Crockett Road Contracts Let

Wade Man Awarded Grading And Austin Firm Bridge Work

Contracts for grading and drainage structures on 9.13 miles of highway 27 from Ozona west were awarded by the State Highway Commission in session last day.

Two contracts were awarded on a stretch of road, the grading and drainage contract going to J. Wade and Son of Coleman for $4,841.40. The Dozier Construction Company of Austin was awarded contract for construction of five small bridges and 68 culverts along this same stretch of road, the total on this contract being $22,202.93.

Other contracts awarded on road work in this section include the following:

Pecos, 12 miles grading and drainage structures from 27 miles east of Fort Stockton, east of Highway 27, W. W. Vann and Company, Mercedes, $44,952.

Pecos, 13 miles grading and drainage structures from 14 miles east of Fort Stockton, east of Highway 27, Brown and Co., Austin, $45,019.15.

Brewster, 8.3 miles grading and drainage structures from the residio County line to Alpine, Highway 3, W. W. Vann and Company, Mercedes $53,099.73.

Coke, 13.5 miles grading and drainage structures from Bronte to Tom Green County line, Highway 70, G. F. Davis, Rule, $3,646.92.

Pecos, 50 multiple box culverts from 14 to 26 miles east of Fort Stockton, Highway 27, Dozier Construction Company, Austin, $2,477.01.

Pecos, Tunis Creek bridge and multiple box culverts 30 miles east of Fort Stockton, Highway 27, one Star Construction Company, San Antonio, $42,754.96.

Kimble, seven miles double tubular surface treatment from the Sutton County line to east of Roosevelt and approaches to Buck Hollow and Copperas Creek bridges, Highway 27, G. B. Tyson, McCamey, $8,753.27.

Free Barbecue And Political Rally At Camp Allison, 28-29

Camp Allison, on the North Llano river in Sutton County, will be the scene of a free barbecue and political rally June 28 and 29, with hundreds of West Texans from all parts of the area expected to be in attendance. Alfred Schwiening of Sonora is in charge of arrangements.

Governor Ross Sterling and former governor James E. Ferguson have been invited to speak at the political rally. Other candidates for office who have been invited include Congressman R. E. Thomson and his opponent, Dan M. Jackson, State Senator Benjamin F. Berkeley of Alpine and his opponents, K. M. Regan of Pecos, J. C. Fuller of Marfa, and B. J. Stewart of Barksdale.

Coke Stevenson, state representative from this district, has also been invited to speak and has been asked to preside during the political speech-making.

Plans are being formulated to make the celebration an outstanding success, with a complete program of entertainment for all who attend. In addition to the free barbecue at noon of the second day, baseball games each afternoon, dances both nights, the political speeches, and swimming and boating will provide diversion. Many are expected to camp near the grounds during the two nights.

Mrs. E. H. Gallenkamp entertaining with a dinner Friday evening in honor of Mr. Gallenkamp's birthday. His fellow employees of the local highway crew were the only guests with the exception of Mrs. Joe Hull, whose birthday it also was.

Cal Goes Fishing

Former President Coolidge motored down to Connecticut the other day and caught a seven brook trout like the one he's holding.

Ranchmen's Reunion, Rodeo At Chandler's Ranch July 1 And 2

The second annual Ranchmen's Reunion and Rodeo will be held at the Charley Chandler ranch, on the Sheffield-Dryden road, July 1 and 2, according to announcement made by Herman Chandler, who was a visitor here the first of the week.

A big crowd is expected for this year's entertainment at the beautiful Chandler ranch headquarters on Independence Creek, Chandler said. An elaborate entertainment program for the two days, including horse races, rodeo contests of all kinds and a dance each night has been planned. Visitors will be given three meals each day with plenty of available camp sites, all for an admission price of only $1 each day.

Liberal purses are being offered in all of the races and rodeo events and some of the best ropers and riders in the section are expected to be on hand to take part in the contests. The road will be well marked and visitors will have no difficulty in finding the place, Chandler declared. Ozona folk are especially invited to attend the entertainment. Herman Chandler and M. H. Goode, Jr., of Sanderson are the promoters.

