Five-Game Cage Series Planned

Eldorado And Mertzon Teams Play Friday And Saturday

Another feast of basketball is in store for local cage fans this week-end when teams from Mertzon and Eldorado come for a series of matches with Coach Ted White's Lions on the local court today and Saturday evenings and Big Lake girls take on the Lassies Tuesday afternoon.

The Mertzon crew will be on hand for the opener Friday evening against the first string Lions, a game called for 7 p. m. Saturday evening a three-game program is slated, the Eldorado girls, who bowed to the Lions Saturday evening to the tune of 27 to 19, coming back for more at 7 p. m. Following this game, the second string teams will do battle and after that the faculty of Ozona and of Eldorado schools will tangle for a decision.

The girls game with the Big Lake invaders will start at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The Lions took a 24 to 21 defeat at the hands of the Iraanaves on the local court last Friday evening but got their heads up again in time for the Colorado lads. The local girls put down 14 to 12 before the Barnhart girls at Barnhart Saturday afternoon.

Wednesday afternoon Ozona took a double-header encounter at Barnhart, the boys winning 18 to 12 and the girls 21 to 12. Both were fast games.

Various games were enjoyed at which the birthday cake was served with hot chocolate.

Pity Poor Fish Who Couldn't Keep His Nose to Himself

When J. V. Bradley of San Angelo, Texas, threw his hook into Lake Nasworthy, near that city, he didn't know he was going to drag out an affair like this. These big mouthed black bass evidently got into an argument, which ended when the big boy swallowed (or partly swallowed) the little fellow. Try it on your best friend sometime! Confirmed fishermen say it is possible for the larger fish, 12½ inches long, to completely swallow and digest by degrees, the smaller fish 11½ inches long.

Ranch Home Is Razed By Fire

Flames Of Unknown Origin Destroy Frank McMullen Home

The ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McMullen, 40 miles northwest of Ozona, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin Saturday night. A few small articles of furniture was all that was saved from the flames, the house and contents being a complete loss.

Mr. and Mrs. McMullen and their children were visiting on the ranch of Mrs. Pon Seahorn when the fire broke out. In the house were Miss Eva Hays, and her sister, Miss Daisy Hays, Miss Nora Mae Morris and her brother, Edwin Morris, and Bob Sims, a cousin of Mr. McMullen, who was visiting on the ranch.

The first notice the occupants had of the fire was the explosion of rifle cartridges in a closet. Opening the door, they found the closet a mass of flames, which quickly spread to other parts of the house.

Nine Dropped From Relief Rolls For Turning Down Jobs

Nine men listed on relief rolls of Crockett County and being given employment on Civil Works Projects now under way here, have been dropped from the rolls and denied further work on the relief projects because they declined to accept private employment offered them at living wages, according to Royce Smith, county administrator.

Complaints still reach the local administrator's office of Mexicans who refuse to accept private jobs to continue the work on the CWA projects, the administrator said, and wherever possible these are checked up and if a living wage is declined the men are taken from the CWA projects and refused their employment.

The National Re-Employment Service, handled through the local administrator, is nothing more than an employment bureau. Mr. Smith said, and ranchers who want men to work have only to call at the office and as many men as are needed will be supplied from the relief rolls. Employers may take their choice of those on the list and those chosen will be compelled to take the jobs or be cut off from further work on the relief projects.

HUNT PARTY FOR BRIDE AND GROOM

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Childress, Jr. entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Ele Hagelstein with a hunt party at their home Thursday night. They were given magazine subscriptions. Flowers, Mr. and Mrs. Ted White, Mr. and Mrs. Evert White, Miss Mildred Davis, Miss Wayne Augustine, Miss Hester Bunger and Jake Young.

Ozona PTA Endorses University Land Tax For School Purposes

The proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Texas, which would tax lands of the University of Texas, in 17 West Texas counties, for school purposes was unanimously endorsed by members of the Ozona Parent Teacher Association in its regular meeting here Monday.

The proposed amendment, to be voted on at the next general election, is a supplement to the existing amendment, voted in 1932, which taxed University lands for county purposes only. Passage of the new amendment would mean several thousand dollars in additional revenue for schools in this and sixteen other West Texas counties in which the lands are located.

