X-Ray Burns Result In Suit

Ingham Seeks $35,000 Damages As Result Of Injuries

B. B. Ingham, Crockett County ranchman, has filed suit in the district court at San Angelo against the San Angelo Medical and Surgical Clinic seeking to recover $35,000 damages as a result of injuries suffered from X-Ray burns while a patient in the clinic two years ago.

The suit was filed last Friday by James Cornell, counsel for Mr. Ingham.

The burn, which has resulted in Mr. Ingham's confinement in hospitals at intervals for the past two years, was inflicted during an operation, performed by Dr. H. K. Hinde, for removal of a piece of steel from Mr. Ingham's shoulder. A small piece of steel was driven into the shoulder while Mr. Ingham was at work on his ranch and surgeons at the clinic are alleged to have used a fluoroscope while removing the foreign body, the exposure to the fluoroscopic rays being of sufficient duration to cause the severe burns, according to the statement of facts.

Mr. Ingham spent several months in a Temple hospital receiving treatment for the burns and underwent several operations for removal of damaged tissue and skin grafting operations. He later received further treatment in a hospital in St. Louis and physicians have told him recently that two further operations will be necessary before he can recover a near normal use of his right arm. The two additional operations will be the grafting of more skin on the injured part and for lengthening of a ligament to the arm, alleged to have been burned by the rays.

The San Angelo clinic is capitalized at $50,000.

Ozosa Lions Will Attend Group Meet At Sonora Monday

Members of the Sonora Lions Club will be hosts to representatives of clubs in Group 23 at a group meeting next Monday noon, the local club has been informed by letter. A number of members of the local club are expected to make the trip to attend the group meeting and Ozosa Lions will furnish a speaker for one number on the program.

Member clubs of Group 23 include Sonora, Eldorado, San Angelo Ballinger and Sterling City.

Rev. Neal Of Sonora To Occupy Pulpit At Methodist Church Sun

Rev. E. P. Neal, pastor of the Sonora Methodist Church, will deliver the sermon at the Ozosa Methodist Church next Sunday morning during the absence of Rev. J. H. Meredith, who is enjoying a six weeks vacation tour.

Rev. Neal is well known to Ozosa Methodists and no doubt a big crowd will greet him when he preaches here Sunday morning.

Rev. Meredith is rounding out his extensive trip this week and is expected to be back in Ozosa next week, ready to return to the pulpit the following Sunday.

RANCH TRADE MADE

A deal whereby N. W. Graham became the owner of the Cal Word ranch in Crockett County, consisting of five sections, and Mr. Word is the new owner of a ranch in Burnet County of 13 sections was completed here this week. Immediate possession was given in each case. Terms were private.

PRAIRIE FIRE

Approximately a quarter section of pasture land was burned off by a prairie fire last Saturday on the Pleas Childress ranch north of town. The fire is believed to have been started from a match or cigarette carelessly thrown by a member of a road crew nearby.

Early Morning Earth Tremor Rattles Dishes And Windows Here But Does Little Damage

Along with thousands of others in an area of about 600 miles square, Ozona residents were shaken from their beds to observe one of nature's strange antics about 5:30 Sunday morning when an earthquake, which apparently had its center about Valentine, sent several severe shocks through out the southwest.

Aside from a few cracked stucco walls and plaster, no damage was done here by the quake. Considerable damage was done in Valentine, however, where a number of homes and business buildings were wrecked and others badly damaged. The total damage from the quake in Valentine was estimated at $75,000. Less serious damage was reported from a number of other towns in the area.

Fort Stockton reported a number of buildings cracked, but no serious damage resulted. Comanche Springs, flowing 60 million gallons of water, flowed muddy water for an hour after the quake. Fort Stockton officials reported, Fort Davis, Alpine and Pecos also reported heavy shocks.

"Experience meetings were numerous on downtown streets Sunday and Monday as residents recounted their sensations as the earth and the floors under them seemed to roll and pitch. Many reported being awakened by rattling windows and slamming doors. Thinking that a strong wind had arisen, residents who jumped out of bed to pull down windows and shut doors were astonished to note that leaves on trees were perfectly still and there apparently was not even a slight breeze.

Estimates on the duration of the disturbance here ranged from 30 seconds to more than a minute.

Stronger Wool Market Apparent

National Co-op. Sees Distinctly Upward Market Trend

BOSTON, Mass. - The underlying strength of the wool market everywhere is apparent, according to the National Wool Marketing Corporation. The National reports it is asking and obtaining slightly better prices constantly.

Mill buyers estimate that dealers have disposed of fully 40 per cent of their holdings. One dealer is reported to have taken much of his wool off the market. He feels that holding it for later sale will net fully 50 per cent greater profits.

With consumption continuing at a high level and foreign imports the lowest for years, the largest clip the United States ever produced does not appear equal to the present needs of the country, the National feels. This country now is consuming wool for clothing purposes at the rate of approximately 500,000,000 pounds a year, while domestic production of combing and clothing wool for 1931 is slightly over 400,000,000 pounds. Imports of foreign wool, so far this year, have been approximately 20,000,000 pounds below what they were for the same period in 1930.

It is generally acknowledged in the wool trade, the Cooperative observes, that before the end of the year the tariff will again be fully operative and domestic wool values will be approximately on a basis of importing parity. On a level of today's foreign market, this would mean 10 to 15 cents a clean pound more than domestic wools have been bringing recently. The firm selling policy of the Cooperative will be an important means of bringing up the market to this level.

The volume of wool consigned by growers throughout the United States to their cooperative continues to mount, indications still pointing toward a 1931 volume lar-

5 Held In Theft Of Well Casing

Two Truck Loads Pipe Alleged Stolen On Schneemann Ranch

Four men are in Crockett County jail, one is out on bond and a sixth is being sought by local officers in connection with the theft of two truck loads of oil well casing from a location on the Max Schneemann ranch in Crockett County last week.

Four of the men were brought back to Ozona from El Paso Tuesday by Sheriff W. S. Willis and lodged in the county jail. The quartet had been arrested by El Paso officers on advices from the local sheriff. The fifth member of the group was arrested by officers in McCamey and returned here. The men are alleged to have offered the pipe for sale in El Paso.

J. G. Prichard and B. J. R. D. and Berrey Patton, three brothers were returned here from El Paso by Sheriff Willis and George Hurst, customs officer. Fred Watson was arrested in McCamey and brought here.