May Issue Folder With Information About Crockett Co.

A plan for issuing an attractive folder containing pictures and all available information about Ozona and Crockett County, the livestock industry, business interests of Ozona, climatic conditions, facts concerning local government and other information of the area is being considered by the Ozona Lions Club.

A committee has been named to work out the plan and presented an outline of the information which it is proposed to include in the folder at the club meeting Monday, and after discussion, the matter was referred back to the committee for a more detailed plan.

NO WORD ON GAS PLAN

No further word had been heard here this week from Clyde Bradford of Grand Falls with reference to his proposal to install a gas distributing system here to utilize gas from the big producer on the Massie ranch. Announcement that the gas from this well is dry sulphur gas has been made and it is presumed here has been found unfit for commercial use.

Friends have received announcements of the marriage of Charles Holmesley to Miss Margaret Denman of Tyler on June 6. They will make their home in Tyler.

Lions Elect New Directors

Installation Of Officers To Take Place Last Of Month

Directors of the Ozona Lions Club for the coming year were elected at the regular club meeting Monday noon. John L. Bishop, J. H. Meredith, J. H. McClure and Evert White were elected to serve on the club's board of directors for the coming year.

Officers of the club were elected two weeks ago. The officers and directors will be formally installed into office the last week in June, details of the installation meeting to be worked out at next Monday's meeting. The new officers of the club include Hugh Childress, Jr., president; Dr. F. T. McIntire and I. G. Rape, vice presidents; Glenn Rutledge, secretary; M. M. Fulmer, Lion Tamer; O. W. Smith, Tail Twister.

Vernon Van Zandt, new manager of the local office of the West Texas Utilities Company, transferred his membership from the Santa Anna Lions Club to the local club. Mr. Van Zandt was manager of the Utilities Company office at Santa Anna, exchanging posts with W. R. Mulroy.

Arthur Quist was a visitor at Monday's meeting.

Immunization Against Soremouth By Vaccination Pronounced Success; To Be Available For Use Next Spring

College Station, Texas, June 15.

Immunization by vaccination against soremouth disease in lambs and kids has been developed to an extent that it probably will be available for general use next Spring, according to A. B. Conner, director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. The method of immunization has been developed by veterinarians at Substation No. 14 (Ranch Experiment Station) and already has passed through the laboratory and field experimental stages of development with gratifying results, Mr. Conner said.

During field experiments with the vaccination process, 2,511 head of lambs were vaccinated on one ranch in March and were allowed to run with a number of non-vaccinated lambs. During a check-up made in May, following an outbreak of soremouth on that ranch, it was found that only five of the 2,511 head were affected with the disease and these in only a light form. Of the non-vaccinated control lambs, 372 were affected with soremouth in a severe form. Examination in May of a total of 2,024 lambs which had been vaccinated in April on another ranch showed a total of five mild cases among the vaccinated lambs and 191 severe cases among the non-vaccinated control lambs. Field tests on three other ranches have not been checked up as yet as the disease has not yet

Texas Co. Spuds On Ingham Ranch

Test Is Scheduled To Go To A Depth Of 4,500 Feet

The Texas Company Tuesday spudded in its test on the B. B. Ingham ranch along the Pecos River in this county. The drilling contract is held by Northrup and Nichols.

The location of the Texas Company No. 1 Ingham is 330 feet from the south line and 428 feet from the east line of Section 36½ block 1, 1 & G. N. survey. It is only about a mile east of the Pecos River and about 2½ miles southeast of old Fort Lancaster.

The test is scheduled to go to a depth of 4,500 feet unless production is obtained at a lesser depth. The Texas Company owns a block of sixteen sections, slightly over 10,000 acres, out of the Ingham ranch. The location for the first well is only about 20 miles from the Yates field in Pecos County.