The regular P.T.A. program for the day was under the direction of Mrs. Vernon Cox, the topic for the day being "Spiritual Training." A paper on "Spiritual and Moral Training of the Child" by Rev. M. M. Fulmer, was read by Mrs. Fulmer in his absence. A short program by the fifth grade and assembly singing directed by Mrs. H. B. Tandy were high lights of the program.

Ozona Students In University Of Texas Make Good Average

Two graduates of the Ozona High School who entered the University of Texas at the opening of the regular session in the fall of 1932 did credit to their high school in the showing of grades made in their first year in the University, according to comparative statistics compiled by the University registrar on the work of Freshman students for the term.

The Ozona students, Marvin Greer Rape and Aubrey Fursell, turned in a score of four points above the average for students of the state in the scoring system used by the registrar in his comparison of work done by groups from the different high schools over the state.

The grades made by the students, the number of semester hours of work done during the session and the number of full-time semesters completed were used in computing scores. Under this system, the two Ozona students made a score of 31.9 while the average for all first year students of the state was 27.8. Out-of-state students scored an average of 29.9.

F.D.R. Birthday Party Planned

Funds From Entertainment To Go To Hospital Endowment

Ozona will have a part in the nation-wide observance of the birthday of President Franklin D. Roosevelt on January 30 if plans of the Ozona Lions Club and the Ozona Music Club for a local entertainment on that occasion materialize.

A national committee has been named to promote a Birthday Ball for the President in principal cities of the nation on that date, the proceeds to be presented to President Roosevelt to endow Warm-Springs Foundation at Warm-Springs, Ga., as a national center for the development of methods of treatment for infantile paralysis. The President was a patient at this institution and is keenly interested in the proposed Foundation.

The Ozona Music Club, through its president, Mrs. Paul Perner, has agreed to consider plans for furnishing the music at a public entertainment to be held in the High School auditorium on that date. An out-of-town speaker will be brought here to address the assembly on that date and a worthwhile program arranged. A nominal admission charge is to be made, the entire proceeds to go to the President for the hospital Foundation.

Slow Drizzle Wets West Texas

Range Revived By Half Inch Fall; General Over Area

A slow drizzling rain falling throughout the day Wednesday moistened a parched West Texas range country and brought wreaths of smiles to the faces of stock raisers of this commonwealth. For the moisture was not a day too early to revive hopes of grass and weeds at lambing time this spring.

The fall amounted to a little more than a half inch here and was reported as general throughout West Texas. Falling slowly, the moisture soaked into the ground thoroughly, and although insufficient to assure a revival from the drouth, it revived hopes for more moisture in plenty of time for spring range.

The first of the 1934 model Plymouths is expected to be on the showroom floor here this week-end, it is announced. The new Dodge will probably be announced soon.

SANITATION, PLAYGROUND PLANS OK'D

Civil Works Funds Appropriated For Local Projects

BEAUTIFY SCHOOL

Grounds To Be Filled; County-Wide Sanitation Planned

Two more CWA projects for Crockett County have been approved, and an appropriation of $4600 for a county-wide sanitation project and $1350 for beautification of the local school grounds made by the Austin office of the administration, according to Royce Smith, county administrator.

The county-wide sanitation project carries with it a program for making connections with the sewer system for every residence in Ozona, and will be the final step in completion of a sanitary sewer system for Ozona, begun more than a year ago.

In addition to sewer connections here, the plan also provides for construction of sanitary pit type toilets wherever it is impossible to make sewer connections. These pit type toilets are approved by the State Health Department as strictly sanitary and are recommended as the next best plan of sanitation in the absence of sewer facilities.

The school ground beautification program will consist of filling in the low places in the playground to bring the level to curb lines. It is estimated that 2,000 yards of dirt will be spread around the school buildings, south of the grade school building and west and south of the new high school building.

Dirt for the school ground improvement will be secured from the Johnson draw south of the highway bridge. In addition to moving the dirt to the school ground, the project will be a double improvement in that it will serve as a drainage project also. The dirt will be taken out of the draw in a manner to straighten the big bend in the channel at that point and direct the flood waters straight across.

April District Lions Meet Here

Ozona's Invitation Accepted at Junction Meet Last Week

Lions from clubs in Group 25, consisting of Ozona, Sonora, Eldorado, Junction, San Angelo and Sterling City, will be guests of the Ozona Lions Club at the next group meeting to be held in April. The invitation of the Ozona Club was accepted at the group meeting held in Junction last week. The following quarterly meeting after the session at Ozona will be held in San Angelo and a ladies-night program is in store there, it was decided at the Junction meet.

