U. OF T. LAND IN CROCKETT VALUED $1.25

County Values Will Be Hiked Half Million By New Levy

$10,000 REVENUE

Tax Board's Action To Make Collection Possible This Year

Crockett County valuations will be hiked nearly a half million dollars as a result of the action of the State tax board recently in rendering for county taxes the upwards of three million acres of University lands in 17 West Texas counties.

Action of the state tax board carried out the wishes of the people of the state expressed in the constitutional amendment approved at the last general election authorizing a tax for county purposes on University lands.

The University acreage in Crockett County was rendered at $1.25 an acre, the same figure at which privately owned land is rendered. The total of 355,352 acres of University lands in this county will increase local valuations by $444,190 at this figure, and will yield an additional revenue to the county of approximately $10,000.

The total valuation assessed against the lands in West Texas is $3,101,529. The lands aggregate 2,032,712 acres. Renditions ranged from 80 to 85 cents in Culberson and Hudspeth Counties to $5.25 in Martin County. Taxes will be collected on these lands this year for the first time.

The board pointed out the university's oil and gas royalty interests were not rendered because the courts had held they were not taxable. It was believed the counties might be able to collect a mineral interest tax from lessees.

The acreage in each county and its valuation follows: 298,272, $745,680; Crane 58,905, $58,905; Crockett 355,352, $444,190; Culberson 46,080, $36,864; Ector 6,138, $15,836; El Paso 15,040, $15,040; Hudspeth 453,120, $385,152; Irion 23,796, $59,490; Loving 23,472, $29,340; Martin 13,021, $68,360; Pecos 182,840, $252,780; Reagan 223,266, $334,899; Schleicher 59,950, $239,800; Terrell 61,440, $86,016; Upton 78,089, $156,178; Ward 80,144, $120,216; Winkler 52,727, $52,727.

Health Nurse To Examine Children

Miss Jean M. Campbell To Be Here Again On September 21

Miss Jean M. Campbell, R. N., public health nurse of the state health department, who conducted health examinations of school children here last year with the help of local doctors, will be in Ozona again on September 21. Mrs. Welton Bunker, president of the Parent-Teachers Association, announced this week.

Such splendid results were obtained from the examinations last year that the P. T. A. voted to ask for Miss Campbell's services again this year, Mrs. Bunker said, and she has just been informed by health department officials that the nurse will be available for the examinations in Ozona on that date.

Complete physical examinations were given each child and where remedial measures were found necessary the facts were placed before parents and efforts made to bring about corrective treatments. Officers and members of the P. T. A. were highly gratified with the results of this work last year and expect much good to result from the examinations this year.

Croquet Champs To Play Return Match With Angelo Team

Ozona croquet team, champions of this immediate area, will take on some big game next Tuesday night when they engage a crack team from San Angelo on neutral territory at Barnhart.

The game was matched by Floyd Cornelison, captain of the San Angelo squad. This will be a return engagement for the two teams, the San Angelo aggregation taking the locals to a thorough cleaning on the Barnhart court last year.

Local experts of the mallet who will represent Ozona on the courts include J. H. McClure, J. T. Keeton, W. A. Carter, Preston Williams and George Whitehead.

The games will be played on the handsome new court of the Barnhart Croquet Club, D. I. Taylor and H. M. McGlothing being rambos of this organization. The Barnhart players have been out-distanced in several matches with the locals but are grooming a dark horse squad to take on the Ozona malleeters sometime in the near future, according to Mr. McGlothing.

CLIFTON BROOKS WEDS SONORA GIRL MONDAY

Friends here have received announcements of the marriage of Clifton E. Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brooks, who ranch in the northeastern part of Crockett County, and Miss Lillian White, niece of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. McKnight of Sonora.

The wedding took place last Monday at Sonora. After a honeymoon trip, the young couple will move into their new home on the Brooks ranch near Big Lake, the wedding gift of the groom's parents.

Ozona To Have X-Ray Machine

Dr F. T. McIntire To Install Most Modern Machine Here

For the first time in its history Ozona is to have an X-Ray machine.

A modern and complete X-Ray plant, embracing all the newest features in X-Ray equipment, has been ordered by Dr. F. T. McIntire and will be installed within the next week or ten days, according to word from the factory.

The machine to be installed here is a new Victor X-Ray made by the General Electric Corporation and is a complete diagnostic unit, including the fluoroscope, designed for X-Ray pictures of any part of the body and fluoroscopic examinations. The machine will be installed by an X-Ray expert representing the factory, who will remain here several days to supervise operation and to see that the machine is in perfect working condition.

To accommodate the new machine Dr. McIntire is enlarging his office quarters in the Smith Drug Store No. 2 building, adding an X-Ray room, a developing room and a new lounging room.

The new equipment will make it possible to make X-Ray pictures of fractures, teeth, sinuses, skull injuries, chest and all parts of the body. With this modern equipment in operation here it will be unnecessary for Ozona people to go to the city for X-Ray examinations for injuries or other ailments where such a course is necessary.

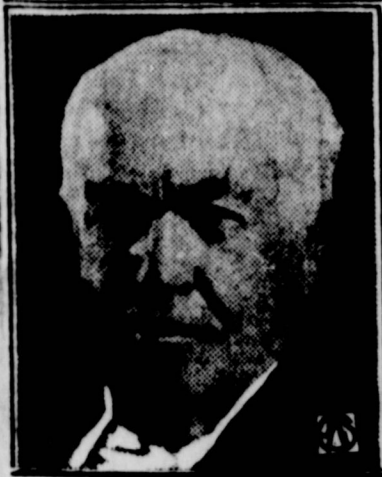

In addition to the new X-Ray machine, Dr. McIntire is also installing a new Victor diathermy machine to replace his present machine. The new G. E. product has many new features, the most noteworthy of which is a variable frequency which makes the machine adaptable for a wider range of treatments. The diathermy machine is used for electrical treatments.

In his medical training Dr. McIntire did special work in X-Ray under Dr. Sossman, head of the X-Ray department of Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, the teaching hospital for Harvard Medical School. Training in this special line has equipped him for satisfactory operation of his new machine.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McCaleb are the parents of a boy born last Tuesday morning. The youngster has been named Ralph Lee McCaleb. Mr. McCaleb is in charge of the Illinois Pipe Line Co. pump station No. 4 on the Pat Lee ranch.

Engineer Urges Action On Sewer

Barlow Tells Lions Now Is Ideal Time To Get System

The present summer is perhaps the most opportune time that will ever be presented the city of Ozona to secure a modern sewer system, J. S. Barlow, independent engineer, told members of the Lions Club in an address before that body at its regular luncheon Monday noon.