Watson is said by officers to have made a full confession of his part in the alleged theft. He told officers, according to the sheriff, that he was employed by the other men to load the pipe or in this county and haul it to El Paso, stating that his salary for the trip was to be $10. He waived examining trial before Justice of the peace E. B. Baggett, Jr., and was released on bond. The other four men were still in jail Wednesday. The sixth man, whose name was not revealed by officers is still being sought.

The well casing, described as seven joints of 12 1/2 inch and 13 joints of 8 1/2 inch, and valued at $750, belonged to William Wolf of McCamey, according to papers in the case. The men under arrest are being held to await action of the grand jury.

Local Concern Sells Fifteen Carloads Of Materials For Roads

Fifteen carloads of materials for use in construction of concrete bridges on the 15-mile stretch of highway east of Ozona to the Sutton County line have been sold to contractors by an Ozona concern.

This big order for materials was placed with the Ozona yard of the West Texas Lumber Company by the Southwest Construction Company of Del Rio, according to Jake Segraves, local manager for the lumber company. Delivery is now being made on the big order.

Four solid carloads of lumber and eleven carloads of cement were included in the order. The transaction calls for approximately 100,000 feet of lumber and 9,000 sacks or approximately 225,000 pounds of cement.

The Southwest Construction Company secured the sub-contract for construction of bridges and drainage structures on the Old Spanish Trail highway east of Ozona. Contract for grading and drainage of the east end of the highway was awarded by the state highway commission to L. J. Miles of Fort Worth at a total of $84,799.

JONES IS GRANDPA

A. W. Jones, proprietor of the Jones Saddletry Company here, is a proud granddad. Sunday, August 9, a fine boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert F. Noakes of Corpus Christi. The newcomer weighed in at 8 1/2 pounds and has been named Gilbert F. Noakes, Jr. Mrs. Noakes was formerly Miss Leila Beth Jones of Ozona. Both mother and baby are doing fine. Mr. Jones reported on his return here the first of the week.

Democratic Head Back

John J. Raskob, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, has just returned from a trip to Europe, ready for work.

Minister's Duties Outlined In Talk

Rev. Fulmer Tells Why Preacher Can't Fish Six Days Week

Answer to the old question of why a minister can't preach on Sunday and fish the other six days was given by Rev. M. M. Fulmer, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, in a talk on the duties of a minister of the gospel before the Lions Club at its luncheon Monday.

Rev. Fulmer's talk was the second in a series of addresses by business and professional men on phases of their work little understood by the public at large.

The minister traced the training that an educated minister receives, pointing out, however, that college training is not essential for the ministry of the Baptist Church. The complete training for the ministry includes high school, college and seminary training, he explained, the seminary course being the professional or technical training in preparation for the ministry.

The duties and trials of a minister were other phases of the subject treated by the speaker. Three sermons a week, sick calls, Bible educational work, adjusting difficulties between persons within and without his own congregation, following up evangelistic work with personal visits, and dozens of other duties the minister is called upon to perform will at least cut short if not entirely use up all his fishing time the "other six days," and possibly more too, Rev. Fulmer declared.

Misunderstandings of motives, gossip, disagreements among members of his congregation, book agents and peddlers of all kinds who seek his money or his recommendation and other annoyances were enumerated among the minister's trials. At the end of the talk Rev. Fulmer had just about convinced his audience of the truth of the quotation:

"A minister makes more calls than a doctor, travels more miles than a mail carrier, makes more speeches than a lawyer and because he has nothing to do is placed on every committee."

Puckett Fails To Identify Man Held In Jail At Mason

W. A. Puckett made a trip to Mason Tuesday to see a suspect held in jail there to determine whether or not he was the man who robbed Dwaine Puckett, son of the Ozona man, of his money, car and trousers near Uvalde recently.

The suspect, however, was not the man wanted in connection with the Puckett robbery. Mr. Puckett said on his return here. Dwaine Puckett's name has been forged to a number of checks recently, presumably by the man who held him up at the point of a gun and took his car and money. The last check was passed in San Angelo. Officers, however, have been unable to take the man into custody nor to recover the car. A reward of $50 has been offered by W. A. Puckett for arrest and conviction of the thief and return of the car.

Latin-American League Formed

40 Members Enrolled In Local Council Of Organization

Council No. 28 of the United Latin American citizens was formally installed here Sunday afternoon under the direction of the President M. C. Gonzales of San Antonio. The league is civic and patriotic in its nature and is actively working to foster the economic, moral and intellectual evolution of the Latin-American race whose citizenship is exclusively American.

The San Antonio delegation consisted of two attorneys, Adolf Garza and M. C. Gonzales, who is the president general and also the official attorney for the Mexican government. Tom A. Garza, president of the San Antonio league, made an eloquent speech and explained clearly the obligations and duties of citizens of this country, pointing out that once they had complied with and discharged their duties as such, they had the unquestioned right to demand equal protection and enjoyment of those privileges and rights which their fellow Americans of the Anglo-Saxon and other racial extraction are now enjoying.

The American flag presented to the league by a high representative of the Congress of the United States was displayed at the meeting hall and each of the 40 members, in the presence of a large audience, swore allegiance to the Stars and Stripes and this was followed by singing "America".

The installing officials, who were assisted by Emilio Naranjo, also a "Lulac" member, attended a very impressive ceremony at San Angelo, Saturday, where Council No. 27 was installed according to ritual, bespeaking the lofty ideals and exalted principles of this organization.

The activities of this association are very intense, throughout the state. As an illustration of the rapidity with which the Latin-Americans are organizing themselves into a strong nucleus, the installation ceremonies at Ozona began at 4:00 o'clock and the installation of a council at Sonora with an equal number of members began at 8:00 of the same day. The councils of this wool mohair, and cattle district will take immediate steps to organize other councils, under authority of the Supreme Council, at Eldorado, Big Spring, Ballinger, Abilene, El Paso, Sweetwater and others.

This will place a council of this organization in almost every important center of operation in the state of Texas.

Ozosa Mallet Squad Blanked By Angelo In 3-Game Series

Ozosa's croquet champions went too far afield Tuesday night when they engaged a crack squad from San Angelo courts, the result being a complete blank for the locals in a three-game match. The match was played on the splendid court of the Barnhart Croquet Club at Barnhart and was witnessed by a good sized crowd of Barnhart, San Angelo and Ozona folk.

