TIME

We have almost reached the point where the work of the world can be done in half of the time that it took twenty years ago. The shortening of the hours of the working day in industry has only just begun, according to the U. S. Department of Labor. The eight-hour day is general in many industries, but in some sections the ten hour day still prevails.

It is the belief of those who have studied the subject closely that a universal seven-hour day would give everybody work all the time, except for a reasonable vacation period, and would not slow up production below the demand for finished products, in any line. The difficulty is to get competing industrial establishments to agree to the change. Such difficulties are not insuperable, however. Twenty years ago nobody would have believed that it would be possible to get all of the department stores in New York to agree to close all day Saturday in Summer, but it has been brought about.

BUILDINGS

The newest thing in building construction is the "hung" building. Instead of a foundation as big as the building, with posts at the four corners, the building is hung from a single steel pole set in concrete and resting at its lower end on bedrock.

Two such "hung" buildings have been constructed in New York. The center pole is in the middle of the building, and all of the steel floor beams are suspended from it and braced against sagging. The outside of the building is merely a shell of brick or terra-cotta to keep out the weather and does not have to support anything more than its own weight.

Now efforts are being made to introduce lighter materials for the walls and floors of hung buildings, including feather weight, fireproof concrete for floors and glass for the outer walls. Another innovation is steam radiators only ankle-high.

One set of inventors is working on a scheme of weaving rugs and draperies with electric wires concealed in the fabric through which a current can be run to keep the room warm, on the principle of the electric heating-pads, now familiar everywhere.

LIGHT

A young man named Elmer Sperry went to Chicago fifty years ago and began to make electric arc lights. He built a tower on top of the Board of Trade building and installed 20 electric arcs which gave 40,000 candle-power of light. It was the wonder of its time, but another young man named Edison about that time brought out incandescent light and that soon replaced arcs for city lighting.

Elmer Sperry kept on experimenting with arcs, however, and developed the searchlights which are used today by every navy in the world and by most armies. Sperry died a few weeks ago at the age of 70, but before his death he gave the city of Chicago the most powerful light ever built. It is known as the Lindbergh Beacon, and was first used during the national air meet in August. It stands on a tower 600 feet above Lake Michigan, and throws a light more intense, per square inch of radiating surface, than that of the sun. It can be seen for 250 miles, to guide flyers to the Chicago Airport.

Who could want a better monument than that?

BIG CROWD FOR DEDICATION OF CHURCH SUN.

Estimated 500 Attend Special Services At Methodist Church

SERMON BY BISHOP

Many Enjoy Dinner In Park; Reminiscent Afternoon Service

A crowd, estimated at more than 500 persons, crowded the new $50,000 Ozona Methodist Church last Sunday morning for the dedication services held at the 11 o'clock hour.

The church was formally dedicated by Bishop Sam R. Hay of San Antonio after trustees of the church had presented the building for the dedication. Rev. Sterling Fisher, presiding elder of this district, also took part in the services. Rev. A. C. Bell of McCamey was another visiting preacher who had a part in the service.

Bishop Hay preached the sermon at the morning hour and special music for the occasion was furnished by a male quartet composed of Bryan McDonald, Rev. James V. Reid, Richard Flowers and J. T. Keeton. A large choir also contributed to the special musical services.

Following the morning service, the church was in the park, consisting of omelette, bread, pickles, and home-made cakes and salad, coffee and iced tea. A big crowd enjoyed this spread.

Beginning at 2:30 Sunday afternoon a reminiscent service was held at the church which was especially enjoyed by the old timers, those who remembered most of the historical events sketched by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Meredith as a feature of the service. Rev. Meredith traced the history of the church here, recalling the struggles of pioneer days and tracing the ministers who have occupied the local pulpit.

In this connection the pastor read letters and telegrams from many of the old pastors of the Ozona church, including Rev. R. S. Adair of Smiley, Texas, Rev. Stanley Haver of Robstown, Texas, Rev. Wallace M. Crutchfield of Oklahoma City, Rev. M. F. Daniels of Victoria, Texas, Rev. Sidney C. Dunn of Yoakum, Texas, and Rev. Nath Thompson of Marietta, Ga., now presiding elder of the Marietta District, North Georgia Conference.

A letter was also read from Mrs. Robert Massie of San Angelo, first superintendent of the Ozona Methodist Sunday School. Likewise a telegram was read from Elam Dudley of Fort Worth, who was for ten years superintendent of the Sunday School. Frank Friend was the only charter member of the church in attendance.

The evening service Sunday marked the beginning of the revival service being conducted throughout the week by the Rev. James V. Reid of Fort Worth.

GOOD CROWDS ATTEND REVIVAL SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH

Good crowds are attending the revival services being conducted at the Methodist Church under the leadership of Rev. James V. Reid. Mr. Reid is an accomplished musician and song leader and the effect of his leadership is already noticeable in the song services of the church.

A special service for Friday night has been announced by Rev. Reid, a service for the young people, especially those of high school age. Saturday night he has announced a Missionary service, a sermon to be illustrated with stereopticon slides, showing scenes of conditions in Panama, where Rev. Reid was in missionary work for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Piner are the parents of a daughter born last Friday in Temple.

J. R. Brooks Ends Life At Mertzton

Former Ozona Man Is Found Hanging In Rent House

Funeral services for J. R. Brooks, 63, who was found hanging by his neck in a small rent house near his Mertzton home Tuesday morning, will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the Robert Massie Chapel. The Rev. Guy Davis will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Sterling Fisher. Burial will be in Fairmount cemetery with members of the Masonic lodge in charge.