Sixty-seven Lions, representing five clubs in the group were present for the Junction meeting. The meeting was held at noon and on account of the great distance, the Ozona club was not represented.

The San Angelo Lions Cowboy Entertainers, officials Lions International orchestra, furnished the feature entertainment of the session. The business session was under the direction of E. C. Hill of Eldorado, group chairman.

Weaver Baker, district attorney for this district, was a business visitor here Tuesday, Mr. Baker is being urged by friends to enter the race for the state senate and to be vacated by Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, a candidate for attorney general.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 18, 1934.

Wonder if genial, fat Sam Ashburn is dealing out his elaborate pats on the back in an effort to overcome the numerous slaps in the jaw that Ozona got at the hands of Blondy Cross last summer. The powers probably decided something like that was in order if that "Times in Every West Texas Home" was to be realized.

And here these many years we've been hoping to go to Scotland, or England or some place to see a "castle" or "palace" and we've got 'em right here at home.

As far as West Texas ranchmen are concerned this ran did more in a day and a half to rush old Depression on its way than F.D.R. has done in six months.

MEN STILL COUNT

The way a good many people are talking about the so-called Recovery Program, one would think they expected some sort of a system which would run all business without regard to intelligence, initiative or industry.

That's nonsense, of course; nevertheless, there are a lot of people who still do not realize that any system, like any machine, has to have men to operate it.

The success of the administration's program will depend entirely upon the quality of the men who head up the business enterprises of the United States. In other words, there isn't going to be any change from the ancient truth that every institution, whether it is a rat-trap factory or a railroad system, is the lengthened shadow of a man.

Owen D. Young, who uses his brains to about as good advantage as any man we know of, pointed out that what broke down and caused all our economic woes, was not human beings but the system under which business and public affairs were administered. What is being done now is to try to change—and improve—the system but it will still take men to run it.

We have an idea that young men growing up in the world of business and affairs from now on will find just as great opportunities for self-expression as anyone had under the old system; but as things point now, they will operate the system very much more for the benefit of everybody and very much less for the benefit of a few individuals.

We find that many men who were thought to be entirely selfish in their point of view are accepting the idea that any scheme which works for the benefit of the entire social group is far better than one which benefits some but not all. Under the old system it was inevitable that there should be inequalities and injustices. We do not anticipate that any plan of human devising will ever be entirely free from them, but with the right men of the right spirit at the helm of things, there is hope.

—Courier-Chronicle, Humboldt, Tenn.

Looking for a substitute that will pay as well as work has been the ruin of many. It will never win any more than a slow horse wins the race. Work wins lasting victories, makes real men, builds homes, erects factories, and makes peaceful communities.

DIGGING 'EM UP. by WALT

DOES THE CONSUMER PAY?

We hear some unfavorable criticism, usually of an involved nature, of the fact that the consumer must pay the bill for the degree of unemployment that will produce industrial recovery. Occasionally a critic, who perhaps has not become adjusted to very materially changed conditions in our country, will leave the impression that this obvious fact constitutes some sort of unjust discrimination against a particular class of citizens.

Let us consider a moment. Just as many industrialists have come to a realization during the past few weeks that the workers they laid off cannot continue as their customers and that they in fact had been their customers; so also the man from whom we buy food-stuffs, furniture, automobiles, radios, clothing, and anything else of the innumerable products we sorely need to buy, is also a consumer. He likewise must buy his supplies from others. The manufacturer is not only a consumer of raw materials in his plant, but he is a consumer of all that all of us consume away from his plant.

So a little deduction brings us to the realization that when we say the consumer must pay the bill we actually mean that every American citizen and resident of American territory must carry his share of the increased costs incident to unemployment and business and industrial recovery.

Certainly no class is discriminated against. All are in the same boat.—Spirit of Jefferson, Charlottesville, W. Va.

THE WISE COURSE

The wise course for employers is to be realistic, recognize the new order, make the best terms possible with it, and in the best spirit possible. Good advice to labor surely is that this is not the time for strikes—not while business recovery trembles in the balance. Labor should see that it will gain ten times more from restored prosperity than it can from little battles fought and won right now.

