Crane Noses Out Giants 5-4 Sunday After Falling Victim Of Locals In Free Hitting Fray Saturday 12 to 7

Injuries Cripple Local Entry In Crucial Series

The standings:	W.	L.	Pct.

Ozona	5	3	.625
McCamey	5	3	.625
Iraan	4	4	.500
Crane	3	5	.375
San Angelo	1	7	.125

Schedule this week:
 Texon at Crane, Saturday and Sunday.
 Iraan at San Angelo (Sunday) doubleheader.
 Ozona at McCamey (Sunday) doubleheader.

An error at shortstop which allowed one Crane tally to trickle in in the ninth inning and a ninth inning rally on the part of the Giants which fell one score short of a tying run, allowed the Crane Gulf crew to nose out the locals in the second game of a two-game series here over the week-end and left the Giants still in a tie for second place with the McCamey nine, which split a series with Texon to put the latter still on the top of the league heap.

Crippled by the loss of Frank Russell from second base position and Joe Cogdell from the outfield, both out with injuries, the Giants were sorely in need of the heavy sticks wielded by these two players in the previous Crane series. Osborn, one of the best pitchers in the Permian League, held the locals to seven hits in the Sunday game. Beeler Brown took over the (Continued On Last Page)

Former Ozonan Is Appointed To West Point

Woodrow Wilson, College of Mines Grid Hero, To Academy

Woodrow Wilson, son of Lee Wilson, former Ozona resident, and for several years distributor of Buick automobiles in this county, has received an appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point, according to press dispatches.

Young Wilson is captain-elect of the College of Mines football team at El Paso and was one of the outstanding gridiron performers of the state last year. He has been a sensation in football since his high school days here and in Stanton, where he finished high school.

Notice of his appointment was received in a telegram received by his father from Congressman R. E. Thomason, a clipping from an El Paso paper, received by The Stockman, declares. Young Wilson was selected to fill an additional vacancy created for this district by a recent bill. "The appointment came as a surprise," the paper commented. The write-up in the El Paso paper continues:

"At 19 he has completed three years of college. This fact, together with his grade rating, will admit him to West Point without examination, his father was advised. He will leave late in August for the Academy.

"Wilson in college was known as one of the boys 'working his way through.' For a while he got up at 4 a. m. to fire a furnace to help earn expenses. He is working for the International Boundary Commission.

"Wilson attended high school at Stanton, where he was a '10-second man' on the running track. He attended grade school at Ozona. At the College of Mines Wilson majored in history.

"Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and their three children, Melba 18, Irma Lee 12 and Woodrow, live at 5215 Louisville St."

Cedar Bush Grows Twisted Branches, Larger At the Top

Specimen Of Freak Growth Is Brought To Town For Display By E. R. Kinser

A cedar bush, the branches of which grow larger around at the top than at the bottom and each branch of which grows in a distinct twist, as regular as a rope, much after the fashion of many types of vine, was another example of nature's freaks brought to town this week.

The freak growth was discovered by E. R. Kinser, county commissioner and rancher, on his ranch southwest of Ozona near the Pecos River. It was brought to town and placed on display in the curio collection of A. W. Jones of Jones Saddlery Company.

The dead limb brought to town is nearly as large as a broom handle at the top and slightly larger than a large pencil at the bottom. The direction of growth of twigs along the branch leaves no doubt as to the top and bottom of the branch. Mr. Kinser says that the bush is still growing and that every limb on it is growing in a decided twist and that all are larger at the top than at the bottom.

Rinkeydinks Lead Softball Loop In New Game Series

Rain Interferes With Scheduled Play; Plan Double Headers

Since the inauguration of a regular schedule of four games a week, with three teams participating, starting Monday of last week, softball aggregations of Ozona have been able to play but four of the scheduled six games, rains interfering.

The Methodist team, which has held a long lead in play with the Baptist team so far this summer, has met with reverses in its two games of the new slate to trail the loop, while the Baptists have one to their credit and one on the losing side, taking one from the Methodists and dropping one to the Rinkeydinks. The latter organization, recent addition to the league, has trounced both the church teams to stand at the head of the pack with a 1000 percent.

The Rinkeydinks snatched the game from the Methodists 9 to 5 last Thursday afternoon and trounced the Baptists 15 to 8 Monday of this week. The Methodists and Baptists are scheduled to go this afternoon, possibly for a double-header to make up for one of the games rained out.

The standings to date:	W.	L.	Pct.
Rinkeydinks	2	0	1000
Bap.	1	1	.500
Methodists	0	2	.000

Miss Angie Patrick Becomes Bride Of Former Ozona Chef

Miss Angie Patrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Patrick of Ozona, became the bride of W. A. Smith, former chef at the Hotel Smith, former chef at the Del Rio cafe, in a wedding ceremony performed in Del Rio last Friday evening.

Mr. Smith left here about two months ago to accept the Del Rio post. The couple will make their home in the border city. Mr. and Mrs. Pleas Dryden of Ozona were Mrs. Pleas Dryden's bridesmaid. Mrs. Dryden is a sister of the bride.

