ROBT. MASSIE TO BE BURIED FRI. MORNING

Pioneer Rancher And Business Man Died In Dallas Wed.

HEAD WOOL FIRM Start Of His Fortune Made On Ranch In This County

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock Friday morning from the First Methodist Church in San Angelo for Robert Massie, 64, well known West Texas ranchman and business man of San Angelo, who died in a Dallas hospital at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning following an operation more than a week ago.

Rev. Grady Timmons, pastor of the First Methodist Church in San Angelo, will be in charge of the services. Burial will be in Fairmount Cemetery.

Essentially a pioneering leader Mr. Massie became prominent in the wool business and was closely associated with the sheep and ranching industry during the near half century that he lived in West Texas. He had been president of the Wool Growers Central Storage Company since its organization here 22 years ago, on February 9, 1909.

born in Scotland

The widow and other members of the family were in Dallas at the time of Mr. Massie's death. Mr. and Mrs. Massie reared Mrs. R. L. Vaughan, and Archie Bean, niece and nephew and Mrs. Mack Hartgrove of Paint Rock, an adopted daughter. Other survivors include George and Ed Bean of Ozona and three brothers, Will Massie of Covington, Ky., Hugh and John Massie of Aberdeen, Scotland. Miss Grace Baze also lived with the family for a number of years.

Mr. Massie was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, April 20, 1867 and came to Canada when he was 16 years old. After working several months for the Grand Trunk line he, with two other youths, came to Colorado City, Texas, in 1883.

After working on ranches for a few years he started his own ranch about 10 miles north of Ozona and between Ozona and Barnhart and there started amassing his fortune. His Crockett County ranch, the only one he owned, is composed of 70 sections.

To Angelo In 1910

Always a leader, he was one of the organizers of the Wool Growers Central Storage Company and served as active president during its existence. He was also a director in the Central National Bank and in the Ozona National Bank. He was a member of the San Angelo Rotary Club. Mr. Massie was elected president of the Texas Wool & Mohair Association when it was organized here. He was head of the Robert Massie Furniture Company and of the Robert Massie Funeral Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Massie moved to San Angelo in 1910 and had lived at the family residence at 815 South Abe Street since that time. Their summers were usually spent at the summer home in Hollywood, New Mexico.

Mr. Massie had been ill only in recent weeks. At his bedside in Dallas were Mrs. Massie, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Vaughn, Mrs. Puckett of Sonora, Mrs. Hartgrove of Paint Rock, George and Ed Bean of Ozona and Archie Bean of the Robert Massie Furniture Company.

Mr. Massie's estate is estimated at in excess of a million dollars.

Giants Win 20-19 At Big Lake Sunday, To Play Here Next Sun.

The Ozona Giants nosed out the Big Lake diamond squad on the latter's own ground last Sunday afternoon 20 to 19 in a scoring bee lasting nine innings in which the two teams showed to be about evenly matched in slugging ability, the score being tied three or four times during the scrimmage.

Each team used four hurlers in an effort to baffle the lynx-eyed batsmen, but the scores mounted on higher and higher. Ozona moundsmen who took turns in the box included James, Pierce, Con Cox and Brown.

The Big Lake nine plan to come to Ozona next Sunday for a return game on the local diamond. The game had not been definitely arranged, however, the Big Lake manager promising to come on condition that he could round up all players. If the team gets here, the game will be called about 2:30 Sunday afternoon at Powell Field.

Many From Ozona To Attend Rodeo At Chandler Ranch

A dozen or more car loads of Ozona people left Wednesday afternoon and early Thursday morning for the Charley Chandler ranch between Sheffield and Sanderson to attend the first annual Ranchmen's Reunion and Rodeo to be staged there today and tomorrow.

An elaborate program of old West entertainment features, including steer roping and riding, bronc busting, goat roping, steer bulldogging, horse racing, etc. has been arranged by the Chandler brothers, Joe and Herman, with "Hackberry Slim" Johnson in charge of the show.

Several hundred people are expected to be on hand for the two days entertainment program. There will be free barbecue both days and an old-time western dance each night. Free camping sites on Independence Creek will add to the delight of the visitors. The Chandlers plan to make this an annual event and are sparing no pains to make it a worthwhile entertainment.

Rodeo Baseball Series Planned

Local Enthusiasts May Arrange Games Benefit Grandstand

A three-game baseball series on the local diamond during the sixth annual Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet, Stock Show and Sale is being planned by local baseball enthusiasts in the event teams from neighboring towns can be secured to meet the Giants.

Proceeds from the games, in the event they are arranged, will go into the fund for construction of a grandstand on Powell Field, it was indicated by the team management. Benefit games for this fund have been held for the past year or more and nearly $100 has accrued as a result of the effort. It is believed that a three-game series during the rodeo will add considerably to the fund and team heads hope to be able to match the series.

The games will be played during the morning on each day of the rodeo at Powell Field.

CORRECTION

Through a misunderstanding of information given by relatives, The Stockman last week carried a story of the death of the mother of Roy Parker of Ozona. The story should have been that his father, W. C. Parker, had died at Abilene. Funeral services were held in Fort Worth, where the widow resides. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Parker attended the funeral.

