running full or out of banks. The Garley and Johnson Draws through Ozona went on a rise Monday afternoon and night, cutting off automobile traffic for several hours.

The rainfall here Monday amounted to 1.8 inches, making a total fall of around 5 inches during the week.

Watts Boy Is Taken Back To Hospital As Set-Back Is Feared

C. J. Watts, Jr., who was struck several weeks ago by a stray bullet from a 22 calibre rifle in the hands of young Elmond Powell, was taken to a San Angelo hospital again Thursday morning for further treatment for his injuries.

The bullet pierced the lad's abdomen and he was rushed to San Angelo where an operation was performed to repair the damage done by the bullet. The intestine was found to be perforated in several places and these were repaired. He recovered rapidly and was brought back to his home here about a week ago, apparently well on the road to recovery.

Wednesday night, however, he complained of pains in his abdomen and nausea. Mr. and Mrs. Watts took him back to the hospital early Thursday morning where an examination is to be made to determine the present trouble. No report had been received here at noon as to the result of the examination.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

Thirteen members were present for the regular meeting of the Ozona Woman's Club held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. N. W. Graham. A paper on "Child Training in Citizenship" was presented by Mrs. J. W. Henderson, Jr., and Mrs. Scott Peters read the third chapter of the original story being written by club members. Refreshments were served by the hostess at the conclusion of the session.

The Executive committee of the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association of Texas met in Dallas Wednesday night. T. A. Kincaid, president of the association and Mrs. Kincaid, and E. B. Baggett, Jr., secretary, are among Ozona members attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Littleton, and Miss Lois Riddle went to San Angelo Sunday to take A. C. Harper of Ranger, who has been visiting here, to meet his train back home.

THURSDAY, OCT. 16, 1930

The bureau of the census, United States Department of Agriculture, in a recent bulletin, gives a tabulated list of the number of farms in Texas counties in the years 1920, 1925 and 1930. Crockett County is listed as having 99 farms in 1920, 182 in 1925 and 92 in 1930. And we'd been calling them ranchmen all this time.

Funny how quickly a good rain will soften up hardened features and loosen a drawn mouth into a broad grin.

HALF TRUTHS

One of these "I'm again it" fellows from northeast Texas in a published letter in one of the state papers takes up the four amendments to be voted on November 4 and one by one expresses himself as "agin 'em." Opening with the University land amendment he says that it will provide for payment of taxes to the counties in which the land is located and that other counties will be taxed to pay the University land tax.

This contributor is no different from a lot of other voters in Texas whose minds at the mere mention of a constitutional amendment immediately conjure up a picture of higher taxes and refuse to delve further into the question.

Of course, it would be unreasonable to expect a man of that type to think, but could he indulge in that more or less innocent pastime, he could not help seeing the unreasonable injustice of saddling such a one-sided burden upon seventeen counties for the benefit of 253. And he could not help seeing that were this burden of supporting the University of Texas, an institution that serves all of the 253 counties alike, distributed among all the counties that what becomes a serious handicap for seventeen counties would be so insignificant as to be unnoticeable for the 253.

In fact, it takes a mighty bold man or a mighty ignorant one to attempt an argument against the fairness and justice of this proposed amendment. One could not call the seventeen West Texas counties selfish for wanting to be relieved of this unfair burden which they have carried for nearly a half century. But for any of the other 236 to oppose it to escape their insignificant but nevertheless just share of a burden that rightfully belongs on the state as a whole is selfishness of the rankest sort.

Of course, it would be useless to present any such arguments to the contributor who wrote the letter mentioned above, but it is unfortunate that his jimferguson-like half truth should find its way into a newspaper of general circulation over the state.

The boys who shipped lambs to the feed lots are feeling better about the venture now, with virtual assurance of getting as much as was being offered here and with a possibility of a better price on the market. All to gain and nothing to lose, as it were.

Co-operate! Remember the banana. Every time it leaves the bunch it gets skinned.

ADVERTISING AND ADVERTISING

This is the age of publicity and he who employs the best medium for reaching the buying public achieves the greatest success.

For many years newspapers furnished the only means for carrying messages to the buying public. Later, magazines and other periodicals entered the field, then circulars, and finally radio.

Volume advertisers employ advertising experts who are constantly on the job studying the subject, and well they may for they annually spend hundreds of millions of dollars to create and stimulate buying.