Champion Fisherman Demonstrates

Jack Lamb, world's champion bass fisherman, who gave a practical demonstration on how to reel in the game fish here Saturday, for the benefit of local fishing enthusiasts. Lamb has caught more black bass than any other man in the world. He fishes for the pure love of the sport and not for the game, throwing most of the fish he catches back into the water.

Jack Lamb, Champion Bass Fisherman Gives Local Enthusiasts Lesson In Art Of Casting On School Lawn Sat.

Fishing enthusiasts of Ozona had an opportunity to take free lessons in bait and fly casting from a man who has spent his entire life in pursuit of game fish last Saturday when Jack Lamb, world champion bass fisherman, gave a demonstration of his art on the lawn of the school grounds.

Lamb works for the Gulf Refining Company at Fort Worth, but he has gained his reputation as an angler during many leisure hours, and his employers let him make occasional tours through the state to put on demonstrations and aid beginning anglers.

He fished recently in Devil's River where he landed fifty or sixty fine bass. Lamb is to the fishing world what Bobb Jones was to golf, and Babe Ruth to baseball. He is known as the Old Maestro of Bass fishing, and his articles on this subject have been printed in thousands of newspapers and syndicated throughout the world. His book entitled "How To Catch Ol' John Bass" has been recognized as the last word in authority on the sport.

During his lifetime Lamb has caught more than 42,000 black bass. He knows where the bass stay, and he also knows exactly what it takes to catch them. He can cast 114 feet with a fly and 257 feet with the casting rod. He has fished in 3,500 lakes in Texas alone, and can tell you anything you want to know about bass waters in this state.

Lamb has been known to catch 340 bass in one day. He never eats fish, and turns most of them back into the water. He fishes purely for the sport and not for the game. If he had not caught half so many fish he would still be a champion—for any man so deeply imbued with his sport as Lamb is at fishing will always be a champion in his line. The spirit with which he performs his work would make him that.

Lamb makes it plain that he only conducts these demonstrations for the benefit of novice fishermen, and does not attempt to show the veterans any new tricks. He says that only ten per cent of the tackle owners know what to do with their tackle or how to use it, so it has been a lifetime hobby with Lamb to teach the amateur and show him what it really takes to catch fish on artificial bait.

Mrs. Miller Robison, Recent Bride, Is Honored With Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. Joe Oberkamp and Mrs. Judge Montgomery entertained with a tea and miscellaneous shower at Mrs. Oberkamp's home Tuesday afternoon honoring Mrs. Miller Robison, a recent bride. Mr. and Mrs. Robison were married July 13 in Pecos, Texas, returning here after a honeymoon trip into New Mexico.

Approximately eighty-five guests called from five to six o'clock. The guests were received by Mrs. Oberkamp, Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Robison, Mrs. Max Schneemann, mother of the bride, Mrs. P. T. Robison, mother of the groom, and Miss Blanche Robison, a sister.

Assisting in the dining room and the display of gifts were school mates and close friends of the bride, including Misses Vicky Pierce, Esther Kate Pierce, Totsy Robison, Willie V. Coose, Dorothy Henderson, Louise Henderson Bernice Bailey and Mrs. Ele Hagelstein.

Mrs. H. B. Tandy and Miss Bernice Bailey played softly at the piano during the hour's reception. The house was beautifully decorated with giant salmon pink dahlias, which were also used as a center for the serving table, which was beautiful with a heavy hand-made Brazilian lace cover. The punch bowl of crystal was also surrounded with dahlias, and the flower formed a center piece for the buffet, which held candelabra, with lighted tapers, at each end. Coconut macaroons on silver plates, with sweetheart roses entwined as plate decoration, and punch in crystal cups were served the guests.

Hundreds of beautiful and useful gifts were given the bride, including complete china and silver sets, quantities of linen and household articles. The gifts were beautifully displayed in the living room.

Big parties of friends from Big Lake and San Angelo had planned to attend the event but were prevented by high water and bad roads as a result of heavy rains

Fans Point For McCamey-Ozona Series This Week

Teams Tied for Second Place In Double Bill There Sunday

Baseball interest, at least in the Permian Basin loop section, will be focused this week-end on a pair of contests slated for the McCamey park Sunday afternoon in which the Ozona Giants and the McCamey Refiners, tied for second place honors in the league standing, will combat in a double header bill there.

The Refiners last Saturday shut out the powerful league-leading Texon Oilers 6-0, but were nosed out 1-0 by the Oilers in Sunday's game. Iraan is slated for a series with the San Angelo Sheep Herders and Texon will tackle the Crane Gulfers.

Ozona's weak spot at second base, brought about by an injured knee suffered Saturday by Frank Russell, will be plugged up with an imported player before the McCamey game. Team managers were in contact with several prospects this week and expect to have a recruit here today or tomorrow.

For the chunking job, Bishop, the new left hander from Killen is to be depended upon to hold down the hard hitting Refiners in one of the games, and an effort is being made to get Croswaite, Randolph Field ace, again for the other.

MILLER URGES PROMPT DRIVE ON COCKLEBUR

Plant Pest Said To Be Numerous As Result of Recent Heavy Rains

An immediate campaign to stamp out the cocklebur in Crockett County is urged by Jones Miller, veteran rancher and chairman of the cocklebur committee for the O. B. Trap Co.