Handsome Booklets Issued To Advertise 6th Annual Event

The handsome 60-page catalogues for the 1931 Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet, Stock Show and Sale are now off the press and are being distributed all over the country as advertising material for the sixth annual event to be staged here July 2, 3 and 4.

Fifteen hundred copies of the books were printed and nearly 700 of them have already been broadcast over this section. Ozona people are getting them out by the hundreds for mailing to friends all over the state. The books, together with circulars and other advertising material for the fair, may be secured at the office of The Ozona Stockman. The postage charges on the books is 3 cents unsealed and 12 cents each when sealed or first class mail.

Practically every business house in Ozona, with only a few exceptions, and numbers of firms in San Angelo and other towns in this section subscribed advertising space in the book, as in previous years, making its issuance possible. LET CONTRACT ON EAST END OST JUNE 22

Hiway Department Announces Award On 15 Miles Of Road

OTHERS LET SOON

Grading And Drainage Contracts From Ozona To Sutton Line

Bids will be received by the State Highway Department June 22 on the grading and drainage structures on 15 miles of the Old Spanish Trail in Crockett County from the Crockett-Sutton County line east of Ozona through the city of Ozona, it was announced by the department this week.

The local project is one of 34 to be let by the department at the June 22 meeting, it was announced. Total awards to be made at that time amount to approximately $4,962,000, it was declared.

This is the first award of contracts on a million and a half dollar road construction program for Crockett County made possible through approval by the voters of this county of a $375,000 bond issue to match state and federal funds. The contract to be let this month is on a federal aid project, the Old Spanish Trail, the west end of which, extending approximately 35 miles to the Pecos River, border line between Pecos and Crockett Counties, will be included in future contracts.

Work on the road between here and Sonora will interfere very little with traffic, the new route for the highway crossing the present road in but one place. The same condition will exist on the Ozona-Barnhart road, where an entirely new route has been laid out for the new highway.

The Highway Department is expected to award contracts on the Barnhart road at an early meeting. Interested citizens who have conferred with members of the commission on local projects have been assured that the Barnhart road contract will be let at an early date. All right-of-way matters have been settled and nothing, so far as is known here, stands in the way of awarding contracts on any of the 82 miles of projects in this county.

The following West Texas projects are included in the list announced by the highway department for award at the June 22 meeting:

Pecos County, 22.5 miles grading and drainage structures from Highway 27 to Pecos River on Highway 89.

Presidio County, 15 miles grading and drainage structures from Marfa, south toward Presidio on Highway 118.

Scurry and Mitchell counties, 9.3 miles double bituminous surface on caliche base from Nolan county line to Hermleigh on Highway 7.

Crockett County, 15 miles grading and drainage from Ozona to Sutton County line on Highway 27.

Culberson County, 13 miles grading and drainage from 13 to 26 miles of Van Horn on Highway 1.

Kerr County, 13.3 miles grading and drainage from Kendall County line to five miles east of Kerrville on Highway 27.

CONTRACTORS NOTICE OF TEXAS HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

Sealed proposals for constructing 15,089 miles of Grading and Drainage Structures from Ozona to the Sutton County Line on Highway No. 27, covered by F. A. P. No. 617-A in Crockett County will be received at the State Highway Department, Austin, Texas, until 9 A. M., June 23rd, 1931, and then publicly opened and read. Plans and specifications available at offices of A. F. Moursund, Division Engineer, Ozona, Texas, and State Highway Department, Austin. Usual rights reserved.

A FRIEND OF THE RANCHER

Another great West Texas builder and powerful support of the ranching industry has been removed with the passing of Robert Massie in a Dallas hospital Wednesday morning.

A ranchman himself, Mr. Massie knew the problems of the rancher and he understood their needs perhaps better than nearly any man in this section. That was one of the reasons for the successful operation of the Wool Growers Central Storage Company, of which he was head. Attentive always to the problems of each individual, he was indeed a friend to the ranching industry of West Texas.

J. M. Shannon, S. E. Couch and now Robert Massie are three great pillars of strength for the ranching industry that an all-wise Providence has seen fit to remove. Their places can never be filled, but their influence will live behind them and their memory will be an inspiration for those who follow after them.

HIGHWAY CONTRACTS

Definite announcement from the State Highway Department at Austin to the effect that contract for the grading and drainage structures on the east end of the Old Spanish Trail highway through Crockett County would be let at the meeting of the Highway Commission on June 22 has renewed hope locally for a realization of the good roads plans for this county.

Award of the contracts has been so long delayed that this county had almost despaired of ever realizing on the good roads projects which the voters endorsed at the polls. But if the contract on the 15-mile stretch from the Sutton County line through Ozona is awarded this month, it is believed that contracts on the other parts of the system will be let within a short time. The fact that things are at last getting into shape for the letting of contracts is an encouraging note.

Starting of work on Crockett County highway projects is expected to be a material lift to local business and it is to be hoped that awards on the rest of the entire mileage through the county will be made at the earliest possible moment, not only for the benefit that will accrue to the county by reason of the completed good roads, but for the immediate support it will furnish in the way of providing employment to those in need of it and in injecting new life into local business.

A newspaper article several days ago listed Italy as among the European countries still ruled by kings. If Mussolini hears about that it may be too bad for Victor Immanuel.

The price of lambs and wool doesn't seem to affect the size and sheen of the new automobiles that are putting in their appearance in Ozona at intervals.