A verdict of death self inflicted by hanging was returned by Adolph Helmers, coroner, after viewing the body. It was believed Mr. Brooks had kicked a trunk out from under his feet after tying a rope to a rafter. The body was found by the widow, who with a daughter, Mrs. R. R. Baker, living nearby, cut it down. He had been ill.

In addition to the widow and daughter, two other daughters, a son and two sisters in California survive. The other daughters are Mrs. Joe Thorp of Mertzton and Mrs. H. L. Coker of Brady. The son is Ward Brooks of Knickerbocker.

Mr. Brooks was a member of the Methodist Church and formerly was lay minister for the Mertzton district and had been active in church work at Fort Worth. He was a brother to the late Judge Brooks of Houston, who at his death was estimated to have been worth $15,000,000.

—S. A. Times.

Mr. Brooks was a former resident of Ozona and is well known here. The family made this their home for many years before moving to Mertzton.

Ozona High Lions Trounce Stockton

Safety Gives Locals 2-0 Win In Season Opener Here

A safety in the second quarter, when the Fort Stockton center passed the ball over the receiver's head and a Lion tackler was on hand a moment later to down a Stockton back and the ball behind the goal line, was the only scoring done in the first football game of the present season on the local gridiron last Saturday, giving the Ozona High School Lions a 2 to 0 victory over the Stockton eleven.

This being the first games of the season for both teams, some more or less loose playing was demonstrated on both sides, but the Ozona lads showed excellent promise of developing a fast, snappy team that may prove a serious threat to district opponents. With Walter Kyle in quarter position and demonstrating his old time line plunging and kicking ability, a couple of fleet ends, some plunging and running backs and a fighting line, the Lions promise to engage the interest of all opponents the balance of the season.

Coach Lewis' lads outplayed the Stockton squad throughout the game Saturday, playing in the visitors' territory most of the time, reaching with striking distance of the goal line a number of times, once to within one foot and once to within eight yards. One of the features of this game was the kicking of Walter Kyle. With the visitors on the defensive, Kyle on several occasions placed the ball out of bounds near his opponents' goal line and consistently gained ground in exchange of punts. However, the team lacked the punch to push across a score and a lucky break prevented a scoreless tie.

The locals will meet the first district opposition next Saturday on the local grid when they face the Rocksprings eleven. The game has been called for 2:30 Saturday afternoon.

200 Bottles Of Beer Seized By Officers; Two Mexicans Held

Approximately 200 bottles of beer were seized and destroyed by Sheriff W. S. Willis and George Hurst, federal officer, in a raid on a house in little Mexico last Saturday. A Mexican woman and two Mexican men were arrested by the officers. One of the men was later released, the other two paying fines in justice court. The beer was found stored over the ceiling of the house.

Several bottles of cold beer were destroyed by Sheriff Willis Friday night at the dance held at the Hotel Ozona. The beer was found in the rear of a car parked near the hotel, belonging to a young man who lived in a near by town. It was iced down in a tub. No arrest was made in this case.

Court Is Adjourned After 5-Day Session, Liquor Cases Passed

Judge Joe G. Montague adjourned the district court here last Friday after disposing of only a few civil cases and one criminal case. One other criminal case was dismissed, a liquor charge against Sepriano Castillo. This case was dismissed on motion of the district attorney for lack of evidence.

Haber Spencer, charged with theft of three diamond rings from a negro woman here, was given a two year suspended sentence by a jury Thursday morning. Two other cases, based on indictments returned by the grand jury at this term of court, were continued until the next term of court. These were liquor charges against Hallie Hubert, negro, and A. M. Fuller.

Three divorces were granted by Judge Montague to Marion E. Williams against Lizzie Williams, to Constancia DeLeon against Martin DeLeon and to Arch Alexander against Lottie Alexander.

Judgment for the plaintiffs was rendered in the case of Ruby Couch Helbing against Mary A. Gliddon and others, and Gilbert Couch against Wm. H. Greenwell and others, both of these being trespass to try title suits to clear title to land in this county, parts of the S. E. Couch estate.

Injured Boy Is Still Improving

C. J. Watts, Jr., May Be Brought Home By End Of This Week

C. J. Watts, Jr., who suffered a bullet wound through his abdomen ten days ago, is well on the road to recovery in a San Angelo hospital and is expected to be able to be brought back home by the end of this week.

Young Watts' rapid recovery from his injuries is considered remarkable by physicians. His intestines were perforated in twelve places and he was rushed to San Angelo where an operation was performed to repair the damage. The bullet, which was lodged in a muscle in the back, was not removed in this operation. Grave fear was felt for his life for several days, but his improvement has been steady and reports from his bedside the middle of this week indicated that he was still improving rapidly.

The Watts boy was playing with his little sister in the backyard of the Watts home when he was struck by a stray bullet from a .22 calibre rifle in the hands of Elmond Powell, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Powell. Young Powell was shooting at an electric light pole in front of his home.

Miss Mary Lee Montgomery, a graduate of White's Hawaiian School of Music in San Angelo, has opened a music studio on behalf of the San Angelo school of music at the Asa Robertson home here. She will teach on string instruments.

Willie Jo McLeod Is Buried Sunday

Daughter Of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. McLeod Laid To Rest In S. A.

Funeral services were conducted at 3:30 Sunday afternoon from Robert-Massie Funeral Home in San Angelo for Miss Willie Jo McLeod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. McLeod of Ozona, who died at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon following a long illness. Burial followed in Fairmount Cemetery.

Miss McLeod was 19 years old, her birthday anniversary being two days before her death.