Large numbers of the noxious plant have already put in an appearance along highways and pastures as a result of recent bountiful rains, Mr. Miller said, and immediate steps should be taken to stamp it out. The burs getting into wool on sheep result in considerable loss where the plant is numerous.

Mr. Miller urges that every ranchman hunt down and pull up every cocklebur plant and that all citizens co-operate in ridding their premises locally and the bar pits along highways of the weeds.

Wallace Beery Appears In His Greatest Film

Tops Previous Work As 'Big Mike' in 'West Point of the Air'

"West Point of the Air," which will be shown Sunday afternoon, and Monday night at the Ozona Theatre, fulfills two purposes excellently.

It is a splendid, warm, human vehicle for Wallace Beery, whose popularity was amply attested by his many previous successes.

Secondly, a strong dramatic story is played out against a new background, a background which few Americans know anything about, a background of utmost importance to the future of the United States... the huge air college at Randolph Field, Texas.

As Grizzled Sergeant Beery, as a grizzled old aviation sergeant, bridges the gap between the army air days of rickety "crates" or "flying coffins," as they were playfully called to the ultraefficient air arm of today. He

HEAVY RAINS DRENCH WEST TEXAS RANGE

Unusual July Record of Rainfall Is Piled Up During Week

3.78 INCHES HERE

Ranchers Now Have Excellent Outlook For Winter Feed

Rains like old timers in the area have always dreamed about and hoped for in the month of July but never saw before drenched the livestock range area of Crockett and surrounding counties during the past week, bringing new life to grass and weeds that had begun to parch and practically assuring abundant feed through the coming winter.

Following on the heels of light rains throughout the area early last week, amounting to .15 of an inch here, a drenching downpour, falling slowly and soaking in thoroughly fell Friday night, amounting to a total of 1.5 inches here as registered by the gauge at Joe Oberkamp's.

Another inch and a half fell early Monday morning and Tuesday afternoon a shower amounted to .33 inch here. A shower which registered .1 of an inch fell last night. Heavy clouds, with showers in various sections of the area, continued to hang low yesterday and today.

Rains the past week brought the total fall for the month of July to 3.78 inches, something of a record, according to old timers, for rainfall in July in West Texas. The July rains thus far bring the total fall for the year locally to 16.14 inches.

Heavy rainfall north of Ozona Tuesday morning brought Johnson draw down brimming full. Howard draw, 25 miles west of Ozona, was reported on a rampage early in the week. It was reported here that the approach to the Howard Draw bridge, washed out in recent rises in the draw several times, was again washed out this week. The unpaved section of the highway between here and Sonora and the road west to the big hill were in bad condition, traffic bound west being held here for a time yesterday on account of impassable condition of the road.

Ozona Party To Mexican Capital For Convention

Dr. & Mrs. Grandy & Bill Gray Attending Lions Meeting

Dr. W. A. Grandy, delegate from the Ozona Lions Club to the international convention of Lions Clubs being held in Mexico City this week, with Mrs. Grandy and Bill Gray, staff writer for the Ozona Stockman, arrived in the Mexican capital Monday afternoon on the eve of the convention opening Tuesday morning, according to word received from the Ozonans yesterday.

Roads from Laredo to the interior of Mexico have been in bad condition for several weeks, but reports here last week-end indicated that the Ozona party would have fairly good travelling from the border to the convention city, barring further landslides and high water, factors which had kept the highway in questionable condition for several days previous to the start.

The convention will continue through Friday. Young Gray is "covering" the convention activities of Lion delegations from San Angelo and Fort Worth for papers in those cities and will write some of his impressions of Mexico for Stockman readers.

Governor Of Bexar Makes Stirring Appeal For Loyalty As Revolution Breaks Out Near Mexican Capital

Ill Fated Uprising Is Spread To Early Texas, However

AUSTIN, Tex., July 24—In 1810 the adage that troubles never come singly was fulfilled in the case of Spain, especially in the American dominions, and the frontier province of Texas shared in the disturbance.

On September 16 of this year Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla, curate of the little town of Dolores, near Mexico City, started an armed rebellion against the crown. From the outset this movement, though prematurely started, met with signal success. With comparative ease the insurgents captured Guanajuato and Valladolid, and decisively defeated the royalist army at Monte de las Cruces, in the vicinity of the capital.

However, lack of discipline and of definite plans for attack, as well as the presence of dissension among the insurgents, soon proved fatal to the cause. Early in November, Felix Calleja, royalist leader, defeated Hidalgo at Acapulco and a series of crushing defeats followed the curate's fleeing forces.

In an attempt to strengthen his falling cause, Hidalgo had sent agents throughout New Spain to foster the revolution. Into the Rio Grande region, he sent various agents who were so active that by the latter part of 1810, all the settlements near the river were in open revolt.

Texas Governor Acts North of the Nueces—then the boundary of Texas—Manuel de Salcedo, Governor of Texas, had learned of the rebellion to the South and had tried to prevent its spread to Texas. In spite of his efforts, however, the situation quickly became dangerous. In Coahuila, Governor Cordero had lost his command; and, soon thereafter, a conspiracy to overthrow the government was discovered in Bexar, the capital of Texas. Thereupon, Governor Salcedo immediately issued a proclamation calling upon the residents of the capital to co-operate with him in resisting the spread of revolutionary propaganda.

