BLASPHEMY

The Lord Chamberlain of England, who has the final say as to whether any play may be shown in English theatres, has blamed "The Green Pasture," the play which received the Pulitzer Prize when it was produced in New York, where it is still running.

The ground of the objection is that in the play one character represents God, and that is forbidden on the English stage. True, the character is merely an ignorant Negro's conception of God as "somebody that looks like the Reverend Mr. Dubois," and the whole play reflects the simple, literal interpretation of the Bible story in terms of their own race and experience, by the primitive Negroes of the lower Mississippi Valley. But that makes no difference in England; "The Green Pastures" can't be shown there.

The reasoning back of that is as wrong-headed as most of the efforts in America to keep religion which can't stand up under caricature or parody must be pretty weak stuff.

WAR

The movie magnates are falling over themselves to produce films showing war scenes. That is quite all right—war is mankind's greatest adventure—always has been and always will be. But when they talk, as some of them do, about such films as "All Quiet on the Western Front" and "Hell's Angels" as being calculated to turn the minds of youth away from war and toward peace, they are speaking in the vernacular, all wet.

Youth doesn't mind dirt and blood and danger and horrors, if there is the thrill of action attached to them. Youth cannot visualize the social and economic losses caused by war—if it could, it wouldn't be youth. As well try to talk girls out of loving as to talk boys out of fighting. And the more war pictures are shown on the screen, the more eager will the generation which was too young to fight in the last war be for a new war in which they, too, can share in the excitement of battle.

AGE

There has been a great deal of talk spilled loosely about the incapacity of men over 40 to do their share of the day's work.

At the New York State Industrial Safety Congress the other day one of the industrial laders said: "It is the old, trained employee who makes us our money. They are the ones it is hard to replace. The time when a man begins to be worth something is around 45."

Anybody who will think the matter over will realize that this is true. If business consisted in playing tennis or golf, prize-fighting, no doubt young men would always crowd out the old ones. But the "leg-work" which most jobs require is no strain upon the heart and muscles of men of sixty while the intelligence and fidelity which are acquired only through experience both on the job and in the world, are qualities that youth seldom possesses.

Bill Mulroy, the two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Mulroy, is suffering from a burn on his left eye ball, suffered Tuesday when he fell into an oven door. They are now in San Angelo where he is receiving medical treatment, and no serious results are expected.

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Douglas and Troy Stuart of Ballinger were in Ozona Sunday to attend the Pace-Baggett wedding.

MISS BEULAH BAGGETT BECOMES THE BRIDE OF J. B. PACE OF TAHOKA

Miss Beulah Baggett, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Baggett, became the bride of Jarrett B. Pace, superintendent of schools at Tahoka, Texas, at a pretty church wedding Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the First Methodist Church of Ozona, Rev. J. H. Meredith, pastor performing the ceremony in the presence of hundreds of friends who packed the church.

The church was simply but beautifully decorated for the occasion, with ferns and other greenery flanking the altar and baskets of pink snapdragons and carnations tastefully arranged to form a colorful background. Grouped about the altar and in the choir were six candelabra holding pink tapers.

Mrs. J. W. Henderson, Jr., sang "I Love You Truly" and "Until," with Mrs. George Bean at the piano. Mrs. Henderson wore a gown of dark green crepe, trimmed in cream lace. Mrs. Bean was gowned in purple chiffon with hat to match. Both wore shoulder corsages of pink rosebuds. During the ceremony Mrs. Bean played "The Indian Love Call" softly on the piano.

The groom was attended by Herbert Sledge of Ballinger as best man.

Miss Mildred North, bridesmaid was the first to enter. She wore a beautiful green afternoon frock, with tan slippers and gloves. She wore a cloche of tan to watch her gloves and slippers.

Mrs. Richard Flowers, matron of honor, wore a beautiful gown of peach colored chiffon, with white gloves and slippers. Her cloche was white.

Miss Mary Childress was maid of honor. She was beautiful in a gown of rose crepe, with white gloves and shoes and a silver cloche. All the bride's attendants carried arm bouquets of pink and yellow snapdragons and pink carnations.

The bride came in on the arm of her father. She wore a beautiful gown of deep rich blue novelty crepe, elaborately trimmed in beige lace. She wore a close fitting hat of black and gold lace and her slippers were black moire, with beige hose.

