Thos. H. Jarrell Speaks At Lions and Special Meeting

Thomas H. Jarrell, Executive Assistant District Director of the Federal Housing Administration in San Antonio, was in Ozona Tuesday and made two addresses before Ozonans on federal housing aid possible through recent legislation.

At the Lions Club luncheon Tuesday noon, the FHA official spoke concerning the features of the Federal Housing Act.

Tuesday evening at the Hotel Ozona he was the speaker before a gathering of those engaged in the building trades in Ozona. He explained the Title 1 of the Federal Housing Act which pertains to repair and alteration of real property. He also simplified Title 2 which refers to the mutual mortgage insurance plan and showed how one who desires to build a home can obtain insurance through the FHA on a loan which represents not more than eighty per cent of the value of the property.

Mr. Jarrell has been on a tour of West Texas and has given talks before meetings in Del Rio, Alpine, Marfa and Fort Stockton. From Ozona, the FHA informant went to Sonora and from there he will go to Eagle Pass.

Contact can be made with the Federal Housing Office in Texas at "Federal Housing Administration, 509 Frost Bank Building, San Antonio, Texas."

Mother Perner, Crockett Pioneer, Ozona Resident Forty-Two Years

Lived To See Sheep Camp Grow Into a Prosperous City

It was forty-two years ago this month that Mrs. Mary Perner left Medina with her husband, Phil Perner, and came to the sparsely settled Pecos country where she and her husband were to cast their fortune with the mercantile business and their lot with other pioneers who later were to transform this area into a centrosome of the sheep and goat grazing industry.

Familiarly known to her friends and neighbors as Mother Perner, the early Ozona pioneer has lived to see a camping mecca for sheep drivers transform into "no mean city," a town glorified by beautiful residences and widely known as a center of the livestock producing industry. The same early pioneer has grown into a community leader and has amassed friends in her acquaintances.

In the native haunts of her childhood, at Bandera, Mary Ross became the bride of Phil Perner on July 19, 1881. Phil Perner then was a young employee of the Carmichael firm located at Bandera. The daughter of Edward M. Ross, a notable figure in the history of the southwest, and Kate (Delaney) Ross, a native of Tipperary, Ireland, Mrs. Perner grew up in the picturesque Bandera Hills northwest of San Antonio.

Mother Perner's father, Edward M. Ross, was born in New York City, 1812, and came to Texas when a young man. History reveals him as a leader in the edu-

Scout Training Class In Sonora Concluded Sun.

Local Scout Leaders Receive Instruction In Work

Dr. W. A. Grandy of Ozona, a member of the Scout Executive Committee here, was present at the final meeting Sunday afternoon in Sonora of the Scoutmaster's Training Course which has been carried on for the past month in weekly meetings.

Assistant Scout Executive Jack Stone of the Concho Valley Council, directed activities of the afternoon, which began at 2 p. m. and continued until 7.

The concluding school session introduced Scoutmasters and Scout committeemen to such Boy Scout activities as tracking, scout pacing and outdoor camp sitting. The phase of compass knowledge was taken up also. An appetizing camp lunch concluded the session with foods being cooked "sans" utensils.

The weekly meetings have been for the purpose of training Scout leaders in Scout activity, allowing the leaders to go through the same process to which youths are introduced in the graduating routine of Scouting.

4-Year-Old Fine, Unpaid, Lands One In Crockett Jail

Another Sought After Check-Up Shows Assessment Unpaid

Growing out of complaints and charges filed in Justice of the Peace Court here about four years ago, one man is in jail here with two assessed fines totaling $76 for violation of the state game laws.

Another is not in custody but was fined in justice court here at the same time on the same charges. The two made bonds for fines at that time. Fines totaling $98.50 are now listed against the second person.

The case was brought up again by a check up in the Austin office recently which resulted in notifications here that neither of the fines had been paid. After notification here one of the men was taken into custody. The other man has not been brought here.