Mr. Barlow designed a sewer system plan for Ozona two years ago when interest was first aroused in the project and he returned to Ozona this week at the invitation of the Commissioners Court for the purpose of conferring with that body on the matter of renewing efforts to bring about installation of the system here.

Labor and material costs being lower and freight charges reduced the present would be the best time in which to press the issue, Mr. Barlow told club members. It is likely that a responsible company could be more easily induced to install a system here at this time if it were shown that the people wanted such an improvement and would support it, the engineer declared.

Mr. Barlow displayed maps of the sewer plan he has designed for Ozona and pointed out the advantages of having a design drawn by an independent engineer rather than to accept one drawn by company engineers. Mr. Barlow acts in an advisory capacity for the county or city and supervises all construction work to see that specifications are followed.

Mrs. Rosa Poteet, recently of Houston, is having a house built in the north part of town and plans to take up her residence here. Mrs. Poteet is the mother of Mrs. Bruce Galyon.

Health Service Available Here

Public Health Nurse To Conduct Child Clinic Here If Wanted

Miss Antoinette Ahlscheer, public health nurse with the state health department and the federal public health service, was a visitor to Ozona a few days ago conferring with Parent-Teacher Association officers in an effort to arrange a period for health examination of local school children and for an immunization program which is being sponsored by the government health divisions.

Miss Ahlscheer, in co-operation with local doctors, conducts physical examinations of children of school and pre-school age and where it is wanted gives immunization serums against diphtheria, typhoid and small pox. Immunization is given at actual cost of serums, with no charge for the service, Miss Ahlscheer said.

"I would like to have the interest of the women in carrying out this work and if we put on a program here we will arrange a mass meeting for parents if they want it and give some interesting lectures on child health," Miss Ahlscheer said.

Miss Ahlscheer is making headquarters at Del Rio, doing work in a dozen West Texas counties. She has held programs in Comstock, Rocksprings, Sonora, Eldorado and Del Rio. Her services are available without cost to any community in the district, she said. This public health nurse service has been made available largely through a federal appropriation and is being carried out under the direction of the state health department.

One Day Of Paisano Encampment For 1932 Named "Ozona Day"

One day of the 1932 Paisano Baptist Encampment, held in the Davis Mountains at Paisano Pass near Alpine, will be designated as "Ozona Day" and visitors to the encampment on that day will partake of Crockett County barbecued sheep and goats prepared in the incomparable patented barbecue pits of R. J. Cooke.

An invitation to eat of that famous Crockett County barbecue at the 1932 encampment was extended by Arthur Hoover of Ozona, a member of the board of directors of the encampment, and was promptly accepted and one day designated as "Ozona Day," according to word brought back here by local delegates to the encampment.

Rev. and Mrs. M. M. Fulmer, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hoover, Elmer Graves, Lee Graves, Green Mankin, Kay Black, Carl Black, and Miss Rosalie Rauhut are among Ozona people visiting the encampment. They returned the first of this week reporting a wonderful encampment and an unusually large attendance.

REV. WHEAT HERE SUNDAY

Rev. C. E. Wheat of Kerrville, manager of the Kerrville Methodist Assembly, will occupy the pulpit of the Ozona Methodist Church next Sunday morning as the fifth visiting preacher to deliver the Sunday morning sermon during the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. H. Meredith.

Rev. Wheat has not announced his sermon subject. There will be no services at the evening hour.

Mrs. Elam Dudley and Miss Betsy Pope have returned to their homes in Ft. Worth. Mr. Dudley is remaining for a longer visit.

A sewer system for Ozona seemed almost assured this week with a determined drive in progress under the direction of a committee representing the Lions Club and the Commissioners Court to secure a minimum of 75 signers of agreements to tie on to the sewer lines if the system is installed.

A 5-acre site for a disposal plant was purchased this week by the Commissioners Court in regular session and right-of-way for the line to the disposal plant was secured. The disposal plant site was purchased from T. W. Patrick a plot of ground south of the city near the Johnson Draw. The 5 acres and right-of-way was purchased for a total of $525.

Deeds to the site have been recorded and the county plans to donate this plot of ground to the sewer company agreeing to install a system here.

The drive for a sufficient number of connections to assure installation of a complete system here got under way early this week under the direction of a committee headed by O. W. Smith. Blanks have been provided which prospective users are being asked to fill out and sign. These blanks constitute an agreement with the selected sewer company to tie on to the company mains when the system is installed. The name of the sewer company is left blank, however, in order that the best deal might be made for the local system, according to members of the Commissioners Court.

A complete plan for a sewer system in Ozona to serve the entire city has been drawn by J. S. Barlow, independent engineer, who is here to assist committees in the new campaign for this improvement in sanitary methods. Mr. Barlow's plan calls for a sewer system that will take care of Ozona's needs for many years to come and the mains are located so that they traverse the centers of population and serve the greatest number of people with a minimum distance for connections.

A minimum of 75 signers of the agreement blanks has been fixed in order to be able to present an attractive proposition to the sewer company. The company which holds the local charter started its campaign two years ago for a minimum of 50 connections, and it is believed that with the additional connections assured at this time that the company will come in immediately to install the system.

Connections of both the old and the new school buildings here have been assured by members of the board. The Commissioners Court has also indicated that the courthouse and other county buildings will subscribe to the service and it is understood that many of the other large users have indicated a willingness to tie on to the system. An accurate check of the number of subscribers to date was not available this morning, but it was believed that the drive would be carried to a successful conclusion before the end of the week.

DR. MILLER RETURNS

Dr. and Mrs. G. Miller have returned from St. Louis where Dr. Miller has been doing special work in diseases of children and infant care. Dr. Miller secured this special training work in one of the largest hospitals and clinics in St. Louis. On the return trip, Dr. and Mrs. Miller visited relatives in Kentucky a few days. They were away more than a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Wise Owens have gone to California. They will take a boat from there to Seattle, Washington, Salt Lake City, Utah, and other points. While in that section they will attend the national Ram Sale at Salt Lake City.

"What a new face courage puts on everything. A determined man, by his very attitude and the tone of his voice, puts a stop to defeat and begins to conquer."—Emerson.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

Prospects are brighter right now for Ozona to secure a modern sewer system perhaps than they have ever been. Conditions have been such during the present summer that the people have come to a definite realization of the necessity for such an improvement and leaders of the present renewed effort to bring it about see in the movement a splendid opportunity to carry it to successful conclusion.