An original copy of this proclamation is found in the Bexar Archives in the library of The University of Texas. A translation of this document, which bore the title "Loyal Texas", dated January 6, 1811, reads as follows:

"With more certainty than formerly I can now set forth to you the wicked intentions of the Curate Hidalgo, of Allende, of the Aldamas, of Abasolo, and of various followers of theirs—all leaders of the insurrection who are operating in various portions of the viceroyalty. I have been eager to learn their plans in order to communicate them to you; and, therefore, I have tried in every way possible to ascertain their ideas.

The rebels are trying to make this kingdom independent from Spain, their legitimate king, Don Fernando VII, and from the Council of Regency, which is legally and worthily representing him. To this end, they claim that our king is dead, and that Europeans assert that he is still alive because they are trying to sell this country to the wicked Napoleon. Can such absurd claims be believed? Can they be heard without indignation? Is it possible that even the most foolish person can doubt the origin and object of such a false statement? No, No, there is not one person among you who does not recognize the claim as false, unless his heart is as corrupt as that of Hidalgo himself.

Europeans Praised "Before the tribunal of Justice, I have no favorites, as you well know. Consequently, I do not wish to state that there are no European traitors—although they are not many—nor do I wish to assert that all Europeans think and act with the honesty and propriety characteristic of Spaniards. I would like to ask you, however, have you heard of any of the Europeans who have been in command in any place in this kingdom or even in South America, from the time when Spain first raised the cry for national liberty in order to shake off the yoke of France, who have listened to the emissaries of Napoleon? We have not even allowed them to remain within our territory. On the contrary, we have taken many steps and published many orders to prevent the spread of their poisonous ideas. The proclamation of His Excellency, Don Pedro Garibal, ad interim viceroy, dated April 18, 1809, and published in this province on June 4 of the same year, by order of Don Nemesio Salcedo, Commandant General, is well known. You are also aware of the careful census of foreigners, and of other measures taken in this province, in compliance with superior orders. You are not ignorant of the strict laws forbidding the immigration of anyone—either foreigner or Spaniard—by way of the frontier of Louisiana. Lastly, you are eye witnesses of the continued vigilance and of the many precautionary measures which this government office has taken and is constantly taking in order to prevent a disturbance of the peace which you happily enjoy, to insure your security and that of your property, to improve the education of your children, and to foster the general welfare of the province. Can you deny these truths which are as evident as the light of day? Therefore, if all this is true and you can see for yourselves by my actions—although I am the least of the governors of this kingdom—in this wilderness, the most uninhabited of the Internal Provinces, then why can't you realize that everything that the apostate Hidalgo and his followers say lacks even a grain of truth? Everything they say is false; they are the ones who have sold themselves; they are traitors who have been deceived by the partisans or perhaps by the emissaries of the French government. They are merely attempting to deceive you with the excuse of persecuting Europeans. The Europeans are, without question, the ones who have always looked after you, protecting your families and your property. Europeans have tilled the soil of this beautiful province along with you, sharing the fruit of their labors with you; they have taken care of your wealth and your mines; lastly, they are the ones who bear the heavy burdens of administration. For these reasons they have established bonds with you which are more sacred and stronger than that of chance birth in this or that country. Therefore, you can affirm with your blood, and I hereby do so with mine, that there is not one single European in America, whether or not he is in command, who has done more for his fatherland than he has for the country where he lives and who does not love it more than the place of his birth, and loves you as brothers. We generally find that persons who file suits, petitions, etc., against others, are never satisfied with the decisions of the alcaldes, who are mostly Creoles. They generally ask for the governor to review their case and to pass final judgment thereon. Why? Because they have more confidence in him than in the alcalde.

Self As Example "I would not wish to bring before you another example of the same nature, but I must do so. Tell me, whom did you elect, of your own free will, spontaneously, and unanimously, as your representative to the Cortes? You confessed that you could not find a patrician among you with the qualifications called for in the superior order in whom you could entrust your fate and your fortune, except me. It is true that you honored me even beyond my worth and limited lights by this election. But, am I not a European? Am I not, as I have said above, the least of the governors of this kingdom? So I am. Therefore, by this point alone you can judge how absurd the claims of the rebels are.

"They want to bring happiness to a kingdom that has no other misfortune than having them on its soil. They will be its ruin if the All-Mighty, through one of His inscrutable plans, unfortunately allows vice to overcome virtue. Yes, I mean vice, the scandalous life led by the leaders of the revolution, especially by the sacrilegious priest, is well known. As Professor Montana aptly says, the curate, taking advantage of the respect and trust in which people hold priests, has maliciously deceived so many innocent and unwary people who will eventually realize their mistake and those who may be alive will groan for many years because of the misfortune which they have brought upon themselves.