Complaints were filed against the two by Pete Crawford, charging "unlawfully killing quail." Violations were said to have occurred in the Powell field, in Crockett County.

Moderate Relief Afforded By Rain Falls Past Week

Near Half Inch Last Night, Third Last Week Add Cheer

Rain which fell here last night totaled .45 inch in the Joe Oberkampff register and brought the total fall of the year here to 2.53 inches. The rain was reported general and it was known that heavy downpours fell north of here. A "cluster" trailed.

Crockett County received general covering of moisture from last weeks rains which fell over this area of Texas to bring moderate relief to parched soil and cause weeds and grass to spring up where rains fell in quantity.

The rain which fell last Thursday night gave the immediate vicinity of Ozona one-third inch but the downpour failed to reach far east of here. The heaviest fall was reported from fifty miles south and southwest of Ozona where two and three inches were reported to have fallen. Sheffield and Barnhart both received more than a half inch, according to telephone reports.

Miss Rachel Schrader returned to Ozona yesterday after a stay of several months with relatives in Dallas.

Plea Childress, Jr., who is attending Texas University, was home last week for a few days visit with friends and relatives.

Ranch Employee Is Severely Injured In Fall Of Horse

Newly Organized Giants Show Up Good In Opener

McCamey Shades Locals In Double-Header There Sunday

Ozona's entrance into the Permian Basin League play was clouded by defeat last Sunday when the Giants made a trip to McCamey where the Refiners turned them back in two frays, 4 to 3 and 4 to 1.

Four new faces showed in the Ozona lineup but there were no visible showings except that fortune tripped at the locals shoestrings during the day and speeded the heels of the rivals.

In the first game, McCamey took a one-run lead in the initial inning when Gleaton tallied on a two-base hit by Neely. The Refiners chalked up a count of four by the sixth so that runs by Dorkley and Brown in the same chukker failed to dissolve the opposition's lead.

Bill Duncan of McCamey scintillated in the second game by allowing only two hits and one run. He struck out ten and walked none. "French" Peche pitched the closing one for the Ozonans, allowing 8 hits, walking two and striking out seven.

Peoples hurled for Ozona in the first game, allowing ten hits, striking out five and walking three. Charlie Bryant pitched all nine for McCamey in the first game, allowing 11 hits, striking out seven and walking one.

The Iraan Oilers come to Ozona Saturday and Sunday for a two game series with the Giants.

Ozona Girl Wins 2nd In Regional Writing Contest

The suit, brought two years after the injury, sought $50,000 damages. Mr. Ingham spent more than a year in a hospital recovering from burns suffered while a piece of steel was being removed from his shoulder. Judge Will Morris of San Antonio represented Mr. Ingham in the settlement agreement.

Move To Direct Tourist Traffic To OST Started

Pavement Of Highway West, Erection Of Signs Sought

At the request of a group of citizens interested in promoting tourist traffic along the Old Spanish Trail through Ozona, the Ozona Lions Club at its meeting this week initiated formation of initial plans for a campaign to get the highway from Ozona west to the county line hard surfaced and to direct traffic along this highway by installing signs at vantage points east and west.

The club plans to prepare forms for a petition to the state Highway Department asking that the stretch of road in this county west of Ozona be paved and to get names of as many citizens of the county on these petitions as possible. After the petitions are signed up, they will be turned over to the Commissioners Court for presentation to the department if that body deems advisable.

Erection of a sign this side of Balmorhea, directing traffic in this direction, and another somewhere east along the route, was the suggestion of interested citizens and this plan is being studied in an effort to work out some means for its realization.

Forty prize eggs, good for gifts from as many Ozona business firms, lent color to the annual hunt. All of the prize eggs except two were found. Prizes offered by Lemmons Dry Goods Co. and C. C. Newberry, local Humble agent, were too well hidden, and were not turned in for prizes.