Members of the local crew included J. H. McClure, Preston Williams, George Whitehead, J. T. Keeton and W. A. Carter. Ladies of the Barnhart church served ice cream on the grounds during the evening to raise funds for church purposes.

5-ACRE SITE FOR DISPOSAL PLANT BOUGHT

Company's Answer Expected By End Of This Week

EMPLOY ENGINEER

J. S. Barlow To Act As County's Agent In Installation

Leaders of the movement to secure a modern sewer system for Ozona felt reasonable assured that their efforts would be crowned with success as a result of the successful whirlwind campaign carried out last week to secure the signatures of property owners agreeing to tie on to the company mains if the system is installed.

A total of 108 names had been signed to the agreement blanks by last Friday night and the list was recorded in the minutes of the Commissioners Court. Members of the court and a committee appointed by the Ozona Lions Club were co-operating in signing up the prospective sewer users and the minimum of 75 names, set at the outset of the campaign, was topped by 33 additional signatures.

J. S. Barlow, independent engineer who drew the designs for a complete system here, left early Saturday for Dallas armed with the list of signers of the agreement blanks. There he will place the proposition before the Southwest Sewer Company, holders of a charter for a sewer system here. This company had a representative here two years ago and efforts were made at that time to sign up a sufficient number of prospective users to justify installation of the system. The plan failed at that time, but through efforts of the Commissioners Court and the Lions Club was recently revived and the sign-up campaign carried to a successful conclusion.

From 100 to 200 other signatures could have been secured for the original list had the committee been able to see every property owner in the city in the time allotted, it was believed. Since the list has been closed a number of property owners, who were out of the city last week, have indicated their willingness to get on the list, heads of the committee declare.

In addition to the list of actual signers, Mr. Barlow is also armed with a list of prospective users and the assurance of leading citizens that a large part of this list would be willing to tie on to the sewer mains.

As still another inducement to the sewer company to install the system here, the Commissioners Court last week completed the purchase of a 5-acre tract of land near Ozona to be used as a disposal plant site. This property, located southwest of the city beyond the point, was purchased from T. W. Patrick for a consideration of $525. Right-of-way for the main leading to the disposal plant was also secured in this deal.

This tract of land will be donated to the sewer company, according to present plans of the Commissioners Court, for a site for a disposal plant.

Although installation of the system will not be definitely assured until company officials have received the local proposition, leaders of the movement feel reasonably certain that the company will be willing to install the system here on the basis of the list of users signed up by com-

THE GREATEST MAN OF HIS TIME

Sixty years ago a young telegraph operator named Thomas A. Edison invented a method of sending messages in both directions at once on a telegraph wire.

He began experimenting with other electrical inventions, and before the Centennial of 1876 his name was a household word all over the world.

It is not too much to say of Edison that his inventions have revolutionized the world. They have changed our manner of living, our habits of thought, our whole scheme of things within one man's lifetime.

WAGES AND DIVIDENDS

It is a most significant sign of the times that the directors of the United States Steel Corporation, confronted with diminishing profits, elected to make their stockholders instead of their employees stand part of the loss.

There have been a few instances of important industries restoring to the old-fashioned method of reducing expenses by reducing wages.

We do not know how much Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., actually has to do with the management of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, but we hope that he will use his influence to restore the wages paid by that company

SCANDALS

R. J. Cooke says as a grandpa, A. W. Jones is just common potatoes. Getting a grandson is no mean accomplishment, it is to be admitted, but a grandson and a granddaughter at one and the same time—that is sompn, says Grandpa Cooke.

J. R. Kersey, the discontented postmaster, is reported to have been discovered with a pink powder puff in his pocket upon returning from San Angelo with Hubert Moore.

And there's the story of the Scotchman, the Irishman and the Englishman drinking beer. A fly fell in the glass of each. The Irishman blew his off, the Englishman flicked his off but the Scotchman wrung his out.

Credit that one to "Sandy" McIntire, alias "Doc", whom anybody would know to be an Irishman from his name.

Jake Young measured that "big fish" he caught by the ancient formula, which is, to measure the distance from the tip of the tail to the nose and multiply the result by two—or three or four, depending on the credulity of the audience.

The results were calculated to be much less serious, he says.

The following telephone conversation was recently reported to town by U. C. A.

Mr. Cityman Comes to Fairyland

By Albert T. Reid

When you hear a man say that poverty is a great thing for the character, the chances are you are listening to a millionaire.

SHEEP

Folks are so much like sheep in following the one that takes the lead of the flock. Nothing more evidences this than the public bidding for the services of Bill Murray, governor of Oklahoma.

He has crowded onto the front page of the newspapers with a few daring acts in the last few weeks that meet with public accord. He hasn't achieved one dollar oil, he hasn't begun to reap the new problems that come from unemployment that may result, he hasn't solved the high cost of living by putting the state in competition with any industry and Oklahoma under his regime is not the Utopia that some citizens of Texas, Louisiana or New Mexico are seeking. Murray is getting a lot of publicity, and those who bid for his services may get a few lines of the same thing—nothing more.

Bidding for his services is nothing but an impulse, possibly a frenzied one. Sometimes the citizens may reach the stage of desperation and be willing to try anything as a cure for their ailments. Possibly that explains the acclaim given Murray for the moment.—S. A. Standard.

THE SUN SETS ON THE 101 SHOW

Something of the Old West itself died the other day when the 101 Ranch Wild West Show was left high and dry on the financial rocks back in Washington.

The 101 Ranch show was a sort of an official voice of the past, because it was authentic. Its cowboys were real, its Indians were chiefs and warriors, and its horses were the finest. Its herd of buffalo gave it the finishing touch.

Thousands of people still think of Buffalo Bill and his flowing white hair when they think of the 101 Ranch show. Buffalo Bill rode a horse and shot glass balls tossed into the air nearly two decades ago when he and the 101 Ranch show went together.

When these same people passed through Oklahoma, the 101 Ranch was the one thing they wanted to see if their trip took them anywhere near the famous institution. The show had made the ranch famous, and the ranch made the show famous.

Pawnee Bill, in commenting on the stranded show last week, recalled when the Miller Brothers "thought nothing of raising 12,000 to 20,000 head of cattle each year." While they were doing that there would be a corn crop of 200,000 bushels of wheat, 125,000 bushels of oats and 60,000 bushels of apples.

