INGHAM PAYS TOP PRICE AT ANGELO SALE

Owens Tops Opening Day Sale With $375 For Lyman Ram

Crockett County ranchers picked out the best that was offered in the annual auction sale held in connection with the sixteenth annual convention of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association in San Angelo last week.

B. B. Ingham, who ranches on the Pecos in this county, topped the three-day sale when he paid $425 for a yearling ram from the famous King Ranch Company of Montana, an animal pronounced by its breeder, Joe King, manager in charge of the breeding on the ranch, as among the best rams ever raised.

J. W. Owens & Son, also Crockett County ranchers, paid the next highest price of the sale and topped the first day's sale with a price of $375 paid for a Rambouillet ram to Roy Lyman of the Branch Agricultural College of Utah. This price was $25 over the top for last year's sale when Fred Earwood paid $350 for a half brother of the ram bought by Owens.

The ram bought by Mr. Ingham won 10 blue ribbons last year and never lost a first place as a ram lamb, according to its grower. It took first at International in Chicago, first in the Royal at Kansas City and won wherever it was shown in the highly competitive sheep circles of the north. Its sire won the grand championship at the International in Chicago.

Larger Water Mains Put In

4,000 Feet Of Four Inch Mains Being Installed

The Ozona Water Works is engaged this week in the laying of approximately 4,000 feet of new water mains in the city which is expected to make a great improvement in the service to a considerable number of the company's patrons.

The new mains are four-inch lines which will replace two-inch pipe, providing better pressure to the entire south part of the city. One of the new lines is from the Joe Pierce corner to the Joe Oberkamp corner, a distance of two blocks and the other is from the Crockett Motor Company corner to connect with the new line at the Joe Oberkamp corner down Powell Avenue.

A number of other improvements are contemplated by the water company, among them being the installation of larger mains to improve water service across the draw. It is also planned to replace the present four-inch main coming from the reservoir on the hill with a 5 3/4 inch main connecting the reservoir with the Powell Avenue main at the North Motor Company corner.

Ratliff has not made known his sermon for the worship hour Sunday morning. There will be no services Sunday night.

Mary Augustine Hilton North Wed

Quiet Wedding Marks Union Of Popular Local Couple Thurs.

Miss Mary Augustine and Hilton North were united in marriage at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. W. H. Augustine, Thursday morning at nine o'clock, in an informal ceremony, with Rev. John D. McWhorter of Sterling City, former pastor of the Ozona Methodist Church, officiating.

The bride wore a black and white satin suit with black and white hat and black accessories. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and lilies of the valley. The ceremony took place under an arch decorated with ivy and honeysuckle, flanked by two tall baskets of marigolds and shasta daisies, while Miss Hester Banger played the wedding march from Lohengrin and the "Flower Song." The house was further decorated with yellow flowers.

Orange punch and wedding cake were served on green plates from the lace-covered dining table, whose chief decoration was the two-tiered wedding cake surmounted by a cupid and orange blossoms. Orange candles in silver holders stood at the ends of the table. Mrs. A. A. Perry, Jr., presided at the punch bowl.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. North left for a honeymoon trip to El Paso, Cloudcroft, N. Mex., and Old Mexico. They will be gone about a week. Upon their return, they will make their home on Mr. North's ranch about fifty miles this side of Sanderson.

Only members of the families and a few close friends were present. They included Mrs. W. H. Augustine, Mrs. J. J. North, mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne West, Miss Mildred North, Mr. and Mrs. Hendrick Harnell, Rev. and Mrs. John D. McWhorter, Miss Lucille McWhorter, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. North, Mrs. A. A. Perry, Jr., Miss Wayne Augustine, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Augustine, Mr. and Mrs. Hurst Meinecke, Buster Augustine, Miss Louise Henderson, Miss Alyne Friend, Miss Catherine Childress, Jake Young and R. T. Taylor.

Both Mr. and Mrs. North are members of prominent local families, pioneers in this county. Mrs. North is the daughter of Mrs. W. H. Augustine while Mr. North is the son of Mrs. J. J. North. Both were born and reared here and were educated in local schools. Mr. North is one of Crockett County's successful young ranchers.

Lions Club Donates To Charity Fund; Try For Convention Trip

A donation of $10 was voted by the Ozona Lions Club at its meeting Monday to a fund being raised for the relief of a local charity case.

The entertainment feature of the luncheon was several piano selections played by Miss Jessie Ingham. The application of Jake Segraves, manager of the West Texas Lumber Company branch here, was accepted by the club and Mr. Segraves will be formally initiated at next Monday's meeting.

A letter from the office of Lions International describing the International's offer of free transportation for the club's delegate to the next International convention in Los Angeles if the membership of the club is doubled by next January 1. Members of the local club believe that the membership can be doubled by that date and will set about to win the prize.

Jeff Poyner of McCamey has accepted a position as tailor with the Model Laundry dry cleaning department.

Miss Lillian Shick of Big Spring and M. S. Decker of St. Louis are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Word and daughters.

Ozona Man Starts On Eighth Term; All Officers Renamed

T. A. Kincaid of Ozona was elected to serve his eighth successive term as president of the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association of Texas at the closing session of the sixteenth annual convention of the association in San Angelo Saturday.

Del Rio was named as the host city for the next annual convention, to be held either in December of this year or January 1932 under the new plan adopted at the convention.

The personnel of the executive committee will remain the same, Mr. Kincaid announced. The next meeting of this group will be in Kerrville, Fort Stockton made a bid for it.

Among resolutions adopted was one recommending a reduction of 25 per cent in handling charges on livestock by the stockyards, another urging the packers to get full value from the pulled wool that comes from sheep marketed by the ranchmen, and supporting the agricultural marketing act. Several others of commendatory nature also were adopted. Resolutions of sympathy designated Robert Massie, San Angelo; Will Hale, Tappah; W. M. Noels, Mertzon; Leigh Harkey, Sheffield; Ed Downie, Sanderson; J. S. Pierce, Sr., Ozona; Hector McKenzie, San Angelo; J. O. Taylor, Del Rio; and W. H. Augustine, Ozona.

All officers were re-elected, those of long time service being Judge James Cornell for his seventh year as attorney, Roy Adwell as treasurer the seventh time, Mr. Baggett as secretary for the fourth time.