Finders of the other prize eggs were as follows:

Anxiety Of Spanish Over Invasion Of Phillip Nolan Into Early Texas Land Told In Bexar Archives Translations

Ancient Records Contain Story Of Early Conflicts

AUSTIN, Texas, April 23—The Texas-Louisiana frontier—like a magnet—drew men of steel from the strongest nations. The proudest Spaniards, the keenest Frenchmen, the boldest Anglo-Americans were there to share in the profits of trade with the Redmen and, if possible, to gain the rich region for their respective countries. Quite as was to be expected, the Irish were early upon the scene ready to fight for even a chance at the rich prize.

Among the first of this race to enter upon the stage, with a flourish and almost a blare of trumpets, was Phillip Nolan who had been born in Belfast, Ireland, but who, under the protection of the famous General James Wilkinson and the still more famous Thomas Jefferson, had turned his thoughts toward the western country almost as soon as he had immigrated to America. It was openly whispered that Wilkinson planned to detach certain territories in the Mississippi Valley from the American Union and to erect there an Empire for himself. It was no secret either that Jefferson sensed the international importance of the region and was anxious to secure, not only the Mississippi Valley but extensive lands lying much further to the West. At the age of 20, Nolan decided to obtain permission from the Spanish authorities to engage in trade in Mexico in spite of positive prohibitory orders then in force. He wanted, he said, to catch wild horses for he knew they would bring a good profit back in Franklin, Kentucky, and in Natchez where he had lived for a season, since horses were greatly needed in that section. He wanted still more, though he did not say so, to map the country and to share in whatever territorial gains America might enjoy. He soon found a way and, armed with a passport from the Governor of Louisiana—who, by the way, was suspected of pilting profits with him—he made a final trip into Texas in 1801, although, on a former journey, he had been taken for a spy, had been cheated out of the goods he had taken along for trading and, had been forced to take refuge among the Indians. "The freedom and independence of the savage life" could not hold him long, however, and, as soon as he had skill and prowess in the chase from his Comanche friends he finally set forth on the journey that was to bring him death instead of riches.

As soon as the Spaniards learned of his plans through certain deserters from his party they made ready to meet his guile with force, as is shown by documents that are now being translated from the Bexar Archives in the library of The University of Texas. On January, 1801, Simon de Herrera wrote from Rancho de San Jose to the Governor of Texas saying:

"Confidential
In order to protect the towns and ranches north of the colony of Nuevo Santander against the designs of the American Phillip Nolan, I have set out with a detachment of one hundred soldiers—in obedience to the superior orders I have received. I will march as far as the villas of Carmargo and Revilla, and station myself on this the north side of Rio Grande, in the spot I deem most suitable for my purpose. I write this to you for your guidance so that you may communicate to me any information you may have acquired of Nolan's march, since the news you reported to the governor of the colony, dated 7 and 30 of November last.

If you have any news for me, after you have sent back the messengers which will take this to you you may send it through the captain at Bahia, whom I will inform of my whereabouts.

"God keep you many years."
The commandant general, Pedro de Nava, likewise was concerned with Nolan's activities in Texas. On March 3, 1801, he wrote the following letter from Chihuahua,

FULL OF MISCHIEF

Princess Josephine Charlotte, only daughter of the king and queen of the Belgians, snapped as she was on her way to the public school she attends in Brussels. The seven-and-a-half-year-old girl is said by her teacher to be the most mischievous member of her class.

addressed to the governor ad interim of Texas:

"With your official letter number 164, dated February 4th last, I have received the testimony given by the American James Cook, and the Frenchman, Padro Longuerville. I have also received the letters you inclosed which were written in English, and which were found on the former. I will study them, and if their contents reveal anything that demands defensive measures, I will communicate to you whatever may be necessary.