It was no wonder that such a ranch produced a show that was famous all over the world. And wherever the show went, people knew that it came from Oklahoma and that back in Oklahoma there were some he-men who did things in a big way.

It is fitting, perhaps, that when the 101 show had to pass, that it faded from the picture at a time when the crude oil was worth 15 cents a barrel and wheat 35 cents a bushel.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY THE AUTHOR

BY THE HUSTON

They resume the trip the next day and are overwhelmed by a cloudburst in an arroyo and are thrown out of the car. A party of tourist campers gives them dry clothes and food.

Spokane is finally reached and the hotel clerk smiles when they register.

He retired to an inner office and came back immediately with the manager of the house. The manager beamed upon them. He held out his hand, held out both hands, and his smile set his rosy face aglow. Rowena and Peter had their own opinions of hotel managers and accepted his friendly overtures with watchful coldness.

"Meeker's my name," said the manager genially. "And I'm proud to meet you."

They all shook hands, and Rowena nudged Peter to be very careful and not commit himself. "Come right along with me," said Mr. Meeker. "We had a wire from the company not two hours ago saying you would be in today without fail. But I must say it is a relief to have you right here on the spot."

They all got into the elevator. The boy at the control smiled at them—a friendly smile. They got out on the fourth floor. A couple of maids were loitering in the corridor. Their faces lighted up with interest and attention.

"Everybody ready?" asked the manager anxiously. "Everything all right, I hope."

"Oh, yes, sir," said one of the maids.

"Yes, indeed sir," added the other.

But they looked at Rowena and Peter.

The manager led the way down the corridor.

"Here you are folks," he announced in a voice of happy triumph as he threw open the door. "Our bridal suite!"

"Oh, look, Rowena! Isn't that nice?" said Peter fatuously.

"How lovely!" said Rowena faintly.

The bridal suite was a bower of roses. There was a heap of congratulatory letters and telegrams piled high on the table and several conspicuous packages, wrapped in tissue and tied with ribbons, with gift cards prominently displayed.

"Congratulations, folks," said the manager, beaming rosy from one to the other. "Best wishes of Spokane, Washington. Not bad, eh? Pretty fair!—Well, the Company wired us to spare no expense and send them the bill, and I guess we filled the order. We tried to, anyhow. Cigars, cigarettes, candy—and what-not. And"—this was a truly impressive double-jointed bow which included them both—"a little souvenir from the hotel, at our own expense, for we are honored to have you stop with us."

The little present, which he selected from the group on the table and handed to Rowena, who opened it with trembling fingers and an air of owlish gravity, proved to be an immense silver cocktail shaker, suitably engraved.

"Out here we're dry," said Mr. Meeker, with a sly wink. "But oh, you New Yorkers!—Compliments of the hotel, and congratulations," he added happily.

He and Peter shook hands, Peter very solemn, Mr. Meeker perspiring and jovial.

"Guess there's no harm in kissing the bride, eh?" said the manager, with a playful dig of a sharp elbow into Peter's ribs. "It's a custom I don't think much of, as a usual thing, but brides don't often come as pretty as this one."

Rowena obligingly lifted her lovely lips, and Mr. Meeker kissed her with resounding relief.

"Now, I'll tell you what the program is," he said cheerfully. "The local Rackruff dealer is going to give a big dinner dance in our ballroom tonight—especially in your honor—well affair. They've invited all the Rackruff dealers and salesmen in the state, and they say a couple flew in from Oregon this morning on purpose to attend. It's to be a formal, full-dress affair, with souvenirs for the ladies and what-not. And this afternoon at four o'clock they're giving an open reception to the city in their public sales-rooms, with afternoon tea and a band, and they've got a car all decorated up like a wedding for you two to sit in and receive the guests. And they're going to present the bride with orange blossoms sent up by aeroplane from California this morning, and a cigarette lighter for you, Mr. Blande, with a picture of the Rackruff roadster set on it in pearls. I've seen it myself and it's a beauty, but it wasn't working the day it came and they had to send it back to the factory."

"How extremely kind," said Peter.

"How perfectly sweet," said Rowena.

"Of course, you both being famous characters, authors and artists, all of our best people will turn out for it, and I understand most of our good clubs plan to be there en masse. The Rackruff dealers are all in a sweat over it and say it's the best break they've had since the war when the Army used a lot of their machines in France. They're coming for you at three-thirty. Look. This little floral offering here came from them. Pretty nice, eh? We're going to borrow it tonight if you don't mind, to put down behind the orchestra in the ballroom. Pretty nifty!"

The little floral offering was an immense ring of yellow roses, with the words "Peter and Rowena" spelled out on the inner side in scarlet rosebuds.

"How marvelous," said Rowena soberly.

"How unusual!" added Peter.

"And now I'm going to leave you folks to rest and clean up for the big doings," said Mr. Meeker. "If there's anything you want, you just ask for it. If we haven't got it, we'll get it. And it won't cost you a cent. Well, guess I'll just kiss the bride and be on my way."

"You did kiss the bride," Peter reminded him.

"Well, I'm partial to brides and I give good measure. It's a rule of the house," he said jovially.

And once more Rowena tilted her owlish solemn face to be kissed.

When he had gone, and the door was closed and locked behind him Peter looked at Rowena. Rowena looked at Peter. Both gazed in solemn stupefaction around the flowerladen room.

"Of all the damn impositions"—he began.

But to his surprise, a sudden ripple of smiles drove the owlish gravity from Rowena's face. Laughter gurgled in her throat and burst from her lips in delighted peals.

"Peter, Peter!" she cried. "Isn't it priceless? Isn't it perfect? Darling, though I die tomorrow, I can say I had my moment!—Peter look at the wedding-ring in yellow roses!—Peter and Rowena. Look at the little Cupids kissing on the candy box!—Oh, here are sarcastic telegrams from all my ex-boy friends. And Buddy, too," she added unasily. "I suppose I should have warned him. How do you suppose they all found out?"

"Oh, I suppose those idiots put it in the papers," growled Peter.

"Naturally they would try to sell cars at the expense of our feelings. We might have known they'd commercialize us to the last ditch."

"Oh, Peter, isn't it the corking-est day of your life? When Mr. Meeker, God rest his soul, stood here pointing things out, I kept telling myself, 'Don't die, don't you dare die of ecstasy until you see this thing through!'"

"You're an odd sort," said Peter moodily. "I thought you would be wild."