The bridal bouquet was of pink rosebuds with a shower of lillies of the valley.

The bride's mother was dressed in black velvet with a shoulder corsage of pink roses. James Baggett, brother of the bride acted as usher.

Following the wedding ceremony, the bridal party and a number of friends of the family were guests at a reception at the home of the bride's parents. The big two-tiered wedding cake, which was cut by the bride, was decorated with rosebuds and a white wedding bell in the center. The table was laid with lace and linen with four candelabra with pink tapers. The entire wedding party was represented on the table in miniature, with a miniature arch under which the bride and groom were standing.

Miss Gracia Swanson presided over the bride's book where all guests were required to register. Mrs. Leta Hawkins, Mrs. Evart White, Mrs. Marshall Montgomery, Mrs. Massie West, Mrs. Hugh Childress, Jr., and Mrs. J. W. North assisted in serving. Mrs. Paul Perner and Mrs. N. W. Graham assisted the wedding party in receiving the guests.

The bride's going-away outfit was of brown wool crepe with a brown and gray rough tweed hat. Other accessories were of brown.

Mrs. Pace was graduated from the Ozona High School with the class of 1927. She is a former student of Simmons University and the University of Colorado. Mr. Pace took his A. B. degree at Southwestern University at Georgetown and his M. A. degree from the University of Texas. Immediately after leaving college he was elected principal of the Ballinger High School and was one of the youngest principals in the

Football Receipts To Charity Funds

Net Proceeds To Go To Swell Funds Of Associated Charities

Net proceeds from the All-Star football game to be played on Powell Field gridiron on New Years Day between teams from Ozona and Texon, will go to swell funds of the Associated Charities of Ozona in the drive now being staged by that organization for charity relief in this city during the next twelve months.

The Ozona team will receive a 50-50 split of the receipts and out of this amount the small expenses necessary will be paid and the balance will be turned over to the charity fund.

The Ozona Lions Club is sponsoring the game and will be responsible for its advertising and will have charge of the sale of tickets at the gate. The Club by unanimous vote at its meeting Monday ordered a guarantee of a $25 donation from the club to the charity fund and in the event gate receipts at the football game on New Years Day do not reach that amount the club will make up the balance to that sum. Interest in the game here has increased in the last few days to such an extent, however, that its promoters are predicting that the charity fund will be swelled by twice that much as a result of the game.

Announcement was made this week by Jake Young, manager of the local team, that Woodrow Wilson, son of Lee Wilson of Ozona, and the outstanding star the past season on the Stanton High School team, District 8, Interscholastic League, Champions, would be in the line-up of the Ozona team. Young Wilson, who is but 15 years old, has been a sensation in District 8 football circles this year and has been loudly acclaimed as the outstanding gridiron star in the district by the press of that section. The 1929 season saw him a star on the Ozona Lions squad, his first year in first-string line-up, and he is said to have more than doubled his efficiency in the backfield for Stanton High this year.

With Wilson to lug the ball, Frank Russell to call signals and do some of the leg work, and such line plungers as N. C. Boley, Fatty Kyle, Jake Young, John L. Bishop and others, and heavy weight linemen such as R. T. Taylor, George Bunker, Hartley Johnigan and others, the Ozona squad gives promise of presenting a formidable scoring machine on the local grid Thursday of next week. The squad is being put through regular practice daily under the direction of Captain Frank Russell and members expect to be in good shape for the fray.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jenkins of Hillsboro are the Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Bean. They are Mrs. Bean's parents. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. England and children of Mertins are also the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bean. Mrs. England is Mrs. Bean's sister.

Members of the Lions Club were entertained at their regular luncheon Monday noon by a seven-piece orchestra, the "Gloom Chasers," who will furnish the music for a series of dances to be given here this week.

He held this position nine years and was one of the most popular teachers who ever held a position in the Ballinger public schools. The young couple left during the reception for a wedding tour. They will make their home after the Christmas holidays in Tahoka. They will return to Ozona Friday for a brief visit before going to Tahoka.

SANTA WANTS ALL CHILDREN AT LION TREE

Pack Loaded For Visit To Community Tree At 7:30 P. M.