Miss McLeod is survived by her parents, and two sisters, Misses Pauline and Louise McLeod. Mr. McLeod is manager of the McLeod Motor Company, local Ford dealers. A number of Ozona friends of the family attended the funeral services in San Angelo Sunday afternoon.

Lions Entertained By Magician; Evangelist Gives Piano Numbers

Members of the Lions Club enjoyed a half hour of magic at the regular luncheon Monday noon when Clarence Brooks, employe at the Model Laundry, entertained with a few sleight of hand stunts.

Rev. James V. Reid, who is conducting a week of evangelistic services at the Methodist Church, also entertained with two piano numbers. Rev. Reid, the only visitor present, drew the attendance prize, given by L. L. Bewley.

Land Tax Measure Widely Endorsed

Gov. Moody, Board Of Regents Approve Proposed Amendment

PECOS, Sept. 24—Bearing endorsement of Governor Dan Moody as a "just and fair" measure, and the approval of the university board of regents, included as a platform plank by the conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties, and supported by a number of group conventions throughout Texas, the university land amendment apparently is arousing more support than any amendment submitted in recent years.

The University Land Amendment Association, formed recently at McCamey by representatives of the 17 counties in which 2,000, 320 acres of university holdings lie, is seeking to get before the voters the justice and fairness of the proposal, and the fact that it will equalize the taxes between the counties for whom the university exists, according to Rep. Penrose B. Metcalfe.

The first million acres was set aside for the university when the present constitution was made in 1876, and the second million was added in 1883 by the legislature. Since that time 17 counties have borne the expense of local and state government without the assistance of these lands, which in one instance comprise 29 per cent of the county. Public improvements help the university and compound its land values, its holdings are rented at a level under adjacent lands which must pay government costs, and the private owner of lands pays at a higher rate than if all the lands in the county were privately owned, it is pointed out by Mr. Metcalfe.

Surface leases pay the university approximately $250,000 yearly, and oil development which makes it inadvisable to sell lands as at first proposed in the constitution, has turned in more than $16,000,000. However the university does not pay back to the counties taxes for county purposes, this will come from the general fund and thus will be on a pro rata basis, with values established on a low basis by the

SAN ANTONIO MAIL SERVICE TO CONTINUE

Postmaster Notified Of New Contract With Bus Company

MCCAMEY CUT OFF

Auxiliary Service For Iran And McCamey Is Discontinued

Daily mail service between San Antonio and Fort Stockton through Ozona by motor bus will be continued another year. Postmaster J. R. Kersey has been notified by the chief railway mail clerk in San Antonio.

Contract has been let to the Southland Greyhound Lines, operating through here, to carry the mail for the next twelve months, the postmaster was advised.

The service to this section was curtailed somewhat, however, the department has advised, the bus mail service to Iran and McCamey being discontinued. This was an auxiliary service apart from the main line service between San Antonio and Fort Stockton.

Fear was felt in towns along the line recently that the contract with the bus company would not be renewed when it was learned that the bus company had raised its bid for the service. Petitions were submitted from several towns along the route and the matter was taken up by the Ozona Lions Club and this town's protest against the discontinuance of the service was lodged with the chief railway mail clerk through that organization.

3 Members Added To Music Club Roll At Meet Thursday

Three new members were elected by the Ozona Music Club at its regular meeting last Thursday. This meeting of the club was held at the home of Miss Wanda Watson, with Miss Lucile Ingham as joint hostess. There was a good attendance of members to enjoy the well rendered program.

The names presented for membership were Mrs. Judge Montgomery, Miss Maude Wilmore and Miss Norene Allison.

After the choral practice a social hour was enjoyed, during which a delicious salad course was served.

The next meeting of the club will be held October 2, with Mrs. Ira Carson and Mrs. M. M. Fulmer as hostesses. This meeting will be devoted to a Spanish program and each member is requested to attend in costume. Mrs. J. M. Dudley will be leader. The program will be as follows:

Paper—"Hail to the Music of Spain"—Mrs. Paul Perner.

Piano Solo—"La Paloma"—Mrs. V. I. Pierce.

Paper—"Romance of the Guitar"—Mrs. Vernon Cox.

Vocal Duet—"Juanita"—Mrs. Geo. Montgomery, Mrs. W. S. Willis.

Everyone Dances in Spain—Interpreted by Miss Lucille Ingham

Vocal Solo—"Marchita"—Mrs. Joe Pierce.

Paper—"Modern Spanish Composers"—Mrs. Max Schneemann.

"Spanish Cavalier"—Club.

Choral Practice and Social Hour—Mrs. Bascomb Cox, Reporter.

state tax board. No county tax rates will be increased, and justice will be secured, the welfare of the university will be adequately protected, and the 17 counties which for the most part are in sparsely areas will get an opportunity to carry on a larger public improvements program.

The taxes paid by these 17 counties in 1928 for state purposes was $1,281,498.47, and the total repaid them in school apportionments was $566,185, making an excess retained by the state of $725,313.47.

LAND TAX FAVORED

The campaign to educate the voters of Texas on the fairness of the proposed constitutional amendment permitting the taxing of University of Texas lands has been gaining momentum rapidly since it was launched at a mass meeting of representatives of interested counties held at McCamey recently.

At that meeting an organization was perfected with Representative Penrose B. Metcalfe as Chairman to push the drive for passage of this amendment and some concentrated effort has been put forth since in that direction. Dean Chenoweth, managing editor of the San Angelo Standard and Times, has been chosen as publicity director and knowing this young man, we predict that his effort will bear fruit in convincing voters of the state that this amendment should be adopted in fairness to the great empire of West Texas. Mr. Chenoweth is already sending out authentic and convincing data on the measure and we feel certain that he can get the co-operation of the Texas press in presenting the case.