"They desire independence! Ask them if they are certain that they can enjoy independence with the same peace and prosperity that they had before they discharged the venom of discord upon this kingdom. Ask them if the ambition of the one who is now leading them will not bind them with chains of heavy taxes in exchange for the kindness, tolerance, and exemptions afforded them by the Spanish government. What country has treated conquered territory with more generosity? What wrongs has Spain done this kingdom? Read the "Reflexiones," of Doctor Luis Montana on this unfortunate event, and you will then witness the noble heart of a Creole who speaks to you with truth. It is madness to think that we can withhold obedience from the highest of judges without failing in our duty to the king. The bandits are falsely shouting his name while, at the same time, they are murdering the magistrates who represent him. This happened in Guanajuato where they killed the Intendant, a man of proven honesty, good moral character, and considerable education. They do not like honest men because such men would oppose their evil designs. They prefer men corrupt with vice, in order to be able to nurse their own sins.

Curate Blasted Finally, you can not deny, without ceasing to be good Catholics, that a man such as the curate Hidalgo—as you perhaps have known him and as you have twice heard read in the edict of the Holy Inquisition, a man who does not take God as the basis of his actions, but instead abuses the privileges which he enjoys as a priest, and takes advantage of your general devotion to the Virgin of Guadalupe in order to murder, and rob both natives and Europeans—would undertake any thing other than projects devoid of reason and of justice. Blessed is he who is persecuted for the sake of justice. Consequently, worthy subjects of our beloved king, I invite you to unite with me in fulfilling your solemn oath of loyalty to Don Fernando VII, and to persecute, expose, and arrest anyone among you who may act suspiciously. Do not be afraid to report matters to me with the greatest secrecy, for I shall protect you from any one whom you suspect of treason, or whom you may hear making traitorous offers and disturbing the peace which you are now enjoying. Prepare yourselves along with me to resist the mob of traitors, evil men, and cowardly soldiers, who are being led to their ruin by a criminal leader. Your loyalty and courage are sufficient to equal their numbers and to conquer them, with the aid of God—the just avenger of innocent blood—in order that they may not shed your blood and that of your wives and young children, who will bless you eternally."

Governor Salcedo took many other steps to check the advance of the revolution. Nevertheless, the situation became so critical that, on January 19, 1811, he called a council of war to decide upon a line of action. As a result, the governor was made virtual dictator and plans were made to retreat to the east and make a last stand at some convenient place near San Antonio. But even while the council was in session, the revolution had broken forth in San Antonio.

Tom Ed Montgomery, small son of Mr. and Mrs. George Montgomery, is suffering from an attack of the mumps at his home here this week.

OZONA TEXAS

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

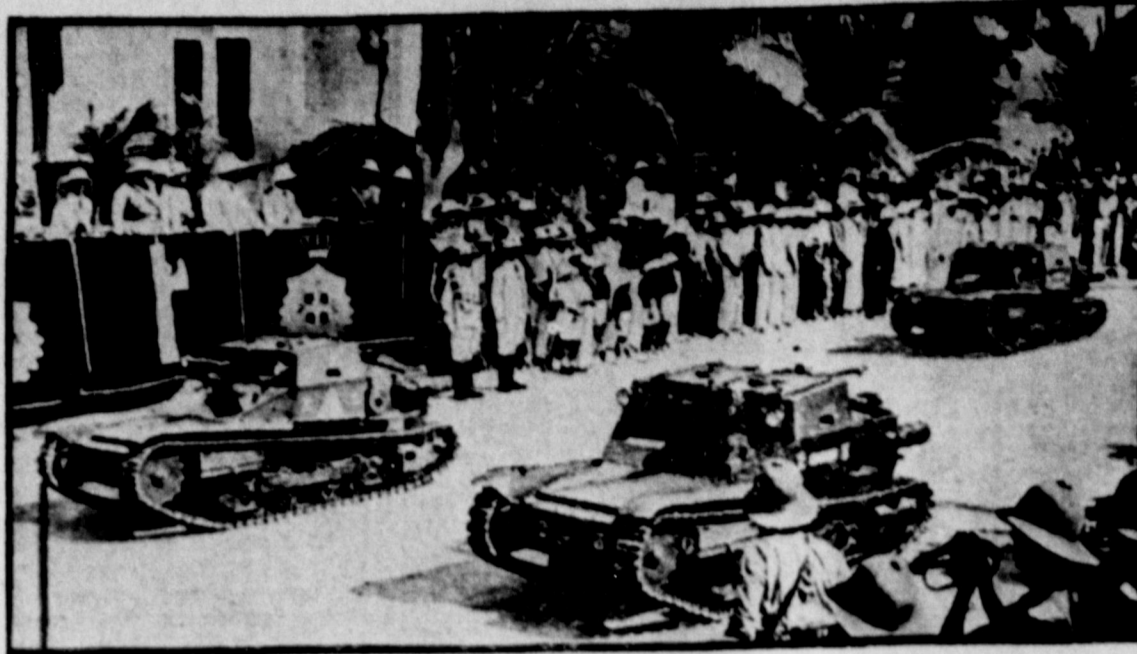

AUSTIN, July 24—Five prisoners, overcome by terrific heat on Texas prison farms, died last week. Their names may be added to the roll of 20 who have died similarly in the last few years. Eventually, public opinion will be sufficiently aroused to do something to modernize the antiquated and inhuman system of handling prisoners in Texas. These deaths, while they will give opportunity for maudlin sentimentalists to sound off, probably will not affect much change in public opinion, which is a slow process. In England, thousands of children died at the hands of brutal almshouse keepers, without affecting any change in the lethargy of the public about the system. But Charles Dickens, with an inspired pen and a passionate devotion to the task, roused England in a few years, and forever abolished inhuman treatment of paupers and their children. Lee Simmons, able manager of the prison system, has corrected many of its administrative weaknesses. But any system that permits ill-conditioned prisoners to be sent to their deaths in broiling Texas summer temperatures needs a Charles Dickens to write about it.