Everything is ready for the arrival of Santa Claus at the Lions Club Community Christmas tree in the city park at 7:30 Christmas Eve.

Santa will arrive on the scene promptly at 7:30 and every child in Ozona is urged to be there on time to receive what Santa has for every one of them.

Old Saint Nick is loaded this year with goodies and it will be a merry time around the community tree when he arrives tonight to spread good cheer to all the children of Ozona.

A committee of Lions, headed by John Pettit, will be on the grounds to see that everything goes off in an orderly style and to see to it that every child receives something at the hands of Santa Claus. Bring out the kids! Santa wants to see 'em and he has something for every single one in the city.

Music Club Enjoys Christmas Program, Luncheon At Hotel

Missionary Body To Spread Cheer

Necessities To Be Distributed Among Poor At Christmas

The Young Women's Missionary Society has appropriated a sum amounting to between $40 and $50 with which it will supply needy families in Ozona with food and clothing and other necessities at Christmas time through committees already named by the Ozona Lions Club to handle this work in connection with its Community Christmas tree.

Last year the Missionary Society donated $15 to be added to funds contributed by the Lions Club for this purpose and the Lions contributed $25, making a total of $40 spent in this kind of relief work.

Their funds being such this year that they had an opportunity to do more extensive work along this line, the Missionary Society has shouldered the entire responsibility for this phase of the Lions Club's Christmas Cheer program. The Lions standing committee, composed of M. M. Fulmer and John L. Bishop, will be in charge of distribution of the necessities to needy families and officers of the Missionary Society will assist in the purchase and arrangement of the articles.

DINNER AND BRIDGE

Mrs. T. A. Kincaid, Jr., and Miss Mary Kincaid entertained the members of the Sunflower Club and a number of guests with a Christmas party, dinner and bridge, at the Hotel Ozona Monday night. The turkey dinner was served buffet style. The room was profusely decorated in Christmas colors and the individual tables had center pieces of pine cones and foliage with red candles. The guests were entertained during the dinner and games by the "Gloom Chasers," a seven piece orchestra. Miss Hester Bunker and Mrs. Richard Flowers won high score prizes for the club and guests. Ele Hagelstein and Hugh Childress, Jr., won high score for the men, club and guest.

Miss Mary Augustine and Chas. E. Davidson, Jr., won the cut prizes. At the end of the bridge playing several couples remained for a short while to dance.

A beautifully decorated Christmas tree stood in the center of the room, and Santa Claus entered after the dinner to distribute presents to all the guests.

The guests present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Allen Robertson, Harry J. Friend, Jr., Arthur Phillips, Hillery Phillips, Clay Adams, Boyd Clayton, Warren Clayton, Chas. E. Davidson, Jr., Frank McMullen, Ashby McMullen, Marshall Montgomery, Hugh Childress, Jr., Richard Flowers, Evart White, Ralph Jones, J. W. North, Sherman Taylor, Robert Austin, Albert Bailey, Massie West, Walter Augustine, Jake Short, Mrs. Leta Hawkins, Miss Hester Bunker, Miss Mary Augustine, T. A. Kincaid, Jr., Jake Young, Ele Hagelstein, Jack Sharp, and Mex Harrell.

Ross Huffstetler, in charge of the cleaning and pressing department of the Model Laundry of Ozona, will leave soon after the Christmas holidays for Dallas where he will take a four to six-weeks course in modern dry cleaning methods.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Fussell and children left Tuesday to spend Christmas in Cisco.

Mildred North is home for the holidays from Baylor University at Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. Massie West were in Del Rio last week.

LIONS CLUB STARTS FUND AT LUNCHEON

Over $100 Contributed In Few Minutes After Plan Explained

COMMITTEES OUT

Plan To Concentrate All Charity Work Under One Organiza't'n

A drive to raise a general charity fund to take care of all charity cases that arise here for the next twelve months was started Monday afternoon by committees appointed by M. M. Fulmer, general chairman of the Associated Charities of Ozona, which was organized recently at a meeting of representatives of the various organizations of the city.