Flag Day

By Ted Brown

THE DANGER OF WAITING

Life can play foul jokes on people some times.

In a large middle-western city there was a grocer, who worked very hard and saved his money religiously so that his old age would be provided for.

For 50 years he stuck to his grocery store. He worked and saved too hard to have very much fun but he was looking forward to the day when he could retire. Then he would have his fun. He would have money and leisure, and he would make up for the years of hard work.

Well, he finally retired—money in the bank, an assured income, a nice home, everything he needed. "Now," he told his friends, "I am going to enjoy life."

And just 24 hours after he had retired he dropped dead. If a novelist put that in a book we wouldn't believe it. We would say that things don't really happen that way, and we would accuse the novelist of straining too hard for an ironic effect.

But life takes queer twists that are not permitted to good fiction. It all happened, precisely as it is described here; and all we can do is admit that there are times when wisdom and prudence are horribly confounded.

As a matter of fact, this sort of thing happens fairly often—in a little different way. Not many people who have prepared for a carefree and leisurely old age die just as they begin to taste their reward, of course; but they get cheated out of their dues, just the same. They find that leisure, after a lifetime of hard work, is boredom. They find that they have forgotten how to play. They find that the empty hours are depressing because they do not know what to do with them. They find themselves feeling that they have been put upon the shelf, and they grow 10 years older in 12 months.

Perhaps we aren't meant to be too cautious. Deferring one's happiness to the end, when one will have time and the means to take it, is risky. For most of us that gilded tomorrow will never dawn. If we don't get our happiness along the way we shall never get it at all.

That is a lesson worth learning. The real joy of living is not something that can be banked and drawn on at some future date. It has to be taken from day to day. It is compounded usually of many little experiences. The haze of an autumn afternoon over a flaming woodland; the confiding smile of a child, nestling in one's arms for a fairy tale; the smell of a clear wind as one trudges along a beach by blue water; the sudden revelation of tenderness in the eyes of a loved one; the brief, vanishing strain of a bit of music—of such things is a satisfying life fabricated. You cannot postpone them, you cannot wait for them. You must get them as you go along, or you will miss them entirely.—Standard, Excelsior Springs, Missouri.

SCANDALS

By The Town Gossip

Could it be possible that Ozona Baptists are afraid of water. A scheduled picnic Wednesday was interrupted by a half inch rain. It wasn't a "sprinkle" either, it was a rain.

There was a run on Bob Cooke's barbecue pit Monday noon when a misunderstanding left the Lions Club without a luncheon prepared.

And most of these Lionesses resented the intrusion on their regular Monday holiday for the lunch hour.

An actual photograph of Jack Sharp "at work" is on display in the Joe Oberkamp window this week. The photograph has been framed, tinted and all, for the benefit of posterity. Jack believes in a revised version of the photographer's slogan—"your story in pictures will be believed." And witnesses have testified that the picture was not posed for photographic purposes only.

John Rochelle says he has at last come to amount to something in Ozona. An old clipping appearing in The Stockman recently revealed the fact that he is from Barnhart.

An outsider would have thought there was a run on the Ozona National Bank Wednesday morning. But it wasn't. One of the local boys who "pay by check" was seen to enter the bank with a deposit and everybody was bouncing in with his rubber checks to get their cut out of the spoils.

HIGHWAYS AND MOTOR VEHICLES

Slowly but surely we are making progress in the effort to find the best answer to all the questions which the automobile and the paved road have created. Just a few items from the week's news:

West Virginia has a new traffic law, effective the last of May, which makes it unlawful for anybody to drive so slowly as to impede or block the normal movement of traffic. The top speed limit, where conditions make it reasonable and prudent, is increased to 45 miles an hour. Slowly legislators are learning that it is carelessness, not speed, which is dangerous.

Two of the big oil companies have notified the French authorities that they will discontinue roadside posters. Here's hoping they follow the same practice in America.

The American Road Builders' Association reports that the value of highways and motor vehicles in the United States is now around thirty billion dollars. We spend, as a people, eight billion dollars a year for the operation and upkeep of cars, an average of $300 a year for each of the 27,000,000 autos. We buy 14,000,000,000 gallons of "gas" and pay in gasoline taxes and registration fees about eight hundred million dollars. Outside of that, the cost of maintaining improved highways is about $200,000,000 to the taxpayers at large. But everybody benefits by good roads and motor transportation, whether he runs a car or not.

MORE ABOUT "ROUGHAGE"

I'm glad to see the movement of the pendulum start back the other way, in the dietetic treatment of bowel disorders which cause constipation. I am glad to see the "roughage" hog in process of being exposed to the public. At last, common sense is coming into its own, in the matter of stuffing a diseased bowel with almost wholly indigestible material called "roughage."

I am fully aware of tramping on certain commercial toes in this letter; the promoters of the "bran health food idea" will probably jump all over me; let them jump; it takes more than jumping to convince me, in the face of experience. Let me quote a late observer—one who is an authority on this matter:

"The enthusiast on bran forgets that he is prescribing the substance because it is one of the most indigestible to be found in nature; it was especially designed to carry seeds unchanged, through the digestive tracts of the herbivora. And yet, they call it health food! . . . A woman . . . who for ten years had kept her health in fair condition, only by sticking to a smooth diet, . . . began taking bran on the advice of a physician . . . in a few weeks she had to be operated on, for the relief of intestinal obstruction . . . part of the intestine packed with bran."