Cynics who believe that the high fidelity trust which marked officials of a bygone generation has disappeared, and that the tentacles of entrenched wealth reach even into the sanctum of justice and influence those who are supposed to render judgments between men, received a rude shock last week. The Third Court of Civil Appeals at Austin rendered, in the case of Lone Star Gas Co. vs. the Texas Railroad Commission, an opinion which the best legal minds in Texas are hailing as one of the most noteworthy in the annals of Texas jurisprudence. The opinion, written by Justice M. F. Blair, sparkles with the brilliance of its sound reasoning.

its commonsense application of the facts and the law. In upholding the railroad commissioner's power to fix public utility rates and sustaining the reduction to 32 cents per 1000 cubic feet gate rate in 300 Texas cities, the court approved the railroad commission's procedure in consolidating the various individual cities' protests, thus removing one of the utilities' most effective weapons. Few cities can stand the expense, individually, of a legal battle over rates with a huge utility corporation. But many cities, with their claims combined and the state behind them, have at least an opportunity to have those claims heard in court, and avoid being crushed by the sheer weight of the opposition's financial resources. The Lone Star Gas Co. has indicated it will appeal the case to the state supreme court, and if possible, to the U. S. supreme court. So the fight goes on. But the people of Texas, regardless of the final outcome, won a notable victory in the Austin Court of Appeals.

Politics still besets the Texas

Centennial. Naming an advertising advisory committee, to have direction of expenditure of the $500,000 state advertising fund for the Centennial. Walter Woodul lieutenant governor, selected a railroad executive, a department store manager, a lobbyist for the sulphur company. The Dallas News explains that no advertising or newspaperman was selected, because "the presence of active journalists on the committee would have tended to sway the group toward the impracticable policy of frittering away the advertising appropriation" by buying space with the money. Many advertising and newspaper people thought that was what the legislature appropriated the advertising money for. The News recommends instead, that Chicago's example be followed, and all of the advertising money be spent for high-powered press agents to send out "accurate and attractive news of the Centennial" to be published free by the newspapers that cheerfully published such material during the past year, when the Centennial had no advertising funds. The Central Exposition management at Dallas has indicated its faith in this policy, by hiring a crew of press agents, headed by an expert from San Diego, to send out Centennial "news." This group also is considering bidding for South American attendance at the Centennial by backing an airplane race around that continent, at a cost of $100,000, with Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, as manager of this advertising project. Some Texas editors already are returning the "news" produced by the "experts," with their advertising rate cards enclosed.

The new state securities act, designed to protect investors against "blue sky" promotional efforts, will get a test of constitutionality before a three-judge federal court in New Orleans on July 22. W. D. Hale and C. W. Weston, San Antonio oil securities men, instituted the suit. Secretary of State Jerry Mann, sponsor of the new law, and its ardent backer and enforcer, awaits the outcome of the test eagerly.

Drys of Texas moved into action in many rural districts during the past two weeks. Wets are withholding their fire until the last three weeks before election day, August 27. Observers here now predict a very close contest, with the rural areas preponderantly dry, and the large city vote going wet. Meanwhile, liquor-selling drugstores in almost every Texas community are forgetting the depression as their volume of whisky sales mounts, without necessity of paying license or tax fees.

West Australia Loses Five Million Sheep In Drouth

Dallas News: The skeletons of 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 sheep in Queensland, Australia, mark a drouth in that region worse than those of 1902 and 1926, according to the West Australian Wheat-growers' Union of West Australia, received by The News from Perth. Despite heavy shipments to more favorable areas, both by rail and by driving, livestock losses have been severe, the report said. A sharp reduction in the wool clip is expected to result from what is characterized as "the most severe blow the Queensland pastoral industry has ever experienced."

With a 1923-1927 average production of $17,200,000 pounds yearly, Australia is the leading wool producing country of the world, producing more than twice as much as the United States and more than 25 per cent of the world total, which averages around 3,000,000,000 (billions) pounds. The reported loss of 5,000,000 sheep amounts to approximately 5 per cent of the total sheep population, estimated at 110,619,999 in 1932.

"Not So Many Years Ago"

COMPARE...

ADVERTISING is economic news that means much to you in better living, greater comfort and increased efficiency. Just how important advertising news is in your economic scheme can be shown by a comparison.

Not so many years ago, before advertising was so general, it was hard to buy many things because distribution was small. That meant small production and consequently high manufacturing cost. It meant also high selling cost.

Advertising creates demand—widens distribution, and by creating greater volume reduces manufacturing cost; by making distribution easy it cuts down selling cost. Advertising has not only made it cheaper and easier for you to buy what you want; it has also told you what you need.

The world didn't realize how much it needed vacuum cleaners, electric flatirons, mechanical refrigerators, adding machines, cash registers, motor cars and many other things until advertising pointed out the need. Advertising is the prospectus of efficiency.