Recent endorsement of the amendment by Governor Moody, members of the Board of Regents of the University of Texas, and the Texas association of County Judges has given encouragement to the campaign.

The history of constitutional amendments in this state has been that unless there is a vigorous campaign in behalf of their passage they are doomed to defeat on election day. Unless voters are shown why they should vote for a constitutional amendment they will scratch it. That is what the organization formed at McCamey has set out to do—to show the people of Texas why it is time to relieve seventeen West Texas counties of an unequal and an unfair tax burden which they have borne for more than a half century.

Residents west of the draw are all agog over a great event that has transpired in that province recently. Somebody discovered an automobile tire track on the newly and expensively created "Jostlin hill road," showing conclusively that an automobile had actually been driven over the road.

Business leaders have advanced theories as to the best means of ending the business depression, but so far nobody has advanced a prescription for regular rains.

Every town has a few citizens who are too proud to trade at home.

If peddlers have ever done anything to help build Ozona, our optics deceive us.

Among the world's saddest and best known expressions is "returned; insufficient funds."

SCHOOL BONDS

Saturday of next week citizens of Crockett County will be called upon to decide at the polls whether or not $170,000 in bonds shall be issued for the purpose of constructing a modern school building in Ozona. That such a school building is a distressing need is an agreed fact, and it is also generally known that unless some provision is made in the near future to care for our growing school needs we are in danger of losing our affiliations.

But an anomalous situation exists locally with reference to this proposed bond issue. The people naturally look to the school board the county superintendent, the city superintendent and others familiar with the entire proceedings to inform them in detail concerning the whole transaction, show them plans of the proposed building, inform them of what material it is to be constructed, where it is to be located, how the contract is to be let, who is to handle the money and how, and show them how the proposed improvement is to solve the problem in school facilities that now exists.

Other than that the building is to be of "material other than wood" and that $170,000 in bonds must be floated to build it, and we suppose, to equip it, no details of the proposal have been submitted publicly to the people in general. It is in our opinion a severe test of a people's faith to ask them to vote blind on a proposition that will cost them $170,000. An overwhelming majority in Crockett County, we believe, want a new and modern school building, but for the success of the issue, every voter should have a clear conception of what he is voting on in the election October 4.

IMMIGRATION

This is a good time to check up on immigration, and the report of the State Department made to President Hoover indicates that the authorities at Washington are doing everything possible to prevent foreign labor from coming into the United States at a time when not all of our own people can find employment.

In normal times, a person who is able-bodied and intelligent is not regarded as "liable to become a public charge," and so is admitted, if his other qualifications are all right. Now the consular service is instructed to make certain, in every case, that the intended immigrant is going to be able to live for a considerable period in the United States before he gets a job.

Mexican immigration into the United States has practically ceased, as a result of this restriction. Canadian immigration has fallen off materially. Unless a foreigner has relatives in the United States which entitle him or her to preference, he is having a harder time than ever before to get into this country.

That is as it should be. Our first duty is to our own people. Likewise, the policy announced by Gov. Roosevelt of New York, of employing only citizens on public works, is in accord with the needs of the times.

"WHITE-COLLAR MEN"

One result of every period of inflation is that it renders so many young men discontented when the inevitable slump comes and they are no longer able to get large money for small work.

Among the unemployed now are tens of thousands of these "white collar men" who never took their jobs very seriously. They could always get another, so they thought; meantime, they tried to emulate the rich and spent their incomes faster than they received them.

Those men placed a false value upon themselves and their services. And many of them have not yet been disillusioned. They still think they are worth the fat salaries they used to draw, and most of them will never be happy again remembering always the days of easy money.

The really intelligent office workers are the ones who have made themselves so useful to their employers that they are the last to be paid off when times are dull. They have sense enough to realize that the way to get ahead is to spend less than they earn, to plug away steadily at the day's work, and be content with that. They are the ones who have stored up happiness to tide them over the dull times.

NEWSPAPER ADS ONLY

One of the most significant and practical tributes ever paid to newspaper advertising is seen in the recent decision of Fox Theatres in about 150 American cities to use newspaper advertising exclusively in the future.

Heretofore Fox managers have been permitted to exercise their discretion in handling advertising appropriations—using newspapers, direct mail, billboards, radio and other mediums as they saw fit. Now an order has gone out from headquarters that only newspapers are to be employed in the dissemination of Fox advertising.

It is significant that the great Roxy theatre in New York, the outstanding success in the history of entertainment, has never used medium of advertising except newspaper. Roxy's success is said to have largely influenced the Fox interests in making the decision to adopt a similar policy.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Giles Chittenham, distressed over the suicide of his younger half-brother Rodney, returns to Europe from America, where he had made an unhappy marriage. Rodney had killed himself because a notorious woman, Julie Farrow, threw him over. Giles is introduced to Julie Farrow by his friend Lombard, in Switzerland. He resolves to make her fall in love with him, then throw her over as she threw Rodney. She tells him she has made a bet with her friend "Bim" Lennox that she can drive her car to the top of the St. Bernard Pass and back. Giles challenges her to take him with her and she accepts. They start out in the face of a gathering snow-storm.

Chittenham discovers, to his amazement, that the girl beside him in the car appeals to him as no other woman has ever appealed. And something intangible convinces him that her feeling toward him is similar to his own toward her. "Do you believe in love at first sight?" he asks her, as the car toils up the mountain toward the hotel.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Chittenham's face softened. "I think you're adorable," he answered.