TRANSPORTS PRISONERS

Harry Moore, brother of the late Jim Moore, former sheriff of Crockett County, passed through Ozona Wednesday morning in charge of a number of prisoners, some of them bound for the state penitentiary at Huntsville and others, who had been adjudged lunatics, for the state insane asylums. Mr. Moore is chief deputy sheriff at El Paso.

PIERCE LAMBS TOP MARKET

Another bunch of Crockett County lambs topped the Fort Worth market last week. They were a shipment of 316 head from the Vic Pierce ranch. The lambs weighed 62 pounds and brought 4.50, the top for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Friend, Jr. were hosts to a number of friends at a barbecue and goat roping on their ranch Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Friend, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hull, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Kincaid, Jr., and Mrs. Mike Friend, Mr. and Mrs. Ashby McMullen and Mrs. Rice Lynn were among the guests.

Seriously Ill

Cyrus H. K. Curtis, 82, famous publisher of Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal and several New York and Philadelphia newspapers, is seriously ill in a Philadelphia hospital, where his wife died while visiting him.

Sewer System Here Being Extended To Residence Section

Although announced plans called for laying of a 10-inch main from the disposal plant through the business section to the school building only, sewer system plans here are being expanded with the opening of a ditch this week from the intersection of the west road with the main east along Fourteenth Street.

Just how far the system is to be extended has not been announced by members of the Commissioners Court. Whether other residential sections are to be served by lines and whether the lines are to be extended over the entire town is not known. The work is being done with county funds.

Ada Word Presents Expression Class In Recital At Burnet

The Stockman is in receipt this week of a letter from Mrs. F. R. Taylor of Burnet enclosing a clipping from the Burnet newspaper giving an account of a recent recital given by pupils of the expression classes of Miss Ada Word, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cal Word, former Ozona residents. The newspaper account follows:

Tuesday night, May 10, at the Burnet Theatre, Miss Ada Word presented her pupils in a series of novel songs, readings, and one act plays, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church.

Throughout the enjoyable program, each child disclosed remarkable training, along with a noticeable gift of acting. Frequent prophecies were to be heard in the audience that with future training such as these juvenile actors and actresses had received in the past year, a bright stage career surely must await many of the little tots.

The costumes, mostly designed by Miss Word, were indeed novel and attractive, and many of the scenes were not only highly entertaining, but were beautiful as well, with so many charming little folks in colorful costumes, appearing, acting, and speaking with such marked ease and grace.

The cowboy scene especially, which was the original work of Miss Word's own capable mind, was one of the cleverest acts ever presented on the local stage—so realistic were the camp fire, cowboys, songs, and camp chatter; while the chorus of smaller cowboys, in "dude ranch" array, brought down the house.

Each act was skillfully presented, and merits the highest praise, and every little actor and actress portrayed such careful training, that Miss Word's success in her classes was stamped deep upon the minds of the appreciative audience.

SHAPE PLANS FOR BARBECUE HERE JULY 4

Arrangements Nearly Complete For Independence Day

PREPARE FOR 2,000

Baseball Games And Other Entertainment Planned

That an old-fashioned barbecue and county-wide get-together would be staged in Ozona July Fourth was definitely assured this week when committees working on the project had secured pledges of meat for the feed and were winding up other arrangements for the day's celebration.

The committee, named by the Ozona Lions Club and headed by O. W. Smith, had secured the cooperation of a large number of citizens in shaping plans for the event and ranchmen have been liberal in doing their share toward the success of the barbecue by pledging meat. A committee will make the rounds of the business section this week securing donations sufficient to put on the barbecue. Although there is a considerable fund on deposit in the bank for the barbecue fund, this money will not be used in staging the event this year, according to present plans of the committee. An independent solicitation will be made to finance the feed this year.

The barbecue will be staged in the city park as usual and the menu will consist of barbecue, bread, pickles, beans, onions, iced tea and coffee.

A series of baseball games and a dance the nights of July 4 and 5 are the chief entertainment features of the July 4th celebration. A three-game series with the San Angelo Shepherders has been tentatively matched by the Ozona Giants, one game to be on Sunday, July 3 and the others July 4 and 5. The strong Texon team may also be matched with the locals on one of the days. The dances will be held on the open-air platform at the fair grounds.

