ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Profits! Industry has been going along for three and one-half years practically without them. This month there has been a turn. Companies which have been running constantly in the red are furnishing a market for black ink. Investors who have become used to going without dividends are looking forward to the reappearance of quarterly or semi-annual checks.

Here is how improved business is reflected in the balance sheets of some specific large companies.

Chrysler Corporation—In the June quarter, net equaled $1.80 a share, totaling $2,310,000. This is within 23 per cent of the company's record, achieved in the booming third quarter of 1928.

U. S. Steel—Twelve months ago it reported an operating loss of more than $3,000,000. In the last three months it had a profit of $4,880,000.

General Motors—Last year it had second-quarter profits of 7c a share; this year it reported a net of 90c per share.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol—Profits in first half of 1932 came to $32,000; same period in 1933, $229,000.

All businesses haven't had an equally happy quarter or half-year. But the general trend of profits is definitely upward. Most important of all is sharp improvement in the earnings of small businesses whose fortunes don't constitute headline news. They represent the bulk of American capital investment, and their position is a great deal more solid than it was even a month or two ago.

There is a black spot in the industrial outlook—retail trade, which is still in an extremely depressed state. Best fact of all is that the upturn has been in progress for four months without a setback. The most stable barometers—car loadings, electric power, steel output—indicate continued improvement. During June there was an 18 per cent increase in man-hours worked in manufacturing plants, as compared with May. Wage totals showed a 10 per cent jump, while cost of living went up less than one per cent. So far, purchasing power is advancing much more rapidly than prices. Welfare agencies in most cities report that requests for relief are well below former levels. A remarkable feature of recovery is that improvement has been largely apparent in heavy industries.

DIGGING'EM UP - by WALT.

Can you "Dig 'Em Up"? If so send them to us, and if acceptable, we will publish with your name.

According to the Federal Reserve Board, this is the first time that a pick-up has not been almost wholly confined to industries producing nondurable goods.

The Administration has one major worry now—the poor results of the farm bill. The mortgage situation is more tense than it was, and it is apparent that present legislation is either misdirected or inadequate. All observers forecast that the act will be given a thorough overhauling when Congress meets again.

A few months ago the most talked-about subject of them all was inflation. Then it practically dropped out of the day's news. The President had been given the powers he wanted, and nothing drastic happened. It looked as if they wouldn't be used after all.

Now inflation is preparing to take its place in the headlines again. The Administration's desire for a "managed dollar" has not abated; it was simply shelved for a time while other and more pressing matters were being handled. A managed dollar is one which, in terms of buying power, does not deviate in value; it will buy as many eggs, automobiles, suits of clothes and what-not one year as the next. Our present kind of dollar is constantly deviating. Where its buying power, on the basis of a fixed normal, was sixty or seventy cents at the height of the boom, it rose to $1.50 at the low in commodity prices we reached last summer and fall.

The President has two courses open in inflating the currency. Most obvious course is to lower the gold content of each dollar. Then by varying it from time to time, the dollar will theoretically possess a constant value, and will be immune to important variations. Another course is to order the Federal Reserve to buy large blocks of government securities in the open market, thus expanding the Federal credit. This would not create a stable dollar; it would, however, be tremendously helpful in providing a market for new Treasury securities.

Opponents of inflation say that the managed dollar is a golden dream which is impossible of realization, and point to the disastrous effects of extreme inflation in Germany and elsewhere. Administration spokesmen say that miscarriage of a plan doesn't necessarily mean the plan is wrong. The public, confused by technicalities, is simply in a waiting mood.

George Lester skipped from Michigan four years ago to avoid paying alimony. Neglecting to change his name, and also forgetting the long reach of radio, he asked a Tennessee station to play "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," which was done after due announcement of the name of the requester. His wife was listening in, and now George is going back to give love or whatever the judge thinks is right.

GETTING THINGS DONE

There is a faculty given to some men that it is hard to find a phrase for. It is the faculty of getting things done.

It is a gift. A man may have ability, education, training and ambition, and still lack the genius that gets things done. Another man who has had little or no education and whose training has been of the most haphazard, without any fuss or ado will seem to accomplish the impossible.

Part of it, perhaps, is a daring to tackle things that seem impossible to others. Perhaps another part is made up of intense concentration and steady patient work. There is always a sort of placid certainty about the man who gets things done.