"The aforesaid Cook must be kept under safe arrest for the reason I stated in my order dated February 17. When Antonio Leal and his wife Gertrudis de los Santos arrive, you will inform them of how grave are the suspicions as to their conduct and connection with Nolan arising from the aforesaid declarations, so that until charges resulting therefrom are made, they will not try to claim ignorance and so that they may tell the truth about the designs of the said Nolan. Although I agree to let the Frenchman Longuerville go free because of your good opinion of him, nevertheless, we must be on the lookout and watch his actions.

"You must not allow him to go to Nacogdoches without our permission. Whenever he has to do so, you must notify the commandant of that post, so that he may watch his actions, and not let him leave. He must be prevented from informing Nolan of the steps that are being taken for his arrest."

It was not long until Pedro de Nava had his desired meeting with Nolan, and the Irish-American met his death. The story of the final fight is recorded by Ellis P. Bean, one of the most daring members of the invading force:

"There were but eighteen of us, seven of whom were Spaniards. We arrived at the River Brazos, where we found wild horses by the thousands. . . . It was our misfortune to be attacked by a hundred and fifty Spaniards, sent by the Commandant at Chihuahua. . . . They surrounded our camp about one o'clock in the morning, on the 22nd of March, 1801. They took the five Spaniards and one American that were guarding our horses, leaving but twelve of us, including the negro Caesar. . . .

After about ten minutes, our gallant leader Nolan was slain by a musket-ball which hit him in the head. . . . They began to fire grape shot at us; they had brought a small swivel on a mule. We had a pen that we had built of logs to prevent the Indians from stealing from us. . . . It was agreed that we should retreat. Our number was eleven, two of whom were wounded. . . . We set out through a prairie, and shortly crossed a creek. . . . Caesar stopped and surrendered himself with the ammunition to the enemy. Of the two wounded men, one stopped and gave himself up. . . . There were nine of us that stood the fire of the enemy, for the march of a half of a mile, the balls playing around us like hail. . . . We came to a deep ravine. . . . About three o'clock they hoisted a white flag and (through an American that was with them) told us that their commander wanted us to return to our country and not remain with the Indians. We quickly agreed to go as companions with them but not to give up our guns. It was granted and we went back and burned our gallant Nolan."

Though the leader was dead and though the survivors were cast into a Mexican dungeon, the Anglo-Americans were not deterred from their westward march. The spirit of freedom lived on for Bean was bold enough to write from his prison and to reject the offer to join the royalist party, saying:

"I have had the pleasure of receiving your letter, dated December the 20th, 1812; and, in answer to the same, I have to state that I am very poor, but, for all that, your king has not money to buy me, or to make me a friend to a tyrant; when I have been rocked in the cradle of liberty from infancy."

Miami Herald: Italians in Africa report that their camels were stolen and suspect that the Ethiopians walked more than a mile to get them.

Justice Looks To June To Bring Up Marrying Average

Since Justice of the Peace Bill Johnigan assumed office the first of the year he has acted in the capacity of a "marrying justice" five times.

Taking into account the months he has been in office, the new justice of the peace has kept an average of more than one marriage per month. With June just around the corner he expects to receive inflated business and bring his average up enough to take care of the "slump" months (when the dreary November days come).

Gossipers Peeved

Get a jar of Kruschen today (lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle) and if you don't lose 12 lbs. and feel years younger and healthier—money back. Simply take half teaspoonful in cup of hot water every morning (tastes fine with juice of half lemon added.) Ozona Drug Store sells lots of it. Adv.

ROMANTIC WARS ARE FOUGHT ON PAPER

A noted columnist, seasoned and ripened in the art of word concoctions and today sitting at the top of his "trade" heights, has cluttered his column during the past few weeks with war talk...

The columnist is trying to hand the younger bunch a bouquet but maybe they see the bee in it. He has mentioned war like it comes in fiction not the kind were men are gassed on darkened wastelands and where real blood runs and real schrapnel cuts in the air.