Giants Trounce Comstock 9 to 4

Locals To Meet Fort Stockton Steers On Powell Field Sun.

The Ozona Giants took the Comstock nine to another cleaning on the Comstock diamond Sunday afternoon, the score ending 9 to 4 in favor of the locals.

The Giants were on a hitting rampage and nipped the Comstock hurlers for a total of 17 safeties. Red Greer was literally in the "pink" of condition, slamming out a total of four hits to lead his heavy-hitting teammates for the day. Conley Cox and Bob Weaver tied for second place in batting honors with three hits each. Childress and James accounted for two each and Frank Russell, Jack Sharp and Rex Russell one each. Greer also scored four runs, with Frank Russell, Sharp, Cox, Weaver and James scoring one each.

Comstock turned in five hits off the offerings of James in the first five innings. Cox held the Comstock batsmen hitless the last four. Ozona's scores were made as follows: One in the first, one in the second, four in the fourth, one in the seventh and two in the ninth. Comstock scored once in the first, twice in the second and once in the fifth.

The Giants will take on the Stockton Steers in a game on Powell Field diamond here Sunday afternoon beginning at 4 o'clock.

PUTTING OUR DOLLARS TO WORK

A few years ago the secretary of a commercial organization in Columbus, Mississippi, began to wonder how many times a dollar changed hands in his community in a single year; so he took a number of dollars, pasted a slip of paper on the back of each, and started them out through the regular channels of trade.

At the end of the year each of these dollars was returned to the secretary by the local bank, and it was found that on an average each dollar had passed through 220 different hands during the course of twelve months.

If one could have interviewed one of these dollars he would have received about such a travelogue as this:

"After I left you I went directly to the grocer's till. My visit there was brief, however, for a farmer entered the store with a crate of eggs, and the grocer turned me over in exchange. I thought I was going to get a little trip in to the country, but I never left the town, for my farmer friend took me down the street a short distance and turned me over to the shoe dealer.

"Well I couldn't take the time to tell you about all of the fine people I visited during the year, but I remember that one was the minister, another a workman helping to build a new pavement through the city, another a school teacher, who received me in exchange for instruction given to your children. I also visited a doctor, a lawyer, and a man working on the new community house. I spent some time in the bank and earned a little money while there for some of my friends.

"I feel that I have brought a considerable amount of happiness to the people of this community during the year, and I am ready to go out now and put in another strenuous year helping to build up worth while things here."

That is what happens to a dollar that is kept in circulation. And it seems to us that the big problem confronting this nation is not so much the shortage of money but keeping what money we have circulating in a normal manner. How can that be done? Well we would naturally suggest that advertising is one of the most essential elements.—Fairbury, (Neb.) News.

SCANDALS

By THE TOWN GOSSIP

Depression must be bad over in El Paso. They sent out a batch of half a dozen lunatics this week.

Things don't change around here pretty soon we may be able to make up a load here.

They must have been the ones who started this gag about prosperity being just around the corner. Serves 'em right.

Speaking of depression, if we were, John Rochelle says Gossip forgot last week to tell 'em what kind of dog he has. He says tell 'em it's a German police. "If they find out it's only a poodle they might wonder at how much grub I carry off from the barbecue July 4," he said.

It makes no difference how fine upstanding, respectable a citizen you are to a banana skin you are just a big flop.

A local young lady entered a drug store and asked for a pound of floor wax.

"I'm sorry but we have nothing but sealing wax," the clerk replied. "Don't be silly," she blurted. "Why should anyone want to wax a ceiling?"

Well, as the modern grandmother's bedtime story goes, there was a handsome young rascal—rather, there were two handsome young rascals. Both of them were at a dance. Strange as it may seem, they had sipped of the fluid that glorifies the drab. Stranger still, they fell to arguing, and still, stranger, it was over a girl. Result—colored glasses. But, oh well what's a black eye in these times of depression, high taxes and jim-fergusons.

Don't these ready-rolled cigarettes make you cough, though?