The warm winter and bountiful rains throughout the year have brought a scourge of mosquitoes that have swarmed the town throughout the summer. Responsibility for this infestation, however, can not be laid at the door of the rain entirely.

The greatest mosquito breeders are the stagnant pools in the draw fed by overflow from cess pools and septic tanks, and these at present constitute one of the greatest menaces to community health. These stagnant pools not only furnish an ideal breeding place for mosquitoes but for all kinds of disease germs and in addition constitute a nuisance. We may or may not get by the summer without a serious outbreak of disease as a result of this condition.

The opportunity again presents itself to provide for this city's sanitation needs for all time. It depends upon the people whether or not this opportunity is to be grasped. J. S. Barlow, the independent engineer who designed an adequate sewer system plan for this city two years ago, has been brought back here for a conference by the Commissioners Court and Mr. Barlow is of the opinion that the present is the most opportune time to interest a sewer company in putting in a system here.

Aside from the local interest that has been created in the project, from the standpoint of the company who comes in, the time is opportune. Material costs are the lowest in years, labor is cheaper and freight charges are cheaper. The system, then, could be installed for less money than it could two years ago and there is a better chance at this time to interest a good company in undertaking the project.

But before any company will become interested in the local project, it must have reasonable assurance that it can make a fair return on the money invested. And to give that assurance it will be necessary for a certain number of connections to be signed up in advance. Only by definitely contracting a certain number of users can the sewer company afford to spend the large amount of money necessary to provide this city with an adequate sewer system.

As the project now stands, the Commissioners Court and the Lions Club are co-operating in getting a specified number of prospective sewer connections signed up before again placing the proposition in the hands of the

SCANDALS

By The Town Gossip

John Rochelle, collector par-excellence, says about the only thing you can collect in Ozona now is a crowd.

Bill Grimmer says that if all the Fords in the world were placed end to end in a single line—98 per cent of them would leave the line and try to cut in ahead of the one in front.

Gossip has been cheating his customers lately on these Scotch jokes. Truth is that most of them get under the Gossip's own skin, since he has through necessity been compelled to adopt some of the alleged Scotch characteristics.

But just to show you that we can still snicker a little, here's the one about the Scotchman who didn't go to a banquet because he didn't know what the word "gratis" on the invitation meant. The next day he was found dead before an open dictionary.

"I suppose, even in an out-of-the-way place like this, the price of necessities has risen," remarked a stranger here recently.

"Yes, an' it ain't worth drinkin' when you've got it," Jake Young confided.

Pon Seahorn says Elmo Taylor must have burned up a lot of good wood or gasoline to ever get that 6,000 pounds of Flowers coal to burn.

sewer company. Since a minimum of 75 connections has been set, it will be necessary for everybody who is interested in Ozona's future welfare to lend a hand in getting this preliminary work done.

The sooner it is completed the sooner actual construction work can be started.

Since street paving here is an immediate prospect, it is vitally necessary that the sewer system be installed before the paving project gets under way. This will save a considerable sum of money in replacing paving torn up in installing a sewer system. But the main incentive for immediate action should be the elimination of a constant dread on the part of residents of a serious outbreak of disease as a result of a lack of control of sanitation.

In order for a committee to call on every resident of the town in this sign-up campaign, it would take two or three weeks to complete the work. To speed up the work and to get a decision at the earliest possible moment, committees have decided to pass out the blanks to everybody who will take them and ask everybody who will to get as many signers as possible. These blanks are not contracts but merely an agreement on the part of property owners to use the system if it is installed.

Special blanks have been printed with the name of the sewer company being left blank. The maximum rate as set out by this agreement is $2.50 a month for residences and $3.50 a month for business houses. This was the rate set out in the Southwestern Sewer Company contracts two years ago. If this town's proposition is accepted by this or another sewer company, it will no doubt have new contracts signed up before actual construction work started. But the signing up of these special blanks, provided by the county and the Lions Club, is more to show the attitude of the people of the community on the project and to assure the sewer company that the people want the system and will be willing to accept a fair proposition from the company.

Don't become too excited or troubled over the apparent chaotic condition as evidenced by our friends—the American people. We recall for the moment, President Lincoln's reply to some gentlemen from the West, who called on him in protest of some shortsightedness of the government.

Mr. Lincoln heard them patiently and then replied, "Gentlemen, suppose all the property you were worth was in gold, and you have put it in the hands of Blondin to carry across Niagara River on a rope; would you shake the cable, or keep shouting to him—'Blondin, stand up a little straighter; go a little faster; lean a little more to the north; turn a little more to the south?' No, you will hold your breath as well as your tongue and keep your hands off until he was safely over."

The people of our wealthy country are now carrying an immense weight. They are all doing the very best they can. Let's you and I, too, take a part and help relieve this oppressive load. Have faith —keep silent—and we'll all get across safely.—Angles of Business, Chicago.

SPIRITUALLY BEAUTIFUL

Have you ever known an old lady who was spiritually beautiful? Could you remember what her features were like? Or did you think of her as sort of a beautiful flower of God's handiwork, sending forth love and kindness and compassion for all; and every one loving her in turn.

This same old lady probably had no money to speak of, though she had thousands of friends and was continually happy.

You probably knew another old lady who had all kinds of money and everything that money could buy to make a person happy, yet she was not happy in the least. No one was glad to see her, because no one became happy because of her. You may not exactly remember her features, but you will never forget her sharp tongue and how happy you were to get away from her.

When Jesus gave his sermon on the Mount he answered the question of how to be happy.

Many of them would not believe, when he explained to that multitude of people who had come great distances to learn the secret of true happiness, that they were all wrong in the common assumption that the acquisition of material things alone brings happiness.

The thought He gave to them was, according to Matthew, who tells the story, that you are made happy by what you are, not by what you get.

The golden rule was a strange plan of life to most of that multitude who were there from both sides of the Sea of Galilee, from Jerusalem far off to the south, and from Tyre and Sidon to the north. It is strange to many people today, as far as actually living is concerned, but it is a good plan for happiness, nevertheless.

The next time you feel discouraged, or blue, or unhappy, why not go out and do something to make some one else a little bit happier, for that is what you would have them do to you, is it not? Then you will be surprised how much it will help you to happiness.

"You don't have to wait until you are old to grow spiritually beautiful."—Herald, Slayton, Minnesota.