For a moment they looked at one another silently, then Julie said in a queer, breathless way:

"I can't make you out . . . I've never met a man like you before. I suppose you're just amusing yourself. . . . I suppose you don't mean a word you say—that you're just flirting. . . ."

"Is that what you really suppose?" Chittenham asked. He took her by the shoulders, turning her to him. "Is that what you really suppose?" as asked again.

"No . . . yes . . . at least . . ." she was like a girl, confused and shy. "Oh, did you really mean it when you said . . . when—you know what you said . . . about love at first sight. . . . I mean—you're so strange, and I . . ."

Chittenham's pulses were throbbing in strange fashion. No woman had ever made him feel as he felt now, and it angered him. Was this the strange fascination of her which had conquered Rodney? Was this what the boy had meant when he said, "Wait till you see her! There's something different—quite different about her to any other woman—"

She had told him that she had never cared for any one in all her life, that she was afraid of caring! but now something in her tremulous girlishness and faltering voice gave the lie to those words. Yesterday seemed a great way off—in another world. America and Sadie were wiped out and forgotten, even the memory of Rodney faded until it seemed only like a ghost in the background of the present unreality as Chittenham drew Julie Farrow into his arms and kissed her unresisting lips.

It was late the following day when they reached Montreux. They had to leave her car at the hotel and make the descent with an experienced driver, for the road was deep with snow.

The drive down was very silent.

Julie looked utterly happy, and it was in vain that he told himself that it must be only because she had added yet another conquest to her already long list, and that it was nothing whatever to do with him personally.

There was a little half smile on her lips, a sweet dreaminess in her eyes.

It seemed an eternity ago since yesterday evening when he had first held her in his arms.

He wished he could forget the softness of her hair against his face, and the warm pressure of her lips.

No woman had ever before stirred his pulses so strangely; no woman's arms about his neck had ever made him feel that the world be well lost if only he could so hold her forever. But she had only been playing, even as he had! No doubt she would be just as relieved as he was that the little game was finished.

For Chittenham meant it to finish as they reached Montreux. He would never willingly see her again; once he was away from her he would soon forget the clasp of her arms and her kisses.

She did not seem to notice his silence, and presently, glanced down at her, he saw that she had fallen asleep.

Chittenham looked at her and longed to gather her close into his arms and kiss her as he had done last night.

He looked away from her with a little cold feeling round his heart.

Why were such women allowed to be? What right had they to wander through the world bringing trouble and tragedy to every man who crossed their path? The woman who had sent Rodney to his death . . .

Well, he would have paid back part of the debt, if not in full. He would have paid back part of the debt if he caused her one sleepless night, or one tear!

Julie slept with her cheek against his arm all the way back to Montreux. When they were close to the town Chittenham gently roused her.

She flushed, meeting his eyes. Her eyes were so happy—he wished she would not look so happy; it made him feel mean—as if he had pretended to give a child a beautiful gift, knowing that when she opened the box she would find only a stone.

"I'll look much prettier when you see me again," she said. She squeezed his hand and turned away.

"Au revoir, till to-night then."

Chittenham went on to the hotel where he had arranged to meet Lombard. It was nearly dinner time when he was dressed, and Lombard tapped at the door.

Lombard fidgeted about the room. "So you got snowed up!" he said. "There's something I want to tell you, Chittenham."

"Go ahead. What is it? Have you been getting into a mess while I was up on high?"

"No, it's only that I made a silly mistake yesterday about Miss Farrow. Can't think how I did it." Chittenham looked up sharply. "A mistake! What do you mean?"

Lombard flushed, and his eyes grew a little anxious.

"I made a damned silly mistake. Quite unintentional, of course. But the fact is . . . well, she's not the girl Rodney knew after all—she's not the Julie Farrow he was so mad about. It came out last night when I was talking to Miss Lennox. They've got the same name—Julie Farrow both of them—they're cousins you see, but this one isn't the one Rodney was so mad about—she's in London at this moment—the one here is her cousin."

Chittenham turned, his face flushed, his eyes furious—

"What in hell are you talking about?" he demanded thickly.

"My dear chap, I've just told you. It was a mistake—quite an innocent one on my part naturally. After all, there's no harm done, is there? What difference can it make? Miss Farrow will never know. . . ."

"Never know!"

Chittenham flung past him and out of the room. He went downstairs, took his coat from the lobby and went out into the gathering dusk.

Not Julie Farrow! not the woman who had driven Rodney to his death!

Not Julie Farrow, the woman who had lain in his arms last night; not the woman to whom he had believed he was paying back a bitter debt—not the cold, calculating adventuress whose kisses and sweet, whispered words he had taken with a covert sneer.

"It's possible to be just as happy down on earth as it is on the heights. . . ."

She had said that to him, her hand in his, just before they parted; she said that, believing in him, trusting him, loving him! Not knowing anything of Sadie—not knowing that he was a married man! not knowing perhaps any of the trip's happenings which had led up to this, the worst tragedy of all.

What would she say when she knew? how could he explain what possible excuse could he find for his actions which would not seem utterly caddish and despicable in her eyes?

It was as if some one had torn down a veil that had blinded and deceived him.

He remembered a hundred and one little things which should have warned him, told him of his mistake.

He knew now that when last night Julie had said she loved him it was the truth also. And there was Sadie. . . .

What a sport of the gods!

He felt like a man in a dream.