"Wild? Certainly not! Except with sheer delight. Why, Peter, this is just an accident. Accidents never make me mad. Oh, look, here's a present from Racky and Ruffy—a great big one. Cut the string, Peter—break it—I can't wait!"

Peter broke the string. The present from Messrs. Rack and Ruff, and doubtless charged against dividends, was a complete service of solid silver for the well-laid table. Rowena was a little awed at its completeness and its obvious expensiveness.

"Gosh, Peter, whatever will we do with it?"

"Give it back, he said stiffly.

"Can't. It isn't good form. Even in a divorce it's bad manners to return your wedding presents. I tell you! We'll divide it. After all, real silver always comes in handy and we can make good use of it. We deserve some compensation for all the agony we've gone through, though as far as I am concerned, this hour has compensated for everything a hundred times over."

"You can have the silver," said Peter. "I don't want it."

But Rowena would not under any circumstances accept more than her proper half. She immediately set about dividing it, piece by piece, one for her and one for Peter.

"I suppose we could sell it for old silver," he said.

"Oh, you'll put it to good use some day," said Rowena. "When you are rich and famous and have a studio apartment of your own—first thing you know you'll be giving those fast supper parties that artists are noted for—one for you, and one for me—"

"Why not keep it together in the box until the trip is over?" he asked. "We won't be giving any fast suppers on the trip, at any rate." "You can have the box," she said. "I'd rather divide it if you don't mind. Then each of us will be responsible for his own share and if it is lost or stolen neither of us can blame the other.—One for you and one for me."

As a matter of fact, Rowena was planning to pawn her share of it right there in Spokane. She had no more than glanced inside the fat letter from Buddy, but that glance had sufficed to tell her that she needed money. She hoped to get enough for her share of the silver to take care of the distant demands and buy herself a new suit as well. She was really getting shabby. Daily motoring was hard on clothes. And how she yearned for the flattering silver fox packed away in moth-balls way back on Third Avenue!

"This really puts us in a frightful jam," said Peter. "I suppose we can bluff through the reception and ball all right—we've had plenty of experience. But I don't see how we can dodge the bridal suite. And won't it jeopardize the annulment? Of course, I can lock myself into the sitting-room—but would anybody believe it?"

"Nobody in the world," said Rowena cheerfully. "Well, after the ball is over, you'll have to go out alone for a little walk and get lost. Then you go to some other hotel and register—don't forget to have witnesses! and stay there all night. You can meet me here again tomorrow morning. And be sure to get a receipt for your room

"Oh, Peter, don't you just adore those kissing Cupids? Have a kiss—I mean a candy."

I think I'd rather have the kiss," said Peter boldly. "After all, a groom should be allowed to rush in where a hotel manager dared to tread."

"I'm very particular," said Rowena firmly. "And I'm developing a vast partiality for hotel managers."

His mind relieved as to how Rowena was going to take it, Peter saw some humor in the situation and they made great sport of their predicament. They laughed over the flowery telegraphic congratulations and dispatched flippant answers collect. They called the Rackruff salesrooms by long distance telephone to thank them for the lovely thought and Mr. Rack was so pleased that he had the charges for the call reversed. They tossed a coin for the cocktail shaker, which Peter won, considerably to Rowena's regret, for she was sure she could have raised enough on it make sure of the new suit which she needed for the reception that afternoon.

"Fore!" yelled the golfer, ready to play. But the woman on the course paid no attention.

"Fore!" he shouted again, with no effect.

"I WAS WRONG"

Like many other business men, I subscribed to a confidential bulletin issued by a private news agency in Washington.

It contains interesting comment on affairs both here and abroad, gathered from official sources and from important visitors to the Capital. No one is quoted by name and hence the writers of the bulletin can exercise considerable freedom. Sometimes their information is useful.

In a recent number they answered certain questions as to how they get their news. I quote the following paragraph:

"For example, take the Washington predictions as to when business will recover. There have been two kinds. First, the formal, publishable statement of officials, which the newspapers have carried. Second, the unofficial, private, more sincere views which the Washington correspondents have known but were under obligations not to print. We have sent you the latter. Our advice has been less wrong than most, but not particularly good at that, and this is one example of why you should not trust our letters 100%.

That made a great hit with me. If the writers had said: "We misled you a little about the time of the business recovery, but we were not responsible. The officials deceived us;" or, "While we were wrong on the business recovery, still our competitors were much worse"—if they had written any sort of alibi at all, every word of it would have lessened my confidence.

But when they come out frankly and say: "We were wrong, and you should never depend on us one hundred per cent," then I begin to think they must be pretty smart men.

I have never forgotten an experience with one of my first employers, a man who is now at the very top of his profession.

In those days I was getting $40 a week, and he was earning $40,000 a year. He lived in a fine apartment on Park Avenue, and I lived in one room in the Y. M. C. A.

One morning early I was called out of bed to answer the telephone. It was my employer. He said:

"After you left the office last night I hunted up some additional information on the subject we had been discussing. I tried to reach you during the evening, but you were out. I am calling you now to let you know that you were right, and I was wrong."

You can imagine what that did to me! I would have jumped off the roof for that boss, and I never meet him even now without an impulse to raise my hat.

Little fellows feel that they must be infallible in order to maintain the world's respect. It is a badge of bigness to be able to say frankly, "I was wrong."

E. D. Cook underwent a serious operation in a Del Rio hospital recently. He is reported considerably improved this week and is expected to be able to return to his home here in the next few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Murchison have returned to their home in Fort Stockton after a visit here with Mrs. Murchison's mother, Mrs. Mary Perner, and other relatives.

Sheriff W. S. Willis left this week for Novice to bring back Mrs. Willis and children who have been visiting relatives there.

Miss Imogene Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker, underwent an operation for removal of her tonsils here Wednesday morning. She was reported doing well this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Montgomery were here from Sanderson last week-end visiting relatives and friends.

POTATO SALAD TEMPTS ON HOT SUMMER DAYS

A plain cold-boiled potato is certainly a most unappetizing bit of food. One would have to be very hungry indeed to want to eat it "as is" but from cold boiled potatoes one may make delicious potato salad that is an agreeable substitute for any hot potato dish during the warmer months.

So-called American potato salad is made by cutting cold potatoes into dice, seasoning with a little chopped onion and parsley and mixing with mayonnaise dressing. Some cooks add a little whipped cream to the mayonnaise to make a lighter salad.