The drive got under way when Rev. Fulmer outlined the plans of the charity organization before the Lions Club at its regular luncheon at the Hotel Ozona Monday noon. By unanimous vote the Lions Club ordered a guarantee of $25 as a donation from the club to the charity fund. This donation will likely amount to twice that sum by an agreement which was reached by club officers to turn the net receipts from the Texon-Ozona football game here on New Years Day into the charity body's treasury. In the event, however, the games does not net at least $25, the club will make up the difference to that amount.

Immediately after the plan had been explained, Lions present started the drive off with a "nest egg" of around $90, which with the $25 guarantee from the club's treasury, brought the fund to approximately $115 in less than a half hour.

At the conclusion of his explanation of the plans and purposes of the charity organization, Rev. Fulmer named four different committees to make a thorough canvass of the town to raise a sum sufficient to take care of local charity needs for the coming year. These committees started out on their assignments immediately after the noon hour and incomplete reports that have come in indicate that the drive will be an overwhelming success.

Rev. Fulmer declared that it was the intention of the organization, to give everybody in the city an opportunity to contribute to the fund. By distributing the burden throughout the community, all charity calls can be adequately met without sacrifice on the part of anybody, he declared.

Funds to be collected in this drive will be dispensed by an organization composed of representatives of the different organizations of the city. Rev. Fulmer is president, Mrs. Welton Bunker, secretary, and Hugh Childress, Jr. treasurer. All charity calls will be investigated by a committee composed of Rev. J. H. Meredith, A. W. Jones, Mrs. Hugh Childress, Sr., and Mrs. S. L. Butler. Some member of this committee will be required to countersign all checks issued by the association with the treasurer.

A board of trustees composed of Rob Miller, Hugh Childress, Jr. and Evart White was appointed by the chairman and the executive board is composed of Rev. Fulmer, Mrs. Hugh Childress, Mrs. W. A. Kay, Mrs. S. L. Butler, Mrs. Welton Bunker, Hugh Childress, Jr., S. L. Butler, Rev. J. H. Meredith, Rob Miller, John L. Bishop, Evart White and A. W. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Massie West were in Del Rio last week.

BE A GOOD FELLOW

Picture to yourself how happy those little ones of yours will be when they wake up Christmas morning and find that Santa Claus has paid them a visit during the night. Then think of hundreds of other little children, some of them in your own town, who will open their eyes on just another day Christmas morning. With such abundance as exists in this country there should not be a child who is not reassured again this Christmas that there is a Santa Claus.

The Lions Club and the Young Women's Missionary Society are spreading Christmas cheer among the poor families of Ozona and through the efforts of these two agencies many children in homes where Santa Claus would no doubt fail to call will be made happy this Christmas. These organizations will supply necessities such as food and clothing to such families and in addition the Lions Club Christmas tree in the city park Christmas Eve will supply what is to the child's mind real Christmas cheer in the form of toys, candy, fruit and the like. This is a community-wide event, where every child in the community is invited to take part, where rich and poor alike will receive goodies at the hands of Santa Claus himself. Let every child in the city be there and if you know of children of poor families who may not know they are invited, the Lions Club would appreciate it if you would take it upon yourself to invite them. There will be enough of the goodies for all and the Lions Club is especially anxious that every child be there.

A GOOD CAUSE

The Associated Charities of Ozona launched its drive Monday for funds to take care of charity needs in Ozona for the next twelve months. This organization is backed by leading citizens of Ozona and has the endorsement of all organizations in the city. Its perfection is the result of months of study by those best qualified to consider work of this nature and the plan finally adopted in the organization of the Associated Charities is merely a small-scale model of general charity bodies in operation in larger centers of population.

It is the plan of heads of this movement to give every person in Ozona an opportunity to contribute to the general charity fund. If everybody contributes something, the burden of charity relief will be evenly distributed and will not be a burden on any one or group. Heretofore, this burden has rested on the shoulders of a few and was an unfair shifting of responsibility. Also, it was a slipshod method of giving attention to worthy charity calls. Through such a method worthy cases often went uncared for while unworthy ones through cunning appeals extracted donations when they should have been denied.

If sufficient funds are raised in this drive, charity relief in Ozona can be concentrated in one channel and this community will be saved thousands of dollars every year that now go out in donations made by business houses and individuals to professional beggars and floating bums. It has been found that in the larger cities where charity organizations are supported by annual drives that when such cases as these are referred to the investigating committee by the first person they ask for help that nine times out of ten they disappear and are on their way to the next town where they can work on sympathies of those unfamiliar with their methods and thus accumulate more money than they could by honest labor.