There's the story of a patient pedestrian who had fallen into a manhole and called for help. "Dear me," said a gentleman who happened along. "Have you fallen into that manhole?" "Not at all," was the reply. "As you seem interested, I will say that I just happened to be down here and they built the pavement around me."

An old Dutchman, returning to Holland, was asked by a friend

what, in his estimation, was the strangest thing he had noticed, and he replied: The United States has many wonderful things, but the strangest is a drink called the cocktail—and here is how they make it: They put in whiskey to make it strong, then water to make it weak; gin to make it hot and ice to make it cold; lemon to make it sour; sugar to make it sweet; then say: 'Here's to you!' and drink it themselves."

HE KNEW HIS STUFF

An aged man at the Union Station Discussed the business sitch-eation.

I said that things were mighty bad And somehow or other, it made him mad.

That aged man—he tapped my knee "D'ye know what's wrong with things?" said he. "I've been in fights—"and the old boy glared, "And I always got whipped when I got scared. Folks have forgotten how to stand and grin

When hard luck socks 'em on the chin. There's too much groaning—not enough laughs— Too many crepe hangers—too many graphs.

It sure don't help a sick man's heart To think of nothing but his fever chart. There's too many people with an alibi— I'd rather listen to a Darn Good Lie.

As soon as folks quit hanging crepe You'll see business in a darn good shape. I've got no use for golf as a game But I speak the language just the same.

There's too many drivers, and too many putts— Plenty 'o cold feet and not enough guts. You ain't my son, but if you was mine— I'd darn soon teach you not to whine."

Immunization—

Experiments by substitution veterinarians showed that animals can be rendered immune by inoculation with virus. Moreover, these experiments showed that when this vaccination is done on some part of the body other than the lips, the infection generally remains localized and rarely spreads to the lips, but nevertheless, establishes immunity. Just how soon this immunity is effected is not known as yet, but it is believed at present that the animals must have recovered fully from the vaccination before immunity can be expected to be complete. Accordingly, it is possible to produce in young animals what corresponds to a very light case of the disease and which causes very little or no discomfort or ill effects upon the animal it is rendering immune.

The best time for vaccination, the workers found, is when the blow fly is not active, although the experiments showed that vaccination can be carried on with little danger of screw worm infestation even during fly time. Out of a total of 3,482 animals vaccinated during April, only two cases of screw worm infestations occurred, in spite of the fact that screw worms were present in wounds and injuries of many of the non-vaccinated animals.

SYNOPSIS

Diana, a young English girl, in love with Dennis Waterman, a married man, undergoes a nervous collapse and is sent to the country to recuperate under the care of Dr. Donald Rathbone, who lives near the cottage where she stays. She finds herself falling in love with the doctor, but still trying to hold Dennis' affection. Linda, Dennis' wife, tells her that she offered Dennis a divorce but he would not accept it; he would have felt compelled to marry Diana. Diana's love for Doctor Rathbone is tempered by jealousy of a woman named Rosalie, who lives in the doctor's house. At last Rathbone finds that he is deeply in love with Diana, but he confesses to her that Rosalie is his wife.

He had married her out of sympathy, when her husband had been killed in the war. But Rosalie was hopelessly insane. Diana and Rathbone part, and a letter comes from Aunt Gladwyn telling Diana back to London.

THE STORY

She could not quite fathom the relationship between Diana and the goodlooking man whose voice made her own lonely heart turn over with such wistful memories. She had once thought . . . but, of course, that was too absurd; Rathbone would never seriously consider a child like Diana, though it was quite possible that she might have taken a wilful fancy to him. The Creature had known other cases where patients had temporarily fallen in love with the doctor who looked after them, but it seldom came to anything.

Diana went out into the garden. She was full of curiosity to know what Dennis would say to her; she supposed cynically that there would be more lies and pretense. He came quite early. The smart two-seater raged up the road and came to a standstill at the gate where last night . . . Diana could not pursue that memory. Last night was like some live creature waiting to pounce upon her directly she was off her guard and tear her in pieces.