Standard Brands

If you are offered something inordinately cheap, before you buy it ask yourself if you know what it is you are buying. Inferior merchandise is on the market in great quantities—those "just as good" brands, you know. Of course, we do not say that anything that is new is no good, but we do say that the old line, standard brands, nationally advertised merchandise is the safest bet when you are not certain of the quality of the goods you are buying.

We handle only standard merchandise. The best lines that the wholesale market affords, lines that have stood the test of national advertising, brands that have stood up under the critical eye of users, that have been tested and found satisfactory and have been leading sellers for years. That's the kind of merchandise that is safe to buy—your money's worth of quality merchandise every time.

You will not find an 'off brand' on our shelves. We do not handle "shoddy" merchandise. We buy the best that is offered and you get it at the lowest reasonable margin of profit, plus a lot of service. What more could you ask from your grocer.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

They resume the trip the next day and are overwhelmed by a cloudburst in an arroyo and are thrown out of the car. A party of tourist campers gives them dry clothes and food.

"Oh, that'll fix us up just fine," said Peter gratefully. "Thanks very much. Here you are, Rowena, a la Biltmore."

"It will do for you both with a little squeezing," said the farmer's wife pleasantly. "Jim and I camp on one the same size."

"S-so it will," said Rowena. "Lots of room."

"Make your bed close to the fire," said Farmer Jim. "Turns cold up here nights."

"And don't get nervous if you hear things wriggling around," called some one else. "Sometimes the rattlers go crawling around nights like this."

"Peter," whispered Rowena, perhaps—perhaps after all—you had better—sleep on the edge of the mattress—the farthest edge. After all, I suppose we're as good as married. And—I shouldn't like to have you bitten by a rattler."

Peter laughed at her.

When all the others had said good night and gone away to their beds, he spread one of the blankets on the mattress, and rolled up his coat to make a pillow for her.

"I'll just lie here on the grass beside you," he whispered, "and they'll never know the difference."

"Good thing it's dark!"

"Are you comfortable, Rowena?"

"Oh, it's perfectly wonderful—You take your coat, Peter. You will be cold on the ground with just that one thin rug."

"Nonsense. Why, I'm snug as a bug. Snugger, for that matter. Isn't this great? Isn't it just corking?"

"B-better than last night, isn't it?"

"Well, rather. Better than almost any night I ever saw."

Slowly the full night settled over the mesa and a crescent moon rode high. Little night sounds echoed loudly in the great silence. Owls hooted. A coyote whined. Now and then a wolf barked in the distance. Little footed creatures scurried past them in the grass. Suddenly Peter felt a little shiver in the blanket roll on the mattress beside him. He touched it gently with his hand. Rowena was noiselessly sobbing in the darkness. He put his arm over her and pulled himself up until his lips were close to her ear—so close that a little bronze perfumed curl touched his face.

"Don't be afraid," he whispered softly.

"I'm not afraid."

"Please don't cry."

"I'm not crying. I just feel sorry."

"Because I smashed the car?"

"No. Because you are so nice, Peter, and it is so awful to hate a nice person so very, very much."

Peter laughed. "If that's all, cheer up. It should comfort you to know that at least there's no love lost between us." He patted the blanket kindly.

"And I really do admire you, Peter, for ever so many things. Nobody else in the world could ever make me half as mad as you do. Really, you're just wonderful."

One slender hand wriggled out from under the blanket and felt about until it found his, which closed over it warmly. It was hours later when she fell asleep.

Although Peter awakened very early the next morning, almost before the dawn of pale gray light, he found the big farmer standing near and looking down upon them with a quizzical, friendly grin.

Peter got up rather shamefacedly, dropping his blanket on Rowena's mattress and the two men strolled down for a look at the river.

"Don't begin wrong, youngster," said the farmer kindly. "Don't make life too easy for 'em right at first. Let 'em have their share of the hard knocks. Does 'em good."

"Sh-she's not very well," said Peter, floundering desperately for a suitable excuse. "I—want her to be—careful."

"Oh, is that the lay of the land, eh?" The man was cordially interested. "Golly, I hope that wetting didn't hurt her. She's got spunk, that one. You should 'atold my wife. She'd 'a' give you a hot-water bottle and a nip of whiskey."

"I think she'll be all right," said Peter uncomfortably.

"You better take these rough roads a bit easier, youngster. You passed us yesterday like a streak o' greased lightning. Bumps is the worst thing for 'em. We lost one that way."

"Uh—that so? Too bad," stammered Peter awkwardly.

The flood had subsided over night and barely a foot of water now trickled over the rocks where the torrential flood had rushed. Camp on the mesa was quickly broken. Breakfast was hurriedly prepared and hurriedly eaten. Cars were loaded, children and dogs collected, for all were anxious to take to the road at the earliest possible moment. But the big farmer, although himself as eager as the next to be off, put a peremptory veto on the suggestion that it would be sufficient for them to send a trouble car back for Peter and Rowena, leaving them a supply of food for emergency.

"We can't leave them kids up here alone in the fix they're in," said the farmer firmly. "It's his wife,"—with a broad wink. "Wouldn't be fair noways."

So the men fell to with right good will. Half of them down in the river pried and tugged and pulled at the car while the others up on shore worked with pulleys and ropes and chains, and at last a great cheer went up as the Rackeruff rose slowly, groaning, over the rocks and was drawn inch by inch up the side of the arroyo.

profuse in their gratitude. "You're just wonderful," said Rowena. "I never knew that people could be so kind." And there were tears in her lovely blue eyes, and something of a quiver stirred the pleasant voice, just because she was so glad to learn that the people of earth were so very good.

And they smiled at her and told her to take good care of herself and not get "run down," and with many such friendly farewells and admonitions the caravan forded the dwindling creek and wound off over the mesa behind the hills. But before the Kansas farmer and his wife had gone far they turned back and pulled up beside the dripping roadster. The woman got out and went close to Rowena.

"You musn't catch cold, child," she said in a confidential voice. "Your clothes are pretty short and pretty thin. It gets awful cold evenings up here in this high altitude and you're not dressed for it. Now you take this little wool blanket and soon as you feel the cold coming on, you bundle yourself all up snug in it. It's old, but it's all wool and warm as toast. You mind now. Catching cold is the worst thing you can do."

Rowena thanked her and promised to be very careful and not catch cold whatever she did, and then stood high on a boulder waving the blanket after the farmer's car until it rounded the hill and disappeared. Then she turned to Peter with a puzzled air.

"Aren't they all queer?" she asked wonderingly. "I don't look sickly or anything, do I? They seem to have a complex on catching colds out here. And what difference does it make if I do get tired? Everybody gets tired, don't they?"