Wm. L. Bennett Buried Friday

Long Time Resident Of Ozona Died Following Brief Illness

William Leander Bennett, 49, a resident of Ozona for 31 years, died at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening, July 30, as a result of complications following an attack of the flu. Mr. Bennett had been suffering from an attack of the flu for about ten days but had not been confined to his bed. He was thought to have about recovered from the ailment when he was suddenly seized with a paralytic stroke Wednesday night and died 24 hours later.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon from the home, Rev. M. M. Fulmer pastor of the Ozona Baptist Church, officiating. Burial followed in Cedar Hill Cemetery. Pallbearers were Frank Russell, Ben Robertson, L. B. Adams, Robert Gray, John Bailey and J. M. Baggett.

Mr. Bennett was born in Henderson, Tenn., June 22, 1882, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Bennett. The family moved to Ozona from San Saba County, Texas, in 1900, the elder Bennett establishing a grocery and dry goods business here. In 1905 E. W. Bennett and his sons established the first telephone exchange in Ozona, the system being operated by Will and John Bennett until it was sold in 1913 to the Pecos Telephone Co. A few years later the system was sold to a company of local capital and was owned and operated by this company until a few years ago when it was sold to the San Angelo Telephone Company, present owners.

After the company sold out here Will Bennett moved with his family to Eldorado where he bought a ranch, operating it for five years. He was also in the garage business in Eldorado for a short time before moving back to Ozona in October, 1919 to take over the management of the Ozona Telephone Company, which position he held for eight years. Shortly after leaving the employment of the telephone company he established the Ozona Steam Laundry selling the plant about a year ago to Rob and Roy Miller, who are operating it at present under the name of the Model Laundry.

Mr. Bennett was married on September 10, 1910, to Miss Buria Lohman of Eldorado. To this union one child was born, a daughter Ethel, who is now the wife of W. D. Dreaman of this city. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Surviving besides the widow and daughter are the father, E. W. Bennett of Fort Stockton, two brothers, R. A. Bennett of Ozona and John Bennett of Fort Stockton, and three sisters, Mrs. Edwin Hoefs of Albuquerque, N. M., Mrs. Carl Bantz of Fort Stockton and Mrs. Rob Miller of Ozona.

Rev. Meredith Writes Of Interesting Sights On 7,000-Mile Vacation Trip

The following interesting letter was received this week by the Stockman from Rev. J. H. Meredith, pastor of the Ozona Methodist Church, who is on a 6-weeks vacation tour in which he expects to travel about 7,500 miles by automobile. The letter follows: Mr. Evart White, Ozona, Texas,

Dear Evart: Thinking that you might want to tell the folks something of our trip I am sending this short sketch of the trip and the most important and interesting places we have visited and passed. The first place of interest was at Nashville where we visited the Hermitage, the home of Andrew Jackson. It is one of the American Shrines that every one should visit. Next, we visited the mountain city of Asheville, N. C. We had a very fine drive from Knoxville to Asheville through the mountains. It was a rainy after-

Ozona Coach Attends Coaching School In Session At Lubbock

Ted White, late coach at the Sonora High School and who has been elected to coach athletics at the Ozona High School during the coming term, is in Lubbock at present attending the Coaches Training School which will be in session two weeks. Mr. White comes to Ozona highly recommended and he is fitting himself for his work here next year by attending the "nation's largest" training school for coaches at Texas Tech.

The Lubbock training school will be under the direction of Wallace Wade, famous coach of the Alabama Crimson Tide for the past several years and now head coach at Duke University. Jimmy Phelan, former Notre Dame star, former coach at Missouri and Purdue and now head coach at the University of Washington, Ray Morrison of S. M. U. and other famous coaches will give instructions during the Lubbock training course.

Engineers Advise Delay In Fencing New Highway Routes

Road work in Crockett County can be speeded up considerably by a delay in construction of new right-of-way fences wherever possible along the routes of the highways, according to E. H. Gallenkamp, assistant to Exline Martin, resident engineer in this county for the State Highway Department.

Where fences are constructed before the grading work begins, it becomes necessary at times to take down the fence in order to cut a drainage ditch, to get dirt for a fill or to dispose of dirt from a cut, the engineer pointed out. The fence being up makes it difficult also to properly grade the road near the fence, he said.

"I believe that wherever it is possible to delay construction of the fences until after the road grading is completed, ranchmen will find that this is more satisfactory to them and I am sure it will be to the contractors," Mr. Gallenkamp said.

D. L. (Jack) McDermitt, sales representative of the Angelo Furniture Company, who formerly visited Ozona regularly, has again started calling on the local trade. He is here renewing old acquaintances and calling on prospects. He expects to make this territory about once a month.

$111,461 TO BE EXPENDED FOR NEW PROJECTS

Three Different Concerns Get Contracts On North Road

30-MILE PROJECT

Dallas, Waco & Strawn Contractors Successful Bidders

Contracts for grading and drainage of the Ozona-Barnhart road and construction of concrete drainage structures were awarded by the State Highway Commission in session at Austin last week, bringing a total of $111,461 in construction work to this county.

During the three-day session of the Commission, contracts totaling $4,993,982 were awarded, calling for improvement of 590 miles of highway in addition to a number of bridges. This was declared to be the largest program inaugurated since May, 1929. Highway officials declared satisfaction at the bids received on the projects, the bids reflecting the lower costs of materials and showing keen competition among contractors.

The first Crockett County contract award was made on the second day of the Commission meeting, Friday. This was for grading and drainage of a 15-mile stretch from Ozona to a point 15 miles north toward Barnhart on Highway No. 163. This job was awarded to A. E. Murdock of Dallas for a total of $40,770.

The closing day of the session saw the award of contracts for completion of the grading and drainage of the Ozona-Barnhart highway. Contract for grading and drainage of the 14.4 miles stretch from 15 miles north of Ozona into the town of Barnhart, 3 1/2 miles of which is in Irion County, was awarded to P. W. Bertram of Waco for a total contract price of $35,625. The same day contract was awarded to Crouch and Nolan of Strawn for construction of a bridge over Buckhorn draw and nine multiple box culverts on Highway 163. The price on this job was $35,075.

Other contract awards calling for construction work in West Texas counties include the following:

Coleman County: 11.4 miles grading and drainage from north of Coleman to south of Novice on Highway seven, J. S. Wade, Oklahoma City, Okla., $56,126.

Reeves County: Screw Bean Arroya on Highway 17, J. S. Harrison Construction Company, Waco, $18,595.

Reeves County: Bridge over Moody Draw on Highway one, Monarch Engineering Company, San Antonio, $6,419.