Only yesterday I took a lady patient away from this fad, who had been kept on the bran diet for several years—growing worse every day. "Roughage" cannot be prescribed as a routine; when only digestible food is needed, why prescribe the most indigestible of substances?

Dry, hard, indigestible things are heralded to the public as relief from constipation; why not go the limit, and give them sand and have it over?

Routine has little rank in the intelligent treatment of weak, relaxed, atonic colons. I'll admit that the fee is easier gained, and often the patient's mind is satisfied that the doctor is very wise with this bran fad—but, somehow the grouchy bowel goes on its indolent way unrejoiced.

spoons butter; 1 cup browned bread crumbs.

Boil noodles in salted water, drain in colander, pour cold water over them and let drain. Mix with two tablespoons butter and place in a well greased ring mold, sprinkled with bread crumbs. Set in a pan of boiling water and let bake slowly about three-quarters of an hour. Turn out on platter and fill center with creamed spinach and mushrooms.

Tomato Juice Cocktail

2 cups tomato juice; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 tablespoon vinegar; 1 teaspoon Worcestershire, 4 drops tabasco sauce.

Mix all the ingredients and strain. Shake with cracked ice and serve in cocktail glasses.

Sweet Potatoes with Marshmallows

5 sweet potatoes; hot milk; butter; marshmallows; seasoning.

Cook the sweet potatoes until soft. Pare, press through the ricer and add seasoning and hot milk, enough to make a soft consistency. Add a tablespoon of butter to each pint of potatoes and place in a greased baking-dish. Cover with marshmallows and bake in a hot oven 500 degrees F. until brown. Two or three sliced bananas or one cup shredded pineapple may be added to the potatoes after they are made.

Pumpkin Pie with Maple Syrup

1½ cups cooked pumpkin; ¾ cup brown sugar; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 1 teaspoon nutmeg; ½ teaspoon ginger; ½ teaspoon salt; 2 eggs; 2 cups milk.

The pumpkin may be steamed or baked or canned pumpkin may be used. Mix in the order given and bake on crust like a custard pie in a hot oven 450 degrees F. for ten minutes. Then lower temperature to 325 degrees F. and bake until set. Serve hot or cold, garnish with whipped cream. Just before serving pour maple syrup over the cream.

Milk Vegetable Soup

2 cups diced potatoes, carrots, turnips and celery; 1 chopped onion; 3 cups milk; water; 1 bay leaf; salt; pepper.

West Texas Wool Prices Increase

Hike Of From 1 To 3 Cents Pound Noted In Purchases

The financiers on Wall Street as well as the local banks and the ranchmen living in the canyons must have taken cheer at what happened in the wool purchases in the San Angelo territory yesterday. In the general commodity decline that has affected almost everything that is produced, it must be comforting news to learn that wool purchases in this section yesterday ran from 1 to as high as 3 cents a pound in the grease above the prices paid last week.

There is little left in the country and the prices yesterday show the eagerness with which the buyers are bidding for it. In this territory alone yesterday there was sold about 850,000 pounds with the Wool Growers Central Storage Company selling 675,000. These purchases were made not only on orders but to stock the wool for future sales. Dealers who last week had limits at 45 cents, clean basis, yesterday bought on prices of 52 to 55 cents a pound clean and there were prophecies that the market would go to 75 cents a pound clean by the spring time.

Wool authorities expressed the belief that the price would have several rises this summer and fall with the increased demand for textiles and that whatever any of the dealers lost in previous years they should make back with income tax.

Grease prices yesterday went higher than 18 cents and the clean content prices were hiked from 2 to 9 cents. Some wools that shrink as much as 63 to 64 cents a pound brought as much as 17 cents a pound while the lighter wools broke 18 cents and went above it. Many predict that the wool season in the Southwest will end with prices as high as at the beginning, 20 cents a pound. Wool is scarce in this country this year and it is the best wool in America today.

The clip of the Sonora Wool and Mohair Company of Sonora is moving out to the co-operative. The Sanderson Wool and Mohair Company is to ship out to the co-operative between 300,000 and 400,000 pounds of wool, this week.—S. A. Times.

MANY LAMBS HAVE GONE TO MARKET

Stockmen and commission dealers from the terminal markets yesterday estimated that in the last few weeks 100,000 head of winter and early spring lambs had moved from the San Angelo sheep country to the markets.

Most of these have come from the Lometa and Lampasas country where there were a large number of spring lambs.

These lambs have brought in an estimated $500,000 cash to the country. Many of them have gone from Ozona, Sonora, Barnhart, Eldorado, and other points.

During the first week in June 75,000 head of lambs left San Angelo territory for the terminal markets. This territory is bounded by Alpine, Del Rio, Midland, Menard, Coleman, Brady.

Wool prices in the Southwest continue from 17½ to 18 cents a pound for the 12 months wool, while 8 months wool, where it is selling, brings from 12 to 14 cents a pound. The top on 12 months this year has been 22½ cents; the top on 8 months, 17. It is estimated that $7,200,000 has been realized from the 40,000,000 pounds of West Texas wool sold thus far.—S. A. Times.