She opened the gate and greeted Waterman with a smile. "You're an early bird," she said calmly. She led the way and as soon as they were in the sitting room Waterman broke out: "What became of you last night Diana? I was worried to death. I thought something dreadful had happened. They told me at Palmeiro's that you had been and had left suddenly."

Diana met his eyes serenely. "Yes, I ran away," she said. "Ran away?" "Yes, I found out that I didn't want to see you after all."

"What do you mean?" "While I was waiting, Linda came in. It was quite an accident—she was not spying on us."

"Linda? She went to Paris yesterday morning." "She didn't; she was at Palmeiro's last night, and we had quite a little talk together."

She was quick to see the sudden suspicion in his eyes. "It was Linda who made you change your mind," he said savagely.

Diana nodded. He stared at her for a moment; then he broke out: "I've told you again and again that you cannot pay any attention to what Linda says. She is a jealous woman."

"Oh, no; she's not in the least jealous of you or of me, if that is what you mean," Diana said calmly. "I am not at all sure, Dennis, that you don't really like her a great deal better than she likes you."

"I don't understand what you mean. Whatever Linda told you, you can take it from me it is not the truth."

"Isn't it? Not when she said that she had offered to divorce you and that you had refused? I think it is the truth, Dennis."

He took a step towards her. "It's a damned lie, Diana. You know I've told you scores of times that I would give anything I possess if only she would give me my freedom."

Diana smiled faintly. "I know you have," she agreed.

"But that is the damned lie—not what Linda said." She saw the dull color rise slowly to his face, and she turned her eyes away.

She felt sick and ashamed; not for her own sake, but for his. She had once thought this man so splendid; there had been a time when she would have given him everything she possessed—body and soul—and it hurt her unspeakably to know that he was so unworthy—even of her! she told herself whimsically.

After a moment she looked at him again; in the last few minutes he seemed in some unaccountable way to have lost stature—to have grown ordinary.

"So I ran away," she said again. "And I shall never run back any more, Dennis."

She saw his lips move as he tried to speak, but he could find no words. Then suddenly he went down on his knees, encircling her with his arms, hiding his face against her.

"Don't send me away, Diana. . . I love you so . . . I'll do anything you want—anything in the wide world—if only you won't send me away."

Diana tore his hands from about her. "It's too late," she said again, and then, breathlessly, "Don't make me hate you, Dennis."

He stood up, his face convulsed with agitation, but now she no longer pitied him; she was only conscious of that sick, ashamed feeling that was almost physical.

He went on pleading, imploring, reminding her of all they had been to one another—all they would yet be.

Diana put her hands over her ears. She felt that it was more than she could bear; she felt as if he were trying to strip her naked instead of trying to cover and protect her, as Rathbone would have done.

She said at last, brokenly: "If you only knew how you're hurting me."

He misunderstood that, eagerly grasping it as a sign that he was to be forgiven; he made the fatal mistake of trying to take her in his arms.

Diana fled away from him, putting the width of the little room between them, staring at him with wild eyes.

"Don't touch me—don't ever dare to touch me again," she stammered.

They stood looking at one another as if they had been mortal enemies; then Waterman said thickly: "If I go away now, Diana . . . I shall never come back."

Diana felt her lips twitching into a smile, but she repressed it and answered gently: "I'm sorry, Dennis—good-bye."

Waterman left the cottage with as much dignity as he could command. His conceit refused to allow him to admit defeat; he and Diana had quarrelled so often before, and she had always been sorry. Soon—tomorrow or the next day—there would come a letter from her. He knew so well what its contents would be.

Her last night there, she received a letter from Dr. Rathbone. "My Dear Miss Gladwyn: I saw Shurey this evening, and he tells me you are returning to London on Wednesday, so in case we do not meet again before then, and it is unlikely, seeing that during the next few days I shall be very busy, I want to impress upon you to take great care of yourself and not to overtax your strength. I am afraid this will read rather like a homily, but you must put it down to my poor powers of expression rather than to any other cause. I want you always to look on the bright side and believe that life is very largely what we choose to make it, in spite of disappointments and sacrifices. I am preaching to myself as much as to you, seeing that we both have to learn our lessons in the same hard school."