Peter was working very hard on the car at that moment and mumbled something quite indistinguishable about not knowing what it was all about.

"Well, of course, they meant well," declared Rowena. "And I'll be careful to please them. But I do hope I'm not beginning to look anemic or anything."

A day of ecstatic, heavenly calm followed. Peter worked on the car. Finally they got on way again.

At last in the early evening when they approached the town where they had agreed to spend the night, Rowena put her hand on his arm in tender appeal.

"Peter," she said gently, "I do realize how very embarrassing it is about the hotels. It is for me too, though I dare say you don't believe it. How would it do for us to go in separately and register each for himself? I could go in first and ask for a single room and go right on up, and they wouldn't even know we came together."

Peter turned it over reflectively. On the whole it seemed the best way out. Certainly anything was better than their first experience. So when they pulled up to the hotel Rowena stepped quickly out with her bag and hurried up to the desk. She asked for a single room, registered "Miss Rowena Rostand, New York City," and was taken upstairs. Peter, meanwhile, put the car in the garage and then sat on the veranda half an hour with a cigarette and a paper. When at last he ventured to the desk his request for a single room aroused no undue interest, and he was handed a key and a telegram. The telegram was from Messrs. Rack and Ruff, written by the former but signed by both to make it more official. He read it and then inquired if a Miss Rostand had registered at the hotel. Upon being told that she had and was in her room, he called her on the telephone and asked her to come down to the lobby.

"I have a wire from the Company," he explained, "and I think you had better see it."

"Did you get a room O.K.?" she whispered.

"Yes. Everything's jake—but this," Rowena read the telegram. "The red-headed persecution," it said, "just came in to announce that all is forgiven. Says the chaperon left you at Denver and is on her way back to New York. What do you mean by continuing alone? Entirely against our orders and our wishes. If facts are as stated, please consider contract canceled. Send Miss Rostand to New York by first train and you bring car back immediately."

Peter looked quite worried about it all, but Rowena laughed gaily.

"Tish, tosh and even tush," she said brightly. "It's nothing. They don't know we're married. Come on—let's give them the low-down on it."

So they went to the telegraph desk and with a great deal of laughter and many foolish suggestions and much scratching out of words they finally worked out an announcement to their satisfaction.

"Everything's jake with us. We were married in Denver. Who wants a chaperon on a honeymoon? Cody tomorrow night. Love and kisses from Peter and Rowena Blande."

This dispatched, and pretty well pleased with themselves on the whole, they got into the elevator and went up to their rooms.

Their tour of the park was uneventfully delightful, auspiciously free from embarrassing compli-

TIRE VALUES versus TIRE DEFINITIONS

WE KNOW that car owners are interested in real TIRE VALUES, but are not particularly interested in tire definitions which manufacturers and distributors of special-brand mail-order tires had the National Better Business Bureau adopt that they could use to their advantage in their advertising.

When the National Better Business Bureau realized that the public was being misled—and an attempt was being made to keep the truth about real tire values from car owners, they issued a bulletin July 10th which in substance retracted their sponsorship of tire definitions.*

Firestone extra values are the result of great savings in buying—great savings in efficient and economical manufacturing and distributing, plus the patented process of Gum-Dipping—the patented two extra cord plies under the tread—and a more efficient non-skid tread, which makes them safer than any other tire.

We have sections cut from Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires and Special-Brand Mail-Order Tires, and invite you to come in and judge for yourself the extra values we give you—values that you can see and understand instead of "definitions." Then we know you too will buy Firestone Tires as thousands of other car owners have done to the extent that during May, June and July they bought more Firestone Tires than during any like period in history—Drive in today!

*When the National Better Business Bureau realized that their Bulletin No. 434 was being taken advantage of by some advertisers they issued a Bulletin dated July 10th as follows:

"In our Bulletin No. 434 entitled 'Definitions of Terms Used in the Tire Industry' we published definitions of First Line—Second Line—Third Line—Heavy Duty and Super Heavy Duty Tires.

"Our definitions pointed out, 'Although each manufacturer's or distributor's first line tire may represent his best standard size 4 or 6 ply tire, there is not necessarily any equality of competitive first line tires as to materials, workmanship or price.' This interpretation also applies to all lines of tires.

"We therefore recommend that advertising to the consumer shall avoid the use of these terms for the purpose of comparing competitive products."

TOO FAST

When I was a student in Amherst College, and my father was preaching in Chicago, I used to go home for Christmas on the Erie Railroad.

The trip consumed two nights and a day; but this was the golden age when some kind hearted railroads were allowed to present free passes to clergymen and their families.

Now the Erie makes fast time, and there are no passes; but the memory of those old slow trips is pleasant. My mother would pack a shoe-box full of sandwiches and hard boiled eggs and bananas, and I had a glorious time; never thinking that it was any hardship to travel slowly, but thanking my lucky stars that I was able to get home at all.

On one of the days preceding last Christmas, so I am told, eight sections of America's swiftest trains were required to leave New York to hurry the youngsters home from school.

It hurried them home for what? So that they could bestow a running kiss on their parents, shed their day clothes and change into evening clothes, and be off on a series of parties.

This is the world we live in. This is the tempo of modern life. Any of us old folks who decry it are merely dating ourselves as belonging to a passing generation.

Yet, I personally feel a little sorry for these headlong youngsters. Somehow it seems to me that in travelling so fast they miss an awful lot.

I remember the Christmas when my father presented me my first watch—a big silver affair that he himself had carried for years. I was ten years old, and the gift amazed me. It had never occurred to me that I should ever own a watch until I was twenty-one.

I remember how my wife and I saved up patiently to buy our first car—a second-hand Ford. I remember our first antique, which we loved for months before we could finally acquire it. And the joy of seeing a savings account grow slowly; and the thrill of building a library, one book at a time.

Now the kids smash up a dozen watches before they are six. And they start life with cars, and with furniture; and at twenty they have rushed through all the emotional experiences that lasted us leisurely through forty years.

Don't mistake me, I'm a booster for the new generation. They are healthy, direct, and fine. Only sometimes I wonder—

I wonder when, on my way home at night, I pass a big house in which lives one of New York's famous neurologists. It's an expensive house, paid for by nerves. Limousines are always stacked up in front of it.

It would seem almost as if the prize of life in America is to own a limousine and park it in front of a nerve specialist's door. Everyone seems to be racing to get there.