These experts are generally agreed that no medium of publicity approaches the newspaper which enters the home and is read by every member of the family, and often by neighbors who are not subscribers. As a result of their studies circulars have been discarded as of little value. The radio as an advertising medium has seen its peak. A recent survey showed that 60 per cent of the radio audience turns the dial onto something else when an advertising talk is on. You cannot turn off the home town paper. You can throw it away but you never do until you have read it throughout.

Ask any rural mail carrier what the mail patrons do with purely advertising matter that patrons have not written in for. He will tell you that they are invariably thrown away at the box or on the way to the home, which shows conclusively that that kind of advertising has no appeal.

The merchant who reasons that he is so well known that he does not need to advertise is courting a visit from the sheriff. Older readers will recall St. Jacob's Oil, a remedy that was in the medicine cabinet of nearly every home in America thirty years ago. It had been placed there by the excellence of the product, aided by a great and intelligent campaign of newspaper advertising that extended over a period of many years. We can visualize their ads even at this late day. Finally, the original owners sold out to some concern for a large sum of money. The new owners of St. Jacob's Oil reasoned that the product was so well known that further advertising was throwing money away, and by discontinuing the use of newspaper space they could effect a saving of something like two million dollars per year, the sum the former owners had been spending to keep their product before the public. What happened? Sales immediately began to fall off and in a few years St. Jacob's Oil became but a memory with the old timers. The owners, of course, went to the wall. Countless others have met with the same experience, and yet others, who persist in following in those footsteps, will meet the same fate.

Newspaper advertising brings buyer and seller together at less expense and with much greater effect than any other medium. Why not use it?—Congressman Harold Knutson, Pioneer-Journal, Wadena, Minnesota.

It's the little things that count. If you don't believe it try sitting on a mountain and then on a tack.

Your town is a good enough town to deserve your support. Buy what you need in Ozona and pay for it promptly on the next first of the month and you will be sure not to have vacant store buildings in your town.

If Ozona merchants had half of the money that is spent in other towns, never to circulate again in this community, there would be no talk of depression.

NEW YORK—Sparkling in a new brown bonnet, with the meanest snap brim you ever saw—yes, and a perfect riot of a necktie, figured with tiny polo ball's and mallets—I skipped over to Governor's Island the other day to witness my first game of polo.

Some of my wise-cracking friends whispered it around that all I went for was to wear that necktie. The dumbness of some people! I went to show off my hat.

Don't Know It was a rousing Who Won good game. The score and the name of the winning team will be announced later. I'll also try to find out who it was that lost. I haven't had a chance to buy a newspaper yet.

The most exciting feature of the contest took place in the third inning—or do you call it a quarter?—when a near panic occurred in the grandstand. A small boy dispensing soft drinks to the crowd, became confused in making change and yelled: "Whose dollar is this?"

Dead and wounded are as follows.

It all brings to mind the gag about the fond mother who was visiting her freshman son at college.

John had showed her the campus and the stadium. "Now, mother," he said, "we'll take a look at the polo field."

"Ah," exclaimed the mother rapturously, "what could be nicer than fields of waving polo!"

Sitting in a hotel the other evening, I saw a bellhop enter the crowded lobby and bawl: "Mr. Lindbergh please, Mr.

Lindbergh, wanted on the telephone."

The effect was electric. Forty heads popped out of newspapers. Everybody bolted to attention. I thought for a moment I was going to be trampled.

Teaching Personality New York University announces a new course in "personality" for business men and women.

Edward J. Kilduff, assistant dean in the school of commerce, accounts, and finance, says:

"Studies have shown that success, even in such technical lines as engineering, is due approximately 15 per cent to technical knowledge and about 85 per cent to those human qualities which have to do with successfully dealing with people."

Here's New York for you. He is a Wall Street broker, and was divorced from his wife eleven years ago. They had five children.

Today he owns a summer home in Maine, where he has as guests every year his ex-wife and her new hubby, who is an old friend of his in addition to the five children, their wives and husbands—and his new girl friend!

Radio's Latest The latest yelp in radio is the midget set, compactly got up to resemble a mantel clock. Other marvels exhibited here at the recent Radio World's Fair included a radio-phonograph combination that enables the set owner to make phonograph records, or transcriptions of radio programs, in his own home.