If the present drive of the Associated Charities is successful, and the splendid start it has made indicates it will be an overwhelming success, there will not be another request for donations for charity until this time next year. The contribution you make at this time will be your offerings for general charity work in the city for the next twelve months. Thus, you will be saved the necessity of contributing to this cause and that through the whole year, and you can be assured that the money you place in the hands of this organization will be spent only after careful consideration of the merits of each separate case, and in each case, will be spent to do the most good possible.

This is a most worthy cause and if successful will solve one of the most nagging problems in Ozona. Nobody should give until it becomes a sacrifice, but everybody should give something in accordance with his means. If you are not solicited soon by one of the committees, look them up and contribute your share. Charity is everybody's responsibility. Do your share.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Perner, Mrs. Marshall Montgomery, P. C. and Mary Perner went to San Angelo Friday to meet Miss Elizabeth Perner who has come from Ward Belmont for the Christmas holidays.

"When I get well I'll start all over again and show you how nice I can be," she told him. "You've been so good to me—far better than I ever deserved. I'll pay you back some day, Giles."

"Get well and strong, and I shall want nothing else," he told her.

The reports of the specialists were encouraging. They had every hope, they said—it might be a long time naturally, but Mrs. Chitttenham was such an excellent patient. . . .

Giles winced and turned away.

One Saturday he and Bim went down into Gloucester to follow up a clue which they hoped might lead to news of Julie. Chitttenham had told Sadie he was going away on business.

She turned impatiently away when he would have kissed her.

"You treat me like a child. No body would think I am your wife." Chitttenham frowned.

"Don't be unreasonable, Sadie. I cannot spend all my time with you."

Her drawn face flushed. "You would want to, if you loved me," she accused him.

"If you would rather I did not go—" he began hopelessly; but she broke in offendedly.

"Oh, go! go! They all say you behave like an angel. They all think that I am a beast to you. Oh, I know they don't say so, but I know what they think." Then as she felt him move to leave her she caught at his arm with her thin, nervous hands. "I'm sorry, Giles. I didn't mean it. I do try to be reasonable, but if you were in my place—" Her voice broke, and she controlled it with an effort.

"I'll do anything in the world to make you happy, Sadie," Giles said, but in his heart he despised himself for a coward and a traitor to the woman he loved. He could he told her as they drove away. "It's an impossible situation. God only knows what the end will be." But the whole world knew the end when, on Monday morning, after a hopeless search along a chain of false clues which led them nowhere, Bim and Chitttenham returned to town.

There was an urgent telephone call from Sadie's nursing home. Would Mr. Chitttenham please come immediately.

"I'll go with you," Bim said at once, and looking at Chitttenham's white face, she hated herself for saying: "Perhaps it's good news. Perhaps she is recovering her sight."

"I hope so. God knows, I hope so," Chitttenham answered.

But it was something very different. Early that morning, just as it was getting light, they had found Sadie lying on the pavement below her window—quite dead.

"It must have been an accident—" they told him for his comfort. "She must have tried to open the window—the nurse had left her alone for a few minutes—and we think she lost her balance. Last night she was quite cheerful and hopeful, and looking forward to seeing you today. We are sure it must have been an accident."

do nothing for Sadie if it was only his love she wanted; that was already in the keeping of Julie, who had gone out of his life perhaps for ever. He kissed Sadie hurriedly, anxious to be gone, but she clung to him.

"Kiss my lips—kiss my lips—" "Sadie!"

He held back from her for a moment, then gave way. He kissed her lips kindly enough, but with no warmth or passion, and she pushed him from her petulantly.

"Go away. You don't love me. You hate being with me."

And a storm of tears came, and bitter sobbing.

Chitttenham went out to Bim, who was waiting for him, his face set and white, and his eyes miserable.

"I can't stand this much longer,"

"A FORM OF SUICIDE"

A certain friend of mine prospered mightily in his business and investments. I used to see him often, and it distressed me to observe that his increase in wealth had apparently added nothing to his peace of mind. He seemed to be always worried. His health was not too good. With each added million he developed a new complaint.