Miniature Cannon Constructed Of Historical Souvenirs To Be Fired At Of Death Forme Kaiser Wilhelm

A miniature cannon, unique in that it is made of small souvenirs picked up in various sections of the world and each bearing a bit of history, is in possession of Rufus Sterling of Del Rio, who made it while employed in the Heldenfelt Ship Yards at Port Arthur, Texas, during the World War.

One section of the metal base upon which the cannon rests came from an 18-inch smooth bore gun that was in use during the Civil War and was picked up by Mr. Sterling at Fort St. Phillips, La., while he was serving as a private in Company E Third Texas Volunteer Infantry during the Spanish American War in 1898.

In the same year a small portion of brass was taken from the stern of the old warship Monitor in New Orleans when it plied its course along the coast with dents from 26 cannon shots marring the beauty of the veteran war vessel. This souvenir makes up the second deck of the base upon which the small gun rests.

The band around the barrel of the gun was cut from the old Confederate prison door at Fort St. Phillips, and was also obtained in 1898.

The pivots upon which the gun swings were made from a piece of copper wire that came from the Atlantic cable, and which was on display at the World's Fair at St. Louis in 1904. Being a mechanic, Mr. Sterling had a habit of carrying a pair of small pliers in his pocket, and having a happy knack of gathering souvenirs, could not resist the temptation of clipping a piece of copper wire.

In 1912 while Mr. Sterling was hunting and trapping on the western coast of Alaska, the Eagle, a huge gasoline launch, and the first to ply the coast of Alaska, was washed ashore near the point where the party of hunters were located. It was here that the small barrel of the gun was taken from the tail piece of the gasoline launch. Mr. Sterling spent six years hunting and trapping in Alaska, but the small souvenir found its way back to Texas and became a part of the historical gun.

Back in 1918, when the various pieces had no more than been assembled, news came that the Armistice had been signed; in a jubilant spirit Mr. Sterling loaded his cannon and fired, remarking that it would be reloaded and fired again when news came of the death of former Kaiser Wilhelm.

Since the World War two more additions have been made to the history surrounding the miniature cannon. It has been placed upon a wooden base which is part of an American airplane brought down on Flanders Field by Von Richter, the German Red Devil, destroyer of many allied planes during the World War, and brought back to America by a doughboy who saw the plane when it crashed to earth.

Then a little later, when Mr. Mr. Sterling was a civilian mechanic in the air service and located at Del Rio, an American plane piloted by Lieutenant Persons was lost in Mexico. A truck loaded with a new engine and accompanied by a corps of soldiers went into Mexico, placed the new engine in the wrecked plane and otherwise repaired the machine. Lieutenant Doolittle, then in the air service here, piloted the machine to Del Rio, where it was later burned. The four screws which hold the miniature gun to its wooden base came from that airplane.

Mr. Sterling says he still intends to fire this gun when the Kaiser passes to the Great Beyond after which it will be stored up in the archives of other souvenirs which he has gathered during his travels.

The wee gun is about 3 1/2 inches wide at the base and the barrel is four inches in length. It weighs one pound.—Del Rio Herald.

CONSIDER YOUR HEALTH

Do you KNOW that the milk you drink is clean and pure, or are you just taking a chance? Do you know that it is milked in a clean, modern, protected dairy barn where there is practically no chance for contamination from dust blown in by the wind, from flies and insects, etc?

If you knew that the milk you drink was milked in an open lot, where germs floating on dust particles, barnyard manure, on the legs of insects and flies had free access to it, would you feel safe? Isn't your life and the lives of other members of your family worth more to you than that? Isn't that too great a chance to take with such a precious thing as health—and life?

If your milk supply comes from a "back-yard dairy" you owe it to yourself and to your family to find out under what conditions that milk is handled. If it is milked in the open and exposed to contamination, you are risking too much to continue using it.

We would welcome an inspection of our dairy herd, our barns and pens, our utensils and bottling process at any time of the day or night and by anybody. We have been highly complimented by health authorities and we want our customers to KNOW that they are getting PURE MILK from

1931 Auctions
New York is full of auctioneers. Some of them are almost as famous as Christie's, in London, where they have sold single jewels for a million dollars, and some are of the catch-penny type.

One of the latter, right in the heart of Times Square, has a novel method. We can all recall the hoarse-voiced auctioneer at farm sales, ready to drop from the effort of using his voice. Well, this man sells from early morning to late at night and his voice holds out all week.

How does he do it? Why he has a microphone in front of him with six receivers around the big store and his lowest whisper carries to the back wall. It is de luxe selling.

Second-hand Goods
This city sells more goods second-hand than many cities sell new, according to an analysis issued by the Merchants' Association the other day. The total sales run $14,000,000 a year, of which 936 stores sell close to $10,000,000.

Second-hand book stores do a business of $800,000, nearly $100,000 more than used automobiles bring. A straw showing how many are doing business here on a "shoestring" is shown by the fact that second-hand office furniture is sold to the amount of $635,000 each year.

Kindness to Blind
All New Yorkers are kind to blind men. One sees them tapping their way around the most crowded parts of the city and, when they halt at a curb, waiting to cross the street, almost anybody will volunteer to lend a friendly arm and aid them to cross.

A newspaper man here told me a funny thing about that. He was waiting at the curb while a friend bought a paper. While waiting he absentmindedly started tapping with his cane on the walk (all newspaper men in this city carry canes—it's a trade mark).

As he stood there a nicely dressed woman seeing a blind man tapping the walk, as she thought, stepped up to him, took his arm, and remarked, "Let me help you across the street!"

Embarrassment all around was avoided by the friend's appearance. He took the newspaperman by the arm, thanked the kind hearted woman and told her he would help him over.

Valets' Graft
One can pick up wonderful suits, if you know where to go. Valets of wealthy men get their masters' old clothes and they have certain stores where they can sell them.

The suits are of the best material and practically unworn. It is up to you as to what you pay. It varies from $5 to $20 a suit and for that you get clothes that make you look like a millionaire. It is pretty hard to find out where to get such bargains as those who are already patronizing those shops don't like to let you know they are wearing cast off suits and besides, if they take you there it means they have a harder time getting bargains themselves. Still there are those places and if you don't mind wearing somebody else's clothes, you can dress like a lord on little money.

RANCHMEN TO REDUCE COST OF SHEARING

At a mass meeting held in the Owens & Stuart Theatre Tuesday afternoon, presided over by J. W. Hutt, secretary-manager of the Edwards County Chamber of Commerce, it was voted by those present that shearing of sheep in the fall of 1931 and spring of 1932 shall be paid for at the rate of 7 cents per head. Shearing of goats shall be paid for at the rate of 4 cents per head, during the same period.