He tried to believe that he had only to rub his eyes and he would find that the house before him had vanished, find that he was back again in South America, that he had never come to Switzerland with Lombard, never met Julie Farrow on the little lake steamer.

And then one of the windows leading on to a balcony opened—the sound of voices was wafted down to him through the quiet evening, and a woman's figure was silhouetted against the light.

Julie? For a moment the pounding of Chitttenham's heart almost choked him, then with a breath of relief he saw that it was not Julie, but Bim Lennox.

Presently he heard her voice—quietly cynical.

"I can't see any signs of your Romeo, Julie dear?"

Chitttenham drew further back into the shadows as he heard Julie's laugh, and the little confident note in her voice when she answered.

"He will come. I am not at all afraid."

So she had told Bim as he had been sure she would. Chitttenham gritted his teeth and clenched his hands. He was to be spared nothing.

He turned with an effort and went up the steps.

He could hear voices from that balcony room and muffled laughter as the maid turned to him to ask his name. He braced himself and went forward.

Julie Farrow was there alone.

Chitttenham heard the door shut behind him, but he did not move forward. There was a mist before his eyes, blinding him, then he heard Julie laugh nervously.

"I believe you are more afraid of me than I am of you," she said.

She was very pale—in her white frock she looked almost like a ghost, but she was smiling happily, and when he made no movement towards her she raised herself a little on tiptoe and softly kissed him.

"Isn't it the same now we are down on earth again?" she asked with a note of banter in her voice through it shook a little with emotion.

Chitttenham tried to speak, but he could not.

He read a shadow of question in her eyes, that changed into vague fear.

"Why... is anything the matter?" she asked uncertainly.

"Is it the same now we are down on earth?" he asked hoarsely. "You haven't found that last night was just a dream?—that we were two dreamers, and that now we are awake?"

She laughed at that, shaking her head.

"The earth is so much—so very much more real than the mountain tops were, dear," she said softly.

She bent her head and lightly brushed his coat sleeve with her cheek.

"I told Bim—" she said. "I was so happy, I just had to tell some one..." And then as if struck by his silence she looked up swiftly to ask: "You don't mind? you're not angry?"

"Angry..." How could he answer? what could he say? He released her hands, and moved a step from her.

"I've something to tell you," he said abruptly.

"Tell away then!"

Chitttenham looked away from her.

"It's about last night... last night."

"Yes."

"And about my brother... Rodney."

"Yes."

"You told me you knew him."

"Yes. I often met him when he was with my cousin Julie."

Chitttenham caught a hard breath. Then it was true.

"You know Lombard, too?" Do you know that at first he mistook you for your cousin—the other Julie Farrow?"

"Lombard told me that you were the other Julie, that you were the woman Rodney had cared so much about."

She met his gaze directly, but unsuspectingly; suddenly she smiled.

"Well, what difference does that make? I'm not, and you know it now." She frowned a little in perplexity. "It's not anything to look so tragic about surely, is it?"

Chitttenham's eyes wavered, for a moment he hesitated desperately, searching for yet some means of escape, then he told her.

"I went up to St. Bernard with you yesterday believing you were the woman my brother had loved. I wanted to hurt you as I believed you had hurt him. I wanted to make a fool of you as I knew you had made of him. I thought Fate was playing into my hands when you agreed to take me with you yesterday. I thought I was being damned clever..."

It seemed so easy to make love to you... you seemed to make it easy for me."

"Giles!" Her voice was a wounded cry.

Night Football To Have Its Premiere In West Texas Soon

ABILENE, TEXAS, Sept. 24.—Night football will have its premiere in this section of West Texas during the current season, according to a report from the West Texas Utilities Company, which has installed lighting equipment on two fields during the past month.

Installation at Parramore Field Simmons University, Abilene, is practically complete and the first game on the Cowboy's schedule will be played under the incandescents.

Chesley Field at Cisco will also stage night games during the current season, its equipment being recently completed.

At Parramore Field, ten sixty foot poles have been erected, five to each side of the gridiron. Two 2500 watt units are mounted on each pole, giving the playing field a combined wattage of 250,000 watts.

At Chesley Field, Cisco, four sixty foot poles line each side of the field. Lighting units on each pole provide illumination for the playing field.

A white football is used for the night games, which increases visibility of the play. According to West Texas Utilities Company lighting experts, the games will be easier to follow than regular day time games, and it is expected that attendance will be greatly increased through offering the contests at night when more people are able to attend.

WACO EDITOR SHOWS HIS IGNORANCE

Frank Baldwin, editor of the Waco News-Tribune, succeeded during the 41st legislature in making an enemy of practically every member of both the House and Senate and now he is breaking into print with editorials that will not only bring hot replies from the press of West Texas but from many papers in other parts of the state. Baldwin is ignorantly ridiculing West Texas because of the drouth. Evidently he is so ignorant he does not know that many sections of the United States are included in the drouth-stricken area. He declared in a recent editorial that Central and North Texas must again come to the rescue of West Texas.

Such misinformation on the part of an editorial writer is a blot on the good reputation of journalism. If he could see the number of persons from his own section that pass through here looking for aid and work, he'd change the tune on his typewriter keys.

To be sure West Texas is in a drouth, but alone in this, and if it rains in 30 days it will blossom again with flowers and prosperity. Bank deposits are larger per capita, due to seven good years of prosperity, people live better and easier than they do in the country where they salute cotton each morning as they go to work and coming back find the king has fallen into the mud through lack of nutrition. Let them revile West Texas if they want to; West Texas does not care. Neither does a man object to an infant in a cradle call him to opprobrious epithets. West Texas is too prosperous to worry about the mouthings of men who do their muddle thinking on the banks of a lazy river.