Vinnesse Potato Salad

This calls for two cups sliced cooked potatoes, one small onion minced, one pickled beet minced, one cucumber, sliced, one herring, four sardines, one tablespoon minced boiled ham, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon black pepper, and one-half cup of vinegar.

Pick over and break into pieces the herring and sardines, mix all together and pour over one-half cup of vinegar, and garnish with sweet pickles.

German Potato Salad

Though the potatoes are served cold the salad is mixed when the potatoes are still hot. Select six medium sized potatoes. You will also need one-quarter pound bacon, one small onion, 1/4 cup hot vinegar, one-half cup hot water, two tablespoons salad oil and salt and pepper to taste. Boil the potatoes and peel and slice while warm. Cover at once with dressing made as follows:

Cut the bacon into small dice, put in frying pan over a slow fire. Shred the onion into a large bowl, add salt, hot vinegar and hot water. When the fat is light brown and the dice are well crisped, add the salad oil and pour it into the vinegar water and onion mixture—turning it slowly at first lest it splatter. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves, garnish with pickled beets. Serve at once or well chilled.

Potato and Tomato Salad

Pass the yolks of three hard boiled eggs through a sieve into a bowl. Season with celery salt, pepper, a dust of curry powder and a little sugar. Add two table-spoonfuls of oil, working it into the yolks of the eggs by degrees with a wooden spoon. As soon as a perfectly smooth paste is formed pour in a dessertspoonful of vinegar. When the ingredients are thoroughly mixed add very gradually three table-spoons of thick cream and sufficient chopped parsley to give the dressing a speckled appearance. Remove the skin from some potatoes which have been boiled and allowed to get cold. Then cut them into moderately thick slices. Cut up some peeled tomatoes in a similar manner. Dress the potatoes with the egg mixture and arrange them neatly in a salad bowl. Place the slices of tomato among them and, if desired, garnish the salad here and there with pieces of fresh watercress. This is better if kept in the ice box a number of hours before serving.

Miss Lillian Shick returned last week to her home in Big Spring after a visit here with Miss Edith Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Rape and family have taken up residence in the Arthur Phillips house in the south part of town.

CONSIDER YOUR HEALTH

Do you KNOW that the milk you drink is clean and pure, or are you just taking a chance? Do you know that it is milked in a clean, modern, protected dairy barn where there is practically no chance for contamination from dust blown in by the wind, from flies and insects, etc?

If you knew that the milk you drink was milked in an open lot, where germs floating on dust particles, barnyard manure, on the legs of insects and flies had free access to it, would you feel safe? Isn't your life and the lives of other members of your family worth more to you than that? Isn't that too great a chance to take with such a precious thing as health—and life?

If your milk supply comes from a "back-yard dairy" you owe it to yourself and to your family to find out under what conditions that milk is handled. If it is milked in the open and exposed to contamination, you are risking too much to continue using it.

We would welcome an inspection of our dairy herd, our barns and pens, our utensils and bottling process at any time of the day or night and by anybody. We have been highly complimented by health authorities and we want our customers to KNOW that they are getting PURE MILK from

SUMMER FIRST AID

The day's outing for Mamma and the kiddies . . . Over on the creek four miles west. Shade and grass; trees and flowers; and—emergencies Red Cross Day too—for Mamma. She should be prepared, wisely.

For there's Bob, he just will drive and he's on the sunny side of the Ford; gets sunburn on the left ear, till it looks like a wheat cake right off the griddle.

Then Junior, always an explorer, picks up a locust thorn in his most prominent muscle—it penetrates half an inch.

And Clarice, fond of butterflies gets stung on the upper lip by a new species that she finds buzzing over the horsemint bloom.

Little Mary insists on carrying the lunch basket many times too heavy for her—trips over a bump—takes off a section of epidermis from one fat knee.

Tom, the profound, none too energetic and peppy—picks up at least a pint of chiggers—and they ALL depend on MAMMA for first aid. All run to Mamma when in distress.

On that day's outing take along a kit containing, (1) scissors; (2) a roll of clean adhesive plaster; (3) a bottle of mercurochrome; (4) clean muslin or gauze for bandages; (5) a splinter forcep; (6) a bottle of carbolated vaseline a can of antiseptic dusting powder. Don't rely on liquid vegetable antiseptics,—most of them are powerless for killing germs. If a cut finger, let it bleed awhile then pour mercurochrome into the cut and around it. Dry quickly and apply adhesive plaster to close wound. Treat "skinned" abrasions much the same, except carbolated vaseline on gauze next the wound.

For the thorn in Junior's flesh—pull it out with splinter forcep; soak the puncture with mercurochrome; cover with adhesive. Treat the chiggers and sunburn at home. Carbolic soap and cold cream applied freely. Watch this column for next.

EDISON

The last time I talked with Mr. Edison I asked him how long he was going to keep on working.

"I'm never going to stop," he said, "unless my stomach goes back on me. There's where most men give out first, in their digestion."

"There's only one rule for keeping young," he went on. "That is to watch your digestion and never stop working. That's the important thing—never stop working. Keep your mind active. The brain is more durable than any other part of the body."

Mr. Edison was 81 when he said that, and was launching into a new line of research with the enthusiasm of a boy. He was as interested in everything new as he was when he was twenty.

GANGSTERS

As long as the gangsters in the big cities confined their activities to shooting each other up there was very little public protest. But when five children were shot one fatally, in a New York gang battle, the authorities began to get active. It is my guess that the clean-up movement in New York at least has actually started, and that there will be less sympathy for murderers in the future.

In the long run, law and order are always triumphant. If that were not so the world would be in a state of anarchy to-day. There would be no organized crime if all of the organized forces which are supposed to prevent and punish crime were faithful to their appointed tasks.

APPENZELL

Newton Baker drove thousands of people to their encyclopedias the other day when, in the course of his speech at the Institute of Politics, he said that "of course, Appenzell is the only pure democracy." Not one out of ten thousand of those who heard or read Baker's speech had ever heard of Appenzell. It is one of the little independent states which form a part of the Swiss Federation. It is one in the northeast of Switzerland, and has about 70,000 population. The only government it has is a sort of magnified town meeting at which everybody votes.

The oldest of all republics is San Marino, in the Italian Alps, which has existed unchanged since 400 A.D. and is still governed by the old Roman laws and customs. But San Marino is not a pure democracy in the sense that Appenzell is, and neither is Andorra, that tiny European republic which is entirely surrounded by Spain but which is under the protection of the French government and a Spanish bishop.