This meeting was called at the request of a number of ranchmen over this district, and the chairman, in his preliminary remarks, stated that the growers of sheep and goats felt that as the prices for their commodities had reached a point where they were losing money each year, they felt that the downward trend in markets warranted a measure whereby they might be able to reduce expenses as much as possible, during the depressed period.

Among other things, the chairman stated that no relief was in sight at present time for growers, and as the Federal Farm Board had not as yet made any announcement of advance, which action, within itself, would lead one to believe that markets would continue demoralized for a period extending over the spring of 1932, therefore it would be good business on the part of the ranchmen to further cut expenses as much as possible, in order that they might weather the storm.

The speaker stressed the fact that wool and mohair would certainly sell on a basis coming out of any advance made by the crops, and should the advance be 15 cents, then certainly the buyers and mill men would take advantage of such announcement and set a price, based on the advance.

It was held at this meeting that those who have contracted shearing this fall be urged to speak to the shearing captains in an effort to have them reduce the price, yet if prices on contracted shearing could not be lowered by agreement this fall, then these ranchmen are supposed to abide by such contracts this fall, but in the spring of 1932 the prices to be paid for shearing, as adopted at this meeting, must be adhered to.

The warehouse interests here were asked to communicate with their customers and notify them of the action of the mass meeting as held here Tuesday afternoon.

Tickets For U. Of T. 1931 Football Season Are Placed On Sale

Austin, Texas, August 12.—On August 10 more than 25,000 letters announcing the sale of football tickets were mailed from the athletic department offices of The University of Texas, and the sale of tickets began on that date, Ed Olle, business manager of inter-collegiate athletics, has announced.

Included in the letters, which will go to stadium subscribers, last year's ticket buyers, Longhorn sport lettermen and various other people throughout Texas and adjacent states, are a 1931 Longhorn football schedule and an order blank for ticket purchases.

The Texas-Harvard game in Cambridge, Mass. is drawing more interest than any other University athletic event scheduled for 1931, according to Olle. The inter-sectional game between the Longhorns and Missouri in Austin is also drawing much interest, as is the Oklahoma game which is to be played in Dallas.

SILVER

If I had loose capital to invest today I would buy silver. The metal is selling now at the lowest price in history...

Silver is certain to come back. The President of Mexico has issued a decree restoring silver to its old position as money.

Anybody who buys silver now stands a good chance of doubling his money within three or four years, possibly sooner.

Keep an eye on Norman H. Davis, the gentleman who has just been appointed the American member of the Finance Committee of the League of Nations.

Mr. Davis has never run for election office, but if the Democrats elect a President next year or in 1936 I venture now the prediction that Norman H. Davis will hold a high position in the Cabinet or the Diplomatic Service.

BAKER

Another Democrat worth keeping an eye on is Newton D. Baker. Lots of Democrats would like to see him President, but I don't think he will be the party's nominee in 1932.

Mr. Baker is, I believe, the most effective and convincing orator in American public life today. His address last week before the Institute of Politics in Williams-town, Mass., was the clearest exposition of the present political-economic condition of the world that I have read.

CHICAGO

I met Anton Cermak, the mayor of Chicago the other day. He doesn't talk or act like a professional politician, but like the business man which he is.

Mayor Cermak is enthusiastic in his "boosting" of the World's Fair which is to be held in Chicago in 1933, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of the city.

Made World's Longest Flight

Russell Boardman (in cockpit) and John Polando, his co-pilot, set a world's record when they flew the Atlantic to Istanbul, Turkey. They flew 4,750 miles in 49 hours and 17 minutes, 43 minutes under the time they had set for the hop.

"Happy Warrior" Greets His Successor

Former Governor Al Smith, without the brown derby, was snapped with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt at a lawn party. The picture does not justify any talk about friction between the two.

phone President Hoover's program of international cooperation to relieve Germany's economic distress could not have been carried out. It enabled the President to talk as freely to Secretaries Mellon and Stimson when they were in Paris and London as if they had been in Washington.

"The difference between telephoning and cabling in a case like this," one of the President's close friends explained to me, "is that, even when a cable message is put in secret code there is a record of it, somewhere, and diplomacy makes it impossible to express beliefs and opinions freely or to tell the actual complete facts in all cases, since there is always the chance that the record will some day be unearthed and made public.

"If we had had telephone facilities in 1914 as we have now," one statesman said recently discussing this episode, "the European war could have been averted."

CONSTABLE MOSLEY COLLECTS FOR BREW

Constable Mosley relates that since his ten years as a peace officer here that Saturday was the first time he ever collected a debt for a bootlegger for beer that he had sold.

Mosley was approached here Saturday afternoon by a colored boy from Mabank and was asked to accompany him to help collect from a Mexican working on the highway here for some "brew" that he had sold to him and had not received pay for.

But Peter and Rowena had not yet come into the fulness of their emotional experience. They left the park by the northern route. They went to Butte and Helena, and all was well. They pulled up to the hotel in Spokane without inner qualm or morbid presentiment.

"WHAT IS TO COME"

By William Ernest Henley

What is to come we know not. But we know
That what has been was good—
was good to show,
Better to hide, and best of all to bear.

We are the masters of the days that were:
We have lived, we have loved, we have suffered . . . even so.

Shall we not take the ebb who had the flow?
Life was our friend. Now, if it be our foe—
Dear, though it spoil and break us—
—need we care
What is to come?

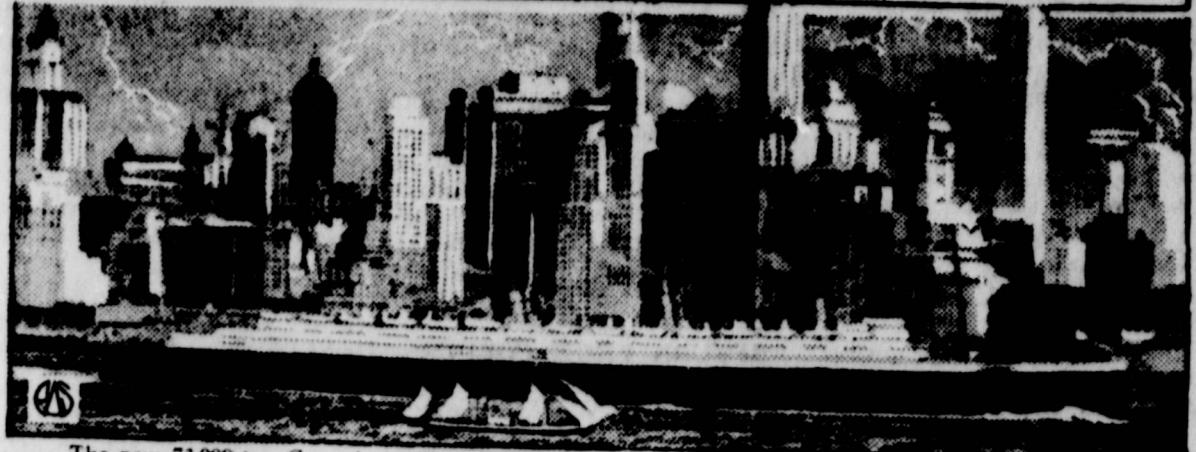

Let the great winds their worst and wildest blow,
Or the gold weather round us melow slow:
We have fulfilled ourselves, and we can dare,
And we can conquer, though we may not share,
In the rich quiet of the after-glow
What is to come.