Concho County: 10.7 miles grading and drainage from Rannels County line to south of Paint Rock on Highway 4, Crouch and Nolan, Strawn, $29,825.

Potter County: 11.4 miles grading and drainage from Canadian River to Moore County line on Highways 5 and 115, Womack, Henning and Rollins, Sherman, $32,957.

Concho County: Hog Creek bridge on Highway 4, McClung Construction Company, Ft. Worth, $15,146.

Kendall County: Bridges across Little and Big Joshua Creeks and Holiday Creek on Highway 9, Cage Brothers Construction Company, Taft, $33,943.

A GOOD CODE FOR ANYBODY

Mahatma Gandhi, the leader of the revolution against British rule in India, told newspaper men the other day the rules of conduct which have governed his own life. He would not presume to lay down rules for anybody else, he said, but he had a code which he had consistently followed. These are the rules of life, as Gandhi observes them!

- Love. Truth. Chastity. Fearlessness. Service to others. Control of appetites. Belief in the equality of all mankind. Abstinence from alcohol, tobacco and drugs. Belief that all great religions are of equal worth. Taking nothing that is not paid for by one's own work. Valuing possessions not for themselves but for their usefulness.

It is not easy to live in a world which professes, in the main, such a code, and to obey it literally. For while these rules of conduct as laid down by Gandhi differ in no important respect from those laid down by Jesus Christ and before Him by Buddha and other great religious teachers, very few human beings have had the hardihood to even attempt to live up to them. Gandhi himself, even his enemies admit, comes about as close to it as any man in modern times.

It seems to us that one of the causes of the trouble in which the world finds itself today is that most people have forgotten these ancient rules of life, which have always been sound and still are. We have been carried away, all of us, both in America and elsewhere, by the idea that there is some magic in material possessions which will make us happy in spite of ourselves. Nothing was ever farther from the truth.

BACK UP THE PRESIDENT

President Hoover has announced a policy of rigid economy in Federal Government expenditures. He has incurred the anger of many minor officials by ordering them to spend no money not necessary to the public welfare, to incur no further obligations to be paid for in the future, and to cut their estimates of their departmental needs for next year down to the bone.

In the face of a deficit of nearly a billion dollars this year, it would be absurd to suggest that the President is not more than justified in his stand. Much of the reduction in expense will have to be in the program for naval expansion; a large part of it will have to come out of the Army appropriation. In time of peace there seems to be no better place to cut off expenditures. We are not going to suffer if we don't have quite so many cruisers and battleships. Nobody much is going to worry over the abandonment of a few obsolete Army Posts. The country won't go to ruin if a good many of the more ornamental bureaus and activities of Uncle Sam are suspended until

By The Town Gossip

Alma Johnigan naively asks why it is that men will sit flat down on the curbing at the windiest corner in town.

Don't know, Alma, unless they just like the cooling breezes. And then the scenery is always so entrancing.

Jake Young threw a stag dinner party at the Hotel Ozona Tuesday night in honor of Hilton North and R. T. Taylor, two blushing bridegrooms-to-be. Jake says the color scheme was red and white. And that term "blushing bridegrooms" was used with malice aforethought. For if they weren't blushing they should have been, to the Gossip's way of thinking.

There's plenty of talking in the local talkie but it's all east of the screen.

There used to be lots of competition between the talking patrons and the talking screen, but now it's too one-sided to amount to competition. The t. p.'s have it.

Local ranchers have fed so many Nema capsules to sheep lately that everytime one of their kids begins to droop they grab the forceps and a capsule.

we can get back to an even keel and live within our National income.

One thing is certain; there is nothing which the people of the United States would resent more keenly in the present situation than an increase in Federal taxation.

That goes, too, for state and local taxes. Political leaders who want to remain in office or to gain office can do nothing more popular now to follow the President's example and declare themselves for economy in State, County and Town expenditures. There is no part of the United States in which the burden of taxation is not already too heavy. Too much of it is carried on the shoulders of real estate, not enough on the shoulders of those who get the benefits of taxation without paying their proportionate share.

It seems to us that public funds should not be spent, for the time being at least, for anything which does not directly benefit all of the people. What benefits all of the people is public works which will give employment to the largest number of men and put them back in a position to become customers of the nation's industries and merchants. It also seems that ways should be found to apportion taxation in proportion not only to people's ability to pay, but also to the benefits derived.

Fisherman's Luck

By Albert T. Reid

Economy is just as sound Democratic doctrine as it is Republican doctrine. We cannot see any partisan politics in this move of Mr. Hoover's. It is just good business sense applied to national affairs.

MR. SULLIVAN SCORES A BULLSEYE

Replying to the Wickersham Commission's criticisms of prison discipline, Warden J. J. Sullivan of Stillwater Penitentiary places his finger squarely on the false premise upon which all arguments for "easier" prisons are based. He asks:

What kind of people do these reformers think are sent to prison? Do they think they send us theological students, model pupils from university class rooms, or representatives of the Kiwanis or Rotary Clubs? They send us criminals, some of them murderers and cutthroats, highwaymen. I have seen fellows here who would as soon run a knife through you as look at you.

Every idealist, seeking to transform penitentiaries into pleasant recreational centers, makes the mistake of assuming that prison populations are made up of men who react to kind treatment in the same way that he himself would react. He knows that a word of admonition would be all that was needed to keep him docile, and he takes it for granted that a mere word of admonition can be similarly effective in the case of a murderous thug.

He knows, does this idealist, that he himself would not take advantage of intramural freedom of intercourse to plot mutinies and plan the slaughter of warden and keepers, and he mistakenly assumes that such privileges would not be abused by the fellow "who would as soon run a knife through you as look at you."

The men who commonly find their way into penitentiaries are not men of the sort whose word of honor can be taken at face value; not men of the sort that repay kindness with obedience and gratitude; not men of the sort that can be trusted elsewhere than under the eyes of armed guards.

But that cannot be, says your typical prison reformer. The mistake, he thinks, runs the other way, lies in the assumption by hard boiled wardens and keepers that convicts are mostly brutes. Try soft handedness, he insists.

"TWISTING" BECOMES ILLEGAL

Texas has passed an anti-twisting bill.

This legislation does not relate to cyclones or tornadoes but to the growing practice of smart salesmen known as "twisters" who endeavor, by misleading representations, incomplete comparisons of policies or other questionable methods, to induce any person to lapse, forfeit or surrender his insurance policy. There is growing agitation against this method of soliciting insurance business, and particularly life insurance, where the value of most policies increase with age.