The March of Progress

WEST TEXAS' phenomenal progress during the past decade has been equalled only by the steady expansion of its West Texas Utilities Company, for while West Texas has been carving industrial history, this company—to aid and foster that growth—has kept its far-flung facilities always in advance of immediate needs.

Today, a 2,500 mile network of Transmission lines—energized from three large, strategically-located main generating stations and strengthened by 19 auxiliary or stand-by plants—has replaced the precarious and costly part-time "lighting" plant of yesteryear. This new-day Transmission Line System insures a supply of flexible, elastic electric power sufficient to meet any conceivable development.

—And since the organization of the West Texas Utilities Company, the consumer has benefited by total average rate REDUCTIONS amounting to OVER SIXTY PER CENT—an impossible accomplishment in the days of isolated plants! Thus, Electric Power, aptly termed the "Life-Blood of Industry," has been a large factor in bringing prosperity to small cities.

As this company looks back over its brief but colorful history, it feels a justifiable pride in the knowledge that its progressive policies and the pioneering investment of many millions of dollars—to provide this ample service—have been large contributors to West Texas' nationally-acclaimed "March of Progress."

WEDDING RING LOST
48 YEARS IS FOUND

While cleaning the yards in her home last week, Mrs. J. W. Fullerton found a gold band ring in perfect condition and upon examination, found the initials G. T. B. inside.

Inquiring of Mrs. G. T. Briscoe, Sr., who lived in this home in 1883, she found that it was the long lost wedding ring of Mrs. Briscoe, lost in 1883. Mrs. Briscoe is rejoicing over the finding of the ring and Mrs. Fullerton is happy too, over the find.

The News man saw the ring Sunday and it was not the least tarnished, as bright and beautiful as the day it was lost, nearly 50 years ago.—Devine News.

HAPPY DAYS

The current whirl here about delayed tax payments brings to mind an item recently carried in the Ranger paper. A fellow wrote a customer requesting a bill be paid. The debtor's written reply in part was:

"I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it impossible for me to send you a check in response to your request.

"My present financial condition is due to effects of federal laws, State laws, county laws, corporation laws, by-laws, and out-laws, that have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public. Through these various laws, I have been held down, held up, walked on, sat on, flattened and squeezed, until I do not know where I am, what I am, or why I am.

"These laws compel me to pay a merchants tax, capital stock tax, income tax, real estate tax, excess tax, property tax, auto tax, gas tax, water tax, light tax, cigar tax, street tax, school tax, and carpet tax.

"In addition to these taxes, I am requested and required to contribute to every society and organization that the inventive mind of man can devise—to the Navy League, the Woman's Relief, the Children's Home, the Policeman's Benefit, the Y. M. C. A. the Boy Scouts, the Jewish Relief, The Near East Relief, the Gold Digger's Home, the Red Cross, the White Cross, the Black Cross, and the Double Cross.

"The government has so governed my business that I do not know who owns it. I am suspected, expected, inspected, disrespected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, commanded, and compelled until all I know is that I am supposed to provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race, and because I refuse to donate to all and go out and beg, borrow, and steal money to give away, I am cursed, discussed, boy-cotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, held down, and robbed until I am nearly ruined, so the only reason I am clinging to life is to see what the hell is coming next."

Way of Life

CREED

If any writer were big enough to gather up all the thousands of stories of the stock market crash, he would have material for the Great American Novel.

For the bull market, and the catastrophe which ended it, represented all that is best and worst in the American character: our optimism, which is at once our strength and our weakness; our restless desire to better our condition by any available means; our worthy ambition and our unworthy greed.

One of the best of the market stories was told me by a celebrated surgeon whose name I can not recall.

"I work hard for my money," he said, "and have never speculated. However, the fever got me finally, like everybody else. There was one particular stock which was a favorite in my city. Bank presidents and boot-blacks were in it together; it went up by leaps and bounds.

"Against all my traditions, I bought several hundred shares. It continued to climb; I had profit of many thousand dollars.

"One night my wife saw me making penciled calculations on the margin of the newspaper. She said I ought not to be worrying about stocks, and she urged me to sell out and never think about the market again.

"I argued that by holding on for another ten points we could pay for the wing which she wanted to build on the house.

"While we were still talking, my little girl came in to ask my help on her Latin lesson for the next day. It was the translation of Aesop's fable of the dog and the bone. The dog, you remember, saw his reflection in the water and, thinking it was another dog whose bone he would steal, reached down with open jaws and lost his own bone.

"The moral of the fable was, 'Greed usually results in the loss of everything.'"

"That night when I went to bed I could not sleep. The fable kept running through my mind. First thing next morning I telephoned my broker to sell me out. It happened that the stock went up a few more points, but a couple of weeks later it dropped like a shot. I was very lucky, and had sense enough not to think I had been smart. You can bet that I am done with speculating forever."

I hope that when this editorial is printed we may be in the midst of good times, with increasing business and a rising market. In that case, some young man may see it and appreciate the reminder that "greed usually results in the loss of everything."

Fare Request

The street car swayed from side to side. As it rounded a curve the drunk fumbled for his money.

"May I help you?" asked the conductor.

"If you will," said the drunk, "Just hold this darn strap while I get my money out."

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Watson went to San Angelo Tuesday to meet their daughter, Miss Wanda Watson who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. H. H. Carden, in Belton.