Most everyone in West Texas left the other part of the state, so that those in that section wouldn't have to suffer from the competition of keener individuals.

LAND-MARKS OF THE BODY

Of course it is stupid of anybody to speak of having "stomach trouble," unless one knows reasonably well the situation of that organ within the body. If you can, with a finger, locate the lower end of the breast-bone, you are not far from mid-way of the stomach in its long diameter from left to right. Its larger area is to the left; it narrows and drops slightly lower to its termination at the right, where it empties into the first portion of the small bowel. Near this point, beneath the "short ribs," the gall-bladder is hidden. If you invert a coffee cut two inches to the right of the point of the breast-bone, you will cover the site of gall-stone colic, and the burning distress of hyperacid stomach, and many cases of gastric ulcer or duodenal ulcer. Pain in this locality should have immediate attention.

Gaseous distension of the stomach is likely to bulge the area to the left, and just below the point of the breast-bone; I am not going into diagnosis here; I am trying to acquaint you with important localities. This gaseous distension of the stomach is most likely to interfere with the heart-movements, for, approximately two inches to the left of the point of the breast-bone, is the site of the apex-beat of the heart—easily encroached upon by the distended stomach. You ought to know at once if it is gas making your heart "palpitate."

Roughly speaking, your colon occupies a space beginning at the right "flank;" it ascends to just above the edge of the liver, bends leftward, crosses just below the stomach to a point opposite its first bend; then descends to the left "flank;" like a horse-shoe hanging toe upward. The coils of the small intestine lie within the area described by the colon, communicating with it low in the right flank. Here is the site of the appendix; colics in this region are worth watching closely. If I may digress: a "colic" anywhere within the abdominal space may, within twenty-four hours descend to the appendiceal region, and mark the site of an abscess. Remember that.

ABOUT YOUR BODY

It is surprising, come to think of it, how few people know enough about their own bodies, to intelligently describe a pain or distress to the physician. For instance, a husband called me over the phone about his wife, who was in bed and suffering severely "with a hurtin' in her side." That is all I could get out of him, except that I was to "come over in a hurry." He could not have given me more information as to the locality of that pain, if his neck depended on it! A man of far more than average intelligence, too. To forewarn your physician is to forearm him. If he has the faintest inkling of what the trouble is in advance, he knows better what to bring with him, and hence may give quicker relief.

I remember a hurry-up call one dark night, to see a stranger, an old man, who was "nearly dyin' with a pain in his stomach." I hastily gathered additional remedies for my emergency bag; put a stomach tube and equipment for lavage—everything I could think of that would be likely to aid me at that hour. Imagine my disgust at this world in general—to find that I needed a catheter! Nothing whatever else. I had to track back to the office and get one, requiring almost an hour of time, that much more suffering, that much extra loss of sleep. I added the little instrument to my equipment after that, and carried it devotedly until it wore out from disuse in that emergency bag; and all, because a fellow didn't know his bladder from his stomach!

I find this same ignorance of the human body in my modern, otherwise well-informed patients; it's because they have never picked up even the rudiments of the topography of their bodies.

If our editor will permit, I am going to offer some simple information in my next two or three letters, about the landmarks of the human body; things that every one should know. I shall try to make it interesting and worth while. Watch this space next week.

SUNFLOWER BRIDE CLUB

Mrs. Arthur Phillips entertained the Sunflower Club with a delightful party at her home Tuesday afternoon. The carnival-like tally cards were displayed in front of small flower-covered lattices. Cut prizes at each table were carnival dolls. Mrs. Sherman Taylor won high score for the club, two novelty silhouettes and Miss Beulah Baggett won high guest, an embroidered picture. Salad and sandwiches were served.

Other guests present were: Mesdames T. A. Kincaid, Jr., Chas. E. Davidson, Jr., Massie West, Leta Hawkins, J. W. North, Welton Bunger, Fred Deaton, A. A. Perry, Jr., Bryan McDonald, Misses Hester Bunger, Mary Augustine, Carolyn Fox, and Wanda Watson.

WILL INCREASE ADVERTISING NEXT YEAR

The American Tobacco Company has increased its appropriation for newspaper advertising for next year $2,300,000. In reporting the matter to the board of directors at a recent meeting, Geo. W. Hill, president of the company, said: "It may interest you to know that we sincerely attribute a large measure of the prosperity of our company to the assistance that newspaper advertising has given us. It is of course a fundamental that any manufacturer must make an article which appeals to the public—is of service to the public and is of outstanding quality, if he proposes to be successful. Second only in importance to the quality of the product in our opinion is the question of its exploitation by advertising. Our policy of advertising, editorial in nature, is crammed full as we can make it, of timely and appealing human interest. We firmly believe that our copy not only competes for public attention with other advertisements, but with the news articles of the day, and we attribute in no small measure the prosperity of our company in recent years to the proper use of newspaper publicity."

EPWORTH LEAGUE NOTES

Character building in youth was the theme of an inspirational talk made before the Epworth League at its regular meeting at the Methodist Church Sunday evening by Rev. James V. Reid, evangelist and song leader, who is conducting a revival at the church this week. In addition to the talk, Rev. Reid led the League in a song service and instructed them in a special chorus number. Rev. Reid will hold a young people's meeting every evening this week and all young people are urged to be present. League meets every Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Members and visitors are urged to be on time.

Pierce Praises Rodeo At Angelo

Night Performance One Of Best Ever Seen In This Section

"A really wonderful performance" was the way Joe Pierce, Jr. president of the Crockett County Fair Association since its organization five years ago, described the first night rodeo performance ever witnessed in West Texas at the West Texas Exposition grounds in San Angelo Tuesday night.