The other day I saw him again for the first time in nearly a year. His eyes shone. He was full of pep and plans—a wonderful transformation.

"You know, I used to talk about retiring," he said, "and I had just about made up my mind to do it when the stock market crashed. Then I discovered that I couldn't afford to retire.

"I've gone back to work, and it's the greatest tonic I ever had. I doubt now if I'll ever retire. When you come to think of it," he added, "idleness is just a form of suicide."

The phrase is striking, but the thought which it expresses is not new. Many men have made the same discovery, and usually at the price of unhappiness.

Charles Lamb, when released at last from his drudgery of desk work at the India office, cried out that he would not go back to his "prison for ten thousand pounds."

"I am free! Free as air!" he wrote ecstatically to a friend. "I will live another fifty years. Positively the best thing a man can do is nothing."

Two years passed. Idleness lost its charm. Time, which had seemed to pass slowly when he was chained to a job, now hung around his neck like a millstone. With his days free for writing he actually wrote less than in the years when, with all their dull routine, he had been stimulated by daily contact with the active world.

"I assure you no work at all is worse than overwork, the mind preys on itself—the most unwholesome of food." So he wrote to the same friend. "I have ceased to care for almost anything. Never did the waters of heaven pour down on a forlorn head. What I can do, and overdo, is to walk. I am a sanguinary murderer of time. But the oracle is silent."

Henry Thoreau, who saw many things clearly, looked forward to a time when every man's life would be reasonably divided between hard work and happy leisure.

"Why should the hen set all day?" he asked. "She can lay but one egg, and besides, she will not have picked up materials for a new one. Those who work much do not work hard."

Both idleness and unrelieved drudgery are forms of suicide. Somewhere between them is a happy medium which is really living.

J. B. Miller, a student at Abilene Christian College, is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rob Miller.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR
JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M. D.

PLAIN TALK

The high cost of being sick has come to most everybody who has felt the need of the doctor's services within the past few years. This sort of "tariff" is very depressing indeed. It seems to burden oppressively the victims, when they are least fitted to deal with heavy loads.

Nevertheless, our people seem willing always to buy the "pig in the poke." One notorious quack within easy radio distance has rolled up over a million dollars in a comparatively short time, getting well up toward a thousand dollars as his initial payment in advance, before he touches the complainant. That looks to me like pretty fancy fees, when our people complain of the high cost of being sick.

I know of advertising concerns that are in the medical BUSINESS that exact two or three hundred dollars in advance, and they are usually crowded with suckers who seem to like the parting with their money.

And I have met numerous "doctors" who look wise, charge never less than five dollars for an interview, and simply walk away from the brethren who strive for scientific knowledge, and who are devoting midnight hours to study. A way once said to me, "it's got you so you don't have to know anything to be a famous doctor."

I hate to think of it as a possible fact. When I see an ordinary masseur, without knowledge of pathology, bacteriology, chemistry or materia medica, give himself the title of "doctor" and sally forth to treat the public, demanding and getting much bigger fees than the man who has put in four or more years in the college and university—then I am inclined to agree with the wag as quoted.

People who keep the army of American quacks rolling in wealth should not complain of the high cost of getting cured. The good physician's equipment costs money; his education did not float into him on the tide; he is worth all he costs—often very much more. A good doctor is always worth his hire.

Season's Greetings

At this time, when all the world relaxes from the excitement and tension of everyday business life—when on every hand one sees practical demonstration of the true Christmas Spirit of "Good Will Toward Men"—it is fitting that this company should bring to its many friends and customers the sincere Christmas Greetings of more than one thousand loyal employees.

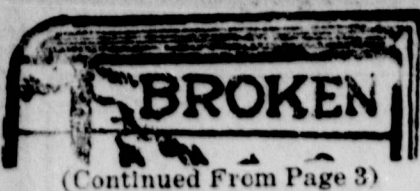

Throughout the year, 120 prosperous cities, towns and communities in West Texas, "The Land of Opportunity," are served efficiently with dependable electric service from the three major generating stations of the West Texas Utilities Company.

Hundreds of farmers, ranchers and small communities are served over the same high tension transmission lines, which, 2,500 miles in length, interlace this great West Texas Empire.

To this progressive citizenry—by whom and for whom the growth of West Texas and the West Texas Utilities Company has taken place—this company extends cordial Season's Greetings and best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year.