Insurance rates and the benefits offered thereunder result from a close study of thousands and hundreds of thousands of actual cases. Standard insurance policies offering a specified kind of protection, vary little in their terms for the simple reason that the law of averages is as definite as that two and two make four.

The "twister" generally tries to show the insured that by cancelling one policy and taking another kind offered, a saving will be made. The trouble is that the average policyholder cannot read between the lines and see where he is losing his savings or getting less protection by cancelling old line policies.

Carry more insurance if you wish but don't let someone talk you out of a perfectly good policy thereby losing your accumulated benefits and savings.

and the results will prove that he is right.

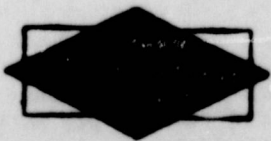

But soft handedness has been tried, and those who have tried it—when, indeed, they have survived murderous mutinies—have lived to rue the day. The prison reformer thinks as he does, because he does not know conscientious brutes in the raw. Naturally, he does not encounter them in the assemblages he frequents. He does not find them at teas, lectures, and such. Therefore, he makes his mistake of assuming that men who murder and rob for a living are made of the same stuff, down under the blemishes inflicted by "unfortunate environment," as are the kindly gentlemen he meets at teas and lectures.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY THE AUTHOR

by ETHEL HUESTON

Rowena suggests to Peter that they make a "companionate" marriage. They are married and go to Cheyenne, where their actions, when they ask for rooms on separate floors, arouses the suspicions of the hotel clerk. They finally succeed in getting rooms, but not without exciting the laughter of the hotel loungers.

THE STORY

Although Peter was furiously angry, highly humiliated, and blaming Rowena for everything, he was kind at heart and could not resist the plaintive pathos in her voice, usually so crisp and cool.

"Good night, Rowena," he said more pleasantly than she had any right to expect. "Don't worry. Everything'll be all right."

After a sleepless night Peter was down in the lobby at an unbelievably early hour. But early as it was, he did not precede the interested smiles and stares of the day staff which had replaced the night workers—clerks, telephone operators and elevator boys.

Even at that unreasonable hour there were loungers in the lobby. And each and every one of them, and even the head waitress smiling in the door of the dining-room, knew all about the young New Yorkers married the day before in Denver who demanded rooms on separate floors. Confusion stung his face with burning red.

He went upstairs, walked up to Rowena's room and knocked sharply.

"Yes—who?" called Rowena in a bright voice that had obviously been schooled to register good nature in the face of adversity. "Me," he answered surlily. "Chuck your things into your bag and let's get out of here."

"How about breakfast?"

"The hell with breakfast."

"O. K. by me," called Rowena, in the maddening voice of one who has stoutly enjoined one's inner soul to smiles and sweetness. And indeed even in her sleep Rowena had been reminding herself that she must be very patient with Peter for a few days, as he was apt to be just the least bit in the world cross about the state of affairs.

Within an hour they were hurling the dust of Cheyenne from the wheels of the roadster and as soon as the last outpost of the city lay buried in the past Peter pulled off to the side of the road and drew up to a grinding stop. Then he turned to Rowena and his was not the look of a newly married man.

"Well, you see what fools we made of ourselves," he began. "I hope you're satisfied."

"I'm terribly sorry," said Rowena humbly. "I feel just wretchedly about everything. But I couldn't possibly foresee such awful complications, now could I, Peter? What experience have I had with husbands and hotel registers and such monstrosities?"

"We'll just have to make the best of a suite or adjoining rooms hereafter," said Peter more kindly. "It's this demanding separate floors that makes them give us the razzberry."

"But we can't have connecting rooms, Peter," protested Rowena unhappily. "We just can't. We have to be terribly careful about things like that or we can't get it annulled. Don't you see, Peter, if we stay in adjoining rooms clear across the country, nobody in the world is going to believe we—really did—stay in adjoining rooms."

"Then we'll have to get a divorce instead of an annulment. I am not going to make a fool of myself like that again."

"But we can't get a divorce in New York," protested Rowena. "I wrote a story about that once—I know how the laws are. One of us would have to go to Reno or Paris to get it and it would take every cent of money we can save on the whole trip to pay for the divorce. And what good would that do to anybody?"

"I'll give you grounds to get it right in New York," said Peter grimly. "I'm desperate."

"That's like you, Peter," said Rowena impatiently. "Thinking only of yourself as usual. Well, don't you think for a minute that I'm going to get a divorce in New York. I'm not going to be made a fool of there before all my friends."

"What do you mean—made a fool of?" Peter demanded.

"Why, having everybody think I'm so no-good I can't hang on to a husband for two months! No, if it comes to that, I'll give you grounds."

"You'll what?"

"Give you grounds for a divorce?"

"What grounds?"

"The same grounds you so magnanimously offered me."

"Rowena, are you crazy? A woman can't do a thing like that. Why, it—it would ruin you. You're crazy!"

"Oh, am I? Well, let me tell you one thing, Mr. Peter Blande! I'd rather have my friends think I stepped out on you two months after our marriage than that I couldn't keep you from stepping out on me. It's much more flattering, I assure you!"

"You would, Rowena, I honestly believe you would! You're just that dumb," said Peter. "However, let's not fight over getting the divorce today. The thing to agree on now is that we've got to put up with rooms adjoining or ensuite and say no more about separate floors."

"If you're too proud to ask for separate floors, I'll do it," said Rowena. "I'd rather be embarrassed before a strange hotel clerk than be the laughing stock of my friends."

"Yes that would do me a lot of good, wouldn't it?" demanded Peter. "That would certainly save my face! To have my wife sail up to the desk and register for me and ask for rooms on separate floors. Oh, yes, that would make everything fine and dandy."

"I'm not your wife," stormed Rowena.

"No, thank God."

"I'm just happen to be married to you—by accident. A—a sort of detour."

"Worse luck, growled Peter.

Rowena opened the door and sprang out.

"What are you going to do? Walk to Yellowstone?"

"I am going," said Rowena coldly, "to retire in peace to my rumble seat."

"Rowena, I ask you, don't be any more ridiculous than usual," he pleaded. "How's it going to look—only two of us in a roadster and you riding in the rumble seat in this boiling hot sun?"