In almost any small community can be found the man to whom the residents inevitably turn when something especially difficult to solve comes up in the life of the community. For some reason this man is seldom in an official position. He seems to have no flair for politics. He is more apt to be found running a business of his own and taking a comfortable and unostentatious part in the affairs of the village. He may be a diamond in the rough. He never dictates. He never boasts. He never exaggerates. He never scolds. But somehow, as if by a magic touch, when something is badly needed he manages to get it done.

In the larger communities and the big cities it takes longer for the man who gets things done to be recognized, but eventually he is discovered and used. He is the man of the small communities, only his opportunities are larger and therefore his accomplishment seems more important.

Not always does he get the credit for it. And it is characteristic of him that he doesn't care. Rhinebeck (N.Y.) Gazette.

UVALDE SEEKS BEER

A "beer" petition bearing 442 names asking that a local option election be held on August 26, the same day on which Texas voters will vote on the legalization of 32 per cent beer, was submitted to the Uvalde County commissioners' court at their regular meeting last week.

No action will be taken on the petition until the August 14 meeting of the commissioners, County Judge C. P. Spangler stated, since the law provides that in elections of this nature they must be called to be held not less than 10 nor more than 20 days after the call. Since the petition bore more than the required 10 per cent of the names of the qualified voters of the county, it is mandatory upon the commissioners court to call the election. — Uvalde Leader News.

$300,000 A Month Hike In Gas Tax Receipts By State

Austin, Texas, Aug. 16.—The Texas Legislature's sweetest gift to the taxpayers—Comptroller Sheppard's new gasoline enforcement division—is steadily stretching out over the state after furling millions in public money.

The enforcement "army" now numbers more than 70 trained men and establishment of two more district headquarters has brought the total of such offices to eight, according to the latest report of J. W. McReynolds, division chief, to the comptroller.

The new district offices, already established and working are in Corpus Christi and Eastland. Mr. McReynolds' report said, and they augment similar centers in San Antonio, Houston, Longview, Dallas, Fort Worth and Amarillo.

To date, the comptroller's operatives have obtained 36 felony indictments against alleged gas tax violators. Three refineries have been placed in receivership, to preserve assets.

The great benefit, however, has not come from prosecutions but from the $300,000-per-month increase in gas tax payments, which is expected to give a $1,000,000 "bonus" yearly to the common school fund, a similar amount to the bond refunding fund, and $2,000,000 to highway fund.

Comptroller Sheppard added that "just as a sideline," his men have raised cigarette tax collections at such a rapid rate that he expects to add from $500,000 to $1,000,000 to the school fund yearly from "smokes." All of the cigarette tax now goes to the schools.

ease is of the greatest importance and more effective than when delayed until after the appearance of paralysis. These acute symptoms rarely last more than a few days. 75 per cent of the cases developing paralysis on or before the fourth day.

The disease may be divided into two main groups, the paralyzed and the non-paralyzed. The latter, regardless as to how mild, is the greater danger in spreading the disease. No one would deliberately expose a susceptible person to a definite paralyzed case, so it is the exposures to the unknown case or carrier which causes the greatest spreading of this disease.

Dodging infantile paralysis infection is a blind game for no one knows where the infection exists. Sometimes it appears as if the infection spreads as readily as that of influenza, but owing to the longer period between exposure and illness, cases do not appear in such rapid succession and because of extensive natural immunity, at least to its paralytic effects, the recognized cases are many times fewer. The best plan to follow avoid this disease as well as many others is for the individual to follow the rules of personal hygiene.

Dodging Infantile Paralysis Infection Declared Blind Game

Austin, Texas, Aug. 16.—The month of August usually shows an increase in the number of cases of infantile paralysis in Texas, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. It is not only a serious disease but also one of the most treacherous with which the medical profession has to deal. The death rate is very high and also the number of cripples. It is estimated that one third to one half of all the cripples in the United States can trace their handicap to infantile paralysis.

Suspicion should be aroused when an illness begins with headache, drowsiness, fever, irritability, vomiting, diarrhea or constipation and with stiffness in the back of the neck or spine. When such early symptoms appear, parents are urged to obtain medical advice without delay, and not assume the condition to be of temporary or trivial importance. Treatment at this stage of the dis-
