9,000 Local Taxing Units Pick Pockets Of Texas Taxpayers

AUSTIN, August 14.—"Texas has nearly nine thousand local taxing authorities bearing heavily on the taxpayer," said State Auditor Orville S. Carpenter today about the recent "Report on Taxes and Indebtedness of Local Units of Government in Texas for 1934."

"In spite of the present trend toward efficiency in government and elimination of duplication between departments, we find in this State cities, counties, schools, water districts, drainage districts, road districts, irrigation districts and many others, all assessing and collecting taxes on the same property. As a result most property owners must render the same property to several assessors and pay taxes to several collectors," Carpenter explained.

"The number of local taxing authorities seems increasing. A similar survey made by Moore Lynn, former state auditor, for the year 1932 showed at that time 8,742 tax districts. He called attention to the 'present chaotic conditions' then existing in local taxation matters," Carpenter said.

"The survey just completed for the year 1934 shows 8,936 local taxing units, an increase of 194 in two years," he stated.

In the 8,936 districts an enormous taxpayers' debt of three-fifths of a billion dollars has been built up. The actual figure in 1934 was $670,442,179, with sinking funds deducted, he said.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN" THE FORD V-8

You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

THE FORD V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip—to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. The Ford V-8 gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.

Battle of Medina, By Which Spanish Royalists Regained Control of Texas Province, Routed American Officials

Original Records Of Early Regime In Bexar Archives

AUSTIN, Texas, August 14—A few days after the republican army entered San Antonio, Bernardo Gutierrez, who had been in nominal command, was deposed because he consented to the murder of the Spanish governor and his staff. The Americans, Colonel Kemper, Colonel Perry, Major Ross, Captain Taylor and Lieutenant Gaines then took charge of the army and the government.

In June, 1813, the republican army repulsed an attack by the Spanish army under Don Ignacio Elizondo.

In July, 1813, Don Jose Alvarez de Toledo, arrived in San Antonio. As the Americans knew that Toledo was a capable officer and that he had the sympathy of the people, they immediately elected him commander-in-chief of "the Republican Army of the North."

Toledo immediately went to work reorganizing and drilling the army and establishing a republican form of government. He ordered the establishment of a municipal form of government and the election of a municipal council to handle governmental affairs. Although the soldiery kept up an orgy of merrymaking, a semblance of order was restored.

The rule of the republicans was short lived. On August 16, 1813, Don Joaquin de Arredondo, at the head of eighteen hundred men, pitched his camp near the Medina River. Upon hearing of the approach of the Spaniards, the republicans gave up their revelry and prepared for the struggle. Spies were sent out from both sides.

Spanish Lay Trap

On the morning of August 18, 1813, the battle of Medina commenced. Arredondo arranged his troops in the shape of a V, with the apex in the road, and the open end towards San Antonio. He then sent Elizondo with one hundred and eighty men to decoy the republicans into the trap.

The republican army was composed of eight hundred and fifty Anglo-Americans, an equal number of Mexicans and about four hundred Indians. The Americans were divided into two equal sections and placed on the right and left wings, while the Mexicans and Indians covered the center.

The plan of the royalists worked perfectly. Eager to destroy the Spaniards, the republican center recklessly charged Elizondo. When Elizondo, according to instructions, began to retreat, the republicans became unmanageable. Although Toledo suspected a trap and ordered a retreat, his army charged furiously onward. Elizondo, who had been reinforced by one hundred and fifty men under Don Juan Manuel Zambrano, made a stand but later retreated to the base of the main army. When the Americans realized that they were being outflanked, they halted the charge, but refused to retreat. The result was that, after four hours of intense fighting, the majority of the Anglo-Americans were slaughtered and the Mexicans and Indians routed.

The troops of Arredondo followed up their victory by entering San Antonio, capturing all republicans who offered any resistance and summarily executing them.

Americans Slaughtered

Arredondo sent Elizondo with seven hundred men as far as Nacogdoches in pursuit of the fleeing republicans. Great numbers of the fugitives were captured and executed. Out of the eight hundred and fifty Americans who invaded Texas, only ninety reached Nacitoches safely.

Soon after entering San Antonio, Arredondo set to work reorganizing the government. He appointed Don Christoval Dominguez governor of the province. The new governor immediately took steps to put an end to republicanism.

On August 28, 1813, he issued an edict confiscating all property and all arms and supplies belonging to the rebels. An original copy of the edict, dated August 28, 1813, is found in the Bexar Archives in the library of The University of Texas. A translation of the edict is as follows:

Don Christoval Dominguez, Lieutenant Colonel in the National Royalist army, Sub-Inspector of Presidios, Political and Military Governor of the Province of Texas, New Philippines, Quarter Master General of the Eastern Army, etc.

Brigadier Joaquin de Arredondo, Commandant General of these Provinces, has ordered me to confiscate the arms of all the troops and residents of this capital who did not engage on the side of the royalist army in the battle fought with the rebels on the Medina River on the 18th of this month. He has likewise ordered that anyone who has any of the papers distributed by the insurgents must turn them over to this government office. He has further ordered that houses, ranches and any other property formerly owned by the traitors in this capital and the territory within the boundaries of this province must be sold, after proper evaluations have been made. The sale shall be made with all possible equity in favor of the loyal patriots who have remained faithful in their obedience to the king and who have defended his rights.