Other sets have an automatic mechanism that changes the phonograph records. Everything but rock the baby... and meet the monthly payments.

Those gaudy, epauletted ushers who glitter like rear admirals in Broadway movie temples are giving way, in many cases, to girl employees.

Girls are obtainable at much lower wages. And box offices, like everything else, are feeling the pinch of depression. Besides, say the managers, girls are more efficient and attentive.

and white caps, worn jauntily over one eye.

Leaders in the industry predict that more and more homes will have radio sets in several different rooms. Many new homes will have them built, concealed, into the house walls.

I can just imagine myself surrounded by whispering walls... walls that thump with the oomph of brass horns... walls that imprison the shrill screams of soprano.

I'm moving out to the coal house.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Giles Chittenden swears to avenge the death of his young half-brother Rodney, driven to suicide by the notorious Julie Farrow who had spurned his love. He will make Julie love him, then throw her aside as she threw Rodney. He meets her in Switzerland, goes with her to the hotel on the St. Bernard Pass, and succeeds in winning her love. To his amazement, he discovers that he has fallen overwhelmingly in love with her himself! And he is married, to an American girl with whom he has nothing in common.

Then he discovers that this girl is not the same Julie Farrow who ruined Rodney, but her cousin of the same name. She scorns him when he confesses his love and his inability to marry her. They meet later in London, where she is going the pace that kills. Another man, Lawrence Schofield, wants to marry her, in spite of her wild life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

In the morning he rang her up. Bim Lennox answered:

"Julie? Oh, I'm sorry—she's not up yet. Who is it?"

"Lawrence Schofield. She told me I might ring."

"Oh . . . well—if you will wait a moment, May I give her a message?"

"I want her to lunch with me if she will."

"I will tell her."

It seemed an eternity till Bim returned.

"Julie will be delighted. Will you call for her at half-past one?"

"I shall be delighted also."

So that was that!

Schofield felt a boy as he turned away from the telephone. Nearly fifty! Nonsense! he was a young man, and in love for the first time.

He might have been less elated had he heard Julie's comment when his message was conveyed to her.

"Schofield! who on earth . . . don't know the man."

Julie was half asleep still; her head was splitting, and there was a queer dread in her heart.

"He was here last night. He brought you home," Bim said patiently. "He wants you to lunch with him. He is waiting on the phone."

"Oh—well, say what you like—anything."

Bim went away without answering, and when she returned Julie was still sitting up in bed, her hands clasped round her knees, a little frown of pain between her eyes.

"What did you say?"

"I said you would be delighted to lunch with him, and he is calling for you at half-past one."

Julie scowled.

"I told you to send him away."

"You didn't. You told me to say what I liked, so I said you would be delighted. I like that man."

"Go with him yourself then."

"I would have done if he had asked me."

Julie lay back on her pillows.

"Where's the tea?"

"Just coming. Is your head very bad?"

"The very devil," Julie followed Bim to the door with envious eyes.

"How on earth do you manage to look so fresh at this ungodly hour?" she grumbled.

Bim turned round with a faint smile.

"I don't drink too much for one thing," she said lightly.

Schofield came for Julie in a big car.

"It's awfully good of you to come," he said nervously.

"It's awfully good of you to ask me," Julie said. She looked at him and was touched by the genuine pleasure in his eyes.

"Are you living in town?" she asked.

"I am only staying in an hotel at the moment," Schofield answered and then he added: "I think I told you last night."

Julie had forgotten everything about last night except those little cameos of pain in which Giles Chittenden had featured.

"Of course you did," she said hurriedly, and racked her brains to remember what else he had told her.

They lunched at Claridge's.

"It was perfect waste," so Julie told Bim afterwards. "Sinful waste taking me to such a place. I had no appetite—the sight of the food almost unnerved me. However, I managed to make some sort of a show, but I'm afraid he was disappointed."

But in spite of no appetite and a headache, Julie quite enjoyed herself. There was something care for . . ."

Julie gasped.
"You're not . . . you're not asking me to marry you?"
"Some day I want to ask you if you will."
Julie felt as if she were dreaming. She broke out desperately:
"But you know nothing about me—nothing!"
"I know you are the woman with whom I could be perfectly happy."
She laughed derisively.
"That is a bold statement. If I were to tell you . . ."
He just touched her hand with his.

"Nothing would make any difference."

She felt her eyes wet with sudden tears.