"I'm above worrying about how things look," said Rowena. "I'd rather be bounced and bruised and blistered in the rumble seat than insulted in—the lap of luxury."

She raised the umbrella with a vicious little click of the snap, adjusted the cushions about her slender body, and rode the rumble in solemn grandeur, leaving Peter to fume futilely alone in front.

It was about the hour of sunset when a sudden shadow blackened the west, a sudden cool breeze touched their faces.

"They must be having showers in the mountains," said Peter.

Only TRUTHFUL TIRE ADVERTISING WINS!

WHEN we advertised the fact that Firestone was furnishing us complete lines of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires that not only met the price but beat the quality and construction of every grade of special brand tires sold by mail order houses and others, the mail order houses made vigorous protests to Better Business Bureaus and made demands upon newspapers not to accept Firestone or our advertising.

We cannot blame them for they did not want car owners to know that they could get, at no more cost, a better tire made by a leading manufacturer, bearing his name and guarantee plus our guarantee and our service.

When car owners awakened to this fact, they came to us, compared the sections we had cut from Firestone Tires and special brand mail order tires, and were astounded at the Extra Values we were giving.

As a result, our business and that of other Firestone Dealers throughout the country, increased so fast that it has been necessary for Firestone to run their factories twenty-four hours a day and Firestone sold more tires in April, May and June than in any like period in the history of the company.

In our advertising we do not make comparisons involving laboratory tests which you cannot verify except in a laboratory—neither do we make comparisons of construction or price based on misleading classifications such as first line tire, second line tire or third line tire—we do not make comparisons to confuse and mislead you as to actual values and service—we only make statements and comparisons that you can verify for yourself in our store before you purchase the tire.

Come in today and get the greater safety, extra quality and extra values found only in Firestone Tires.

*When the National Better Business Bureau realized that their Bulletin No. 634 was being taken advantage of by some advertisers they issued a Bulletin dated July 10th as follows:

"In our Bulletin No. 634 entitled 'Definitions of Terms Used in the Tire Industry' we published definitions of First Line — Second Line — Third Line — Heavy Duty and Super Heavy Duty Tires.

"Our definitions pointed out, 'Although each manufacturer's or distributor's first line tire may represent his best standard size 4 or 6 ply tire, there is not necessarily any equality of competitive first line tires as to materials, workmanship or price.' This interpretation also applies to all lines of tires.

"We therefore recommend that advertising to the consumer shall avoid the use of these terms for the purpose of comparing competitive products."

Sol Mayer Says Wool Would Be Unsold But For Marketing Corp.

Without the National Wool Marketing Corporation, the sheep and goat raisers of this section would have their sheds loaded with wool and mohair, and what little that was sold would bring only a meager price, Sol Mayer, president of the corporation said in addressing the annual convention of the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association in San Angelo last week.

"Shipments of 1931 wool to the corporation continue to run substantially above the volume for corresponding periods of 1930," he said. "July 8 of this year, co-operative receipts of 1931 wools amounted to 80,142,361 pounds, excluding wool stored on the Pacific coast. These figures show a gain over the 63,388,543 pounds shipped to Boston last year." The world wool production for 1930 was placed at 3,144,000,000, with a 25 million pound decrease predicted for this year, he said.

The consumption of wool jumped from 143,989,000 pounds during the first five months of 1930 to 158,000,000 pounds in the same period of this year, Mr. Mayer said. January was the slightest month this year in wool demand with May the highest, while in 1930 it was vice versa, he asserted. These are according to government figures and includes only 80 per cent of the mills.

"Growers throughout the middle west and east are enthusiastically responding to the national co-operative plan," the president said. "The Indiana Wool Growers' Association reports that up to July 6, it had received 41 per cent more wool than the total amount pooled in that state in 1930. Other associations report an equal increase."

The demand for mohair is somewhat better than for several months, it was declared. "Kid hair is in very good demand and has been bringing from 38 to 55 cents per pound. Some mohair sold recently at 17 cents for grown and 27 cents for kid hair," he said, in declaring it an undesirable practice and a prevention for the progress of this association.

Meeting Changed By Sheep-Goat Raisers

SAN ANGELO, TEX., July 28—Two radical changes were made at the convention of the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association of Texas when members adopted a resolution this morning changing the date of the annual gathering from the summer time to December or January, and designated the third Tuesday of each July for the annual sale which will alternate between San Angelo and Del Rio.

T. A. Kincaid, of Ozona, president, in his annual report, indicated the influence of the organization in promotion of lamb consumption, in refutation of the Government health department statement which advised people not to eat meat in the summer time and in securing privileges under the new truck bill which allow the ranchmen to operate their own carrier service.

Rufus—"Nah, suh. We done have to postpone it."

HUNTING CHARGES PERMITTED

COLLEGE STATION, Texas—Through the provisions of a law enacted in 1925, permitting land owners to make a charge for hunting privileges on their premises, farmers and ranchmen of Texas are in a position to make game an auxiliary crop of considerable importance. William J. Tucker, executive secretary of the State Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, pointed out in a talk on "Game as an Auxiliary Farm and Ranch Crop" at the Farmers Short Course, Texas A & M College, Wednesday.

While charges for hunting privileges had been made prior to the passage of the law of 1925, it was not until legal status was given the procedure that land owners awakened to a true value of their game crop, the speaker went on to say. Whereas game, he continued, is the property of the people in their sovereign capacity, a qualified right in such game is held by the land owner whose premises it occupies, and therefore the lawmakers reasoned that the land owner has the right of profit in the game resources of his land as long as he takes this profit from the privilege of hunting. There, is of course, Mr. Tucker pointed out, a vast difference in the sale of hunting privileges and sale of the game itself.

Sale of hunting privileges has been most extensive in Central West Texas, known as the Hill Country, where an abundance of deer and turkey attract the hunter and prove a source of considerable revenue to the rancher. Game is regarded no longer as an acci-

"Do you know," said the foreman, pompously, "that I began life as a barefoot boy?"

"Well," said the fireman. "I wasn't born with shoes on, either."

Long Taxi Ride

A Nyack woman—Nyack is just outside of the city—hired a taxi to take her to her mail order suit-or, who lived in Kalkerton, Ind., the other day. When she got to Indiana she changed her mind and drove back in the same cab.

Mrs. Ida Wheaton, who is 55, had corresponded with the man in the case for years. She finally decided to go to him and shipped her furniture. Then she loaded the cat and canary in Frank Partow's cab and traveled 889 miles in thirty hours.