The organ, which has been replaced by a radio, now is stored in the attic or possibly it has been sold to a junk man or even, perhaps traded in on the radio. The fact remains that, while the music that is now heard possibly is of a higher quality, certainly it is no sweeter than those songs we used to sing after the supper dishes were cleared away and the family convened in the "sittin' room" or the parlor for a genuine reunion and song fest.

There was a spirit of serenity and peacefulness about the occasion, and a kindly light from a nearby lamp shed a tender glow on the faces of the family as its members stood around the organ.

Great Mimic Battle Will Be Fought Here

Air view of Pine camp, in northern New York, which this summer will be the scene of the mobilization of about 60,000 American soldiers and of the greatest peace-time mimic warfare ever conducted in the United States.

vealing the grandeur the romance, the heroic episodes of war. You can buy two wars in any ten cent pulp magazine but the blood runs in printer's ink and men are "killed" by words.

When the columnist tries to show us how we have a gilt edge civilization today just because Genghis Khan mapped the Celestial Empire with blood streams, because Rome ravaged Carthage, sacked it and plowed it up for the buzzards, because the "Little Corporal" (whose mind wasn't right) put gaping wounds in all Europe and the French Republic resulted, and because Washington beat Cornwallis, when the columnist brings to mind these debaucheries, he is merely trying to say that two hundred years from now it will be seen that the war which we ought to fight pretty soon, had to be fought.

The present civilization has evolved DESPITE wars, and BECAUSE of education and not because it was held up by the philanderings of epileptics, egomaniacs and demagogue idealists.

The columnist may be big but we doubt if he would march away to war for the "good" of a coming generation.

The columnist is trying to hand the younger bunch a bouquet but maybe they see the bee in it. He has mentioned war like it comes in fiction not the kind were men are gassed on darkened wastelands and where real blood runs and real schrapnel cuts in the air.

We hope that we are understood. We would like nothing better than a big war... just like we would like nothing better than a big dose of castor oil. We will take oil if necessary but not for some one else's stomach ache.

JUST A SONG AT TWILIGHT

Kansas City Star: While pausing to sigh or shed a tear for the passing American institutions, one must list in that category the old organ that stood in the parlor and was the focal point for the family seeking an evening's entertainment.

Each member of the family had his favorite, and the variety ranged from "Nellie Gray" to "Red Wing," with preference being shown the truly American folk tunes, including those appealing melodies of Stephen Foster.

ANOTHER ONE OF ADAM'S DAUGHTERS

Houston Post: Restrain yourselves, if you can, from envy or from any such tedium and expense as would be entailed in following the lifetime folly of Mrs. Christian Sells Jaeger.

Mrs. Jaeger, as you may gather from this piece of intelligence, is mildly interested in her own genealogy. A thorough woman, she was not satisfied to tracing her lineage to a mere dukedom or baronetcy. Only her actual primo-genitor would satisfy Mrs. Jaeger. And so she set out to find him. And who do you think it was? Wonder of wonders! It was Adam.

Of course, this prodding into the clay of bygone ancestors took Mrs. Jaeger back 159 generations before she came across Adam, but it paid her for her patience, and now she speaks with filial affection of Adam and Eve.

On that score, however, we, personally, would not be sure. Might it not have been Adam and Lillith? Anyhow, we'll skip it.

Among her forebears, as she traced them by the aid of records in libraries all over the country, were Roger Williams; Edward III of England and Henry 1; 21 generations of Scottish kings who probably, to this day, know nothing of it; Irish kings who ruled as far back as 19 centuries; the Pharaoh Nectonidus; Zedekiah, last of the Kings of Judah; David, King of Israel; Enos, Seth and finally Adam.

All of which must please you immensely, for it is always good to find in this strange world, another kinsman.

UNCLE BUD RUSSELL'S OPINION

Lockhart Post Register: Bud Russell is quoted as giving the following reasons why boys become criminals, and he might also have said girls in this day and time:

Boys who are brought up to hate authority, to see and hear tales where the outlaw is made the hero, who are encouraged at home to ridicule and shun the sacred things, these are the boys who furnish our army of criminals.