Immortalize Roy Bean
In Lloyd Biography

SAN ANTONIO—At last the colorful picturesque and resourceful "Judge Roy Bean" is to come into his own. Twenty-eight years after the famous self-styled "Law West of the Pecos," Justice of the Peace, saloon keeper, wit, jester and grande alcalde of a far-flung though mythical jurisdiction, passed away at Langtry, he is the subject of a rather elaborate and entertaining biography by Everett Lloyd, San Antonio editor and writer.

The title of Lloyd's book is "Law West of the Pecos: The Story of Roy Bean," the first edition of which will be released to the book trade and libraries in June by the University Press, Inc., 419 Main Avenue, San Antonio.

The Bean biography contains nearly 200 pages, 20 of which are devoted to rare illustrations made from authentic photographs hitherto unpublished. So striking are the illustrations that they may be said to constitute one of the most valuable features of the book. However, the book itself has everything in its favor. Some idea of its completeness is afforded by the chapter contents which include, in addition to a prologue—which is a highly creditable piece of descriptive background—chapter on "The Trail of Roy Bean;" "How Much of What is Written and Told of Roy Bean is True?" "Lillie Langtry and Roy Bean;" "Roy Bean and W. H. Todd;" "The Life and Times of Roy Bean;" "Justice of the Peace—Law West of the Pecos;" "The Death of Roy Bean;" and "The Saga of Roy Bean."

During recent months, the Saturday Evening Post and several other magazines have carried articles dealing with Roy Bean. Interest in the man and his unique system of dispensing law and liquor alternately, is constantly increasing. For several years, Everett Lloyd has been collecting material and photographs for the Bean biography and he is the first to assemble in book form all the genuine, worthwhile Roy Bean stories, farcical and ludicrous decisions and rulings which have become a part of our humorous legal folklore, familiar to lawyers and laymen alike. The chapters dealing with the life and times of Bean accurately cover all the events of his career.

Although three different New York publishers agreed and wanted to bring out Everett Lloyd's book on Roy Bean, the author felt that as the book deals with a famous Texas character and was written by a Texan, it was fitting that it should be published by a Texas publishing corporation.

Almost simultaneously with the announcement of the release date of "Law West of the Pecos," tentative offers were made by a well known Hollywood picture producer to make the book into a talkie at the option of the author. A second and third edition of "Law West of the Pecos" has already been scheduled by the publishers.

President Six Years

JOE S. PIERCE

Here is the man who perhaps has done more toward making the annual Crockett County, Rodeo, Race Meet, Stock Show and Sale one of the greatest events of its kind in the South than any other man. He has been president of the association since its organization six years ago and has guided it through successive years of phenomenal growth. His ability to organize and direct the efforts of the splendid staff available for promoting the annual show has made it possible for Joe Pierce to build up one of the smoothest working organizations in the state. Although a successful ranchman, he finds time to give toward making a greater celebration for Ozona each year.

and arrangements are pending looking to its future publication as a syndicated serial.

Everett Lloyd was educated at Tulane University and the University of Texas. As a newspaper reporter, he worked on various papers throughout the country, and for five years was staff writer of the National Magazine, Boston. His home is in San Antonio, where he is the editor and publisher of Lloyd's Magazine.

EMPLOYMENT IN TEXAS SHOWS SLIGHT INCREASE

Austin, Texas, June 9—Employment in Texas increased slightly during May, according to statistics compiled in the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. The number of employed workers increased .7 per cent during May as compared to April, the Bureau's figures, tabulated in co-operation with the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, show. The average weekly wage per worker amounted to $25.79 compared to $25.89 during April.

Employment at refining plants, which increased slightly during April for the first time since June 1930, declined 2 per cent during May, leaving the total number of workers on the payrolls in this industry 16 per cent fewer than during the corresponding month of last year, the Bureau's report showed. Confectioneries and women's clothing manufacturing plants were the only classification in which an increase over May, 1930, was recorded. Increases over the figures for April of this year were shown in the payrolls of auto and body works, bakeries, confectioneries, ice cream factories, ice factories, meat packing and slaughtering houses, men's clothing manufacturing plants, brick factories, railroad car shops, lumber mills, furniture manufacturing plants and cotton textile mills.

TIGER EYE

by D. M. Dower

SYNOPSIS

Nellie's dad is shot from ambush and suspects Babe against his wish. The latter thinks another nester killed the old man. Babe is wounded by hidden enemies, who also shoot at Tiger Eye but miss. The Kid pulls Babe back into the cabin and wounds one of the attackers.

Nellie comes to the cabin secretly to aid the kid and the latter crawls through the roof and makes plans to escape with the wounded Babe at night. He and Nellie wait for darkness outside of the cabin.

THE STORY

"Babe" woke up. The kid lowered the mouth organ from his lips, heaving a big sigh as he wiped it on his sleeve and slid it into his pocket.

He sighed again as he rose, hitched up his gun belt and looked gravely down at her.

"We all could get out heah easy if it was just us two. But I kain't leave Babe. He's been pow'ful good to me, Babe has—"

"Of course, we can't leave him. They'd kill him sure, and there's been too much killing already. We'll make it somehow. I—you can just do anything, Tiger Eye!"