She called it off when she found her intended husband was only 36 years old and sickly. It cost her exactly $400 for taxi fare, both ways.

The incident shows how used to taxicabs New Yorkers have become.

Courtesy Cops

New York has had so many compliments paid it on her fine policemen that Commissioner Mulrooney decided the other day to go a step farther.

He selected eighty-four of the handsomest and best appearing policemen on the force and detailed them to Times Square and other busy corners where visitors are thickest, with instructions to consider themselves as a welcoming committee.

Mulrooney claims they form a finer body of men than the famous Coldstream Guards or Royal Horse Troop are to London. The shortest man on the new detail is only one inch short of six feet.

H.R.H. Al Smith

The King of Siam was taken to the top of the Empire State building the other day by Al Smith, and shown what New York looks like to a bird. The two had an enjoyable visit and the King's eyes did not bother him in the least, scoring one more bull's-eye for American surgery.

A funny thing about the visit is that it has hung a new title on the man who came close to the Presidency. His intimates now refer to him as "His Royal Highness" the title used by royal heirs. That's what he gets for being boss of the world's tallest building.

Flyers Got Works

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty got a full jolt of New York's welcome the other day when they ended their globe-circling trip. It was so strenuous that they insisted it was the most trying part of their whole trip. But they enjoyed every minute of it, particularly the noise, Post helping out in the din by hanging onto the whistle cord of the "Macom," the city's official boat, as it steamed down to the battery.

He gave up in disgust when the "Macom" passed the "Acquitanian." The big liner let go with its own big whistle and it drowned out all other sounds for a minute. The two flyers made a big hit with everybody, except when it came to speeches. Neither one of them is an orator.

Few Fireworks

New York is not a noisy city on the Fourth of July any more. Time used to be when the papers always carried a long list of dead and injured the day after the celebration but those times have passed. Now the youngsters have to

Coffee Ice Cream

One quart of cream, half pound of pulverized sugar, four ounces of Mocha or three ounces of Java. Have the coffee ground coarsely; put it in a double boiler with one pint of cream, and steep for ten minutes, then strain it through a fine muslin, pressing it hard to get out the strength; add the sugar, stir until it is dissolved, add the remaining pint of cream, and when cold, freeze.

Frozen Coffee Custard

This recipe for coffee ice cream calls for less cream. The richness is provided by the eggs.

Four eggs, half pint of cream, half pound of sugar, one pint of milk, half pint of strong coffee. Put the milk in a double boiler to scald. Beat the eggs and sugar together until very light, add them to the hot milk, cook an instant, take from the fire, add the cream and coffee. When scold, freeze.

Fruit Sherbet

Here is a delicious fruit sherbet that is a welcome change from the usual creams:

Boil together for five minutes one pound of sugar and one quart of water. Beat the yolks of six eggs and add to the boiling syrup. Stir just a moment, then take from the fire and beat until cold. Have in readiness one cup mixed fruit which has been soaked in a half cup of grape juice. When the mixture is cold turn into the freezer and freeze. Remove the beater, stir in the fruit with a wooden spoon and serve in punch glasses.

get outside of the city limits to buy Chinese firecrackers and other noise-makers, and then take a chance some cop isn't around when he sets them off.

It certainly is an improvement over the old days—except that we feel sorry for the kids who are stopped from celebrating. Everybody agrees, however, that a good rule was passed when the sale of fireworks was stopped. It cost too much suffering for the small amount of pleasure gained.

BERTRAM IDENTIFIES SUSPECTED MEXICAN

The Mexican held in the Crockett County jail as a suspect in the slaying of Jarvis Harp in this county 15 years ago was again identified as the Mexican who is under indictment in this county for the slaying under the name of Salome Alvareal when he was taken before Jim Bertram, old time resident of Crockett County, at a San Angelo hospital late last week.

Mr. Bertram told officers that he had worked with the Mexican along about the time of the slaying and that he later worked with the same man in Mexico. He positively identified the suspect as the man long sought as the slayer of Harp.

Concho County, $43,374 on Highway 4.

Brown County, $65,173 on Highway 129.

Irion County, $32,265 on Highway 163.

Crockett County, $65,254 on Highway 163.

COURAGE

Some surprise has been expressed that young men wealthy enough to own seagoing yachts should have the courage to sail their own craft in the ocean race from Newport, R. I., to Plymouth England, especially over the dangerous northern route. This surprise is voiced by newspapers and individuals who regard courage as an attribute solely of the so-called "working class."

That is a peculiarly American point of view. We have come to regard the man who does no useful work, but lives on inherited wealth, as a feminized sort of person, unfit to associate with "he-men."

The fact is that courage has nothing to do with wealth, occupation or social status. Brave men are to be found everywhere.

GOLD

The great gold reef in South Africa, known as The Rand, is still producing as prolifically as ever, according to a recent report of the company which operates this, the world's largest gold mine. Since gold was discovered in the valley which the Boers called "Witwatersrand," in 1886, more than five billion dollars of the precious metal has been taken out of this one group of mines. Two hundred thousand native workers and 22,000 whites are employed in the mines, which are now down 7,000 feet below the surface and show no sign of petering out.

So long as the world's trade is carried on with money which represents gold—and no other kind of money is of value in international commerce—there is need for a constant fresh supply of the metal.

SERVICE

The suggestion that Atlee Pom-erene, former United States Senator from Ohio, shall run for Congress in the Cleveland district where he lives, where there is a vacancy to be filled, brings up one difference between public life in this country and Europe. On the other side, when a man embarks on a career of public service he usually remains in it, regardless of whether he keeps on climbing the ladder from one office to a higher one. If he loses his seat in the British Cabinet he is content to continue as an ordinary Member of Parliament. Thus at the present time there are two former Prime Ministers in the House of Commons, Lloyd-George and Stanley Baldwin.

Two men who had been President of the United States served later in Congress; John Quincy Adams in the House of Representatives and Andrew Johnson in the Senate. Theodore Burton of Ohio, after being a Senator went back to the House, to be elected Senator again later. But the usual American custom is to retire from public life rather than take a "lower" office than the one last held.

HAPPINESS

Dr. C. E. K. Mees, research director of the Eastman Kodak Company, thinks people were happier as a rule when they had fewer modern improvements.

Of course, Dr. Mees is right. Happiness has nothing to do with money, possessions or comfort. Nobody can confer happiness; it must come from within one's self. These things which we lump under the general term of "improvements" merely give the individual more time in which to pursue happiness.