"Are you . . . just . . . joking?" she asked.

"No."

She looked at him for a long moment in silence; she felt as if she saw him now for the first time. He was not young, as he had told her, and he was not good looking, but there was something in his face—a steadfastness and sincerity which was like balm poured into her aching heart.

"I don't want you to say anything now," he was telling her. "If you will just let me see you—often! and be your friend."

"I don't know why you are so kind to me."

"I am being kind to myself."

She looked away, winking the tears from her lashes.

He was so simple and sincere. He was like a breath from her old peaceful life. Lately she had seen so little of simple honesty and sincerity. Sometimes she thought she had left all those things behind her on the snow-capped mountain tops.

"Where have you been hiding all these years?" she asked impulsively.

He told her quite frankly.

"I've lived in a country town—I've just been a nobody, a junior partner in a highly respectable firm of solicitors. My wife died—she was never very strong, and then a distant relation died too and left me some money—quite a lot of money—"

"Lucky you!" Julie said.

"Yes," he answered. "I think I was very lucky," and his eyes were on her face. "I hope my luck will continue to hold," he added.

"I think you deserve that it should," Julie said. You are the kind of man who would spoil a woman terribly," Julie said.

"It would give me great happiness if I had the right to spoil you."

She laughed rather sadly.

"It's such early days. Soon—perhaps quite soon—you will know me better, and then you will wonder why you ever thought me nice at all. I've got all sorts of vices."

"I don't believe you." They spoke of the others who had been at the Faun.

"I tell you who I did like," Schofield said. "That tall fellow—what was his name—Chittenham?"

Julie caught her breath. "Oh, yes—I forgot that you met him."

"I liked him," Schofield said again meditatively. "I believe I've met him before somewhere, but I can't quite remember. If I were a woman, he is the kind of man who would attract me."

"He detests all women." "Nonsense! a man like that—"

Julie broke in excitedly: "I tell you he does—ask any one who knows him! he's a woman hater."

"Then there must be a good reason for it."

"Conceit, I should think!" Julie said flippantly. "He imagines that all women are running after him."

Schofield looked surprised at her vehemence.

"It sounds rather as if you dislike him."

Julie shrugged her shoulders. There was a little hard look in her pretty eyes.

"I don't dislike him," she said, "I'm just quite indifferent."

Since his introduction to Doris at the Faun, Giles saw a good deal more of her than he wished to see. At first he had accepted her invitations in the hope that perhaps Julie might also be included, but he had always been disappointed.

Once when he had mentioned her name to Doris she had frowned.

"Oh, Julie! I think I've shown her at last that her room is preferable to her company. She's really too impossible. You know who she is running about with now?"

"No." "Lawrence Schofield."

"I don't know him."

"You do. You were introduced at the Faun one night. He's a harmless sort of man with heaps of money, but his wife has only been dead about a month, and it's a bit too soon, don't you think?"

"Soon for what?" "To get married again."

There was a little silence, then Chittenham asked quietly: "Is he to marry Miss Farrow, then?"

"So people say. He's years too old for her, of course, but he seems absolutely devoted, and she says it's only his money she wants and as it's what we all want, I suppose you can't blame her."

"I suppose not! though I understand Miss Farrow to say that she never intended to marry."

Doris laughed. It was the next day his mother telephoned him. He could not go with her.

Giles wondered as he hung up the receiver, what his mother would have said had he told her that his engagement was to meet the other Julie Farrow whom his brother had loved.

The invitation had come about in quite a casual way.

Only the night before Lombard had called in at the hotel where he was staying.

"Will you come along and have some dinner with me this evening? Quite a small party," he had said.

"Ladies?" "Two—one of them Julie Farrow—the real Julie this time," he added rather maliciously.

Giles frowned. "Did you tell her I was coming?"

"I said I should ask you if I could find you."

"And she made no objection?"

"None. I think she was entertained at the thought of meeting you."

There was a little silence which Chittenham broke.

"There's one point I can't get quite clear," he said. "This Julie—the famous one—isn't she a married woman?"

"She was. There was a divorce."

"I see, and she still calls herself Farrow?"

"It was her maiden name. She went back to it when the case was over."

Giles laughed shortly. "It seems to be the fashion," he said, and he remembered that Sadie had done the same thing after he and she had agreed to each go their separate ways.