"If I were an eloquent man there is so much I could say, but I know you will understand. Keep a brave heart, and keep well. Good-night once again, Diana. Yours ever, Donald Rathbone."

He stood up, his face convulsed with agitation, but now she no longer pitied him; she was only conscious of that sick, ashamed feeling that was almost physical.

He went on pleading, imploring, reminding her of all they had been to one another—all they would yet be.

Diana turned the page with a hand that trembled; her heart seemed to be turned to water, and there was a mist before her eyes so that for a little while she could hardly make out the last words he had written.

They were: "I love once as I live once. What case is this to think or talk about? I love you."

CHAPTER XX Diana's maid Anna drew the curtains back with a sharp little rattle, letting in the morning light. She was still in London with Mrs. Gladwyn, as that lady had developed a sciatic pain and at the same moment had discovered a wonderful German masseuse who, so she declared, alone could cure it; so after all they had not gone to Scotland.

Six weeks . . . Diana lay back on her pillows, letting the tea grow cold.

Six weeks—six months—six years—it was all the same. Already she felt as if London separated her so completely from Miss Starling and the cottage that it seemed as if she could never really have been there, and at other times it seemed as if she were just in London marking time for some miracle to happen that would give her back the happiness for which she longed.

She had heard nothing of Rathbone since his letter: the letter to which she had written a dozen—twenty replies and destroyed them all.

What was the use writing to him. He would not answer. Miss Starling had departed for her pilgrimage to Normandy with fifty pounds in her pocket. She had written a pathetic note of gratitude to Diana and had sent her a picture postcard after her arrival, of the sea beating against a gigantic rock.

The Creature had shed a few tears when she said good-bye to Diana, and Jenny had wept copiously.

Diana had felt like weeping herself when she looked from the window of Mrs. Gladwyn's big Rolls to wave good-bye to her little group of friends: Mr. Shurey.

CHILD need REGULATING?

CASTORIA WILL DO IT!

When your child needs regulating, remember this: the organs of babies and children are delicate. Little bowels must be gently urged—never forced. That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments; contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. You can safely give it to young infants for colic pains. Yet it is an equally effective regulator for older children. The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's own remedy. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

Jonas, Miss Starling, Jenny, and one or two women from the neighboring cottages.

Since then life had gone on very much the same as before.

She had not seen Dennis Waterman again, but she had been told that he had followed his wife to Paris. Poor Linda!

Diana had heard who the gray-haired man was for whom she had been waiting that night at Palmer's; Mrs. Gladwyn had got the whole story complete she had been back in London a couple of days.

"His name is Anthony Jevons," she informed Diana. "Apparently he and Linda Waterman have known one another for years."

"A married man?" Diana asked without much interest.

"His wife has been in a lunatic asylum for fifteen years," Mrs. Gladwyn said with relish. "I always think it is iniquitous, tying a man to a lunatic. That is a case where divorce is really justified—if it ever is," she added righteously.

"Perhaps he didn't want to divorce her," Diana said.

"Well, he is free at last, poor man," her aunt went on. "She died about two months ago, when the Watermans were in America, so I suppose the next thing we shall hear will be that there is a divorce there."

She looked at her niece sharply as she spoke, but Diana's face was indifferent.

Diana and Mrs. Gladwyn were dining at the Fosters' that night.

Diana had only consented to go under extreme pressure. She disliked Mrs. Foster; she was a "climber" of the most flagrant type who shamelessly "collected celebrities," and who scandalized them as soon as they had left her house.

Jonas had written her that Rathbone's house was up for sale, and Donald was going to live in America.

Diana permitted herself one moment of anguish.

"Oh, God, I can't bear it any longer," she said aloud.

She greeted her hostess with a vague smile and discovered her aunt comfortably seated in a big chair with a large cocktail and a plate of caviar at her elbow.