All of these things do not make happiness, however. The only source of happiness is in fitting one's self into the social scheme in such a way as neither to interfere with the lives of others nor to be interfered with by others, and to find something congenial with which to occupy one's leisure time. And that is, I am convinced easier to do now than it ever was before.

erson Memorial Foundation and restored to its original condition. It is one of the most beautiful buildings surviving from our nation's early days, and gains additional interest because Jefferson himself was its architect and it was built of brick made on his own estate.

Few people today realize what a many-sided man Thomas Jefferson was. He was a successful farmer, a leader in scientific research, an accomplished musician and linguist, and the inventor of the first scientifically-designed plowshare, of the swivel chair and the folding buggy-top, among other things. His greatest achievement, however, was the drafting of the Declaration of Independence and his devotion of the remaining fifty years of his life to the effort to establish the principles of individual liberty which that great document promulgated.

The Jefferson Foundation is now raising a national endowment fund to provide an income for the maintenance of Monticello as a shrine of liberty. I can think of no cause more worthy of the contributions of every liberty-loving American.

Let's cut through this welter of words

WHEN you set out to buy tires, don't you really want the most miles and the utmost in safety at the lowest possible price.

That being your objective, which tire should you buy?

If the experience of 20,000,000 motorists means anything, you should certainly buy Goodyears.

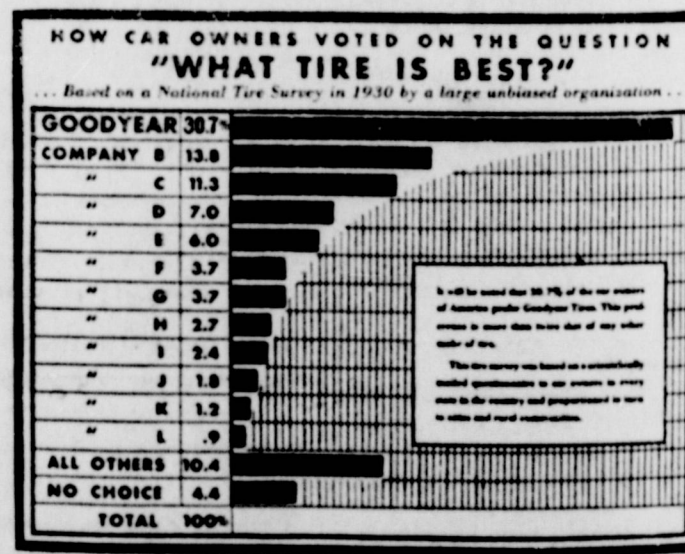

But if you try to puzzle through the welter of statistics on thicknesses, weights and diameters you lose the main issue and are as much at sea as ever.

The one and only reliable guide for you to follow is the seasoned preference of the public.

And that preference is overwhelmingly for Goodyear.

This fact expressed year after year by Goodyear's great leadership is concretely told again in the findings of an impartial investigation made by an unbiased dependable institution that asked 205,000 car owners this simple question:

QUESTION: "Regardless of price, convenience, etc., what make of tire do you consider the BEST tire made?"

There's the only buying guide that means anything to you car owners.

Drivers of sixes never want less because it takes six cylinders to give the smooth, silent power that makes driving really enjoyable

Drivers of sixes are spoiled for anything less. Drivers of sixes are sold on multiple cylinders. They would no more think of giving up "six" performance than any other real advancement of motoring. For them, the whole cylinder question has been settled.

Slip behind the wheel of a Chevrolet Six, and you'll know why these drivers feel as they do. Step on the starter, let the motor idle—and notice its silence. Throw in the clutch, shift into "low"—and feel that smoothness. Change into "second," hit a faster and faster clip, slip into "high," sweep along at top speed—then throttle down to barely a crawl. The smoothness and flexibility you always get are six-cylinder smoothness, six-cylinder flexibility. Annoying vibration is gone!

Over two million owners have tested and proved this six-cylinder Chevrolet engine. They have found that it costs less for gas and oil than any other. They have found that it actually reduces upkeep costs, by holding vibration to a minimum. They know a six is better in every way—and they would never be satisfied with less!

Twenty beautiful models, at prices ranging from $475 to $675. All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan, special equipment extra. Low delivery prices and easy C. M. A. C. terms.

But Rowena, deep in a painful sleep of complete exhaustion, did not answer.

It was more than showers they were having in the mountains—it was cloudbursts, one after the other in torrential downpour, and in less time than it took for the cooling breeze to sweep down the plain with refreshment for their tired faces, every dry creek bed and parched arroyo that led from the hot mountains to the burning plains was flooded with rushing water from the heights.

He guided the little roadster along the yellow mesa road toward another of the narrow rocky gorges through which they had been passing at intervals all day long. The roar in his ears grew louder, closer. Suddenly it sounded ominous and threatening. Peter looked to the west and was amazed to see a solid wall of water nearly as high as the car sweeping down the little canyon.

Instinctively his foot pressed the accelerator. The roaring wall of water was close but the arroyo itself was closer—a scant few feet away—and in a few minutes the onrushing river would render it impassable for cars. The car leaped forward down the steep slope into the arroyo. But the hungry water, as if jealous of this boldness, roared down upon them. The car swung powerless beneath his hand, slid away from the road and the river tossed it lightly downstream and drove it securely into a crevice among the rocks.

Rowena, suddenly aroused from her exhausted sleep, had started up in terror at sight and sound of the torrential river bearing down upon them. Prompted by an innate impulse she struggled quickly up to the seat of the rumble, intending to jump, but the car was flung violently from beneath her and cheated of her insecure foothold she fell headlong, face downward, in the icy water.

Peter, stunned by the unexpected onslaught of water, was startled to action at sight of Rowena whipped helpless against the rocks by the irresistible flood.

"You little fool—what did you jump for?" he shouted, but even as he spoke he was out of the car and in less than a moment had her firmly in his arm. Slowly he drew her back until they had the support of the car behind them against the cold pressure of the water.

"I didn't!" she shouted as soon as she recovered her breath. "Fell!"

"Sorry!" roared Peter regretfully. "My fault! Shouldn't have tried it!—No good racing a river!"

"Cheerio!" comforted, Rowena loudly. "You nearly made it!"

Other cars pulled up beside the new-born river, and the occupants lent their willing assistance in getting Peter and Rowena safely up on shore. And Peter, against the advice of the tourists and the frightened orders of Rowena, went immediately back to the car for their bags.