In order that this edict may have due obedience, I hereby order it published by proclamation in this capital and other places in this province. The arms and papers aforesaid must be turned over to this office within two days. In regard to real property, notices shall be sent out in order that bids may be made at the place to be sold.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN, Aug. 14—Another bitter chapter in the political history of the Centennial was written recently in Austin, when the commission of control, with Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul as chairman, calmly overrode the recommendations of its historical committee for supplemental Centennial observances. The historical commission, after lengthy hearings, had worked out a program of allocating the remaining $550,000 of state Centennial funds to the historical communities, chiefly for permanent monuments and markers. The commission junked this program, allotted $250,000 to Fort Worth for a livestock show. A mighty roar promptly went up from the south Texas historical towns. Two members of the historical committee, Chairman Lou Kemp, Houston attorney, and Father Paul J. Folk of St. Edwards university, Austin, promptly resigned. J. Frank Dobie the other member, indicated he might resign later.

Action of a district court in Waco recently in sentencing a lawyer-legislator to jail for contempt of court, in connection with an attempt to obtain delay of a trial because of his attendance on the legislature, may have an important effect upon what has been a common abuse of the privilege of being a member of the law-making body. Frequently, when lawyers have exhausted their last resource in seeking delay for a criminal facing the bar of justice, they will retain a lawyer member of the legislature to aid them, and then obtain a postponement on statutory grounds that a court may delay a trial in which a legislator represents a client until after the legislature adjourns. The thing has grown into a "racket." In many cases the lawyer-legislator takes no part in the case other than to obtain the postponement. Fees run as high as $500 in an important case, where a quick trial might mean conviction, and the criminal has no other excuse for delay.

Rep. Sam Rayburn of Bonham, congressman who sponsored the Roosevelt measure to kill utility holding companies in congress, may pay for his loyalty to the president with a bitter contest for re-election next summer. Utility companies throughout Texas are said to be "gunning" for Rayburn, and rumors of utility-backed candidates against him in the 1936 primary are common here. One report current here mentions a close official associate of Gov. Alfred as a possible candidate against the Bonham congressman.

Temporary opening of the new Mexico City highway during the Rotary and Kiwanis international conventions this summer has led many Texans who want to drive to the Mexican capital to plan the trip for the near future. Latest information here, however, is that the road has been closed again for completion of paving and bridges, and will not be ready to accommodate tourist traffic until next spring. The rainy season in Mexico at present makes it impassable, even if it were open, because there is considerable unpaved mileage.

Reports of legislative investigating committees assigned to delve into various subjects promise to furnish considerable fireworks at the September special session of the legislature. Various committees have been investigating such varied subjects as oil, cotton, insurance, padding of school census, and the administration of Agriculture Commissioner

McDonald. The legislative committee investigative method involves considerable waste of time and money, but occasionally it provides about the only vehicle through which the people can learn the important facts about governmental departments. Some of the reports at the special session are certain to prove interesting and helpful to the people generally.

Louise Casbeer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Casbeer, has been confined to her bed for the past few days from illness. Her condition was not considered improved yesterday.

What Italians Will Face in Ethiopia

If and when the Italian armies invade Ethiopia, the troops will be faced with long marches through heavy brush and across rapidly flowing, boulder-strewn streams. In the above picture, made recently, a party of explorers shows how the Italians will have to ford rivers, using mules to carry food and supplies, while the troops advance—shoulders deep in the water, with rifles held over their heads.

Dairy Week To Direct Attention To Milk Sources

AUSTIN, Texas, August 14—In view of the fact that Governor Allred has proclaimed the week beginning August 12 as Dairy Week, Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, urges with this more extensive use of milk, that both producer and consumer be concerned as to its quality. The use of clean safe milk is a health measure.

Local interest in improved methods of producing wholesome milk has increased greatly in the past two decades and the striking advance in milk control has been responsible for the enormous saving in infant life.

Milk is perishable and especially during hot weather. To insure milk of good quality requires cleanliness, sterile utensils, protection against flies, careful bottling and maintenance at low temperature. The presence in fresh milk of large numbers of bacteria, due to insanitary methods of production, is a health hazard.

R. J. Cooke Observes 53th Birthday Fri., Ozonan for 38 Years

Claiming a place among Ozona's "first citizens" by right of thirty-eight years of residence in Crockett County, R. J. Cooke, Ozona Meat Market operator for many years, will observe his fifty-eighth birthday tomorrow.

The Ozona pioneer has mastered the barbecuing art and is known throughout West Texas for his tasty meats cooked at large gatherings. One of the main attractions at the annual Ozona Rodeo and Stock Show is the dinner in the park with lamb and goat meat in abundance and prepared by the talented "cook"—R. J. Cooke.

His barbecuing process is of his own patent and the Cooke Barbecue House is in use by many meat shops of West Texas, installed by Mr. Cooke.

The birthplace of Mr. Cooke is Glen Rose, Texas, near Ft. Worth, today a small resort town and where a tributary of the Brazos River flows near. The grandmother of Mr. Cooke is credited with being the first white woman to come to Glen Rose. She accompanied an army detachment there which came to the site to fight Indians.

Since 1897, Mr. Cooke has resided in Crockett County, coming here from Edwards County, where he lived two years. At an earlier time, he owned the Ozona newspaper and also owned a meat market at the time.

Mr. Cooke was bereft of his wife in 1920. He has long been a member of the Baptist Church and has been a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge for twenty-seven years.

The father of Mr. Cooke, W. G. Cooke, was born in Alabama and was a carpenter and farmer. He moved to Bandera in 1882. Mr.

Cooke's mother, Miss Lucy McCoy, was a native Texan, whose parents came from Virginia.

W. R. Phillips, formerly park and courthouse custodian here, is reported improving in a San Angelo hospital after a long illness. He is expected to be back in Ozona soon.