Chittenham made no answer, and presently Bim drew the nurse aside to whisper: "Would she . . . do you think she would ever have recovered her sight?"

There was a little silence before the answer came.

"The doctors were hopeful—but . . . the nurse shook her head. "I don't think Mrs. Chittenham herself ever had any real hope."

Bim walked to the window and looked out. The sun was shining, and the air was soft and warm. She closed her own eyes and tried to imagine what Sadie had suffered. To be blind! Never to see the sunlight or the flowers, or a beloved face.

She turned and crossed the room to Chittenham. She understood so well what he was feeling, how his heart must be torn with remorse and grief, and yet through it all she knew he must be conscious of a great and overwhelming relief.

She slipped a hand into his. "At any rate, wherever she is, she can see the sunshine again."

There had been no definite plan in Julie's mind when she ran away from London.

She had no idea where she meant to go, but she had taken a ticket to Folkestone because it was the first place that occurred to her, and because she had once spent a happy holiday there.

It was only at mid-day when she reached Folkestone that the idea occurred to her to cross over to France. It was only a little journey, but there was something comforting in the knowledge that she could so easily put the width of the sea between herself and the things from which she desired to escape.

She crossed to Ostend by the midday boat and took a room in a cheap little pension which at any rate had the merit of great cleanliness. And there Julie stayed for a fortnight, sleeping and resting, and trying to forget.

She never thought of Schofield—it was too bitter a memory. He had been the rock in her sea of distress to which she had always unconsciously clung, and he had failed her even as everything else had failed her.

And then one evening as she was walking along by the sea with the sunset light in her face, she met him. He looked ill, she thought, and old! And as her eyes searched his face, it seemed impossible that only a few days ago she had seen him and talked to him—surely months must have dragged away since she told him he must go out of her life.

And Schofield gripped her wrist with fingers that bruised, as he said hoarsely—"Thank God—I've found you."

Julie managed a laugh. "Do you know that you actually sound sincere?" she taunted him.

"I was never more sincere in my life. Where can we go to be alone? I have so much to say to you . . ."

Julie glanced down the almost deserted sea-front.

"If you have anything to say that must be said, I hardly think any one will overhear you. But I am in a hurry . . ." Her voice broke angrily. "Why are you here at all?"

"We have been hunting you ever since you left London." His agitation was unmistakable; she could feel how his hand shook as he held her wrist.

Julie laughed again. "We?" she queried.

"Yes—Giles Chittenham and myself."

"Giles Chittenham?" The color died from her face. "I am indeed honored," she said with a bitter sneer.

Schofield winced as if she had hurt him.

"Don't talk like that. If you only knew . . . Oh, Julie, let me explain—let me try to explain—"

"There is nothing to explain—nothing I want to hear."

"You don't mean that—it's not like you to be hard and cruel—"

She tried to free herself.

"Let me go. You and I have finished with each other."

"Yes." He released her wrist, but now she made no effort to leave him; there was a haunting sadness in his eyes that held her against her will. "But there is still Chittenham," he said very quietly.

Julie tried to speak but no words would come, and before she could resist he had drawn her down to sit beside him on one of the seats overlooking the sea, and was holding her hand in both his.

"We've been searching for you day and night, Julie—it seems a lifetime since you went away—"

Her lip curled scornfully.

"A lifetime! only two weeks—"

NEW YORK—Einstein is coming to New York.

He is the guy who took the universe apart and figured out what made it tick. Then he tried to explain it to the rest of the world. Now it is a bigger mystery than cafeteria hash.

Thus we have two mysteries—the universe and Einstein's vocabulary.

He takes the tissue-paper lawn mower when it comes to originality. He uses words that have never been used before.

HELP!

The best gag of the Unemployment Era is about the sheriff who mounted on his window a sign, "Murderer Wanted."

Seven people applied for the job!

ANONYMOUS

A columnist's life is just one silly thing after another. For example, an unsigned letter in this morning's mail, sent by one of my comical friends. It consisted of a single sheet of stationery upon which was pasted a photo, clipped from a newspaper, of a dopey-looking moron in horn-rimmed spectacles.