But who is Bud Russell and with what authority does he speak?

Bud Russell is the man who for years has run an automobile with a cage body and transported convicts to the State Penitentiary.

He has hauled the youth sent for the first time and the hardened criminal who has been his passenger on previous trips.

Uncle Bud sometimes takes a long ride with a young "first timer" from an outlying county seat and Uncle Bud never overlooks such opportunity to give some good advice. He also hears the youth's side of how he got into trouble, analyzes the same and draws his own conclusions.

Uncle Bud knows some things that the general public has had no opportunity to learn.

Mickey Couch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Couch, was expected to be able to be brought to her home here this week after undergoing an operation in a San Angelo hospital recently.

Drouth Killing "Weather Proof" Spanish Daggers

The Spanish dagger, the hardy plant of West Texas, is at last yielding to the terrific drouth in some parts of this country after having stood the attacks of Nature for 500 years or more.

It is the popular belief that the Spanish dagger is practically proof against any kind of weather—that it will survive any natural catastrophe.

Many, however, are dying out, about 25 miles north of Van Horn, cattlemen report, leaving the arid alkali flats black and bare. They figure that the present drouth is the worst in 500 years—some of the plants being established as fully that old.—Pecos Enterprise.

Pioneers Had Trouble, Too

DUST STORMS ONLY ONE OF PRAIRIE PLAGUES, OLD-TIMERS SAY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 23.—Dust-plagued residents of the southwest may well consider the plight of the pioneers of the plains.

No storms such as the section has seen recently, perhaps, but they faced blizzards "where hundreds lost their lives by suffocation." Indian raids, grasshopper invasion "where the insects were piled two to four inches deep everywhere," disastrous prairie fires and the menace of mad wolves.

R. M. Wright, Dodge City, Kans. has described the terror of those early day storms.

"I have witnessed a change in temperature from 74 degrees above zero to 20 degrees below in 24 hours, and during this time the wind was blowing a gale, apparently from the four points of the compass. The air was so full of the fine, blistering snow and sand that one could not see 10 feet in advance. . . . Historical blizzards of 1863, 1866, 1873 and 1888 were general. Hundreds have lost their lives by suffocating in blizzards when the temperature was not zero."

After coming through the great drouth of 1860 and two severe blizzards, the settlers found the Indians a menace until the peace treaty of Medicine Lodge in 1867. Before then, scores of settlers were killed by roving bands of redskins.

But another plague soon appeared.

In the summer of 1874 great clouds of grasshoppers came flying out of the northwest mountain region. Historians record that the clouds of insects were "two to three miles in width and scores of miles long." Many drifted to earth. Many passed on. All growing crops disappeared. Lack of vegetables brought much illness to human beings and food and financial aid was sent from many states.

Prairie fires, started by Indians or some wandering hunter, and whipped by winds, spread great black scars over the countryside.

Not a plague, but a problem, nevertheless, for the pioneers were the herds of buffaloes.

In 1858 a Fort Leavenworth, Kans. newspaper man commented on the proposal to establish a telegraph line from there to Salt Lake City.

"The thing is impracticable for four valid reasons: First the poles will be blown down by the heavy storms sweeping over the prairies; second, the prairie fires will burn them down; third, the Indians will cut them down; fourth, the buffaloes will rub them down."

One on the Colonel

The bossy colonel while inspecting the army kitchen stopped two soldiers who were carrying a soup kettle.

"Here you!" he growled, "give me a taste of that."

The colonel was used to being obeyed and so he received the desired taste without question or explanation. Then he spat and sputtered:

"Good heavens, man! You don't call that stuff soup, do you?"

"No, sir," replied the soldier meekly "it's dishwasher water was emptying sir."

Fort Stockton Cuts Water Rates, Benefit Yard Beautification

A reduced schedule in water rates will be adopted Tuesday night of next week at the meeting of the Fort Stockton city council and will be effective in figuring consumption recorded since the first of this month.