But men will not listen to advice when their blood is up—unless from a source that simply compels their attention. It is time for the President to use the prestige of his office and the indisputable hold he has upon the American public to check this struggle. The situation calls for leadership, and leadership is concentrated as never before in one man. It calls for political courage, but no more than it took to face the Legion and hit out from the shoulder. Labor, like the Legion, should be called upon to drop all pettiness and cooperate for the national good.—Business Week.

THE DOG POISONER

One autumn day a polecat met a snake and said, "I'd like to bet you have the world by the scruff." "You judge me rightly," said the snake.

"To prove it we'll have some one make a list of things so mean, so base, that only you and I with face unblushing ever could debase."

To perpetrate them." "I'm agreed," the skunk replied, "But in the end one thing you'll find in which I lead:

For foul odors I hold the cup and never will I give it up."

The list was made. To their surprise these words appeared before their eyes:

"WOULD EITHER OF YOU STOOP SO LOW AS DOES THE PERSON WHO WILL THROW A POISONED MORSEL TO A DOG?"

Their consciences received a jolt. They read again; a blush of shame o'er both their countenances came. To think there is an act so vile, repugnant, loathsome. Even they with all their filthiness and guile could not endure the thought "Away!"

They whispered, "Truly there's no hope for us we will never cope with such a cad. This one has sunk far lower than snake or skunk!"

Dejected, hopeless—cyanide they swallowed and lay down and died.

—Stillman C. Davis.

Most of us would be just as well off, and far happier, if we put the business of worrying high on our list of "don'ts."

Modern intelligence and the spirit of enterprise constitute the main forces that create town progress.

No newspaper is worth two hoots in a barnyard that never steps on anyone's toes.

We think too many people are expecting the "New Deal" to make everybody rich over night. As we understand it, folks will still have to work hard for a living and a little harder to get ahead.

No one can live in a community, enjoy its privileges and draw his substance therefrom without becoming lastingly indebted to the community, its people and institutions, and that obligation is a debt of loyalty the discharge of which is incumbent upon him as opportunity offers.

If one had to name any single thing as the typical American characteristic, it would probably be just that habit of looking ahead or forever going on with the quest. We have often been a proud and boastful people, but we have seldom been satisfied with a present moment. One era has succeeded another in our history, but never have the people as a whole been content to relax.

Of course, everyone has wishes and we all wish things could be better, but a long face and a frown will not help one iota. A smile and a cheerful mood will help more than all of the frowns and grouching that could be done. And certainly life will be much more worth living if we can smile and be cheerful.

A wise man is he who puts into the hands of boys and girls many and good books of biography. For, in this way, our future leaders will grow to appreciate the world's yesterdays, live soberly and wholesomely today, and acquire for themselves fortitude and understanding and high devotion for tomorrow's exacting tasks.

Sometimes people speak lightly of the country newspaper, but it is one of the most potent and uplifting factors in our national existence. The great dailies have their mission, but their scope is too big to touch very closely the inner things of life.

METHODIST MISSIONARY GROUP TO SONORA MEET

The Methodist Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. F. T. McIntire for its regular social and devotional meeting Wednesday. The members will attend the zone meeting next week in Sonora. Mrs. L. B. Townsend and Mrs. E. B. Baggett, will sing a duet. Mrs. C. L. Williams will tell a story; Mrs. F. T. McIntire will sing a solo; and Rev. J. H. Meredith will give a talk on "Stewardship of Our Means."

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bailey left this morning for El Paso for a few days visit.

No man can tell what the future may bring forth, and small opportunities are often the beginning of great enterprises.

We must keep the old pioneer spirit, in our business, our work, our community life. We must be willing not merely to work hard, but to strike out for new things, and remove the obstacles to development.

Ed Writes Candid Account of Own Wedding

Lawrenceburg, Tenn., Dec. 20—The head of "—And So On, They Finally Got Off!" the Lawrenceburg Democrat-Union printed on page one the following candid, though belated report of the marriage of Charlie Crawford, one of the editors of a paper:

The undersigned Ed dodged a responsibility to his readers when he omitted to announce his marriage, which happened last May, but of his friends say, however, that the negligence was not so casual, and are inclined to forgive. He is, therefore, doing the best he can with this write-up, since a newspaperman gets along by the best route, especially when he is to write about his own wedding. Anyhow—

Ed and Charlie finally got off on Monday night, May 28, 1933, with much noise or to-do. They both wore Gentry and Mrs. Gray for the occasion of their front room, which had not been used much since Christmas. Gentry told Brother Strawberry, who said the ceremony, that there was more going on that night than since they had their family reunion.