It tells you what you need, where to get what you need and how much it will cost.

You bought this newspaper to read the news which is in it. News is important to you. Yet when you put down your paper without reading the advertising, you are neglecting some of the most important news it can give you.

Tick Bites And Rabbits Spread Tularemia Germ

AUSTIN, Tex., July 24—A number of cases of tularemia, sometimes called Rabbit Fever, have been reported to the State Department of Health, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. The disease is usually transmitted during the hunting season by the handling of infected rabbits when there is a break in the skin. The cases now being reported are probably due to the bite of the wood tick.

The disease is known to be caused by a minute germ which affects a small percentage of rabbits, and in addition, a variety of other animals. The germ is spread among animals by blood sucking flies, or ticks which draw blood from an infected rabbit and later carry infection to other animals. A rabbit that is slow and fails to get off to a good start is apt to be infected.

The disease usually starts with symptoms that resemble grippé or influenza. It has often been mistaken for typhoid fever. In many cases, an ulcer develops at the site of the infection. Whatever form it takes, means a long, serious illness. The family doctor should be sent for without delay whenever symptoms develop that suggest rabbit fever. To assist in the diagnosis of the disease, blood tests for the presence of the infection will be made by the State Laboratories, at the request of the city or county physician, for any case in the counties.

The best means of prevention is to avoid direct contact through handling of wild rabbits, by protecting the hands with gloves, always, while in the woods to protect oneself from tick bites.

CITY EDITOR ON A COW

THE COW is a female quadruped with an alto voice and a countenance in which there is no guile. She collaborates with the pump in the production of a liquid called milk, provides the filler for hash, and at last is skinned by those she has benefitted, as mortals commonly are.

The young cow is called a calf, and is used in the manufacture of a chicken salad.

The cow's tail is mounted aft and has a universal joint. It is used to disturb marauding flies, and the tassel on the end has unique educational value. Persons who milk cows and come often in contact with the tassel have vocabularies of peculiar and impressive force.

The cow has two stomachs. The one on the ground floor is used as a warehouse and has no other function. When this one is filled the cow retires to a quiet place where her ill manners will occasion no comment and devotes herself to belching. The raw material thus conveyed for the second time to the interior of her face is pulverized and delivered to the auxiliary stomach, where it is converted into the cow.

The cow has no upper plate. All of her teeth are parked in the lower part of her face. This arrangement was perfected by an efficiency expert to keep her from gumming things up. As a result, she bites up and gums down.

A slice of cow is worth 8 cents in the cow, 14 cents in the hands of the packers, and $2.40 in a restaurant that specializes in atmosphere.—The Builder.

IT IS HARD TO TELL WHO WAS SHOT

A duel was once fought in Texas, says Facts and Fancies, between Alexander Shott and John Nott. Nott was shot and Shott was not, according to circumstantial evidence. But, as many remarked, it was better to be Shott than Nott. There was a rumor that Nott was not shot, but Shott avowed that he shot Nott, which proves either that the shot Shott shot at Nott was not shot, or that Nott was shot notwithstanding. It was made to appear at the trial that the shot Shott shot Nott or as accidents with firearms are frequent, it might have been possible that the shot Shott shot shot Shott himself and Shott would be shot and Nott would not. It appeared to some that the shot Shott shot shot not Shott but Nott, and to others that Shott was shot by Nott. Any way, it is hard to tell who was shot.

Veteran Tries To Prove He's Alive

WASHINGTON, July 24—William Richard Redmond is in open conflict with the Veterans Administration over a matter of vital concern to himself—whether or not he is dead.

Mrs. Viola Redmond, the alleged widow, recently received a letter from the Veterans Administration offering to assist her in any benefit claim she might have against the government "by reason of the death of your husband."

She appealed to Postmaster C. F. Snover of Fort Atkinson, Wis., who in turn passed the case on to Senator Duffy, (Dem.) Wisconsin, with the assertion that Redmond was "very much alive" and was working for the Union Pipe Fitting Company of that city. He described Redmond as a married man with a family who is drawing compensation for war injuries.

Duffy has interceded to convince Veterans Administration officials Redmond is alive.

Origin of "Battle Hymn" Is Traced

NEW YORK, July 24.—The centennial of the birth of the composer whose music was used for "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" was chronicled on June 29.

The story of how the music was written was recalled by a man who knew the composer, Thomas Brigham Bishop. The original song was written as a joke, according to John J. MacIntyre of Fort Richmond, Staten Island, N. Y.

This song, first known as "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah," and later as "John Brown's Body," was written in 1858 during the Civil War the music was used for "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

MacIntyre quoted Bishop as telling him:

"The melody, as far as I can find out, was original with me, and the line which suggested it was spoken to me in Portland, Me., in 1858, by my brother-in-law, Andrew J. Johnson, who had experienced religion. He took me to task for the general character of my writings, remarking that my songs were all written for the devil. Then he exclaimed: 'I am bound to be a soldier in the army of the Lord; glory, glory, hallelujah!'"

"Without stopping to think, I sang this line to a melody which seemed to escape from my mouth, and the chorus followed. In little or no time the song was written. It was done really as a joke upon my sanctimonious brother-in-law and was written in the presence of a friend who was always teasing Mr. Johnson about his religious fervor.