"All the clothes we've got," he explained cheerfully. "They're important."

Fortunately the bags were not yet soaked through and except for a few articles on top the contents were dry. Rowena and Peter, soaking wet, hurriedly got out dry clothes and then paused abruptly regarding both the crowd and each other with timorous hesitancy.

"I'll have my tent up in a jiffy," said a big red-faced Kansas farmer with loud kindness. "River'll be down by morning, but we'll all have to pitch camp here tonight. Give a hand there, youngster."

And before he had finished announcing his kind intentions he had raised a diminutive tent and extended its hospitality to the dripping pair.

"Key to the city, lady and gent" he said with a great laugh.

Peter made a hasty motion to Rowena who slipped quickly inside and dropped the flap.

"Your wife, I take it," said the red-faced Kansan with a puzzled air.

"Yes," said Peter. "But—the tent isn't so very big—and we're both so terribly wet—and besides—I want to have another look at the car. I don't want it carried off down the canyon."

"Don't you worry about that car brother. That there car is put for keeps. At least till the river goes down."

Other cars pulled up and their occupants joined the enforced camp on the river bank. They put up tents and staked out claims here and there. Children were set to gathering stones and sticks for a fireplace.

All together they ate impromptu supper on the plains, sitting in a cluster of friendly groups about the fire, and afterward as the darkness fell and the stars lit the black sky over the black prairie, they gathered closer and talked. Some sang, and the men smoked. And presently by twos or by families they crept away to their separate camps for the night.

"Here's an old mattress you can use," said the Kansas farmer, tossing it across to Peter. "We've got another one. It's not very big but you're not a very big family."

Have You Met The Lady Who Never Reads The Ads?

GO INTO her kitchen. The shelves are filled with familiar brands of soup and soap and foods of all sorts. Her electric iron and ice-box have been advertised regularly. So have her rugs and towels and table silver. SOMEBODY must have been reading "the ads" . . . asking for known quality . . . buying the goods . . . giving them leadership.

Few women now are content to miss the marvelous comforts of the times. Almost every one is planning to make next year easier and pleasanter than this year. YOU read the advertisements with interest because in them you find the freshest news and the most practical ideas about keeping house—and about all other branches of the modern art of living.

Naturally, your interest and your confidence grow when you see the same product appearing over and over again. Improved . . . better now than ever, but an old friend, anyway. Something you can rely on to meet a need, and do a job.

Follow the advertisements in this paper carefully. They are full of interesting facts and useful ideas. They will save you time and money . . . and bring you better things

Standard Brands

If you are offered something inordinately cheap, before you buy it ask yourself if you know what it is you are buying. Inferior merchandise is on the market in great quantities—those "just as good" brands, you know. Of course, we do not say that anything that is new is no good, but we do say that the old line, standard brands, nationally advertised merchandise is the safest bet when you are not certain of the quality of the goods you are buying.

We handle only standard merchandise. The best lines that the wholesale market affords, lines that have stood the test of national advertising, brands that have stood up under the critical eye of users, that have been tested and found satisfactory and have been leading sellers for years. That's the kind of merchandise that is safe to buy—your money's worth of quality merchandise every time.

You will not find an "off brand" on our shelves. We do not handle "shoddy" merchandise. We buy the best that is offered and you get it at the lowest reasonable margin of profit, plus a lot of service. What more could you ask from your grocer.

Meredith Writes Of Vacation Trip

fast. At Lexington we visited the Washington and Lee University, saw there a great many Lee relics, saw his tomb and a recumbent statue which is in the chapel of the University. At Charlottesville which was named after Charlotte, the wife of King George, and was settled in 1732, is the home of Thomas Jefferson—Monticello—which we visited, spending most of a forenoon there. It is impossible to describe it here but somehow we felt that we were treading on Holy Ground. Near here is the home of Patrick Henry and of President James Monroe. In this community both Lewis and Clark were born and there in a fine statue to their memory situated on the campus of the University of Virginia which is situated here.

Going back south from Charlottesville to Lynchburg, we passed the old grave yard where Patrick Henry's mother is buried, and at Amherst is the grave of Gen. Samuel Meredith who married Jane, the sister of Patrick Henry. Turning east at Lynchburg, we passed Appomattox Court House where Lee surrendered to Grant. We spent some time here with a little girl as a guide, showing us the markers of the battle field and the place where the surrender was signed, and where Lee made his farewell address to his soldiers. Having the day before visited the tomb of Lee made this very impressive. We spent the night at Prince George, a small place noted because Cornwallis chased Lafayette through the place to get a licking a few miles farther on, and that Gen. Grant spent a night there during the Civil War.

Enjoyed Scenery

From Prince George we traveled along the south side of the James river almost every foot of which is historical ground. The old Bacon Castle, built in 1655, the place where Captain John Smith lived, St. Lukes Church (Episcopal) built in 1632, Benn's Church where Bishop Asbury preached in 1804, Smithfield the home of the famous Virginia Hams. Through Portsmouth and then out to Virginia Beach, where we are spending the second Sunday. We will not leave here until the laundry gets in operation Monday, when we will visit Jamestown, Yorktown and then to Washington, D. C.

I cannot close without mentioning three wonderful scenes, one is at Lookout Mountain, where you can look over the city of Chattanooga and see several miles of the Tennessee river, also see hills in Georgia and Alabama. The next is the Natural Bridge of Virginia. This was one time owned by Thomas Jefferson. George Washington was the first to survey the land when he was nineteen years old. His initials are still in plain view on the corner stone near the bridge, also on one side of the bridge. The next beautiful sight was when we crossed the Blue Ridge Mountains between Staunton and Charlottesville, when we could look for miles over the valley east of the mountains. This is the most beautiful country I have ever seen.

We have had no mishaps on the way, but it has been rainy ever since we left home, but two days that it has not rained some time during the day or night, but it has been cool and no dust. The roads have been fine. A few short detours has been the only slow places we have had. I think we have averaged about 200 miles a day, 354 was the biggest days drive we have made and that was the day out of Texas. We have now driven 2,644 miles which is about a third of the trip.

We are feeling fine, went to church here this morning and heard a good sermon, however, the biggest crowd was down on the beach.

Sincerely yours,

J. H. MEREDITH.

Wish you would mail us a paper or two, at Boston, Mass., we expect to be there August 6th.