The bride was fixed up in a looking suit, which will probably have to be paid for in advertising space. The groom wore last year's suit, which was bought the same way. His right eye squeaked when he entered the room. Only a few immediate friends were present, as no engraved invitations were sent out. Printed announcements will be mailed this week.

The groom's brother didn't show up, since he, having been married several years, wasn't so skilled and plumb forgot the affair. The bride's sister wasn't there, either, as she ran onto a traveling man acquaintance, and they went to the picture show. "I can't have another sister," was the bride's only comment, at the hamburger stand reception immediately following the ceremony.

The bride has resided practically all of her life in Lawrenceburg, where she met Crawford, who had just come back home to go to work and pay off his school debts. She is also well known in Murfreesboro, where she did business with "dies" ready-to-wear stores during her school days. While at school, she was a joiner of societies and after a few months had a nice string after her name. If she had stayed another year, the college annual would have gone two pages larger. Crawford's well, if not notoriously known school career was cut short several times on account of low grades and other things. He went organization crazy and paid out good money that ought to have gone into some good building and loan association stock, rather than now having to move his bride in on his mother. He is now co-editor of one of the fastest growing weekly newspapers in this section of the State. Some people think it is just going into the hands of the receivers. The bride writes poetry. The groom was once representative from this county in the legislature, but he finally lived it down.

The couple is taking a short honeymoon trip this week that may be shorter than is now contemplated. By being married now, before the depression has lifted, Crawford thinks he has hit the most optimistic chord in the Roosevelt administration. It is just another reason why Lawrence County merchants should use judiciously of Democrat-Union advertising, was the groom's comment as he started his four-year-old Ford on its way. The last payment on the car was made March 12.

Ted White, High School athletic coach, is reported seriously ill at his home here this week.

Water Traps Stunting Plane As It Skims Over Lake

The chill waters of White Rock lake in Dallas swallowed this plane when one wing snagged the surface, dragging the plane in after it. Pilot W. A. Flower, Student Jack Binion and O. V. Poynter, a mechanic, occupants of the plane, were all killed from injuries caused by the impact and not from drowning. The plane's nose buried itself in the mud bottom of the lake, leaving the tail sticking out of the water. The above photo was taken after the plane had been pulled from the lake.

Still High Death-Rate

There is still, however, a high death-rate from an important group of diseases of middle life. This group includes diseases of the heart, kidneys and arteries. These diseases are the result of the wear and tear of tissues as well as of infections. Dr. Dublin says that they reflect the kind of hygiene practiced by the individual.

He believes that periodic health examinations offer a way to prevention. Disorders would be detected during the early stages while there is still a chance for their arrest or cure. Nests of infection would be discovered and removed before they seriously undermine the health. Doctors would have an opportunity to offer the individual suggestions in regard to hygiene.

Of course, the individual would have to do his or her part. For the further lengthening of life is largely up to the individual. If told to diet, exercise, get more sleep, or give up habits that are injuring the health, one must be willing to do so in order to get results. But the results are well worth trying for. They mean added years of health and life.

Annual Outbreak Of Measles Draws Warning Of Danger

Austin, Texas, Jan. 17—Measles is again prevalent in Texas, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. After the epidemic of this disease last year, it was thought there would not be so many cases this year, but the numbers of reports received leads Dr. Brown to warn against the needless exposure of children to measles.

Special care is required during the convalescent period. Complications at this stage, with results of kidney trouble or impairment of sight or hearing, can easily take command. Obviously, everything should be done to avoid such a possibility.

Contrary to the foolish notion of many parents, it should be quite unnecessary for children to contract this disease. Youngsters, especially in tender years, can easily be kept from measles contacts, that is, if parents of measles victims fully realize their obligation not only to their own child, but to other children also.

It is a regrettable fact that so many adults view the isolation of the so-called minor ailments with indifference. Nothing is further from the facts. The isolation not only keeps people in, but keeps others out. Its sole purpose is to reduce the possibility of contagion to a minimum.

More cooperation on the part of citizens in this connection undoubtedly would result in less measles with their accompanying devastating effects. The next time measles is prevalent in your locality, weigh well the attitude you assume both toward the disease and the quarantine against it. Conceivably, it may save your child's life. The State law requires all cases kept out of school 21 days.