"Well, I'll be there at eight," he said.

"And—Chittenham . . ."

"Yes."

"What about—do you ever run across the other Julie?"

"I have met her once or twice."

Lombard looked relieved.

"I'm glad to hear that. I thought . . . well—you seemed so upset when we were in Lausanne . . ."

"What the devil are you driving at?"

"Oh, nothing, nothing . . . only you cut up rough with me if you remember. You cut up rough over that mistake I made. And it was quite pardonable on my part. You'll see for yourself to-night. They're very much alike—especially if you don't know them very well."

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

THE UNDERNOURISHED

I believe it is the practical thoughts that benefit mankind most; the ideas that folks can assimilate to a full appreciation of their worth. There is plenty of instructive matter in the field round about us, if we only pause long enough to observe intelligently.

The pig is a marvel in his capacity to take on avoirdupois; our lean and lanky brethren could, it seems to me, learn more from a study of the lowly perker than from many pages of words about the elusive and mysterious vitamins and calory.

The pig is not a thinker; he is neither saint nor sinner; he worries not about the yesterday or the tomorrow; he just lives as God intended that he should; he does not worry, and never squeals unless something interferes with his comfort; and,—he never has indigestion, jaundice, appendicitis, diabetes, melancholia, paralysis, flat-foot, anaemia, psittacosis, cataract, glaucoma, "female trouble," or rheumatism or neuritis. Neither would humanity, if it lived as sensibly as the average pig does. I fail to see the wisdom of rushing frantically after "science" when we might learn so much from the common American pig.

The splendid rose attains perfection in the proper sort of atmosphere, soil, light, warmth, moisture and dryness in right proportion, with hours for repose. The human being expects to be healthy by taking no thought, and violating nine out of ten of nature's laws; men know they require eight hours of sleep; it takes that much to repair the worn-out cells that come from the day's work; they rush on, often with four hours of fitful unconsciousness, awoken by the alarm clock, and rush on the more. They become starvelings, harassed by shattered nerves, tortured by indigestion, reduced by bodily sin against right living.

Thousands of men are rushing on, forgetful of penalties.

Just Over the Hill

Just over the hill, as the old saying goes—the grass is always just a little greener. And apparently it is the same with home bread and bakery products. Just from out of town, the bread is better.

But we are glad to acknowledge that a few of the Ozona stores are getting a little Ozona conscious. Chris Meinecke is handling Ozona Baked Bread. Moore's Cafe, and the Hotel Ozona is also using it.

While those at home be moan and refuse in many cases to buy home bread — PEOPLE FROM THE SAME TOWN which our out of town Bread derives, throw up their hands in surprise that any one should prefer that bread to ours.

WHICH brings us to the conclusion that Our Home People have not given us a fair shot at it — a fair test to the bread. BUY A LOAF TODAY, AND APPRECIATE THE DIFFERENCE.

The Electric Man Presents His Low-Cost Burglary Insurance

"Police records show that sufficiently lighted houses rarely suffer depredations from prowlers or thieves. For this reason, many people make it a practice to leave lights burning when they spend a part of the evening away from home. On their return, they feel secure in the knowledge that their possessions have been safe in the keeping of protective lighting.

"Normal household necessities utilize the first two steps, so with the new Home Comfort rate, this burglary insurance is even more economical, for it is billed on the low rate of 4c per kilowatt-hour—3c where service is also used for heating or cooking.

"The next time you spend an evening out—leave lights burning in one or two of your rooms, Notice the sense of security with which you enter your home—then check your light bill. You will be surprised at the extreme economy of this efficient Burglary Insurance. Watch for me next week, I'll have some more ideas for you."

good for a gain of 30 yards, but the half ended with the ball in Ozona's possession on the visitors' 20 yard line.

The third quarter saw the locals again marching down the field, line bucks and end runs being good for 8 yards, two yards, 20 yards, etc., until the ball had been pushed to Menard's 35 yard line. Here a pass was attempted, but was intercepted, whereupon the visitors took charge and backed the locals to their own goal line, forced them to kick from behind the score marker again. The kick reached about the 20 yard line where it was scooped up by a Menard back and returned for a touchdown. Again the try for point failed and the score was 12 to 0 for the visitors.

From there on out it was a heart-breaking struggle on the part of the Lions to come back against a 12 point lead and that everpresent fumble jinx. Before the end of the third quarter the locals again had possession of the ball within 5 yards of the visitors' goal, but lost it on downs.