"Shoah feel like I could, from now awn," said the kid, looking at her with shy meaning, and started to climb. "We'll make it," he called softly down to her. "We've plumb got to make it."

They did make it. Down the gulley, with Babe tied on his horse, insensible to pain or motion. Fifty yards, a hundred, with the rifles on the ridge barking foolishly at the empty cabin.

The sun went down behind the rim, the daylight was merging into dusk when the kid forced the horses up the steep bank.

"Say, where do you think you're goin', Tiger Eye?" Babe roused suddenly to consciousness and speech when they stopped beside Nellie's horse, circling the rock anxiously in the starlight.

"Reckon we'll go awn ovah to the Poole, Babe."

"What you goin' to the Poole all of a sudden for?" Babe's voice sharpened. "Think you'll beat me to the bounty? You've got another think comin', Kid. I'll do the collectin' on this one."

"Don't know what you're talkin' about, Babe." The kid glanced uneasily toward Nellie. "I'm totin' you all ovah to the Poole, account of that bullet hole in yoh side."

"You're a damned liar!" Babe's voice was abnormally loud and distinct. Nellie, mounting her horse, reined close to listen. "You're goin' to try and gyp me outa my money for old Murray. You can have the pay for gettin' Ed Murray, if you want to be on the grab, but I'll be damned if you're going to collect for the old man!"

"Oh, you—you fiend!" Nellie forced the words out through her clenched teeth. "Paid killers, both of you!"

"Ain't paid yet, but I'm sure as hell goin' to be. Damn right!" The febrile strength that had upheld Babe for a minute began to ebb. He swayed in the saddle. "Dirty work—and it's money talks in this neck of the woods. Damn right I'll be paid! Tiger Eye ain't goin' to get the best—the best of me—he can't—" His head lolled on his chest then, as his body sagged against the ropes that held him in the saddle.

"You killer!" Nellie jumped her horse toward the kid.

She had pulled her quirt from the saddle horn, and she struck across the face; swift, slashing blows which the kid never felt at all, save in the heart of him. He just stood there in the starlight and held the frightened horse quiet, while the quirt he had given her left its mark on neck and shoulder and cheek.

"And I trusted you like a fool—and thought you were good!" With one final blow her arm fell to her side as if in despair at ever wreaking vengeance upon him. "Shoot me now, why don't you? I'll turn my back!"

"Yo'all's crazy as Babe." The soft drawl of his voice had a chill. "Yoh brothah was shot befo' I evah came into the country. I nevah did kill a man in my life—but I'm plumb tempted to right now, lessen he's daid a'ready."

"Why? Because he gave you a shoah prove I'm death on killahs. Poole or nestah, it's all the same to me from now awn. She'll know—and she'll know why!"

She'd shiver too. He'd have her eatin' crow before the summer was over. She'd be ready to go down on her knees to him. He'd show her he wasn't called Tiger Eye for nothing. He'd shoah make that name mean something more than just the color of his eye. They'd remember that old Killer Reeves down on the Brazos was his pap, and they'd say the father wasn't a patch to the son. Yes, sir, they all better hunt their holes now, Poole killers and nesters! They'd pushed him too far. A shoah-enough tiger was loose on the range, and every man was his meat!

He pulled his hat down over his eyebrows and reined away from the valley rim. To the north there rose a huddle of timbered buttes with deepest canyons between. Ten miles, no more, from the valley; twelve or fifteen from the headquarters ranch of the Poole. There should be some sequestered little nook in there where he could make his lair.

The kid's fingers lifted again to that welt slanting down across his cheek. One last glimpse he had of the low ridge and the line of cottonwoods down there in the valley, and then the rain blotted the place from his sight.

Before dark he camped in a thick grove of young spruces that grew beside a natural meadow. He slept, his quirt-scarred cheek cuddled in the crook of his arm—and dreamed of making love to Nellie Murray. Dreamed that she was going to marry him, and they planned the homestead they would take in Wolfe Buttes somewhere, and how they would build themselves a ranch with honeysuckle vines all over the cabin.

It was morning and it was raining with a cold, steady drip on the spruce boughs that sheltered him like a thatched roof.

Another day of hunting a den for the tiger that would be a scourge to all killers. The kid fished blindly under the blankets for his hat, found it and put it on as he sat up.

He crawled out of his blankets, buckling his gun belt around him with vicious tugs of the strap.

He stood up tall and full of pride in the man who wouldn't kill because he didn't want to kill. Didn't have to kill to make men afraid of him. They'd look over their shoulder when they spoke his name, and when any one mentioned the Brazos they'd look at each other, thinking that was where Tiger Eye came from.

All that day it rained in windy gusts, with periods of quiet drizzle between.

That afternoon he came upon the place he was hoping to find. A rock cabin built of fragments of the cliff it hugged close. Half the roof had fallen in. It was the upended ridgepole with a corner of the roof attached and showing above the bushes that had caught the kid's attention when he looked that way. Except for that tell-tale fragment, the cabin was absolutely hidden in the thicket. When he looked beyond, he saw where there had been a corral and a stable, all built of rock cunningly piled for strength and concealment. There had to be a spring too, of course. He found it, ice cold and crystal clear, in a niche of the cliff that was a part of the back wall of the cabin.