RUSSIA

George Bernard Shaw came back from Russia enthusiastic over what he had been permitted to see. Lady Astor, who accompanied him, was equally enthusiastic. They saw, as all visitors to Russia see, what the authorities permitted them to see.

If one thing can be more certain than anything else, it is that the truth about Russia and the condition of the people does not get out of Russia. Neither does the truth about the rest of the world get into Russia. All Russian newspapers are controlled and practically edited by the Soviet government. News from America that is permitted to be printed presents this country in the most unfavorable light and is intended to make Russian workers and peasants believe that they are the most fortunate people in the world. News coming out of Russia is controlled also by the government.

This results in making intelligent people in each country highly suspicious of the other. There is no chance for a friendly understanding between Russia and the rest of the world until freedom of speech and of the press are established in Russia.

FASHIONS

Paris dressmakers have decreed tight corsets, smaller waists and longer skirts for women. American women say they won't stand for it, but they will. Woman's greatest fear is that she will look different from other women.

That goes for men, too. Men's fashions don't change as often as women's, but they are just as foolish. Fashion says we must wear coats in the presence of ladies. No matter how hot the weather, a man without a coat is not admitted to the best restaurants, hotels and theaters. That is absurd, but it derives from an ancient custom, which originated in the effort to distinguish a gentleman from a working man. A servant could go coatless but the coatless gentleman might easily be mistaken for a servant. Nothing is truer than that clothes make the man. When King Christian of Denmark was found dead in the street in Copenhagen, a few years ago nobody recognized him because he was wearing ordinary clothes instead of royal regalia.

In a genuine democracy everybody would dress as he pleased, but everybody would choose to dress just like everybody else. The only place today where democracy prevails is in fashionable restaurants where it is impossible to distinguish a customer from a waiter.

"COBWEBS"

While Mark Twain was editor of a Missouri paper, a subscriber wrote him saying he had found a spider in his paper and asking Mark whether this was a sign of good or bad luck. The following was the reply of the well-known humorist:

"Old Subscriber: Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

Roping Goats, Calves Legal If They're Not Thrown Or Dragged

Roping of calves and goats, for exhibition purposes, which has for many years been a violation of the law, will be legalized in Texas on August 23 when an amendment to the existing statute passed by the last legislature, becomes effective.

The new statute makes roping of calves and goats legal, "provided the calf or goat is not thrown or dragged and provided there is no betting or wagering" on the feat.

Article 614, making roping of livestock for exhibition purposes an offense punishable by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500, was amended by the last legislature, the law going into effect 90 days after adjournment on May 23.

Roping of calves and goats is one of the feature events of many rodeos in West Texas, including the Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show. Ropers declare that it is impossible all of the time to rope animals without throwing or dragging them to some extent. And as for the "provided" relating to betting or wagering, peace officers will have to have eyes in the back of their heads to watch the watchers and the ropers at the same time. But it is possible that some roper will come from behind the chute and lasso a goat or a calf and stay within the law—but it is also doubtful.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boggess and their young son, Albert, Jr., are here from Dallas to spend the week with Mrs. Boggess' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Montgomery.

West Texas Notes

Home Demonstration Clubs of Childress County, Texas, are canning wheat for use as food in place of macaroni, rice and other cereals. After being allowed to soak in water over night it is salted and canned.

West Texas farmers in the wheat areas are fattening thousands of head of cattle with ground wheat which is the cheapest possible feed under present prices.

A $750,000 federal building and postoffice is to be erected in Wichita Falls, Texas, construction starting September 1st.

Contract for the construction of a federal building at Fort Worth costing $1,017,000 has been awarded.

The College of Industrial Arts, Denton, boasts a library of 42,000 volumes and added four hundred the past year.

Weatherford, Texas, claims that fifty per cent of all the pecans in America are produced within a radius of one hundred miles of that city.

With the completion of paving on State Highway 30 in Haskell County early this fall, the entire highway from the Red River bridge entering Texas near Burkburnett, south to San Angelo, Texas, passing through Wichita Falls, Seymour, Stamford, Abilene and other West Texas cities will be permanently paved.

A federal building and postoffice costing $130,000 is to be built at Sweetwater on a site purchased seventeen years ago for that purpose.

Sweetwater is one of the smallest cities in West Texas that boasts the dial and toll terminal equipment in their telephone system. An $8,000.00 telephone building has just been completed at Sweetwater.

Big Spring, Texas, is to have a

POT BREWING

The odor of political cooking, local and national, is in the air. Reformers, radicals, idealists, their nostrils quivering are holding love feasts in Washington, and making out neat and extensive law making programs so that their representatives and highly paid lobbyists will have something to bring before the Seventy-Second Congress. Wild-eyed and wild-haired, they eagerly pounce upon every little law idea that might add weight and size to our statute books.

This is a period of overproduction. We have more oil, more cotton, more wheat, more of this and that than we know what to do with. Above all, we have too many laws. Our American government was intended primarily for law enforcement and protection of life and property, but it has been invading of late the rights of individuals.

We are law ridden. Some half million laws are now on the statute books and 24,000 more bills were presented to the last Congress. The members of the Seventy-First Congress, happily went home before they had time to pass more than 7 per cent of these. Their good work by not working was ruined, however, when they appropriated over five billion dollars, a peace time record for government uses.

Just as the town merchant who has overstocked clears his shelves of the dusty, unwanted goods, so should Uncle Sam get rid of some of our archaic, unwanted laws that clutter the government shelves.—S. A. Times.

MAIN STREET Looks at BROADWAY

BY THE OBSERVER

A Warrior "Boiled"

One recent hot day on Broadway a knight in full chain-mail armor with a steel helmet stood on the corner, right in the hot sun. His "pennant" told where one could get a fine manicure. Just another sandwich man.

I went up to him and asked him "Why, you poor simp, don't you go over and stand in the shade?"

The sweat poured down his face, inside of his visor. It must have been worse than a Turkish bath or painting the roof of a shed in July down in Florida!

"Say," he rejoined, "what do you think I am? I'd do it in a minute but I'm under orders to stand where the sun shines on my helmet!" and that was that.

No Billboards

New York City is the center, along with Chicago, of the billboard industry. Some $14,000,000 a year comes here from the renters of country-side displays. But do they take their own medicine? They do not.