"The song, or hymn, was sung by Mr. Johnson a few evenings afterward at a revival meeting. Everybody took to it at once. Camp meetings were popular then and it was taken up by them and carried into small towns everywhere.

"I sang it on several occasions, adapting it to circumstances and conditions, and at Martinburg, Va., after John Brown's execution at Harper's Ferry, I wrote the original lines of 'John Brown's Body Lies a-Moulding in the Grave'.

"The song was published in 1861 by John Church of Cincinnati, Ohio.

"Then Julia Ward Howe took the music and used it for her grand poem, 'The Battle Hymn of the Republic.'"

WHY POSTMASTERS GET GRAY

When two men named Bill Barker marry two girls named Gertrude and the two families get mail at the same postoffice the result is bound to be confusion. Fort Stockton has such a case.

One Mr. Bill Barker works at the local electric shop and his wife, the former Miss Gertrude Dees, is an employee of the Modern Beauty Shop.

The other Mr. Bill Barker has recently bought an interest in the Rooney Hotel barber shop. They moved here three weeks ago from Fort McKavett, although they previously lived near here on a ranch.

To complete this series of coincidences, the first Mrs. Barker's girl friend's name is "Hazel" and the second Mrs. Barker's only sister, with whom she corresponds, also has that name. Several letters have been opened through mistake by both parties.—Fort Stockton Pioneer.

NEGROES FINED ON HOME BREW CHARGES

James Reed and Tommie Holmes, both colored, paid fines in justice court Monday morning on liquor charges growing out of the seizure of a quantity of home brew by Sheriff W. S. Willis Sunday night. The sheriff destroyed 20 gallons of mash at Reed's place and 20 gallons of mash and 65 bottles of brew at the Holmes woman's place.

FINED FOR GAMING

Pete Tijerina and Geronimo Garcia were each fined $1 and costs, amounting to $14, in justice court the first of the week on gaming charges. The arrests were made by Sheriff W. S. Willis.

Buyer's Risk

Several times we have found wholesale dealers who send out their merchandise at "Buyer's Risk." We soon found out that the RISK was all against us.

It is customary among some retail concerns to practice that policy. We do not believe it sound, or fair to the customer.

So—

We have adhered strictly through the years to a policy of GUARANTEEING everything that goes out of this store. We cannot always hold bad merchandise. Eggs, for instance, are highly perishable. Produce when sacked deteriorates rapidly. Regardless of the cause—if ANYTHING at ANYTIME is not satisfactory from us—depend on it—we will make it so.

does even better than his usual job. This extra margin of excellence is undoubtedly due to the fact that aviation is Beery's great hobby. He is the most experienced pilot in acting circles, the only actor, in fact, who holds a transport pilot's license.

Great in that flying picture of the Navy, "Hell Divers," Beery is even greater in "West Point of the Air." The reason undoubtedly lies in the story; the great interest that revolves around this old veteran and his somewhat well-headed aviator son, Robert Young.

The Feminine Angle

Two girls, Maureen O'Sullivan and Rosalind Russell, are mixed up in the plot melange, and both do pleasant jobs, as does Young. Lewis Stone is a highly capable General Carter and James Gleason turns in a splendid comedy performance.

It is the atmosphere of Randolph Field, however, that provides the most special kick of the picture.

The extent of this place, the startling maneuvers of the army ships... all of these give a color and a wallop to the film possessed by few photoplays. And dominating the whole scene is "Butch" of "The Big House" and "Long John Silver" of "Treasure Island" now transformed into lovable "Big Mike." The picture is undoubtedly one of Beery's greatest.

second base job and turned in a creditable performance, handing his one chance without error. Brown has been out of the game with injuries most of this season and was not in condition.

Star Performance

Rex Russell started at second, but he has also been out for several weeks and this fact, coupled with inexperience at that position caused him to relinquish the job to Brown. Frank Russell's injury in Saturday's game caught the Giant management in a tough spot for replacements. Red Greer playing right field for Cogdell, turned in an excellent game, hitting once out of three and taking three flies in his territory without a bobble. Vic Montgomery and Weaver, making up the rest of the outer garden patrol, picked off many difficult drives into those regions to rob the visitors of at least three more hits. Lenz, Dorley, Mangold and Stuart turned in their usual brand of hustling game.

Saturday's game, which the Giants took by a score of 12 to 7, gave the fans one of the biggest thrills they have had this season. The locals seemed to have the game in the bag with three tallies in the first frame and three more in the third and another in the fourth, with the visitors counting one in the third, climbing two more in the fifth and another in the sixth, and then breaking loose in the seventh to tie the count with a three-run rally. The Giants came back in their half of the same frame, however, for a total of five markers to cinch the fracas.

Bishop Looks Good

Bishop, new portside hurler who joined the local crew for the first time Saturday, started the game on the mound for the Giants, being relieved in the sixth by Manager Harriss. Bishop was holding the visitors successfully until that frame when he weakened temporarily and, due to the fact that he was fatigued from an all-day trip from his home in Killeen here the previous day, was relieved. Management and fans alike have high hopes of his making plenty of trouble for the heavy hitting crews aligned in the Permian loop during the balance of the season.