He also saw a rock-walled meadow swelling out like a great fat jug below its narrow neck of a pass not wide enough to let a hayrack through without scraping the wall on either side. The kid climbed upon a boulder and for five minutes he gazed out over this lost paradise. Lost from the world, to be found by him when he needed it most.

It took the kid nearly a week to make the place habitable, though he worked furiously from sunrise until it was too dark to see what he was doing. It took him two days to find his way out of the intricate network of canyons to the open range beyond.

The kid drilled himself and his horses in the twisted canyons of Wolf Buttes, and let the sword of justice dangle awhile over the unsuspecting heads of the paid killers of the Poole. Let Nellie wonder awhile what had become of him, too. He reckoned it wouldn't hurt her to wonder and guess. Bound to guess plumb wrong, and he'd prove it to her, when he got good and ready.

MAIN STREET Looks at BROADWAY

The Best Radio!

New Yorkers, better than anybody else perhaps, know the heat make of radio. There is no argument about it. Even your local dealer will probably agree after he has heard about it.

The machine is made in New Jersey. It sells for something quite a lot more than $1,000. Frankly, we were not really curious about the exact price.

Some Guarantee

When you drop down on Saturday night to get one—that is supposing you do—be sure to insist on their guarantee. It consists of a promise to give your money back if it doesn't cut through any kind of interference and bring in stations 2,000 miles or more away like one in the next town. At least that's what the King of Siam was promised when he was shut up in a darkened room for several days after his eyes were operated on, successfully, by an American doctor. He got it for the Siamese broadcasting.

Not for Amateurs

The de luxe radio is a fourteen tube set and has every doo-dad you can find on any other machine that is worth having. If the makers can't buy the patent rights they want for the few machines they build, they just buy a complete machine, scrap what they don't want, and fit in the part.

Each machine is built entirely by one man, and it takes several weeks for him to construct. There is a waiting list of intended purchasers, so it is more than likely that any of your local radio fans who wish to buy a machine had better stick to the regularly advertised models. That is, if they want to get a radio this year. It's really millionaire stuff.

A Famous Figure

The daily grind in New York does not shorten men's lives, judging by two men who have just passed on—George F. Baker, the famous banker, who died at 91, and David Belasco, famous theatrical man who lived to 76. Both men made their mark and had an important part in shaping the destinies of millions of other men.

Of the two men Belasco led the more public existence and affected the lives of more people. Through his efforts the American stage was lifted from the melodrama of the '80's to the fine productions of the present day.

A Had Start

Few men started life with greater handicaps than Belasco. Born in a San Francisco cellar in 1854, his father being a Portuguese Jew by descent, Belasco was forced to get his schooling where he could. Two years were spent in a monastery and he learned to dress like a churchman in the brief time he was there. Belasco looked more like a bishop than a theatrical man and was apparently about as sociable as most austere churchmen get to be.

His door was never closed to anybody he suspected of being a genius, however, and among his famous proteges are Mrs. Leslie Carter, Lenore Ulrich and Dave Warfield. In fact, few of the great actors of the present day exist who cannot trace their first success back to the "wizard."

A Genius

Belasco, himself, was a genius, beyond question. Although primarily a producer, he wrote many plays, designed stage settings and lighting effects, taught his actors how to strut through their parts, and in general was a past master of all things concerned with the stage.

He was a gambler in the best sense of the word. Three times he went broke, twice when he was well past middle age, but he kept hammering away and is believed to have left a fortune to his widow and children. He is only one of thousands of examples of men who have given their lives to New York only to be enriched in turn.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Henderson and children, Louise Henderson, and Roy Henderson, Jr., and Mrs. Eula Montgomery left this morning for a tour of the western states and Canada.

A GENTLEWOMAN, A Housekeeper, and a Scholar

PERHAPS you know her. She is far from wealthy, yet no matter what the occasion, she dresses appropriately and well. And whether she is guest or hostess, there is an exquisite rightness about her . . . she is gay, tactful, poised . . . her charm is graced with simplicity. She is, in short a gentlewoman.

She is also an able housekeeper. She has to be, to live as comfortably as she does within her moderate means. She uses a budget system, keeps an exact account of all expenditures. No skimping, though. Toilet accessories, the food she serves, the completeness of her up-to-date household equipment, disclaim skimping as they do extravagance. She never denies herself necessities, and even manages to allow herself some tasteful luxuries.

If you ask her how she does it, she'll laughingly tell you the secret is that she's a scholar! Not a dillar-a-dollar ten o'clock kind of scholar, but a bright-and-early scholar of the advertisements in her favorite newspaper. She studies them thoroughly. With their constant news of unusual sales and superior values, they enable her to keep down expenses by careful buying. They tell her where to get just the things she wants for just the prices she is willing to pay.

Advertised products are dependable. Read the advertisements. They will help you too.

NOTHING LIKE IT

J. P. Rankin bought 920 old ewes last fall for $1,800 and entered the sheep business. He sold 5,930 pounds of wool at 17½ cents a pound from them; got 850 lambs, shipped 200 of these lambs to the markets fat this spring, and they netted him $4. He shipped 125 dry ewes and got $2.50 for them. Now he has about 1,300 ewes all paid for and $97 in addition on his investment of last fall. In addition he has paid back the investment cost of the old ewes. "Nothing like the sheep business," he says.—S. A. Times.