The fourth quarter found the locals in a desperate attempt to score through the aerial route, but without success.

The Lions will journey to Eldorado next Saturday to engage the Schleicher County lads. Meanwhile Coach Lewis is using plenty of resin on the fingers of his proteges in an attempt to conquer the fumble evil and hopes to have the lads in fine fettle for this week's encounter.

The starting line-up Saturday was Kyle, quarter; R. Dudley, full Chandler, right half; Montgomery left and half; Moore and Cox, ends; Robinson, right tackle; Baggett, left tackle; Schwalbe, right guard; L. Dudley, left guard and McGhee, center.

APPEAL TO VOTERS

To All Voters At The General Election Tuesday, Nov. 4, 1930

Will everyone of you please vote for the Amendment of the Constitution permitting State University Lands to be taxed. Your county needs the tax. Everyone, even the Board of Regents favors it: so if it is not disputed it should be voted FOR. When you go up to vote please don't forget to vote For this Amendment. If you have any trouble in finding it on the ticket ask the officers holding the election to show it to you, then after you find it scratch out the word Against. Do not scratch the word For.

SAYS LAMBS SHOULD NEVER HAVE SOLD UNDER 6 CENTS

T. A. Kincaid, president of the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association of Texas, said last night that he thought lambs in Texas never should have brought less than six cents a pound. He points out that there are no great big lot of top lambs left in the country but that there are still some fine lambs to be obtained here.

Mr. Kincaid said the benefits of the rain could not be estimated and that the rains brought a relief that all the money in the hands of the bears on Wall Street couldn't have brought. It saved a feed bill and relieved the mental strain of the southwest. "Give West Texas plenty of rain and it won't starve to death," he said.

Mr. Kincaid was highly pleased with the prices that the National Wool Marketing Corporation got for the Texas wool and mohair and thinks the co-ops have been of inestimable benefit.

He thinks that the editorial in The Standard opposing the modification of the packers consent decree so as to let the packers engage in the retail meat business would mean better prices for the range livestock and said if a monopoly should develop that the packers could again be restrained from such action. He said the retail butcher is the man who holds up the price of meat when the price to him from the packers has been cut.

Mr. Kincaid has just finished sending 3,600 mutton lambs to the feed lots in Emporia.—San Angelo Times.

24 Counties Of West Texas Show Increase Population Figures

The population of 24 counties in this section in agriculture, ranching and oil areas, lacked only a fraction of increasing 50 per cent during the last ten years, bureau of census figures show.

The total population of the state is 5,821,272, an increase of 24.8 per cent since 1920 when the population was 4,663,228.

With an increase of 62,935 persons, the difference between the 1920 total of 128,222 and the 1930 figures of 191,157 the per cent gain in the 24 West Texas counties is exactly 49.08.

Six counties of the 24 registered a gain of more than 100 per cent. Those doubling their 1920 population, in order of their proportional gains, are Crane, Upton, Reagan, Tom Green, Glasscock and Pecos.

Other counties in the section which grew at greater than the average 50 per cent rate were Crockett, Schleicher, Sutton and Terrell. The growth in Concho, Irion, Menard and Sterling was at a ratio greater than that of the state.

The greatest numerical gain was made by Tom Green county, which has 20,819 more persons than it had ten years ago. Others making increases amounting to more than 3,000 were Upton, with an increase of 5,713; Coleman, with 4,855; Runnels, with 4,747; and Pecos, with 3,986. Val Verde and McCulloch counties came near the 3,000 mark in their numerical gains.

The smallest county in the 24-county area is Glasscock.

Figures on each of the 24 for 1930 and 1920:

Brewster	6,619	4,822	37.3

SENIORS CHOOSE MOTTO

After much thinking and planning the Senior class has chosen a class motto, which they think is suitable for a class of eight girls and twelve boys. The motto, chosen from many suggestions is, "To strive, to seek, to find; but not to yield." The colors chosen are pink and lavender and the flowers are sweet peas of rainbow colors. The seniors feel that if they live up to this motto, that they will be the best graduating class from Ozona High School in several years.

Among the Seniors, there are a few very good short story writers and poets. Some of their stories and poems will be published in the Ozona Stockman from time to time, so don't miss them.—Class Reporter.