The deep, villainous idea sent to be that the aforementioned gent resembles me, or vice versa. Over the photo was the caption, "Confesses Slaying." Typewritten underneath was this comment:

"What the Hell will you be doing next?"

QUICK, THE FLIT

I shall be obliged to close this week's little coughing spell almost any minute now. Bino, aged four, from Apartment No. 1, has just romped in, dumping an immense sail boat, all drippy wet, on the sofa.

He has found a jar of glace candy, and each cheek is ballooned with a raspberry paw-breaker, very much like the It-Ain't-Tooth-ace-It's-Climax ads.

Now he is taking them from his mouth, all sticky, and gleefully trying to drop them down my collar.

Signing off, folks. I've got to defend myself.

RECORD YOURSELF

A mid-town movie palace features in its lobby a tiny booth where one may, for 25 cents, make a phonograph record of his own voice. Of course I fell for it. Talking through a microphone the first time makes you feel as important as a bootlegger on conviction day.

Another idiosyncrasy (don't trouble yourself, I've just looked it up) is that I like to write with a phonograph bawling at my back. (Voice: Maybe changing the record would help.)

If he is looking for new riddles to grapple with, we can suggest a whole hatful. For instance:

What happened to prosperity, Judge Crater, and the yo-yo?

Who discovered spinach, and why?

What becomes of safety pins?

How to rescue a pushed-in cork from a bottle of olives.

Where is the next generation going to throw its razor blades?

ON WITH THE STORY

ing and stepped into a taxi in front of the Columbia building. His driver was one of those talkative bozos.

"D'ya work in the studios, Buddy?" he inquired as he skidded expertly around a corner.

"Yes," said Beuchler.

"Well," said the cabby, "I was over in the Coffee Pot listenin' to the Detective Story Magazine broadcast tonight. I go in for that crook stuff, see, so every Thoisday I parks the boiler and listens in at this here beanery. But bein' it's rainin', y'know, everybody's lookin' for cabs tonight and so just as I was gettin' seamed up about this here story, in walks a guy that wants a cab and I gotta leave right in the middle of the story. So I was just wonderin' if you happened to know how it come out?"

Beuchler did know, fortunately, and put an end to the driver's suspense as well as his own—for the chauffeur, listening to his recital of the thriller, kept his eyes on the road instead of turning to talk to his passenger.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pierce, Joe Sellars and Esther Kate Pierce spent the week-end in Del Rio.

Miss Ethel Childress is home for the holidays from the University of Texas.

Woodrow Wilson Is Picked As Best In Dist. 8 Grid Circle

(From Stanton Reporter)

All the football squads that have battled the Stanton Buffaloes during the past football season, and those sport writers who have seen him in action, recognize in Woodrow Wilson the making for some college or university of the state, one of the greatest fullbacks that has ever come from the "brush" country. The latest sport writer to lay a boquet in Wilson's lap is Bobbie Campbell, of the "Water Bucket" in the Big Spring Herald, who stood on the sideline gathering data from the Stanton-Snyder game to be sent to the Abilene paper and to use in his own. Here it is:

Yet, today if we were so fortunate as to be able to select either Wilson or Johnson for the Steer contingent, we would take Wilson without a bobble. Wilson the youthful Stanton fullback, can take his punishment like a man, is a demon on defense, and a speedster on offense. As one of the Snyder players remarked as he left the field, with his upper lip rather smeared over his countenance, "how that No. 18 can sock." No 18 patient customers, is Mr. Wilson.

MISS INGHAM COMPLIMENTED

Miss Mary Childress entertained Monday afternoon with bridge honoring Miss Lucile Ingham who is to be married to Alvin Harrell January 8. Each tallie was attached to some small kitchen utensil which with a dishpan was the gift to the bride. Mrs. Richard Flowers won high score prize an atomizer. Cut prize, a bridge box, went to Mrs. J. W. North. Miss Lillie Mae Morris won low. Fruit cake and coffee were served with bunches of holly berries as favors.

Other guests present were: Mesdames Massie West, Lowell Littleton, B. B. Ingham, Chas. E. Davidson, Jr., Arthur Phillips, Hillery Phillips, Sherman Taylor, Evert White, Marshall Montgomery, Albert Bailey, Bob Austin, Bartram, John Curry, Boyd Clayton, J. W.