The rate is being reduced substantially in order to permit the extensive use of water required in watering lawns and gardens during the extended drouth.

Leonard Bacon and Dr. E. A. Robertson, members of the water committee for the council, are working out a complete schedule of reduced rates for submission and approval by the council at the meeting.

In the last few years the city has adopted a rate based on previous consumption of each individual customer. The new rate is expected to eliminate this method of calculation and base all charges on a uniform rate which becomes gradually lower as consumption increases.—Ft. Stockton Pioneer.

The Rural Community Has Come to Town

The rural community and small city faces a new future. Electric service and all that electric power and light mean to home life, commercial and industrial development is now available for a more constructive and wider field of achievement.

Much work, planning, testing, engineering and large investments of capital was necessary in order to make this possible. Our 2600 miles of power transmission lines, interlacing 49 counties in West Texas and serving 160 towns and communities provide an adequate and economical source of dependable electric service with precise regulation to meet the requirements of modern day appliances.

Today hundreds of small West Texas towns and communities can offer to industry this modern electric service in proximity to its raw materials . . . two very necessary prerequisites for industrial progress.

We point with pride to our part in assisting the small towns and communities in this way, thus guaranteeing to them the same opportunities in respect to power as the larger metropolitan cities enjoy. It is our policy to fully co-operate with the small towns and communities we serve so that they may realize the full benefits accompanying and made possible by electrical development.

Dust Warning Of Stockmen 50 Years Ago Is Recalled

LAMAR, Colo., April 23—Fifty years ago resentful cattlemen told the Southeastern Colorado homesteaders: "This buffalo grass should never be plowed. The land will just dry up and the wind will blow it away, and you with it." Farmers' thought of that prediction today. The wind had blown part of the land away, but the homesteaders, many of them now substantial citizens, stood with their feet firmly planted on their wind-battered property and prepared for rehabilitation. Modern agricultural experts side with the oldtimers and agree much of the land never should have been plowed.

A. J. Hammond, county agent for Prowers County, today described a complete "rest cure" for two or three years as the only hope for the dry farm lands of this region whose top soils have been buried as high as three miles in the air by terrific winds for three weeks.

The farmers were making plans to move 50,000 head of cattle to pasture lands in the Colorado mountains and the more verdant plains of Kansas for the summer. Hammond said, would speed recovery in the dust plagued region.

"The old cattlemen were right," Hammond said. "A considerable part of this dry land should be permitted to go back to buffalo grass. We've plowed some land that never should have been disturbed. It will recover more quickly if the cattle leave for a while. We have overgrazed the land, so the grass that once held the soil against the wind is gone. Our experiments show that much of the grass is dead from drought and dust. Only a cessation of grazing can restore the remainder."

He said reports of an exodus of farmers from Southeastern Colorado because of the dust storm were exaggerated, however. After a lull in the weeks-long storm last night and early today, the wind started again. It brought the now familiar yellow cast to the unusually brilliant blue sky.

Substantial Gains In New Charters

AUSTIN, Tex., April 24—New charters granted to Texas corporations during March made substantial gains in both number and capitalization, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. A total of 162 new charters was granted, an increase of 10 per cent over March, 1933. Total capitalization showed gains of 13 per cent and 50 per cent respectively over the two comparable periods. Groups making the greatest gains were banking-finance, real estate-building, and merchandising.

Do's And Don'ts For Snake-Bite Victims Given By Physician

AUSTIN, Texas, April 24—A warning about the dangers of snake bite has just been issued by Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. A number of cases of snake bite are reported each year in Texas during the summer and early fall; however, few of these result fatally.

Most of the bites occur on the hands or feet, which indicates that stepping or falling in the immediate vicinity of an unseen snake or picking up objects under similar conditions are the hazards of contracting snake bite. The pain following the injection of the poison is most intense. Other symptoms are swelling, giddiness, difficult breathing, hemorrhage, weak pulse, and vomiting.