Mr. Pierce has been the guiding genius of the Crockett County Fair Association in the five years of its successful existence and if anybody should know a good rodeo performance when he sees it, Mr. Pierce should.

"Considering the fact that this was the initial effort of the San Angelo fair organization at a rodeo, the success of this first night performance was remarkable," Mr. Pierce declared. "Every event went off just like clockwork and the whole program was one of the most enjoyable ones I have ever witnessed. Jess Elrod, chairman of the rodeo committee, and his helpers, John P. Lee and Jax Cowden, deserve lot of credit for the success of this department of the fair."

"A wonderful crowd was on hand for this first performance and everybody was enthusiastic. It is my guess that a record crowd will be on hand for the second and last night performance Wednesday night."

Mr. Pierce added that the Crockett County Fair's wild broncs were round fat and certainly made life miserable for the bustlers who mounted them.

SPEEDERS NOTICE!

Speeding must stop in Ozona. Several serious accidents have been narrowly avoided here recently as a result of speeding and unless the practice is stopped at once, somebody is going to be in trouble. Speeding is dangerous in downtown streets and I am issuing this appeal for co-operation of automobile drivers to prevent a tragedy. Nobody wants to pay a fine, but if this dangerous practice is continued it will be necessary to resort to this means of stopping it. I sincerely hope, however, that this warning will be sufficient.

Santa Fe Will Not Market Sheep; Agent Explains In Letter

The following letter was received this week by The Stockman from W. T. Treleven, general livestock agent of the Santa Fe railroad, calling attention to an erroneous statement which was sent out recently in a news item from Ozona regarding movement of sheep to feed lots from this section. The Stockman is glad to print this letter, which is self explanatory, to help clear up the situation. The letter follows:

Kansas City, Missouri, September 19, 1930.

Ozona Stockman, Ozona, Texas.

Gentlemen: The Denver Record Stockman carried an item dated Ozona, September 8, reading as follows:

"TEXAS SHEEPMEN WILL FEED OUT WOOLSKINS THRU WINTER."

Ozona, Texas, Sept. 8.—Refusing to take the low market prices, four and five cents, now quoted for range lambs, Crockett County ranchmen have decided to take their chances with the feed lots.

Approximately 18,000 Crockett County lambs are being shipped to Emporia, Kan., where they will be placed in feed lots and later marketed as fat lambs on the Kansas market.

The Santa Fe Railroad has agreed to ship the lambs, feed them and market them, remitting to the grower what is left after the freight and feed bills have been paid.

With reference to the closing paragraph: We do agree to handle the lambs to Emporia or to any other point where they may be consigned. We do feed them but then our responsibility ceases. We do not agree to market them or remit to the grower what is left after the freight and feed bills are paid. This is something we have nothing whatever to do with. The commission firm to whom the sheep are consigned is the one who pays the freight and feed bills and when they remit to the owner of the lambs these items, of course, are deducted.

This article has caused me to send several letters and telegrams and I wish you would correct it and oblige. I could not help but wonder where you secured the information as noted in the closing paragraph of the item.

Yours truly,
W. T. TRELEVEN.

G. D. Oldham has assumed charge as manager of the Hotel Ozona, succeeding E. H. Murphy, who resigned to become editor of an American Legion paper in San Angelo. Mr. Oldham came here from Abilene.

SUGGESTS LAW AGAINST SHEEP-KILLING DOGS

Legislation, if properly enforced, is the most effective method of dealing with the sheep-killing dog problem, although dog-proof fences for night pastures help to prevent losses to flock owners. Several States have laws which give reasonable protection to sheep owners, but dog laws may fail in their purpose if enforcement is lax. Suggestions for the formulation of effective dog laws appear in Farmers' Bulletin 12-68-F, "Sheep - Killing - Dogs," which has just been issued in revised edition by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

One of the most important considerations in formulating a dog law, the bulletin shows, is to obtain the moral support of the people. An unjust law does not have the support of the people, and without their support officers will not enforce the law. Effective dog laws, when properly enforced, limit the number of stray dogs, control their roving, and provide a fund from which sheep owners may be compensated for losses. The dog law of Michigan, published in full in the bulletin, is an example of one which offers protection.

30,000 Head Sheep Moved From Stockton During Past Week

About 30,000 head of sheep were moved from the Fort Stockton country last week, with about 10,000 going to feed lots in Kansas and about an equal number going to grass pastures farther west.

Charlie Cannon shipped 3,000 head to Kansas and J. M. Corder sold 4,000 feeder lambs that will go to feed lots in Kansas. J. M. Montgomery is sending about 10,000 head to pastures near Marfa, while L. E. Ellis of Uvalde purchased several hundred head for shipment to his ranch in that vicinity. J. Bert Kincaid, P. C. Coates and Paschal Odom will ship 10,000 head from Girvin to Emporia, Kansas.

The scarcity of grass in this section has made the movement of sheep rather heavy from Fort Stockton. Many ranchmen who are not marketing their lambs at the present low prices are shipping to feed lots and to grass.—Ft. Stockton Pioneer.

Clean Up and Paint Up

NO Guess Work

There is no guesswork in our prescription department. Every prescription receives the careful attention of a REGISTERED PHARMACIST.

This is your protection. Registration by the State insures you against ignorance or carelessness in filling prescriptions. Your life is in the hands of your pharmacist many times in filling your prescriptions—that's why it pays to take them to a registered pharmacist.