IN LEAGUE WITH THE BABIES

WHEN LITTLE girls wore copper-toed boots and tight-waisted dresses, and little boys wore kilts—what of the babies? Swathed in yards of clothes. Scrubbed with unknown soaps. Few of them expected to live during the dreaded second summer. Many of them suffering countless ailments because nobody knew what to do.

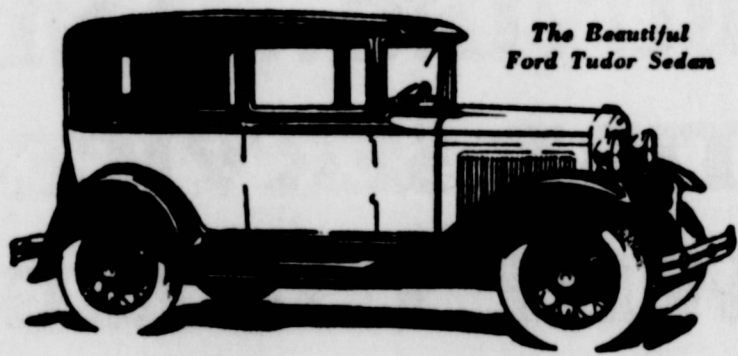

A glance back only a generation or so is enough to reveal how fortunate babies are today. Now there are soft, cool soaps . . . every aid in food that care and knowledge can prepare . . . sensible, light little clothes . . . and such knowledge of sanitation and control of disease that every little baby should live and grow.

Mothers are indebted to advertisements for their news of these nursery aids . . . just as they are indebted for news of fascinating menus, fadeless curtains, sprightly dinnerware. Constantly, ways are being devised to make life happier, more comfortable for baby, the whole family. Laboratories clean and bright are scenes of goods being tested—being made safe and pure. When the testing is over, the perfecting done—advertisements hasten the goods to you.

No longer marvel (the next you buy something widely known) at how fresh, immaculate, fine it is. These are qualities you can be sure of in buying advertised merchandise . . . qualities you MUST be sure of in buying for the health of babies, children, any one.

It is surprising how timely and vital the news in advertisements can be! Read them regularly.

Sub Station Plans Bitterweed Campaign $20,000 Available

SAN ANGELO—An offensive against the bitterweed, poisonous plant which is costing Texas sheep men thousands of head of sheep each year, will get under way around September 1, when a $20,000 appropriation becomes available, A. B. Conner, director of the ranch experiment station near Sonora, said here recently.

Arrangements contemplate the making of the substation the poison plant laboratory for the entire southwest portion of the United States, he said, thus adding much value to the campaign originating in the war on the bitterweed. A federal personnel of four men will assist the state forces in the fight. Destruction of the seed-producing centers will be one of the chief elements in the battle, he said. Common sense procedure justifies the attack along two lines, he suggested: first, there should be a comprehensive field program for testing out, in various sections, all possible methods of eliminating bitterweed as a range problem; second, there should be provided a research program to develop basic information and facts necessary to an ultimate solution. Tests will be made under range conditions of various control methods developed, he said. Experiences of ranchmen will be a factor in making the tests.

One of the most important steps in the campaign will be the establishment and equipment of a laboratory for intensive study that a cheap and effective method of extermination may be achieved. Bitterweed has been shown to be a poisonous plant at the ranch experiment station, where, out of 20 experimental animals forcibly fed on bitterweed, sixteen died of the effects and only four survived.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE—BUT

A lion met a tiger
As they drew beside a pool,
Said the tiger, "Tell me why
You're roaring like a fool."
"That's not foolish," said the lion
With a twinkle in his eyes
"They call me king of all beasts
Because I advertise."
A rabbit heard them talking
And ran home like a streak;
He thought he'd try the lion's plan
But his roar was a squeak.
A fox came to investigate—
Had luncheon in the woods,
So when you advertise, my friend,
Be sure you've got the goods.

THE LONG, LONG TRAIL

Man is of few days and full of trouble. He laboreth all the days of his youth to pay for a gasoline chariot, and when at last the task is finished Lo! the thing is junk and he needeth another. He planteth cotton in the earth and tilleth it dilligently, he and his servants and his asses, and when the harvest is gathered into the barns, he oweth the landlord $8.40 more than the crop is worth. He borroweth money of the lenders to buy pork and molasses and gasoline, and the interest eateth up all that he hath. He begeth sons and daughters and educateth them to smoke cigarettes and wear white collar, and Lo! they have soft hands and neither labor in the fields nor anywhere under the sun.

The children of his loins are onery and one of them becometh a lawyer and another sticketh up a filling station and maketh whoopee with the substance thereof. The wife of his bosom necketh with a stranger and when he rebukes her, Lo! she shooteth him in the finale. He goeth forth in the morning on the road that leadeth to the city and a jitney smiteth him so that his ribs project through his epidermis. He drinketh of a drink of whoopee juice to forget his sorrows and it burneth out the lining from his liver. All the days of his life he findeth no parking place, and is tormented by traffic cops from going forth until his coming back. An enemy stealeth his car; physicians remove his inner parts and his teeth and his bank roll; his daughters showeth their legs to strangers; his arteries hardeneth in the evening of his life, and when he is gathered to his fathers, the neighbors sayeth: How much did he leave? Lo! he hath left it all. And his widow rejoiceth in a new coupe and maketh eyes at a young shiek that slicketh his hair and playeth a nifty game of poker. Woe is man! And from the day of his birth to the time when earth knoweth him no more he laboreth for bread and catcheth the devil. Dust he was in the beginning and now his name is mud.—Journal American Medical Association.