If one is unfortunate enough to be bitten by a poisonous snake, such as the rattlesnake, the following first aid measures should be carried out.

After making proper incisions at the site of the wound, apply suction and continue for at least half an hour.

Apply a tourniquet above the site of the wound, releasing same every ten or fifteen minutes for about a minute at a time.

If the proper antivenom serum is available, apply it according to directions, but most important of all is to remove as much of the poison as is possible so as to prevent its absorption.

Secure the services of a physician at the earliest possible moment.

If one is bitten by a poisonous snake DO NOT run or get overheated and DO NOT take any alcoholic stimulants because circulation increased by alcohol or exercise serves to distribute the poison much more rapidly thru the body.

DON'T injure the tissues by injecting permanganate of potash, which is known to be of no value as an antidote.

DON'T depend upon home remedies or so-called bite cures, for they are of no value.

Our old friend Charlie Martin of the Archer County News tells of the farmer who went to the relief office asking for some shorts for his hogs. The young lady in charge of the office refused to furnish them. "If we gave you shorts for your hogs," she commented, "it wouldn't be thirty minutes until you'd be back here wanting a brassiere for your cow and stepins for the chickens."

Sharp Gains Made In New Car Sales

AUSTIN, Tex., April 24—For the third consecutive month, sales of new passenger cars in Texas during March made sharp gains, according to the University of Sales during the first quarter aggregated 16,157 cars, an increase of 62 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

cational movement of San Antonio. Later he moved to the Banderita Hills area where he became interested in farming and there he reared his family. He became an outstanding character in that part of the frontier.

Sometime after the marriage of the two, they moved to Medina where Mr. Perner was advanced to membership in the firm. In 1893 the couple moved to Ozona and there the young mercantile owner established a new business and was interested in a firm at Sanderson.

It was not long after the arrival of the couple that they became interested in the "first estate" of the territory, sheep and goat grazing. When Mr. Perner passed away in 1905, he left a considerable estate which incorporated business houses, town property and ranch holdings.

Early this month the early Ozonan was stricken by a slight paralytic stroke but she is gaining her strength again, although yet confined to her home.

Mother Perner is known as a friend to all who know her and is one of the earliest members of the Methodist Church here.

Stationery and Office Forms

● That Are Guaranteed to Please You ●

When you turn in your order to us for stationery or printed forms of any kind, you have the final say. You don't make a down payment with the order and receive the goods COD for the balance. You must be satisfied. You have the privilege of inspecting the job and if it is not satisfactory we make it so.

Do you have the same privilege when you place your order with some city print shop you never heard of before? You do not. You pay the salesman his percentage on the sale—you may or may not receive the goods—and when you do get the order, if you do, you pay for it before you see it—and you keep it whether you like it or not—whether your name's spelled right or wrong—whether the job is on the same quality of paper as the sample you ordered from or not.

And the dollar thus spent never finds its way back into YOUR till. And furthermore, don't let 'em kid you about saving money. You pay for what you get, whether you are buying groceries, automobiles, drugs, clothes or printing.

We do not seek your business on "home town" arguments alone—we offer—and GUARANTEE you satisfaction and as fine workmanship and material as you will find in any city. Let us figure your next printing order.

The Modern World Demands Modern Business Service

The opinions of some business men to the contrary, notwithstanding, the housewife of today demands today's business methods from the firms that serve her. She is not content with a lot of business theories that tell her that she can save money by this and that method in business operation. What she wants is good merchandise at a fair price and with it the SERVICE that a modern store is expected to render.

The housewife's time and effort is worth something. She is about the busiest person you could pick out in any community were you seeking the busiest person. The convenience of delivery service, a charge account and a complete line of highest quality merchandise, bought on advantageous markets, but bought with quality the first consideration—these are the services that the housewife demands.

And these are the services that we offer. If your credit is good, we welcome your Thirty Day account.