Walking in Central Park, right in the heart of the big town, one can see miles of skyscrapers that border the park. As far as the eye can see, there is not a single line of print anywhere, barring one building which carries just the address—15 E. 69—or something like it.

They're just throwing away a million dollars a year by not carrying signs for somebody's soap, or toothpowder or something. Just imagine a notice over the Metropolitan Museum—"all statues inside cleaned by Purity Soap." No funnier than destroying the beauty of some sylvan scene.

Had a Real Bug

Insect exterminators ply their profitable trade in all big cities. How profitable it is was shown here the other day when a tenant who had telephoned for a man to chase a mouse away, fell into talk with the bug killer.

He gave his name as John L. Whitten, of 307 W. 11th, a fine neighborhood. Then he admitted he "batched" in the top floor there; that he owned the whole building; that his own two rooms were filled with costly antiques and that he owned a collection of Russian gold table services and Japanese cloisome ware that was too valuable to keep stored in a safety deposit vault.

Most of his valuables were picked up for a song as he haunted second-hand stores in his working clothes and the proprietors of the shop took him for a poor man.

Other Poor Men

There is another type of man who has been the subject of many an "O. Henry" story. The type is the waiter, many of whom build up fortunes from their tips. Of course the big money does not come that way but from confidential tips on the market they overhear while waiting on big financiers, or else which are given to them out of kindness by their customers.

The other day two stock exchange men were lunching to-

Junction Man Is Indicted On Charge Of Misappropriation

JUNCTION, Aug. 13. (AP)—John Munn, former city tax collector and assessor and a resident of this section for 20 years, was charged by the Kimble county grand jury, which adjourned here yesterday, with misappropriation of public funds in six counts. He was also charged with altering a public record and with theft of over $50.

gether when one suggested a trip to the racetrack. His friend asked him if he had any money in his pocket. "Why, no," said the first man. "I thought you had plenty."

Their regular waiter was nearby and he stepped up to the table. "If you'll excuse me," he said. "I couldn't help overhearing what you were talking about. If one or two hundred would do you any good. I'll be glad to let you have it." And then he dug up a roll and skinned off enough twenties so the two could have an afternoon's amusement.

About $2,000 is alleged to have been misappropriated. He was released on bond of $300 granted in each of the eight cases.

The grand jury returned 12 indictments in the two-day session. Eight were against Munn, two against Houston Ivy and Ed Walker of London on liquor counts and a rape charge against Tom Smith, 60, long-time resident of this county charged with attacking a young girl. A special venire has been called for August 18.

Charges of negligent homicide against three Colorado, Mitchell county, men drew no action and it was believed future grand juries would take none. Four Colorado men were camping near here a few weeks ago when one of them was drowned.

The men have been free on their own recognizance.

Learn what a difference six cylinders make

Step out of any other low-priced car into a Chevrolet, and learn the difference six cylinders make.

"Idle" the engine—and the whole car remains steady. Open the throttle—the power flows evenly. Accelerate—throttle down—go fifteen or fifty—and this smoothness stays with you whatever you do. It's actually built into the motor—and objectionable vibration never even starts!

Yet smoothness is only one of many six-cylinder advantages. There's greater quietness, because noisy vibration is gone. There's greater comfort, because built-in smoothness doesn't tire you out. There's greater flexibility, because the power-impulses of a six overlap. And a six is much easier to handle!

If you raise the hood of a Chevrolet and watch the engine running so smoothly, you'll realize that six cylinders also mean greater dependability.

And remember when you do—that no other car is so economical to operate as the Chevrolet Six.

and labor costs being lower at present than two years ago and the fact that more than twice as many names were secured on the agreement blanks this time than was sought by the company two years ago, it is believed that the company will not only be willing to install the system but that the city will be able to enjoy use of the system at a lower monthly rental than was originally proposed.

Mr. Barlow told members of the Commissioners Court that if the Southwest Sewer Company would not be willing to install the plant, that he would place the proposition before the other company and that he felt sure that some company would be willing to take over the project. ### FLYING FISH STORY LED TO MARINE QUIP

"Tell it to the Marines" is an older expression than the Marine Corps itself. In fact, it was the Royal Marines of Great Britain and not the United States who first had those words applied to them.

Samuel Pepys records that it was King Charles II of England who was the coiner of the saying that has clung so persistently to the sea soldiers.

It seems the king had been told by an old sea captain the story of the flying fish.

In great glee he repeated the story to Colonel Sir William Killigrew, who was in command of a marine regiment, and inquired: "What say you, Colonel, to a man who swears that he has seen fish flying in the air?"

"I should say, sire," returned the sea soldier simply, "that the man hath sailed in southern seas. For when your Majesty's business took me thither of late, I did frequently observe more flying fish in one hour than the hairs on my head number."

The king, with a laugh, turned to his secretary and said, "Mr. Pepys, from the very nature of their calling no class of our subjects can have so wide a knowledge of seas and lands as the officers and men of our royal maritime regiment. Henceforth whenever we cast doubt upon a tale that lacks likelihood, we tell it to the marines—if they believe it, it is safe to say it is true."—The Leatherneck.

Coaches Receiving Excellent Training At Lubbock School

The Texas Technological College is to be congratulated upon its service to athletics in West Texas by bringing to this section the greatest athletic coaching school ever held in the Southwest and the biggest in the entire United States this year, Ted White, Ozona High School athletic coach for the coming year, who is at Lubbock attending the Wade-Phelan Coaching School writes.

Through the initiative of the athletic coaches at the Tech, Pete Cawthorn, Dutchy Smith and Dell Morgan, two of the outstanding football coaches of the entire nation, Wallace Wade of Duke University, Durnham, N. C., and Jimmy Phelan of Washington University, Wash., have been brought to Lubbock to conduct the school.

Assisting the football men with the athletic program are Jimmy Kitts, Athens High School coach, and S. D. Burton, coach at the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon. These men are handling basketball work at the coaching school.

The school opened August 3 and will close August 15.

Enrollment the first week reached 312 with fourteen states represented. The bulk of the crowd naturally comes from Texas, however there are 18 Oklahoma coaches and 12 coaches from New Mexico registered and there are one or two from Arkansas, Washington Louisiana, Missouri, Arizona, N. Carolina, Arkansas, Illinois, Kansas, and Ohio.

The citizenship of Lubbock has been especially courteous to the coaches attending the school, Mr. White says. A number of entertaining features have been ex-