Diana looked around the room without interest. The same old crowd one always met everywhere Diana spoke to one or two of them and refused a cocktail. People were still arriving, a starchy footman announcing their names at the door in stentorian tones.

"Sir William and Lady Marley," Lady Marley had been a chorus girl, and there had been a violent love affair with a minor prince to her credit before she caught old Sir William on the brink of the grave and suddenly became respectable.

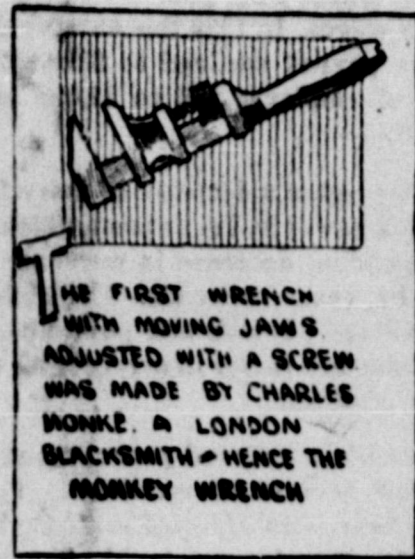

"Dr. Donald Rathbone—"

METHODIST NOTES

One of the things that the Methodist preacher can't understand is: why the ranchmen are so busy on Sunday that they can't come to church and then on Monday morning he sees half a dozen or so of the brethren loafing about town.

The Meeting at Eden, Texas which we were to hold has been postponed until July, so we will preach every Sunday morning at the usual hour. The subject for next Sunday is, "How to make ourselves certain of God's presence in our lives."

J. H. Meredith, Pastor.

Mrs. Rice Lynn and Misses Sue and Betsy Smith have returned to San Antonio after a few days visit with Mrs. Lynn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Kincaid, Sr.

Clinton Glover was called to Brownwood Sunday morning on account of the critical illness of his grandmother. She was somewhat improved when he left Monday night, however.

Rev. M. M. Fulmer is expected to return Saturday from Waco where he took Mrs. Fulmer two weeks ago to enroll in the summer school at Baylor University.

Miss Mary Outerside of Houston is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. West. She accompanied Mrs. Alice Baker home.

Miss Alma Johnigan, Misses Mildred and Sarah Cook and Miss Kitty Viles of Colorado, Texas, are attending Sul Ross State Teachers College at Alpine for the summer session. The Misses Cook taught last year at the Leon Powell school in this county.

Miss Dorothy Miller and Miss Ann Williams were in San Angelo Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurst Meinecke are here from their ranch in Pecos County.

Mrs. Hugh Carden is here from Belton for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Watson.

Louis Donaho and Arthur Quist were business visitors to Del Rio Saturday.

Miss Effie Jones is here from San Angelo for a visit with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kay and daughter, Alberta, went to San Angelo Tuesday to bring back their daughter, Mrs. Alton Hall and baby who will spend a few days visiting on the Kay ranch.

THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS MUST DECIDE THE FATE OF TEXAS RAILROADS

THE WELFARE of Texas and Texans has gone and will always go hand in hand with the welfare of Texas railroads. Their dependency upon each other is absolute.

In 1929 Texas railroads gave employment to 82,956 employes, to whom they paid annually $126,674,543 in salaries and wages. In 1930 this number decreased to 70,739 while the payroll declined to $100,992,226. In 1931 the number of employes fell to 57,098 and the payroll to $89,505,918.

This represents a decrease of more than $37,000,000 in purchasing power in Texas communities. There has been a corresponding decrease in purchase of materials and supplies by Texas railroads. The ability to have maintained railroad payrolls and purchases would have been a very important factor in overcoming the present trying economic condition.

The decline in railroad payrolls and purchases is due only in part to economic conditions. The revenues of the railroads have been affected not only by business conditions but to a very large extent by loss of traffic to trucks and buses using the public highways in competition with the railroads.

The time has come when the people of Texas must decide whether the traffic of this state can best be carried by the railroads, using facilities which they built and maintain at their own expense, or by trucks and buses using the highways built and maintained at the taxpayers' expense.
